Fulton Jaycees To Raise Funds For Needy Over WFUL Dec. 21

Christmas in America has always witnessed remarkable generosity on the part of both individuals and groups, for there is something about the season which makes it almost impossible to feel at peace without helping others. Not only did Christ say, "Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself," but it is against man's higher nature to feast while others go hungry, or to be joyful while others despair.

Christmas is no time to be hungry, and with this in mind, the Jaycees are among the top supporters across the country of drives to provide food baskets for the poor who are unable to provide for themselves. The Fulton Junior Chamber of Commerce is no exception. They have in fact put forth much effort in the past two years on the food basket project and consider it a privilege to put many hours of hard work on a task which provides so much self satisfaction to the club and to the people who donate money to finance the project. Everyone in Fulton will be given an opportunity to do their share in making the Christmas Charity program a success this year as in the past.

Plans are now in the making to hold a radio marathon on Fulton station WFUL on December 21st. The Jaycees have purchased the radio station for the entire day for the purpose of accepting live wire phone calls from local citizens who wish to phone in their donations and have picked up by the Jaycees and Jayettes. For anyone who may wish to contribute but will not be available on that date may mail contributions to: Fulton Jaycees; P. O. Box 211; Fulton, Kentucky.

This is the only fund raising campaign that will be held in Fulton this year for the single purpose of distributing Christmas food baskets for the needy. The Jaycees will not use raffles and other methods this year as in the past, so it is hoped that as many people as necessary to raise the large sum needed will participate in this single program.

Although the names of persons making donations will appear in the local papers, the amount of the donation will not be listed, so won't you be one of the first to do your part - or remember to set aside an amount you can afford to be phoned in on December 21st? You will enjoy your Christmas more when you know you have helped someone else to have a Merry Christmas.

From the looks of preparations being made hereabouts it looks like Fulton County and vicinity will well represented at the impressive inauguration ceremonies of Judge Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt in Frankfort next Tuesday. The added interest of having the Fulton County High School band lead the First District in the inaugural parade will have a greater Fulton County audience on hand for the ceremonies than normally would have attended. And that makes us all happy, I am sure.

There are thousands of Kentuckians like me for whom the inauguration will have more than passing interest. To me it will be the culmination of many long and hard months of work in the campaign activities of both of these fine men. To others it will mean the hope of an efficient and respectable administration, whose ultimate results will bring progress and industry to Kentucky.

From the looks of the inauguration program it seems to me that every possible program of interest will be crowded into one gala day. As I look at the schedule arranged for the persons who will take an official participation in the program it makes me tired before I ever start. But I've had hard schedules before and I imagine I will have again.

There are many sentimental aspects of the inauguration that will interest you and me from a standpoint of Fulton County. Besides having the band from our county in a key and honored position in the parade, there will be an occasion that I know all of you will wish you could see. For instance, Doris Owens, one of Kentucky's finest ladies, will of course be in the official receiving line along with other members of the official family. And standing with her in that line will be her brother, Al T. Owens of Fulton, receiving the hand-shake and the good wishes of thousands of Kentuckians, on behalf of his sister, who has certainly made an enviable spot in the memory and history of Kentucky politics. It will be a proud moment for Al and it should be.

Radio Station WFUL will carry most of the inaugural activities. Ashland Oil Company will present a state-wide network on WFUL at nine A. M. on inauguration day. The broadcast will start with the colorful parade, which bids well to last from two to three hours. WFUL will cut away from the network periodically to take care of the sponsors scheduled for that day. The swearing-in ceremonies will be carried at 1 p. m. and then the station will carry the Governor's first press conference. I am delighted that WFUL arranged to carry the state-wide activities because it will mean that I will know that you have a ring side seat at the inaugural activities that some of us will be attending.

I feel a real sense of humility and honor at being able to take a key part in the inauguration. I consider all of these wonderful people who will serve you for the next four years as my close, personal friends and I know they will be yours, too.

City Of Fulton Has Had Less Big Fires This Year Than In '58

The Fulton Fire Department has had a better year, so far, with less big fires than that of last year, according to Fire Chief Nemo Williams.

In 1958 the Fulton Fire Department answered 78 calls in and outside of the city, and up until now, in 1959, they have answered 82 calls, but many of these have been grass or other minor fires.

From January through April of this year, the fire department answered 45 grass fires, four false alarms, six auto and truck fires, three calls for the I. C. Railroad, including a load of cotton on fire and one diesel engine fire. Two calls were to electrical fires, when trees caught fire, and most of the other calls were minor fires, such as grease fires on stoves.

The three big fires of the year were in January, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Green was badly damaged, and when the Barney Yates home and the Pipe-

Outstanding Young Farmer Contest To Be Sponsored Here By Jaycees

The "Outstanding Young Farmer" contest is being sponsored locally by the Fulton Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was announced here this week.

Residents of the community will help in the selection by filling out the nomination blanks, appearing elsewhere in today's issue of The News.

The blanks should be mailed to Harold Henderson at the Fulton Bank.

The outstanding young farmer selected in this area will participate in the state-wide contest, conducted at Frankfort, and the state winner will enter the national elimination.

The sole purpose of the Outstanding Young Farmer project is to build better relations between the city dweller and the farmer by increasing urban understanding of the farmer, his life and his problems. The contest is being conducted in other towns where there are Jaycee organizations.

The project is basically a public appeal for nominations of young farmers who are making exceptional career progress, who are practicing good soil and natural resource conservation and who unselfishly devote time to a responsible and contributing role in community affairs and betterment.

Aside from the honor and recognition bestowed on outstanding nominees, many awards

Puckett Fined For Bootlegging

Verbal Puckett, owner of the Ace Cab Co., located on Depot Street, was fined $100.00 and cost in Fulton city court Monday morning, on a charge of bootlegging.

Mr. Puckett was arrested Sunday after Police Chief Roy Nethery, Assistant Chief Hassell Williams and Patrolman Carmi Page, had searched the cab company office with a search warrant, and found three half-pints of whiskey. The search was made about 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. C. L. Gardner, Owner Of Gardner Studio, Dies Thursday

Services for Mrs. C. L. Gardner, owner of Gardner's Photographic Studio here, were held Saturday at 2:30 in the First Methodist Church here. The Rev. J. L. Leggett officiated. Burial was in Wesley Cemetery with Whitel Funeral Home in charge.

Mrs. Gardner, who was 69, was found dead at her home here Thursday night about 6. Death was attributed to natural causes.

She was born near Hickman, Ky., and formerly lived near Harris Station, Tenn., and Amarillo, Texas, before moving here in 1912. Her husband who died several years ago, began the photographic business and later taught Mrs. Gardner.

They formerly owned a studio in Union City, Tenn., also and were noted for photographing high school seniors throughout Western Kentucky and West Tennessee.

Mrs. Gardner was a member of the First Methodist Church here and the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She served several years as president of the Susanna Wesley Sunday School class.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Carbine Bolin of Fulton and Mrs. Lorene Harding of Memphis; a brother, Henry Paschall of Chicago; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Ethel Byrd To Be 105-Years-Old December 19

By Ouida Jewell

A tiny, kindly white-haired lady, who remembers the horrors of the Civil War, will celebrate her 105th birthday here on Dec. 19.

She is Mrs. Ethel Byrd.

Mrs. Byrd was small during the days of the Civil War, but it all is still so clear. She and her parents were living on a farm out from Nashville then, and every morning the Yankees would come just at dawn, according to Mrs. Byrd, who is Fulton's oldest citizen.

Mrs. Byrd has told many times how the Yankees would tear through the place, getting food for themselves and corn for their horses. When they left the yard would be a mess. There would be bushels of corn on the ground, and they would leave big 'hunks' of good meat lying around. "They would go into the smokehouse and take down our meat, cut out the best portions and throw the rest down. Father would keep our best food hidden. They just riddled our farm."

Mrs. Byrd is growing sort of feeble these days but is still able to sit up most of each day. Most of the time she also makes up her own bed.

Her daughter said this week that Dr. D. L. Jones has stated that Mrs. Byrd won't be able to have her annual open house on her birthday, unless her health improves some. She eats and sleeps well, her daughter said.

This reporter has chatted on many occasions with Mrs. Byrd and it is always interesting to hear her tell of those Civil War days.

Once she said, "I was scared of the Yankees. When I saw one coming, I would run and hide. They really tore up things. It was awful. Everybody was scared at night."

She recalled listening to the cannons go off by putting her ear to the ground.

Although her father never served in the army, her mother's brother, Capt. Bill Dailey, served the entire war on the Confederate side and "came through without a scratch." He is quite a hero to Mrs. Byrd and she has several pictures of him and his family in unique little frames. She said he rode from Paducah to Fulton on the first train that ran over the tracks, and when he got here he was so sore he couldn't turn his head.

Mrs. Byrd contributes her long life to religion and living right.

She doesn't hear well and she suffers from asthma. On Nov. 23 she injured her arm in a fall.

Mrs. Byrd lives with her daughter, Mrs. S. L. Craver and Mr. Craver, a retired Illinois Central Railroadman.

She is a member of the Baptist Church at Mayfield, although she has been living in Fulton with her daughter here for 21 years. As long as she was able she attended the First Baptist Church here.

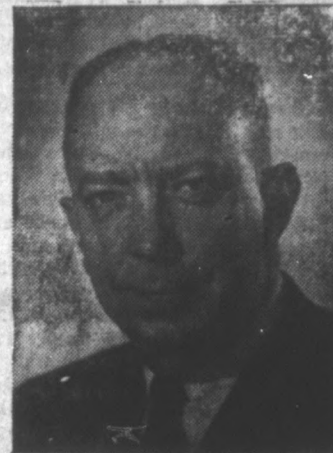

Mrs. Byrd was born in Nashville, Tenn. When she was small her parents moved to a farm out from Nashville and lived for a while before they moved to Marshall County in Kentucky. When she was 21 she married James W. Byrd, who for many years was caretaker of Mayfield city schools. He died Aug. 11, 1932.

Generous Citizens Donate $600 To Take County Band To Inauguration Dec. 8

Final plans are being made today to have Fulton County's High School band lead the First District in the giant inaugural parade in Frankfort next Tuesday. Following a radio appeal over WFUL for funds to take the band to Frankfort, generous and interested Fulton Countians contributed nearly $600 in forty minutes over the air last week. The donations were in denominations of from two to twenty-five dollars. W. W. Ruscoe, director of Fulton County High School's crack band says that his band members are prepared and eager to take their part in the honored position in the parade.

WILSON WYATT

The old red rooster—A Democratic sort of bird—will reign in Frankfort next Tuesday, crowing with glee at the inauguration of Governor-elect Bert T. Combs and Lieutenant Governor-elect Wilson W. Wyatt.

As usual, the townspeople of Frankfort of all political faiths are in complete charge of all arrangements. Local committees under direction of inauguration chairman James H. Nutter, Jr., are whipping up a program designed to immortalize this one as the biggest and best since Statehood in 1792.

Inauguration Day is, of course, the day of days for Frankfort—an undeclared holiday not only for the State Government and its employees, but for the rest of the city as well.

Frankfort banks, required by State law to at least open on December 8, will be kept open only from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. Frankfort merchants will close their stores from 10 a. m. until 1 p. m. during the time of the inaugural parade.

In view of the 100,000 or more visitors that are expected for the event, the Post Office Department doubtless will have difficulty living up to its traditional slogan that "the mails must go through."

Frankfort will be closed to all

Big Gas Line Being Built Through Section

A big gas line is being built through this section of the county and at present there are approximately 250 out-of-town men staying in Union City, Fulton and Clinton.

The 30-inch gas line is being laid by the Trunk Line Gas Company. The line started at Greenville, Miss. and is passing between Fulton and Union City. Work crews have progressed as far as Clinton at the present time.

Pipe for the work is being unloaded at Fulton by the railroad.

What he had unknowingly done was to consent to the dismissal of the man who might have saved the financial situation. Pigskin Exploits Of Charlie Forrest A Thrilling Saga Of Accomplishment

Union City — Charlie Forrest, one of the first Union City grid stars to be named to an All-State team in 22 years, is perhaps one of the most explosive and colorful runners ever to don the purple and gold uniform.

Although the Golden Tornadoes were beaten once this year, Forrest made it one of the most spectacular seasons ever. (Note: Union City was beaten only by Ripley and defeated, not beaten, by Covington and Brownsville.)

Charlie, former Fulton boy, has high and mighty company on the Associated Press All-State team, sharing the honors with backs Art Guepe Jr. of Nashville Ryan, Willy Bridwell of Kingsport and Randy Robinson of Bristol. But, of these backs, Charlie is the leading ground gainer, (1,580 yards) and holds the best yards per carry average, 9.8. Yes, it's pretty fast company and Charlie should be right at home. The fact is that Charlie had to be better than his fellow All-State team members for his team was not among the top rated teams in the state. Only four men in the state could be selected for the coveted backfield positions and that means that a lot of topnotch backs from the top 10 or 15 teams of the state had to go without.

It all boils down to the fact that it is the highest possible honor a Tennessee high school football player can achieve.

Charlie was a natural for the honor and the Nashville Tennessean called him "Union City's one-man gang." We do not go quite that far as, in all fairness, Charlie had all kinds of support this year, but he has proven himself to be a spectacular runner, a superb kicker, a fine passer and, if the occasion arose, he could have probably sold the tickets as well. But with all this, he could not block for himself. He needed help and he got it, one of his major helpers being Lee Grassefender who blocked superbly for him all year.

Rats Cause $2 Billion Annual Loss

As an effective means of reducing the city's rat population, Health Officer, Leo R. Evans, M. D., has outlined a four-step rat control program for citizens to follow. It consists of eliminating the pests' sources of food, removing rat shelters, rat-proofing buildings, and killing rats with poisons and traps.

Harry Barry, local sanitarian, stated that rats transmit at least 10 diseases and cause a two billion dollar property loss in this country each year.

Eliminating sources of food, he said, means keeping all edible material away from rats. Since rats thrive on garbage, one of the first things to do is to provide covered galvanized steel garbage cans for all refuse.

All food stored in the home should be kept in places inaccessible to rats. Food stored in cloth or paper sacks should be kept at least 18 inches above floor level.

Since rats seek shelter in disorderly surroundings, Mr. Barry urges each resident to clean up dirty basements, attics and yards. Materials stored in these areas, unless they are arranged neatly, provide shelter for rats.

Homemakers will find it a simple matter to wrap and store garbage if they follow a regular six-point program, Health Officer Leo R. Evans, M. D. said today. Each household should have a least two sturdy galvanized steel garbage cans with close fitting covers and convenient side handles for proper storage, he pointed out.

Here are the six steps Mr. Harry Barry listed for homemakers:

1. Drain and wrap all garbage in paper on heavy bags before placing it in the garbage can.
2. Use more than one covered can if necessary to avoid overloading. Covers should be kept in place at all times.
3. Avoid using substitute garbage containers, especially those which are subject to rodent attack and fire damage. Covered steel garbage cans are the only containers approved by both health and fire departments.
4. Rinse the cans with clear water at regular intervals to prevent odors.
5. Mark the cans and their covers with house address number to deter accidental loss or theft.
6. Build a practical garbage can rack to which the covers can be attached. This prevents garbage cans from being pushed over by dogs.

BUILDING A FALLOUT shelter does not have to be an elaborate project. Darrell Barnes is adding a protective ceiling and block wall to an old coal bin under his home near Ithaca, Mich., to produce a simple but effective fallout shelter for less than $50. Civil Defense Director Robert Russell, who is the county sheriff, looks on as Barnes is questioned on the construction of his shelter by Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, and Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams. They were touring rural civil defense facilities in Gratiot County, Mich. (OCDM Photo)

Fulton and the Western Kentucky area in general observed one of its quietest Thanksgiving holidays in many years Thursday.

Weather ranged from partly cloudy in the morning to cloudy with rain in the afternoon. Later in the night, as the temperature tumbled near the freezing point, sleet and snow mixed with the rain.

Although there were several minor accidents in the area, no major accidents were reported.

Most of the local folks spent the day at home with their families, gathered around the dinner table or the TV set.

We are glad to have Win Whitnel and his brother, Will, back home after undergoing surgery at Baptist Hospital.

Went out late Sunday night to take Daddy's supper and my car was dead as could be. In no time at all the local police were there helping get the car started. Says Mother: "You should never get mad at the police, they are always doing something nice for you." And I agreed. We do have a very nice group of fellows on both the Kentucky and Tennessee police force. Time and again over the years, they have seen to it that Daddy got his supper, when I was unable to take it to him, or when I have had to leave my car at the station over night, they would see that mother and I got home.

One night, quite a number of years ago, after my sister, Sue, and one of our girl roomers came home from work at midnight and we were all dressed for bed, it was decided we would go for a little ride. It was cold and raining outside, but that didn't worry us.

Sue was driving, and when she went to turn around she got stuck. We didn't know what to do. We wouldn't dare call Daddy, for he would fuss for us being so foolish. Then, we thought of the police. So, Sue and I started out walking in the rain to the nearest telephone, while Jo Helm and mother waited in the car.

The police came to our rescue, thank goodness, and we didn't have to call Daddy.

They are always doing little things to help folks out, and we would like to say, "Thanks!"

The City of South Fulton will be decorated for Christmas this year, after all.

A couple of weeks ago, the South Fulton Booster Club announced that the city would not be decorated this year, but has changed its mind.

South Fulton Wins Two Games

South Fulton won both halves of a high school basketball double-header last Wednesday night here.

South Fulton's girls defeated Rives, 53-24, and South Fulton's boys took the second game, 63-38.

High scorers were Jane Peoples of South Fulton's girls with 16, Sam Miller with 10 and Donald Parchman with 18 for South Fulton's boys and Terry Weatherford with 17 for Rives' boys.

will be decorated in big Christmas trees.

Twelve trees were purchased Saturday and Monday. They were being put up by Ira Cloys, Booster member and city employee, assisted by a group of workmen.

The trees will be decorated in blue lights and should be very pretty.

There will be a decorated tree in front of the Park Terrace Restaurant, Counce's Drive-In, the Bo-Peep Motel, Connaughton's Clinic, Fulcher's Service Station, Maynard's Service Station, Jack Lowe's Service Station, Leon Hutchen's Dry Cleaners, Grissom Service Station, the City Hall, Cannon's Agency, and the John E. Bard Service Station.

A picture of Mrs. Jewell McClain was in this month's issue of the National Fraternal Monitor Magazine. Recently, Mrs. McClain was named the most outstanding member of the Tennessee Fraternal Congress and was presented a bronze plaque at a dinner in Jackson.

I understand that the Fulton High School Band has been invited to participate in the Christmas Parade at Paducah.

Last week when Johnny Jones, a student at Ole Miss, started home for the holidays, he decided to save his money and hitchhike to Fulton. He caught a ride to Jackson, Tenn., and there spied his Dad, Stanley. He jumped out of the pickup he was riding in and flagged his Dad down. Stanley got quite a surprise, when he saw his son running down the street.

I would like to congratulate John Earl and Norma June McClanahan on the birth of an eight pound, 10 ounce baby boy, John Steven, born last Wednesday morning shortly after 7 a. m. at Jones Hospital. The mama and baby are doing just fine.

June is bookkeeper at The News.

Robbi and Herbert Morris, organist at the Park Terrace, had open house at their new home in Obion last week and all the relatives paid a visit. The Morris' new home is a one-story Colonial type and is very beautiful.

No Clues In Beating Of Clinton Man

Hickman County officials said they were without clues today as to the identity of two Negro men who beat and robbed a Clinton grocer Saturday night.

Jones Wilson is in Clinton-Hickman County Hospital suffering from a slight concussion, cuts and bruises about the head and a broken thumb as a result of the beating. His mother, Mrs. C. H. Wilson, also is in the hospital with a broken foot as an indirect result of the beating of her son.

Wilson said he started to leave his store about 6 p. m. to go to a restaurant operated next door by his mother. As he stepped out the door, he told Sheriff Curtis Vaughan, one of the Negro men grabbed and held him while the other beat him until he lost consciousness.

When he regained consciousness, Wilson said, a billfold containing $160 and $10 from his cash register were missing. The empty billfold was found later on a sidewalk near the store.

He started groping his way toward the restaurant when his mother saw him and ran to his assistance. He collapsed again, falling on her foot and breaking it.

Wilson, who with his brother, Clifford, operates Wilson Brothers Grocery, told Sheriff Vaughan he got a good look at the Negroes but did not know either of them.

A Salute on Election Eve

On next Tuesday Kentucky will inaugurate a new Governor and a new Lieutenant-Governor.

The occasion will be one of more than passing interest to most residents of the State, because it marks a change from one political philosophy to another, and this change is bound to be felt by every resident of the State in the ensuing four years, just as the change four years ago has been as marked over the one preceding.

We feel no hesitation in saying that we sincerely believe that Kentucky and Kentuckians are going to benefit much more during the next four years than they have during the last four.

It has been the pleasure of both editors of this paper to have known Bert Combs well during the past four years, to have worked for and with him and to have gone down to defeat with him in 1955, and then to have resumed the battle, with him, from the very outset of his campaign that won him a resounding victory in the Democratic primary of this year. It was a pleasure because Bert Combs is the kind of an honest, sincere, hard-working fellow that one enjoys knowing.

He has no empire to build, he doesn't aspire to run for President, he isn't planning to use any political opportunities to aid him in real estate ventures. Moreover, he has a mind of his own; he has the courage of his convictions, he is nobody's puppet, and he seeks to make no puppets of his own.

We don't think he will be calling

University professors "rats", nor telling farm delegations to "go home and mind their own business", nor getting booted over national networks, nor forming his own gestapo to see that proper tribute and allegiance is paid him at all times.

Running the State of Kentucky is a big job, of course. The Governor gets the credit, — or the discredit — for a lot of things that his subordinates do, so it behooves Mr. Combs to pick his staff and his key leaders carefully, surrounding himself with people who share his philosophy and will work with him toward his goals.

If his job is at times hindered by the yapping of some disgruntled individuals belonging to a clan now on the "outs", whose probable intention is to criticize everything during the next four years, just charge that up to Hiawatha, "The Happy Hunter." The voters have taken away Hiawatha's shot-gun and handed him a gun that shoots harmless corks.

Bert Combs is going to do his level best to advance Kentucky and its citizens with all of the resources at his disposal, and in this effort he will be greatly aided by an intelligent, resourceful and capable Lieutenant-Governor, Wilson Wyatt.

So, on this eve of their ascension to the top positions in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, we salute Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt and wish them well in the four years ahead. With intelligent planning, constant attention to the job and a good staff to carry out their directives, we know that Kentucky is in competent hands.

Who Says We Don't Pay For Television?

Fooled with rigged television quiz shows is a "fraudulent and deceptive practice" but not an "illegal" one, according to John C. Doerfer, Federal Communications chairman. We'll go along that far with Doerfer and the FCC. It would be difficult to pass laws governing the content of tv programs without endangering our right to freedom of speech.

We do, however, take exception to his statement that the home owner does not pay his way into a tv show.

There are ways that the home owner does pay his way into a tv show. He pays from $100 to $400 for his set, and he pays upkeep on it, including the cost of electricity to run it. If he has a set worth $150, he pays nearly 50 cents a day for a year to amortize his investment. If his set is worth $300, he pays that amount for two years. He also contributes to the cost of producing a tv show when he buys the advertised products, for the advertiser pays for the time the show is on the air in proportion to the number of viewers the show has.

Compare this to the cost of a weekly newspaper. The so-called "home owner" pays less than six cents a week for his newspaper, yet he feels that his six cents entitles him to deal with the newspaper as a public service or public utility. If six cents should buy you some protection against fraud on a television program.

We don't know where we should search to find out the cause for the shameful practices of the tv show producers and the tv contestants in the manner of hoodwinking the public and the advertisers, but we do know that something should and shall be done to eliminate this type of thing from the air waves. Crookedness in a few programs has cast doubt upon all the programs of the type.

Barnum said there's a fool born every minute and the side shows of the circus prospered. We do not believe, however, that the advertisers are fools enough to go for any more rigged programs. Maybe the public would still "buy" them—but surely the advertisers who foot the tv bill directly won't tread the same path twice.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

For A Merry Christmas - Make It Safe

It would be interesting to discover, in this era of motivation research, what the word "holiday" means to most people. What is the first thing that flashes to mind when the word is mentioned?

Time off from work? A trip? An excuse to celebrate? A tragic accident toll?

Unfortunately, truthful answers probably would place all of those higher on the list than the true meaning of the holiday. And it's especially unfortunate that holidays must have an association with high accident tolls.

Christmas, with the deepest spiritual significance, is the deadliest holiday of all, according to the National Safety Council. Ironically, it achieves this terrible distinction precisely because we want it to be such a wonderful occasion.

It is a sentimental holiday. People will drive long distances for the traditional family reunion, undaunted by the worst weather. More travel — especially winter travel at highway speeds — means more accidents.

It is a convivial holiday. The joyous spirit of the occasion is too often sought in liquid form. The National Safety Council has asked for church leadership during this Christmas season to point out that accident prevention is practical religion, and that good will toward men can find no finer expression than behind the wheel of a car.

The Mississippi River twists and turns for more than 50 miles along Kentucky's western border, offering many a breath-taking scene, especially at Columbus-Belmont State Park.

Turning Back The Clock—

DECEMBER 1, 1959

Prospects are bright on the basketball horizon for South Fulton this season, for the material from which to mold both girls and boys teams is the best in many years. W. H. Cravens will coach the boys aggregation, and J. C. Goode will pilot the girls sextet. Both know basketball, and have enjoyed good success with their teams.

Miss Rebecca Boaz, student in Southern Illinois Normal School, Carbondale, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winston, on Green Street.

J. L. Beven, president of the I. C. R. R., Chicago, was in Fulton Tuesday.

The South Fulton basketball teams split a doubleheader with Welch school Tuesday night at the South Fulton gym. The boys beat Welch 28-18, while the girls lost 33-18.

The WPA kitchen now in operation at the South Fulton School, and sponsored by the P. T. A. of the southside, is making steady progress, and rendering a real service to underprivileged children.

The YMBC held its regular business meeting at the Rainbow Room Tuesday night, with President Billy Blackstone presiding.

Next Sunday evening, Dec. 3, employees of the Illinois Central railroad, their wives and families, will be special guests at a service arranged for them at the First Christian church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Swigart, Martin highway, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Kate, and Joe Mack Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reed, north of town. The ceremony was solemnized June 24 by Rev. M. S. Castin in Dyer, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Ward, formerly of Fulton, now of Shreveport, La., recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, with an informal gathering of friends.

What about tomorrow's railroad man?

Yesterday's railroad man helped America grow big and strong. No man contributed more to making this the finest nation on earth.

So what about tomorrow's railroad man? His future will be measured by the success of the Illinois Central and other railroads in winning more business by providing better and more economical transportation.

Progress toward this goal has been made; more is needed. Among the problems remaining unsolved are the out-moded work rules that keep many good railroaders from doing a full day's work for a day's pay.

We recognize that the elimination of "feather-bedding" is a human problem as well as a business problem. Yet it can and must be solved. For when it is, tomorrow's railroad man will enjoy a secure place in a strong, progressive industry geared to serve you and all America more effectively and economically.

Mrs. James Jones, 37, a former resident of Clinton, was killed in an automobile accident near her home at Kirkwood, Mo., Thursday night.

Mrs. Jones, the former Sarah Gunter, was alone in her car at the time of the accident. She apparently lost control of her car and it left the road. Mrs. Jones, who was thrown from the car as it overturned, was killed instantly.

She is survived by her husband, the Rev. James Jones; six children; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gunter of Paris, Tenn.; two brothers, Billy Gunter of Paducah and Junior Gunter of Paris; three sisters, Mrs. Ray Jones of Columbus, Mrs. Cecil Landuyt of St. Louis, Mo. and Mrs. Brenda Paschal of Paris, Tenn. and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Monday in Kirkwood at the Pfitzinger Funeral Home. Burial was in the Oak Hill Cemetery there.

Mrs. Jones was a niece of Mrs. Leland Jewell of Fulton. She had visited here on many occasions.

Mrs. Jewell and other aunts and uncles from this area went to St. Louis Sunday morning.

Pep Meetings Build Enthusiasm Important to Bulldog Success

From The FHS "Kennel"—

Next to winning, the best thing about a ball game is the spirit and enthusiasm. This spirit and enthusiasm is something we feel very strongly, but unless this is brought before us, sometimes we lose interest.

Here at Fulton High, we have a pep meeting at school before every ballgame. The entire student body is there — all "pulling" for our team. Certain players, the coach, principal, superintendent, and sometimes students are called upon to give their opinion of the coming game.

Before home football games, there was always a pep meeting downtown. Sometimes we had a bonfire and tossed a "dummy" of an enemy football player into the fire to burn, with our best wishes.

The purpose of a pep meeting is to create spirit and enthusiasm. We all personally enjoy a game to the fullest extent if our hearts are in it. As a school, we are apt to win admiration which will be much longer remembered by other schools than a win or loss. Just put yourself in a ballplayer's place and think what a difference it would make to you whether you were cheered for at all times with enthusiasm, or no one said a word no matter how badly or well you played. A team can't let down its audience if they know the audience is really pulling for them.

Members Of Four Rivers Council To Contribute Toward Tribute

Boy members and adults of the Four Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America will contribute toward a commemorative tribute to be erected in Washington, D. C., to honor the thirty-three and a half million Americans who have been affiliated with the movement since its establishment in 1910, according to James C. Rieke, Council President.

It will especially honor the eight million men and women who have served as its volunteer leaders.

The tribute has been authorized by Congress and President Eisenhower.

The commemorative tribute will be of bronze metal depicting a Scout or Scouts grouped with one or more leaders, centered in a fountain with a background of scenes depicting various phases of Scouting's program, aims, and objectives.

Present and former members of the Boy Scouts of America will have an opportunity to share in the project. Each donor will sign his name on a scroll. These names will be sealed in the commemorative tribute as evidence of the contributor's appreciation of the services rendered by the volunteer leaders during the half century.

cards have been sent to each Cubmaster, Scoutmaster, and Explorer Advisor. It is hoped that each unit will fill the coin card and contribute at least ten cents per boy. Adult members, if they wish, may contribute currency or a check.

The final form of the tribute and its date of dedication will be determined by the response from units throughout the United States.

The News reports your

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

'Tis over... the Thanksgiving weekend... and we do hope it was a joyous time for all of you! We know that many visitors were in town in various homes - Yep. Mothers and Dads were happy to have "the kids" at home for the turkey, reminding of the fact that it was just three hundred and thirty-eight years ago when those hardy pioneers also counted their blessings for the privilege of living in a new land. And the foremost of those blessings... was then, and is now... freedom. In our Twin-Cities many heads were bowed at the Thanksgiving table with thoughts such as these taking precedence over all others. You'll agree with me... occasions and deep-rooted thoughts such as these have made us the great nation we are!

Thoughts for the weekend are turned toward the Annual Christmas Musical which will be presented by the Music Department of the Fulton Woman's Club at the Christian Church at 5:00 o'clock Sunday evening. Members of the Junior Music Club and the Beethoven Club (which are sponsored by the Music Department) will also appear on the program. There will be organ, chorus, vocal and piano numbers and also carol singing. The public is cordially invited to enjoy this special Christmas Musical. Members of these clubs have spent many hours of practice in order to bring the people of the Ken-Tenn area music in keeping with the Yuletide Season. Make your plans now to attend.

Plans now are completed for the big benefit card party at the Fulton Country Club tonight (Thursday). Members of the committee have worked long and tirelessly to make the party a real success... so let's all go out to the club and give them our support! Let us remind you that refreshments will be served promptly at 7:30 after which games of canasta, bridge, rook, etc. will be enjoyed. Players are asked to plan their own groups as well as bring their own cards. There will be door prizes and a high prize for each type of game played. So... if you haven't made your reservations - do so - right now. This is a good way to see all of your friends - have a good card game, plus loads of fun! See you there!

Nelle and Fred Gibson were happy during the holidays when their daughter, Fredrica and husband, Wayne White of Knoxville arrived home to be with them for several days. They returned to Knoxville on Sunday.

Janice Downey, Philip Brown Are Wed On Thanksgiving Day

Miss Janice June Downey, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Shepherd of Fulton, became the bride of Philip E. Brown of Crutcheville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Brown of Crutcheville on Thursday, November 26, 1959 in a simple Thanksgiving Day ceremony. Rev. J. F. McMinn was the officiating minister and the ceremony was performed in the West Hickman Methodist Church at three o'clock in the afternoon. The double ring ceremony was used. Miss Peggy Diane Downey was her sister's maid of honor and Bob E. Brown was the best man. The bride was lovely in a pink silk organza styled with a belted skirt, featuring an empire bodice of alternating bands of chintilly lace and organza. The scalloped edge outlined the wide scooped neckline with folds of organza emphasizing the empire lines and ending in a bow at the back. Her headpiece was a bow of organza with circle veil attached. Her accessories were pink, and she wore a corsage of pink roses. The maid of honor wore a beige embroidered sateen sheath with lace around the neckline. A beige satin cummerbund featured rhinestones. Her accessories were black and she wore a corsage of white carnations. Both are graduates of Cayce High School, and the bride is an employee of the City National Bank. Mr. Brown is employed at the Enry I. Siegel Factory here.

After a short unannounced wedding trip, they will be at home to their friends at 208 Carr street, Fulton.

County Jail Case Is Taken Under Advisement

Circuit Judge Elvis Stahr Saturday at Hickman took under advisement the case of former Jailer Earl Tibbs' suit against the City of Fulton and Fulton County for payment of $1,200.00, which he used out of his own pocket to feed the prisoners sent to the county jail by the City of Fulton.

Last week Mr. Tibbs resigned his position as jailer, and Buster Shuck was named to fill out his term, by County Judge J. C. Bondurant.

Back in July 1958 Judge Bondurant issued an edict that the county would not be responsible for paying the ration bill for prisoners sent to the jail by the City of Fulton. The Fulton city attorney says that the City of Fulton is not responsible, and for more than a year the county jailer had fed the prisoners out of his own pocket.

GENEROUS—

Continued from Page One Incoming traffic at 8 a. m. (C. D. T.). Visitors will be parked at each edge of town and taken the rest of the way by bus and taxicabs. Through traffic will be routed around the city, through Lawrenceburg and Versailles.

At this quadrennial event, hospitable Frankfort traditionally throws wide her doors. Friends from all over the state are welcomed. Great bowls of punch or eggnog stand filled for casual visitors.

And when it comes time to eat, experienced hostesses spread their finest linens and lay out their best silver. Sideboards in hundreds of homes fairly groan with buffet arrangements of old ham, turkey, beaten biscuits, salads, cakes, and steaming pots of hot coffee.

The most important thing for inauguration visitors to remember is that practically all of the festivities are held outdoors—so warm clothing is essential.

Here is the schedule, with all times Central Daylight:
Inaugural parade, 10 a. m.
Oath of office, 1 p. m.
Official reception, 7:30 p. m.
Inaugural balls, 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. at the Capitol Building, the National Guard Armory, Capital Hotel, and Stag Clubhouse.

Grand march 11 p. m. State Capitol Building grand staircase.

The parade, under direction of grand marshal Harold Travis, will form in North Frankfort in time to start marching at 10 a. m. It is expected to include 60 to 75 floats, about 75 bands and drum-and-bugle corps, and some 1,200 military personnel of the National Guard and Fort Knox divided into six divisions.

Each parade division will be headed by a division marshal astride a lively horse except the marshal heading the military division. He'll ride a jeep.

The parade will head east on Main Street in North Frankfort, cross Memorial Bridge over the Kentucky River, and swing up Capital Avenue toward its triumphal moment in front of the grandstand at the bottom of the steps leading to the Capitol Building.

Three hours is the estimated marching time.

The ceremonial oath, the solemn climax to the gaiety and pageantry, will open with the invocation of the Rev. Ira McMillen, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church at Prestonsburg, Combs' pastor.

At 7:30 p. m., all of the new elected State officials and their wives or husbands, along with the new adjutant general and his wife, will gather in the conference room for the formal reception. Miss Doris Owens, clerk of the Court of Appeals, will be joined in the line by her brother, Al T. Owens of Fulton.

At 11 p. m. the Governor and Mrs. Combs will lead the grand march down the grand staircase at the Capitol Building to climax the inaugural ball there.

NOTEBOOK—

Continued from Page One As you hear the inaugural activities over WFUL please know that I will be thinking of all of you and please remember to think of Bert Combs in your prayers for his guidance in heading a big, an important state government. And until I talk with you again have a happy inauguration day.

OUTSTANDING—

Each community award receives a certificate and other tokens of esteem arranged by the sponsoring Junior Chamber. Each first, second and third-place state winner receives an Outstanding Young Farmer plaque. The first-place state winner receives an all-expense-paid trip to the national awards program and banquet, held in a different region of the United States each year.

At the national awards program, a panel of nationally known agricultural experts selects from the 50 state nominees in attendance the nation's Four Outstanding Young Farmers of the year. Each receives a trophy and membership in America's unique farm fraternity—America's Outstanding Young Farmers.

PLAIN TALK—

who lost his head, during the French Revolution which began with the calling of the Estates General in 1789.

Louis was not a bad man; he never wanted to be king in the first place. If he were born a tradesman, he might have lived a happy and nondescript life making locks and tinkering in his shop with other mechanical devices. He might have reached old age. But Louis was born to be king. Forced into a political marriage with the young Hapsburg princess, he never became part of Marie Antoinette's activities of orgiety and carefree existence. Louis was an introvert; Marie Antoinette the extrovert.

Perhaps if the times had been stable, Louis could have placidly left matters of state in the hands of capable ministers and continued to pursue his harmless diversions. But the times were not stable; an effectual leader was the very thing the times needed. Everyone is familiar with the French Revolution; its causes and effects.

But Louis XVI, as a character study, shows more than the effect of one man on history. Some might say Louis was a victim of his fate; another that he didn't have the intelligence to control the situation; still another that he lacked courage and decision.

Possibly all are right, yet none are absolutely correct about the man. But what we can learn from his experience is disinterested in the movements about us can be disastrous. Conformity even worse. It seems all through history the men who are a little odd or different and who are individualists with strong aggressiveness are the very ones who achieve their goal, good or bad.

was produced by people who were not standardized persons; if anything in common they have, it seems a regard for the personal image and creativeness is foremost. None ever seemed to have been of the same opinion as that of the last speaker.

Today the cult of "the opinion of the last speaker is mine, now let's forget about it and have fun!"

is growing. I remember once attending a party. In one group a visiting dignitary of some note was asked his opinion on a particular important subject by the booring hostess. After giving a courteous reply, she replied, "Oh, how nice! And you express it so well. By the way, have I shown you little Johnnie's finger paintings." Needless to say the dignitary never came back.

The cult has spread to television. If one producer has success with a horse opera, fifteen parasites sink their tap root into the same stream of green gold. Unable to make money with their own ideas, they willingly use other creative people's ideas. In making money, one far sighted person may see more potential in the idea of another. But here is the difference. That person is intelligent enough to do what the other has not or can not.

In doing anything progressive and creative, "I am of the opinion as that of the last speaker" has no place and is a sure sign of defeat. To learn from and by others is not the same as depending upon others for ideas and ability.

Scouts Serve as Nurses Aides at Hospital

From The FHS "Kenneb" -

The Senior Girl Scout troop, composed of Linda Roddie, Suzanne Johnson, Patsy Stallins, Gladys Worley, Linda Sandling, Katie Brown, and Judy Burton, are serving as nurses aides at the Fulton Hospital. Patsy Smith Rose is a former member.

The girls formed the troop last year on October 13, and, since there was no opportunity for them to be Mariner Scouts, they decided to be Nurses Aides at the Fulton Hospital where their leader, Mrs. Frank LeMaster, is a registered nurse. This plan was put before the Bear Creek Council for approval.

Finally in January, after months of waiting, the girls learned that they could work in the hospital after successfully completing a required five-point program. They then had to take a 10-hour training program in which they learned how to change beds; take pulse, temperature, and respiration; clean rooms; and perform many other services. The girls all knew that if they once started they could not quit until thirty hours work was completed.

On the week of April 20, they started working at the Fulton Hospital. The first week was the hardest because they were all a little scared, but after that, they went right on as if they had always been there. Each girl was assigned a certain floor and a certain time during which to work. When time came to change floors, most of the girls didn't want to change, so the ones who preferred to were allowed to stay where they were.

At first a few of the girls were afraid that they might not like the work, but they all enjoyed it so much that they are starting again this week. A few of the girls have decided to go on into occupational therapy and work in some of the rest homes here in Fulton, while the other girls have decided to stay on at the hospital.

Every girl in the troop has learned a great deal about first aid and hospital care, and some of them are even thinking about going into professional nursing.

Just in case you think that this work is a breeze, you have another think coming. Although each of the girls thoroughly enjoys working in the hospital, it IS hard work.

English Classes Do Conservation Themes

Writing an essay? You must be if you are in the sophomore, junior or senior class. Yes, we are racking our brains, the mail service, the libraries, and anything else we can, to find information on forest conservation.

The topic of our theme will be "How Forest Conservation Benefits My Community", a 1,000 word or less essay.

This is an essay sponsored by the Louisville Courier-Journal in co-operation with The Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation.

For the state awards there will be a $100 U. S. Savings Bond to be given away, a $75 U. S. Savings Bond for the second place winner, and a $50 U. S. Savings Bond for the third place winner.

District awards will be a $25 U. S. Savings Bond to the first place winner in each of the 121 soil conservation districts.

The school award will be a certificate of merit for the writer of the essay judged best.

Entries must be turned in by December 1, 1959.

Andrews Named "Most Valuable" Ball Player

Philip Andrews, Bulldogs full-back and Fulton High senior, was named the "most valuable player" at a fan-sponsored dinner at Reelfoot Lake last week. The selection was made by members of the Bulldog squad and a trophy was presented to Andrews from the fans, who sponsored the dinner.

The six foot, 183 pound fullback, who was a great asset to the Bulldogs in their successful 1959 season, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews. This is the first year for the "most valuable player award", and it is hoped that it will become an annual custom.

There were six candidates for the honor. Andrews finished the season with the top rushing total for the Bulldogs backfield. He gained 833 yards in 107 carries and had a 7.9 per carry average, with a total of 40 points for the season. Against Martin he gained 129 yards. This was his third year as a Bulldog letterman.

Several Southeastern Conference Schools have shown an interest in Andrews and also in Merrell Davis, one of the top linemen on the squad.

HURRY CHRISTMAS! Well, will it be merry—or hurry—around your house? Why not make it merry by leaving a lot of holiday duties up to your telephone! For instance, why not use your phone to order gifts, to shop for just about anything you need during the holidays. Ring up the bakery, the florist, the grocer from your easy chair! Don't forget the phone's a quick and cheery way to invite people to parties. And with Long Distance, you've got the fastest way possible to make plans, greet old friends, and visit the folks who can't get home for the holidays. So, use your telephone—"for all it's worth"—at Christmas time, all the time!

ALL TIED UP—Isn't that usually Dad's fate at Christmas time? And if it isn't ties, it's socks or shirts or handkerchiefs. This Christmas why not gang up on the old boy and give him something to really put a gleam in his eye—his own personal extension phone! Can be installed anywhere he likes to relax in private. Of course, Dad's not the only one who'd get a bang out of an extension phone. Sis or Brother or Mother or Grandmother—just about everyone would love the convenience and pleasure of an extension phone. Colors to suit everyone, too. Just call our Business Office and say the word—we'll be glad to handle all the details.

TUNE IN on Sunday, December 6 for a repeat telecast of Bell Telephone's Science Series program, "Gateways to the Mind." I'm sure you'll enjoy this stimulating show, so watch for time and channel in your newspaper.

Miss Betty Canady, who exchanged her marriage vows with Jerry Mack Cutler of Obion Sunday at the Second Baptist church, was complimented recently at a dinner party given at the Park Terrace in Fulton by the Ada Sunday School class of the Second Baptist church.

A colorful fall arrangement centered the white draped table. The honoree was presented with a pair of wall plaques by the members of the class.

Miss Canady was attired in a blue jersey designed with a low, rounded neckline centered with a self bow and brief sleeves. She complemented her attire with pearl jewelry and red kid accessories.

Those attending the event other than members of the class and the honoree were Miss Peggy Land and Mrs. Annie Toland.

In keeping with the season, the theme of Mrs. Lyle Shuck's devotional was "Thanksgiving." She read from the Psalms and gave the poem, "We Give Thanks."

Eighteen members and two visitors, Mrs. J. E. Logan and Mrs. W. B. Rice, were present. The roll call was answered by each one giving a line from a song of Thanks or Praise.

After the covered-dish dinner, Miss Alice Sowell gave a discussion on "Flower Arrangement." She had an assorted selection of flowers and leaves she had dried with which to work. She told the group to strive for:

Good linear pattern. Balance. An interesting silhouette. Harmony. Expression, distinction, and originality in flower arrangement.

State Brucellosis Program Now Involves 91 Counties, Including Fulton

There are now 91 Kentucky counties in the brucellosis control program, the UK Cooperative Extension Service said this week.

R. H. Singer, state veterinarian, says that Kentucky now has 26 "modified certified brucellosis areas." They are Anderson, Bracken, Calloway, Campbell, Carter, Elliott, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Hopkins, Jackson, Johnson, Lawrence, Lincoln (Metcalfe), Morgan, Rockcastle, Rowan, Simpson, Todd, Trigg, Trimble, Warren and Wolfe.

There are 21 counties in the testing phase of the program, Singer said; another 25 have completed petitioning (for the testing phase) and are awaiting official declaration, while 19 counties are in the petitioning phase.

Singer said the goal is to have 30 modified-certified brucellosis (free) areas (counties) by year's end.

Average Family's Food Cost Is $28

The average weekly food costs for the United States is about $32 for a family of four, U-T Extension Home Management Specialist, LaVerne Farmer reported. Following the United States Department of Agriculture's moderate-cost food budget plan, food economists estimate food costs to average about $34 in the Northeast, $33 in the West, $31 in the Northcentral region and $28 in the South.

"Three food budget plans, the low-cost, the moderate-cost, and the liberal plan have been setup by the USDA which suggests amounts of 11 food groups to purchase for a balanced, nutritious diet," Miss Farmer said. Each plan is designed to conform to the food buying habits of the various income groups.

"The cost estimates are based on July, 1959 for prices in retail stores in Boston for the Northeast, Los Angeles for the West, St. Louis for the Northcentral region, and Atlanta for the South. Average prices for the entire United States are used to make estimates of national food costs.

"The average weekly family food bill varies from region to region, not only because of differences in local prices, but also because of regional food buying habits. For example, a Southern

This underground shelter contains a bountiful supply of food, kept naturally cool by being underground and sealed occasionally for freshness. Note the gasoline-operated generator on the floor against the far wall. Japanese Plans Failed In Attack On Pearl Harbor

When the Japanese planned their attack on Pearl Harbor and the conquest of other Pacific islands, they thought this show of force would lead peace-loving Americans to take a conciliatory attitude toward their blueprint for an empire in East Asia, according to a University of Tennessee study concerning the Dec. 7 debacle of 18 years ago.

However, as history has shown, the Japanese couldn't have been more wrong in "reading" the American mind, pointed out Yung-Hwan Jo, U-T Korean student who made the study of Japanese policies prior to and during World War II. Mr. Jo recently received his master's degree from U-T.

Overpopulated and economically depressed, Japan set out on a series of conquests in the 1930's which netted two neighboring islands and parts of the Chinese mainland. Not satisfied with these territorial gains, Japanese leaders launched an empire-building war which was to bring most of the South Pacific islands under their nation's flag.

These leaders were spurred on, Mr. Jo pointed out, by a false sense of invincibility and by the traditional belief in a "special Japanese mission" in the world — a belief which drew strength from family following the moderate-cost food plan tends to buy more poultry and fish and fewer expensive cuts of meat than a family in the North. In addition, Southern families buy more flour for home baking than families in other regions who buy more of their grain products in the form of baked goods."

the Shinto religion.

Japan's scheme of conquest was aimed toward the establishment of the Greater East Asia Co-prosperity Sphere, with Japan at the head and other nations as "cooperating partners." First to be included in GEACS were the lands of Korea, Taiwan, Karafuto, Manchukuo, and New China, which had been acquired by 1937.

"Most of the Japanese leaders appeared to agree that the boundaries of GEACS should reach as far as Thailand, French Indo-China, Malaya, and Burma in the southwest, and the Philippines, Borneo, and the Netherlands East Indies, including New Guinea and New Caledonia, in the southeast," Mr. Jo pointed out.

Some of the more-ambitious Japanese leaders also wanted to include Australia, New Zealand, and India in GEACS.

Japan's greed proved her undoing, Mr. Jo pointed out. He said Japan was the natural heir to Europe's decaying power in Asia, but made the mistake of warring against the Western powers whose colonial dominance she was imitating.

The Korean student said he feels that Japan could have survived as a nation after acquiring its first holdings—Formosa, Manchuria, Korea, and New China—without trying for further expansion.

"Japan went into the Greater East Asia War against the West under the banner of Asia's liberation from European colonialism, and the establishment of GEACS," Mr. Jo stated. "This appeal was a sound one in Asia, but despite her utilization of the rising tide of nationalism and anti-Westernism, Japan almost imitated the traditional colonialism in her implementation of the political, military, and economic aspects of GEACS."
