Lines Forming At Gas Stations In Some Kentucky Cities Today

Whether the result of the independent truckers' strike or depleted allocations at the end of the month, gasoline supplies have tightened in Kentucky, and motorists have lined up in response.

Service stations statewide shortened operating hours, limited purchases or closed altogether as their fuel tanks ran low.

Here is a look at the situation in some of Kentucky's cities:

Murray

This west Kentucky city was in better shape than most; spotty shortages were reported but the lines at service stations remained shorter than elsewhere in the state.

Ed Chrisman, distributor for Texaco, said he is about "out of product." He added he is on a day-to-day allocation, where June 1978 sales are divided by 30 (days).

Gas for farmers has resulted in less gas for sale, he added.

Calloway County may be short of gas next week," Chrisman said. "Personally, I see no improvement this year but I'm an amateur at this. It's my own opinion the best thing to do is conserve."

Standard Oil distributor Dick Orr said gas is short "as far as we are concerned." He added, after farmers are through planting, there should be a little more fuel available.

Orr said he is on 90 percent allocation.

Mike Baker, distributor at Kentucky Lake Oil said "things are tight but I don't know much more than the man on the street."

Shell announced, according to Baker, that there would be 75 to 85 percent allocation through September in Calloway County. However, he said things change on a day-to-day basis and the allocation may change several times before September.

Louisville

Lines up to a mile long were reported at some stations Thursday as panic buying and "topping off" came to town. Topping off, the process by which motorists buy a little gas to fill a nearly full tank, was "probably the main problem," said David Stucker of the Louisville Auto Club.

Stucker predicted more of the same today as stations stayed open only a few hours to save supplies. Some dealers said smaller allocations of gas were as much to blame for the shortage as the truckers' strike.

Lexington

Long lines also were in evidence in central Kentucky, where some stations limited purchases to $5 or shortened hours.

At one station scheduled to open at 7:30 a.m. today, customers began lining up at 6:15, and the operator said he would close before 9:30. Another opened at 6 a.m. and closed two hours later; others said they would stop pumping fuel by early afternoon.

Mayor James Amato said the worsening supply problem possibly could cause industry layoffs. But he said he has been working with state police and local industries to insure deliveries of raw materials to the city.

Fuel shortages also caused problems for those who choose to travel by air. Some pilots who normally refuel at Blue Grass Field were asked to look elsewhere until the crunch eases.

Corbin

Many tanks were empty at Corbin and there was little hope of immediate relief.

Surveys of a number of gasoline suppliers in the area found many of them with no diesel fuel or gasoline to deliver to service stations, some of which are out of fuel.

Other stations limited operations, resulting in long lines. Unleaded gas was more readily available in the area than other grades.

Paducah

A few Paducah stations had depleted their supplies and were awaiting emergency shipments; others said they could be out of fuel soon. Lines were long, but not to the degree of those in larger cities.

Stations in the Land Between The Lakes area reported spotty shortages and at least one was completely out of fuel.

Mayfield

Moderate shortages were reported at most stations, some of which had limited purchases to $5 per customer. There was more waiting than usual at the pumps, but nothing extreme, area residents said today.

The situation was described as "more of a nuisance" than an emergency, but most local dealers agreed that they could face shortages soon unless deliveries are stepped up.

Elizabethtown

Supplies were short, station owners said hours were being trimmed and there were a few reports of lines.

Stations in the Radcliff area said they would be closed all weekend; in other areas, the operators were awaiting new deliveries. Most in Elizabethtown will be closed on Sunday, but stations along Interstate 65 were operating on a regular schedule.

Harlan

Motorists crowded service stations to fill up their tanks Thursday, and most stations were closed today.

Ashland

No serious problems were reported today in northeastern Kentucky.

Bowling Green

Many stations said they would be closed during the weekend. But no serious problems or long lines were reported today.

Injuries Minor, Rig Wrecked Murray Trucker Fired On While Driving In Illinois

The violence that is increasingly becoming a part of the nationwide truckers strike affected Murray today when a local trucker, Orvin "Bottles" Hutson, was fired upon early this morning while driving a tractor-trailer rig near Benton, Ill. He received only minor injuries.

According to reports from the Illinois State Police, Hutson said that he was headed south on Interstate 57 near the 73-mile marker about 4 a.m. when a car pulled up beside him and fired two shots with a shotgun into the cab of his rig.

Hutson, who was traveling alone, tried to dodge the shots by falling over into the cab which caused him to lose control of the tractor-trailer. The rig then hit the highway median and overturned causing extensive damage to the vehicle.

Hutson said that the darkness prevented him from being able to tell how many people were in the car but he knew that there were at least two occupants.

Hutson, 54, of 806 Minerva, was treated at 5:55 a.m. at the emergency room of the Franklin County Hospital in Benton for lacerations to his forehead. He is employed by Harper Truck Lines in Paducah.

Hutson's wife said this morning that he left home at 7:30 last night. He called her after the incident and said that his company was sending a car to get him in Illinois and that he would return to Murray this afternoon. She added that he had been somewhat concerned about driving the rig during the strike.

The incident involving Hutson followed a similar one in the same area Thursday where two men were injured — one critically — when their tractor-trailer rig swerved off Interstate 64 east of Mount Vernon in southern Illinois after the right tire was shot out, state police said.

Officers said John Kelley, 26, of Florissant, Mo., was in critical condition at a hospital with a back injury, and Barry Awalt, 32, of St. Louis was admitted for observation.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol said driver Don Collins was shot in the arm early today after he got a call on his citizens band radio that one of his wheels was loose and he got out to check it.

Bullets tore into more than three dozen rigs in 18 states Thursday. Other trucks were pounded by rocks, run off the road, set afire or plagued by nails strewn on roads. In Idaho, drivers had to make their way around two trees set across a highway.

Statewide, Gov. Julian Carroll said today that state police will escort truck drivers and he assigned the National Guard to secure fuel storage areas in Somerset and Owensboro, two hot spots in the spreading trucker protest.

Carroll also told a news conference that he was exempting fuel trucks from normal highway weight limits on various routes, and that truckers would be allowed to charge up to a 6 percent surcharge on hauling rates within the state to recover increased fuel costs.

Though gas stations were running short or closing completely in many areas, Carroll said he did not believe rationing would be necessary.

An announcement Thursday night that the Guard would be activated apparently did little to stem the recent rash of shooting incidents along Kentucky highways. Kentucky State Police headquarters in Frankfort reported four shootings and two rock-throwing incidents along Interstate-75 in eastern Kentucky. There were no injuries reported, police said.

Police said that several persons dragged a driver from his truck during an altercation at weight scales a mile north of London. While the driver was held, several shots were fired into the cab of the truck. Police said the driver returned to his truck and proceeded north to Cincinnati, where he reported the incident to authorities.

Word of Carroll's decision to call out the National Guard came on the heels of spot fuel and food shortages in some parts of Kentucky and reports of truckers being fired on by snipers.

Asked where National Guardsmen would be assigned and for details of the deployment, the governor's spokesman said, "they will be used as needs may determine."

State police reported Kentucky highways quiet Thursday night and early today, but several shootings and other incidents were reported in southcentral Kentucky early Thursday.

Two trucks were fired upon by snipers and a third truck was set afire on Interstate 75 in Whitley County, the second shooting incident in as many days involving trucks on Kentucky highways.

State police said that the cab of a Georgia-Pacific Corp. truck was heavily damaged by fire, with the trailer sustaining little damage. The truck was apparently abandoned along the roadway when the fire occurred. Earlier Thursday, shots were fired at trucks driving on I-75 in Whitley County.

No injuries were reported in connection with the fire or the shootings.

Seven men were arrested in Pulaski County and charged with menacing after they allegedly chased a truck 10 miles after the driver refused to stop at their blockade, state police said.

Trooper Ronnie Turner said Willard Cornwell of Mount Sterling, the driver, didn't stop when striking truckers tried to flag him down at the intersection of U.S. 27 and Kentucky 90 Wednesday night.

After pursuing Cornwell through Somerset onto Kentucky 80, Turner said, the seven allegedly pulled him to the side of the road, cut the air brake lines on his truck and shouted threats.

Turner, who was on routine patrol in the area, saw the incident and arrested the seven on the misdemeanor charge. All were released on $500 bond and are to be arraigned Monday in Pulaski District Court.

About 60 truckers voted at Owensboro to continue their shutdown.

"This thing is turning into a nationwide strike," said organizer Joe Voyles, who told the truckers they picked up some support from the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers.

Kenny Blades, another organizer, said about 25 men planned to block diesel pumps and fuel deliveries along U.S. 21 between Henderson, Ky., and Evansville, Ind.

"I think we've got the manpower to do it," Blades said. "And we're going to be soliciting independents once we get there."

Police in western Kentucky reported scattered shooting and bottle-throwing incidents, but there were no injuries.

Scattered fuel shortages were reported around the state and station operators said the situation could

Hospital Board Approves Six Additions To Staff

Recommendations for six personnel additions to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital Board were approved Thursday night in the board's regularly scheduled meeting.

Those additions are David A. Eberle, urology; William G. Hart, ophthalmology; J. Pervis Milnor III, emergency room medicine; Charles Ferguson, emergency room medicine; Robert Stephenson, emergency room medicine; and Allen Schaffer, emergency room medicine.

Dr. William Wilson, chief of staff, and Stuart Poston, hospital administrator, made the recommendation to the board.

In other action, the board approved the purchase of a Siemens Radiographic and Fluoroscopic machine.

The final price of the machine is $225,000 and 10 percent must be paid to the company before it will deliver the machine.

Wilson and Dr. Prue Kelly, both radiologists, explained features about the machine and answered questions from the board members.

Wilson said radiology is a fairly fixed technology and the machine has "a long term quality capability." He estimated the machine would not be outdated for about 10 years.

The machine is compatible with units already in the hospital.

The hospital currently has three fully equipped X-ray rooms, along with some addition equipment. One staff addition may be needed for the new equipment, Poston said.

He added the X-ray department has had about a 35 percent increase over the last two years.

The board moved to deposit $54,000 immediately into the hospital liability trust fund. The fund currently has $196,000. The goal for the fund is $300,000.

In a review of the building progress, Poston said the hospital has been in Phase II for about a month. He added the foundation for the new wing has been poured and ready for steel for three weeks. However, no steel has been used because the construction workers are taking bids on a steel erector.

The board will hold a dinner to recognize former hospital board members on Thursday, Sept. 6. More information will be given at a later date.

Brown & Herndon Vows Solemnized At Church

Miss Judy Ann Brown became the bride of Randy L. Herndon in an evening candlelight ceremony at the Sinking Spring Baptist Church in Murray.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Barbara Nell Brown of Mayfield, and the late Carl Dennis Brown. Mr. Herndon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Herndon of Murray.

The Rev. Lawson Williamson of Dawson Springs read the impressive double ring ceremony before an altar centered with a fifteen branch candelabra with spiral candelabras flanking the altar. The choir rails were outlined with magnolia foliage and the foliage also banked the sanctuary windows. White urns on tall pedestals held arrangements of sonia gladioli and white daisies to accent the altar decorations, which included the unity candle. For the wedding prayer, the couple knelt on a white wrought-iron preu dieu (kneeling bench). Family pews were marked with clusters of ivory satin ribbons. Musical selections were presented by vocalist Darrell Gibson, who accompanied himself on the guitar as he sang "I Wish You Peace," and "Beautiful." Daryl Miller provided guitar accompaniment for Kerry Vasseur as he sang "The Wedding Song." Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Scott sang "Devoted to You" with guitar accompaniment, and the traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Darrell Gibson, organist.

Bride's Dress

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, John S. Brown, of Eugene, Oregon. She was attired in a formal length gown of silk organza over bridal silk peau de soie, combined with ivory satin ribbons and appliques of Alencon lace. A basque-style bodice featured a Victorian neckline elegantly accented with lace motifs and ivory satin ribbons. Bishop sleeves were designed with deep camelot cuffs. The natural waistline was defined with horizontal bands of matching satin with floor-length satin streamers. Her bouffant skirt featured a deep Edwardian flounce at the hemline which flowed into a chapel-length train.

The bride's formal-length veil of illusion was designed especially for her gown, and was attached to a Juliet headress of ivory Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of silk sonia roses and ivory roses with matching satin streamers tied in love knots. The maid of honor was Miss Tammy Allbritton. Miss Jill

Mr. and Mrs. Randy L. Herndon

Brown, sister of the bride, Miss Teresa Cunningham and Mrs. Alice (Steve) Hargrove were bridesmaids.

They wore identical formal-length dresses of apricot piana with flowing capes of silk organza which tapered to knee-length in the back. Fashioned with sweetheart necklines, the dresses were accented with self-fabric roses at the cape neckline. Each carried a single silk talisman rose.

Miss Jennifer Cunningham served as flower girl. Her formal-length dress was of apricot knit with white lace trim. She scattered rose petals from a white wicker basket. Mr. Herndon chose as best man, Kendred Paschall, with Randy Walker, Randy McDaniel and Kerry Vasseur as groomsmen. Serving as ushers were Monroe Jones, Phil Jones, Kenneth Hawkins, Pat McMillen and Ken Orr Brandon. Lighting the candles were Pat McMillen and Ken Orr Brandon.

The guest register was kept by Miss Susan Herndon and Miss Lynette Herndon, who also distributed rice bags to the guests.

Mrs. Brown chose for her daughter's wedding a formal-length gown of pale aqua silk and polyester, fashioned with a V neckline and trimmed with tiny covered buttons on the bodice front and full flowing cape sleeves of silk chiffon. She selected white accessories and wore a white lamella corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Herndon, wore a formal-length gown of dusty pink piana, designed with gathers at the neckline and waistline. Her corsage was also a white lamella.

Special guests at the wedding were grandmothers of the bride and groom. They were presented with white carnation corsages.

The groom's mother was escorted to the altar where she lighted a unity candle for her daughter before being seated.

Reception

A reception followed the ceremony, and was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with apricot lined covers overlaid with white net. Centering the table was an arrangement of mixed spring flowers in a four branched candelabrum holding ivory tapers and decorated with ribbon streamers.

The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Terry Wright of Camden, Tenn. The four tiered cake was separated with Italian figurine columns. Beneath one of the tiers was a fountain centered with a cherub. Each tier was decorated with miniature rosebuds, and at the base were white doves and hearts entwined. Topping the cake were a pair of kissing cherubs.

A silver tray held a large silver punch bowl and other appointments of silver and crystal were used. Also helping serve were Misses Teresa Starks and Jan Cooper.

The couple left the church for a honeymoon in Nashville, Tenn., and are now making their home in Murray.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Herndon hosted a catered rehearsal dinner for the wedding party in the fellowship hall of the church on the eve of the wedding. Places were laid for thirty guests.

Sometimes, Father Doesn't Know Best

DEAR ABBY: At 82, father is becoming increasingly frail and forgetful. He has substantial means and has lived alone with a housekeeper since Mother died five years ago. I am his only child (a daughter) with a family of my own. I've invited him to live with me but he's reluctant to give up the home he's lived in for so many years. Now the problem: Some former friends who wronged Dad in business years ago have suddenly started to visit him regularly. They've introduced him to a young member of their family and he has become quite infatuated with her. The dollar signs in her eyes are obvious to me, but not to Dad. I don't want to deprive my father of any real happiness in his last years, but neither do I want him to fall prey to these opportunists I do not trust. What, if anything, should I do?

CONFERNING IN CALIF.

DEAR CONCERNED: How much your father should be protected "for his own good" and whether he's competent to make his own decisions are proper questions to discuss with his lawyer and physician. In the meantime, spend as much time with your father as possible but resist the temptation to bad-mouth his new friends.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps you will put this letter in your own words and tell my husband that he needs help. He won't listen to me. He is 60 pounds overweight and, to make matters worse, a diabetic. He has a wonderful family who loves him very much. Whenever one of us reminds him that he needs to lose weight, he says, "So if I die, you will be left well-off." Please, please, help us to help him. He is a dear and wonderful person. I want him around to see his grandchildren grow up, and he won't be around if he doesn't take better care of himself.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: An obese person knows he needs to lose weight, and being constantly reminded of it will only make him feel guilty - which will make him feel rotten, which will cause him to eat to feel better. If he chooses to dig his own grave with his fork, no one can stop him. But if he really wants to help himself, let him write to me and I'll tell him what to do.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful diamond ring which was given to me by my mother-in-law when I became engaged. It was given to her by her mother-in-law, so I consider it a priceless heirloom.

When the time comes, I will offer the ring to my son for his bride - and that poses a problem because I have twin sons! How should it be decided twin which gets the ring? Should it go to the first-born twin? Or should they draw straws for it?

They are only 17 now, so I have time to make that decision, but I would appreciate your suggestions.

MOTHER OF TWINS

DEAR MOTHER: The son who becomes engaged first should inherit the ring. And if the twins should announce a double engagement, let them draw straws.

HERE'S HEALTH

By Dr. BRYAN THACKER

Every day, Americans swallow literally tons of aspirin tablets in an effort to get relief from pain...usually headaches. Such self-treatment offers only temporary relief.

When headache results from a spinal mis-alignment, chiropractic care can provide an effective cure. If a spinal segment is displaced in a manner that results in compression or irritation of the upper spinal nerves, chiropractic procedures are needed to correct the cause of the pain.

A chiropractic spinal examination reveals spinal distortions which may be causing pain and discomfort. Phone for an appointment.

HEALTH

A gouty topic

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've heard about gout all my life and what causes it, but I've never heard what the symptoms of gout are and what to look for. Does it cause sores or bleeding? I would like some information on how it affects people.
DEAR READER — Gout is caused by an overproduction of uric acid. This forms a salt and crystals of uric acid salt can settle in your joints. The classic symptom is the hot, red, painful, swollen great toe. You can have an inflammatory reaction with swelling in other joints besides the big toe.
Some people have high blood uric acid levels yet do not develop gout. This is particularly true in women although women also can develop painful, inflamed gouty joints the same as men.
The long term slow deposit of uric acid salts in and around the joint areas can cause joint deformity and gouty arthritis.
Other than the arthritic changes of either the acute inflammatory or the chronic deforming type, there are very few symptoms that you would identify specifically as gout. The rest of its side effects are caused by associated disease of other organs, particularly heart disease and kidney disease.
To give you a better concept of gout, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout, Uric Acid. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I enjoy the lovely big persimmons that we have and eat one a day. I was told by a friend that doctors say they cause stones and fiber balls. I'm 70 and do have pockets in the intestines. I have not noticed any problem. Is this dangerous?
DEAR READER — As a matter of fact, it is. Persimmons are one of certain food or plant substances that can cause bezoars. You can also get bezoars from hair.
What is a bezoar? Well, it's an insoluble aggregation of material that hasn't been completely digested. They've been known for centuries. In fact, the word comes from Arabic.
In antiquity these were observed in the Orient in the stomachs of goats and gazelles and were thought to have great medical value. It was claimed that they would cure such ailments as old age, snake bites and even remove evil spirits. A golden framed bezoar was among Queen Elizabeth's crown jewels in 1622.
When they form in the stomach they can cause ulceration, and as they pass into the intestine, they can cause obstruction. The literature on the entire subject is voluminous, but in reference to persimmons, there is a material in the unripened fruit or under the skin of the ripe fruit that coagulates with acid in the stomach. It is this coagulated mass that forms the bezoar. And, apparently, drinking copious amounts of water immediately after eating it actually makes the situation worse.
The obvious solution is not to use persimmons, but if you persist in eating them, there are certain precautions you should take. The first is to never eat any of the persimmons unless they are fully and completely ripe. And the second is to remove the skin and do not eat it or the pulp directly attached to the skin. And I'm not going to guarantee that will mean that you will not develop a bezoar.
The U.S. and Italy produce half the world's crop of peaches.

Have you ever stopped to think of the value of trees to a property? I mean the real financial value. One single tree will add a considerable amount to the attractiveness of a home when you get ready to sell it, and a yard full of various kinds of trees can make a home out of a house.
There are some real reasons for this. When the winter winds blow, a grove of trees will break the force of it and act as a shelter. In the hot summertime, it is quite evident that a well shaded house will be much cooler. Therefore, it will take less energy to keep it at a comfortable temperature.
Have you ever walked in the woods on a summer's day? Then you have noticed the delightfully fresh air. So trees around a house can add to the pleasant surroundings. Not only that, but they are actually health giving in that they absorb some of the smog and fumes that fill the air on well traveled streets, such as carbon monoxide, and give off an air freshener all of its own. They are a ready-made air conditioner.
And addition to all this is their visible beauty. The first thing a good subdivision planner does, after laying out the lots and streets, is to plant trees. By the time plans are complete, there are already young sprouts turning green and doing their part to make the layout beautiful.
When you begin to think of the variety, there is some kind for every need or desire. There are the oaks, the kind of trees, slow growing but always hardy and easy to start. They take a little time to do their best, but planted along with maples that grow so fast, it isn't long before there are bits of shade in the newest yard.
Then don't forget the pines, with all their splendor and stateliness. I have some that were set out 25 years ago by my son who was about 15 years old. Now those little seedlings are towering trees that are a joy.
Don't leave off the blooming trees, the magnificent magnolia, the lovely flowering crabs and the dogwoods. They are lovely as background setting or as a specimen plant.
There is one suggestion: give them plenty of room. They don't like to be crowded. Set them out right and they will give years of pleasure to all beholders.

Congressional Pay-Fattening

Congress can't seem to break itself of the habit of trying to sneak pay raises for itself through the back door. Earlier this year, a House Ways and Means subcommittee proposed to give members of Congress a $50-a-day tax deduction for Washington expenses. If approved, that would have meant nearly $5000 more a year in the pockets of most representatives and senators.

That was about the time the Senate was reneging on its and the House's commitment to limit outside earnings (Mostly from speaking fees) to $8625 a year. The restriction was part of a deal under which Congress gave itself a $12,900 pay raise in 1977 that lifted salaries to $57,500 a year.

Then just the other day, the House went through some legislative contortions in which it first tried to give congressmen a 7 percent pay raise, then knocked it down to 5.5 percent and finally decided it might be the better part of political valor not to give themselves a raise at all.

The gymnastics occurred on a pay-raise amendment attached to a legislative appropriations bill by the House Appropriations Committee. With the skids greased by the leadership, a 5.5 percent pay raise sailed through on a voice vote until it came time to put their names on the line in a vote on the entire package—the bill plus the pay-raise amendment. Fearful that that time of the political consequences of voting themselves more money, the House sent the bill back to committee, from which it presumably will return minus the pay raise amendment.

The sorry episode should be another reminder to members that if they think they're entitled to more money, they ought to consider it in a straight-forward manner. The truth probably is that they resort to deviousness, disguises and non-recorded votes because constituents think they're well enough paid as it is.

Senate And SALT II

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate does not customarily reject treaties outright — but it has been known to amend them to oblivion. And that is the administration's real problem in the campaign for SALT II.

If President Carter and his allies can guide the pact to the point of final approval without major changes — which would require new negotiations with the Soviet Union — they've probably won. But getting it there is going to be difficult. Some of the people Carter most needs on his side, including Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., are saying the treaty will have to be amended in order to gain the two-thirds vote required to approve ratification.

Not even the most ardent critics of the treaty Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev signed in Vienna will confess to being against arms limitation in principle. But to a senator, they say they will oppose any pact that does not safeguard American security, and argue that SALT II does not meet that standard.

President Carter, of course, insists that it does. Indeed, he argues that SALT II would make a positive contribution to U.S. security.

But security, in the age of nuclear standoff, is in the eye of the beholder. When senators like Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., behold SALT, they see appeasement.

Carter told Congress Monday night the treaty "will become the most exhaustively discussed ... of our time, perhaps of all time."

The president said administration experts will discuss every detail, and he will personally "explain it throughout our nation, to every American who will listen."

The opposition will be doing the same thing. Because of its timing, the treaty debate will rapidly become blended with the politics of 1980, for the Senate will be considering it late into the fall, and it is not impossible that the final votes will come early in 1980, as the campaign for the White House begins in earnest.

So the president has political as well as diplomatic prestige at stake. Unless he can get the Senate to approve the treaty without significant change, he enters the campaign with a dent in his image.

By the time all the words are uttered and it comes time to vote, a good many people are likely to be thoroughly confused. The SALT treaty is long, complex, and contested on point after point. What one side calls a contribution to peace and American well being, the other side calls a sellout — and on the same set of facts.

It's enough to make an administration lobbyist yearn for the simpler days of the Panama Canal treaties, when the issue was as clear and simple as it was emotional.

The canal deal was yes or no, give up the waterway to Panama or refuse to yield it. The Senate said yes.

The arms accord is a collection of maybes, despite the fact that, as Carter noted, it puts equal ceilings on the strategic arsenals of both sides.

Thanks

Editor:
Kathy and I would like to thank the people of this community for their wonderful support, interest, and kindness during my campaign for Governor. Our opportunity to come to know so many of you was a rare privilege.

Many good things have been said about our campaign, and everyone who was involved shares the credit.

We will return, often I hope, to visit you again, but meanwhile I will carry the knowledge of your support far past this Primary. It means a great deal to me and my family.

Again, thanks for everything.

The Numbers And Recession

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Recession, officially, is measured by the numbers. When output of goods and services declines for two successive quarters, say the keepers of the numbers, we have a recession.

Even before we tumble into the economic pits we use the numbers to guide us. Like a pilot flying on instruments, we seek guidance from the dials of production, jobs, sales, credit and like.

This is fine for economists, and obviously necessary too, but for the mass of people a recession has come to mean not so much a numerical measurement as a mood, an attitude, a perception of times.

Ask almost anyone, if the past four years have been economically good years or poor. They likely will choose the latter. And yet, the economy has been expanding rather than receding.

"So what," they are likely to say, "my buying power hasn't expanded." And, were it their style to do so, they could illustrate their case with the same numbers used to show that times are good.

They could show that in the 12 months through March, straight-time wages rose 7.8 percent, but prices jumped 10.2 percent, resulting in a net loss of buying power. "Isn't that recession?" they ask.

They know that passbook savings earn less than 6 percent interest, and U.S. Savings Bonds no more than 6.5 percent if held a minimum of five years, while the inflation rate is 13.9 percent. A net loss, they say.

They know that inflation has shrunk their life insurance values, that they can't afford college for the kids, that the house they aspired to is beyond their reach, and that they've had to retrench.

The mood of personal recession is measured by consumer polls. During the past four years, officially one of the longest continuous economic expansions in our history, consumer moods soured.

Which attitude is real? The official one, that the economy has been strong and expanding, or the mood, based mainly on personal experience, that the

Solomon's Request For Wisdom

I Kings 3:3-14

Speaking as a king to his successor, an aged warrior to a young man of peace, a man of varied and rich experience to one of inexperience, and as a father to a son, David delivered a brief, pointed, impressive, and unforgettable charge to Solomon: "Shew thyself a man." He wanted Solomon to be "Spirit-controlled, fearless above bribery and corruption, and vitally identified with the best interest of the people, thereby glorifying God and being a blessing to his nation."

Solomon's reign began with devotion to God and to duty. One of his first acts as king was to go to Gibeon, where the tabernacle was located, for the express purpose of worshiping God. There he placed 1,000 burnt offerings on the altar as a sacrifice unto the Lord. What an act of love and devotion! After a day at worship Solomon fell into a deep sleep. Out of appreciation of his sincerity for purpose, God appeared to him in a dream, desiring of disclosing His will to him and of blessing him.

The Proposition

To Solomon God made a generous proposition: "Ask what I shall give thee." God, the Great Giver, Who always delights to give in large measure, was desirous that Solomon make it possible for Him to bestow upon him some wonderful gift, so He offered Him his choice of blessings from the divine storehouse.

The Prayer

Solomon's response to God's gracious offer was prompt. In his prayer the element of thanksgiving came first. He expressed appreciation for the mercy and faithfulness of God in dealing with his father, David. Solomon acknowledged that God had bestowed upon him the high privilege of reigning over his people as their king. He was truly grateful for every manifestation of the grace and mercy of God toward his father and himself. His genuine humility was revealed in his admission of a lack of wisdom for the proper administration of the stupendous task which had been committed to him. Realizing his limitations and his dependence on God, Solomon made the confession: "I am but a little child; I know not how to go out or come in." Neither can we perform the tasks assigned to us without the help of God.

The Petition

When God gave Solomon the privilege of asking what he would, he carefully considered his needs before making his request. There were many things for which he might have asked — pleasure, prosperity, happiness, success, honor, renown, riches, glory, and long life, — but he did not do so. He simply asked for "an understanding heart." With becoming modesty and commendable earnestness he acknowledged his inadequacy for the assignment that God had given to him. His immediate need was the gift of discernment to know how to be a good king and thereby please and honor God, to Whom he was greatly indebted for his excellent opportunity for signal service.

God was highly pleased with Solomon's wise and unusual request, as was evidenced by His memorable reply: "Behold, I have done according to thy words." Because Solomon asked for wisdom God graciously and joyously gave it to him, and then to that wonderful blessing God generously added honor, riches, and victory over his enemies, those excellent blessings which he had not even requested. Let us, too, ask God for an understanding heart to discern between good and evil in order that we may always choose the best! That course of conduct will prove to be profitable, and will never be a cause of regret. God-given insight enables us to make wise decisions which result in proper conduct.

The Story Of

Calloway County

1822-1976 By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

No matter what the source of any fire in the county, existing conditions resulted in the events being credited to Night Riders. This was also the case in a fire originating at the Wells Jackson place in Crossland during the week of Oct. 1, destroying the O. H. Wilson Dry Goods store and warehouse, J. D. McLeod's store, the post office and ice house, and the vacated residence of Dr. Parvin Crawford.

Pressure of state troops in Calloway County with nightly patrols on lonely roads, similarly in Bowling Green and Hopkinsville, had created general resentment among citizens. The troops' presence had an adverse effect on the social, economic and spiritual life of this and other communities. In addition, the failure by the Commonwealth to convict Jake Ellis in the August term of court and subsequent continuance of the case to the November term of circuit court convinced the prosecuting attorneys of the absolute inability of ever securing a conviction in Calloway. It was obvious the failure to secure conviction was the same fact that no jury could be assembled which did not have members of the Planters Protection Association on the panel, thus with sympathizers on any panel, it was obvious Association members would be more than tolerant of the outlaw band of Night Riders, effecting biased verdicts.

As an alternative in Kentucky, which depended on tobacco culture for its principal source of tax revenue, an executive order by Gov. Augustus Willson was given for the militia to break camps and return to their homes on Sunday, Dec. 5. The announcement was met with high hopes and cheer with the approaching Christmas holidays. Military law under the militia had been imposed on the county since April 6, the longest occupation of state militia in this county during its entire existence. Despite the early antagonisms in the spring, the folks generally had begun to admire and respect the troopers, even the editor of the Ledger paid high tribute to their conduct in the edition of December 10.

Lower Prices Luring Thousands To Convert To Natural Gas Heat

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Lured by lower prices and promises of plentiful supplies, thousands of Americans are turning to natural gas instead of oil to heat their homes.

Louis R. Hampton, president of the Providence, R.I., Gas Co. "Gas at the moment is considerably cheaper than oil."

Columbia Gas of Ohio expects to add 7,000 customers this year; Intermountain Gas in Idaho has signed up 1,200 families so far in 1979; and the president of Northern Utilities in Portland, Maine, reports a "substantial increase" in customers.

The American Gas Association says its members reported that 144,000 customers converted from oil to gas last year; this year, said spokesman Terry Uhl, the figure is expected to be even higher.

Between 60 percent and 65 percent of American homes use natural gas; about half as many use heating oil. Heating oil prices are soaring, however; they are expected to hit 80 cents a gallon this winter, up from 50 cents at the start of the 1978 heating season. There are warnings of shortages, particularly in the Northeast, which relies heavily on oil. And price and supply are prompting some people to switch fuels.

Heating bills vary widely, but a look at some averages shows that the savings achieved by switching can be dramatic.

The National Oil Jobbers Council estimates that the average household which uses oil consumes about 1,300 gallons during the heating season. At 80 cents per gallon, that would mean an annual bill of $1,040.

The American Gas Association says the average gasheated household used 78,000 cubic feet during the 1978-79 heating season. The group said the current average price is $2.53 per thousand cubic feet for a heating bill of just under $200. Prices are rising, but even if they reached $5 per 1,000 cubic feet, the annual bill still would be only $468 — less than half the amount spent by a family with oil heat.

Individuals aren't the only ones who are changing to natural gas. In New York City, the Lefrak Organization, announced it was converting 54 buildings with 9,214 apartments from oil to gas.

Legislation passed by Congress in 1978 lifted price controls on natural gas in a series of steps designed to result in nearly complete deregulation by 1985. It already has resulted in price boosts for consumers. It also is expected to bring increased supplies and has prompted some authorities to lift restrictions on utilities which had been prohibited from adding new natural gas customers.

The Washington Gas Light Co., which supplies the District of Columbia and its Maryland and Virginia suburbs, had not accepted new customers for over five years. Area public service commissions okayed a limited expansion last year and company spokesman Paul Young said Washington Gas Light is adding customers at the rate of 2 percent or 11,000 to 12,000 a year. "Supplies have been improving for this area and we are now showing a steady growth period," said Young.

Columbia Gas of Ohio recently ended a seven-year moratorium on new customers and spokesmen say they have a backlog of 10,000 to 14,000 orders for residential service. Dave Talbot of East Ohio Gas Co. said over 85 percent of the new homes built in his company's service area are using natural gas. "We have a lot of customers who are switching from oil to gas and we are picking up a number of commercial accounts that are changing over," he said.

William Chapman of Idaho's Intermountain Gas said growth was small last year, but is up sharply in 1979. He said supplies were "excellent" and the company, which now has 96,000 customers, could add 70,000 more without trouble. Prices also are up; Chapman estimated that increases are running parallel to the general rise in the Consumer Price Index.

William Keveney of Northeast Utilities in Connecticut expects a 10 percent to 15 percent boost in prices. "Gas will cost the customer more, but will not touch the escalation that has gone on for oil," said Keveney. Bruce Griffin of the nearby Southern Connecticut Gas Corp., said: "There are a lot of people who want to convert to natural gas ... There's hysteria in the oil market."

Northern States Power Co. in Fargo, N.D., said it plans a "low-key promotion" to attract new customers. "We feel natural gas is going to be in demand because of its lower cost compared to fuel oil," said company spokesman Joe Peterson. Northern States currently charges $3.88 for 1,000 cubic feet of gas. That's the equivalent of 46.4 cents a gallon for heating oil, Peterson said.

In the state of Washington, electricity has been a traditional favorite for heating because of low prices due to hydroelectric power. Now, however, electricity prices are rising and William Wortley of Washington Natural Gas, said conversions are increasing twice as fast as had been expected.

Indictments Issued In Wells Fargo Robbery

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Federal indictments have been returned against a father and son in connection with the $370,000 "Geronimo's Revenge" robbery of a Wells Fargo armored truck.

Howard T. Kalsbeck, 49, and his son, Howard Dennis Kelly, 28, were indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury at Lexington, according to the office of U.S. Attorney James Areheart in Covington. They are being held in New York state.

They were indicted on one count each of theft from an interstate shipment, transporting stolen goods in interstate commerce, using a firearm to commit a felony, and conspiracy. Kelly was indicted on an additional count of interstate transportation of a firearm by a convicted felon, said a spokesman in Areheart's office.

Kelly had three previous convictions, according to John Kelly, agent in charge of organized crime with the Cincinnati FBI.

The accused father and son were held by federal authorities in Rochester, N.Y., under $50,000 each.

The two, originally Rochester residents, were arrested Wednesday, two days after the armored truck was robbed and found abandoned in northern Kentucky.

A long letter, pierced with an arrow and titled "Geronimo's Revenge," was on the front seat of the truck.

It reportedly contained complaints that $4 an hour was not sufficient pay for a Wells Fargo employee.

Vincent Behan, agent in charge of the FBI office at Covington, said Kalsbeck left three letters for neighbors asking them to take care of his wife, Joyce.

"If I let Howie go out by himself, he would have killed someone or got killed," said one letter. "I couldn't let this happen."

"Our agent came across them in the first interview with Mrs. Kalsbeck," said Behan.

He said the men were traced to Rochester by two telephone numbers found in Kalsbeck's home. The Rochester FBI checked on the numbers and found a car rented June 13 by Kalsbeck in his own name. The two men were arrested early Wednesday.

"A lot of people, in the back of their minds, don't realize what an investigation will turn up quickly," Behan said.

"I don't think he had any thought that he would be tied up to Rochester."

Kelly, who uses the maiden last name of his mother, used the name of David Peter Preston to get the driving job with Wells Fargo, the FBI said.

"They (company) haven't given any indication, but I would have to assume that they didn't know his background," said Hugh Higgins, FBI agent in charge at Rochester.

In Atlanta, Ga., Timothy W. Hughes, vice president for personnel at Wells Fargo, refused to say how Kelly was hired. "We don't see what that would add," said Hughes.

Police in Rochester said Kelly was convicted in 1975 of stealing $2,000 from a police department safe where he worked as a property clerk. He was also convicted of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and later on a federal charge of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle and was placed on a year's probation after testifying as a government witness, Higgins said.

Kelly was employed at Wells Fargo for about a month before Monday's incident.

Campbell County police said the abandoned truck was found in nearby Silver Grove, Ky. Another driver was left handcuffed and his eyes taped.

The FBI said all or most of the money was recovered.

That's What New NBA Owner Will Treat Rockets Like Next Season

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Why would a smart businessman like George Maloof want to buy a pro basketball team?

Hasn't the new owner of the Houston Rockets heard it's a dying sport? Doesn't he know interest is down to the point where test patterns draw higher ratings on television than National Basketball Association games? Does he enjoy throwing his money away?

Not Maloof. He's going into this venture with both eyes wide open and he likes what he sees.

"I expect the Rockets to make money next season," said Maloof. "I looked at this thing for six months before I made the decision to buy. My controller looked into it. My accounting firm looked into it. I would not have gotten involved if they had told me I was going to lose money."

While he clearly enjoys owning an NBA team, Maloof is not the type of man who spends $10 million on a plaything to gratify his ego. He is a shrewd businessman based in New Mexico with interests in banking, hotels, trucking and liquor distribution worth about $100 million.

And he expects to make money from the Rockets by applying the same principals he has applied to his other businesses.

"The customer is king," Maloof said during a break at the NBA Board of Governors meeting, where his acquisition of the Rockets was officially confirmed Thursday.

"I learned that as a young boy, working at my father's general store in Las Vegas, N.M. We catered to our customers. Some of them would travel 15 or 20 miles to get to our store, so we had a corral for their horses out back. If the store was closed and a customer showed up, we would go down and open it and do anything the customer wanted."

"My philosophy has been built around the customer and, quite frankly, I have been very successful with that philosophy. With the Rockets, the fan is our customer — and we intend to do everything for him."

Maloof feels he has the makings of a championship team, with the key component being center Moses Malone, the NBA's most valuable player last season. Malone's contract runs out after one more year but Maloof has already begun negotiations on a long-term extension.

"I think Moses is the greatest basketball player in the world," said Maloof, knowing full well that such a statement will only increase Malone's asking price. "I have the greatest respect for him and will spend what it takes to keep him in Houston."

Maloof, 56, has been chairman of the New Mexico State Racing Commission the last four years, is chairman of the state's Olympic committee and sponsors "The Maloofmen" basketball and baseball teams that have won 12 state AAU titles. He once considered buying the Boston Red Sox but balked when he was unable to obtain full financial data on the baseball team.

Late-Starter Yeager Boosts Dodgers; Yankees Triumph

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Tom Lasorda was having lunch and it came to him while passing the pasta.

"I had a feeling about putting Steve Yeager back behind home plate," said the manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

So Lasorda made up the lineup card Thursday night, writing in the name of his troubled catcher. And the decision looked like solid gold after Yeager blasted a three-run homer to help the slumped Dodgers beat the Atlanta Braves 6-4.

"You always feel better when you contribute," said

Yeager, who went into the game batting a horrendous .151. "I know things have been bad for us so far, but it's just a matter of some of the guys on this team turning their seasons around."

Yeager is one of the keys, of course. A longtime first-stringer who helped the Dodgers win two straight National League pennants, he has been generally ineffective so far this year and has missed a lot of action.

Before the game, Lasorda had a heart-to-heart talk with Yeager.

"I told him I didn't think he was putting all his ability to good use," said Lasorda.

"Reggie Smith just played hard," said Lasorda. "He knew he had to do the job. He reached back for that something extra tonight."

The game was the only one played in the National League Thursday night. In the American, the New York Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1; the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Minnesota Twins 3-2; the Oakland A's outscored the Kansas City Royals 10-7; the Boston Red Sox edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2; the Chicago White Sox whipped the Seattle Mariners 9-5 and the Texas Rangers posted a 3-2 decision over the California Angels in 11 innings.

Gottfried 'Looks Forward' To '79 Season

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

There's still, yawn, 70 days until Murray State's season-opening football game at Southeast Missouri, but Coach Mike Gottfried had machine gun-like answers to questions concerning he and his staff's plans until then.

"We'll go into our meetings July 15 for a week, and all the coaches will group and go over their plans," Gottfried said between bites of salad during lunch yesterday. "Our offensive playbook is pretty set, but there's still work to be done defensively."

Gottfried expresses relief that several factors facing him prior to last season, like 1) establishing a new coaching system, 2) getting to know the players and 3) working toward team "togetherness" are lessened with a season of head coaching under his belt.

But there are others. "Only five players will own senior status next season, and Gottfried admits that fact is a concern to him. "We had a lack of leadership last season, and I think that may have hurt us." He hopes that the naming of co-captains Kris Robbins and Danny Lee Johnson (on offense) and Tony Boone and Terry Love (defense) will instill leadership among the squad.

Gottfried figures the schedule to be tougher than last season's, since nearly all the opponents have primarily the same squads returning. And he says a new opponent, Southeast Louisiana, may be the toughest on the Racers' schedule.

But the question mark that surfaces above all else is the quarterback spot, vacated by now-graduate assistant Mike Dickens.

Before spring drills this year, Gottfried felt Ricky Ray, a sophomore from Owensboro, had the upper hand. But he and Bryan Crall, a junior-college transfer from Rockford, Ill., battled to a standoff, and now Gottfried doesn't eliminate the possibility of a freshman gaining the signal-calling spot.

"Quarterback is probably the toughest position for a freshman to handle," says Gottfried, "because there's so much leadership involved. Usually, a freshman just can't cope with that."

Gottfried has had some experience at the position, in fact, a considerable amount. He was a four-year starter at Morehead, and luckily, he says, was able to get off to a good start.

"I completed my first seven passes and I was off," Gottfried says. "That would be a factor to a freshman if he were to start at any position — getting off on the right foot."

Three freshman quarterbacks will be watched closely for any ability to help the Racers quickly — Winston Ford, Buddy Phillips and Jeff Kirk. Ford hails from Memphis, Phillips is from Dayton, Ohio, and Kirk is a native of Gailon, Ohio.

But if Danny Lee Johnson comes up with the kind of year the coaches and most fans expect him to, the quarterbacking pressures could be lessened considerably. Johnson, a 6-1, 210-pound junior-to-be tailback, rushed for 1,217 yards and was the Ohio Valley Conference's offensive player of the year.

But when the 115 or so athletes report to the Racer camp sometime later this summer, the emphasis will be on team, rather than individual, performances.

"I still believe the togetherness aspect is very important," says Gottfried. "If every player knows each other well, the mistakes don't seem to hurt as much. A player is able to pick a guy up after a fumble."

And Gottfried has updated the Murray State philosophy — from "cautious optimism" in 1978 to "open confidence" this season. "Our goal is a winning season, the better-than-500 mark," Gottfried admits. "That, and improving our standing in the league."

Murray State was 4-7 last season and won only one of six OVC games, but three of the conference losses came by a touchdown or less. "Every time we seemed to be a position to win, we had a costly mistake kill us," Gottfried says. "All you can hope for in those kinds of games is that the confidence and leadership surfaces to pull you through."

Gottfried knows the desire by his players is present. "We had 15 fights on the field during the spring, and that tells me that there are guys wanting starting jobs. We had a lot of good, hard hitting, and that's something that we were late in doing my first spring here."

And defense, something that rose and fell in waves last season, should show the biggest improvement of all, Gottfried says. "All the players have really taken to Frank Beamer (the new defensive coach), and I have a good feeling about our defense. I'm looking forward to this season."

ticket office offers a family rate: buy two $20 season tickets, and a child's seat may be purchased for $10.

Reserved box seats are limited to Racer Club members.

Though No Longer A Manager, Lemon Will Guide AL All-Stars

By BOB GREENE
 AP Sports Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Lemon will put on his New York Yankees uniform once more when he manages the American League in the All-Star Game against the National League at Seattle July 17.

Cleveland Indians seven times, pitched in four All-Star games and two World Series as an Indian.

It will not be the first time that a manager has been called from the sidelines to handle an All-Star team. The last was Dick Williams, who piloted the 1974 American League team after resigning as Oakland manager following the 1973 World Series. But by then, he had been signed by the California Angels.

In the very first All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in Chicago, in 1933, John McGraw managed the National League team although he had been replaced as New York Giants manager. Neither Johnny Keane of the 1964 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals nor Yogi Berra of the Yankees was managing the same club at the start of the 1965 season. Keane was replaced by Gene Mauch, who had managed the Philadelphia Phillies to a tie for second place in 1964, and Berra by Al Lopez, who had piloted the Chicago White Sox to a second place finish in the American League. In 1963, Ralph Houk's Yankees won the AL title, but Houk was named general manager of the team and Lopez again managed the AL All-Stars in 1964.

"I feel very great" about being named AL manager, Lemon said. "I feel that it's an honor to be the manager of the All-Star Game. Always when I was playing I looked forward to playing in it... I was a coach twice and an honorary captain once."

Lemon was named manager of the Yankees at midseason in 1978, taking over for Billy Martin, leading the team to a World Series victory and was named AL Manager of the Year. He was replaced as manager last Monday by Martin.

"Bob wanted to be the All-Star manager and he certainly earned the honor," said AL President Lee MacPhail. "It seems to me that Bob is the perfect choice. He has been active in the league and has seen all the teams this year, and he knows all the league talent thoroughly."

"Together, we hope to select the best possible club to oppose Tommy Lasorda and the Nationals..."

The Reds bombed the Astros 13-1 to take a Pony League victory in East League baseball action yesterday.

In Little League games, the Reds nipped the A's 30-29 in a three-hour marathon. Ray Coursey drilled a home run for the Reds, while Greg Boren added a round-tripper for the A's.

The A's beat the O'Henry's 25-23 in Prep League action, while the Slides beat Hale's Angels 21-18 and the Rebels defeated the Stuffers 30-14 in T-Ball games.

Randy Poe and Jason Phillips each homered twice for Rebels.

If you designed your own round baler, it might look a lot like Avco New Idea's Bale King.

The Avco New Idea Bale King has the advantages you're looking for. Like the fixed-position bale chamber that makes a better bale — one that's soft in the center providing good internal drying characteristics and higher quality crops. Yet it's tightly wrapped outside for stability and weather resistance. And positive easy-start bale forming in all crops that saves you time and helps you get more baling done.

It's also a one-man system that bales up to 15 bales an hour of hay, straw, grass, corn stalks, or other crop residue. Bale King — the fast, efficient one-man way to bale. We'd like to know what you think of our Bale King. Now's your chance to tell us.

Students Pursue Goals Of Jobs And Degree Of Independence

EDITOR'S NOTE — Students of the 1960s shouted for an end to war and the draft. But, today's students are not without problems.

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — In some ways, a lean University of Michigan sophomore named Steve typifies his shadowy, quiet generation. No tribal rock festivals, no anti-war chants, no massing of National Guardsmen advertises its presence.

Steve and his contemporaries around the nation are hitting the books, not the pavement. They know what they want: jobs and a degree of independence that comes only with financial security. In pursuit of these goals this quiet generation is making tough choices.

"If a job and money weren't a problem, I'd get a doctorate in philosophy. But there are no jobs now," Steve said. So he's striving to earn the grades that will get him into law school.

Educators nationwide say Steve's contemporaries are flocking in unprecedented numbers to courses like engineering and business — those most likely to pay off, in the end, with a job.

Steve believes a law degree will assure "a certain amount of wealth so I can do things I enjoy. That will make up some for not doing what I honestly want, which is to finish in philosophy."

A decade ago, Steve's counterparts could afford to flout the security Steve pursues. Students were the cutting edge of the tumult that so preoccupied this nation.

Here at Michigan in 1962, they founded SDS — Students for a Democratic Society. They held the first anti-war "teach-in." Some 13,000 of them boycotted classes in a protest on behalf of black students.

The Associated Press reported in 1969 that experts described that year's college crop as the first in American history "which is not going to college just to earn a living. Freed of money problems, it is free to explore its mind and conscience, to delay the traditional burdens of adulthood..."

A generation cut classes for anti-war and civil rights marches; some enrolled less to prepare for a future than to avoid the draft; raucously idealistic, they protested, disrupted and blissfully "turned on."

Today much of the change they sought is reality. The war is ended, the draft is a memory and, nationwide, most students play a formal role in deciding university rules and regulations.

And the economic context has altered. If prosperity liberated the anti-war generation to view education as a tool for change, uncertainty has shaped Steve's generation into an intensely competitive, anxious, self-absorbed crowd.

They are intimately familiar with statistics like these: That at any one time in 1975, 36 million people between 16 and 24 were looking for work but couldn't find it; that in the same year nearly half the qualified education graduates couldn't get teaching jobs.

Backers Of Tellico Dam Need To Win Approval Of Senate

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Backers of the Tellico Dam, fresh from a surprise victory in the House of Representatives, are renewing their drive to win Senate approval for completion of the project, stalled by a tiny fish called the snail darter.

A spokesman for Sen. James Sasser said Wednesday the Tennessee Democrat is "committed to doing what he can to fund the project," a $118 million Tennessee Valley Authority facility whose completion has been blocked because it threatens the snail darter with extinction.

Work was halted on the project more than two years ago when a U.S. Appeals Court ruled that closing the dam's floodgates could wipe out the fish and thus violate the federal Endangered Species Act.

The ruling was upheld last year by the U.S. Supreme Court, but the dam's backers have been trying ever since to exempt the project from the law to allow its completion.

The project is more than 90 percent complete, and congressional aides say it would cost about $1.8 million to complete the dam, reservoir, surrounding roads and other facilities.

While the Senate already has voted once this year against permitting work to proceed on the dam, the issue seems certain to come up again.

The next likely battleground is the Senate Appropriations Committee, of which Sasser is a member.

The committee will be debating legislation the House passed earlier this week to provide funds for the government's energy and water projects for the next fiscal year.

Before the House finished work on the bill, Rep. John Duncan, R-Tenn., slipped in an amendment permitting work to go forward on the Tellico project "notwithstanding" the Endangered Species Act.

Duncan apparently took opponents of the dam by surprise because his amendment was adopted in just over a minute on a voice vote, rather than a roll call vote as normally occurs on controversial items. Duncan, chief House proponent of the dam, represents the district where it is located.

At Duncan's urging, the House voted 231-157 late last year to permit completion of the project despite the Supreme Court ruling. But the Senate refused to go along.

A special Cabinet-level review commission Congress established to review Tellico-like conflicts voted early this year not to permit completion of the dam, setting off a new attempt in Congress to grant an exemption for the project.

A move by Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., to win Senate approval for the project was voted down this week, 52-43.

Irish Government To Deport Hijacker To U.S.

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — The Irish government says it is deporting the anti-communist Serb who hijacked an American airliner with 135 persons aboard, and the FBI was to take him and his lawyer back to the United States this afternoon. A police statement said the 45-year-old hijacker, Nikola Kavaja, and lawyer David Boeschich would travel aboard a scheduled flight to New York, escorted by FBI agents. Ireland has no extradition treaty with the United States, but the Irish government apparently is deporting the pair as illegal immigrants.

The two men spent the night in jail at Shannon, site of Ireland's chief international airport, on the west coast.

Kavaja, 45, and five other Serbian exiles were scheduled to be sentenced in U.S. district court in Chicago this afternoon for the 1975 bombing of the home of the Yugoslav consul in Chicago. It was not known if Judge Hubert Will would delay the sentencing of the other five until Kavaja could join them.

The FBI said Kavaja, free on $350,000 bond, was on his way from New York to Chicago Wednesday for sentencing when he hijacked an American Airlines Boeing 727 with 127 passengers and eight crew members aboard. He claimed to be carrying the dynamite and demanded the release from a Chicago jail of the Rev. Stojilko Kajejevic, a Serbian Orthodox priest convicted with him of the 1975 bombing. The priest was the only one of the six who had been unable to make bond.

The plane landed in Chicago, Kavaja released all of the passengers and five of the crew members, and his lawyer came aboard. They were flown to New York, switched to a longer-range Boeing 707 and took off early Thursday for Ireland.

The hijacker at first said he wanted to go to Peru, then decided on Johannesburg, South Africa, after refueling at Shannon. But on the flight across the Atlantic, his attorney apparently convinced him to give up. Officials said arrangements for his surrender were worked out by radio.

After the plane landed at Shannon and about 100 Irish soldiers and armed detectives of the anti-terrorist squad surrounded it, Kavaja and Boeschich emerged, and a police squad took them away.

Police Supt. Tom Kelly said a small amount of explosive, believed to be gelignite, was found in the plane. Earlier, FBI agent John Otto had said in Chicago that the hijacker had "a number" of sticks of dynamite in a bag with a "hand grenade simulator" as a detonator. The volunteer pilot for the trans-Atlantic flight, Capt. Richard Werneck, said Kavaja had explosives strapped to his body, and "we feared for our lives; it would be wrong to say that we did not." But he said the hijacker did not threaten them physically.

He and his crew were to fly the airliner back to New York today.

The six Serbs are alleged to be members of a terrorist organization known as SEPO, an acronym for the Serbian words for "Freedom for the Serbian Fatherland." Serbia is a part of Yugoslavia, and SEPO seeks the overthrow of President Josip Broz Tito and his communist regime.

Special Investigative Team To Review Defects At Marble Hill

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — A special investigative team from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission planned today to review reported defects in concrete work at the Marble Hill nuclear power plant construction site, an NRC spokesman said.

Service Station Gasoline Leak Causes Evacuation Of About 150 Residents

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — About 150 residents of a mobile home park woke up in unfamiliar surroundings today after they were evacuated because of a gasoline leak at a nearby service station, authorities said.

About 30 to 35 of the evacuees were put up for the night at a Morehead State University dormitory. Most of the residents, who live on inspection probably will not be available to the public for another four to six weeks, according to Jan Strasma, spokesman for the NRC regional office in Chicago.

Strasma said the two-man team, consisting of a concrete inspector and an investigator, will be looking at the concrete walls of the reactor containment buildings as well as an auxiliary building.

The inspectors will be on the site for at least two days, Strasma added.

The twin-reactor plant is being built by Public Service Indiana near Madison, Ind., about 30 miles upstream on the Ohio River from Louisville. The first reactor is scheduled to go into service in 1982.

A former construction worker at the site, Charles Edward Cutshall, has alleged that frequent voids in the concrete were ordered patched improperly so that NRC inspectors would not see them.

An environmental group, Save The Valley, has called for a halt to construction at Marble Hill on the basis of Cutshall's sworn statement.

Inspectors will not provide a "blow-by-blow description" of their visit today or release findings to the media immediately, Strasma said.

Results of the investigation will be made in a written report to PSI, which will have 20 days in which to request all or part of the report be withheld from the public, Strasma said.

Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., last week said construction should stop until after a full investigation of the charges and assurances that all safety requirements in construction are being followed.

PSI has maintained that federal construction criteria are being met and that "honeycombing" in the concrete walls has been properly repaired.

Strasma said Thursday the NRC has not ruled out halting construction in some areas of the site if irregularities are found.

A spokesman for Sen. Ford in Washington said Thursday that the Kentucky Democrat three times telephoned NRC chairman Dr. Joseph Hendrie to inquire on the status of Ford's request for an investigation and a halt to construction. The senators calls were never returned, said Ford's press secretary, Mike Ruehling.

Idea, As Well As Church, Has Lasted More Than 100 Years

By Rev. Frank Bratt
Pastor, Mason's Chapel

It was an idea that has lasted 100 years. What was the heart's desire of three men back in 1879 stands today as the Mason's Chapel United Methodist Church.

The real church, which is the congregation of people, have seen individual members come and go, been associated with several different charges under the Methodist system, been known under three denominational names (The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, The Methodist Church, and The United Methodist Church), is now in its third building, and is still going strong.

Mason's Chapel has seen four of its young men enter the ministry (John Brent Underwood, retired; Prentiss Douglas, now of the Indiana Conference; George Carter, deceased; and Harold Craig, pastor of the Pleasant Valley United Methodist Church near Union City, Tenn.). Also several of Mason's Chapel's young women have married ministers.

Mason's Chapel received its name from the late Drs. Macon and William Mason, who furnished the materials for the first church building which was constructed on land given by Tom Bogard.

Martin's Chapel To Hear Rev. Tucker

The Rev. Daniel Tucker will speak at the worship services at 11 a.m. on Sunday, June 24, at the Martin's Chapel United Methodist Church.

Ralph Robertson will direct the morning song service with Ricky Cunningham as pianist. The church choir will sing "God Is Not Dead" at the worship services.

Sunday School will be at 10 a.m. with Pat Robertson as school superintendent.

Oak Grove Church Plans Bible School

The Oak Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Vacation Bible School starting Monday, June 25, and continuing through Friday, June 29.

Classes for nursery through 11 years of age will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. on the theme, "Rejoice and Praise the Lord."

For information or transportation, persons may call 753-5672, 753-0302, or 437-4524.

The first sermon was actually preached at Mason's Chapel on the 4th Sunday of November, 1879, but the 4th Sunday of June has become our annual Homecoming and Kick-off for our revival. So we will be celebrating our 100th Birthday this coming Sunday, June 24th.

The Rev. Paul McAdoe, pastor of the South Fulton United Methodist Church, will bring the message at the 11 a.m. service. This will be followed by "Dinner on the Ground" and much fun and fellowship.

The annual revival will begin Sunday at seven p.m. with the Rev. Dr. Walter E. Mischke, Jr., pastor of First United Methodist Church, Murray, as the preacher. The revival will end on Friday night with the Rev. John Brent Underwood as the preacher.

"We invite all of our friends to be with us for all or part of this historic week."

worsen quickly if shipments are further delayed.

Meanwhile the White House announced plans today to end the federal rule giving farmers priority in obtaining diesel fuel, apparently so it can be diverted to independent truckers.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said President Carter ordered an end to the rule. The action followed the worst day of violence yet in the strike by the nation's 100,000 independent truckers.

The president's action followed his promise Thursday to make more diesel available to the striking truckers, who have complained of fuel shortages.

Rupert Welch, a spokesman for the American Trucking Associations, said in Washington today that more than 40 percent of the hauling capacity of regulated carriers had been stopped by the strike and by fuel problems.

Welch said the 40 percent-plus shutdown figure — "a ballpark estimate" — was a couple of days old and that the percentage probably was higher today.

He said the shutdown had been across the board — both among the irregular route carriers, who haul goods from factories to distribution points, and those who have regular routes between trucking terminals.

Refrigerator trucks, which carry meats and frozen vegetables, have been among the hardest hit by the shutdown, and another major casualty — the moving lines, which depend almost entirely on contracts with independent owner-operators, he said.

Meanwhile, in Chelsea, Mass., about 80 rigs parked bumper-to-bumper today to shut down the New England Producer Center, and state police arrested more than a dozen persons, many of them protest leaders. The remaining drivers cleared away from the gate after the arrests, but left their trucks.

Carter called Thursday for a quick end to the protest and said he had instructed the FBI to assist local law enforcement agencies in keeping peace on the highways.

"Violence and lawlessness will not be tolerated under any circumstances," he said. FBI Director William Webster said agents were already investigating the shooting death of an Alabama trucker earlier this week.

State police patrols were more than doubled on truck routes in Massachusetts, Georgia troopers were ordered to coordinate and guard convoys, and their colleagues in Pennsylvania rode shotgun on milk deliveries before striking truckers agreed to let milk pass.

North Carolina's Highway Patrol was ordered to escort groups of 10 or more trucks upon request, and Rhode Island and Nebraska troopers guarded trucks delivering fuel and oil.

The National Guard, called out earlier this week in Minnesota, set up posts at grain terminals to keep shipments moving. In Alabama, where one trucker has been killed and another's wife wounded, Guardsmen continued to escort convoys.

Alabama Gov. Fob James also urged truckers to arm themselves and shoot back. "It's time to put the billy back in the billystick," he said. "I'd put a shotgun beside me and go...and I'd kill anybody that tries to stop me."

But one of his constituents, Eddie Castleberry, of Odenville, said he'd prefer to park than fight.

"I've got a 9-year-old boy at the house and it worries me," said Castleberry, who was fired upon Thursday. "They can come pick up the rig because I'm not driving it one foot further."

Chestnut Grove To Hold Special Event Sunday At Church

The Chestnut Grove A.M.E. Church at Hazel will hold its annual men's and women's day program on Sunday, June 24, at 2:30 p.m. at the church.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. M. M. Whitson of Dyersburg, Tenn.

Lunch will be served at 1:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend, a church spokesman said.

Sinking Spring To Hear Rev. Blair

The Sinking Spring Baptist Church will hear the interim pastor, the Rev. Charles Blair, speak at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. worship services on Sunday, June 24.

David Smotherman, deacon of the week, will assist in the services. The Church Choir, directed by Tommy Scott with Susie Scott as pianist and Patsy Neale as organist, will present special music at the morning service, and the Sunday Night Choir will sing at the evening service.

Following the morning service, the Senior Citizens will be special guests at a luncheon by the Ruth Warren Group of the church. A singing will follow the luncheon.

Sunday School with Jim Neale as director will be at 10 a.m. and Church Training with Randy Herndon as director will be at 6:30 p.m., both on Sunday.

The Church Deacons will meet and the Youth Choir will practice, both at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

'Bedtime Stories' New Sideshow In Television's Humiliation Circus

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Since Monday night, there's a new sideshow in television's humiliation circus.

Joining "The Gong Show," "The Newlywed Contest," and the rest of that lot is "Bedtime Stories," a syndicated comedy game show that features interviews with married couples in bed.

Guess what they talk about? Their sex lives, of course. Doesn't everybody do that when a camera crew comes visiting? And then they go into the studio to play the game part, matching their wits against the Bedtime Story's pool.

(The syndicated show starts tonight in New York, Los Angeles, Washington and a few other cities, with still more stations joining later.)

Embarrassment has become high entertainment on the tube. There's the lady on "Newlywed Game" telling the world that her husband's boss has an affair with one of the girls at the office. Make that former boss.

There's the fat lady who sings and dances and subjects herself to the ridicule of Rip Taylor (talk about humiliation) on "The Newlywed Contest." Or "Dating Game," who is greeted by a disappointed grimace as he walks around the panel to meet his date.

But I can't really rail against theater-of-humiliation entertainment on the tube because, after all, people seem to enjoy embarrassing themselves on TV, or they wouldn't do it. And the proliferation of such shows suggests viewers love the spectacle.

Sort of like seeing a guy slip on a banana peel, I guess.

"Bedtime Stories" is strange as it may seem, isn't quite as degrading as some of the others. No, that's not right. It's just not as mock-serious.

It is saved by a pair of talented broadcast funnymen, Al Lohman and Roger Barkley, who seem to recognize the goofy enterprise for what it is.

"We're your bedroom ambassadors," they say in the introduction line, explaining that they'll be interviewing couples on these phony, tacky looking beds on the set.

Split Personality
Mild-mannered scientist David Banner (Bill Bixby, left) turns into an awesome creature (played by Lou Ferrigno) when angered in the hit series "The Incredible Hulk," seen on many stations across Canada.

'Love Boat' Captain Use To Be Involved In Every Crime, Especially Dope

By JERRY BUCK
AP/Television Writer
"Showboat" at the Dallas Musical Theater.
Most notably, though, he was news writer Murray Slaughter for seven years on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show." He was sweet, he was gentle, he secretly loved Mary. He was a pussycat - until Ted Knight's pompous anchorman strutted into the newsroom and brought out Murray's latent cynicism. In some ways, MacLeod is like Murray. Both thrived on hard work, and neither sought the spotlight. MacLeod wanted only to act, especially in musical theater.
"I never looked for my own show," he says. "I just wanted to work as an actor. Some of the things I was offered I would carry as the star. But the premises were so negative.
"One reason I love 'The Love Boat' is because of the happy endings. I don't care if it reflects life or not, so happy these days that people want to escape."
"The Love Boat" opens its third season with a two-hour movie to be filmed on a regularly-scheduled Princess Lines cruise to Alaska.
MacLeod has been in three series, 35 movies and had guest star roles on 350 TV shows. Even so, it's the theater that beckons him.
"Film is wonderful and I do my job as best I can. But the stage is where it really happens for me. It's exciting.
"Then this series ends, probably the first thing I'll do is a big Broadway musical. Or a small Broadway musical.

Show Is Innovation To Commercial Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This fall, when the networks are busy popping fireworks over their slick new programs, be sure to watch for a little number not on the network called "The Baxters."

It is an innovation, a breakthrough for commercial TV. "The Baxters" is fine entertainment, and will earn points for its efforts toward responsible broadcasting. But, perhaps more than anything else, this program is the product of very clever business reasoning.

"The Baxters" is part sitcom, part public affairs program. The first part of the half-hour show is a scene from the life of the Baxter family, a typical American TV family. The Baxters have problems, but they don't work them out themselves.

Instead of coming back to the Baxters after the first commercial, the cameras cut to the studio audience in the local station that is airing the show.

A discussion follows, with audience members debating the possible resolutions of the dilemma presented in the scene that viewed. Every station that carries "The Baxters" will have its own studio audience participation.

This public affairs-entertainment mixture was invented by Boston Broadcasters Inc. and made into a national syndication by Norman Lear, television's resident innovator. The entertainment portion of the program will be typical Lear — blending what he calls "the comedy and the real problems and emotions. The story-lines present them as major characters, equal in dramatic importance to the privileged ruling-class occupants "above stairs."

Upstairs is master of the house Richard Bellamy (David Langton), his wife Robin Ellis in the title role, Lady Marjorie (Rachel Gurney) and their children Elizabeth (Nicola Paget) and James (Simon Williams). Downstairs are servants rally under Mr. Hudson, the butler (Gordon Jackson).

Prominent among the rest of the domestic staff are head housemaid Rose (Jean Marsh), cook Mrs. Bridges (Angela Baddeley), under-house maid Sarah (Pauline Collins), chauffeurs Watkins (John Alderton) and Pearce
