VOLUME XXV, NO. 4

COMPLICATED CASE PURCHASE TOBACCO GRAND JURY WORKS L.N. STOCKHOLDERS

MRS. HILLE RECOVERS DAMAGES
AMOUNTING TO $160

Verdict is so Worded That Contractors Are Protected in Payment Of Judgment.

One of the most complicated suits, not to involve a large amount, was settled yesterday when Mrs. Fannie Hille received a verdict for $160 on her petition which was filed some time ago against the Hopkinsville Sewerage company and Gardner & Robertson, the latter being the contractors who put in the sewer system.

Mrs. Hille prayed for $500 damages which she alleged was sustained by the cutting of a private sewer line which led from her apartments on South Main street.

Gardner & Robertson denied that her sewer line had been interfered with as she charged but contended that in the event she was entitled to damages that they were not liable as they had constructed the system in such place and according to the directions of the sewerage company, and they prayed that the petition as applying to them should be dismissed.

To this the sewerage company replied by stating that the contract which they had with Gardner & Robertson called for the work to be done by the contractors, including the purchasing of all supplies and the employment of all labor, and that they were not liable for their acts until the system had been formally accepted upon completion.

Much discussion was had when the evidence was completed and the instructions of the court were to be given to the jury. The attorneys for the sewerage company and for Gardner & Robertson submitted instructions both of which were refused by the court to which exceptions were taken. The verdict of the jury was though that Mrs. Hille should recover $160 on her petition. The verdict however went further and awarded the same amount to Robertson & Gardner which should be declared satisfied when the sewerage company should pay the amount secured by Mrs. Hille. The attorney for Mrs. Hille was C. H. Bush, Duffy & Rives represented the sewerage company and Downer & Russell appeared for Robertson & Gardner.

FORBES' SALE

Lots Between Fourth and Fifth to go at Auction.

On next Tuesday the Forbes Manufacturing company will offer for sale at public auction the property on North Virginia street between Fourth and Fifth, known as the Dugg Planing Mill property. This has been divided into lots which will be sold separately.

These lots are in the business district and afford a rare opportunity for a good investment or for the securing of a lot for individual purposes. With the rapid growth of Hopkinsville down town lots are becoming very scarce these being about the only ones which are now left for sale.

Football Practice.

The Hopkinsville high school football team, which is doing fine work under Coach Peach, had its first game yesterday afternoon, lining up against S. K. C. players. The latter was not the regular college team. Good work was done on both sides, and the promise of a great season is very bright.

The high school boys will play their first match game one week from Friday, when a team from the Cumberland City academy comes to Hopkinsville.

The H. B. S. lineup follows: Lawson, 1; Feland, 1; G. Huggins, 1; Earl, 1; Trichener, 1; Bredner and Shaugher, 1; Jas. H. Huggins, 1; Jan. Huggins, 1; Faxon, 1; H. Huggins, 1; H. Huggins, 1. The score was 5 to 0 in favor of the college boys.

FROM ASSOCIATION BUT NO BIG DEAL CONSUMMATED

Report Sent Out From Tennessee Points is Discredited—Italian Regie Buyers Here.

The widely published report sent out from Tennessee points to the effect that General Manager Ewing of the Planters' Protective association had sold to E. R. Tandy, representing the Italian regie, every hoghead of tobacco belonging to the organization that is suitable to the Italian trade, on a basis of $10.85, is discredited here by tobacco men generally.

The only foundation, so far as can be ascertained, for the rumor came from the sale of about 200 hogheads of association tobacco at Springfield, Tenn., the purchase being for Italy with prices ranging from $7 to $12.

Representatives of the Italian regie are here today examining samples at the association building with a view to buying, but no deal, it is stated, has been consummated.

THE ANNUAL MEETING IS HELD IN LOUISVILLE.

Earnings Show a Large Surplus.—All of the Old Directors Were Re-elected.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., was held in the office of company at Louisville Wednesday. W. R. Belknap presided. The old board of directors was selected and the report of President Milton H. Smith was read. The report of earnings showed a surplus for the year of $2,748,374. The general surplus of the company to June 30, 1906, amounted $18,130,045. Net earnings for the year were $12,075,522, to which is added $1,506,776 income from other sources.

The company has now under construction, or has completed during the year, additions and improvements authorized by the board of directors aggregating $19,959,474, distributed as follows: For grade reductions and double track, $7,592,738; for new railroads, extensions and branches, $6,624,773; for new equipment, undelivered June 30, 1906, $2,472,732; for new terminal facilities, $3,269,229.

To reimburse the treasury for construction expenditures already made and to provide funds for their completion, the company sold during the fiscal year $10,000,000 of its Atlanta, Knoxville & Cincinnati division 4 per cent. gold bonds, which yielded net to the company $9,750,000, and $1,500,000 of its unified 4 per cent. gold bonds which yielded net to the company $1,585,100.

The operating expenses for the year were $30,933,463, and on the subject the report says:

"The increased cost of labor and materials, the rebuilding of the union passenger station at Louisville, destroyed by fire, the heavy repairs made on equipment in use during the St. Louis world's fair, the yellow fever for five months on the southern divisions and the unusual number of destructive accidents, account for most of the increases in operating expenses, except 'locomotive repairs,' which increased 50.6 per cent. This increase is due to heavy repairs required upon the increased number of engines."

PYTHIAN HOME

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—After a hard and at times bitter fight, the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias of Kentucky yesterday decided to rescind the resolution adopted last year, by which the Widows' and Orphans' Home at Lexington was ordered to be sold, and today a new board of control was elected to take charge of the home, which has never been opened and by next spring it is hoped to have the institution ready for the reception of inmates.

TOBACCO BLOSSOM

ADOPTION AS THE NATIONAL FLOWER IS URGED

Idea is Deep Rooted in Some Sections
And Its Advocates Are Rapidly Increasing.

At one time it was believed that the goldenrod or the Black-eyed Susan would become the adopted national flower, but ideas have somewhat changed. The fields and roadsides are now largely ornamented by great clusters of these two beautiful wild flowers and every vehicle going to the country returns with great bunches of them to be used by the ladies in ornamenting their homes. They are both very beautiful flowers and either one would make an appropriate national flower, says the Henderson Journal.

There has been, however, considerable agitation of late in a large number of the daily papers of the United States and several of the tobacco journals regarding the adoption of the blossom of the tobacco plant as the emblematic national flower of our great republic.

While it is interesting to note the different reasons set forth by different writers as to why the tobacco flower should be adopted for this high purpose, the majority of those who advocate the idea seem to be united on the fact that the tobacco plant is something that is peculiar to the North American continent, and that it is grown in practically every section of the country, north, south, east and west. The north has its plantations here and there, and extending south to Florida, Louisiana and Texas, tobacco enjoys a widespread cultivation. The west also has an interest in the industry and produces its share.

It is a fact not generally known that the tobacco plant possesses a very attractive pink blossom. Even in tobacco growing districts the people are not as familiar with the flower as they might be, for the reason that it is seldom allowed to come to maturity.

It is a strange thing that this nation of ours, leading as it does in almost every enterprise known to man, should be backward about the adoption of a national emblem of some kind. England has its rose, France its lily, Scotland its thistle, Ireland its shamrock and Japan its chrysanthemum. Why should not the United States have its tobacco flower? This is a question that is interesting many today.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.P., of Oxford University, England, says: "It is difficult to conceive of a more exhaustive and complete dictionary than this. It is not only what we have long expected to find in such a work, but also what we have never before had. It is a supplement to the new edition, as brought to fully up-to-date. I have been looking through the latter, and have been struck by the completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it."

DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE

FOURTEEN MEMBERS FORM AN EQUAL RIGHTS ASSOCIATION

The Platform Provides For a Change
In the Selection of Precinct Committeemen.

The Democratic Equal Rights League of Kentucky was formed at a meeting at the Galt House in Louisville Wednesday night. The league is organized with fourteen charter members and a platform setting forth the object of the league was adopted. The organization was temporary, and Judge Frank Peak, of Shelby, was elected chairman. A permanent organization will be effected at another meeting, to be held at the Galt House October 5, at which time each county in the state will be invited to send representatives. Thomas R. Asa, of Jefferson county, was elected temporary secretary, and Geo. H. Alexander temporary treasurer. The officers, with the following, constitute the executive committee: Harry A. Sommers, of Hardin; George V. Green, of Christian; James P. Tarrvin, of Kenton; Dossia Thornton, John J. Davis, Allen R. Carter and Clem W. Higgins, of Jefferson.

Other charter members are A. C. Lewis, T. B. Hamilton, Frank Coyle, J. E. Wright and J. P. F. Crockett, of Jefferson county.

The platform adopted by the league provides that Democratic committeemen shall be elected instead of appointed in first and second-class cities, as is the custom in other places; declares for "equal rights" within the party; demands that the name of all committeemen be made public; that the state committees have no control over the subordinate committees or their affairs; that all local primaries be conducted by representatives of candidates before the primaries; that all candidates for office in Louisville be named by Democratic voters and not by committeemen; that no officer of any public service organization be admitted to the party organization, and that no candidate or office holder be allowed on any party committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Meador May Locate After Spending Winter In Florida.

(From Friday's Daily)

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meador leave today for Jacksonville, Fla., where they will spend the winter. Next spring they expect to go to California with a view to locating. Mr. Meador has been a resident of Hopkinsville twenty-three years. His energy and ability have won him success and the esteem and confidence of the community. In 1888 he became a partner of C. A. Thompson in the hardware business, an association which continued eleven years. He sold his interest and embarked in business at another location, but later bought out the firm of Thompson & Bassett and resumed the business at the old stand until one year ago when he sold out to W. A. P. Pool & Son. The best wishes of many friends will follow Mr. and Mrs. Meador, and there is general regret over their departure from the city.

A HIGHER COURT

QUESTION OF BERRY'S GUILT IS TAKEN

Prisoner Is Summoned by Death to Stand Before the Bar of Final Judgment.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
W. W. Berry, who was charged with striking his wife in the stomach a few days after she had given birth to a child and thereby causing her death, died this morning at 4 o'clock in his cell in the county jail. His death was painless and was caused by bronchitis complicated with a heart affection, from which he had been critically ill for several days. He was sixty years of age.

The case against Berry attracted considerable attention at the time and public opinion was generally against the prisoner. The testimony against him was almost entirely circumstantial except for the testimony of Eunice Bourland, his six-year-old step-daughter, and it was a question to be decided by the court whether or not her story could be taken as evidence. At the examining trial the little girl gave a surprisingly straight and well connected story, she being the only one besides the principals who witnessed the striking of blows.

Nine Negroes Arrested For Engaging in Favorite Sport.

A gang of nine negroes were arrested Sunday morning by Lieut. Those corralled were Bud Eagle, Jim Dade, Lee Dade, Charlie Page, Geo. Boyd, Wash. Donaldson, Willie Ware, John Cole and John Dinguid.

All of them were fined $22.50 each but for reasons satisfactory to the court, the fine against Bud Eagle was dismissed. The others either went to the workhouse or made arrangements for the payment of their fines.

Lee Dade received an extra dose, for a pistol was found on him and he was fined $22.50 for carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

How to Cure a Cold.

The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. The Best Guaranty of Merit Is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, overworked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine of proper strength is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol; and furthermore, that it possesses valuable medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and a most efficient antiferment.

Neither of the above medicines contains alcohol, or any harmful, habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.

Not only do physicians prescribe the above, non-secret medicines largely, but the most intelligent people employ them—people who would not think of using the ordinary patent, or secret medicines. Every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines has the strongest kind of an endorsement from leading medical writers of the several schools of practice. No other medicines put up for like purposes has any such professional endorsement.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two mild cathartics. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." Easy to take as candy.

M. & F. COLLEGE

Receives Donation of $100 From John C. Latham.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
With characteristic generosity, John C. Latham, of New York, who is visiting in the city, yesterday gave President P. T. Frazer, of M. & F. college, colored, a check for $100 to be applied to the fund which is being raised to build a dining hall for the institution. Not long ago Mr. Latham gave the college $50 for general purposes. President Frazer and the trustees and patrons of the institution feel deeply indebted to Mr. Latham for his liberal donation. The money has been placed in the Bank of Hopkinsville where other contributions to the fund will be accepted. President Frazer reports that the college is in good condition generally and is accomplishing much good in the education of the colored people. Since he has been at the head of the school he has individually raised $2,000 for improvements.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Negroes of Lafayette Say it Means That the World is Coming To an End.

LAFAYETTE, Ky., Sept. 29.—Samuel Bumpus, who resides near this place, about one mile from the state line, lost his barn and contents one night this week by fire. Mr. Bumpus had just harvested his hay crop consisting of about fifty tons. This, together with a new binder, was destroyed. It is supposed to have been set on fire by some of the anti-association people, as Mr. Bumpus was member of the farmers' association and refused to thresh wheat this summer for any one who did not belong to the association.

While Mr. Bumpus's barn was burning a bird flew through the fire and it lit in his hand and was not burned in the least. The bird is dove-colored, with a white breast and white wings, measures three feet six inches from tip to tip, and has a bill like a hawk. The negroes are badly scared and say that the Lord sent the bird as a signal that the world is coming to an end. Your correspondent saw the bird and after close inspection could not find a scorching place on it, but as to its flying through the fire he only has other's word for that.

When a horse is so overworked it lies down and in other ways declares its inability to go further you would consider it criminal to use force. Many a man of humane impulses, who would willingly harm a kitten, is guilty of cruelty where his own stomach is concerned. Overdriven, overworked, when what is needed is something that will digest the food eaten and help the stomach to recuperate. Something like Kodol for Dyspepsia that is sold by Anderson & Fowler Drug Co., Inc., and L. L. Elgin.

The Paducah Sun (Rep.) says: Judge James Breathitt, of Hopkinsville, continues to occupy the minds of western Kentucky Republicans as the most available candidate for Governor.

It has been announced from his home town that he will not run, but his friends in this section hope that he will consent to the use of his name. He is an orator and a man of statesmanlike qualities. No other man just now high in party councils possesses the qualifications for the office that he does.

Judge Breathitt would infuse new life into the state organization by a thorough speaking tour, and he would be an honor to his party in the executive chair. The only way the Republican party of Kentucky can hope to gain the ascendancy is by putting forth the best men for offices.

PLANTERS' MEETING

Christian County Executive Committee in Session.

(From Monday's Daily.)

A well attended meeting of the Christian county executive committee of the Planters' Protective association was held this morning in the city courtroom. Reports were received from nearly all of the county districts, these all showing the local branch of the association to be in good condition.

It had been thought that the books of the association would be closed today, but when this question came up for discussion it was decided to leave them open for the present.

A Certain Cure for Croup—Used for Ten Years Without a Failure.

Mr. W. C. Bott, a Star City, Ind., hardware merchant, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. His children have all been subject to croup and he has used this remedy for the past ten years, and though they much feared the croup, his wife and he always felt safe upon retiring when a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was in the house. His oldest child was subject to severe attacks of croup, but this remedy never failed to effect a speedy cure. He has recommended it to friends and neighbors and all who have used it say that it is unequalled for croup and whooping cough. United States Senator James B. McCreary will speak in Hopkinsville Friday, October 12. Bills are being circulated by his friends with the appeal for voters to take no stand in the race until they hear him on the issues of the campaign for the Democratic nomination for senator.

E. A. Gullion, of Henry county, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, is in the city. Mr. Gullion has visited every district in the state and is thoroughly satisfied with his prospects. People who are well posted as to the political situation believe that he is a sure winner. Mr. Gullion's work in the interest of the schools of Kentucky have endeared him to all friends of education. He was formerly superintendent of Carroll county schools and president of the Kentucky Educational association. He has just completed a term as president of the Kentucky Press association. No man in the state is better qualified for the office of superintendent of public instruction.

W. B. Haldeman, editor of the Louisville Times, was chosen a member of the Democratic state central committee from the state-at-large to succeed Judge John M. Lassing, resigned.

It is announced by the Courier-Journal that M. O. Winfree, candidate for the Democratic nomination for superintendent of public instruction, has made an arrangement with James E. Stone, a well-known politician, by which Mr. Stone will work for Mr. Winfree in his race and be his chief clerk in the event the candidate is nominated and elected. Mr. Stone has been conspicuous in politics for twenty-five years.

A Central City dispatch says: "The Louisville Methodist Conference just before the adjournment at noon was thrown into a violent discussion over the bringing of politics into the report of the temperance committee. The committee recommended the actions of Gov. Beckham in the movement he had taken in the liquor traffic and before the report was finished several ministers objected.

"The Rev. B. F. Orr, of Henderson, presiding elder of that district, strenuously objected to the reference made to the governor. Bishop Hendrix ordered that this section of the report be reread and several ministers wanted the portion complained of to be stricken out. Several ministers said that no more had been said than was perfectly right, and a vote was taken that carried by a large majority that the disputed paragraph be left standing. The reference to Gov. Beckham is as follows:

"We desire without political purposes, except to approve his righteousness, to commend the course of J. C. W. Beckham before the last session of our legislature in the hearty support of the temperance measures that were before that body. We also desire to express our appreciation of the sincere and earnest efforts he is making now to enforce the laws enacted for the regulation and support of the liquor traffic and Sunday closing law in the city of Louisville.

Dr. Orr said following the adjournment that he had never before heard of politics being brought into Methodism.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

PASTOR-ELECT PREACHED TWICE ON SUNDAY.

Rev. Mr. Jenkins is Considering Several Calls.—Earnestly Hoped he Will Come Here.

(From Monday's Daily)
The Rev. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor-elect of the Baptist church, occupied the pulpit twice Sunday. Despite a hard rain at the hour of the morning service and exceedingly threatening weather at night, he was heard by congregations that tested the seating capacity of the large auditorium and overflowed into the Sunday school room, a remarkable expression, under the circumstances, of the deep interest felt by the membership in the choice of a leader for work in the vineyard of the Master.

Nothing but expressions of enthusiastic approval in reference to Mr. Jenkins' personality and preaching have been heard and there is universal belief among the members that under his leadership the usefulness and growth of the church would be unlimited, and that a great work for the cause of Christ would be accomplished, not only in this community but throughout the region. Every circumstance in connection with the choice of a new pastor has seemed to point the church to Mr. Jenkins, and the fact that out of a large list of preachers whose claims and qualifications had been presented to members of the congregation, Mr. Jenkins' name was the only one voted on and a unanimous call was extended to him, indicates the harmony and unanimity of feeling existing among the brethren.

Mr. Jenkins is considering four calls, two of them being from Roanoke, Va., and Baltimore O., and he has not decided which he will accept. He expects to remain in Hopkinsville until after the prayer meeting service Wednesday evening, and to return then to his home in Dublin, Ga. He hopes to be able to announce his decision in a few days, and, as he stated Sunday night, is waiting only for the leading of the Spirit in the matter.

The preacher's text Sunday was from John 20:21. "Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you; as my father hath sent me, even so send I you." It was a powerful discourse on the mission of Christianity, setting forth its origin, sympathy and love, service and sacrifice. In the evening "The Jubilee Year" was the subject of his sermon. Mr. Jenkins' absorbing earnestness in the salvation of souls strikes the hearer as his chief characteristic. The gospel he preaches is one of abounding love and sympathy, founded on the blood of Christ. His power of pulpit utterance is large, his magnetism compelling. His sermons were replete with striking illustrations that made plain every point that he desired to emphasize. The large congregations heard his messages with unwavering attention and interest.

KENTUCKY SYNOD

OF CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO MEET HERE.

A Large Attendance of Delegates is Expected.—Will be Convened On October 30.

(COMMUNICATED)

The approaching meeting of the Kentucky Synod of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, to be convened here October 30, promises to be the largest and most enthusiastic session of this body for years. Much of this interest, no doubt, is owing to the prominence given the church in the matter of the late proposed union between the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. But a greater interest is felt in this meeting because a deeper love for the church, her institutions, and her doctrines, has been fostered by the trial through which she has lately been called to pass. From the seven presbyteries comprising the synod we may reasonably expect from a hundred to a hundred and fifty delegates. The committee of our citizens appointed to look after their homes and entertainment of our guests, is sufficient guaranty that all who come will be well cared for. The real reasons for Kentucky's fame for hospitality is that we really love to take care of our friends, and they take of our fame. The names of the committee on homes and entertainment, as read from the pulpit on Sunday follows: James D. Hill, James L. Edwards, J. W. Carroll, Hancock Higgins, Roy Carey, George Bradley, Maxey Blythe, R. A. Rogers, Arthur Reeder, J. D. Claggett, James West, T. J. Baugh, C. W. Foster, Reed Shaw, E. W. Clark and Walter Barnett.

The annual reunion of the Kentucky Division of the United Confederate Veterans, held at Pewee Valley Confederate home, was a most pronounced success every way. Over hundred people were in attendance, and the speeches, particularly that of Senator James B. McCreary were greeted with loud cheers.

Col. Bennett H. Young made a speech, in which he gave an account of the work done in the past year, and told of the plans for next year.

At the meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, held at the same time as the meeting of the veterans, Capt. Andrew M. Sea, Jr., was unanimously re-elected to the position of commander.

A large attendance was had, and it was decided that after the annual reunion of the Sons would be held at the same time as that of the veterans.

A Soldier's Vindication

(Original.)

Bob Hazard was a good natured, devil may care sort of fellow, whom everybody loved. His hair was flax, his eyes were robin's egg blue, and he wore a perpetual smile on his lips. He looked so good that better wouldn't melt in his mouth.

When the Spanish-American war broke out, Bob, who was a member of the national guard of his state, went with his regiment to Cuba and fought through the battles that resulted in the capture of Santiago. He seemed invulnerable to fear, and his companions said of him that he was too lazy to worry about getting shot.

Bob didn't get shot, but with that luck which comes to reckless people who rather deserve punishment he received a wound just severe enough to enable him to show the scars of a war veteran. A Mauser bullet went through the biceps of his right arm, giving what might pass for two wounds, one where it went in and one where it went out.

Hazard, not being able to handle a musket during this time, had abundant leisure for mischief. Removing two bullets from cartridges, he sent one to his best girl, with a letter in which he said that to her and her alone he gave the Spanish bullet with which he had been shot. The other he sent to his other best girl, with a similar message. He enjoined each to keep the secret of his preference, since he didn't wish to appear to attach any importance to his wound.

Now, the recipients, Miss Edith Spencer and Miss Della Marsh, were extremely feminine young ladies. While neither were in love with the young soldier, both were proud of the preference. Each knew that the other counted on Private Hazard as one of her special friends at the front in those exciting days when not to have an especial friend at the war made a girl feel and appear like a "wallflower" at a ball. The next time Miss Spencer met Miss Marsh after the receipt of her bullet she asked, with a triumphant sparkle in the eye and toss of the head:

"Hazard from Bob Hazard lately?"

"The response was doubtless influenced by the questioner's manner. 'Yes; the poor fellow has been severely wounded.'"

"I know," replied the other, with an air of superiority. "He wrote me all about it."

"So he did me, and sent me a keepsake."

"He sent me the bullet that struck him."

Miss Marsh gasped for breath. "I have that bullet," she said, "in my escutcheon."

"And I have it in my jewel box."

This was the preliminary part of a conversation that led to the exhibition of two bullets, each with a polished surface, which is never found on one that has been fired from a gun, to say nothing of being sent through a man's arm. Had the girls been disinterested they would have smiled. As it was, they vowed that when Private Robert Hazard returned he should explain this strange proceeding and pronounce upon the genuineness of the ball that had wounded him.

When the war ended, it virtually began for Bob Hazard. An enemy awaited him which would have stricken terror into any man of less bravery. His regiment marched through the city from which it had departed with flying colors and martial music. The first communication he received after being mustered out was a note from Miss Spencer asking him to come and see how she had mounted the keepsake he had sent her. He called that evening and found Miss Spencer and Miss Marsh together. On the table was an open jewel box that had held a pair of solitary earrings, and in place of the earrings were two bullets. The expression on the faces of the girls was ominous.

"Will you please," said Miss Spencer, "tell us which of these two bullets wounded you?"

Bob looked at the leaden missiles. Their polished surfaces should have brought the blush of shame to his face, but they did not. Indeed he took no note of anything, he was thinking how to wiggle out of the scrape he had brought upon himself. Finally, with an injured air he asked permission to take off his coat, which was granted. Removing the coat and a pair of gold sleeve links, he rolled up his shirt sleeve.

"This wound," he said, pointing to the scar where the missile that had really struck him on the inner surface of the arm, "was made by the bullet on the right. This," pointing to the scar where the original missile had left his arm, "was made by the bullet on the left."

The girls looked at each other.

"You two young ladies," he continued, "as especial friends of mine, I thought might like to have a bullet that had struck a simple soldier at the Spanish war. Having a bullet for each wound, I was enabled to send one to each of you."

Again the girls looked at each other. "I told you," began Miss Spencer, "and I told you," interrupted Miss Marsh, "that there was some."

"That you were very unjust."

"Do you mean?" flashed Miss Marsh, "Gee!" said the soldier, "I am really at fault. I should not have made so much of so trifling a matter."

The victor was with the victor. Neither girl had loved him till his fraudulent vindication, his display of modesty. Then both loved him—while he loved them both.

HAD A QUIET MONTH

BUT PRICES ON TOBACCO MARKET RULED FIRM.

Brisk Business Reported By Farmer's Association—Loose Weed Promises to be a Feature.

The report of the inspectors of the Hopkinsville tobacco market for the month of September shows a very quiet month locally. This condition was due to the small stock on sale. Prices throughout the month ruled very firm, and with an upward tendency at all times. The report is as follows:

Receipts for past month.....	50	175
Receipts for the year.....	5285	9610
Sales for past month.....	64	388
Sales for the year.....	5531	6990
Shipments for past month.....	776	1782
Shipments for the year.....	12096	11885
Stock on sale.....	366	3072
Stock sold.....	115	542
Total stock on hand.....	481	3614

Prices ranged as follows:

Lugs, common to medium, $4.50 @ $5.50; medium to good, $5.50 @ $6.25; fine, $6.25 @ $6.75.

Leaf, common to medium, $7 @ $8.50; medium to $8.50 @ $10; fine, $11 @ $14.50.

The farmers' association made no detailed report but state that their business has been unusually brisk throughout the month and that prices have been satisfactory on all grades. Last year the receipts and sales of the general market, but this year such is not the case. This accounts for the seeming falling off in this year's business.

The repeal of the English import duty on strips has caused dealers here to begin making active preparations for the handling of this class of the trade and prices are expected to range from 50c to $1 higher as a result. Already one warehouse has announced that it will sell loose on the floor during the coming season and publishes as a list of its buyers those companies and dealers who supply the English trade.

The continued damp weather has threatened serious damage to the housed crop of tobacco by thoroughly saturating it with moisture. To overcome this farmers have been obliged to build fires under their tobacco so as to dry it out.

SOUTHERN LAWS

TO BE TESTED IN HIGHEST COURT BY NEGROES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The national convention of the Afro-American council will be held in this city from October 9, to the evening of the 11.

The object of the convention is to raise $100,000 for the purpose of presenting to the United States supreme court, through eminent white lawyers, a test case involving the disfranchisement laws of the southern states. Bishop Walters says "that a test case has never been properly presented to the courts and that he has been assured that when this is done the disfranchisement laws of the south will be declared unconstitutional."

"Will you please," said Miss Spencer, "tell us which of these two bullets wounded you?"

Bob looked at the leaden missiles. Their polished surfaces should have brought the blush of shame to his face, but they did not. Indeed he took no note of anything, he was thinking how to wiggle out of the scrape he had brought upon himself. Finally, with an injured air he asked permission to take off his coat, which was granted. Removing the coat and a pair of gold sleeve links, he rolled up his shirt sleeve.

"This wound," he said, pointing to the scar where the missile that had really struck him on the inner surface of the arm, "was made by the bullet on the right. This," pointing to the scar where the original missile had left his arm, "was made by the bullet on the left."

The girls looked at each other.

"You two young ladies," he continued, "as especial friends of mine, I thought might like to have a bullet that had struck a simple soldier at the Spanish war. Having a bullet for each wound, I was enabled to send one to each of you."

Again the girls looked at each other. "I told you," began Miss Spencer, "and I told you," interrupted Miss Marsh, "that there was some."

"That you were very unjust."

"Do you mean?" flashed Miss Marsh, "Gee!" said the soldier, "I am really at fault. I should not have made so much of so trifling a matter."

The victor was with the victor. Neither girl had loved him till his fraudulent vindication, his display of modesty. Then both loved him—while he loved them both.

CHANGES ARE MADE

OF MUCH IMPORTANCE TO METHODIST DENOMINATION.

Two Districts Wiped Out.—Presiding Elder Will Make His Home in Hopkinsville.

While this was not what is generally known as the "moving year" in the Louisville conference of the Methodist Episcopal church South, yet many important changes were made in the government and distribution of the work at the session that adjourned yesterday at Central City. It is said that Dr. Gross Alexander is responsible for many of the changes. At the same time he was supported by others of the bishop's cabinet. Some radical changes were made, but Bishop E. R. Hendrix is one of the most thorough scholars and business men in the college of bishops and he, too, had much to do with the wiping out of two districts and apportioning the work to the best advantage.

It is the universal opinion that by the changes work has been greatly simplified and that the presiding elders will be better paid for their arduous services. The Princeton and Lebanon districts were entirely blotted out, while the Russellville district, which was one of the oldest in the conference, has been changed to the Hopkinsville district. The presiding elder will reside at Hopkinsville instead of Russellville. The wiping out of the Princeton district added more to the old Russellville district and it was deemed best to move the residence of the presiding elder from Russellville to Hopkinsville in order that he might be more centrally located.

Where formerly there were nine presiding elder districts in the conference there are now only seven. Part of the stations in the Princeton district were transferred to the Henderson district. On the other hand, some of the stations in the Russellville district were transferred to the Bowling Green district. The blotting out of the Lebanon district resulted in many changes and transfers of stations. Some stations in the Elizabethtown district were tacked on to the Louisville district. The Lebanon district was divided among the Columbia, Elizabethtown and Bowling Green districts. It is claimed by the leaders in the movement that the business and other work of the conference can be conducted just as well or better under the new arrangement than under the old. The presiding elders may have a little more work to do, but they will have a little more of the comforts of life as a consequence.

In the shakeup the Rev. Dr. John W. Lewis again comes into his own, the Louisville conference. He is transferred from the Tennessee conference and is made presiding elder of the new Hopkinsville district. Dr. Lewis is known in all the principal churches in the conference. In former years he preached at Hopkinsville and later in Henderson. For many years he was a minister Louisville churches and finally presiding elder of the Louisville district. While he was willing to be transferred several years ago, he never felt at home anywhere else but in the Louisville conference. The Methodists of Louisville and Western Kentucky will gladly welcome him back into the fold.

Dr. Gross Alexander, the retiring presiding elder of the Louisville district, goes back to Nashville, his old home, to become book editor and editor of the Review, a noted publication of the church. — Louisville Courier-Journal.

FIRE ALARMS

Department Answered Calls Last Night and This Morning.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

The fire department was called out last night about 7:30 o'clock by an alarm from Hotel Latham, where a blaze had caught under the floor of the kitchen which is located on the second floor. The blaze was extinguished with buckets before the department arrived.

Another alarm was turned in this morning the residence of Mrs. Bellamy on the corner of Third and Main streets. This blaze was also extinguished before the firemen reached the scene.

NO TROUBLE.

HAVANA, Oct. 3.—The disarmament of rebels is proceeding without trouble.

NEW LAW IN EFFECT

NATURALIZATION OF FOREIGNERS NOT EASY NOW.

Records to Be Kept Not Yet Received in the Courts Here in Hopkinsville.

The new naturalization law, which has just become effective, brings about many changes in the proceedings of an alien becoming an American citizen.

Under the former law all that was necessary was to establish proof of having resided in this country the necessary time, express the desire of becoming a citizen and take the oath of allegiance to the flag. In any circuit or federal court the privileges and protection of American citizenship could be conferred with further ado.

With the act of June 29, effective Friday, the first petition is filed, announcing the desire to become a citizen. This petition will have to lay over 30 days, and it will be a full 90 days or more before it is completed by final action of the courts.

The new law secures a uniformity in the granting of naturalization papers, for a record expressly for this purpose must be kept by every court having authority to handle the cases. These records have not been received in Hopkinsville as yet, but are probably now being sent out by the department at Washington.

The new law was one of those which went through in a rush with the closing of congress, which fact is probably accountable for the delay in getting the records properly before the several courts.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

ABOUT THE GREAT JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

Original English Settlement Will Be Reproduced As Nearly as Possible.—Indian Village.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 2.—Cipriano Castro, president of Venezuela, who has made several great stirs in the world, will attend the Jamestown exposition in his $3,000,000 state yacht.

Kansas, through her governor, Edward W. Hoch, has accepted the invitation of the Jamestown exposition management to participate in the ter-centennial celebration to be held near Norfolk, Va., on Hampton Roads in 1907. Gov. Hoch is especially interested as Kansas has planned a great international exposition for 1911 and participation in the Jamestown event will make a great opportunity for the Sunflower state to exploit her own big show.

Veterans of the civil war are manifesting intense interest in the Jamestown exposition. The old war horses are eager to visit the scenes of their victories and defeats and they know that by visiting the ter-centennial celebration they will be in the heart of the great battlefield of the nation.

The lover of the colonial in arts and crafts will have the pleasure of seeing produced at the Jamestown exposition articles in metal, wood, clay and textile fabrics, the utensils, furniture, tableware and clothing of two hundred years ago.

An Indian village of the time of Powhatan and Pocahontas will be reproduced with historic correctness at the Jamestown exposition.

The original English settlement at Jamestown will, as nearly as possible, be reproduced for exhibition at the Jamestown exposition.

KILLED BY MOB

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 3.—Roy Hoyle, a special officer of the Mobile & Ohio railroad, and one of the most widely known and best liked men in this vicinity, was fatally shot, and Alderman Sidney Lyons, chairman of the city council of Mobile, was slightly wounded in the hand last night during a fight at the county jail between deputy sheriffs and a crowd of men determined to capture Dick Robinson, a young negro, charged with criminal assault. The mob is still hunting the negro, and will lynch him if possible.

CONTINUED RAINS

HAVE DONE GREAT DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY.

Corn, Which Promised Great Things, Badly Injured.—Pea Hay Almost Total Loss.

The magnificent corn crop of this section, which bade fair to break all previous records both for quality and quantity at the time of maturity has suffered great damage from the continued and heavy rains which have visited Western Kentucky during the past few weeks.

Corn which has been cut and in the shock will be almost a total loss as it is already souring and rotting badly. That which was left standing was thought to have escaped damage but investigation shows that the heavy winds which accompanied the rains, and the force with which the downpours came, have literally stripped the stalks of the fodder and the ears have also suffered almost as much as those in the shock. It is estimated that fully half the crop will be a loss.

Pea hay, of which large fields had been grown to furnish provender for stock through the winter, is practically a total loss. Very little of this had been housed when the rains began, since which time it has been impossible to care for it. As a result it has been so thoroughly wet that it also is rotting, where it lies.

Ground which had been fallowed once will have to be gone over again with the large plows as such heavy crops of grass and weeds have grown upon the fields thus cultivated that the disc harrows and lighter implements will not cut through the matted and rank growth. This has greatly delayed wheat planting.

Country roads are in a terrible condition, they being reported to be equally as muddy and cut up into ruts as in the middle of winter.

SHE'LL NEVER SEE THEM.

MORGANTOWN, Ky., Oct. 3.—Ethel Lykens, aged 17, committed suicide with morphine today because her father refused to let her visit certain friends.

NEW DISCUSSION.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Oct. 5. Judge Galloway holds that a steam boat company or a common carrier cannot be forced to take shipments of liquor into prohibition territory even if it comes from outside the state.

The Hon. S. W. Hager, candidate for governor, spent last night at Hotel Latham. Mr. Hager spoke yesterday at Elkton and last night at Guthrie. This afternoon he will address the voters of Muhlenburg county at Greenville.

Sells Home.

Polk Cansler, as agent, sold the W. G. Harris home on west 7th street to John Young for $3,000.

THE AMERICA'S CUP

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—There will be no race for the America's cup in 1907, according to the Times, which says today:

"Whatever may be the ultimate outcome of Sir Thomas Lipton's negotiations for another America cup race, it can be stated that there will be no race next year. Assurances are said to have been positively given that under no circumstances would the New York Yacht Club consider a race in 1907. What might be done in the following years, or what action may be taken on the question of rules to govern any match that is arranged is absolutely uncertain. What reason actuates the decision, said to have been reached by those whose authority will sway the club's decision, is not known."

Sir Thomas made an informal visit to the New York Yacht Club last night. He remained chatting with friends and club members until after midnight.

The Lipton party leaves for Chicago this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. He will remain there until Oct. 8 and then return to New York.

Victor Holloway left yesterday for Philadelphia to complete his studies at a medical college.

SUFFERINGS OVER

MRS. WHITEHEAD DIES AFTER A PROTRACTED ILLNESS.

Formerly Miss Mattie Walker, a Popular and Lovely Young Lady of Hopkinsville.

Mrs. Mattie Walker Whitehead, formerly of this city and loved and admired by a very wide circle of friends, died Tuesday at her home in Lynchburg, Va.

She had been ill for some time of a complication of diseases and her condition became alarming about three weeks ago. Her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Nannie Elliot, have been at the bedside since her illness was critical. She passed away at 3:30 o'clock.

The deceased was 21 years of age and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Walker. She was a consecrated Christian and a devoted and an active member of the Methodist church.

She was educated in the local schools and was a member of the first graduating class of the Hopkinsville high school. After teaching awhile in the county she was elected a teacher in the city schools and was one of the most capable, efficient and beloved instructors that splendid institution has ever had.

On July 3, 1901, she was married to the Hon. I. P. Whitehead, a prominent lawyer and leading citizen of Lynchburg, Va., where she made her home and where she was held in the highest esteem and affection. Her husband and two children survive her.

Her character was so beautiful and true that it will ever be an inspiration to those who felt its ennobling influence.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at Lynchburg.

Death of Child.

Gwyneth Anderson, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, died this morning at the home of her parents on North Main street. An asthmatic affliction was the cause of death. She was an unusually bright and attractive child and the community sincerely sympathizes with the parents in their bereavement. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the residence, conducted by Rev. A. C. Biddle, and the interment will be in Hopewell cemetery.

Berry Baby Dies.

The infant child of Mrs. W. W. Berry died yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ezell who was taking care of it. The body was buried this morning. The mother of the child died about ten days after its birth, and the father, who was charged with causing Mrs. Berry's death, died in jail one day last week of heart failure.

SHOT BY AN OFFICER

JOHN WHEAT BRONAUGH, COL., WOUNDED AT PEMBROKE.

Had Fired on Constable Morrison Who Attempted to Put Him Under Arrest.

John Wheat Bronaugh, colored, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Constable Lincoln Morrison at Pembroke Saturday night.

The negro was drunk and raising a disturbance and the officer placed him under arrest. Bronaugh jerked away though and pulled his gun and fired at Constable Morrison, and then took to his heels, firing as he ran. The officer drew his revolver and gave chase and the negro ran down the railroad track the fourth shot from his pursuer struck him a little to the rear on the left side and lodged just under the skin on the right side and above where it entered. Physicians say the negro's chances for recovery are very slim. Mr. Morrison came here this morning and surrendered but was released on bond.

It is said that some one else on the street at the time also fired at the officer, but who this was could not be learned. Mr. Morrison was not wounded by any of the bullets fired at him.

LOST.—A large red cow, long sharp horns. She was followed by a Jersey heifer. Reward for return to call J. B. Walker, Telephone 226-3.

DR. LEWIS IS HERE

ENTERS UPON DUTIES AS PRESIDING ELDER

The Changes in the District.—Parsonages at Elkton and Marion Will Likely Be Sold.

Rev. John W. Lewis, D. D., the new presiding elder of the Hopkinsville district of the Louisville Conference, M. E. church, South, arrived in the city last night with his wife and two daughters. They have taken rooms for the present with the Rev. A. P. Lyon, on South Campbell street.

Dr. Lewis and his estimable family will be warmly welcomed by not only the Methodists but the citizens of the city generally.

In cutting down the districts of the conference from nine to seven thus eliminating the Princeton and Lebanon districts and changing the Russellville district to the Hopkinsville district, the local district is considerably affected. Russellville station and Russellville circuit, Auburn and Adairville become a part of the Bowling Green district. Cadiz, Canton, Princeton, Marion, Eddyville and Kuttawa, formerly in the Princeton district are now incorporated with the Hopkinsville district.

It is supposed that the district parsonages at Elkton and Marion for the use of the presiding elders of the Russellville and Princeton districts, will be ordered sold at once and the money thus secured used in purchasing and furnishing a district parsonage here. These two district parsonages are both large and handsome homes and should bring not less than $6,000.

ELDER CLARK RESIGNS

Former Christian County Pastor to Leave Mayfield.

Elder Roger L. Clark pastor of the Christian church, very much surprised his congregation Sunday by announcing his resignation as pastor of the church to take effect January 1, 1907.

In explanation of his resignation he said he had been here about four years and had given the matter due consideration, and had arrived at the conclusion that it was best for him to leave the work at this place.

He said that the building of the new church was in the hands of good and competent men who would see that the church was built as it should be and that it would not suffer on account of his going elsewhere.—Mayfield Mirror.

NATIVE OF CHRISTIAN

Gustavus Long, Aged 51 Years, Dies in Texas.

Gustavus Long died at his home near Elvasville, Texas, Sept. 21, 1907, after an illness lasting several months. He was the oldest son of Henry Long, and was born in Christian county, Ky. He moved with his parents to Texas in 1879 from the Antioch neighborhood. He was 51 years of age and leaves a wife, and four brothers and four sisters.

NOW EFFECTIVE

New Meat Inspection Law is in Full Force.

The new meat inspection law became effective this week. Hereafter all canned meats must be properly and truthfully labeled in order to pass through the channels of interstate commerce.

It has been decided that the law does not effect goods now in stock, although they cannot be shipped from one state to another.

Any deception in the labels used on meat products will involve a heavy fine.

Kettle rendered lard must be actually rendered in a kettle, and "pure lard" must be pure.

Any admixture of any other meats in potted or deviled ham or tongue will deprive the product of its name.

Boneless chicken or turkey must be made of the fowls named and be free from bones.

Many other similar rulings have been made by the department of agriculture, to the end that the consumer may know what he is buying.

HOW THEY GOT AHEAD OF THE OLD FOLKS

(Original.) Miss Julia Wardwell had breakfasted and was attending to her canary when the postman arrived and left a letter for her.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "Mamma to be married! Sorry she can't come home quite as early as expected." Mr. Arbuckle. "Hopes I'll not be naughty about it. What in the world am I to do? I can't get used to a strange man in the house, I'll—"

A maid entered and handed her a card on which was written, "Henry Durand Arbuckle."

"Well, I declare," the girl went on with her soliloquy, after telling the maid to say that she would be down soon, "this is disaster following fast and following faster. I hardly learn that I am to have a stepfather when I am called to face him. I wonder if mamma has gone and made a silly of herself by taking a young man. She always disliked old ones. So I suppose she's got a boy. Heigho! I wish I had some one to marry myself."

"She prinked a little before the glass and then went down into the drawing room. A handsome young man of twenty-five arose as she entered. He looked rather embarrassed and stammered a few incoherent sentences.

"Excuse me, Mrs. Arbuckle—I mean Miss—no, Mrs. Wardwell, for calling so early. I have but a few hours in the city, and—"

"You are quite excusable, Mr. Arbuckle. I received a letter this morning—"

"So did I. Quite charmed, I assure you, to find so young a person. I feared—"

"And I am quite surprised in you." "I think I shall love you very much. My mother died when I was but four years old, and I have no remembrance of her."

Miss Wardwell looked surprised. "His mother?"

"I remember my father," she replied, "and I'm quite sure no other man can take his place, but—"

"You will not object to the love of a son?"

Miss Wardwell paused again. "The love of a son? Is mamma to marry a hunk?"

"Meanwhile Miss Wardwell had taken a seat on a sofa, and Mr. Arbuckle, who had taken a chair, got up and sat down beside her.

"You have no idea," he said, "how charmed I am in finding so agreeable a young person. I'm sure we shall get on famously. You will find me dutiful, obedient, loving."

"And I," she replied, "am equally pleased. Just before you called I made up my mind that I couldn't endure—"

"Same here. We have both felt alike. How delightful to have dissatisfaction turned to pleasure! Oh, mother, let us—"

"Mother!" she exclaimed, drawing back. "What do you mean?"

"I mean that father couldn't have chosen a more satisfactory stepmother for me."

"Stepmother! Why, I'm to be your stepdaughter."

"What do you take me for?"

"Mamma's new husband that is to be."

"Are you not Mrs. Wardwell?"

"I am Miss Julia Wardwell. Do I look old enough to be your stepmother?"

"This is very astonishing. I supposed I was calling on father's fiancée."

"And I supposed you were my mother's fiancée."

"Father wrote me that Mrs. Wardwell would arrive in the city yesterday and, as I was passing through asked me to call on her."

"I have just received a letter from mamma saying that she has been delayed. I supposed she had chosen a young man. She has never liked old ones."

"Well, well! Upon my word! And you're not to be my stepmother after all!"

"And I'm to have an old woman for a stepmother."

"I shall not live with them."

"Not I."

"I shall take apartments and live alone, with a maid and other servants."

"You can't do that."

"Why not?"

"You're too young—and pretty."

"Oh, dear! I'm disgusted."

"So am I. I shall go into bachelor quarters."

"Why will parents make themselves happy by making their children miserable?"

"It's very selfish of them."

"They've had their fling and should defer to their offspring."

"I'd like to get ahead of the governor. It would serve him right."

"I'd marry a clown to get even with mamma."

"I wouldn't mind helping you out."

Miss Wardwell turned away her head. Her stepfather that was to have been moved closer.

"Do you know when our parents are to be married?" he asked.

"On the 1st of July, mother says your father has business in England in that month, and they are to sail as soon as married."

"Very well. We'll beat them by two weeks."

"Father's a fool."

"So is mother."

"They'll quarrel."

Kisses here interferred, and the dialogue became unintelligible.

HARRIET B. LEE.

CHAS. B. HANFORD AS "MARC ANTONY" IN "JULIUS CAESAR."

CHARLES B. HANFORD.

There is a vigorous oratorical swing in the part of "Marc Antony" in "Julius Caesar," that makes it an especially suitable role for an actor possessing the graces of personality and the declamatory power which have always been commented on as distinguishing characteristics of Charles B. Hanford. It is remarkable that Mr. Hanford should at the very outset of his career have stepped into the role with which he has always been most brilliantly identified. As befits a man of his vocation, Mr. Hanford has in his time, played many parts, but none of them has eclipsed his representation of this dashing, virile, Roman orator whose eloquence turned the sentiment of the mob from hatred into pity.

HUNDREDS OF THE FAIR SEX VIEWED MILLINERY OPENINGS.

HANDSOME HATS IN EVERY CONCEIVABLE STYLE WERE SHOWN AND ADMIRER—THE LATEST MODES ON DISPLAY.

J. H. Anderson & Company.

It was a happy thought that led J. H. Anderson & Co. to secure their new trimmer from Chicago, the fashion center of the west, and then send her to New York, the fashion center of the east to spend a month, thus insuring for their department a trimmer experienced in the two extreme fashion centers of America.

To carry but this dual fashion idea, it was necessary to have twice as many hats ever before, and in effect was the same as having two different openings. This firm has a knack in selecting attractive, courteous and competent assistants in their millinery department. Rarely have we seen six more handsomely and becomingly gowned young ladies than those who dispensed hat fashions at Anderson's yesterday. The courteous, pleasing, untroubled businesslike way they dispensed business made it possible for this department to make a new record in millinery sales.

The firm reports yesterday's sales the largest in their history, both in number of hats sold and volume of sale. It is especially pleasing to the management of this paper to know the largest millinery sale Anderson ever had resulted at the time when they did the most advertising in the Daily New Era.

Sallie B. Hooser & Co.

"Delighted" expresses but mildly the feelings of the many ladies who visited the Temple of Fashion yesterday and today and viewed the lovely and latest modes in millinery displayed by the popular firm of Sallie B. Hooser & Company. The opening was a decided success, one that marked an epoch in millinery circles.

"I have been to all the openings," said one prominent society lady, "but I must say that you have the prettiest and most wearable hats I have seen." Hundreds of complimentary remarks have been heard by the company, and they desire to express their gratification and appreciation. If you have not visited the store, do so now. It is worth while.

The Palace.

Among the displays of the millinery openings of this city, none are more tasteful and beautiful and show greater varieties in quality, quantity and up-to-date styles than Davis, Kennedy & Co.

Their decorations were simply grand. This firm informs us that of them has eclipsed his representation of this dashing, virile, Roman orator whose eloquence turned the sentiment of the mob from hatred into pity.

Although it has been a long time since Mr. Hanford was seen in "Marc Antony", the students of the stage still refer to him as the beau ideal of that character.

His appearance at Holland's opera house on Friday, Oct. 12, will be awaited with even more than the great interest which the announcement of a Hanford engagement always arouses.

Miss Fannie B. Rogers.

The announcement of the fall opening at Miss Fannie B. Rogers' millinery establishment attracted large crowds and every lady who saw the beautiful display of imported and domestic patterns was charmed. It was the consensus of opinion that more fetching styles could not be found anywhere and that the display was one that would really reflect credit upon a metropolitan millinery establishment. There are scores of lovely hats and styles becoming to every face.

Keegan & Company.

Keegan & Company opened their beautiful new establishment yesterday. The crowd in the store all day long attested the popularity of the management and the beautiful hats displayed will keep the public going into this same place to get their wants supplied hereafter. The store was artistically decorated in growing palms and ferns, and Mrs. Keegan, Misses Blumenstiel, Boulware, Smithson, Rogers and Elliott, attentively showed and fitted hats to admiring customers. Miss Blumenstiel, who has long been a popular and expert trimmer, and uniting in her efforts to please, is a valuable addition to the company, and Mrs. Keegan who has owned her establishment for years needs no introduction. The hats on display are varied in their style and price. Everything from ready-to-wear street hats, stylish and modest in price, to the most elaborate calling and reception dress hats are to be found. One especially pretty imported gray hat with ostrich tips and pink roses was in the street show window, and noticeable greens and Persian colors, and Scotch plaid trimmings are seen. One of the handsomest picture hats in black and white with handsome ostrich feathers was bought early in the day by one of our charming matrons, and numerous beautiful patterns went to make up bridal outfits. The opening will continue today, and friends and the public are cordially invited to visit Keegan & Co.

From Day to Day

A statistical paper on India, just issued, shows that in 1904 they were killed in that country by snakes and wild beasts 24,004 persons—21,880 by snake bites, 796 by tigers, 299 by leopards, and the rest by other animals. The number of cattle killed was 98,582.

The other side of the account shows that 65,146 snakes and 16,121 wild animals were killed.

A newspaper in Higgins, Mo., tells this story: "A young fellow bought 2000 extra fine cigars and had them insured for their full value, smoked them up and demanded the insurance, claiming that they had been destroyed by fire. The case was taken to the court and the judge decided in favor of the young man. The insurance company then had the young man arrested for setting fire to his own property and the same judge ordered that he pay a fine and go to jail for three months."

Thomas W. Lawson, who has been seriously ill since the death of his wife, has returned to his office in Boston. It is understood that he will immediately resume his attacks on Standard Oil and "the system."

It is probable that the likeness of John Paul Jones will appear upon one of the next series of postage stamps. A naval officer recently called attention to the fact that the United States navy, whose achievements present and unbroken line of victories, has had but scant recognition at the hands of the post office department, so far as honoring eminent naval officers on the United States upon our postal issues is concerned. On the other hand, the army has received numerous honors from the authorities who determine what faces adorn our postal issues.

The New York World prints a statistical story which avers that 4,000 persons have been put to death without warrant of law in the United States in the last twenty-five years. Ninety-five per cent. of them, it declares, were negroes charged with assaults on white women. The methods of execution comprised hanging, shooting, flogging and burning at the stake.

The comparative statement of gross earnings of the L. & N. railroad for the second week of September shows an increase of $89,390, compared with the corresponding week of last year. The increase since September 1, is $227,310.

This month is an important one to Roman Catholics the world over. It has been known for centuries as the month of the rosary. During this month the church expects its children to follow certain devotions to Mary, the mother of God, and teaches them that in return they will be granted certain spiritual privileges.

An organization of the associated charities was formed this week at a comfort a mass meeting, having as its purpose the concentration of all charitable efforts by lodges, fraternal orders, churches, charitable organizations, in co-operation with the city authorities with this organization for a united effort. The organization will keep a list of all persons asking help, and will at the same time keep a list of applications for labor, thus operating a "labor bureau" in connection with charity work. It is expected this will stop all poor persons asking alms and to furnish work for all able bodied persons. Applications for domestic service will be a specialty.

The army will shortly adopt the new bullet which was recently tested by several of the target experts at the national rifle meet at Scagitt and found to be satisfactory by them. Instead of the rounded point of the present bullet, it has a long, straight, tapering point, and is also about one-third lighter, weighing about 150 grains. The new bullet has a greater velocity up to 2,000 yards, a greater energy up to 1,400 yards, a flatter trajectory up to 2,000 yards, and a little better accuracy up to 2,000 yards. The new bullet will require a slightly different firing chamber in the rifle, but this can be readily effected by pieces now under manufacture, and the necessary changes can be made in the pieces now in use with but comparatively small expense.

ADVICE TO THE RACE

GIVEN BY REV. DR. HAWKINS TO COLORED STUDENTS

No People Can Be Influential, Strong And Useful Whose Morals Are Bad.

The Hopkinsville M. & F. college, the institution for the education of colored youth located at this place, began its course of bi-monthly lectures this week with an address by Rev. J. W. Hawkins, D. D., of Paducah. Dr. Hawkins is one of the most prominent ministers of his race in the state, and is moderator of his district association and of the Baptist state convention of Kentucky.

In his address, he impressed upon the students the necessity of relying upon their self-exhortations, and said: "I know of no person, man or woman, of good moral character, that is not doing something in life. Show me an individual with an education who is not doing something, and nine times out of ten that individual will be devoid of moral character. The race needs educated men and women whose hearts are alive to the need of human service and the glory of our maker. No race can be influential and strong and useful whose morals are bad."

The institution is doing a great work among the negroes in this section. It is under the direction of the colored Baptists of the state. Prof. P. T. Frazier, a prominent negro educator, is the president, and in the last six years has made many improvements upon the grounds and increased the excellence of the curriculum. The lecture course will be continued throughout the term, many prominent people having been secured.

Although Representative Littlefield still insists that Mr. Gompers helped him in the last election, he hasn't filed any earnest request with him to do it again.

The following announcement appeared in a recent issue of the News-Democrat: "At a meeting of the directors of the Democrat Publishing company today, John J. Berry was elected president and general manager of the company, vice Mr. Urey Woodson, resigned, Mr. Woodson having sold all of his stock in the company to Mr. Berry and his associates. Mr. Woodson has done this because of important business interests in New York and Chicago."

Since the women of Lima, S. A., strewed flowers in his pathway, Secretary Root will no doubt come home with a higher opinion of Lima beans.

GOV. BECKHAM STRONGLY DEFENDS THE ADMINISTRATION CASE IS CONTINUED

HEARD BY LARGE AUDIENCE AT TABERNACLE.

Spoke at Night at Pembroke—Senator McCreary Will Be Here
October 12.

Gov. Beckham addressed a large audience at the tabernacle Monday afternoon in the interest of his candidacy for United States senator to succeed the incumbent, the Hon. James B. McCreary, who is offering for re-election, subject to the will of the Democrats of Kentucky as expressed in the primary of November 6. When it was stated some time ago that there would be a series of joint debates between the candidates for senator plans were laid to have one of the debates in Hopkinsville. The distinguished gentlemen decided, in the interest of harmony, it would be better to prosecute their campaigns apart, but the announcement that Senator McCreary will speak here Friday, October 12, will give the Democrats a good opportunity to hear the issues of the campaign fully discussed by both candidates and to judge then the merits of their respective claims.

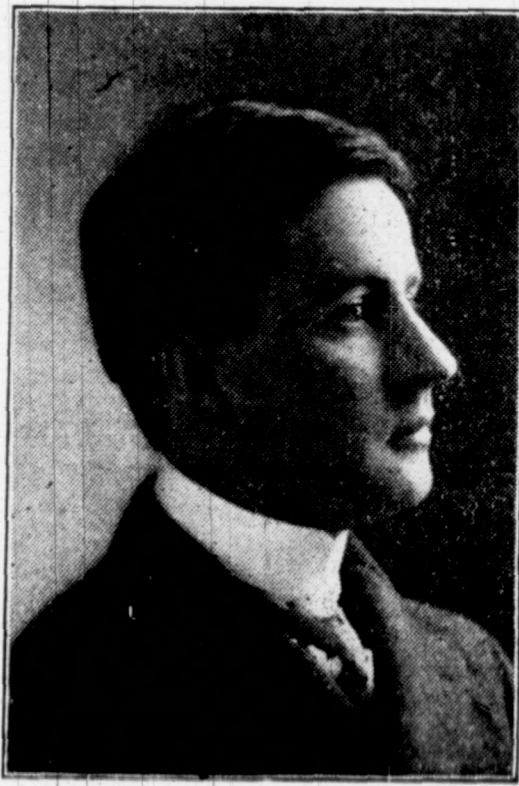

Gov. Beckham's address was made under very propitious circumstances. He was heard by a crowd that comfortably filled the lower floor of the tabernacle and several rows in the balcony were occupied. Many ladies were present, and the governor paid them a number of graceful compliments. At the conclusion of his address and while the band was playing "Dixie" a committee of ladies, headed by Mrs. George E. Gary, presented the governor with several lovely bouquets.

The platform had been handsomely decorated with potted plants and trailing vines. On the benches in the rear were the members of Lebkuecher's brass band, which had played on the streets and in the building prior to the speaking. Dr. Milton Board, who is one of the governor's closest friends and most valued lieutenants, Mr. Phillips, of the state board of control, County Chairman James West and Representative Herman Southall occupied seats on the platform.

The speaker was introduced by John C. Duffy, who is chairman of the Beckham campaign committee for Christian county. Mr. Duffy gave it as his opinion that the candidate was the greatest governor in Kentucky's illustrious history. He proclaimed him as the exponent of law and order in Kentucky. In refutation of the charge that Gov. Beckham had made political appointments to advance his own interests, he said he knew that the governor, against his political interests, had appointed a young lawyer as special judge at a certain place, although every member of the bar of that county, with one exception, had recommended another man. And now, according to Mr. Duffy, all those lawyers were against Gov. Beckham. The speaker intimated that much of the opposition to the senatorial candidate came from persons he had put out of office and who had personal grudges against him. Mr. Duffy reviewed briefly the achievements of Gov. Beckham's administration, and denounced Attorney General Hayes for his campaign of vilification. Gov. Beckham's address closely followed the lines of the speech he has made elsewhere in the state, during this campaign, and which has, heretofore, been published in the New Era. He said he was prosecuting the campaign not so much in his own interest as to demonstrate the worthiness of the present state administration so that the state may not in the next election be turned over to the Republicans. It was of no great interest, he said, to the Democrats of Kentucky who represented the state in the U. S. senate, but it was of vital importance that the state remain Democratic in its administration. He told of the injury and the plundering done to the state when the Republicans were in control. He discussed at considerable length the achievements of his administration and contrasted it with that of Mr. McCreary when the latter was governor. The speaker said Senator McCreary boasted of the accomplishments of his administration. One was the reduction of the tax rate, the second was the establishment of a geological survey and the third was the establishment of a bureau of agriculture. Gov. Beckham said that the demands of the state government had practically doubled since McCreary was governor, because many new institutions had been established, a new penitentiary built, the Confederate home created and other charities and improvements made, together with large increases in amounts paid for schools and education. He claimed that the geological survey had been abandoned until he went into office, when it was re-established and made highly useful, and that it was under the present administration that the agricultural bureau had been made of practical benefit to the farmers.

The governor said that some worthy people were supporting Senator McCreary but that the bulk of his following was saloon men and liquor dealers, and it was this element which was loudest in its talk about "machines" and "purifying politics." He said the saloon interests were as a unit against him because of his efforts on behalf of the county unit bill and on account of his unwillingness for them to violate the laws of Kentucky by desecrating the Christian Sabbath. It was not, he said, that the liquor men cared who was United States senator, but they wanted to wave his bloody political scalp in the face of the next governor of Kentucky to show him their power. "Gov. McCreary answers this," said the governor, "by saying he is a temperate man. Well, so am I a temperate man."

Concerning the intimation that he had shown no interest in closing Sunday saloons until he was ready to run for the U. S. senate and wished an issue on which to make his canvass, Gov. Beckham said he was no police officer or detective to run about over the state looking for infractions of the law, but that he had made every effort to enforce the law when violations were made known to him, and that the reason he had not "put in the lid" at Covington was because the mayor there was a Republican and would give him no assistance.

The anti-machine howler, he continued, is the chronic kicker or dis-appointed office-seeker. "To the man on the inside the machine is 'the organization'; it is only 'the machine' to the fellow who is on the outside and can't get in. The governor said if he had enough offices he could by giving one to each of the fellows fighting 'the machine' have them all, in two days' time, shouting its praises. Gov. Beckham's arraignment of Attorney General Hayes was terrific and said he was chosen as the anti-machine candidate because his mind was capable of framing any falsehood and his tongue would hesitate at uttering no scandal. He said Senator McCreary had realized that an alliance with Hayes was a fatal mistake; that he was 'the old man of the seas' whom the senator was striving to shake from his shoulder. Hayes was not running, he asserted, with any hope of success, and was nothing but the advance agent of the Republican party, and that his candidacy was daily encouraged by the Republican papers in order to reap political advantage for his reckless and desperate charges against the Democratic administration. The speaker claimed that Hayes decided shortly after his election to be a candidate for governor and to pitch his campaign on a violent and slanderous attack on the other members of the administration, and that he had practically withheld all assistance as attorney general from the department of the government. It was almost impossible to get him to attend, even when written notices were served, any of the meetings of the executive, sinking fund, printing and capital building boards of which he was a member, and yet against these boards he had made vicious and slanderous attacks. The governor took up Hayes' charges against the various boards, the printing contracts, the capital architect's fee and attorneys' fees and exposed his astounding misstatements. The governor's concluding remarks, reviewing his accomplishments as governor, were identical with the peroration of his Lexington address and was published in full in the New Era.

Gov. Beckham's address was confined exclusively to state matters and he touched on no national issue. Monday night the governor spoke at Pembroke and, after spending the night here, went to Cadiz to speak.

S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The purifying action and curative properties of this great remedy have made "S. S. S. For The Blood" a household saying, and thousands who are today enjoying perfect health owe their recovery from blood or skin diseases to this universally used blood medicine. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks which possess not only cleansing and healing ingredients, but building-up and strengthening properties to keep the blood in perfect order. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy and strength that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vitality is weakened and they suffer from a general broken down condition. When the waste or refuse matter, which nature intends shall be thrown off, is left in the system because of a sluggish, torpid condition of the expelling members, it is absorbed into the blood, making this vital stream weak, sour and acrid, and its condition is manifested by boils, pimples, rashes, blotches and other eruptions of the skin. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every particle of blood tainted or poison of every character, makes the blood fresh and strong and gives energy to the entire body. When the blood has been cleansed by S. S. S. all skin diseases and eruptions pass away and the smooth, clear skin, glowing with health, shows that the body is being nourished by rich, pure blood. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders, and for their cure nothing equals S. S. S. It does not injuriously affect the most delicate parts of the body and can be taken with perfect safety by old or young. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

THIEF ARRESTED

Frank Allen is Charged With Arsoning Hams.

Frank Allen, colored, was arrested Saturday night charged with stealing meat from the grocery of Clark & Denton.

It was reported to the police that some one was evidently robbing the grocery and policeman Chas. Ford and Joe Wolfe, who is working in the place of officer Marcus Merritt, went to the place and found five hams hidden behind a barrel and the stairway in the rear of the grocery. They did not remove the meat but hid themselves and in a few minutes Allen came up and began to pull the hams from their hiding place. The policemen then arrested him and locked him up.

The hams have been identified by Clark & Denton but it is a mystery how the thief got into the store. The only theory that seems plausible is that he used a ladder and entered a second story window.

Clark & Denton say they have known for some time that some one was robbing their meat rack but the theft was committed in such a clever manner that they could not positively say when or how much meat was taken. They think however that they have lost nearly $500 worth in this way.

$100 Reward, $100.

The advertising referred to appeared, it is alleged, during the months of August and September in the Morning News, the negro daily newspaper of this city. Copies of the paper of the dates complained of were filed as evidence in the cases.

PLUNGE INTO RIVER

SHOCKING RAILROAD ACCIDENT NEAR CLARKSVILLE.

Two Men Are Dead and Several Trainmen Injured.—The Escapes Almost Miraculous.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Northbound Louisville and Nashville passenger train No. 102, due here at 7:40 p. m., ran into an open bridge over the Cumberland river Saturday evening about 8 o'clock. The engine, baggage and mail car were plunged into the river together with six employees.

Engineer Frank Porter, of Bowling Green, Ky., and Express Messenger Will Wood, of Clarksville, were killed.

The injured are: Robert Martin, of Paris, Tenn., baggage master, slight bruises about the arms; T. A. Frazier, of Russellville, Ky., mail clerk, skull fractured and may not recover; J. G. Martin, McKenzie, Tenn., mail clerk, slight bruises; John Moran, of Bowling Green, Ky., fireman, arm broken.

The accident was one of the worst that has occurred on the railroad here in many years. The bridge watchman had turned the bridge to allow a steamboat to pass and the train ran almost up to the opening before the signals were noticed.

The engineer threw on his emergency brakes, which is said to have refused to work and the engine went down into the river, carrying the mail and baggage cars and those aboard. The passenger coaches remained on the trestle, being locked by the air brakes. Engineer Porter is supposed to have gone down in his cab and drowned.

Three of the men were rescued one hundred yards from the bridge, clinging to the baggage coach. Another was found on top of the mail car, about two hundred yards from the trestle.

Messenger Wood is supposed to have been drowned in the baggage car which has not been located. Both the baggage and mail cars are floating down the river, and one man was on top of them.

Engineer Porter was last seen alive with his hand at the throttle, and but for his prompt work in setting the air brakes, the passenger coaches would have followed him into the river.

The proper signals are said to have been put out by the bridgeman, and the only reason assigned for the terrible blunder is that the engineer's attention was momentarily diverted from the track, failing to observe the signals.

Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas common "remedies" made with mercury merely drive them out and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real cure, not a delusion. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Ely Bros., 50 Warren street, New York.

STANLEY IS SAFE NAME COMMITTEES

NO CHANCE TO BEAT HIM FOR CONGRESS.

HENDERSON, Ky., Sept. 29.—There has been some little talk of an independent candidate for congress being nominated in the Second congressional district for the purpose of defeating Congressman A. O. Stanley, but the politicians and the people at large have given very little credit to the story. Stanley has been a friend of the labor unions ever since he has been in Henderson, and when the West Kentucky Coal company, a Pennsylvania syndicate, bought the mines at Sturgis and other place in Union and Webster counties, and a strike was declared by the miners, Mr. Stanley rendered legal services against the corporation.

The Sturgis News-Democrat is known to be in sympathy with the mining company, and it was at Sturgis the report was started that Samuel Wilson, known as "Walking Mun," would enter the race as an independent candidate in order to weaken Stanley with the Democrats and give the Republican candidate a chance to win. Wilson was a candidate for the nomination for some time, but it was seen he was not strong enough to get Stanley's scalp, and the young aspirant to a seat in the national house made it known that he was not going to pay over $2,500 for his entrance into the race, so the primary was called off.

Congressman Stanley is more popular than ever with the people of his district, having made many friends with the voters in both parties by his fight against the American Tobacco company.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Hopkinsville.

Most Hopkinsville people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting wagons or cars, doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Hopkinsville cures prove it.

John J. Basford, cooper, of 766 E. 9th St., says: "My back used to be so lame and sore at times that when I bent it was all I could do to straighten up again. The pains were always with me and I could not stand for any length of time without feeling them. I doctored at one time but did not obtain the slightest benefit. My attention was called to an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills and I determined to try them. I got a box and after using them a few days could not help but notice a marked improvement in my condition. My health is better now than it has been in years. I give all the credit to Doan's Kidney Pills, and strongly recommend them to others."

CHAPTER XV.

THE drifting smoke was still so dense that not even the floor of the valley could be discerned. Jenks dared not leave Iris at such a moment.

He called to Mir Jan: "Take off your turban and hold it above your head if you think they can see you from the warship."

"It is all right, sahib," came the cheering answer. "One boat is close inshore. I think from the uniforms, they are English sailors, such as I have seen at Garden Reach. The Dyaks have all gone."

Nevertheless, Jenks waited. There was nothing to gain by being too precipitate. A false step now might undo the achievements of many weeks.

Mir Jan was dancing about beneath in a state of wild excitement.

"They have seen the Dyaks running to their sampans, sahib," he yelled, "and the second boat is being pulled in that direction! Yet another has just left the ship."

A transition made Iris excited, eager to go down and see these wonders. The boom of a cannon came from the sea. Instinctively the girl ducked for safety, though her companion smiled at her fears, for the shell would have long preceded the report had it traveled their way.

"One of the remaining sampans has got under way," he explained, "and the warship is firing at her."

"Poor wretches!" murmured Iris. "Cannot the survivors be allowed to escape?"

"Well, we are unable to interfere. Those caught on the island will probably be taken to the mainland and hanged for their crimes, so the manner of their end is not of much consequence."

To the girl's manifest relief, there was no more firing, and Mir Jan announced that a number of sailors were actually on shore. Then her thoughts turned to a matter of concern to the feminine mind even in the gravest moments of existence. She laved her face with water and sought her discarded skirt.

Soon the steady tramp of boot clad feet advancing at the double was heard on the shingle, and an officer's voice, speaking the crude Hindoostanee of the engine room and forecastle shouted to Mir Jan:

"Hi, you black fellow! Are there any white people here?"

Jenks sang out: "Yes, two of us! Perched on the rock over your heads. We are coming down."

He cast loose the rope ladder. Iris was limp and trembling. "Steady, sweetheart," he whispered. "Don't forget the slip between the cup and the lip. Hold tight, but have no fear. I will be just beneath."

It was well he took this precaution. She was now so unnerved that an unguarded movement might have led to an accident. But the knowledge that her lover was near, the touch of his hand guiding her feet on to the rungs of the ladder, sustained her. They had almost reached the level when a loud exclamation and the crash of a heavy blow caused Jenks to halt and look downward.

A Dyak, lying at the foot of one of the scaling ladders and severely wounded by a shell splinter, witnessed their descent. In his left hand he grasped a paring; his right arm was bandaged. Though unable to rise, the vegetable pirate mustered his remaining strength to crawl toward the swimming ladder. It was Taung S'All, inspired with the hate and venom of the dying snake. Even yet he hoped to deal a mortal stroke at the man who had defied him and all his outthroat band. He might have succeeded, as Jenks was so taken up with Iris, were it not for the watchful eyes of Mir Jan. The Mohammedan sprang at him, with an oath, and gave him such a murderous whack with the butt of a rifle that the Dyak chief collapsed and breathed out his fierce spirit in a groan.

At the first glance Jenks did not recognize Taung S'All owing to his change of costume. Through the thinner smoke he could see several sailors running up. But, with the passing of the chief, their last peril had gone. The next instant they were standing on the firm ground, and a British naval lieutenant was saying eagerly:

"We seem to have turned up in the nick of time. Do you, by any chance, belong to the Sirdar?"

"We are the sole survivors," answered the sailor.

"You two only?"

"Yes. She sank on the northwest reef of this island during a typhoon. This lady, Miss Iris Deane, and I were flung ashore."

"Miss Deane! Can it be possible? Let me congratulate you most heartily. Sir Arthur Deane is on board the Orient at this moment."

"The Orient?"

Iris was dazed. It was all too wonderful to be quite understood yet. She turned to Robert:

"Do you hear? They say my father is not far away. Take me to him."

"No need for that, miss," interrupted a warrant officer. "Here he is coming ashore. He wanted to come with us, but the captain would not permit it. He seemed to be some trouble."

Sure enough, even the girl's swimming eyes could distinguish the gray bearded civilian seated beside an officer in the blue saffron of a S'atir, now threading a path through the broken reef beyond Turtle beach. In a few minutes father and daughter would meet.

Meanwhile the officer, intent on duty, addressed Jenks again:

"My name is Anstruther—Robert Anstruther."

Mir Jan, clinging to his arm, heard the name.

So he had abandoned all pretense of being ready to face the world at her side. She stole a loving glance at him as he cried:

"Captain Anstruther of the Indian navy, sahib. If he will not tell me that he has come, how he has come, I shall never know. How he has come, I shall never know."

"Captain Anstruther does not appear to have any idea of the us to do, Miss Deane," the officer said. "Indeed, he is waiting for you."

"Is there any way in which my men will be useful?"

"I would recommend that they drag the great stuff of that fire and stop the smoke. Then a detachment should surround the north side of the island and drive the remaining Dyaks into the hands of the party you have landed."

"I understand, at the farther end of the south beach, Mir Jan, the Mohammedan, who has been a most faithful ally during part of our siege, will act as guide."

The other man cast a comprehensive glance over the rock, with its scaling ladders and dangling rope ladder, the cave, the little groups of dead or unconscious pirates for every wounded man who could move a limb had crawled away after the first shell burst and drew a deep breath.

"How long were you up there?" he asked.

"Over thirty hours."

"It was a great fight!"

"Somewhat worse than it looks," said Anstruther. "This is only the end of it. Altogether we have accounted for nearly two score of the poor devils."

Robert looked toward the approaching boat. She would not land yet for a couple of minutes.

"By the way," he said, "will you tell me your name?"

"Playdon—Lieutenant Philip H. Playdon."

"Do you know to what nation this island belongs?"

"It is no man's land, I think. It is marked 'uninhabited' on the chart."

"Then," said Anstruther, "I call upon you, Lieutenant Playdon, and all others here present to witness that I, Robert Anstruther, late of the Indian army, acting on behalf of myself and Miss Iris Deane, declare that we have taken possession of this island in the name of his Britannic majesty the king of England, that we are the joint occupants and owners thereof and claim all property rights vested therein."

These formal phrases, coming at such a moment, amazed Iris. Her father alone had an inkling of the underlying motive.

"I don't suppose any one will dispute your title," said the naval officer gravely. He unquestionably imagined that suffering and exposure had slightly disturbed the other man's senses.

"Thank you," replied Robert with equal composure, though he felt inclined to laugh at Playdon's mystification. "I only wished to secure a sufficient number of witnesses for a verbal declaration. When I have a few minutes to spare I will affix a legal notice on the wall in front of our cave."

Playdon bowed silently. There was something in the speaker's manner that puzzled him. He detailed a small guard to accompany Robert and Iris, who now walked toward the beach, and asked Mir Jan to pilot him as suggested by Anstruther.

The boat was yet many yards from shore when Iris ran forward and stretched out her arms to the man who was staring at her with wistful despair.

"Father! Father!" she cried. "Don't you know me?"

Sir Arthur Deane was looking at the two strange figures on the sands, and each moment his heart sank lower. This island held his final hope. During many weary weeks, since the day when a kindly admiral placed the cruiser Orient at his disposal, he had scoured the China sea, the coasts of Borneo and Java for some tidings of the ill-fated Sirdar.

To examine every sand patch and tree covered shoal in the China sea was an impossible task. All the Orient could do was to visit the principal islands and institute inquiries among the fishermen and small traders. At last, the previous night, a Malay, tempted by hope of reward, boarded the vessel when lying at anchor off the large island away to the south and told the captain a wondrous tale of a devil haunted place inhabited by two white spirits, a male and a female, whither a local pirate named Taung S'All had gone by chance with his men and suffered great loss. But Taung S'All was bewitched by the female spirit and had returned there with a great force, swearing to capture her or perish. The spirits, the Malay said, had dwelt upon the island for many years. His father and grandfather knew the place and feared it. Taung S'All would never be seen again.

This queer yarn was the first indication they received of the whereabouts of any persons who might possibly be shipwrecked Europeans, though not survivors from the Sirdar. Anyhow, the tiny dot lay in the vessel's northward track, so a course was set to arrive off the island soon after dawn.

Events on shore, as seen by the officer on watch, told their own tale. Wherever Dyaks are fighting there is mischief on foot, so the Orient took a hand in the proceedings.

But Sir Arthur Deane, after an agonized scrutiny of the weird looking persons escorted by the sailors to the water's edge, sadly acknowledged that neither of these could be the creature whom he sought. He bowed his head in humble resignation, and he thought of the victim of a cruel hallucination when Iris' tremulous accents reached his ears.

"Don't you know me?" he asked, amazed and trembling.

"Father, dear, it's I, your own daughter, given back to you."

There had some difficulty to keep him in the boat, and the man pulling stroke smashed a stout oar with the next wrench.

And so they met at last, and the sailors left them alone to crowd round Anstruther and ply him with a hundred questions. Although he fell in with their humor and gradually pieced together the stirring story which was supplemented each instant by the arrival of disconsolate Dyaks and the comments of the men who returned from cave and beach, his soul was filled with the sight of Iris and her father and the happy, inconsequent demands with which each sought to ascertain and relieve the extent of the other's anxiety.

Then Iris called to him: "Robert, I want you."

The use of his Christian name created something akin to a sensation. Sir Arthur Deane was startled, even in his unaccustomed delight at finding his child uninjured, the picture of rude health and happiness.

Anstruther advanced. "This is my father," she cried, shrill with joy. "And, father, darling, this will result in complications of the gravest character. Death not infrequently ensues as the penalty for thinking that the trouble will correct itself and disappear unaided."

It was no time for questioning. Sir Arthur Deane took off his hat and held out his hand.

"Captain Anstruther," he said, "as I owe you my daughter's life I owe you that which I can never repay. And owe you my own life, too, for I could not have survived the knowledge that she was dead."

Robert took the proffered hand.

"I think, Sir Arthur, that of the two I am the more deeply indebted. There are some privileges whose value cannot be measured, and among them the privilege of restoring your daughter to your arms takes the highest place."

Then he turned to Iris.

"I think," he said, "that your father should take you on board the Orient. Iris, there you may perhaps find some suitable clothing, eat something and recover from the exciting events of the morning. Afterward you must bring Sir Arthur ashore again, and we will guide him over the island. I am sure you will find much to tell him meanwhile."

The baronet could not fail to note the manner in which these two addressed each other, the fearless love which leaped from eye to eye, the calm acceptance of a relationship not to be questioned or gainsaid. Robert and Iris, without spoken word on the subject, had tacitly agreed to avoid the slightest semblance of subterfuge as unworthy alike of their achievements and their love.

"Your suggestion is admirable," cried Sir Arthur. "The ship's stores may provide Iris with some sort of rig-out, and an old friend of hers is on board at this moment, little expecting her presence. Lord Ventnor has accompanied me in my search. He will, of course, be delighted."

Anstruther flushed a deep bronze, but Iris broke in:

"Father, why did he come with you?"

Sir Arthur, driven into this sudden squall of explanation, became dignified.

"Well, you see, my dear, under the circumstances he felt an anxiety almost commensurate with my own."

"But why, why?"

Iris was quite calm. With Robert near, she was courageous. Even the perturbed baronet experienced a new sensation as his troubled glance fell before her searching eyes. His daughter had left him a joyous, headless girl. He found her a woman, strong, self-reliant, purposeful. Yet he kept on choosing the most straightforward means as the only honorable way of clearing a course so beset with unsuspected obstacles.

"It is only reasonable, Iris, that your affianced husband should suffer an agony of apprehension on your account and do all that was possible to effect your rescue."

"My affianced—husband?"

"Well, my dear girl, perhaps that is hardly the correct phrase from your point of view. Yet you cannot fail to remember that Lord Ventnor—

"Father, dear," said Iris solemnly, but in a voice free from all uncertainty, "my affianced husband stands here. We plighted our troth at the very gate of death. It was ratified in the presence of God and has been blessed by him. I have made no compact with Lord Ventnor. He is a base and unworthy man. Did you but know the truth concerning him you would not reproach his name in the same breath with mine. Would he, Robert?"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Two retirements from the president's cabinet are slated for this winter. They are those of Attorney General Moody, whose resignation will be made effective about the first of December, and that of Secretary of the Treasury, Shaw, who, according to present intentions, will retire in February.

GEORGE V. L. MEYER

For one of the vacancies to be created the president will nominate George V. L. Meyer, American ambassador to Russia, but for the other he is not yet ready to announce a successor.

President Roosevelt has sought to prevail on Attorney General Moody to remain in the cabinet, but the latter, because of business arrangements he has made, has found it impossible to do so. He would also like to have Secretary Comptroller take Mr. Moody's place when he retires, but the former prefers to remain in the lead of the navy department with whose workings he has become thoroughly familiar.

The president will not make a reappointment to fill the vacancy on the bench of the supreme court of the United States until the transferring of congress in December. Secretary Taft has been offered the position and has the question of accepting or declining it under consideration.

The president has stated that he would gladly appoint Attorney General Moody, who is soon to retire from the cabinet, to the vacancy, but realizes that objection would follow because Massachusetts is already represented on the supreme bench in the person of Justice Holmes.

Turkish doctors do not expect the sultan will live more than six months. The Constantinople cor-quoted as stating that in diplomatic circles the sultan's condition is regrowth having developed.

DECREASE DIVIDED.

A FALLING OFF IN THE FIGURES OF REGISTRATION.

The Books Show 503 Democrats,
500 Republicans and 188 Independents in the City.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

The registration yesterday showed a falling off from that of 1905, only 1,317 voters registering in the city yesterday, against 1,720 last year.
This decrease is about evenly divided. As is usually the case a number of those who registered did not state their party affiliations and were classed with the Independents.
Democrats who failed to register will be disqualified from voting in the primary which is to be held at the same time with the general election next month unless they can show sufficient cause for their failure to do so and are thereby permitted to register on the supplementary days. The figures are as follows:

	Dem	Rep	Ind
Hopkinsville No. 1.	82	139	49
" No. 2.	43	221	39

No. 3.	345	60	0
No. 4.	91	98	74
No. 5.	102	78	10

Total 503 500 188

Three of the seven precincts in the county, in which registration books also had to be opened yesterday, were not reported in time for this issue of the New Era. Those precincts are for the other incorporated towns of the county, i. e., Gracely, Lafayette, Crofton and Pembroke.
