TOOK THREE MINUTES TO REACH VERDICT

JURY DECLARES AMOS HAYDON NOT GUILTY OF SHOOTING AND KILLING JOHNNY COLEMAN

Applause in Courtroom Greeted the Announcement.—Decision Had Been Expected By Those Who Heard The Evidence.—Brief History of The Case.

(From Thursday's Daily)

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Amos Haydon, not guilty as charged in the indictment."

This was the verdict which was returned by the jury yesterday afternoon a few minutes after four o'clock and only three minutes after they had entered their room. The courtroom was filled with people and before the clerk finished reading the verdict entirely the crowd began to applaud, so popular was the decision. Judge Cook very promptly put a stop to the demonstration.

The speeches yesterday occupied the entire day, and the argument was closed in the afternoon by Judge Benthitt for the defense and Commonwealth's Attorney Smith. The prosecution introduced strong evidence, but long before the testimony of the defense was completed public opinion had decided in favor of Mr. Haydon and his innocence was clearly established by the numerous witnesses who testified in his behalf.

In his dying statement Johnnie Coleman, the negro boy who was shot and killed, charged Policeman Haydon, who was chasing the boy at the time, with having fired the fatal shot. The tendency of people to see things differently was never better shown than in this case. The boy with the officer in pursuit passed through the heart of the crowd which had assembled on the carnival grounds that night, and after reaching the lower side of the grounds the negro passed between the incline down which the bicyclist leaped the gap and the pavilion occupied by Maud, the Fish Woman, and turned to his right around the rear of the Maud pavilion. Officer Haydon followed in exactly this track and as he got near the bicycle incline he stopped running and fired two shots into the air as he walked along. Just after his second shot was fired a third shot rang out and the boy fell mortally wounded.

The prosecution introduced witnesses who testified that Officer Haydon fired the first two shots as he described but that he also fired the third shot. On the other hand the defense introduced twenty-five or thirty people, who were eye witnesses to the shooting, and who stated just as positively that Haydon only fired two shots, and both of these into the air, and that the third and fatal shot came from the west side of the Maud pavilion and several feet to his right, it thus being impossible for him to have fired it. This testimony was given in such a straightforward and convincing manner that the public generally had made up its mind even before the speeches were begun, and it took the jury only a moment to arrive at a verdict.

The killing occurred on the night of June 1, and for several days thereafter Mr. Haydon remained on the police force, but when the indictment was returned charging him with voluntary manslaughter, he was laid off. One of the witnesses to the shooting was Mr. L. L. Leavell and when the question of Haydon's bond came up Mr. Leavell, who was barely acquainted with the young man, promptly signed the paper together with Herbert Haydon, a brother of the accused. These two remained on the bond during the trial also and the young man was never put in jail.

The case of Joe Springfield, colored, charged with shooting and wounding E. J. Dougherty one night last spring when the latter, in company with Policeman Amos Haydon, went to the house of Chas. Layne, in search of Wallace Layne, was wanted for an assault with intent to kill, was called this morning in circuit court and trial begun. The prosecution is represented by Commonwealth's Attorney Smith and County Attorney Duffy and the defense by John Feland and South, all & Son.

The case was finished this afternoon with speeches by Herman Southall for the defense and County Attorney Duffy for the prosecution. After deliberating for about forty minutes the jury returned a verdict acquitting Springfield.

ANOTHER BIG SALE

Dark Tobacco Association Disposes of 1,035 Hogheads to Italian Government.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Local salesman T. R. McMurray, of the Dark Tobacco Growers' association has announced that the association has just completed a sale of 1,035 hogheads of tobacco at this place to the Italian Regies at prices ranging from $7.50 to $12 per hundred. This is a considerable advance over the price of tobacco received from the same buyers' last year, and almost cleans up the stock of the association at this place, less than 200 hogheads remaining on hand.

PLEASES PEOPLE

CARNIVAL DRAWS WELL DESPITE BAD WEATHER

All the Attractions Are Interesting And New Ones Have Just Been Opened.

The weather did its best to keep people away from the carnival last night but failed utterly in the attempt, for a good crowd was again out to take in the shows.

On account of the slippery condition of the incline, down which he leaped the gap, Harry Breton did not attempt this great feat last night, much to the disappointment of those who had gathered to witness it. At the first attempt of this feat Tuesday afternoon, the automobile just barely cleared the gap and landed on the opposite platform, which, if it had missed, would have probably hurled the daring chauffeur, into eternity.

The other free acts were given in their entirety and greatly pleased the crowd which had assembled.

The shows, with the addition of others since Tuesday night, were all running in full blast last night and did a nice business. The Coliseum is an especially worthy attraction and the Electric Theatre, the Old Plantation and other shows are all good.

Lebkuecher's band is furnishing the music and their concerts and airs played with the shows are an especially pleasing feature of the carnival.

The Old Plantation came in strongly for their share of patronage. A better and more pleasing array of singers, dancers and comedians have never appeared in carnival here.

The great Edison electric show did a good business and every one was well pleased with the entertainment that was given.

The largest show is the Mammoth Coliseum and Stadium of Wonders. It is the largest show of the kind ever brought to Hopkinsville. Every act is a feature. Only two performances a day are given, afternoon and evening. The program follows:

Madam Emma Cottrell, direct from the winter garden of Berlin in Hoop Rolling and Juggling, never before thought of by juggler in this country.

Baby Ida, child wonder, who claims the hearts of all who attend, with her beautiful voice and acrobatic dancing.

Darney's trio, the fashion plate acrobats and contortionists, very clever and came in for their share of honors.

Boytan's big dog circus and canine vaudeville. This attraction created an uproar of laughter and amazement, for no one thought that dogs could be trained to perform as they do. The boxing dogs are something new, as is also the serpentine dancing dog.

NOTICE.

Do you think of marrying any time soon? LISTEN: I will give absolutely free $10 worth of goods to any couple, white or colored, who will come to my store and marry in the presence of the people that I will invite for the occasion.

All that I will ask you to do is to notify me ten days before the time for your marriage that I may have everything in readiness, and I will give to the preacher saying the ceremony a pair of the American gentleman shoes. This offer is good for thirty days, so if you expect to marry you had better apply at once as some one may get ahead of you.

DEATH SENTENCE

AFFIRMED IN CASE AGAINST GUY LYON.

Convicted of Criminal Assault in Logan County—No Errors in Trial.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 18.—In the court of appeals a judgment of the Logan circuit court sentencing Guy Lyon, convicted of criminal assault on Mary Gladler, to be hanged for his crime, was affirmed. Judge Nunn delivered the opinion of the court. Upon the overruling of the appeals for rehearing in this case and that of W. R. Fletcher, another of the condemned men, the mandates of the court will go from the clerk's office to the executive department and the governor will fix a day for the execution of both prisoners.

The condemned man, Lyon, whose appeal was passed upon was indicted, charged together with Jim Lyon, W. R. Fletcher and John Saera, with having, on May 22, 1905, committed criminal assault upon Mary Gladler. On appeal of the case of Guy Lyon to the court here, reversal was prayed because the trial judge refused to grant a change of venue; refused to quash the indictment, and because of alleged incompetent evidence and errors in instructions to the jury. Reviewing the grounds urged, the court here, in concluding its opinion, says no error prejudicial to the accused was committed in the trial court.

Lyon is said to be Guy Reynolds, who figured conspicuously in the Empire murder trials in the Christian circuit court. At the time of his trial at Russellville, he was guarded by Co. D., of Hopkinsville.

TOM ENNIS HURT.

Fell From Building in Americus, Ga. and Broke Leg.

A telegram to W. D. Ennis states that his son, Thos. H. Ennis, former manager of Holland's opera house, is in a hospital at Americus, Ga., with a broken leg. Mr. Ennis, while lettering a business sign, fell from a building and his leg was broken in two places. His wife is with him. Mr. Ennis' many friends will be glad to know that his condition is not serious.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Brought Against Attendants at Eastern Kentucky Asylum.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 18.—A. D. Johnson, of Athol, Ky., testified before the Fayette grand jury today that his brother, Whiteley Johnson, who died last August in Eastern Kentucky Asylum for the Insane, was practically murdered, and that four attendants were involved in the deed. He says, the body of his brother showed terrible mistreatment.

DOWIE'S RUIN DUE TO "QUEEN OF ZION"

MRS. JANE DOWIE.

OVERSEER VOLIVA BLAMES THE "PROPHET'S" WIFE

Worked the Old Man For $69,000 In Nine Months and Left Him In Downfall.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Overseer Voliva, of Zion City, denounces Alexander Dowie. He says: "Dowie's wife was his ruin. She got $69,000 out of him in nine months. He made her an elder and later an overseer, against the laws of the church."

Dowie is too ill to hold meetings. Mrs. Dowie is much younger than her husband. She is his cousin and was the daughter of an humble tanner and cobbler. About three years ago she was crowned "Queen of Zion" in the Chicago auditorium, and wore a coronation robe that cost $1,000. She recently turned against her husband and told tales of his mistreatment of her.

PACKED WITH FACTS BROKE IN THE DOOR

IS THE NEW DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN BOOK.

Logical Exposition of the Party's Principles Set Forth—Matters of Interest.

The Democratic congressional committee issued from its headquarters the campaign text book for the 1936 congressional campaign. The book should be in the hands of every Democratic voter in the country. It is a splendid exposition of the issues in the present campaign; it states the Democratic position fairly and squarely on every question before the country, and it is a terrific indictment of the Republican administration's misdeeds and shortcomings.

Naturally, the campaign book devotes most of its space and makes the leading issue that of the tariff. The subject is handled exhaustively and the iniquity of the present system fully exposed. The book goes extensively into the tariffs, beginning with the first administration and concluding with enactment of the Dingley law.

Taking up President Roosevelt's position on the question it is declared "that he is hostile to the labor element. He has expressed it in his books, in his official utterances and by his acts."

It is stated that he regards representatives of labor unions as members of the "tragic gallery," "black, oily fellows," "bulls of Basin," "lazy, selfish, brutal, violent, murderers," "a mob."

Returning to the subject of tariff, the book asserts that President Roosevelt at various times in his career has been a free trader, a tariff reformer and a standpater, and that he "may lead a movement for tariff revision in 1938" and then it has this to say:

"Mr. Roosevelt has written nothing distinctly and unequivocally stating his position since he withdrew from the free trade club, but it has been given out at Oyster Bay this summer that he is fully in accord with the views of Speaker Cannon and Mr. Sherman."

Under the caption "The motive behind the big stick," it is charged that President Roosevelt favors big corporations in Porto Rico and the Philippines and that he would make laws advantageous for them; that he wants a big military and naval force, to include subsidized merchant marine, and that he has perverted the Monroe doctrine in the interest of the asphalt trust in Venezuela. It is stated that not until he found it necessary to win the Democratic support for his policy of imperialism, did he ever say a word in praise of any Democratic statesman or Democratic achievement. Quotations follow from some of the president's books, referring to alleged libellous and scandalous terms to Jefferson, Madison, Danton and others.

The charge is then made that "the president favors certain railroads and accepts gifts from them, violates the interstate commerce law, demands and receives money in favored banks, without interest, diverts funds appropriated for one purpose to another, allows public money to pay for literary bureau to boom his policy."

WITH AX AND RESCUED LITTLE NEGROES FROM FLAMES.

Mrs. Petsch's Brave Act—Parents of Children Had Locked Them in the Cabin.

A cabin on the farm of Richard Petsch, five miles west of the city on the Cadiz pike, was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. Two little negro children were rescued from the flames by Mrs. Petsch.

Tom Arbuckle, col., and his wife who lived in the cabin had gone away from home and left their children, aged three and four respectively, locked in doors.

Mrs. Petsch saw from her residence that the cabin was on fire and hastened to it. She heard the screams of the children and, on trying the door, found it locked. There were no men on the place, and Mrs. Petsch, securing an ax, broke down the door and brought out the children in safety.

The cabin was too far gone for any of the contents to be saved. The origin of the fire is not known.

COL. GEORGE EDGAR

DELIVERS ADDRESS AT MEETING OF THE U. D. C.

Tells Interesting Stories of War Times.—Plans For Holiday Art Shop About Completed.

The feature of the October meeting of the Christian county chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which was held Saturday at Hotel Latham, was an address by Col. George Edgar, of Lexington, who is visiting relatives and friends in the city.

Col. Edgar was a gallant and courageous Confederate soldier and rendered valuable service to the Southern cause. He told of many interesting war episodes, with special reference to incidents in the careers of President Jefferson Davis and Gen. Robert E. Lee. His remarks were heard with close attention, and he was cordially thanked by the daughters for his delightful contribution to the monthly program.

The chapter has practically completed plans for the "Art Shop" which will be conducted under its auspices for four days of the first week in December. Booths in the shop will be opened by the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Young Woman's Missionary society of the Baptist church, the ladies of the Episcopal church, the Young Ladies' society of the Methodist church and by the Christian County Chapter, U. D. C. The enterprise promises to prove a success in every respect.

To Whom It May Concern.

This is to say that I have received a draft from the Maryland Casualty Co. in settlement of claim for disability due to appendicitis contracted four days after the issuance of policy.

The claim was settled within four days of receipt of the papers and their promptness does great credit to the company.

Both the company and their agent Mrs. Sallie McD. Richard, have my thanks for their prompt and full settlement.

J. HENRY BAYNHAM.

Mr. Cannon Preached.

The Rev. S. J. Cannon, of Elkton, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. He delivered two strong and impressive discourses, and was heard by large congregations. Mr. Cannon recently aided the Rev. J. A. Kirtley in a series of successful revival services at South Union church.

WRECK ON TRESTLE

SEVENTEEN CARS SMASHED AND TRACK TORN UP.

Two Hoboes Were Probably Fatally Injured.—Traffic Was Greatly Delayed on This Division.

A wreck at an early hour Saturday morning of a Louisville and Nashville freight train shortly after crossing the Henderson bridge was caused by a broken flange. Seventeen cars were wrecked. About 400 feet of track and trestle were torn to pieces. At the point of the accident the trestle was about 75 feet high. The train was a long one. None of the crew was hurt but two unknown men, supposed to be tramps, were rescued from the debris. Both are terribly injured and it is believed that neither can recover. Five hundred workmen were at the scene of the wreck early Saturday and it took them until Sunday to repair the damage sufficiently to allow traffic to resume. In the meantime passengers were handled between Henderson and Evansville by boat.

No false pretense has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. No idle promises of reward for cases it will not cure. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like catarrh shufflers and powders, for minds shattered by cocaine. The great positive virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it speedily and completely cures nasal catarrh and hay fever. Back of this statement is the testimony of thousands and a reputation of many years' success. All druggists, 50c, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street New York.

STAR WORK IS DONE

BUT CASTLE HEIGHTS HAD LONGER PRACTICE.

LEBANON, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Castle Heights played South Kentucky College of Hopkinsville, Ky., yesterday and defeated the visitors 22 to 0.

The locals worked trick plays, the forward pass, end runs and line backs effectively. The back field was shoved over the line a number of times for good gains. The visitors lacked training.

Phillips, Peach and Cutchens did the star work, each putting up a great article both on the defensive and offensive. Castle Heights has a strong eleven this year.

DO NOT WANT CUBA

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 10.—It is not the purpose of President Roosevelt to have Cuba annexed.

Some confusion has resulted from the annexation utterances of Senators Beveridge and Hemenway, of Indiana. Some people knowing the intimate relations between President Roosevelt and Senator Beveridge, jumped to the conclusion that the Indiana Senator was talking for the White House.

Roosevelt is anxious that the good faith of the United States in its treatment of Cuba should not be opened to question, as there is more involved than merely our relations with this small island. Our relations, commercial and diplomatic, with the entire continent of South America are involved.

The South American countries have found much in recent history to feed their suspicions and distrust. All these things served to convince the republics to the south of us that Uncle Sam awaited only the opportunity to gobble all the land on the continent.

The United States has no such intentions. We would not accept South America as a gift. All we want is South American good will and trade. This we want very much and are willing to make considerable advances to secure them.

It has been one of President Roosevelt's pet ambitions to bring about better relations with South America. The outbreak in Cuba came at a particularly inopportune time. From the very first Roosevelt saw how chance seemed likely to undo in a day what he was striving continuously to bring about.

The appointment of Magoon is without particular significance. Taft is too busy to remain indefinitely in Havana, and it is quite certain that weeks and perhaps months will be required to pacify the island.

The whole Cuban matter will be discussed in the president's message to congress.

Disorder is Necessary.

If you will turn to my text and read it carefully, as the inspired penman meant it to be read, you will find that the thought which I am enunciating King Solomon taught in his book of Proverbs thousands of years ago. He goes out one morning, when the cleaning farmer enters the barn, crying the oxen clean and dirty. The straw is upon which the oxen step as all matted up and must be raked out into the barnyard and the stall cleaned. The chickens have flown into the hayrack and scattered the hay. The grain bags have been broken open by the mice. The manger itself is in a fearful state. The oxen are nosing for their food have scattered it every where. "Oh, dear," exclaims the farmer, "just look at this barn and this manger!" He has a man with a pitchfork work clean, clean, clean. I never thus fixing up the barn one day, get it ready to go to work and fix it all up again the next." "The true that what you say is bad," answers the wisest of all men. "But, farmer, remember that you cannot have tidiness and cleanliness; you have oxen, and if you did not have any oxen you could not plow your fields; you could not sow your grain and could not receive the harvest and return to your lands." Thus King Solomon says to us today: "Friend, sometimes it is best to have disorder. Sometimes it is best to have an upheaval. Where the oxen are, the crib is clean; but the disorder you deplore and the increase of property you rejoice in are inseparable from the presence of the ox, and you cannot have one without the other."

A valuable and almost every day thought for practical lesson, and a warning to the disorders of the natural world. Some people, if they could have the way, would never have a rainstor

But we can have "a stagnating cosmos" in our mental life as well as in our physical or lower entities. The man who physically basks under the summer sun, who never wishes to do any manual labor, who always sits down in preference to standing up, who rides instead of walks; the man who never takes any more active exercise than walking upstairs to his bed and who never feels the exhilaration of a pedestrian expanding his chest against the heating winds, either becomes physically degenerate or is foolishly signing his own death warrant. On the

It is only the ignorant, the stupid, the foolish, the stagnating mind, that is satisfied with its present condition. Progress is not like a swamp, a fetid air and surface of slime. The everything is still and quiet. True mental progress is like the commotion and disordered waters of a brook. Then the waters are pure and sweet, because one moment they are tumbling over a cascade, the next they are before descending from again some low boulder, and the next they are as a waterfall leaping over some cliff. They are never still. They are always moving, always readjusting themselves to new conditions.

As I note the restless commotions of the individual mind, so I note also the to God. Oh, I thank Jesus today that you are worried. I thank God that your theological crib is disordered. You are miserable; you are distressed; you are anxious, but this is well. It is out of such distress that you come to a new rest and a new contentment. When a man is content with himself, when he is indifferent and untroble, that is when the crib is clean. The way to happiness is through the turmoil that is hard to bear while it lasts; but afterward brings the peaceful fruit of righteousness. No "stagnant, dead spiritual cosmos" is yours. Reach on. In thy darkness keep on stumbling. Pray. Diligently search the Scriptures. Keep on. Keep on.

THE more business we do the more we want to do. I have the best business that any machine shop has had heretofore in Hopkinsville. But it only makes me hungry for more.

I want to call your attention to the fact that we have the most up-to-date machine shop this side of Louisville. I have just added to my shop a milling machine, which has been such a necessity for several years, and is the first that was ever in use in Hopkinsville.

It is my intention to add more machinery from time to time, if you will only assist me by giving me your trade for steam and gasoline engines of all sizes, saw mills, saws, shafting, hangers, pulleys, belting, pipe, fitting, valves, oil, injectors, pumps, flue cleaners and packing.

Please give me a call and if you will do business with me you will always be my customer.

GREAT CROWD HEARS SENATOR M'CREARY

KENTUCKY "MACHINE," HE SAYS, ONLY ONE IN AMERICA BAD ENOUGH TO MAKE POLITICAL USE OF ASYLUMS FOR THE INSANE

Gov. Beckham's Present Attitude on Temperance Question, He Asserts, is a Pose.—Discusses State and National Issues at Length.—Frequently Interrupted by Applause.

Senator James B. McCreary spoke to an immense audience at the tabernacle Friday afternoon in the interest of his candidacy for the nomination for re-election to the United States senate. On the front seats of the vast auditorium were the Confederate veterans who had greeted their old comrade on his arrival and acted as his escort to the hotel, and in a reserved section a large delegation of the Daughters of the Confederacy were seated, while a great many ladies were scattered through the crowd. Democratic voters were out in large numbers and many citizens were present to hear the speech of the distinguished statesman. Lebkuecher's brass band discoursed sweet music while the audience was assembling. Senator McCreary was introduced by Joseph E. Moseley who paid a glowing tribute to his fidelity as a Democrat and his efficiency as a public servant.

With Close Attention.

The senator's speech was a masterly effort, dignified, able and effective. He spoke for two solid hours and was heard with unwavering attention and was frequently interrupted by applause. He was glad, he said, to meet the splendid assemblage of true Kentuckians whose honesty, patriotism, intelligence and democracy help to maintain popular government and preserve unsullied the liberty and independence guaranteed by the constitution. Specially was he honored by the presence of so many ladies who graced and beautified the occasion and whose attractions spoke louder than words of the majesty and influence of woman's loveliness.

The Democratic party, he said, was greater than any man or any faction; too great, too grand, too just, too necessary for the public welfare and too glorious in history to be injured by the greed of individual ambition or divided by hostile or discordant elements.

The senator said that the Republican party was more disorganized and divided than it has been before in many years, and he predicted the election of William Jennings Bryan, the apostle of Democracy, as the next president of the United States.

Wave of Reform.

He told of the wave of reform that was sweeping away bossism and machine rule, whether Republican or Democratic, and pointed to elections in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Maryland and Missouri to bear out the statement. He prayed God that the "machine" in Kentucky would not drive this state into Republicanism. He believed that the "machine" would be destroyed Nov. 6. Christian county, said the speaker, has a terrible machine, one that tries to dictate the politics of the Democrats generally and gives the patronage of the asylum only to those persons who declare allegiance to it. Corruption and graft had been charged against political "machines" in other states, but none other was known to be bad enough to use charitable institutions to further political ends. Until Beckham's administration, local boards of commissioners had supervision of the various asylums of the state, patriotic citizens who served without pay, and the asylums were kept free from politics. Now it was different, and the charitable institutions were used as engines to furnish the "machine" with power.

Haly and Board.

He told of the bill abolishing the commissioners and creating the state board of control, centralizing authority, and giving the governor's favorites, Percy Haly and Dr. Board, who never before in all their lives had handled as much as $5,000, salaries of $2,500 a year each, and the distribution of $700,000 annually of the people's money. Senator McCreary said he was informed that from 20 to 30 men on the pay rolls of the Western asylum were going around the county trying to organize it for Beckham. The speaker said it cost twice as much to run the asylums now that they were a part of the political machine, as it did in any other Democratic administration. In 1892-1893, the entire expenses of the asylums amounted to $291,000; now they cost, under Gov. Beckham, $556,000 a year. The annual cost when Gov. Brown was in office to conduct the Western asylum was $77,000; now it takes 2 02,637, or three times as much

Senator McCreary said that when he was governor if a superintendent he had appointed had neglected his duties for politics he would have promptly removed him from office. Mr. McCreary had a list of salaries of offices which were increased at the last session of the legislature, and approved by Gov. Beckham, and the increase amounts to $50,800 a year for the taxpayers to pay. There was, he said, a wild orgy of money-raising in order to replace the money spent from the treasury, that twice as much money was required for state purposes now than during any previous Democratic administration. Twenty-three new offices had been created, and every one was filled by a Beckham follower. He discussed the new revenue law which placed a tax on nearly every vocation and form of labor, and said that Kentuckians would soon feel the burden of it.

His Record in Congress.

"Gov. Beckham," said the speaker, "asked from this platform, 'What has McCreary done in the senate of the United States?' I say here that during the twelve years in the lower house I was in my seat all the time and I passed as many local and national bills as any representative from the south. One of the bills I introduced was to establish a land court to drive out the pirates who were stealing millions of acres of land in the west.

"I proposed the Pan-American conference to which delegates could be sent from all the Americas. The bill passed and today our trade with the South and Central Americas has quadrupled.

"There was no secretary of agriculture when I went to congress.

"I introduced that bill and my bill substantially became a law. I offered a bill to make farming implements, farming machinery and machinery and machine tools free, and in the Mills bill these were made free. The house passed the bill, but the senate refused.

"I have been in the senate now but three years and there is a movement here in Kentucky to discredit me. If I am defeated I go back to Washington discredited. I want three years of usefulness there.

"He said I had organized the liquor element and expected to receive their support. I denounce that as absolutely and unequivocally untrue. That's the politest form of denial I can use. He knew better. I traveled three long months with him and often slept with him. He knew my habits and I knew his (great laughter and applause).

"I have never received support from the whiskey interests in any campaign. I have asked the governor if he has received aid from the whiskey elements in any of his campaigns and he has never answered the question. Governor Beckham, when a candidate for governor, courted their support and received it. That 35,000 majority of his was much of from this element.

Gov. Beckham's Pose.

He reiterated that Governor Beckham's attitude on the question was a pose, that he was a champion of open saloons on Sunday for six years, and had advocated Sunday closing only since he began his campaign for United States senator.

If the governor were sincere in his temperance protestations, asked Mr. McCreary, why had he not voted and used his great influence in the recent liquor election in Nelson county? He did not vote, and Nelson was the only county carried by the whiskey interests in the numerous elections recently held under the county unit law. The speaker read Senator Farris' letter charging Beckham with insincerity, and also a part of Rev. E. L. Powell's sermon in which he stated "the lid" was not really on in Louisville.

Had it to Do.

Senator McCreary apologized for appearing before the people asking for an office that he cannot occupy for nearly three years, but said that a machine ridden Democratic committee had so ordered and he must either make the canvass or retire from the race. Senator McCreary stated that if Gov. Beckham received the nomination he would be the youngest man that ever went to the United States senate from any state and humorously added that if he should be elected he would be in a class by himself, being too young for playmate for any other senator.

The speaker digressed long enough to pay to the old soldiers' present one of the most beautiful and feeling tributes to their manhood, gallantry and achievements ever heard here.

Senator McCreary, on behalf of the Democrats of Kentucky, resented the assertion made in Hopkinsville by Gov. Beckham that if he had enough offices at his disposal he could, by giving one to each of the men fighting "the machine," have them all shouting his praises. "If I believed that," said the speaker, "I would lose all respect for, and faith in human nature." He said Democrats were not to be bribed or bought and that the Democratic party was the unpurchasable party of America.

After reviewing his services in the governor's chair, in the house of representatives and in the senate, Senator McCreary took up national issues and clearly set forth the Democratic position on trusts, the tariff, and all the great questions of the day.

Concluding Remarks.

He said in conclusion: "Fellow Democrats, I have detained you much longer than I had intended, and in conclusion I desire to say, national questions were never more important than at the present time, and legislation relating to commerce, manufactures, agriculture and labor and many other subjects is pressing for consideration and solution. I believe there was never a time in our country when men of experience and training in the United States senate will be enabled to render more prompt and efficient service than at the present time.

"Kentuckians are conspicuous for their desire to be fair and just and I believe when the Democrats of Kentucky give proper consideration to the election of a United States senator, they will honor me by giving me another term in the United States senate.

"I am sincerely grateful to the Democrats who are supporting me for re-election, and I shall try to be worthy of their confidence and support. In the future as in the past, I will ever stand ready to work for the interest of the Democratic party and for Democratic principles and for the good of the whole country, and I shall ever uphold 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people'."

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Hopkinsville.

Most Hopkinsville people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting wagons or cars, doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying to get the back in a hundred and other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Hopkinsville cures prove it.

John J. Basford, cooper, of 766 E. 9th St., says: "My back used to be so lame and sore at times that when I bent it was all I could do to straighten up again. The pains were always with me and I could not stand for any length of time without feeling them. I doctored at one time but did not obtain the slightest benefit. My attention was called to an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills and I determined to try them. I got a box and after using them a few days could not help but notice a marked improvement in my condition. My hearing is better now than it has been in years. I give all the credit to Doan's Kidney Pills, and strongly recommend them to others."

For sale by all dealers, price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

COL. GEO. M. EDGAR

STONEWALL JACKSON

(From Wednesday's Daily)

Those who missed hearing Col. George M. Edgar's lecture last night at the Ninth street Presbyterian church on "Stonewall Jackson," indeed missed a treat as well as much valuable information regarding the great battles of the civil war.

Col. Edgar was a pupil in Jackson's military school during the 50's and was later in the Confederate army. He therefore is in position to depict the life and characteristics of the great soldier. The lecture, while not being so long as to tire some, gives in detail and chronological order the stupendous achievements accomplished under Jackson's leadership, from the first battle of Bull Run, in which Gen. Beauregard to him and his brigade the name of "Stonewall," to his tragic death at Chancellorsville just as he was about to launch a thunderbolt charge upon the enemy which was to be the master stroke of one of the greatest flank movements ever attempted in modern warfare.

The speaker not only showed the material benefits resulting from Jackson's victories in the prisoners captured, the stores thus secured and the armies of the enemy destroyed, but he also presented the strategical results which, if possible, were even greater than these. He stated that had Jackson's advice been followed at the first battle of Bull Run and the retreating Federals relentlessly pursued that night that the Confederate army would unquestionably have captured Washington and the war in all probability brought to a sudden close.

In closing Col. Edgar paid a most glowing tribute to Gen. Jackson's memory not only as one of the greatest generals the world has ever produced, but also as a friend, husband and father and devoted Christian gentleman.

CONSTABLE SHOOT

Prisoner as he Flees to the Woods. Hit Twice.

ELKTON, Ky., Oct. 15.—Constable Phelps, of Todd county, shot and probably fatally wounded Charlie Chattman near this place, about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon as the latter was trying to escape to the woods. Phelps had arrested Chattman on a warrant for housebreaking, and had started to Elkton with him in a buggy. While passing a skirt of woods, Chattman, who was handcuffed, jumped from the buggy and fled through the woods. Phelps shot five times, one ball striking Chattman in the shoulder, another in the back. Chattman is said to be in a dying condition.

ENOCH ARDEN CASE

REMARKABLE STORY CULMINATES IN SECOND WEDDING.

Simon Castlen, Supposed to Be Dead, Reappears After His Wife Had Re-Married.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 17.—With the marriage here of Mrs. Simon Castlen, of this city, and Edward Kelly, of Evansville, Ind., a case that rivals the Enoch Arden story of Tennyson was revealed.

It was the second marriage of the couple, made necessary by the decree of the courts. Three or four years ago there was a wreck on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad at Spottsville, Ky. The drawbridge that spans the river at Spottsville was left open and a freight train plunged into the river and four men were drowned. The bodies were recovered several days after the wreck and one of them was recognized as that of Simon Castlen. His wife looked at the remains and was sure that they were those of her husband, and the body buried as such and a monument erected over the grave inscribed as "Simon Castlen."

Time went on and Mrs. Castlen married Edward Kelly and they went to Evansville to reside. About two months ago Castlen turned up alive and said he had been in Texas for a number of years and did not know that he was mourned as dead. Mrs. Kelly, as soon as her first husband returned, came to Owensboro and instituted divorce proceedings against him. Castlen did not oppose the suit, as he realized that his wife was happy with her second husband, and this week Judge Birkhead, of the circuit court granted the divorce and tonight Kelly married the woman for the second time. Kelly and his wife will return to Evansville to reside. Castlen has not up to this time offered any reason for his strange disappearance from Owensboro. Several months ago his father died, leaving a large estate.

FINE PROMOTION.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

Shelby Peace left this morning for Springfield, Tenn., where he has been appointed resident agent for the Louisville & Nashville railroad company. The change is a pronounced promotion and carries with it an added weight of responsibility and increase in salary. The promotion is most deserved for, while Mr. Peace is young in years and has only been with the L. & N. for four years, he has been attentive to his duties and has risen through the various departments here until he reached the responsible position of local cashier. He will be succeeded as local cashier by L. S. Jackson.

PEABODY AND HINDMAN.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 17.—Before State Insurance Commissioner Prewitt, President Charles A. Peabody, of the Mutual Life Insurance company, appeared and answered charges against his administration resulting from the recent dismissal of Col. Blisco Hindman as agent for Kentucky. He defended the removal of the latter by stating that no agent could represent the company in getting new business and at the same time be hostile to its management. Col. Hindman and another deposed agent took the stand and gave the other side of the matter. Commissioner Prewitt will receive the stenographic report of the testimony, and stated that he would make a prompt announcement of his ruling in the matter.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and for acute colds and coughs, but for lunging, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hays, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Stoddard, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the best medicine for use up to date through all the above mentioned affections by such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous or harmful agents and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is unobjectionable and besides is a most useful ingredient in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

N. C. Drake and Miss Mae Thompson were quietly married last night at the home of Rev. A. P. Lyon, pastor of the Methodist church, the wedding being a complete surprise to all the friends of the contracting parties save a very few who were in the secret and accompanied them. Mr. and Mrs. Drake have taken rooms with the family of H. H. Mallory on East Seventh street. Mr. Drake is employed at the Western Kentucky Asylum for the Insane. The couple has many friends in the city who wish for them all possible happiness and prosperity.

SAM JONES FUNERAL

Will Be Held Thursday Afternoon at Cartersville, Ga.

Cartersville, Ga., Oct. 17.—Business was suspended in this city, the home of the late Rev. Sam P. Jones, when the body of the evangelist reached here. The city council and about 3,000 persons met the body at the station. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon, and the body will be taken to Atlanta, where it will lie in state in the capitol Friday. It will then be taken back to Cartersville for interment.

ONLY SQUARE DEAL

IS WANTED BY PAUL M. MOORE, OF EARLINGTON.

Believes it is His Duty to Remain on Ticket as Republican Candidate For Congress.

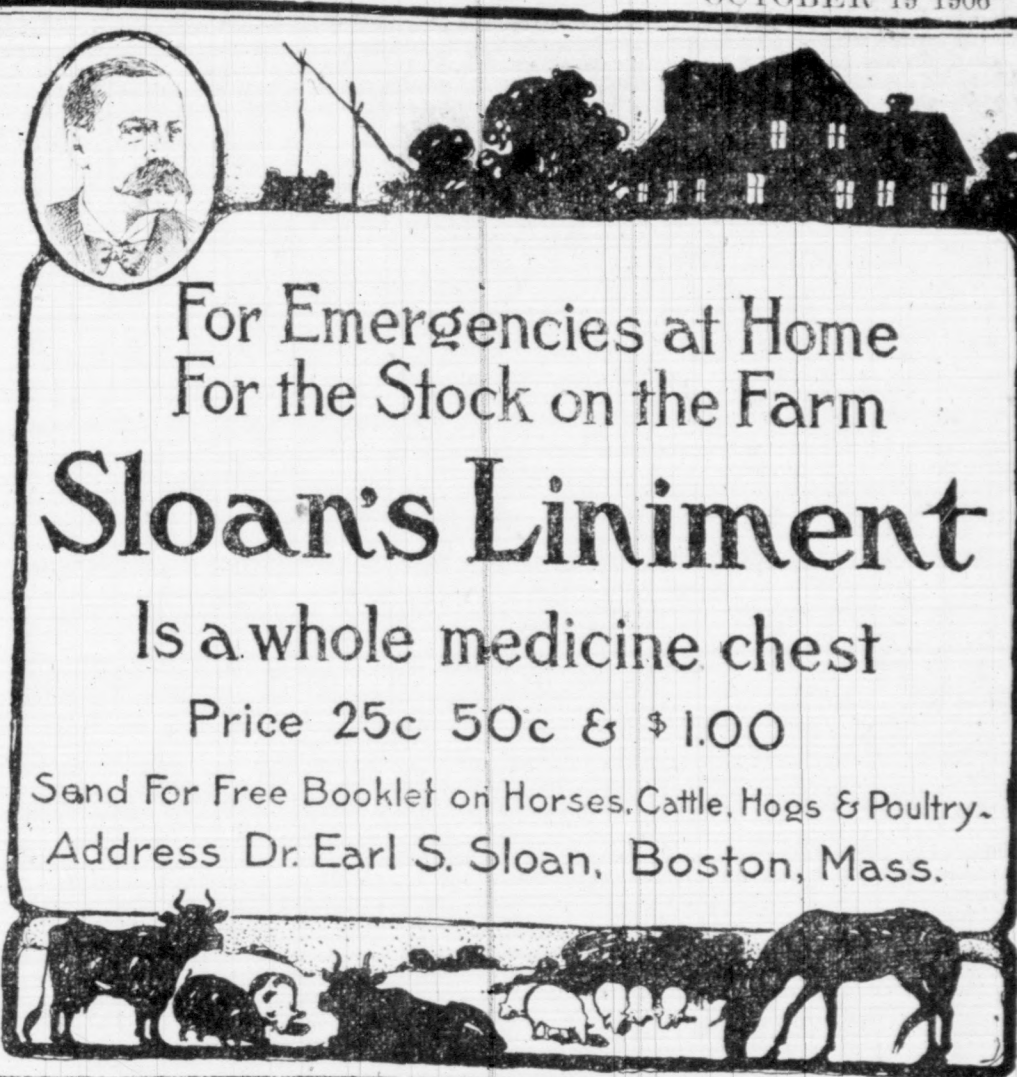

To the Republicans of the Second Congressional District of Kentucky: The Republican district committee of this district, made call for district convention to be held at Dawson Springs, October 9th, to nominate a candidate for congress. By the terms of that call all candidates were required to give written notice of their candidacy to the district chairman by September 20th. Three persons complied therewith, viz: Hon. David Browning, Col. M. D. Brown and myself. The two gentlemen named later withdrew in my favor. It was discovered, just in time to remedy the error, that the date fixed was too late for a legal convention to be held. It therefore became necessary for me to become the legal candidate by petition, which was accordingly done by my friends in various parts of the district. As I had complied with the terms of the party call and had become the legal nominee of the party by petition and was the only candidate whose name could go upon the official ballots, district convention was only considered as a perfunctory meeting to ratify my lawful nomination. It is true that several gentlemen were urged to enter against me, notwithstanding they could not in the circumstances be the lawful nominee of the party. Of course they declined to do so, having some sense of propriety and some self respect and party loyalty. My friends over the district naturally concluded that no fight would be made against me and assumed that no one would be so heedless of party good as to prevent the party from having any legal candidate in the district. Hence they relaxed their vigilance and in certain counties made little or no effort to control the county conventions. However, certain elements of opposition took advantage of the situation and selected unfriendly delegates, who unlawfully undertook to make the district convention a nominating convention, selecting Mr. Adair as their choice. Mr. Adair did not comply with the call of the district committee; it is impossible for his name to be printed on the official ballots; he was not selected by a convention with legal authority to nominate; he is not the lawful party nominee; and I am sure he is a man of too high sense of honor to permit himself to be placed in the attitude of claiming to be the party nominee. I am importuned by the party all over the district not to withdraw my name as the legal nominee of the party. Personally I would gladly withdraw, if I could do so honorably and if it were possible for our party to have any candidate at the coming election. But we are confronted with a situation which must be met by me regardless of any personal wishes. The question is: Shall the rank and file of the party in this district have no candidate whatever to vote for at the coming election? I am the legal nominee. This is no time to attack those who unexpectedly made effort to select delegates unfriendly to my nomination. I have very decided convictions of certain gross improprieties, but these matters should be buried for the welfare of the party. Upon due reflection I have concluded that it is my clear duty to remain as the candidate of the Republican party for congress in this district, and I am confident that this is the wish of the whole party. The voters of our party demand a candidate for whom they may vote at the coming election, and for them I am willing to make the fight even at great personal sacrifice. I believe that every true Republican owes the duty at this election to vote for candidates in hearty sympathy with the matchless administration of our great President, Theodore Roosevelt. In this spirit I ask the earnest support of every loyal Republican in this district.

Respectfully,
PAUL M. MOORE.

DOCTORS OF COUNTY

HELD AN INTERESTING MEETING HERE MONDAY.

Paper Presented by Dr. Harned and General Discussion Followed—Entertained at Dinner.

The Christian county medical society held an interesting meeting here Monday. The attendance was unusually good, although those who were unavoidably absent happened to be mainly those who were on the program, the only regular paper which was read being that of Dr. J. W. Harned.

The discussions however were entered into by all those present and the meeting resulted in a general exchange of ideas on many subjects.

All those who attended were entertained at dinner at the Innovation Cafe by the city doctors. Those present were:

A fine farm of 400 acres within one mile of Pembroke on pike, 95 acres of fine timber. This farm is well fenced with hedge and wire and divided into five shifts, on each of which is plenty of never failing water. This is one of the finest farms in the best farming sections of Kentucky, well adapted to corn, wheat, tobacco and all kinds of grasses. There is no better stock farm in the country, improvements first class and in perfect repair, fine 2-story frame dwelling with 9 rooms, veranda in front and porches in rear, four frame tenant houses, two large new tobacco barns, two grainaries with capacity for 10,000 bushels of wheat, 1 pig stables, cow houses, tool houses, carriage and ice house, two large cisterns, in fact an ideal farm with a beautiful lawn of four acres in front of house. One of the most desirable farms in the state, in one of the best neighborhoods, convenient to school, churches and good market. The land in first class condition. Will be sold on easy terms to suit purchaser.

MUCH SORROW HERE PARALYTIC STROKE MARKS A NEW ERA GREAT REDUCTION

OVER OF THE DEATH OF REV. WAS SUFFERED SUNDAY BY DR. IN THE ADVANCEMENT OF KEN-SAM P. JONES. BEN. LETCHER TUCKY'S RESOURCES.

Held Four Meetings in Hopkinsville Former Superintendent of the West-and Did Great Work as a ern Kentucky Asylum for the Reformer. Insane.—Condition Is Serious.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

The announcement in yesterday's New Era of the death of the Rev. Sam P. Jones shocked and saddened many Hopkinsville people. Some of Hopkinsville's most prominent citizens were converted to Christianity under his preaching, and his work as a reformer was never equalled in the community by any other evangelist. His personality was unique, and his methods thoroughly original. He was the first, and only, great revivalist to use slang in the pulpit, and he made it a most effective means to interest his hearers. He was utterly fearless and criticism from any quarter seemed to be invited by him, and there were few encounters in which he did not get the better of his critic.

He held four meetings in Hopkinsville. The first began Sunday, January 1, 1898, in the Ragsdale, Cooper & Co. warehouse. On February 25, 1894, he began a meeting in the new Union Tabernacle, for the building of which he had furnished the incentive. In the following year, starting October 11, 1895, he conducted his third revival in the city. He was last here as a revivalist in 1899, his meeting opening Sunday, January 22, in a snowstorm.

Characteristic of his manner of speaking was the way he opened his last meeting.

He stood on the platform and silently regarded the vast audience for some time, and then drawled:

"Since I was last here some of you have been doing well, some 'just tolerably well,' some have been doing 'pretty well,' and a few the best you can. But from all I can learn, not many of you have been 'teaming your shirts' in the cause of Christ. Some of you don't like my style, but that don't cut any figure with me; you like my style about as well as I like yours. If I was as no account as some of you I wouldn't go around talking about 'style.' It's the people who don't live right, the frisky folks, who object to a preacher's style."

It was in Mr. Jones' last meeting here that his ridicule of William Jennings Bryan, in which he said Bryan paid only $8.35 taxes and, as he had not made a personal success in business ought not to be trusted with the business of the nation, brought down sharp attacks from many parts of the country. It was shown that Mr. Bryan was paying $322 taxes a year. Mr. Jones, in his concluding sermon, said he had not intended to inject politics in his meeting, and that what he said was "just a prelude." "I am glad," he said, "to have been with you, and I'll carry away from Hopkinsville nothing but good will for its people." Recently Mr. Jones had been lavishly praising Bryan.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 16.—Rev. Sam P. Jones, who died yesterday in a sleeping car near Perry, Ark., had been engaged in a revival meeting here, after stumping the state for prohibition. Rev. W. K. Piner, formerly of Kentucky, was instrumental in bringing him to this city. He left here unexpectedly, hastening to the hotel to the station in the carriage which was to convey him to the evening service. No reason for his sudden departure was given, nor did he state his destination.

Mr. Jones' meetings here had been held in an unfinished building. He had spoken to large audiences, and it is believed that he had become suddenly ill as a result of speaking in the unfinished hall, and had started home for this reason.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 16.—The funeral of the Rev. Sam P. Jones will be held in this city, which has been plunged into deepest grief by his death.

Rev. George A. Stewart, for many years his co-laborer, Rev. J. A. Bowen, of Mississippi, and Rev. Walt Holcomb will conduct the services.

Mr. Jones left Oklahoma City Sunday night for this city to attend a family reunion today, it being the fifty-fifth anniversary of his birth. Mrs. Jones and his daughters, Mrs. Annie Pyron and Miss Julia Jones, were with him when he passed away. He died in the arms of Rev. Walt Holcomb who had been assisting Mr. Jones in revivals for the last five years.

Dr. Ben Letcher, who was superintendent of the Western Kentucky Asylum for the Insane, under Gov. Bradley, and who has many friends in this city, was stricken with paralysis Sunday at his home near Henderson.

The Henderson Journal says: "Dr. Letcher after a good night's rest, arose Sunday morning at his usual hour in good spirits and fine humor and upon the announcement of the breakfast hour the doctor was found promptly in his usual seat and with the exception of his wife, who is in California, his family surrounding him. As his custom he was soon engaged in pleasant Sunday morning conversation. There was not the least indication of anything wrong in his condition, on the contrary, he appeared to be enjoying excellent health. While laughing and enjoying himself he suffered an attack, and it was at once observed that something was radically wrong. As quickly as possible the doctor was removed to his brother, James H. Letcher's hospital on Green street, and a hasty examination made. It was found that Dr. Ben, had suffered a stroke of paralysis in his left side running from the shoulder in the direction of and involving the hip. A consultation of physicians was held and a critical examination of the patient made. Every attention possible was given him and this morning another examination was had. It was agreed that the doctor's condition was improved. Dr. Letcher considers his brother in a dangerous condition all things considered. Dr. Dixon, without seeing the afflicted man, is of the same opinion. His age will necessarily operate against his recovery. The doctor is between sixty-eight and seventy years of age."

Mrs. Letcher is visiting her daughter in California, but will no doubt return at the earliest possible moment.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—With 1,300 tents pitched at City Park race track and thirty passenger trains—which is double the usual number—due to arrive in New Orleans before midnight, the twenty-fourth convention of the Knights of Pythias and Biennial Encampment, Uniform Rank, began.

The encampment and convention will continue all week, prizes for the drills, which are the feature of the encampment, being awarded Saturday afternoon.

A new era in the advancement of Kentucky's resources is believed to have been begun by the fifth State Development convention at Winchester. Much work of importance was accomplished, in addition to the formation of a permanent organization and other work given an impetus which will bring it through to a successful ending. Owensboro may be chosen as the next meeting place, an invitation being expected when the executive committee meets within a few days.

Following is a resumé of the more important matters on which the convention took action:

Creation of a permanent organization, with headquarters in Louisville.

Appointment of a commission representing the state-at-large for the purpose of providing a Kentucky exhibit at the Jamestown exposition.

Opening of a more vigorous campaign for reformation of the tax system of Kentucky, and the appointment of a representative committee to undertake the work.

Request that the general assembly make more liberal appropriation for the state college, in the interest of the education of young men in lines of scientific agriculture.

Expression of indorsement of the state geological survey for the work accomplished by it, and a recommendation that it be given more financial encouragement.

Indorsement of a plan for inducing desirable immigration to Kentucky.

Besides matters on which the convention took action, the delegates discussed many important questions of vital interest to the development of the state. Men of high standing delivered addresses on the various resources and industries. Authentic statements of existing conditions and future possibilities were heard with great interest and marked consideration.

Much time was spent in the discussion of the coal mining industry, and it was shown by experts from Kentucky and other states how great a feature of the state's development it is destined to become. One speaker pointed out in convincing argument that Kentucky eventually would take the place of Pennsylvania as the greatest producer of coal in America.

The necessity of the education of the young men in such a way as to make them realize the importance of the farming industry was urged by far-seeing men, whose voices have sounded the warning against the continually-growing tendency to believe that opportunity dwells only within the boundaries of incorporate towns and cities.

Papers filled with valuable data and interesting information concerning nearly all the big features of the state's activity were read and were heard with close attention.

TO SAVE TWO WOMEN

CENTRAL VALLEY, N. J., Oct. 16.—Dashing down a steep hill in an automobile which had got beyond control, Louis Lieber, in order to prevent a collision with another automobile ascending the hill and which contained Miss Cutting, daughter of R. Fulton Cutting, deliberately wrecked his machine, and was himself crushed in the wreckage.

The brakes of Lieber's machine became disarranged when he started down the steep hill, and he guided it down the winding roadway at terrific speed. Rounding a curve he saw ascending the hill another machine containing two women. Realizing that a collision probably meant death to the occupants of the ascending car, Lieber jammed on the emergency brake and ripped the machinery of his car to pieces. The machine slid to the outside of the road and turned completely over. Lieber was crushed and rendered unconscious.

Chauffeur Dunn, of the other car, saw the runaway, and drove his car through the rocks and brush until it was brought to a standstill against a tree just in time to escape.

IN DEFICIT OF THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Shown in Advance Statement of Receipts and Expenditures for Fiscal Year of 1906.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Postmaster General Cortelyou has given out an advance statement of the receipts and expenditures of the postal service for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1906.

It shows a reduction of the annual deficit from $14,572,584 in 1905 to $10,516,996 for 1906, or over $4,000,000 or 27.83 per cent.

The total receipts for 1906 were 167,932,783, an increase over 1905 of $15,106,198, which is the greatest increase for any year in the history of the service. The per cent. of increase for 1906 is 9.88, as compared with 6.42 for 1905.

The total expenditures during 1906 were $178,449,779, an increase of $11,060,610 over 1905. The per cent. of increase in expenditures is less than for a number of years and is smaller by one-third than the per cent. of increase during 1905.

DIES IN HIS SLEEP

REUBEN ROWLAND WAS A NATIVE OF HOPKINSVILLE.

He Was a Prominent Citizen of Paducah, Active Churchman, and a Confederate Veteran.

"Go in and wake Daddy," begged little Dorothy Rowland, adopted daughter of Reuben Rowland of 411 N. Seventh street, Sunday morning of the trained nurse. It was 8 o'clock and the nurse obeyed. She found Mr. Rowland cold in death. He had been dead several hours. The child had slept with him and got up at 7 o'clock. Failing to arouse her foster father she appealed to the nurse.

Col. Reuben Rowland, 69 years old, Confederate veteran and promoter of various enterprises, had been ill a week. His death was caused by heart trouble.

Col. Rowland had retired at 10 o'clock Saturday night in apparently good health although he had been ill a week previous. Besides, his adopted daughter, Mrs. Rowland who lies precariously ill and a trained nurse were in the house. On account of Mrs. Rowland's condition she was not apprised of the facts and is still in ignorance of her husband's death.

Colonel Reuben Rowland was born in Hopkinsville, Ky., in 1837, and came of a prominent family. In early manhood he went into the Confederate army and gained distinction for his bravery, rising to the rank of captain. He was always known, however, as "Colonel" Rowland.

In 1868 he married Miss Fanny Clark, of this city, and returned to Hopkinsville to reside. He remained there several years but came back to Paducah, where he became prominent in financial circles. He was a promoter of the old People's Railway company and built the street car line to Rowlington. It was later taken in by the Paducah city railway. Rowland town is named for him. He built fine storehouses and other valuable buildings.

As a churchman the deceased was also prominent, being an officer in the First Presbyterian church.

Col. Rowland leaves a wife and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Annie Newman, Paducah; Mrs. Martha Vase, New Orleans; and John Rowland of Cloverport, Ky.

The funeral services will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery. Friends are requested to meet the cortege at the church on account of Mrs. Rowland's condition.—Paducah Sun.

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress,
A. O. STANLEY, of Henderson County.

And now the steel trust is planning to control the product of the Portland cement industry. The trusts are thriving under Roosevelt's leadership as never before. They are growing and branching out in every direction. But we are told by the Republicans that Teddy has busted them all. Fallstaff was a pygmy compared with the average Republican liar.

Mr. Colby, the Republican reformer of New Jersey, has been defeated by the Dryden machine, but the Colby reformers will join with the Democrats this fall they will easily turn the tables on their corrupt and corruption opponents.

The president may be obliged to call congress together in extra session, in order to procure the money necessary to carry out his plan of a military campaign in Cuba. Congress has appropriated no money for that purpose; and the president cannot divert to it any appropriation made for another purpose.

The man with the limited income or the small salary must view with dismay the stand pat policy of the Republican party. Prosperity is not for him, for the protection to the trusts has increased the cost of living to the point where pinching economy is necessary to make both ends meet. Note the Democratic ticket and help to spread prosperity to the many instead of the few.

The Republican politicians' cry of patriotism is a sure sign they are after the coin. "The old flag and an appropriation" have won many a battle.

Boss Cox has relented and allowed son-in-law Longworth to be renominated. Now the thing for father-in-law to do is to prostrate Mr. Gompers and the labor people, whose requests Nick refused to consider.

The president has made the first draft of his next message to congress and has handed it over to Mr. Loeb to fix up the phonetic spelling. It always was difficult for Republican reformers to reform themselves.

The price of meat is soaring again. Nobody but the beef trust magnates seem to have derived any benefit from the legislation of congress.

Rent, foodstuffs, and clothing are going up in price in all the cities. But wages and the prices paid to farmers for their products, are not rising. The trusts buy cheap and sell high, because they have a monopoly. We need look no further for the basis of the socialistic tendency of the poor in the great cities.

Since Secretary Loeb left for his hunting trip and there has been no one to sit on the third term lid, the states of Washington and Missouri have declared that Mr. Roosevelt must serve one more term. What will we do if the wild animals get away with Loeb?

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON III, FOURTH QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 21.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxv, 14-30. Memory Verse, 21—Golden Text, Prov. xxviii, 20—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.] This is part of the discourse on the Mount of Olives in response to the question of the four disciples and a sequel to the story of the wise and foolish virgins of last lesson and the wise and evil servants of xxiv, 45, 48. The very similar parable of the pounds was spoken a few days earlier while He was on His way to Jerusalem, perhaps in the house of Zaccheus. In each parable He is going away to a far country, the pounds or talents intrusted to the servants, the use or abuse of the same, the reckoning when the lord of the servants returns and the honor given to the faithful and good servants, but the shame and punishment to the wicked and slothful ones. This is in perfect accord with all His teaching and with the teaching of all Scripture. We have had it in several recent lessons, but cannot repeat it too often, that salvation is wholly of grace, but reward or punishment is according to desert. None are truly "His own servants" until redeemed by His precious blood, made His own by redemption. But He often graciously speaks of those who profess to be His as His, taking them at their word, even though He reads their hearts, and giving them every opportunity to be sincerely His if they will. Judas Iscariot and all similar characters are not His. They are those who seem to have, or think they have (Luke viii, 18, and margin), without really possessing. There is reason to fear that many are thus deceived, thinking that their knowledge of God and of Christ or of the Bible, or their church membership, or baptism, or the communion, or good works, or gifts to the cause, will entitle them to a place in the kingdom, whereas nothing will suffice but the new birth, a sincere and honest receiving of Himself (John i, 12, 13).

We must remember that salvation, one's own personal salvation, is threefold—saved fully and freely and instantly by His precious blood. Then all our life here, after that, is a working out of that salvation, and we are always looking forward to and waiting for the consummation of our salvation in a resurrection body. Out of many passages which set forth simply these three phases we select these three: Rom. iii, 24; Phil. ii, 12; Rom. xiii, 11. The whole three are set forth in Tit. ii, 11-13, and many similar passages. It is very plain that the use or abuse of the talents or pounds comes under the second aspect of our salvation and in a true child of God does not touch our safety, but our service and reward.

Whatever is represented by the talents or pounds, they are the Master's own goods (verse 14), which He intrusts to His own servants as His stewards, that they may use them for Him and in due time give an account of the same. We are put in trust with the gospel, which we are to give to every creature, not pleasing men, but God, who trieth our hearts, and we are debtors to all who have not yet heard it (I Thess. ii, 4; Mark xvi, 15; Rom. i, 14-16). We are stewards of the manifold grace of God and of the mysteries of God (I Pet. iv, 10; I Cor. iv, 1). We are expected to be wise servants, giving the household meat in due season (Matt. xxiv, 45). In all industry and in every eating and drinking we are to seek the glory of God (I Pet. iv, 11; I Cor. x, 31), for our great business here is to show forth the praises of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvelous light (I Pet. ii, 9). In the pounds something is represented which each one receives equally, but in the talents it is something which each receives according to ability, yet in each case the Master expects a faithful and diligent use of all that He intrusts His servants with.

The manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal, but the same Spirit divides His gifts to every man severally as He will (I Cor. xii, 7, 11). This may help us in some measure to understand the pounds and talents. There is always this comfort—the God who gives nothing to us that He does not give us the ability to perform. The five talents that gained over five and the two that gained two each received the "Well done, good and faithful servant" (Verses 21 and 23). The pound that gained ten and the pound that gained five each received approval, but the first received rule over ten cities and the other over five. So he will reward every one according to his works and his faithfulness (Rev. xxii, 12).

The servant with one pound said that he knew his Lord to be an austere and unjust man, which proves that he did not know Him. Neither was he in any sense a true servant. The man with one talent had a similar opinion of his master (verse 24) and is called a wicked and unprofitable servant and finds his doom where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth. So will it be with all who are mere professors and not truly saved. How truly awful to go out from being a respectable member of some church on earth to join the hosts of the lost in the place of awful torment! While the primary interpretation of these parables must have reference to some phase of the Israel question, we have been applying the truths generally to all believers. In the rest of the chapter, which is evidently the judgment of nations (verse 32) according to Joel iii, 1, 2, 12; Zechariah, xiv, 2-4, the church of this present age must not be looked for among either sheep or goats, but (comparing verse 31 with Col. iii, 4, and Rev. xii, 21) with Him in His throne and in His glory judging the nations.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY, WHICH ADJOURN AFTER A BUSY SESSION.

Committees Appointed to Raise the Money.—Will Give Kentucky Presbyterians Great School.

Kentucky Presbyterians are to inaugurate a great Women's College. This is finally decided by the two synods of the state, the northern and southern, which met in Henderson, each voted $40,000 to assist in starting the project, which contemplates the use of the old college at Danville and the erection of additional buildings on twelve acres of ground adjacent to the college owned by James Shuttleworth, of Louisville.

The Northern Presbyterians have already raised $15,000 of the necessary $40,000 as have the Southern Presbyterians. A committee of six was appointed by the Northern Presbyterians yesterday to raise the additional $25,000 by April 1 of next year.

TEACHERS ARE PAID

Money Advanced by Local Bank to Superintendent Gray.

Christian county school teachers were made happy Saturday by receiving their money for their first month's work since vacation. County Superintendent Gray received a telegram from State Superintendent Fuqua Saturday morning stating that on account of the failure of the sheriffs of the various counties to make their settlements, he would be unable to send a draft for the salaries but that it would be done as soon as possible.

The First National Bank came to the rescue however and advanced the required amount, something near $3,000, and each teacher was paid the amount due her.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. ### HAD NARROW ESCAPE

John Kelley, of Trigg County, Stabbed by a Tenant.

Former Master Commissioner John Kelley, of Trigg county, narrowly escaped perhaps fatal injury last week, when a tenant on a farm over which he had control cut a large gash in his neck and cheek.

Mr. Kelley and the tenant had disagreed over some detail of their contract, and Mr. Kelley claims he had turned and walked off when the man made an attack on him and cut him with a knife. Mr. Kelley protected himself as best he could with a small stick which he picked up and managed to save himself from further injury.

Crofton Physicians. It Is Alleged, Furnished Prescriptions for Liquor on Sunday.—Case of Commonwealth vs. Amos Haydon Will Be Tried Monday.—Court News.

(From Saturday's Daily)

The grand jury returned a final batch of thirty indictments this morning, making a total of ninety-six for this term of court, and was dismissed after having been in session for three weeks. Among the indictments returned today was one jointly against Acme Mills & Elevator company, James Cate & Son company and Crescent Milling company charging with having conspired together and raised the price of bran about $1 per ton. All the mills are also indicted individually for violation of the pure food law, it being alleged that they failed to attach to sacks of bran, tags as required by the law, giving the brand or trade mark, the analysis, etc., of the contents of the sack. Two counts are registered against the Crescent Milling company on this charge and one each against the other two mills.

Joe Leneer and G. W. Wiggins, two saloon-keepers of Crofton, are indicted for selling liquor on Sunday. Three physicians of that community, Dr. S. A. Williams, Dr. C.

A. Tutt and Dr. E. M. Croft, are also indicted. Their alleged offense is stated to have been the giving of prescriptions calling for either beer or whiskey, or both, to persons for the purpose of furnishing them with liquor on Sunday.

Porter Dabney, the negro arrested yesterday charged with having secured the money on a check which had been lost by J. C. Williams, was indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Nick Browder was indicted for false swearing before the grand jury. Numerous other indictments against various parties for minor offenses, principally violations of the liquor laws, were returned.

The case of Policeman Amos Haydon was called this morning but on account of the absence of three important commonwealth witnesses the case was continued until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

C. W. Johnson pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully killing quail and a fine of $5 and costs was assessed against him.

Thanksgiving Day.

This year, the same as last year, there is apt to be some misunderstanding regarding Thanksgiving day, as there will be five Thursdays in the coming November. Some people believe that Thanksgiving comes the fourth Thursday in the month. Last year November had five Thursdays, and some magazines had Thanksgiving billed for November 23 and others November 30. As a rule, November has but four Thursdays, and it will have but four for some years after this one. However, the general rule is that Thanksgiving comes on the last Thursday of the month, or November 29 this year.

The bride is reputed the richest woman in the world, with a fortune of $100,000,000, and he is comparatively poor, though a member of an ancient family of the German nobility. She lives in a veritable palace at Essen, but her tastes are simple, and she is very earnest in the discharge of her heavy responsibilities. Von Bohlen is a member of the Prussian embassy at the vatican.

Whisky Medicines.

The temperance press is upbraiding the danger to the home in the use of "medicines" which are loaded with whisky or alcohol. In this respect, as well as in the remarkable character of their cures, Dr. Pierce's medicines differ from other preparations. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness and bowel derangements, and "Favorite Prescription" for woman's derangements and weaknesses, contain no alcohol. Their full ingredients are printed on the bottle wrappers, therefore they are not secret or patent medicines. Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet giving list of medicinal roots from which these remedies are extracted by the use of triple-refined glycerine; also the eminent medical writers who recommend their ingredients for the cure of the diseases for which these medicines are advised.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Miss Nelson and Mr. Graves Are to Marry November 7.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Nelson announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Eloise, to Mr. Charles E. Graves.

The foregoing announcement will be received with great interest and pleasure by society. The bride-to-be is one of Hopkinsville's most charming belles and her wit and loveliness have made her a favorite in Kentucky social circles. The fortunate gentleman who has won her heart and hand was formerly a popular citizen of this city and is now a prosperous business man of Harrisburg, Pa. The wedding will take place on Wednesday, November 7, at Grace church, and the officiating clergyman will be the rector, the Rev. Geo. C. Abbott.

DOCTORS AT HOME

THE MEETING AT OWENSBORO WAS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Election of Officers For The Ensuing Year.— Fight on Reduction of Examination Fees.

The Christian county physicians who attended the annual meeting of the Kentucky Medical society at Owensboro last week have returned home.

The meeting was one of the most successful ever held, and the delegates were treated to lavish hospitality.

Following is the complete list of officers elected:

President—D. M. Griffith, Owensboro.

Vice presidents—John S. Blackburn, of Bowling Green; Milton Board, of Hopkinsville; J. T. Reese, of Cynthia.

Secretary—Arthur T. McCormick, Bowling Green.

Treasurer—W. B. McClure, of Lexington.

Orator in medicine—Clarence H. Vaughn, of Richmond.

Orator in surgery—J. T. Quinn, of Henderson.

Delegate to American Medical society—J. N. McCormick, of Bowling Green, and W. W. Richmond, of Clinton.

One of the main features of that convention was the adoption of a resolution denouncing the action of life insurance companies in cutting examination fees from $5 to $2.50.

The physicians in every section of the state will organize to fight what they believe to be injustice.

How to Cure a Cold.

The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me. For sale by Anderson-Fowler Drug Co., (Inc.), 9th and Main, Hopkinsville, Ky."

UNDER COUNTY UNIT LAW

Todd Will Hold an Election Friday, December 7.

County Judge Duffy, of Todd county, has ordered an election for the entire county, under the county unit bill passed at the last session of the general assembly, for Friday, December 7. Whisky men had also filed petitions asking for separate elections in Elkton, Guthrie, Allensville and Trenton for December 7, but the court gave the prohibition people precedence in the matter, and the county must vote as a whole. The county is conceded by all to be close, but the consensus of opinion is that the "dry" will carry it.

Keep the bowels open when you have a cold and use a good remedy to allay the inflammation of the mucous membranes. The best is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates, moves the bowels, drives out the cold. Is reliable and tastes good. Sold by Anderson & Fowler Drug Co., Inc., and L. L. Elgin.

SAM JONES IS DEAD

FAMOUS EVANGELIST AND WELL KNOWN IN HOPKINSVILLE

Body Was Found in Sleeping Car
Near Little Rock.—Heart Disease the Cause.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 15.—The Rev. Sam P. Jones, of Cartersville, Ga., world-famous as an evangelist, is dead.

This morning, near Little Rock, Ark., he was found dead in his berth in a Pullman car on the Choctaw route. When the porter pulled aside the curtain and called him, he did not respond. An investigation showed that he had died in the night.

The evangelist was on his way home from Oklahoma where he spent last week speaking all over the state in the interest of Prohibition.

Physicians examined the body and pronounced death to be due to heart disease.

Samuel Porter Jones, the most original and one of the most successful evangelists in America, was well known and greatly admired in Hopkinsville. His great revival meetings at Cooper warehouse and Union Tabernacle—the movement for the latter building growing out of his first meeting—resulted in many conversions and in hundreds promising "to quit their meanness." Mr. Jones was born in Chambers county, Ala., Oct. 16, 1847, and he removed to Cartersville, Ga., in 1859. He was first a lawyer, but dissipation ruined his career. In 1872 he professed religion and became a Methodist preacher. His fame as an evangelist spread rapidly and he held meetings all over the United States. He was noted as a lecturer and was a successful author, his "Quit Your Meanness," "Thunderbolts" and other books having a wide circulation.

SOCIETY GIRLS IN PATROL WAGON.

Clang! clang! clang! went the gong of the police patrol wagon. Friday evening about 6 o'clock, and here came the "burly up wagon" down the street at break-neck speed with Lieut. Booth Morris perched on the driver's seat and with Misses Jeanie Graham, Annie and Mary Graeme Starlings, Bet Ware, Jean McKee, Alise Dabney and Mary Goldthwaite hanging on to the brass railing for dear life as the wagon rocked from side to side in its head-long flight.

This was not an arrest by the officer, however, for the young ladies were really the captors and Lieut. Morris was the prisoner. The young ladies had made a raid on the police office, captured Lieut. Morris and ordered him to take them for a drive in the patrol wagon "just to see how it would feel." They all enjoyed the drive immensely and said it was worth paying a fine for, but none was assessed.

Danger From the Plague.

There's grave danger from the plague of coughs and colds that are now prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. Mrs. Geo. Walls, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them. It prevents pneumonia, cures la-grippe, gives wonderful relief in Asthma and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off consumption, coughs and colds. 50c and $1. Guaranteed by L. L. Elgin, Cook & Higgins and Anderson & Fowler, (Inc.) Trial bottle free.

FOR NEW ORLEANS

Hopkinsville Company, U. R. K. P.
Left Sunday Afternoon.

Evergreen Co. No. 27, Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias, left here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in a special train over the Illinois Central for New Orleans to attend the bi-annual encampment of that order. The members of the company went dressed in full uniform and accoutered for heavy drills in much the same manner as regular soldiers. They also took bed clothing etc, for camp life as it is probable that they will camp out during the time. Those who went were:

Capt. C. O. Prowse, Lieut. J. W. Stowe, Lieut. C. M. Hill, C. E. West, Jr., W. J. Powell, R. W. Dorris, C. W. Keach, R. M. Tunks, Ed. Schmitt, A. F. Barber, L. E. Adwell, A. M. Coleman, M. J. Mokeyon, J. T. Watson, W. W. Walker, Vivian Atkinson, D. C. Cary, Houston McCulloch, L. E. Fowler, C. W. Stowe, C. E. Harris.

If an article is imitated, the original is always best. Think it over, and when you go to buy that box of salve to keep around the house, get DeWitt's Witch Hazel. It is the original and the name is stamped on every box. Good for eczema, tetter, boils, cuts and bruises, and especially recommended for piles. Sold by Anderson & Fowler Drug Co., Inc., and L. L. Elgin.

NOT GODFREY RAY.

Negro Arrested at Cerulean Springs Brought Here.

A negro supposed to have been Godfrey Ray, the murderer of Marshall Dickinson, of Trenton, was arrested Saturday night at Cerulean and brought here. Upon arrival here and close comparison with the description that had been furnished the local police office, it was found that he was not the man and he was taken back to Cerulean by his captors.

Quinsy, Sprains and Swellings Cured.

"In November, 1901, I caught cold and had the quinsy. My throat was swollen so I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me relief in a short time. ### CHAPTER XVI.

LORD VENTNOR was no fool. While Iris was transforming herself into a semisavage condition into a semblance of an ultra chic Parisienne, Sir Arthur Deane told the earl something of the state of affairs on the island.

His lordship, a handsome, saturnine man, cool, insouciant, polite, composed patience, toleration, even silent recognition of Anstruther's unabashed claims for services rendered.

"She is an enthusiastic, high spirited girl," he urged upon his surprised hearer, who expected a very different expression of opinion. "This fellow Anstruther is a plausible sort of rascal, a good man in a tight place, too—just the sort of fire eating blackguard who would fill the head of a bill where a ditch is concerned. Hang him, he liked me twice."

Further amazement for the shipowner.

"Yes, it's quite true. I interfered with his little games, and he gave me the usual reward of the devil's apothecary. Leave Iris alone. At present she is strung up to an intense pitch of gratitude, having barely escaped a terrible fate. Let her come back to the normal. Anstruther's shady reputation must gradually leak out. That will disgust her. He is hard up—cut off by his people and that sort of thing. There you probably have the measure of his scheming. He knows quite well that he can never marry your daughter. It is all a matter of price."

Sir Arthur willingly allowed himself to be persuaded. At the back of his head there was an uneasy consciousness that it was not "all a matter of price." If it were he would never trust a man's face again. But Ventnor's well balanced arguments swayed him. The course indicated was the only decent one. It was humanly impossible for a man to hide his daughter and flout her rescuer within an hour of finding them.

Lord Ventnor played his cards with a deeper design. He bowed to the inevitable. Iris said she loved his rival. Very well. To attempt to dissuade her was to throw her more closely into that rival's arms. The right course was to appear resigned, saddened, compelled against his will to reveal the distressing truth. Further, he counted on Anstruther's quick temper as an active element. Such a man would be the first to rebel against an assumption of pitying tolerance. He would bring bitter charges of conspiracy, of unbelievable complicity to secure his ruin. All this must recoil on his own head when the facts were laid bare. Not even the hero of the island could prevail against the terrible indictment of the court martial. Finally, at Singapore, three days distant, Colonel Foster and his wife were staying. Lord Ventnor, alone of those on board, knew this. Indeed, he accompanied Sir Arthur Deane largely in order to break off a somewhat trying entanglement. He smiled complacently as he thought of the effect on Iris of Mrs. Costello's indignation when she learned that the girl all that had happened at Hongkong.

However, Lord Ventnor was most profoundly annoyed, and he crossed Anstruther from the depths of his heart. But he could see a way out.

He came ashore with Iris and her father. The captain of the Orient also joined the party. The three men watched Robert and the girl walking toward them from the group of officers. "Anstruther is a smart looking fellow," commented Captain Fitzroy. "Who is he?"

"That's all the smart command of the Orient was secretly amazed by the metamorphosis effected in Robert's appearance since he scrutinized him through his glasses.

Poor Sir Arthur said not a word, but his lordship was quite at ease.

"From his name and from what means tells me I believe he is an ex-officer of the Indian army."

"Ah! He has left the service?"

"Yes, I met him last in Hongkong."

"Then you know him?"

"Quite well, if he is the man I imagine."

"That is really very nice of Ventnor," thought the shipowner. "The last thing I should credit him with would be a forgiving disposition."

Meanwhile Anstruther was reading Iris a little lecture. "Sweet one," he explained to her, "do not allude to me by my former rank. I am not entitled to it. Some day, please God, it will be restored to me. At present I am a plain civilian, and by the way, Iris, during the next few days say nothing about our mine."

"Oh, why not?"

"Just a personal whim. It will please me."

"If it pleases you, Robert, I am satisfied."

He pressed her arm by way of answer. They were too near to the waiting trio for other comment.

"Captain Fitzroy," cried Iris, "let me introduce Mr. Anstruther to you. Lord Ventnor, you have met Mr. Anstruther before."

The sailor shook hands. Lord Ventnor smiled affably.

"Your enforced residence on the island seems to have agreed with you," he said.

"Admirably. Life here had its drawbacks, but we fought our enemies in the open. Didn't we, Iris?"

"Yes, dear. The poor Dyaks were not sufficiently modernized to attack us with false testimony."

His lordship's sallow face wrinkled somewhat. So Iris knew of the court martial, nor was she afraid to proclaim to all the world that this man was her lover. As for Captain Fitzroy, his bushy eyebrows disappeared into his peaked cap when he heard the manner of their speech.

Nevertheless Ventnor smiled again. "Even the Dyaks respected Miss Deane," he said.

But Anstruther, sorry for the manifest uneasiness of the shipowner, repressed the retort on his lips and forthwith suggested that they should walk to the north beach in the first instance, that being the scene of the wreck.

During the next hour he became auditor rather than narrator. It was Iris who told of his wild fight against wind and waves; Iris who showed them where he fought with the devilish Dyaks who expiated on the long days of endless toil, his damnable courage in the face of every difficulty, the way in which he rescued her from the clutch of the savages, the skill of his preparations against the anticipated attack and the last great achievement of all, when time after time he foiled the Dyaks' best laid plans and flung them off crippled and disheartened, during the many phases of the thirty hours' battle.

There were tears in her eyes when she ended, but they were tears of thankful happiness, and Lord Ventnor, a silent listener who missed neither word nor look, felt a deeper thrill in his cold heart as he realized that this woman's love could never be his. The knowledge excited his passion the more. His hatred of Anstruther now became a mania, an insensate resolve to mortally stab this meddler who always stood in his path.

Robert hoped that his present ordeal was over. It had only begun. He was called on to answer questions without number. Why had the tunnel been made? What was the mystery of the valley of death? How did he manage to guess the dimensions of the sundial? How came he to acquire such an amazing stock of out of the way knowledge of the edible properties of roots and trees? How? Why? Where? When? They never would be satisfied, for not even the British navy, poking its nose into the recesses of the world, often comes across such an amazing story as the adventures of this couple on Rainbow Island.

He readily explained the creation of quarry and cave by telling them of the vein of antimony imbedded in the rock near the vault. Antimony is one of the substances that covers a multitude of doubts. No one, not excepting the doctors who use it, knows much about it, and in Chinese medicine it might be a chief factor of exceeding nastiness.

Inside the cavern the existence of the partially completed shaft to the ledge accounted for recent disturbances on the face of the rock, and newcomers could not, of course, distinguish the bones of poor "J. S." as being the remains of a European.

Anstruther was satisfied that none of them hazarded the remotest guess as to the value of the gum tree they were staring at, and chance helped him to baffle further inquiry.

A trumpet on board the Orient was blowing his lungs out to summon them to luncheon when Captain Fitzroy put a final query.

"I can quite understand," he said to Robert, "that you have an affection for this weird place, but I am curious to know why you lay claim to the island. You can hardly intend to return here."

He pointed to Robert's placard stuck on the rock.

Anstruther paused before he answered. He felt that Lord Ventnor's dark eyes were fixed on him. Every body was more or less desirous to have this point cleared up. He looked the questioner squarely in the face.

"In some parts of the world," he said, "there are sunken reefs, unknown, uncharted, on which many a vessel has been lost without any contributory fault on the part of her officers."

"Undoubtedly."

"Well, Captain Fitzroy, when I was stationed with my regiment in Hongkong I encountered such a reef and wrecked my life on it. At least that is how it seemed to me then. Fortune threw me ashore here after a long and tiring summer. You can hardly blame me if I cling to the tiny speck of land that gave me salvation."

"No," admitted the sailor. He knew there was something more in the allegory than the text revealed, but it was no business of his.

"Moreover," continued Robert smilingly, "you see I have a partner."

"There cannot be the slightest doubt about the partner," was the prompt reply.

Then every one laughed. Iris more than any, though Sir Arthur Deane's gasp was forced, and Lord Ventnor could taste the acidity of his own smile.

Later in the day the first lieutenant told his chief of Anstruther's voluntary statement concerning the court martial. Captain Fitzroy was naturally pained by this unpleasant revelation, but he took exactly the same view as that expressed by the first lieutenant in Robert's presence.

Nevertheless he pondered the matter and seized an early opportunity of mentioning it to Lord Ventnor. That distinguished nobleman was vastly surprised to learn how Anstruther had cut the ground from beneath his feet.

"Yes," he said, in reply to the sailor's request for information, "I know all about it. It could not well be otherwise, seeing that next to Mrs. Costello I was the principal witness against him."

"That must have been awkward for you," was the unexpected comment.

"Indeed! Why?"

"Because rumor linked your name with that of the lady in a somewhat

"You astonish me, Anstruther certainly made some stupid allegations during the trial, but I had no idea he was able to spread this malicious report subsequently."

"I am not talking of Hongkong, my lord, but of Singapore, months later."

Captain Fitzroy's tone was exceedingly dry. Indeed, some people might deem it offensive.

His lordship permitted himself the rare luxury of an angry scowl.

"Rumor is a lying jade at the best," he said curtly. "You must remember, Captain Fitzroy, that I have uttered no word of scandal about Mr. Anstruther, and any doubts concerning his conduct can be set at rest by perusing the records of his case in the adjutant general's office at Hongkong."

"Hm!" said the sailor, turning on his heel to enter the chart room.

The girl and her father went back to the island with Robert. After taking thought the latter decided to ask Mir Jan to remain in possession until he returned. There was not much risk of another Dyak invasion. The fate of Tung S'ail's expedition would not encourage a fresh set of marauders, and the Mohammedan would be well armed to meet unforeseen contingencies, while on his (Anstruther's) representations the Orient would land an abundance of stores. In any event it was better for the native to live in freedom on Rainbow Island than to be handed over to the authorities as an escaped convict, which must be his immediate fate no matter what magnanimous view the government of India might afterward take of his services.

Mir Jan's answer was emphatic. He took off his turban and placed it on Anstruther's feet.

"Sahib," he said, "I am your dog. If some day I am found worthy to be your faithful servant, then shall I know that Allah has pardoned my transgressions."

In spite of himself Sir Arthur Deane could not help liking Anstruther. The girl's ragged raiment, sorrier and strong boots were already packed away on board. She now rescued the Bible, the battered tin cup, her revolver and the rifle which had "secured" the Dyaks when they nearly caught Anstruther and Mir Jan napping. Robert also gathered for her an assortment of Dyak hats, belts and arms, including Tung S'ail's parang and a sampan. These were her trophies, the spoils of the campaign.

His concluding act was to pack two of the empty oil tins with all the valuable lumps of antimony quartz he could find where he shed the rubbish from the cave beneath the trees. On top of these he placed some antimony ore, and Mir Jan, wondering why the sahib wanted the stuff, carried the consignment to the waiting boat. Lieutenant Phaydon, in command of the last party of sailors to quit the island, evidently expected Mir Jan to accompany them, but Anstruther explained that the man would await his return some time in June or July.

Sir Arthur Deane found himself speculating on the cause of this extraordinary resolve, but, steadfast to his policy of avoiding controversial matters, said nothing. A few words to the captain procured enough stores to keep the Mohammedan for six months at least, and while these were being landed the question was raised how best to dispose of the Dyaks.

The commander wished to consult the convenience of his guests.

"If we go a little out of our way and land them in Borneo," he said, "they will be hanged without troubling you further. If I take them to Singapore they will be tried on your evidence and sent to penal servitude. Which is it to be?"

It was Iris who decided.

"I cannot bear to think of more lives being sacrificed," she protested. "Perhaps if these men are treated mercifully, and sent to their homes after some punishment their example may serve as a deterrent to others."

So it was settled that way. The anchor rattled up to its berth, and the Orient turned her head toward Singapore. As she steadily passed away into the deepening azure the girl and her lover watched the familiar outlines of Rainbow Island growing dim in the evening light. For a long while they could see Mir Jan's tall, thin figure motionless on a rock at the extremity of Europa point. Their hut, the reef, the ledge, came into view as the cruiser swung round to a more northerly course.

Iris had thrown an arm across her father's shoulders. The three were left alone just then, and they were silent for many minutes. At last the flying miles merged the solitary palm beyond the lagoon with the foliage on the cliff. The wide cleft of Prospect park grew less distinct. Mir Jan's white cloth figure was lost in the dark background. The island was becoming vague dreamlike, a blurred memory.

"Robert," said the girl devoutly, "God has been very good to us. Do you remember this hour yesterday?"

She murmured, "How we suffered from thirst; how the Dyaks began their secret attack from the ridge; how you climbed down the ladder and I followed you? Oh, father, darling," she went on impulsively, tightening her arms, "you will never know how brave he was; how enduring; how he risked all for me and cheered me to the end."

"I think I am beginning to understand now," answered the shipowner averting his eyes lest Iris should see the tears in them. Their Calvary was ended, they thought. Was it for him to lead them again through the sorrowful way? It was a heartrending task that lay before him, a task from which his soul revolted. He refused even to attempt it.

The explanation of the shipowner's position was painfully simple. Being a daring yet shrewd financier, he perceived in the troubled condition of the far east a magnificent opportunity to consolidate the trading influence of his company. He negotiated two big loans, one of a semiprivate nature to equip docks and railways in the chief maritime province of China, the other of a more public character with the government of Japan. All his own resources, together with those of his principal directors and shareholders, were devoted to these objects. Contemporaneously he determined to stop paying heavy insurance premiums on his fleet and make it self supporting on the well known mutual principle.

His vessels were well equipped, well manned, replete with every modern improvement and managed with great commercial skill. In three or four years, given ordinary trading luck, he must have doubled his own fortune.

No sooner were all his arrangements completed than three of his best ships went down, saddling his company with an absolute loss of nearly a million and seriously undermining his financial credit. A fellow director, wealthy and influential, resigned his seat on the board and headed a clique of disappointed stockholders. At once the fair sky became overcast.

Sir Arthur Deane's energy and financial skill might have enabled him to weather this unexpected gale were it not for the apparent loss of his beloved daughter with the crack ship of his line. Half frenzied with grief, he bade his enemies do their worst and allowed his affairs to get into hopeless confusion while he devoted himself wholly to the search for Iris and her companions. At this critical juncture Lord Ventnor again reached his side. His lordship possessed a large private fortune and extensive estates. He was prudent withal and knew how admirably the shipowner's plans would develop if given the necessary time. He offered the use of his name and money. He more than filled the gap created by the hostile ex-director. People argued that such a clever man, just returning from the far east after accomplishing a public mission of some importance, must be a reliable guide. The mere cabined intelligence of his intention to join the board restored confidence and credit.

But there was a bargain. If Iris lived she must become the Countess of Ventnor. His lordship was weary of peripatetic lovemaking. It was high time he settled down in life, took an interest in the legislature and achieved a position in the world of affairs. He had a chance now. The certain success of his friend's project, the fortunate completion of his own diplomatic undertaking, marriage with a beautiful and charming woman—these items would consolidate his career. His heart was set on Iris.

He seized the first opportunity that presented itself to make Sir Arthur Deane acquainted with a decision already decreed by the unfortunate shipowner. Iris must either abandon her infatuation for Anstruther or bring about the ruin of her father. There was no mean.

"If she declines to become Countess of Ventnor she can marry whom she likes, as you will all be paupers together," was the earl's caustic summing up.

This brutal argument rather overshoot the mark. The shipowner's face flushed with anger, and Lord Ventnor hastened to retrieve a false step.

"I didn't exactly mean to put it that way, Deane, but my temper is a little short these days. My position on board this ship is intolerable. As a matter of fact, dealing to me you should put a stop to your daughter's attitude toward Anstruther on the ground that her engagement is neither approved of by you nor desirable under any consideration."

It may be assumed from this remark that even the earl's sardonic temper was ruffled by the girl's outrageous behavior. Nor was it exactly pleasant to him to note how steadily Anstruther advanced in the favor of every officer on the ship. By tacit consent the court martial was tabled, at any rate until the Orient reached Singapore. Every one knew that the quarrel lay between Robert and Ventnor, and it is not to be wondered at if Iris' influence alone were sufficient to turn the scale in favor of her lover.

The shipowner refused point blank to interfere in any way during the voyage.

"You promised your co-operation in business even if we found that the Sir-dar had gone down with all hands," he retorted bitterly. "Do you wish me to make my daughter believe she has come back into my life only to bring me irretrievable ruin?"

"That appears to be the result, no matter how you may endeavor to disguise it."

"I thought the days were gone when a man would wish to marry a woman against her will."

"Nonsense! What does she know about it? The glamor of this island romance will soon wear off. It would be different if Anstruther were able to maintain her even decently. He is an absolute beggar, I tell you. Didn't he ship on your vessel as a steward? Take my tip, Deane. Tell him how matters stand with you, and he will cool off."

SHERMAN TO SPEAK ALL SAFE AND WELL JEFF DAVIS' WIDOW MR. SMITH'S SPEECH

LET'S HELP THE BAND

AT THE COURTHOUSE ON SAT-URDAY, OCTOBER 27

In the Interest of the American Society of Equity.—His Other Appointments.

Hon. H. B. Sherman, of Green-boro, Indiana, will speak at the courthouse here at 2 p. m., on Saturday, October 27, in the interest of the American Society of Equity.
Mr. Sherman is a speaker of much force and he has done a great work in assisting in the organization of the farmers in the A. S. of E. On the Monday following he will speak at Fairview, at Crofton on Tuesday and at Lafayette on Wednesday. It had been hoped that Mr. Sherman could be secured for additional speeches, but his services are in such demand that this was all the time he could spare to this country.

HOPKINSVILLE COMPANY, U. R.
K. P., AT NEW ORLEANS.

Parade of Uniformed Pythians Witnessed by Thousands. Supreme Lodge is in Session.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 16,
3:17 p. m., Kentucky New Era, Hopkinsville, Ky. Our company arrived here safely. The camp is in a good location. All are well.
C. O. PROWSE.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 17.—
More than 2,000 uniformed Pythians, many of them mounted, paraded in military formation in honor of the biennial encampment. About 20,000 visitors came to New Orleans by train to see the pagant.

The Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias held its first business session today. About 80 per cent. of the delegates to the lodge were present.
Last night was held the contest of companies of the uniform rank for the best exemplification of the ritual.
It was announced that the names of the contesting companies are to be kept secret.

DYING CONDITION

Lindsay Leavell, Shot by John Goode, Near Pembroke.

(From Wednesday's Daily)
Lindsay Leavell, or Crabb, the negro who was shot several days ago by John T. Goode near Pembroke, is reported to be much worse and death is expected at any time. Blood poison set up yesterday in the wound in the negro's face, which was made by the third load of shot from Mr. Goode's gun at close range, and the wounded man is now delirious.

SUCCUMBS, TO PNEUMONIA IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK

Cold Contracted in Adirondacks Develops Into Fatal Illness.—Was Eighty Years Old.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Confederacy, who had been ill for a week at the Hotel Majestic in this city, died at 10:25 o'clock last night.

Death was due to pneumonia induced by a severe cold Mrs. Davis contracted upon her return from the Adirondacks, where she had spent the summer months.

Mrs. Davis was born in Natchez, Miss., May 7, 1826. She was the daughter of William Burr and granddaughter of Gov. Richard Howell, of New Jersey. Mrs. Davis was educated in Philadelphia and by private teachers. She was married to Jefferson Davis, February 25, 1845.

Since her husband's death in 1889, she had written numerous criticisms and articles for newspapers and magazines. Mrs. Davis owned property in Mississippi, but, on account of poor health, for some time had lived in New York City. On a visit, a year or two ago, to Mississippi
Beauvoir, the old home of Jefferson Davis, was transferred to the Confederate Veterans' association. Her only single daughter, Winnie, known as Daughter of the Confederacy, died some five years ago.

President's Sympathy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—
President Roosevelt today sent a message of condolence to Mrs. J.
Addison Hayes, of Colorado Springs, only surviving daughter of Mrs.
Jefferson Davis, on the death of her mother.

ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE BUFFALO CONVENTION :

Church is Now Fifth in Membership
Among all Denominations in America.

BUFFALO, Oct. 17.—The fourth day of the convention of the disciples of Christ was occupied by the American Christian Missionary society. S. M. Cooper, of Cincinnati, presided.

The society's scope is domestic missions, and it now employs jointly with state boards, some 250 home missionaries. It has an endowment fund of $150,000, besides $100,000 yearly receipts from other sources.
Its missionaries have baptized nearly 150,000 persons and established 3,000 churches.

The program comprised addresses on important themes by E. H.
Dougherty, of Wabash, Ind.; H. D.
Smith, of Hopkinsville, Ky., and J.
P. Liechtenberg, of New York.

The report of Statistician G. A.
Huffman places the Disciples fifth in membership in the United States, with nearly 1,250,000 communicants.

Geo. W. Huckleby, corresponding secretary reports a large increase in its annuity fund, now reaching $600,000. The secretary aims to have a combined loan fund of $1,000-000 by 1909, the centennial year of the Disciples.

The bureau of ministerial relief has a fund of $50,000 and aims to increase this to $100,000 by 1909.

WANTED—Energetic trustworthy man or woman to work in Kentucky representing Large Manufacturing Company. Salary $50 to $90 per month, paid weekly. Expenses advanced.

J. H. MOORE,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

There is not a more promising musical organization in the state than Lebkuecher's band. The improvement it has made in the last few months is nothing less than remarkable. With anything like proper encouragement on the part of the citizens, its development will be such as to reflect credit upon the city. In every respect it is a worthy enterprise and deserves hearty support. Already its reputation as an excellent band is spreading throughout this region, and the present indications are that before long, Leb-kuecher's brass band will be one of Hopkinsville's best advertisements.

The organization should have adequate equipment, and the New Era believes that our citizens are progressive enough and liberal enough to need only their attention directed to the needs of the band to take steps to supply them.

The sum of $250 will meet the requirements. The New Era will gladly be one of fifty to give $5.00 for this purpose.

Won't you help?
If you will, notify the New Era so that your subscription may be ac-knowledgeed.
