Have You Been Wondering

What has been going on for several days inside this small tent perched along East State Line Road? When Marti Eakin, Fulton County News photographer, climbed up to see, she found all sorts of interesting things.

First, there was Mr. Elmer Yewell, Southern Bell construction cable splicer, working in Fulton out of Paducah, Oh. Well!

Second, there was the job Mr. Yewell was doing. Elmer was splicing together 1,200 individual wires from one 600 pair cable to 1,200 other individual wires in another 600 pair cable. Impressed with Mr. Yewell's ability—then consider that there is only one correct wire in each group of 1,200 wires which can be spliced to each other. Accuracy! Accuracy!

When asked what was the purpose in what he was doing, Mr. Yewell replied: "To give you better and faster telephone service, in fact, the best telephone service possible."

No School Today; Do You Know Why

by Paul Westpheling

There's no school today (Thursday) in Fulton, nor in Fulton County, nor in Graves or Hickman Counties, nor anywhere in the State except three places out of a total of 212.

To the pupils, a holiday is a holiday with no questions asked: always welcome.

To the teachers, whose Education Association engineered this holiday as a "Professional Protest Day" as a mass demonstration against low salaries, today will be spent at Murray State College in a meeting attended by teachers of the First District. The Workshop will begin at 9:30 a. m. and its purpose is to "improve the financing of Education". Speakers will be Dr. Harry Sparks, Supt. of Public Instruction, and Dr. Marvin Dodson, KEA Executive Secretary, Louisville.

To parents and disinterested taxpayers of Kentucky, the day can provide food for sober thought: if many teacher's salaries are lower than they should be, the problem is somewhat due to a situation right at home. Revenue to pay teachers is generated from taxes, and in Fulton County alone, the city school system estimates that it "loses" $7 to $8 thousand dollars yearly because the County tax assessment isn't up to the State level. The average tax assessment in Kentucky last year was 31% of assessed value, and had the Fulton County figure been that high, the Fulton City School system alone would have received over $7 thousand dollars more in matching State funds than it did. But the Fulton County assessment was only 28.6% of assessed property values in the County, the State said, and therefore withheld the difference.

So is this what the "Salary Protest Day" is all about? Not entirely, but it is really one of the basic items. Every County around us in Kentucky is losing State school support for this reason, although the figure for each County is different.

Another person in each County is also involved in today's demonstration: the County tax assessor. This year he is faced with the responsibility of abiding by a court decision to list ALL property for 1966 taxes at fair cash value . . . a job that is going to make him the most unpopular man in the County, but is going to result in more taxes for the County and City school systems, and therefore pickup that additional matching money from the State that we haven't been getting. And before anyone becomes outraged at their County assessor for listing their property at fair cash value, they must remember that (1) the Kentucky Constitution specifically requires him to do it, even though in recent years it hasn't been done, and (2) on June 8, 1965, the Kentucky Court of Appeals rendered a decision that this section of the Constitution must be obeyed.

So if today's "Protest Day" by the teachers seeks to call attention to the plight of the schools, it also serves to call attention to the plight of the tax assessment structure in every County in the State, and the fact that in many cases assessments have long since ceased to keep up with actual valuations.

That is, up until the year 1966. This year there'll be some changes made.

So this seems to be the problem, and its solution at the local level. Another prong is at the State level, and its solution lies at that level. Briefly, it is this:

The KEA legislative program—first approved in December, 1964, and reaffirmed by the delegate assembly twice since then—calls for a $900 average salary increase for degree teachers according to the foundation program's classroom-unit formula over the next two years. Increases of $200 for capital outlay (buildings and classrooms) and $200 for other current expenses (instructional materials and supplies) on the classroom-unit formula are requested also.

Governor Breathitt's budget includes only $400 for salary increases on the foundation formula. It allows nothing additional for capital outlay and other current expenses. These latter two items have had no allotment increases since 1960.

ETV Network Construction Begins This Summer; Will Be Beamed To This Area

Construction of Kentucky's educational television network is expected to begin early this summer.

The $7 million ETV project, scheduled to reach schools and homes throughout Kentucky in 1968, got its final okay Jan. 14, when Governor Edward T. Breathitt signed the State's biennial budget which included a $359,000 appropriation for ETV.

Construction and equipment costs of $7,400,000 will be financed from the sale of revenue bonds and from Federal grants.

"Elementary and secondary schools throughout the state will be the prime target for the network's programs although college-credit courses, vocational training, and other programs for adults will be offered," said O. L. Press, director of the State ETV Authority. Programs and educational materials from the network will be

A weekend of bitterly cold weather, drifting snow and icy streets and highways left a trail of death, destruction and discomfort in the Ken-Tenn area, and as this week's paper goes to press, no real relief is in sight.

Slippery highways north and south of Fulton caused over a dozen trucks and automobiles to end up in ditches.

Bitter sub-zero cold froze water pipes when the thermometer dipped to around six below zero Saturday night.

Sunday morning the Fulton Fire Department battled a fire for four hours in an apartment building occupied by three families at 202 Anderson, but were unable to save it. The fire was caused by an overheated stove.

Sunday morning the Fulton Fire Department was called to fight a fire in a house trailer near Cayce owned by Mrs. Bertie Johnson. The trailer was destroyed, and cause was attributed to an overheated floor furnace. Mrs. Johnson was not at home at the time.

An explosion Sunday morning at Hickman claimed the life of Mrs. Alphous O'Rear, 65, who suffered burns as she sought to relight a gas heater at her home. The house was destroyed by fire.

In an early-morning accident last Saturday on US 45-E near Jolley's orchard, an Iowa truck driver was pinned under an overturned car for some 30 minutes before a wrecker could free him. He was brought to Hillview Hospital and transferred to Memphis with severe facial injuries.

Monday night all area highways were glazed with freezing rain and sleet, and at least a dozen autos and trucks went into ditches and had to be towed out. No injuries were reported.

No area schools were open Monday or Tuesday except those in Fulton. All basketball games since last Friday have been postponed or cancelled, and most meetings in and around Fulton have had to be cancelled or postponed.

Press "Weathered" In; Cannot Make It Here

Kent Hamby Stricken At Hickman Home

Kent Hamby, 65, prominent Fulton County business and political figure, died suddenly Tuesday night just before seven o'clock at his home in Hickman, apparently from a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at two o'clock in this First Methodist Church in Hickman, of which he was a member. Rev. King Dickerson, pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial in charge of Barrett Funeral Home, will be in City Cemetery.

Mr. Hamby was the son of A. S. Hamby and the late Mrs. Hamby of Hickman. He was a life-long resident of Hickman, a prominent business man, and an active political figure in Fulton County. He had extensive farming interests and was owner of The Music Shop in Hickman, and also had many coin-operated music machines in the area. He was a former tax assessor of Fulton County.

In addition to his father, he is survived by his wife, the former Miss Mary Moore; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Stone and Mrs. Mozelle Travis, both of Hickman, and one brother S. Ray Hamby of New York City.

STOKES NAMED

Fred Stokes, Jr., operator of the Stokes Oil Company in Hickman, has been named President of the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers' Association.

Bogus Bills Are Circulating Here

In a special bulletin to Fulton retailers last weekend, the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce warned that another series of counterfeit $20.00 bills are floating around in the Fulton-South Fulton area. Be on the lookout for $20 bills carrying the serial number B 731 929 69C.

The counterfeiters have done a good job on this series and it is hard to detect from the "real McCoy". So be sure to check your serial numbers on all $20's.

Tips? The Government Wants A Percentage Too!

"Tips" for service . . . those unwritten, unlisted, sometimes-uncalled-for handouts that the traveler is expected to dish out at every turn (whether deserved or not), have now come under the scrutiny of the big guns of the Internal Revenue Service.

So if the "giver" has been plagued with 'em for years, now the "given" is in the same boat. In a manner of speaking, the IRS says they're taxable income, and if you receive tips your are required by law to report income from tips to your employer each month. To make it easy to keep up with the tips, the IRS has prepared a special pocket-sized booklet for tax-paying tip receivers.

The booklet explains the law's requirements, provides space to record each day's tips for twelve months, and has over a year's supply of the forms needed to make monthly reports of tip income to employers.

Four million copies of the booklet have been printed and are now available free at IRS district offices. Employers, unions and other organizations may obtain bulk quantities of the booklet for distribution by writing the District Director of Internal Revenue serving them.

New laws passed in 1955 require all employees receiving $20 or more in cash tips a month to report them to their employers by the 10th of the following month.

This tip income will now count towards Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits.

The legislation also makes tip income subject to withholding for Social Security, Railroad Retirement and income taxes. Tips have always been considered taxable income but until this year have not been subject to withholding.

The new booklet on tips is Document 5635, Employee's Daily Record of Tips and Report of Tips to Employer.

Governor Breathitt Makes Clear His Stand On Salary Increases For School Teachers

The editors and publishers of the Fulton County News are pleased to publish a statement received today from Governor Edward T. Breathitt regarding his position on the salary increases for Kentucky's school teachers. It follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Westpheling
The Fulton County News
Fulton, Kentucky:

Dear Jo and Paul:

I support the public school teachers in pointing out the inadequacy of their salaries and I intend to work with them toward attaining a higher level, but I do not think that Kentucky at the state level owes any apologies for what it has accomplished during the last several years for education.

Kentucky ranks 12th from the top in the nation in State financial aid to Kentucky's public schools. It is unfortunately true, however, that Kentucky does not score nearly so well in terms of local financial aid. In fact, we rank near the bottom in local support. The local schools are a joint responsibility of local and state governments.

Kentucky, with 57.1 per cent, ranked 12th among all the states in the percentage of revenue appropriated by State Government in 1964-65 for public elementary and secondary education.

These statistics are taken from Ranking of States, research division publication of the National Education Association, February, 1965.

The same publication, for 1955-56, showed Kentucky appropriating only 35.1 per cent of its revenue to public elementary and secondary schools. The 10-year increase was 22 per cent, the highest of percentage increase in any state.

These statistics were compiled before the new, all-time-record appropriation we made to education this month through the budget bill I presented to the General Assembly. So actually Kentucky ranks even better now in terms of state financial support to local schools.

The State this year in its 1966-68 budget provides for $200 increases each year per class room unit for teachers salaries. This $400 added to the $500 biennial increase voted in 1964 marks a total increase of $900 in basic salaries during this administration. The K. E. A. sought a $900 biennial increase this year.

Besides granting the second largest salary rise of any four-year period in the history of the state, and the largest increase ever granted without new or higher taxes, we also have provided for other benefits to education.

One is a statewide educational television network. Funds for constructing the necessary stations have now been appropriated and we expect the system to be operating in 1968. Another advance is the improvement of our vocational educational program. This includes construction of 20 new vocational schools, expansion of eight schools and relocation of five.

In regard to the teachers, as represented by the K. E. A., I will continue to work with them and help them all I can at the local level. The special legislative session convened by me last year made it permissive for school districts throughout the state to increase their income from property taxes up to 10 per cent during each of the next two years.

At the January 15 meeting of the K. E. A.'s delegate assembly, which voted a one-day protest walkout, closing schools, it was suggested that a permissive occupational tax might be authorized as a source of local tax revenue. This legislation would allow local officials to increase local support of schools as needed. Last year the Legislature gave such authority to Louisville and Jefferson County, where action has since been taken to improve local support to schools.

Another proposal put forward was the addition of one per cent to Kentucky's present 3 per cent State sales tax to be used for education and teachers salaries. I am pledged, as most Kentuckians know, neither to increase taxes nor impose new State taxes. Consequently, I feel obligated to oppose an increase in the sales tax during this administration.

A permissive occupation tax of one-half per cent to benefit education and teachers is a horse of a different color, however, and I would not oppose enactment of a law giving this authority and option to local governmental units throughout the state. This would tend to put the responsibility for improved school support at the local level—with the local school boards who are elected by the people.

I have appointed a Governor's Commission to Help Education made up of six legislators, six teachers and educators and six interested citizens. They are to recommend to this legislature what can be done now at the state and local levels to insure that our children get the best possible education.

With deep appreciation for your continuing interest in the progress of Kentucky, I am

Cordially yours,
Edward T. Breathitt
Governor of Kentucky

WHAT IS AN AMERICAN?

He yells for the government to balance the budget and then takes the last dime he has to make the down payment on a car; he whips the enemy and then gives 'em the shirt off his back; he yells for speed laws that will stop fast driving and then won't buy a car if it can't go 100 m. p. h.; he knows the line-up of every baseball team in the American and National Leagues . . . and doesn't know half the words in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

He'll spend half a day taking vitamin pills to make him live longer, then drive 90 miles an hour on slick pavement to make up for lost time; he ties up his dog but lets his sixteen-year-old son run wild; An American will work hard on a farm so he can move into town where he can make more money so he can move back to the farm; when an American is in his office, he talks about baseball, football or fishing, but when he is out at the game or on the lake, he talks business.

He is the only fellow in the world who will pay 50c to park his car to eat a 25c sandwich.

A PRAYER FOR EVERY DAY

Make me too brave to lie or be unkind.
Make me too understanding, too, to mind
The little hurts companions give, and friends,
The careless hurts that no one quite intends.
Make me too thoughtful to hurt others so.
Help me to know
The inmost hearts of those for whom I care,
Their secret wishes, all the loads they bear,
That I may add courage to their own.
May I make lonely folks feel less alone,
And happy ones a little happier yet.
May I forget
What ought to be forgotten; and recall
Unfailing, all
That ought to be recalled, each kindly thing,
Forgetting what might sting.
To all upon my way,
Day after day,
Let me be joy, be hope! Let my life sing!

WHAT'S NEW IN THE LIBRARY?

A shipment of film-strips has just been received from the Department of Libraries in Frankfurt, along with two large shipments of books. The filmstrips may be borrowed, just as books are.

On Tuesday evening between the hours of 7 and 9 there will be a film-showing of life in Latin America in the ancient times, and the rise of civilization in these countries. Use is made of authentic Columbian art objects. The film is short, lasting only 16 minutes, and will be run several times. Filmstrips of these countries may also be seen through a small viewer.

SOME NEW BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY:

NIGHT OF CAMP DAVID, by THE LOOKING GLASS WAR,

Knebel Fletcher. In this new novel the writer has created, out of his long familiarity with men of power in Washington, certain memorable figures, and a vivid picture of the real world of politics and power.

A PILLAR OF IRON, by Taylor Caldwell. In strips to Athens and Rome the author has compiled authentic information out of which she has drawn the story of Cicero's Rome in this major historical novel.

THE BELOVED INVADER, by Eugenia Price. A novel based on the true story of Anson Dodge, who spent himself and his fortune to serve the island folk of St. Simons Island off the coast of Georgia, and found his own identity in building something lasting and beautiful out of the debris of Civil-War-torn South.

by John Le Carre. Another brilliant novel by the author of the much acclaimed book "The Spy came in from the Cold."

WAR IN THE GOLDEN WEATHER, by Stephen Longstreet. A novel of pre-revolutionary America begins when an itinerant painter and fugitive from law meets Major George Washington, and turns to soldiering.

THE F. B. I.'S MOST FAMOUS CASES, compiled by Andrew Tully (with introduction and comment by J. Edgar Hoover).

WANDERING THROUGH WINTER, by Edwin Way Teale. With America's foremost writer-photographer-naturalist as guide, the reader is carried to places unknown to most travelers as he delves into this pleasant, leisurely, mellow sort of book.

THE WORLDS OF ROBERT E. SHERWOOD, by John Mason Brown. This is not merely a biography of the fabulous Sherwood, but of the fabulous times in which he lived, 1896-1969. Written by one of America's outstanding literary figures the book is highly praised by some of the most outstanding critics of our times—John Gunther, Archibald McLeish, Louis Auchincloss, Clifton Fadiman and others.

Time and space limit us from naming the scores of interesting nonfiction titles that are new on our shelves, but they are there to suit most any need or taste. THE

THOROUGHbred, gives highlights of breeding and racing;

BOOK OF MAGIC, one of the top magicians of the world describes tricks which anyone can do;

AUDEL'S GUIDES give practical information on house-heating, electrical wiring, plumbing, etc.;

BOOKKEEPING MADE SIMPLE, explains a new method of rapid mastery of bookkeeping; for the amateur artist a number of books show simplified methods and techniques; and KARTING gives the low-down on this new and fascinating sport; and MERIT BADGE SERIES (60 vols.) for Boy Scouts.

So rush down to the library and get the book of your choice before they have been picked over!

Kentucky Windage

One just can't tell about the weather conditions entirely from thermometer readings in the winter. Last weekend, for instance, it was 8 below zero 500 miles northwest of us in Missouri but not a trace of snow to go with it. Here in Fulton it was zero with a couple inches of snow, and 200 miles south of us in Mississippi it was little "warmer", but they had a foot of snow!

Anyhow, it was plenty COLD, wasn't it! The weatherman is sort of making up for that beautiful fall and balmy winter we have had right up to Christmas; as far as I can remember, that was the nicest pre-January winter I have ever seen. So be of good cheer—the first day of Spring is March 20, and that is only 45 days away.

Here's a big winter-time bouquet to the City of Fulton and its hard-working street-cleaning department, who have done a quick and very thorough job cleaning snow off the streets and salting down the sidewalks and slippery places with each new layer of snow we have had. City manager Rollin Shaw told me they took their tractor (used to cut grass in the summertime) and put a blade on the back of it. It did a good job and we had clear streets in record time.

Sombody needs to come up with a gadget that will shut off an electric blanket when the alarm goes off in the morning. I wonder how many other electric blanket users crawl in at night, only to discover that the thing has been running all day.

Just about the time when I thought all of the soap powders had run out of material to say on their TV commercials and I had settled down to a peaceful winter's evening, up comes a brand-new detergent (or powder, or whatever it is) and here we go all over again. I still say to buy one box of all of them, mix them all together, and you'll undoubtedly have the world's wonder wash.

As was pointed out to a bunch of us newspaper advertising men at a seminar a year or so ago, an awful lot of television commercials are surely the old "medicine show" baloney and hocus-pocus re-created for the screen. Get-Well wishes are extended to Mrs. Maud Vincent, who is a patient in Jones Clinic, undergoing some treatment. We hope she will very quickly respond and be out again.

More snow and lower temperatures are in our midst over the week end, halting the farmers in finishing the stripping dark-fired tobacco, so everyone is busy building fires, attending the needs of all live stock. Ponds are frozen to several inches, thus requiring breaking of ice so they will get an ample supply of water.

Mrs. Louise Chambers will return home, near here, from the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, after several days treatment there. She has improved and will be home the first of this week.

Richard Allen, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lassiter, is indisposed due to a cold. We hope he will soon recover.

Mrs. John Crandine has returned home, after spending a few weeks in Baptist Hospital in Paducah and also in Jones Clinic, under treatment for a broken hip. May her convalescent days speed up and a soon recovery for the aged lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vincent visited their father, Henry McBar, last week near Lynville. Their visits are always hailed with delight by the aged man. He lives alone at his farm, nearby a son and wife who are looking after his needs.

out of his hat, the white tornado, the knight on the charger and the jerk who "squeezes the Charmin"?

Jo won't have a column this week. In fact she isn't even here to write a column. She didn't plan it that way, but here is her sad tale (gleaned from a couple of letters from my son in school at Louisville, and several long-distance calls):

She left Fulton Thursday noon for Frankfort, to attend a couple of meetings involving the Banana Festival, and planned to return here Sunday evening in time for us to attend the Fields' dinner.

She drove her car. She refused to take along chains. "After all," she reasoned, "It's not snowing". But she didn't reckon with the up-state weather.

She drove to Frankfort, and met our son there Friday, and stayed there, letting him take the car on to Lexington to do a little visiting with friends. He was supposed to return to Frankfort Sunday morning, pick her up, get himself deposited at school in Louisville, and then she was heading home.

It all looked very well arranged.

They met in Frankfort okay and he got the car, but Friday night after Paul arrived in Lexington, the heavens opened and deposited about a 5-inch snowfall on the area, bringing driving to a slow trickle. Then Saturday night the heavens opened again, adding nearly a foot of snow to that already on the ground, and that really gummed up the works. One couldn't get back to Frankfort; in fact one couldn't get anywhere.

So while Paul stayed with friends there, the car sat out in a snowbank in Lexington until Sunday afternoon, and wouldn't start in the bitter cold. Five hours later, after being towed in and thawed out, it managed to get going; but at that late hour, facing clogged roads and the necessity of being at an 8:00 o'clock class next morning in Louisville, he received permission from his mother to drive straight back to Louisville.

And after he reached Louisville, it snowed some more there, so the car is now in a snowbank in Louisville and Jo is still on foot in Frankfort.

She thought about coming home Monday, but decided against it. That was the night we had the sleet and ice storm, and she would never have made it. In fact there's no telling when she will get here. I haven't seen a cheerful weather forecast this week.

On Monday night she jokingly asked me to mail her an Easter hat, just in case the stay lasts that long. With all the snow they have up there, it may take that long for it all to melt.

Introducing Our Churches - God's Agency For Spreading His Love

TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Trinity Episcopal Church was first organized as a mission in 1850. Its first church was built in the site of our present library. This building was destroyed by fire and the property was later sold to the United States government as a site for the Post Office. In 1919 a new church was built on Washington St. and in 1959 this building was sold and the present structure was built on Vine Street.

Trinity Church is a part of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky. Its worship services employ the ancient liturgy of the early church and the ceremonial, colors and vestments lend a warmth and richness to the praise of God. A strongly Bible-centered church, it seeks to proclaim the Christ of the scriptures as it's Lord and Master.

Through its Church School, adult study classes and services, Trinity Church offers a full program of worship, instruction and pastoral care. It has grown rapidly during the past decade, and extends to all a warm invitation and welcome.

Good Surprise--Increase For Public Assistance

Kentucky public assistance recipients had a small surprise in the mail this month—an increase in monthly benefits.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt referred to the raises in his State of the Commonwealth address to the 1966 General Assembly on the opening night, saying that the aged, blind and disabled adults on public assistance would be helped and so would families receiving aid for dependent children.

State Economic Security Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson explained the raises this way:

Average raises for adults will be about $2 a month and families will benefit by an average of $4 more per month.

"We need to make it clear that we are talking about average increases," Dawson said, "and that we are not saying that every adult or family case has necessarily been given an increase, although most have, or that the amounts are the same for every situation—that depends upon their needs alone."

The Governor also mentioned another set of proposed increases which would take place after July 1 for public assistance cases if the Administration's budget bill is passed in present form. The amount of July increases will depend upon action of the Legislature.

Adults in the aged, blind and disabled category received up to $85 per month last year for single individuals. The new ceiling will be $87.

In aid to families with dependent children the ceiling was $160 before. The new ceiling in the children's category moves to $164 monthly.

Adult cases, involving "essential persons" in addition to the recipient, increase in maximum from $120 to $122 monthly.

Maximum payments to homes for the aged or infirm for public assistance clients have been increased by $2 in each category. Medical care benefits remain the same as at present, Dawson said. There are now about 93,000 public assistance cases of all types in Kentucky involving some 166,000 persons. Grants during the most recent month for which figures are available showed these facts:

—All public assistance programs, reaching 166,000 persons, and including medical care benefits, cost a combined total of $7.4 million, or an average of $44 for each person per month.

—More than 58,000 aged persons received $3.7 million for an average of $64 per month each.

—Benefits to 2,500 blind persons totalled $182,000, or an average of $73 each for the month.

—About 11,600 disabled recipients were paid some $925,000, or typically $79 each for the month.

—Some 21,000 families with dependent children received about $2.1 million in support for an average monthly benefit of $25 per person.

"DON'T"

Recently, in preparing an article on good and bad luck, I was impressed again at the number of "Don't" signs. In this very puzzled world there are six or eight times as many warnings as good signs. Just how we all have survived, hemmed in as we are with dangers, is a sad thing to brood over. Even when there is a good side to luck signs, it is rarely mentioned until after the bad side is emphasized. In my collections I have more than 600 luck signs, enough to have kept whole generations guessing about what would happen next because of some sign that was improperly interpreted.

These bad signs start even before we are born and last on down until after we are laid in our graves. A dozen different things may mark an unborn infant or otherwise start him off wrongly. Fears may leave marks upon him; cravings for unattainable food may do an equally thorough job of marking. The day or hour or month of his birth is all mixed up in signs, so that he enters this world with several strikes against him.

Here are some signs and portents about him when he is very small:

1. Do not take up any ashes in the house until the baby is nine days old.
2. His mother's hair must not be cut in any way until these same nine days have passed.
3. His hair must not be cut until a year has gone by; his fingernails likewise must not be removed by cutting but by biting.
4. It is dangerous to pull a dress on over his head until this same dangerous first year has gone.
5. He must not see himself in a mirror until he is good-sized, from six months to a year old.
6. Some visitor may cause him to be cross-eyed by standing at the head of his cradle or crib.
7. Unless his father's hats were all burned on the day of his birth, all sorts of evils may befall him.
8. If he lies on a pallet, some ignorant or unwise person may step over him and thus make him undersize when he grows up.
9. If he is a good humored, somebody is sure to tickle him to hear him laugh, and thus he will stammer and stutter to the end of his days.

10. And then comes teething, with evils galore unless he wears a mole's foot on a string around his neck or a wool string as a necklace.

11. Worst of all, if he is precocious, he is sure to die young.

Thus only the inferior ones of us lived to be old. One of my neighbors used to say that it was strange that so many babies were so smart and so many grownups were so stupid.

Just think how many bad-luck signs he will have to meet after he starts growing up: all the children's diseases unless he is properly immunized by wearing an asafetida bag around his neck, black cats that stray across his path, crossroads to pass where somebody has left a small bag of pebbles that have been rubbed on warts and will infect some innocent wayfarer, this same crossroads where someone has wished a sty on "the next one passing by," hoop snakes and similar varmints to escape if possible, unfortunate happenings for standing under a walnut tree in a thunderstorm, troubles of all sorts because someone has stepped in his tracks. If the little red fellow could know all of these as he takes his first breath, he might decide that one breath was enough.

ROME—The cross is not thought to have appeared in Christian churches till about the year 500. Not until the Fourth or Fifth century did the first statues appear in churches; they were of the Good Shepherd.

Is Your Farm In Need Of Additional Capital To Increase Net Farm Income?

One of the fastest moving trends in agriculture is the use of capital to increase volume of business per farm.

A recent study made by farm management specialists for the University of Kentucky of a pilot farm in this area showed that additional capital could increase annual net farm income by 20 percent of the additional capital invested. If your farm is lacking this capital-you may be lacking in net farm income.

This capital may be obtained through a short or intermediate-term loan from the Jackson Purchase PCA.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I just started doing some traveling for my company. My firm reimburses me for what I spend. Do I have to report this reimbursement?

A—If you are required to account to your company for your expenses and the reimbursement received does not exceed expenses, you are not required to report the reimbursement in your return. If reimbursement exceeds your expenses, however, you must report the excess as income.

Q—I owe some taxes for last year. When I was called into your office about this, they said they would attach my salary unless I agreed to settle up. Could you really attach my salary?

A—Under the law, IRS may attach salaries and other property when it is necessary to protect the revenue. These measures are taken only when a taxpayer refuses or neglects to satisfy a tax liability.

Q—Can you tell me what a wash sale is? I've seen this term used frequently in connection with taxes.

A—A wash sale usually refers to the sale of financial securities such as stocks and bonds.

A wash sale occurs when you sell some stock and within 30 days before or after the sale buy that stock, or substantially identical stock. It is also a wash sale if the purchase was made by your wife or a corporation you control.

The tax significance of a wash sale is that any losses involved are not tax deductible but are added to the basis of the newly acquired stock. You cannot sell a stock to take a loss on your tax return and buy substantially the same stock within 30 days. Gains from a wash sale are taxable income.

Q—I inherited a small house and a little money from my uncle. Will I have to pay federal income tax on this?

A—No, inheritances are not taxable for Federal income tax purposes.

If your uncle's estate was over $60,000, however, there could have been a Federal estate tax due on it. You might be liable for a part of that tax if it was not paid. Also, you should keep a record of the appraised value of the house when you received it. Then you will have a basis to figure your gain or loss when you sell or otherwise dispose of the property or for depreciation purposes if you should rent it.

Q—When will the next tax forms be ready? I'm due a refund and want to get started on my return as soon as I can.

A—Tax forms will be available by the first of the year. For most taxpayers, a 1040 or 1040A tax package will be mailed to their homes. Copies of all necessary forms may be obtained at IRS offices as well as from many banks, post offices and other public places.

Q—Every Christmas, I do some volunteer work for children at the hospital. Is there any deduction for this?

A—The value of your time or services is not deductible. However, you may deduct any out of pocket expenses you pay in connection with your charitable work. The fair market value of merchandise contributions is of course deductible.

Q—I applied for and have been accepted for the newly re-opened NSLI insurance. I now find that the payments for $10,000 are too expensive for me. Can I reduce this amount?

A—Yes. You can reduce it to any amount in excess of $1,000 in multiples of $500.

Q—Could you tell me if my husband is eligible for a GI loan? He was inducted into the service in March, 1943 and was discharged each 90 days he was on active duty in February, 1946. (there are 11 such 90-day periods)

A—He would appear to be eligible in his two years and 11 months of service) we reach February, 1967 formula, ten years to his date of as the expiration period for his entitlement. However, he should discharge (February, 1946 to February, 1956) and then one year for check with his VA regional office

Kentucky-Pennsylvania Reclamation Contrasts

would be leveled off to the land's original contour under new laws Breathitt proposes to the General Assembly. In the picture at right is a strip-mine area in Pennsylvania that has been restored to its original contour and now supports fields of grasses and grains. The proposed new Kentucky laws would be more similar to Pennsylvania's laws requiring better restoration of stripped lands.

Breathitt Seeks Funds For Outdoor Recreation Plan

A vast outdoor recreation plan providing support for local projects is being sent to the U. S. Interior Department to help qualify Kentucky for Federal land and water conservation funds, Governor Edward T. Breathitt has announced.

The preliminary plan recommends that the State establish a Kentucky Outdoor Recreation Fund as repository for money received from the new Federal funds, legislative appropriations and other sources.

The Outdoor Recreation Bureau of the Interior Department has apportioned $1,190,810 for Kentucky to use in preservation and development of outdoor recreation resources if the plan is approved and the State provides matching funds, the Governor said.

The plan is the result of a one-year study by Spindletop Research at Lexington. The plan was prepared by Spindletop for the State Department of Finance.

The Governor said most of the matching funds for the Federal apportionment, which was effective last July 1, could come from the State Parks' $4.5 million share of the recently approved State bond issue.

The Spindletop recommendations said:

"... the greatest benefit to Kentucky's people resulting from federal-state outdoor recreation investments in the next 18 months will occur through improvements in the state parks system, concurrent with the preparation of studies setting up programs for local... needs and projects.

"It is therefore recommended that Kentucky's share of the Land and Water Conservation Fund disbursement for the fiscal year 1966 and 1967 be specifically allocated to planning, land acquisition, and facilities development in Kentucky's state park system. Beginning in fiscal year 1968, emphasis will be placed on satisfying the needs for outdoor recreation land and facilities at the local level, particularly in urban places."

To support these recommendations, the Spindletop plan pointed out that a substantial fund from the $176 million State bond issue has been earmarked for further land acquisition and development of facilities in the State park system.

In addition to State park development and improvement, the Spindletop recommendations included improvement of scenic roads and parkways, preservation of scenic and historic resources, development of fish and wildlife areas, and protection of scenic waterways.

The Spindletop plan said, "Kentucky possesses a relatively untapped wealth of natural resources for outdoor recreation... an abundance of opportunities still exists for new areas and programs."

Although beyond the spreading metropolitan complexes of the eastern seaboard and the Great Lakes, Spindletop said, Kentucky is "near enough to provide vacation and recreation opportunities for the millions of urban dwellers in these vast areas."

Questions and Answers for Veterans Affairs

Q—I now have $10,000 NSLI term insurance which I obtained during World War II and plan to convert this to Modified Life. Is there a deadline for converting to this plan?

A—There is no deadline for converting to the Modified Life plan of insurance except that it cannot be done on or after your 61st birthday.

Q—Where can I obtain a list of qualified insurance companies so I may convert my new Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to an individual policy?

A—Eventually from the Prudential Life Insurance Company or the Veterans Administration, but the list of qualified companies is not presently available, and will not be for several weeks.

Q—I would like to know where I may obtain my discharge papers. I served on active duty from January, 1955, to January, 1957. I then had a six year inactive reserve obligation. My discharge date should have been about January 27, 1963.

A—You should request a discharge from the branch of the service with which you served.

Q—Will my son, now serving in Korea, be able to obtain the new GI insurance?

A—A new law provides insurance coverage for servicemen. This insurance is automatic, unless the serviceman signifies in writing that he does not desire the insurance. A small monthly sum will be deducted from his pay.

Q—My husband is receiving a nonservice-connected pension from the VA. I would like to know if I start working would it have any effect on the amount of the pension that my husband now receives.

A—In determining the veteran's income for a nonservice-connected pension, none of the earned income (wages, salaries, etc.) of a veteran's spouse will be counted as the veteran's income.

Kentucky Attorney General Seeks Consumer Protection

Attorney General Robert Matthews has announced establishment of a Consumer Protection Division within the Department of Law to protect both the consuming public and legitimate business from "a small minority of merchants and alleged service specialists of the so-called fly-by-night variety adept at the fast shuffle to make a fast buck."

Matthews said the Division will be headed by Robert Preston, an assistant attorney general, with legal background and experience in consumer matters. Matthews said some 15 other states have similar operations.

The attorney general said the consumer division is being established by administrative regulation. It first will seek compliance with the laws to aid consumers through voluntary adjustment or restitution, Matthews said. Cease and desist agreements will be sought where necessary, he added.

These failing, Matthews said civil injunctive relief will be sought in cooperation with Commonwealth and County Attorneys and criminal penalties imposed where flagrant violations warrant.

"In extreme instances," Matthews said, "we will consider the desirability of revoking corporate charters under statutory authority."

Matthews said cooperation with the consumer division has been pledged by the Better Business Bureau, Louisville and Kentucky Chambers of Commerce, Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association, and Kentucky Retail Federation Association.

"The vast majority of businessmen are honest, diligent individuals who have built their enterprises upon reputation of integrity, standing behind their products and their services," said Matthews. "They have succeeded on the concept of consumer confidence and satisfaction."

The primary interest and aim of the Consumer Division, Matthews added, is to safeguard the consuming public from "repeated fraudulent activities" and not the satisfaction of a particular individual claim.

The division will not enter into any case where mere dispute exists as to value of goods or services received for the consideration paid, Matthews said. Those disputes will be left for settlement between the parties represented by their personal attorneys.

Matthews said the public is defrauded of "hundreds of millions of dollars" annually by "the fly-by-night gyp artists." The "bulk of bilking" occurs at the local level, he added. Matthews termed this "a significant drain on the consumer public and a blight upon legitimate business enterprises."

Mechanically-Made Sausages Frowned On At Festival

KINGWOOD, W. VA. — Visitors to a buckwheat festival rebelled at a sausage machine brought-in to accommodate the thousands who came to eat griddle cakes and sausage.

The visitors said they wanted the old-fashioned hand-made sausage. So, 16 persons were put to work turning out sausages by hand.

English Teachers To Rate Schools

NEWPORT, R. I. — The Rhode Island Council of English teachers says it plans to rate the quality of English teaching in the state's public, private and Roman Catholic high schools seeking such evaluation.

A spokesman for the independent group said schools failing to meet its standards would not be censured. Those meeting the standards would get the teachers' stamp of "excellence," he said.

Two Kentucky teen-agers who excelled in their 4-H projects recently returned from the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Representing the Bluegrass State after being named state winners in their 4-H projects were John Allen, 18, of Lexington, and Lillie Ann Morris, 16, of Tyner.

Two other state 4-H'ers were named best in the public speaking projects and received awards from The Pure Oil Company.

Charles Henderson, 18, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Henderson, live in Greensburg, received a wrist watch for his speech "Our Living Constitution."

Annette Williams, 16, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Williams, operate a 60-acre farm in Flat Gap, was awarded a chest of silverware for her outstanding presentation of the problems of mentally retarded children.

Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Clyde Allen, won his trip in the garden project, sponsored by the Farm Equipment Division, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company. During his eight years as a 4-H'er, Allen has banked $6,000 from his six-acre vegetable garden.

In addition to many other activities during his stay in Chicago, Allen was one of a group of 4-H boys and men leaders who toured a tractor factory.

SOLO PROGRAM

You'll be hearing a lot about the SOLO Program in the future. The SOLO, Save Our Little Ones, is a program designed to help livestock producers reduce the tremendous losses of little pigs, calves and lambs. In Tennessee these losses of our little ones are estimated at over $10 million and we have reason to believe that many Obion County farmers share substantially in this great loss.

Much of this loss of our little ones can be prevented by proper breeding, feeding and management of our livestock.

A sow that raises a nine-pig litter produces as much net profit as three sows with six-pig litters. Obion County farmers should be able to raise nine-pig litters if they follow proper practices. The average litter size in Tennessee increased 1-10 of a pig last year which in Tennessee means a $400,000 increased return from the Swine Industry.

A beef cow that fails to raise a calf to weaning takes away the net profit of 2 1-2 producing cows in the herd. Our cattlemen can raise the calving percentage of their herds to well over 90 percent by following the proper practices. I have heard good cattlemen and bankers say that they have yet to see a commercial cow that they thought was good enough to give a second chance to if the cow failed to produce a calf any one year.

WEED CONTROL SHORT COURSE

Next week, February 7-11 the farm short course at Milan will be on Weed Control.

The latest research data on both experimental and commercially available herbicides will be reported, and new techniques in using herbicides discussed. Study in this area will include chemistry and the mode of action of major herbicides. With this information, you will gain a basic understanding of how each chemical works which will enable you to use the herbicides more effectively.

ALFALFA BURNING

The alfalfa burning demonstration that was scheduled for last week, but was cancelled due to the snow, will be rescheduled. All alfalfa growers will be notified when the burning will take place. It was amazing to me how many people both urban and rural were interested in the demonstration. I received calls from people from Dyersburg to Paducah in regards to the burning demonstration.

REGISTERED CATTLE SALES

Obion County farmers will have good samples of their Beef in two Registered beef cattle sales in the near future. In the West Tenn. Angus Sale at Brownsville - Friday, February 4, these Obion County Angus Breeders will sell cattle: Parnell Garrigan, Paul Grisham & Sons, C. A. Lattus, Charles Moon, and T. C. Sowell & Son.

Our Polled Hereford Breed will be at the West Tennessee Polled Hereford Sale at Brownsville on February 12, from the Herds of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Parke L. Wheeler.

If you need a bull or some heifers you should keep these two sales in mind and make a special effort to attend.

February 3 - Obion County Farm Bureau Membership Kick-off Meeting.

February 4 - West Tennessee Angus Sale - Brownsville.

February 7 - Swine Production Meeting - Obion Central High School.

February 9 - Farm School - Chemical Equipment - Obion Central High School.

BUSINESS HELPS

Just as the U. S. donates farm abundance, many private American food firms multiply CARE's help by contributing large amounts of their canned products—baby foods, soups, vegetables. Dollars sent to CARE Food Crusade, 1720 West End Ave., Nashville, Tennessee 37203, are used to deliver these Government and business donations, or to buy special foods to match the local needs of hungry people.

Airport Expansion Plan To Cost Near $39 Million

A recent State survey shows that airport improvement and expansion needs in Kentucky over the next four years total nearly $39 million.

State Aeronautics Commissioner Philip L. Swift said the recommendations based on the survey are more inclusive than recent Federal Aviation Agency recommendations that about $31 million be spent on airport projects in Kentucky over the next five years.

The State recommendations cover airports of all classes, some of which do not come under the Federal plan, Swift explained.

The State survey was prepared by Edward LaFontaine, director of airport development in the Department of Aeronautics, in conjunction with three national aviation groups: the Airport Operators Council, the American Association of Airport Executives, and the National Association of State Aviation Officials.

The cost of airport improvement and expansion would be shared by State, local and Federal governments.

A similar estimate was made in 1958 suggesting airport requirements totaling $25 million. About $21 million of this estimate has been accomplished, Swift said.

The new proposal provides for 115 projects at 53 airports over the next four years. About $28 million would be used in acquiring land, improving runways and taxiways, lighting and other development items, including nine new airports, Swift said. About $11 million would be used in terminal building expansions.

Swift said the survey was made to support aviation requests to Congress for new airport program funds.

With JIM PRYOR
Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad
Sheep For Your Community!

The question often arises in agricultural communities such as this one, "Can we raise sheep?" The answer to this very important subject is YES! Sheep production here in Kentucky should be a great industry, and a major livestock enterprise; instead, it is a declining one, even to the point of the University of Kentucky having removed all the breeding ewes from the Princeton, Kentucky Sub-Station. I do not doubt that this was a wise move when we look at the sheep industry here in the western portion of the state; but I do feel that more should be accomplished in re-establishing this industry rather than draw away from the problems that face us.

Now shall we get down to cases. In the first place, we need rolling land for sheep. We certainly qualify here. Next the pasture needs of sheep are natural with the seasonal growth of our general area. With a very little increase in fertilization and sound pasture management this would be no problem. The all important factor of dogs comes to light. Well, we have a dog law here in Kentucky and it protects the hunter as well as the farmer. If you have sheep or livestock damaged by dogs, your dog warden will come out at your request and survey the damage and you will be paid for the loss by the state. This loss is paid out of part of the tax money brought in by the sale dog license. Actually, there is no valid reason thus far as to why more sheep should not be produced in our area.

There are a few musts in sheep production. First you must like to handle sheep, as they do require much attention during lambing season. Next you must have adequate pasture to market the bulk of the lamb crop before June 15th. You must use the improved and up-to-date practices that have been worked out by the University in order to save the most lambs. Creep feed all lambs as soon as possible.

There is another subject that is in the minds of prospective sheep producers. Just how much can I expect to make from a flock of ewes? Well, we often think the wool clip will care for the ewe and the lamb to market. Then the lamb is almost net profit. This enables you to get a 100 percent return from your investment every year. Let's say that Northwestern ewes cost $24.00 each here in the area. This type ewe, being cross bred, is known throughout the sheep producing area as being top quality. Usually, the ewes clip about 10 pounds of wool and should return you something like 50 cents a pound. This $5.00 should keep the ewe during the winter. The flock should be bred to lamb in January, and some even strive for December lambs. You should have a 100 pound lamb to market in May.

WHAT'S GOING ON

by
Wendell P. Butler
Commissioner
Ky. Dept. of Agriculture
Frankfort

I would like to extend my congratulations to the three fairs which were honored recently for their outstanding progress. The Barren County Fair won the "Commissioner's Trophy" for having made the most progress in 1965. Clark County was runner-up, with Woodford County being the second runner-up. All three were recognized at the annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows.

For the past three years, the Department of Agriculture, through its Division of Shows and Fairs, has recognized fairs which have made outstanding progress from year to year. Fairs considered for this recognition must be participants in the Department's aid to local fairs program. The award goes to the fair which showed the most progress in its program as compared to the previous year.

The aid to local fairs program is designed to supplement local money spent for premiums in approved crop and livestock classes. Too, it is hoped that the program will inspire and bring about added support from local sources.

We of the Department feel that the program is reaching its objective. As a result, commendable growth is being made in Kentucky's total fair program.

Plans are underway for the annual March Egg Month promotion in Kentucky. This year, the kick-off breakfast will be in Frankfort on February 8. At this time Governor Breathitt will proclaim March as "Egg Month" in Kentucky.

Several new events are being planned this year as a means of promoting the use of more Kentucky produced eggs. Commercial producers from throughout the State have joined the Department of Agriculture, the Governor's Committee on Poultry, and the University of Kentucky in this important project.

Much attention is being given the field of agricultural marketing. It was a topic on the program of the recent Governor's Conference on Agriculture. As a means of considering all the problems and implications of this important phase of agriculture, a marketing conference is being planned.

The entire agenda of this forthcoming conference will be devoted to marketing. One item will be the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946. Another item will deal with the promotion of Kentucky farm products on the domestic market. This is an important area, and one that can mean much to our State's goal of a billion dollar farm economy.

Also to be discussed is the role of farm cooperatives in the marketing of agricultural products, as well as the part that our products can play on world markets. Another item which should be of great interest to our farm people will be the price spread between prices of raw products as compared to those we buy at the supermarket.

Of interest to Homemakers seems no good reason why men should not share the routine of cooking, especially when they like to do it.

Man's predilection for steaks, chops and other hearty dishes certainly helps to assure a goodly supply of protein, and if they like to experiment with exotic dressings for the salad, that doesn't interfere with the food values in the necessary basic vegetables. The lady of the house can round out the basic four food groups with her contribution of whole grain or enriched rolls or bread, with fruits for dessert, and dairy products. A tall glass of cool milk goes well with steak and salad, and of course, butter and baked potatoes are natural twins.

Works All Day

A husband in the kitchen from time to time might not be a bad idea. I know one who works all day at a desk, and comes home, eases his wife out of the kitchen, and prepares dinner. He can cook almost anything with a reasonable chance of success. To him this is a welcome change of pace, and comes under the heading of relaxation. "Foods can't talk back!" he says laughingly, after a day of dealing with people who can.

There's one caution, though. Usually, a husband in the kitchen wants his wife somewhere else. What better excuse for a lady to relax and enjoy a dinner she didn't have to prepare?

Coffee Break

Saves Workman

CRANSTON, R.I. Minutes after Gerald P. Cohen left the work bench of his florist shop, an automobile crashed through the wall. His wife and brother were working elsewhere in the shop and were not hurt. The bench was hurled several feet. Cohen was out looking for a hot plate. He, his wife and brother had decided to take a break and found there was nothing on which to heat the coffee.

CANDY IN THE KITCHEN

Children love candy, and — let's face it — so do many grown folks. And old folks, too.

Ah, but dentists say that sweets are bad for teeth, and don't some nutritionists call them empty calories? Is there room for candy and sweets among the four food groups on which good nutrition is based? Or must we embrace a dietary austerity that turns its back on sweets completely.

The advice about the four food groups does not exclude other foods — it emphasizes the necessity for fulfilling dietary necessities first, and then allows for additions in the form of fats, sweets and other foods, up to a total food intake that does not cause undue gains in weight.

Excess Not Sensible

Eating candy and other sweets in excess, and neglecting the basic essential foods, doesn't make sense. Filling up with sweets just before a meal isn't smart, either.

But I see no necessity for being a kill-joy and eliminating all sweets, if they are used correctly — to finish a meal in which essential nutrients have been supplied, for an occasional snack, or to grace a festive occasion.

Indeed, candy and other sweets may not be entirely empty calories, when they contain nuts, fruits, peanut butter, cream, milk solids, butter, chocolate, cocoa or enriched flour. Sugar, for example, is useful as a source of quick energy, and even though it does not supply vitamins and minerals, this absence is not important if the basic foods are included in the over-all diet plan in adequate quantities.

Dentists' Objections

Dentists' objections to sticky sweets which cling to the teeth are valid, since these favor dental decay. The remedy for this is brushing the teeth or at least thoroughly rinsing the mouth as soon as possible after eating.

Eating should be an agreeable experience, not a dreaded chore. A good diet does not have to lack attractiveness; if it does, it will probably not be tolerated for long.

Sweets Add Interest

At the risk of going out on a dietetic limb, if there is such a thing, I am being so bold as to say that reasonable and moderate use of sweets to add interest to a nutritionally sound diet, plus careful mouth hygiene, is not only permissible, but desirable. Life is tough enough without making it more so.

HUSBAND IN THE KITCHEN

At a meeting which I attended recently, one of the ladies present asked me if my knowledge of nutrition was merely scientific, or if I had ever done any cooking. I told her that cooking was a favorite occupation, or rather recreation, with me, and that started the ball rolling.

"I keep my husband out of the kitchen," said one woman with an air of determination. "All he does is mess up a lot of dishes and leave the stove covered with grease."

"And," chimed in another voice, "all men can cook is meat..."

"Steaks, chops, shish-kabob..."

"Oh, no, my husband makes good salads..."

By this time it was a chorus, and plainly there was no agreement on the value of a husband in the kitchen. One voice broke through a full and brought the hubbub to a laughing halt...

Just Patio Cooks?

"Men," this lady declared, "are just patio cooks."

Pressed for details, the last speaker said she meant that most men who fancy themselves as cooks have one or two specialties. "And," she added, "they have a lot of expensive equipment, and they can't cook without silly aprons and chef's caps..."

The fact is that more and more men are taking to cooking in real earnest, and are anything but mere patio cooks. The best and most noted professional chefs have always been men. There

PIGGLY - WIGGLY

Piggly-Wiggly in South Fulton has become a familiar landmark for grocery buyers throughout the Ken-Tenn area. Though giant in size, it values its reputation as a "friendly" store.

Piggly-Wiggly . . . in the short space of six years has become a by-word in Fulton Supermarket merchandising and "buy-word" for literally thousands of grocery shoppers.

Opening six years ago in a brand-new and extra-spacious location in South Fulton the store has experienced "unbelievable growth every year, Manager Steve Lindsey states, adding that "tremendous sales increases" enabled the giant supermarket to add nearly a third more space last year, enlarging every department to maximum size.

Piggly-Wiggly displays a tremendous number of items, Lindsey points out, especially mentioning the 90-foot frozen food case, the 75-foot meat display case across the back of the store, and complete drug, dairy and produce departments attractively arranged for easy and convenient shopping. Every department has fancy and delicate items, as well as plain, down-to-earth simple food.

"Piggly Wiggly is a friendly store," Lindsey points out. "Our motto is to always please the customer, not ourselves". As a matter of fact, Piggly Wiggly in South Fulton has had the reputation of being one of this area's most friendly stores. Not only do you find that good old "southern hospitality" there, but also low everyday prices, with wide, spacious aisles throughout the store.

Piggly-Wiggly is open seven days a week.

Since its opening six years ago, Piggly-Wiggly in South Fulton has actually given away over $30,000 cash in its popular, weekly "Jackpot" drawings to customers. These drawings are open to anyone and everyone who will obtain a jackpot card at the store and simply visit the store each week to get it punched.

A staff of 15 employees operate this giant supermarket, headed by Manager Steve Lindsey and assistant manager James Colley. James Shields is the meat department manager; Ronie Phillips manages the produce department.

One of Piggly-Wiggly's greatest assets has been its giant parking lot, affording convenient parking and easy access to the door anytime, even during rush hours when the store may be full of shoppers. Its five check-out lanes are always geared for speedy check-out service, too.

Piggly-Wiggly manager Steve Lindsey

Fifteen hustling employees make shopping at Piggly-Wiggly convenient, pleasant and worthwhile.

Vanilla Cherries

Then you know it's Quality Check!

That means unique flavors like our Vanilla Cherries Ice Cream. Which we make with juicy Montmorency cherries.

Only the deep red ones. And we use generous portions of them, too. When we say Vanilla Cherries Ice Cream, we mean half cherry and half vanilla. Kind of makes you think of ... good cherry pie a la mode!

Next time you shop, remember that ours is one of the select dairies authorized to carry the Quality Check label. It does make a difference.
