THE GREAT SPEECH DELIVERED BY JUDGE J.W. WELLS UNDER THE AUSPICIES OF THE LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE

June 5, 1907

JUDGE J.W. WELLS

As the closing paragraph indicated, The Origin, the Law and Order League has been a constant threat to the tobacco trust. They have sought to drive it out of the United States. They have attempted to set the trust into bankruptcy. They have made it the object of their endeavors. They have made it the object of their endeavors.

It is important to note that even though the trust was in bankruptcy, it was not dissolved. The trust was able to continue its operations. However, the threat of the Law and Order League was enough to cause the trust to reconsider its actions.

The Origin, the Law and Order League, was a group of men who were dedicated to preserving the constitutional rights of the citizen. They were opposed to any attempt to take away those rights. They were opposed to any attempt to take away those rights.

It is probable that when her sore eyes failed to reveal the intended object. She stated to her family and some neighbors that she was mistaken. B. Butler also testified that in the opinion of the jury in the Durham case was expected to follow closely that which was given at the examining trial and that Dunning carried, he claimed, to the house when he and Dunning, who was coming from the opposite direction, were met. "I didn't see the scythe at all. She did not see the scythe at all."

Walter Calhoun stated that Dr. Durham was the first person to see him, and making him so that there was no question of the identity of the man. In his hands when he was shot and it was after that time that, he went on to his work and didn't matter anyhow." In two instances public opinion to put a stop to these threatening letters. We believe this is best for us, best for the community and prices may go back, three years. This is owing to the panic and the demoralized trade conditions resulting therefrom. Prices may go back, however, when business over the country generally recovers.

THE TIME TO BUILD IS RIGHT NOW.

Why?

First—

Because nearly everybody that enters into the construction of a house, except labor, is cheaper than it has been for three years. This is owing to the panic and the demoralized trade conditions resulting therefrom. Prices may go back, however, when business over the country generally recovers.

Second—

There is less building being done here now than is usual at this season of the years. We have always followed the policy of giving employment to all our men when we could do so without actual loss, in order to bridge over dull seasons. We believe this is best for us, best for the community and certainly a help to the men.

If you contemplate building this year you will save money by getting it at the time of least interest.

The English trade, which hitherto has been most unfavorable to the American, is now beginning to look favorably on us, and it is expected that the demand for our products will increase. The demand in some parts of the country has been so great that the supply has been inadequate to meet the needs. The merchants are now importing goods in large quantities and are willing to pay a higher price for them than they have done in the past. This increase in demand is due to the fact that the American goods are of better quality than those imported from other countries. The merchants are now taking advantage of this situation and are willing to pay a higher price for the American goods.

WANTONLY MURDERED BY OUTLAWS IN HIS OWN HOME FOR "TALKING TOO MUCH."

CLAYSVILLE, Tenn.—John H. Faxon, a prominent high school teacher, was shot to death by a band of infidels near this place late last night. His life was snuffed out by the desperate desperadoes when they discovered he was about to report them to the authorities for their lawless behavior.

Faxon had been teaching in the town for several years and was held in high esteem by the people. He was a member of the Methodist church and was very active in its work. The news of his death has caused great consternation in the community.

The Great Speech
Delivered by Judge Wells

The speech was delivered on the 19th of May, and the occasion for it was a national holiday. It is said that Judge Wells was not prepared to make it, but when he heard that his friends were there to hear him, he decided to give them a talk that would be worth while.

"The mind is a wonderful thing," said Judge Wells. "It is capable of great things, but it must be disciplined to achieve them. We must train our minds to think clearly, to reason logically, and to act with wisdom.

"The world is full of wicked men," he continued. "They seek to destroy our way of life, to undermine our institutions, and to corrupt our youth. But we must not be afraid of them. We must stand firm and resist their efforts.

"We have a duty to our country," he said. "We must be true to it, and we must be faithful to it. We must be ready to defend it against all who would harm it.

"But we must also be careful," he cautioned. "We must not be too quick to judge others. We must listen to their arguments, and we must consider their points of view.

"We must also be careful with our words," he added. "We must speak the truth, and we must do so with kindness and respect. We must not allow our anger to get the better of us.

"We must also be careful with our actions," he concluded. "We must do our very best, and we must do it with all our might. We must be true to our country, and we must be true to ourselves.

"Thank you," he said, "for allowing me to speak to you today. I hope that my words have been worth while.

"God bless you all," he added, as he turned to leave.
