FINANCIAL AFFAIRS OF ACME MILLS SATISFACTORILY ADJUSTED

ARRANGEMENTS FOR BOND ISSUE ARE COMPLETED.

FUTURE LOOKS VERY BRIGHT.

Nothing Now in the Way of the Successful Operation of the Business.

Everybody will be glad to learn that the financial affairs of the Acme Mills & Elevator company have been straightened out and that now the institution faces a future bright with every promise of paying its indebtedness and becoming once more the solid business enterprise it was before the entanglement of its affairs came about.

Bond Issue.

The method by which the business was straightened out and placed once more upon a solid basis, was by the floating of a bond issue, announcement of which was published in the New Era some time ago. By this plan it was proposed to sell enough of the bonds to the stockholders to raise a certain per cent of the indebtedness in cash. This was to be paid to the creditors, they to take the remainder of their claims in the bonds.

It took an enormous amount of work to overcome the many and seemingly insurmountable obstacles in the way of the proposition, but it was finally accomplished. The stockholders have subscribed for enough of the bonds of the company to raise the necessary amount of cash, the creditors have declared their willingness to take so much cash and the remainder in the bonds in settlement of their accounts and so there remains only the formalities of issuing the bonds and collecting the money to wind up the whole thing. The bonds have been printed and are all ready for issuance so it will only be a short time until all the details will have been arranged.

Public Gratified.

Since it became known that the affairs of the mill were in bad shape everybody has been hoping that the plans looking to the re-establishment of the mill would be successful, and now that they are, there will be general congratulation. Ever since its organization, the Acme mills have been a very prominent factor in the business interests of the town and its growth and development from a comparatively small mill into one of the largest in the south, was a source of pride and gratification. In addition to its importance as a market for grain, the number of men it employed and the money it put into circulation generally, it has done much to increase the favorable reputation of Hopkinsville as a milling center. Its products were shipped all through the south and are in high favor.

Much credit is due President Geo.

D. Dalton and Manager R. H. Holland and the others who have been in charge of the mill since the trouble came to light. Since that time only one mill of the plant has been operated and that only on a twelve hour run each day, but notwithstanding the account shows a handsome amount each month on the profit side of the ledger. Under the new arrangement the activity of the mill will be greatly increased and the profits are expected to increase accordingly.

Future Rosy.

So the future is bright where only a few short months ago it was gloomy. By their loyalty in subscribing for the bonds the stockholders have placed the mill once more on a solid foundation and it will only be a question of short time until the stock is again in demand on the open market as it was before the trouble came. The creditors have shown a magnanimous spirit through it all and instead of forcing payment of their accounts, which would have unquestionably have been ruinous to the interest of both stockholders and creditors they have evinced a desire to help in any way they could to revive it and when the proposition to settle for part cash and part bonds was made, they agreed almost without exception.

FRANK HALE FOUND

(From Wednesday's Daily)

Frank Hale, who was reported missing yesterday morning, was found yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Low Johnson at Squire N. O. King's, nine miles from town on the Greenville road. Until November 28, 1909, the boy had made his home for six years with Squire King and it was his desire to see the family again that prompted him to go there instead of returning to the home of his aunt, Mrs. John Shelton, three and a half miles from town on the Cox Mill road as he had started out to do when he left this city Monday morning.

When Sheriff Johnson rode up to Squire King's yesterday afternoon, the boy had arrived there only a few minutes before. He had taken his time in making the journey and had spent Monday night with Harry Had-dock, a friend along the way. The boy did not want to return with the sheriff and as that officer did not have any authority for forcing him to do so he left him at Squire King's, but telephoned to Mrs. A. Meyers, his grandmother, of his whereabouts. Last night a brother of the boy went to Squire King's and brought the boy back to town and this morning he was returned to Mrs. Shelton's, where he now makes his home.

HIGHEST OF SEASON

BIG PRICES FOR TOBACCO ON THE LOCAL MARKET.

All Classes of the Weed in Constant Demand and Deliveries Are Very Large.

Tobacco on the loose floors here Tuesday went to $13.25 per hundred, more firmly than ever establishing the reputation of Hopkinsville as being the best market in the entire dark tobacco district. This price, the highest of the season, was received on Thompson's loose floor, but at all the others, I. e., R. E. Cooper & Co., James West & Co. and H. H. Abernathy, the prices ruled just as strong according to the grades that were offered. Everything was in demand and sales were made readily and so satisfactory were the prices to the growers of the weed that comparatively no rejections were made.

On one floor the lowest price was $5.00, and on all of them the bulk of the offerings brought from $9 to $12.50. The market has been showing indications of greater strength and advancing prices for several days and the quotations yesterday did not come as a surprise.

Every floor was filled to its full capacity by the offerings and the buyers were as thick as bees around the piles and made their bids in the rapid fire order. Auctioneer Williams was on the job and urged the buyers to do their utmost. The deliveries still continue to come despite the bad roads, some of the tobacco being hauled in wagons for nearly a hundred miles. The rehandling and stemming houses are kept just as busy as are the loose floors and every night the lively stables and all available sheds are filled with wagons, which it was impossible to unload before night.

The fame of Hopkinsville's market has been spread broadcast and tobacco is coming here now from regions which formerly patronized other places.

FOR $2,000 DAMAGES

Howard Wicks has filed suit against the Petersburg Coal Mining company for $2,000 damages. He alleges that while he was driving a coal car into the entrance of the mine on September 22, 1909, that the mule became frightened and began kicking which forced him back on the car from where he was knocked off and permanently injured when the car passed into the mine. He charges that the accident was due to the lack of room between the top of the car and the roof of the mine at that point, a defect which the company had promised to remedy but had failed to do so.

J. N. Burrus has brought suit against Frank Trice alleging that the latter violated the terms of a share contract by which the plaintiff was to work fifteen acres of land belonging to the defendant. Damages in the sum of $500 is prayer.

A LETTER FROM MR. CLEMENTS

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF THE SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

I wish to thank the Democrats of this district for their kindness to me during this campaign. I trust my conduct has been such as to merit the confidence, their friendship and a majority of their votes, for I have endeavored at all times to present my candidacy from the standpoint of my own fitness for the position rather than from the unfriendliness of either of my opponents. I have refrained from saying or doing anything that would endanger the ultimate success of the party's nominee to be selected in the primary election of February 2, or from endangering the interest of my party in any way. I have made a clean race and the best of personal feeling exists between me and both of my worthy opponents.

Viewing the situation carefully I confidently believe I will be selected as the Democratic nominee in the primary of February 2nd, and that I will be commissioned to bear the banner of Democracy to victory in November.

My home county of Daviess with her 5500 Democratic votes is practically solid for me. A host of loyal friends have pledged me the largest majority any candidate ever received in a primary election in Daviess county.

I appeal to my friends in the other seven counties of this district to stand firm and not let their confidence in my success be shaken on the eve of the election by the extravagant claims of either Mr. Stanley or Mr. Givens. I am fully aware that efforts have been made during this campaign to exaggerate the strength of one of my opponents and to underestimate my strength. Do not be misled or deceived by any rumors or statements that may be made from now until the polls close on February 2nd. I know my strength in this district. I have not been seeking to advertise my candidacy by entering into any newspaper controversy with either of my two distinguished friends, and I have preferred to seek a personal acquaintanceship and appeal personally for the support of the Democrats of this district.

I ask my friends to remain steadfast and loyal and if they do I will be successful. My advantage in having 5500 Democratic votes in my home county behind me is such that neither of my opponents can overcome in their home counties.

If nominated I promise the best service at my command in looking after the interests of the people in this district when I shall have been finally elected to the National Congress.

Yours sincerely,

Gone in the bright morn of thy youth
Cut down as the Autumn flower
Leaving fond friends to mourn,
Thy early departing hour.

Thou long the blighting hand
Upon thy sprightly form,
'Twas ever borne with fortitude,
Nor thy spirits e'er forlorn.

Thy presence was like the sunshin
Thy spirits always gay;
Happy as the free forest birds,
When carolling their lay.

A warmer, nobler heart ne'er beat,
Than that possessed by you;
Thy bravery was rarely excelled,
And equaled by but few.

Yes gone, and oh, how sad the thought
That we on earth no more will meet;
No more that smiling face behold,
"Thou Life's journey is complete.

We think of the widowed one,
Her years of joy and love all fled,
When she sat beside thy couch of pain
And heard it whispered, "He dead."

Thou dead, we know thou livest again
And may we to God's will resign,
And say, "Not my will be done,
Oh, Lord, but Thine."

OUR TOBACCO MARKET.

How clearly and convincingly the Leaf-Chronicle points out the reasons
of Hopkinsville's superiority as a tobacco market.

First: "Its central location in the territory that is selling loose, and the rices being about equal, men deliver
to the nearest market."

That is quite true.
Again: "No great effort to have tobacco brought here (Clarksville) while Hopkinsville has gone after it and got
it."

Hopkinsville business men are alert, intelligent and progressive. They are setting forth accurately the advantages of this city as a market, and their excellent work of exploitation is bearing fruit.

Once more: "There has been no advertisement seen this season of a warehouse in Clarksville."

The most valuable and effective means of making known any business is a persistent and generous use of printer's ink. For instance, thousands of tobacco growers regularly read the New Era, and the tobacco dealers
have right now the best opportunity in the history of our market to make its merits fully known by an aggressive
campaign of advertising.

"If business," says the Leaf-Chronicle, "is not worth hustling for, the people do not feel disposed to grant
it."

That's so, too; and the Hopkinsville
business men will do well to clip this concise little statement and paste it on their daily calendars. Don't be satisfied even with the present flourishing trade; make it bigger and better. We can help you do it.

The Louisville Post, with characteristic enterprise, last Saturday issued its annual trade edition setting forth
the great growth and development of Louisville and the state. The edition contained sixty-two pages, all of it
bright, interesting and instructive matter arranged in good style and well illustrated. There are no better set of newspaper men anywhere than those at the helm of the Post, and the paper is progressive, newsworthy and thoroughly up-to-date at all times.

Mrs. Richard Harding Davis wants a divorce from the noted war correspondent and novelist. They have been living apart three years. She says that he is cold now, but he was an impetuous suitor and sent her an engagement ring all the way from England by a special messenger. Mrs.
Davis, who is a daughter of a telephone magnate, now wants to "ring
off."

Kansas, Republicans, and James, of Kentucky, and Lloyd, of Missouri,

Republicans.

KILL THE BIG WOLF

(From Friday's Daily)

The big timber wolf which has appeared periodically in the western part of this county for the past four years and has caused a considerable loss to the farmers of that section by attacking sheep and lambs, was killed yesterday afternoon.

For the four years he has been fre-quenting this county he has succeeded in eluding the few who have assayed at times to put a stop to his maraudings, but yesterday a crowd of fifteen of the best hunters in that part of the county, including W. A. Glass, Frank McCrae and C. L. Dade, assembled at the home of Mr. Dade, on whose farm the wolf appeared last Monday and carried off a lamb in plain view of the family, and went at killing the wolf in a business-like manner.

They had several keen nosed fox
hounds with them and after going to the woods in which the wolf nearly always made his get-away, it was in less than an hour that the dogs struck the trail. The wolf broke cover before the dogs and the chase had proceeded only a short time when the quarry came within gunshot range of Fred Tyler, one of the hunting party.
He let fly with both barrels of his gun
and the existence of the wolf was cut suddenly short, the big beast falling over at the discharge and expiring almost instantly.

The wolf was evidently several years old, judging by his size and general appearance and his teeth. The latter had grown to enormous size, but long use had considerably blunted the points. He was rolling in fat as a result of his lamb diet and was estimated to weigh fifty pounds. He measured four feet from tip to tip,
stood two feet high and measured ten inches from tip to tip of his ears.

The wolf always spent the time from December to June in this region.
During this time lambs and sheep
mysteriously disappeared and it was no unusual occurrence for him to approach to within a short distance of the houses and seize a lamb and bear it off. Last Monday was the first time the wolf has been seen this year. The last time before that was last June.

When the Hair Falls

Stop it! And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease; and Ayer's Hair Vigor,
as made from our new improved formula, quickly and completely destroys that disease. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly, and all dandruff disappears.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle Show it to your doctor
Ask him about it,
then do as he says

The little book in each package gives the formula of our new Hair Vigor, tells why each ingredient is used, and explains many other interesting things.
After reading you will know why this new preparation does its work so well.

MILITIA OF AMERICA NOW ON AN ARMY BASIS

Dick Law, After Many Delays, Becomes Effective.—Information of Much Interest Concerning Its Provisions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The famous "Dick Law," which nationalizes, so to speak, the militia organizations of the various states by placing them upon the same footing as the regular army and making them a national military organization subsidiary to the regular army in case of war, went into effect today. This law, framed by United States Senator General Charles
Dick, of Ohio, was originally passed by congress in 1903 and was intended to become operative at once. It was readily seen, however, that the states
could not change their system so soon
and that much time would be needed for the reorganization. Then it was decided that the law should go into effect in 1908, but when the five years had elapsed it was found that even then several of the states, among them Pennsylvania and Delaware,
were not quite ready for the change,
and the time was once more extended to January 21, 1910.

The law provides that the military
shall consist of every able bodied male citizen of the respective states and territories and the District of Columbia and every able bodied male of foreign birth who has declared his intention to become a citizen, who is more than eighteen and less than forty-five years of age, and shall be divided into two classes: The organized militia and the reserve militia. The regularly enlisted, organized and uniformed active militia in the several states and territories and the District of Columbia who have heretofore participated or shall hereafter participate in the appointment of the annual appropriation, shall constitute the organized militia and shall, from now on, have the same organization, armament and discipline as that which is now or may hereafter be prescribed for the regular army of the United States, subject in time of peace to such general
exceptions as may be authorized by the secretary of war.

Under the new law every regiment
of infantry or cavalry of the organized militia and each separate or unassigned battalion of infantry or engineers or squadron of cavalry of the organized militia is entitled to one assistant inspector of small arms practice with the rank of captain or first lieutenant; while each organized brigade is entitled to an inspector with the rank of major and each division to one
with the rank of lieutenant colonel.
The president of the United States, in time of peace, has the right to fix the minimum number of enlisted men in company, troop, battery, etc.

The law provides that whenever the United States is invaded or threatened with invasion by any foreign power, or a rebellion against the authority of the government, or when the president
shall be unable with the regular force
at his command to execute the laws of the Union, it shall be lawful for the president to call forth such number of the militia as he may deem necessary. In his call the president may specify the period for which service is required. No commissioned officer or enlisted man of the militia is to be held to service beyond the term
of his existing commission or enlistment.

The secretary of war is authorized to issue from time to time to the organized militia such number of the United States service arms, together
with all accessories and such other ac-countments, equipments, uniforms
and clothing as used by the regular army of the United States. The secretary of war is also authorized to provide for participation by any part of the organized militia of any state on the request of the governor, in the en-

SENATOR CHARLES DICK.

campment, maneuvers, and field instruction of any part of the regular army. Upon the application of the governor of any state the secretary of war may detail one or more officers or enlisted men of the army to report for duty in connection with the organized militia. A consulting board of five officers of the militia shall be selected by the secretary of war for a term of four years to report to him from time to time and confer upon matters
connected with the service.

MURDERERS KNOWN

CARLISLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—H. D.
Tally, who recently removed here
from Bath county, says that the killing of Hiram Hedges by Night Riders
will soon be cleared up, and the guilty parties brought to justice.

Tally has already given the names of the slayers to Gov. Wilson.
He will go before the next grand jury and tell all he knows.

It is reported that the man who fired
the fatal shot is now a soldier in the United States army.

Federal officers have recently been
in this county investigating clues
connected with the murder of Hedges.

TO THE NEW ERA:—

"Thinking you good friends of dear old 'Hop-town' might enjoy a write up of this Far South Land, I will try to give you a feeble description of our journey down.

Amid ice and snow, my aunt, Mrs.
E. O. Witherspoon and myself boarded the Pullman on the morning of January 8th, over the L. & N. at Louisville
for the southland.

From Louisville all through the mountains we saw snow, cascades of ice, and the sleet all over the trees
made a scene as grand as the Alps.
Some cataracts reminded you of Niagara, and the icicles of stalactites of our own Mammoth Cave. Nature was in her most beautiful vestal garments
of unsullied white, reflecting her rainbow tints in the sun. How any one can deny the existence of a Divine Creator when we look upon such scene is past my comprehension. Through mountain, tunnel and along the Cumberland river and the famous Coal Creek region of Tennessee we sped
on to Knoxville, Atlanta and other cities.

After a night of refreshing repose
we awoke at Tifton, Georgia, and notwithstanding a heavy white frost, we realized we were in the South. We passed through turpentine forests interspersed with magnolia, cypress and bay trees. At eleven fifteen we reached Jacksonville, Fla. "The gateway to the south." An old friend had gotten us a nice room with another friend.
You know the Bible says, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." Aunt Eddie said she never saw any one have as many friends in her life as I had in Jacksonville. I was constantly introducing her to some one. When you have lived twenty-five years in a place you know every one of any consequence. We visited the hotels, club houses, fish and market house, the ocean steamers and took some delightful rides to different points of interest. After a week of delightful weather, Saturday morning
we left for this city.

On our 274 mile route we passed
Gainesville, a very beautiful little city,
where the state university is situated.
The immense cotton fields and so many beautiful groves of the citron fruits. Immense palms, seventy feet tall, huge magnolia, live oak, and other tropical trees, swathed in grey moss
and mistletoe. One of the most beautiful sections of the route is Lake Weir,
a fresh water lake. The town can not be seen as it is on a high bluff on the left of the railroad track. The track winds around the edge of the lake for several miles. It is quite wide as you can scarce see the trees on the opposite shore. The sunset on the lake was grand; it looked like a ball of burnished gold sinking to rest in a bed of sapphires, so blue were the waters of the lake. On we sped, through light; it gets dark as soon as the sun sets.

We passed Garpon Springs, the largest sponge market in the world. Two thousand Greeks dive for the sponges. We are going over there some day. We reached this city at 9:15 p.
m. We stopped for the night at the Livingston Manor. Mrs. Livingston
having her rooms all engaged sent us to Mrs. S. C. Wright, formerly of Georgia. They have a beautiful home on First Avenue, north, near the beautiful Tampa Bay. In front of our window is an immense Phoenix palm.
The immense graceful branches measure some twenty feet in length; the bush measures sixty feet around and is forty feet tall.

The camphor trees, and our mole
beau grows into immense trees. There are so many strange and interesting
new trees, shrubs, vines and flowers
all in leaf and bloom.

The good people of the house gave us cart blanc to oranges and grape fruit that are always on the sideboard.
We have fresh chickens and eggs and vegetables, as they have their own in the yard and have a truck farm and grove. The water is excellent. So Aunt Eddie and I are going to enjoy a haven of peace and rest this winter.
You meet people here from every section of the country and everyone stops
on the streets and introduces themselves, so we are like one big family.
The Gulf of Mexico is not far; we are going to spend a day there and gather the beautiful shells.

When God created Eden he could not have made a fairer spot. We not have made a more fairer spot. We have no forbidden fruit here. The Altruistic spirit seems to permeate the air. We went to the Methodist night.
We will visit the different churches
for the St. John's River and other points in the state, as we will not get back to Kentucky until about the first of June.

Hoping I have not tired you I will close. I wish all my friends could take "the wings of a dove" and visit
us here, in the land of the oranges,
and hear the song of the mocking bird. Wishing you all a pleasant winter, I remain,
SUSIE S. SIBLEY.

Notice, Poultry Raisers.

Now is the time of year to feed
your fowls a good tonic. R4-11-44
cures Cholera, Roup, Gapes, Cancer and Limberneck. When fed as a preventative it not only keeps them
healthy but makes them lay.

Price 50 cents, no cure, no pay.

THE REASON WHY

Vinol

IS THE BEST STRENGTHENING TONIC

for Feeble Old People, Delicate Children, Weak, Run-down Persons, and to Counteract Chronic Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, is because it combines the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron, without oil or grease, tastes good, and agrees with every one.

We return your money without question if Vinol does not accomplish all we claim for it.

STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—In one of the orphan asylums of Brooklyn there is at present a little boy, about five years old, whose fate is rather peculiar and pathetic in spite of certain ludicrous features. The boy is a healthy youngster and bright for his age, and there is really nothing particularly remarkable about him. He is scarcely entitled to a beauty prize, but little boys of that age are rarely famous for their beauty. Jasper, that is the little boy's name, is perhaps a little under the average due to a fine crop of freckles which he acquired while living on a farm near Portland, Me., last summer.

Jasper has neither father nor mother and has spent nearly all his life in orphan asylums or with charitable families who took him into their homes for a while. Last month, while he was in Portland, Me., at some institution for orphans, a letter arrived from a woman in New York saying that six families wanted to adopt the little boy. He was promptly shipped to New York and the families anxious to adopt a boy were notified and requested to call and inspect Jasper. They came, one after the other, inspected the boy and invariably withdrew their offer, after they had seen the big and highly colored freckles upon the boy's face. The matron and the nurses at the Brooklyn institution where Jasper is temporarily kept, have tried every known remedy for freckles but without success. They as well as the boy himself have become thoroughly discouraged. It seems that his freckles will prevent Jasper from ever finding foster parents and a happy home.

There seems to be no end to the farcical case of John Early, the alleged leper, who has been declared a leper a dozen times and as many times adjudged to be free from that disease. To the average citizen who has never held down a seat in a medical college it seems rather puzzling that the same disease should be leprosy in Washington and some other kind of a disease in other places. Some of the learned medical men evidently do not know what they are talking about and the absurd controversy does not tend to increase the popular respect for the medical profession.

The poor, inoffensive vegetarians, who are so considerate of animal life that they refrain from eating meat, have been charged with a grievous offense. A much advertised shoe manufacturer has accused them of being the direct cause of the high prices of shoes. At the first glance the connection between vegetarianism and high shoe prices seem a trifle obscure, but the explanation of the aforesaid shoe manufacturer makes the matter perfectly clear. If there were no vegetarians there would be a greater demand for meat. In that case more beefs, calves, etc., would be slaughtered. As a result hides would become more plentiful and cheaper and the shoe manufacturers would be able to sell their leather made products at a lower price. Ergo, the vegetarians are responsible for the high shoe prices, quod erat demonstrandum. And to think that all these years the unenlightened public accused the beef trust of being the cause of the soaring shoe prices.

The advocates of woman's suffrage seem to be hard up for members of their organization, judging from the desperate means they employ to swell their membership lists. The other day a helpless male infant of ten days was made a life member of the suffrage organization in Norwich, Conn. The boy was the first child born to any member of the organization since it was formed about a year ago. The members of New York are not the possibility that the New York suffragists may adopt similar tactics to increase their membership. They would not gain one member a year, for the suffragists are not believers in Roosevelt's anti-race suicide theory.

Mrs. O'Leary's cow became famous in history by causing the great Chicago fire and ever since that time cows have been held in awe as dangerous creatures whom it would be unsafe to keep in the parlor. A distressing case which happened in one of the suburban towns on the Jersey side of the river the other day, will tend to remove the stigma from the poor cow, as it shows that even inanimate matter may cause a conflagration under certain conditions. A woman, preparing to break bread, set a pan with dough on the stove to let it rise. It did rise so vigorously that it upset a kerosene lamp. The oil was spilled, became ignited and ran over a dog and a cat who were huddled close to the warm stove. With their fur on fire and yelling with pain the two animals ran into the parlor, leaped upon a couch and rolled on the cushions to put out the flame. They succeeded, but set the couch on fire. The neighbors, who saw the flames and rushed into the house to stifle the fire, the whole town might have been wiped out.

Twenty-seven nursery maids who had been taking a course in nursery at the Nursery and Child's Hospital on Lexington Avenue and Fifty-first street went on a strike the other day, because the superintendent refused to rescind the rule under which the maids were to be addressed by their first name without the prefix of "Miss." For fifteen years or more the rule has been in force and there never was any objection to it on the part of the maids. Even the maids who went on a strike had never thought of objecting to the rule until a new head nurse put a bug in their ears and incited them to rebel against the "indignity" of being called plain Mary or Maggy, just like an ordinary cook or housemaid.

Miss Sallie Charlton, of this city, and Mr. Jesse Edward Spence, of Graham, Ky., will be married this afternoon, the ceremony taking place at the home of a relative of the bride on First street.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because it deceives the victim. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys clean out blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head aches, back aches, lame back, dizziness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root. If you do you will be disappointed.

ALL ARE CONFIDENT

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES HAVE HIGH HOPES.

Getting Ready for the District Primary Which Will Be Held on February 2.

The three candidates for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Second district were in Owensboro on Thursday and last night they were busy meeting their friends and making predictions on the outcome of the primary, which will be held on February 2. All of the candidates are confident of success, in fact they can give you the exact vote each will receive in the eight counties of the district.

Dr. J. A. Goodson, of Dixon, chairman of the Second district Democratic executive committee, was also in Owensboro making arrangements for the holding of the primary. He has given the contract for the printing of the ballot to the Messenger Job Printing company, and they will be ready next week for distribution in the various counties of the district. Dr. Goodson will next week announce the officers of the primary election in all the counties.

Dr. Goodson is no stranger in Owensboro. He is better known, however, as "Joe" Goodson, coach of the Owensboro football team. It was several years ago that Dr. Goodson, fresh from victories at Vanderbilt University, was brought to Owensboro and coached the team that met the Frew eleven from Henderson. Dr. Goodson has a large number of friends in Owensboro.—Owensboro Messenger.

MRS. GOLLIDAY DEAD.

TRENTON, Ky., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Jake Golliday, aged 85 years, of Keysburg, Ky., not far from this place, was buried yesterday at Russellville. Mrs. Golliday's death was due to a fall which she received more than eighteen months ago, breaking her hip. Mrs. Golliday was the wife of the late Congressman Jake Golliday, who for sixteen years represented the Third congressional district of Kentucky. She is survived by a single son, Bowling Golliday. The body was taken to Allensville, where funeral services were held and then conveyed by a special train to Russellville, where interment took place.

BOY LOSES HIS ARM.

Lee Farrer, Colored, Victim of a Railroad Accident.

The right arm of Lee Farrer, a fifteen-year-old colored boy, was ground off under the wheels of an L. & N. train Sunday afternoon in the yards here. The train was switching near the First street crossing, and Farrer, with some other boys, was playing about the railroad track and the cars. In some manner he was thrown under one of the cars and his arm cut off.

He was brought to the depot where Dr. Blakey, the L. & N. physician, attended him. After an examination it was found that the arm would have to be amputated at the shoulder and this was done forthwith. The boy was then removed to the home of his mother on Younglove street. He is not resting as well today as had been hoped and his condition is regarded as serious.

HOLD ENCAMPMENT

The Kentucky National Guard, including Company D, of Hopkinsville, may hold its annual encampment this year at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, where the biennial maneuvers of the United States army will take place.

The Lexington Leader says: "The movement looking to this arrangement has already been started, and the various military companies of the state are on the tip toe of expectancy hoping that such an order will in the next few weeks be promulgated."

Through the national war department an invitation has been extended to the Kentucky national guards, to attend these maneuvers, and the adjutant general has been in communication with the various battalions and company commanders in the last few days getting some expressions from them as to the feasibility of accepting the invitation.

A conference was held here recently between General Roger D. Williams, Col. J. Embury Allen and other officers of the Second Kentucky regiment, and recommendations upon the proposed encampment made to the adjutant general's office. What those recommendations were have not been made public, and will probably not be until all the regiments are heard from.

In order to participate in these biennial maneuvers, a company must be recruited at least six months in advance, and as this big event takes place in September, the officers of the various military companies of the state who hope to attend have begun to look carefully to the work of recruiting their commands up to the required standard.

Captain J. R. Sams, who has one of the best companies in the Second regiment, has issued orders for regular target practice and drill and the soldier boys are looking forward with a good deal of enthusiastic anticipation toward next September when they hope to march on to Indianapolis to participate in the big national event.

Denton-Oats.

Miss Ozzie B. Denton and Mr. J. M. Oats will be married at the home of the bride near Red Hill, Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Moore officiating. The parties are quite prominent in their section of the county. The bride has, for several seasons, been teaching school and is regarded as one of the most efficient instructors in the county.

Ezra Kendall Dead.

Ezra Kendall, the noted comedian, died Sunday of apoplexy in a sanitarium at Martinsville, Ind. He was born in Allegheny county, Pa., 49 years ago. At the age of 20 he went on a barnstorming tour. Later he made a success in "We, Us & Co." at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York. For years he was a monologist of renown but for the last eleven seasons he has used "The Vinegar Buyer" as his vehicle. Kendall appeared in Hopkinsville in "A Pair of Kids" one of his earlier successes.

Mrs. E. M. Flack and daughter, Mrs. R. L. Woodward, have returned from Louisville.

L. & N. TO ABSORB

THE TENNESSEE CENTRAL, IS THE LATEST REPORT.

Interesting Rumor Comes From Nashville.—A Conference Recently Held in New York.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 24.—A rumor to the effect that the Louisville and Nashville railroad would shortly take over the properties of the Tennessee Central is current here, based upon report of a New York conference between H. Clay Pierce and Milton H. Smith.

It is said that the L. & N. will operate the branch running from Nashville to Harriman and will extend it from Harriman to a junction with its Atlantic and Cincinnati connection, with both Knoxville and Cincinnati. The Illinois Central is to operate the Nashville to Hopkinsville branch and the terminals of the Illinois Central and Louisville and Nashville at Memphis, New Orleans and Nashville are to be used mutually.

The present troubles of the Tennessee Central have risen through suits filed by the Standard Trust company, of New York, representing the Illinois Central, for $600,000. The Tennessee Central claims that this is offset by depreciation of its properties while operated by the Illinois Central and Southern.

Demanding payment, it is understood that the Illinois Central has ordered a withdrawal of all through rates, making the Tennessee Central practically nothing but a local road. Such an order would force the latter either to build an extension to the Burlington or to sell its properties.

KNOX TURNED DOWN.

TOKYO, Jan. 24.—The Japanese government handed to Ambassador O'Brien, of the United States embassy a formal reply, refusing positively to accept Secretary Knox's plan to neutralize the Manchurian railways on the ground that his position is impracticable.

The text of the formal reply has not been published but officials here declare Japan's refusal is firm.

It was Secretary Knox's desire to have a syndicate of American and European bankers take over the Manchurian railroads now held by Japan, and thus insure an open-door for merchants in Manchuria.

BITUMINOUS OPERATORS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—In order to be in a better position to deal with the demands of the United Mine Workers in regard to wages and other matters the various state and district associations of bituminous coal operators are about to unite in one federation. It is expected the organization will be completed at a conference to be held tomorrow. The federation will embrace not only the bituminous operators of Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio and neighboring states, which heretofore have usually acted together in matters of common concern, but also the Southwestern association, which is composed of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

CHARLES R. BUCKNER

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN GUTHRIE, OKLA.

Prominent Western Lawyer—Miss Mary A. Campbell Passes Away at Home in County.

(From Monday's Daily)

A telegram was received in the city yesterday, by relatives, announcing the death at Guthrie, Oklahoma, of Col. Charles R. Buckner, a native of Christian county. The deceased was about 65 years of age and a son of the late George Buckner, a pioneer citizen. He resided here, where he was unusually popular, until the war. He joined the Confederate army and was a brave and gallant soldier. After the suspension of hostilities he went first to New Orleans and later to Arkansas and Texas. For a number of years he had resided in Oklahoma and was a prominent and successful attorney at the Guthrie bar. He is survived by a widow and two sons. He leaves four sisters, Mrs. Edgar Bradshaw, of this county, Miss Susan Buckner and Mr. Ben Wills, of Florida, and Mrs. Walker, of Arkansas. He was a brother of the late Livy Buckner. A Guthrie despatch says of Mr. Buckner's death:

Col. C. R. Buckner, aged 65 years, who served in the Confederate army as captain in Forrest's famous cavalry regiment of Kentucky, died here Saturday, the result of a fall on the ice three weeks ago. He was a native of Christian county, Ky., and practiced law after the Civil War at New Orleans, Fayetteville, Ark., San Antonio, Tex., and in Guthrie, Okla.

"At Fayetteville he married Miss Nannie Walker, a sister of United States Senator David Walker. A widow with two sons survive. Buckner was the sixth generation lawyer in that family. He was a nephew of Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Kentucky."

Miss Campbell's Death.

Miss Mary A. Campbell, a beloved young woman, died Sunday at noon at her home six miles west of this city on the Cadiz road. She had been ill for many weeks from a complication of diseases. Her loveliness of character, her Christian activity and winning manners had made her a host of friends here and elsewhere, and the news of her death will cause general sorrow. She was a member of the Methodist church. Miss Campbell was a daughter of the late Frank Campbell. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Campbell, and four brothers, Messrs. Buckner, James U., John and Sam Campbell. Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock, this afternoon, at Riverside cemetery where the remains were laid to rest.

BERLIN SOCIETY KICKS.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Berlin's social leaders are in revolt today over the presentation of the Kaiser and Kaiserine at the court reception of twenty-eight Americans, mostly women, of whom only four or five, according to the German court etiquette were entitled to participate in such an exclusive function.

J. H. ANDERSON & COMPANY

NOT FOR GIVENS

FFOON SAYS HE IS NOT TRUE DEMOCRAT.

Editorial Used as Republican Campaign Material and of Broken Promises.

(Madisonville Journal.)

Answer to the question proposed by a Journal representative for Givens for congress and by "Hon. Ruby Laffoon, one of the leading Democrats, a of the Democratic campaign during the last November and Democratic nominee for auditor in 1907, gave the following interview:

"I have asked me if I would support Givens in his race for congress upon being told that I do not, you have asked me to give reasons for not supporting him. It is a direct question and I give you a frank and direct answer. Givens has a perfect right to the nomination for this race and an important office, and I, a humble Democratic voter, in the exercise of a high prerogative, right to cast my vote in the primary for the candidate of my choice. I regret that in this certain conditions exist which make it impossible for me to vote against the candidate of my home county. My reason may be classified under two heads—political and personal. I received information from personal sources that Givens did not loyally support the Democratic nominees in the regular election in 1907, at which time, as you know, I was the Democratic nominee for state auditor. According to my way of interpreting Democratic theology, a failure upon the part of one who assumes to be the nominee of the Democratic party to support at all times Democratic nominees is the unpardonable sin. There is, however, one fact I will refer to under this justification of my failure to support Mr. Givens. If you will examine the Republican state campaign in the campaign of 1907, you will find copied therein certain statements taken from the Madisonville Journal, of which C. C. Givens was the editor. This data was used by the Republican speaker of the state campaign of that year, and it is a fact that I doubtless was a contributing factor in the Democratic defeat. The substance of this article has since been used as untrue by no less a person than Augustus Effersson himself. This particular statement was read in my hearing, and I am now paying for it. I feel that I do not owe Mr. Givens anything that I am not now paying him, and for these same reasons I do not call him my own."

TOBACCO GROWERS HAVE TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF STANLEY'S AMENDMENT

THREE HUNDRED AND FORTY-THREE FARMERS HAVE QUALIFIED TO SELL TOBACCO IN THE NATURAL LEAF UP TO THE LAST OF THE YEAR.

(Madisonville Journal.)

As a result of the act removing the six-cent tax from leaf tobacco by means of the adoption of Congressman Owsley Stanley's amendment to the tariff bill, three hundred and forty-three persons or firms had qualified as dealers to sell tobacco in the natural leaf in different parts of the United States. The statistics which follow show that the advantages of the practical workings of Congressman Stanley's amendment has been realized by progressive planters.

From October 1 to December 31, 1909, the following number in the respective states have qualified to sell tobacco in the natural leaf:

Kentucky	23
Tennessee	7
Indiana	2
Alabama	10
Missouri	59
South Carolina	46
Arkansas	46
Virginia	29
Kentucky	27,490
Tennessee	53,639
All other states	25,475
Total	106,585

This remarkable showing has been accomplished in only a few months' time, for while the Stanley amendment was passed along with the Payne-Aldrich bill, the ruling of the Internal Revenue Commissioner on its operation is of recent date.

REASONS FOR OPPOSING GIVENS

(Madisonville Journal.)

It has been charged by Judge Givens all over the Second Congressional district, and this charge has been published in various newspapers in the district, that Hon. Ruby Laffoon and John B. Brasher are opposing him for congress because of certain differences of opinion in a recent local fight in the city of Madisonville, and it now becomes necessary in self-defense for the editor of The Journal and Mr. Laffoon to defend themselves from this false charge. Mr. Laffoon and other Democrats of Hopkins county have given their reasons for opposing Judge Givens in this issue of The Journal, and dozens of other statements of like character could have been secured from the Democratic leaders of the county simply by asking for them.

So far as the editor of The Journal is concerned, he desires to say that his reasons for opposing Judge Givens for congress are as follows: First of all, the editor of The Journal is a Democrat, and he is not supporting Judge Givens because he, Givens, is not a loyal Democrat. When the editor of The Journal was the Democratic nominee for representative in Hopkins county, Judge Givens added Thomas E. Finley, the Republican nominee for said office, to defeat the Democratic nominee, and because of this defeat there is today a Republican and also a trust attorney in the United States senate from Kentucky in the person of W. O. Bradley, who editor of The Journal is prepared to prove them and these are his reasons for not supporting Judge Givens.

June Crowder's Reasons.

Mr. June Crowder, one of the strongest prohibitionists in his precinct, and one of the best and most reliable citizens of Hopkins county, is not supporting Judge Givens because Givens said to him, "Tom Finley is the man to vote for," when Finley was the Republican nominee for representative against John B. Brasher the Democratic nominee. And also for the reason that Givens played the part of a traitor to Mr. Crowder when he was a candidate for sheriff, pretending to support him when he was working in the interest of another candidate for sheriff. Mr. Crowder had loyally supported Judge Givens when he was a candidate for county judge, and, in turn, expected Givens' support for sheriff.

Mr. Crowder has not authorized this statement, but these are facts, and anybody who doubts them can go to Mr. Crowder and he will confirm what has been said here.

Dr. Vickers' Reasons.

Dr. I. N. Vicker, ex-Democratic mayor of Madisonville, says he is not supporting Judge Givens for congress because Givens had urged him to support Tom Finley, the Republican nominee for representative of Hopkins county against John B. Brasher, the Democratic nominee. He says that Givens approached him two or three times during that campaign and urged him to stand by him (Givens) to defeat Brasher with Finley.

STANLEY'S WORK.

Savoyard in a Washington letter to the Louisville Post, in regard to the Ohio River improvements, says: I never dreamed of the stupendous industrial and commercial possibilities of the great valley drained by the Ohio River and its tributaries until I read a speech of A. O. Stanley, member of Congress from the Second Kentucky district, delivered before the Ohio Valley Improvement Association at Cincinnati last autumn. The remarks of Mr. Stanley were a little more ornate than John G. Carlisle or Nelson W. Aldrich would have made them; but that is excusable in a successor in Congress of John Young Brown and James A. McKenzie. Yet everybody understood what he said, and that is the main thing in a speech, and he startled his hearers as well as his readers, by the extent and thoroughness of his knowledge of the subject. As I read and read I could but marvel at the gift the man has for research, the patient industry, the zest for pursuit, the long possession of a single train of thought. What a lawyer he would make if he should lose his love for politics, which he won't.

The Ohio river has numerous tributaries, the Allegheny, the Monongahela, the Kanawha, the Muskingum, the Kentucky, the Green, the Cumberland, the Tennessee and the Wa-

bush representing navigable waters 3,500 miles in extent, bearing freight aggregating 7,500,000 tons per annum. It is proposed to canalize the Ohio, which would give a nine-foot channel every day in the year, and cheapen rates on freight to 13,000,000 of our population. At present the Ohio has an eight and one half foot channel only seventy-nine days in the year. And thus when the tributaries empty their 7,500,000 tons of freight upon her bosom it must remain there to await a rise in the waters. And thus again the millions spent in the improvement of the lesser streams are practically useless some ten months in the year.

Speaking of freight rates on the Ohio Mr. Stanley said: "When you propose transporting your finished product, do you know that the freight rates upon the Ohio river—when you have a river—are cheaper than anywhere else in the world? Why, the water rates upon the Ohio are about 3.33 mills per ton-mile; on the Erie, 2.5 mill, and on the Rhine, 1.8 mill. On the Great Lakes and through the Sault Sainte Marie the canal rate is .81 of 1 mill per mile. Coal is carried from Pittsburgh to Cairo for less than half a mill per ton-mile, or, according to the official figures, 0.0447 cents per ton mile, that is a ton of coal is carried from Pittsburgh to Cairo for 43.25 cents."

And he supplemented that statement with the declaration that more commerce is borne upon the bosom of the Ohio than upon any other unimproved river on earth. The most important dam of the whole lot is that at Henderson, to conserve the commerce of the Green river and lend immense advantages to the triple cities of Henderson, Owensboro and Evansville. Congressman Stanley has worked for this end without ceasing ever since he has been in congress, and just before the recent holiday recess of congress he prevailed on the Rivers and Harbors committee in the house to give him a day in court, and they granted him a hearing January 8, 1910.

He scamped home and aroused his constituents. At Owensboro it was after night, and the night of the blizzard at that. But six men composed his audience, later swollen to some sixteen. In the biting cold he spoke to the them, and raised $125 to help defray the expenses of a delegation to Washington to appear before the committee. At his home town of Henderson, he raised $800, and at Evansville they put up $900. Then Owensboro reinforced her contribution, and on January 8 there was a large delegation of business men from the three cities. They championed the cause as only business could, and the committee was simply astounded at the resource and possibility of that region.

I hope the Henderson dam will be ordered and appropriated for. Such zeal and energy as Stanley's deserve success, and the delegation he headed from Evansville, Owensboro and Henderson were as fine specimens of splendid citizenship as the Union can show.

GIVENS THE NEXT CONGRESSMAN

(Madisonville Hustler.)
It becomes more evident every day that Judge C. C. Givens will be the winner in the congressional race February 2. He has shown remarkable ability in the management of the campaign and has met the issues with great power of intellectual acumen.
He is coming down the stretch in fine shape, with his organization working like clock work, his friends everywhere proud and enthusiastic, and with the Stanley followers crestfallen and beaten at every turn.
Stanley's dodges on the tobacco question have been pitiful and his tactics all the way through show he is outclassed and outgeneraled by Judge Givens in all the legitimate methods of a campaign.

As a result of the campaign Judge Givens looms up as a man of destiny, whose character and record have withstood all assaults, and whose ability has been impressed upon every fair-minded man in the district.
Stanley tackled him for a newspaper discussion and dropped it the first round as he would a red hot iron. It was then announced that Stanley would just "eat him up" when they got on the stump. We all know how Stanley eat him up. Stanley flew the coop on the stump just as he did the newspaper argument. Stanley made the flourish of opening his campaign at Madisonville, where it was proposed that nothing should be left of the Judge except a few bones and a hank of hair. Stanley has been kept busy dodging ever since.

Judge Givens has gone through it all with a smile, with perfect composure, with marvelous tact and foresight. In short he has whipped Stanley to a finish and even Stanley's friends must admit it.

In the closing days of the campaign the people are making up their minds rapidly and they are making up their minds that Givens is the man who ought to go to congress. The great mass of quiet, reading, thinking voters are for him, and while they as a class don't make any great amount of noise, yet as a body their votes are going to settle the election.

Reports are coming from every section that Givens is the man. He will be a winner and old Hopkins county will be proud of it. He deserves it. He has been a power for good in Hopkins county. He has always been a fighter in the ranks for the Democratic party. He is open and above board. He is able and manly. He has fought a hard fight through life in the effort to build himself up. He has been a useful citizen. He will make a fine congressman and he is going to be the next congressman.

Let old Hopkins county give him the greatest majority ever rolled up for a county man. Let the people rally to him on February 2 and show the world what old Hopkins can do when she gets her dander up.

his personal friend and he mine, and I admire him for his fearless stand for what he believes to be right. We need more men like C. C. Givens in politics today, who stand for what is right, without looking to see how it is going to affect him personally. His loyalty to the Democratic party has been shown on every political battlefield in Hopkins county and the loyal Democrats of old Hopkins will not forget him on February 2."

HERNDON HAPPENINGS.

—Miss Burnice Smithson, of Louisville, is teaching a private school at Mr. Charles Bagby's.

—Mr. George Nance was in Hopkinsville today on business. He had to make the trip horseback on account of the bad roads.

—Claude Ledford, of Pembroke, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents.

—Dr. Roach and mother have moved to the Magrau home to reside in the future, where the former will practice medicine.

—Mr. Geo. Gee gave a most enjoyable entertainment to the young people last week. Refreshments were served and everybody had a good time.

—Mr. Emmett Roper and Coleman Crews were in Hopkinsville Saturday.

—Millie Griffin is on the sick list. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

—Miss Ruby Dawson is spending the week with Miss Eva and Nell Bagby.

—Some few in our vicinity have begun hauling off tobacco.

—Green Dawson of Roaring Springs and Arden Southall, recently of Lafayette, have gone to Mexico to reside.

—Miss Lillian Moorefield spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Ruby Ledford.

—Miss Bertha Gafford spent a few days last week with Mrs. Emmett Roper.

—Some few of our items may seem a little stale, but it looked as though at one time our route would be a thing of the past, as we had only six mails in about two weeks. But as the weather has improved our carrier is again coming regularly, and there is general rejoicing.

—Master Walter Dawson, of Blinnsville, had a severe case of congestion last week.

—Will try to be more prompt in the future, that is if I can learn any thing to write, as news is very scarce.

JUDGE GIVENS DEALS

WITH COLD FACTS

While Stanley Puts in Time Ridiculing and Slurring Opponent at Schree—Clements Drops Out of Running.

(Evansville Courier Special.)

SEBREE, Ky., Jan. 23.—Hon. A. O. Stanley and Judge C. C. Givens had a joint discussion of their merits and demerits last night at the Olympic Theatre to a full house. Quite a number of ladies were present. Mr. Stanley took the lead with a one hour and fifteen minute speech, followed by Judge Givens with the same time. Stanley had a fifteen minute rejoinder.

Mr. Stanley was applauded by an element who go to speakings for such purpose, putting in all his time ridiculing and slurring Judge Givens.

It is admitted that Judge Givens can not speak with Stanley from an oratorical standpoint, but Judge Givens last night dealt in cold facts and repeated that he might not have been in the race if Stanley had not said at Madisonville last December in the presence of a dozen or more people that he was going to make the race for governor. Judge Givens' appeal was to those who read for themselves, think for themselves and vote for themselves. Judge Givens is making a clean honorable fight for his right and is gaining votes every day upon the manly manner of his campaign.

Mr. Clements seems to have dropped from the race, in Webster county at least, and the battle ground between Stanley and Givens is here, each fighting to the last ditch.

The indications are that this county will be rather close with the odds in favor of Givens, who was born and reared in Webster county.

her sister, Mrs. Mary Miller, of pneumonia on Tuesday, Jan. 25.

—Mrs. O. A. West, who has been quite sick for the past week, is no better.

—Prof. C. E. Dudley, of Pembroke, delivered a lecture on the graded school here Tuesday night.

—The school is here is progressing nicely under the management of Mrs. Minnie King as principal and Miss Bobbie Terry as assistant. Miss Beatrice Adams and Mr. Luther Brown, pupils of the school, will take the examination for diplomas in Hopkinsville Friday.

—Rev. H. B. Self, of Morganfield, who has been the pastor of the Christian church here for the past year, tendered his resignation and preached his last sermon Sunday night. His resignation caused much regret, as he had served his people faithfully and was much liked by other denominations, as well as his own. At present neither the Baptist nor Christian churches have a pastor.

GIVES REASONS

Why Democrats of District Should Support Givens.

In an interview in the Madisonville Hustler, H. H. Holeman says: "There is no doubt in the world that Judge Givens holds the commanding position in the congressional race, have been keeping in close touch with the situation ever since the campaign opened here with the joint debate. I have friends in nearly every town in the district and am in a good position to know something about the race. Every speaking that I have heard from the people say Stanley lost votes and Givens gained. While Stanley is an orator, Judge Givens handles facts powerfully and the

has always been an unpretentious man, simple in his manners, and did not make a big show, but I have noticed that he was always equal to the occasion. I predicted from the start Givens would win if the primary was not called too soon, and I firmly believe he will win. As to Hopkins county, it should and will give Givens a great majority. The great mass of the people are for him. There are some good men against him on personal grounds. That is always the case. I have differed at times with Judge Givens as much as any man in the county, but I have always been

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson V.—First Quarter, For
Jan. 30, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. v. 17-26, 38-
48—Memory Verse, 44—Golden Text,
Matt. v. 48—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

There are some prominent facts
which we must keep in mind in all Bible study—the Bible is the history of salvation; salvation is of the Lord;
salvation is of the Jews; known unto God are all His works from the beginning of the world. He worketh all things after the counsel of His own will, and the eternal purpose which He has purposed in Christ Jesus is that all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God and the whole earth be filled with His glory. To that end He is steadily working, and in all the different parts of this book, which is forever settled in heaven, we have some phase of the working out of this eternal purpose. The whole Bible story points onward to a time when "a king shall reign in righteousness. * * * and the work of righteousness shall be peace" (Isa. xxxiii. 1, 17). Our blessed Lord was always talking about this kingdom and giving samples of the power that would be manifest even in the bodies of His redeemed when the kingdom shall have come. Between His resurrection and ascension during those forty days He spoke of things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

In this discourse, spoken to His disciples probably in the hearing of the multitude, He describes the righteousness which will be fully manifest on earth when the kingdom comes, a righteousness of the Ten Commandments, which He here teaches us refers not only to outward acts, but to the thoughts and intents of the heart.
He alone of all who have ever lived on earth manifested the righteousness of the law perfectly in His life. He could truly say, "I delight to do Thy will, O
my God; yea, thy law is within my heart" (Ps. xl. 8).

Having no sin of His own, for He was without sin, He bare our sins in His own body on the tree and became the end of the law for righteousness
to every one that believeth (Rom. x.
4; 11 Cor. v. 21). Anything less than the righteousness which was manifest
in the Lord Jesus Christ cannot satisfy before God, and as no one is able perfectly to keep God's holy law, it is written, "By the works of the law shall no flesh be justified." The law shuts our mouths concerning our own righteousness and points us to Christ that we may receive Him as the righteousness of God most graciously provided for every sinner (Rom. iii. 19-24; Gal.
ii. 16; iii. 24). Yet there are many in

Scientific Spanking.
consists in punishment only when a child is actually bad. Some mothers think that all crying is badness; it's not. When your baby cries look for pains of some external cause; if you can't find them give the baby White's Pain-Expeller as the chances are
it is suffering from worms which keep him awake and cross all the time.

so called Christian lands, members of churches, who, being ignorant of God's righteousness, are ever going about to establish their own righteousness
(Rom. x. 3). None of those can in any case enter into the kingdom of heaven (verse 20). According to James ii. 10, breaking one command breaks them
all, for the law is one. From Rom. vii.
7, we infer that Paul thought he had kept the Ten Commandments until in the light of the tenth he saw himself
a sinner and guilty. Love is the fulfilling of the law (Rom. xiii. 10), and as we can only manifest our love to God by our love to our fellows, therefore with the Lord Jesus Christ as our only example we must remember His words in John xv. 12, "Love one another as I have loved you." Also in 1 John iv. 11, "Beloved, if God so loved us we ought also to love one another."
When the Lord Jesus lives in us fully and His spirit has full control of us
we will manifest even here in this age
the love that is kind to those who are unthankful and evil, who curse and hate and persecute and despitefully use us. Any one can love those who love them, but to love one's enemies is not possible to the natural man. As a poor Indian once said, "This Indian can't do it; God must make a new Indian." When we have seen our guilt and that all our righteousnesses are only filthy rags and have truly received the Lord Jesus Christ, then we are before God in Christ, and He is made unto us wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption (1 Cor. i. 30). We are justified freely by His grace, justified by faith, justified by His blood, and there is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus, but it is all to the end that the righteousness of the law
may be fulfilled in us who walk not
after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

The light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ having shined in our hearts, we must let the light shine through us to His glory that others may receive Him too. Verses 44, 45, do not teach us that by loving our enemies we become children of God; but, having become His children by receiving Jesus Christ (John i. 12), we are manifestly such in the eyes of others only when we act as such. We are not only sanctified, but perfected forever by the great suc-
cidence of the Lord Jesus (Heb. x. 14),
and now we are to walk not as others
who are still in the world, but ever aiming at a more perfect manifestation to others of the love of God to us,
for if we love one another God dwells
in us, and His love is perfected in us and He is seen in us (1 John iv. 12).
It is only as we understand the kingdom, which is righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost, that we can walk worthy of it (Rom. xiv. 17; 1 Thess. ii. 12) and manifest in our lives
the life of Him who when He was here
in His humiliation revealed the Father.
Dwelling in Him we dwell in love, and
His love will constrain us.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Trans-sit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin
was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

Every old sore is an external symptom of a depraved or polluted condition of the blood. These festering places on the flesh are kept open and in a state of irritation because the circulation is continually discharging into them the impurities and morbid matters with which it is filled. This polluted condition of the blood may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, which has left the blood stream weak and germ-infected, or because the natural refuse of the body, which should pass off through the proper avenues, has not all been eliminated

Impenetrable by saliva, not exposed to

PINCHOT IS ELECTED AS ELIOT'S SUCCESSOR

Deposed Forester Becomes President of the National Conservation Association.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The election of Gifford Pinchot to succeed Dr. Charles W. Eliot as president of the National Conservation Association is announced. Dr. Eliot, at whose suggestion Mr. Pinchot was elected, retains the honorary presidency. Mr. Pinchot takes active charge of the association today, the headquarters of which will be in Washington.

Two weeks ago Dr. Eliot wrote to the executive meeting of the association expressing his opinion that Mr. Pinchot, as the recognized head of the conservation movement, should take the active leadership of the association.

He wrote Mr. Pinchot a personal letter suggesting that he accept the presidency. At Dr. Eliot's suggestion a meeting of the executive committee was held and Mr. Pinchot's election followed.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How It Can Be Done in Hopkinsville.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Hopkinsville residents would do well to profit by the following example:

R. H. Buck, South Franklin St., Madisonville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, in my estimation, are an excellent remedy for kidney complaint and backache. I was never seriously troubled but about nine months ago I was taken with an attack of backache, caused, I think, by a strain from heavy lifting; and was bothered quite a good deal. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I decided to give them a trial and procured a box. They proved very satisfactory, removing the trouble in a short time. Later there were symptoms of a recurrence I again used Doan's Kidney Pills and as before they relieved me promptly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Tobacco Seed Free.

Those farmers who are desirous of trying out the Cuban-Havana tobacco are hereby given a chance to secure some of the seed free of cost. The New Era is in receipt of the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

Editor New Era,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

Dear Sir:—If you think it would be of any interest to any of your readers, you may say that I have a large amount of the seed of the Cuban-Havana tobacco, and will gladly give it to the farmers who may want to plant some of it for their own, or their neighbors' smoking. I think it is far and away ahead of the Brazil or any other tobacco raised in this latitude for the pipe or other smoking purposes. It is last year's crop and fertile and may be sown and transplanted just as other tobacco is, but probably a hotbed is preferable. Three feet apart is wide enough for the rows and twenty inches in the row.

If you think enough of my idea to say so in your columns please do not give name but initials and address, as follows: Yours truly,

W. M. L.,

Beloved Lady of Pembroke Goes to Her Reward.

Mrs. J. R. Waugh, of Pembroke, died at her home in that town Monday morning. Her death was due to a complication of diseases, she never having recovered from the effects of an attack of typhoid fever last summer. She was one of the most prominent ladies of Pembroke and her death has caused general sorrow. She was about sixty years of age and a Baptist. Her husband and two children, James and Edna, survive her.

Interment took place this afternoon in the cemetery at Pembroke.

"GRAUSTARK."

The forthcoming engagement of "Graustark," dramatized from George Barr McCutcheon's popular novel by Geo. D. Baker, who is one of our younger set of playwrights, will be hailed with delight, as local theatregoers are familiar with his charming and thoroughly informed as to the remarkable success of this fascinating, romantic drama in New York and Chicago. Audiences in those cities went into ecstasies over its delightful comedy, were thrilled by its exciting situations and electrified by its stirring climaxes. No other play in recent years has enjoyed so much popularity and little else is talked about wherever theatricals are discussed. Very few popular novels are adaptable to stage purposes, but Mr. McCutcheon seems to have a knack in writing his books that makes it a comparatively easy matter to transfer them to dramatic form. "Brewster's Millions," from his pen was the first to be dramatized, and its success demonstrated that for good stage material, no other author could compete with him in supplying a story that would conform to the requirements of the theatre.

"Graustark" was then produced and its fame has spread like wildfire throughout the country. The same excellent company, headed by Isabel Mac Gregor, Maurice E. Briere and J. H. Lewis, that created such a furor at the initial performance, will be seen here. The production is an elaborate one, and many innovations in scenery and electrical effects will be seen. The performance is staged under the personal directions of Jas. W. Castle, formerly stage director for the Mm. Shuman-Heink Opera company.

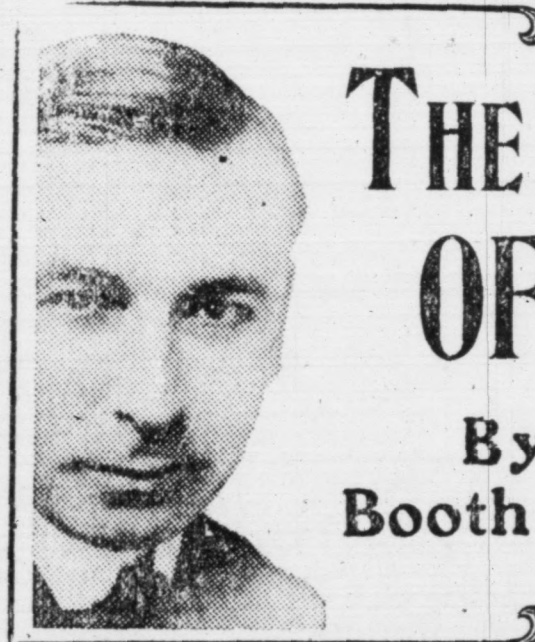

"Graustark" comes to the opera house for matinee and night performances next Saturday.

To put the brake on the wagon going down the hill is a help to the horse, when the wagon is heavily loaded. But what driver would think of applying the brake to a loaded wagon going up hill? If he did, his sensible horse would probably balk. Many a man is in the condition of pulling a load up hill with the brake set against him. When his stomach is out of order, and the allied organs of digestion and nutrition impaired in their functions, a friction is set up which has to be overcome in addition to the performance of daily duties. A foul stomach makes a foggy brain, and the man with a disordered stomach has often to grope his way through the day's business as a man in a fog. He forgets appointments. Problems seem presented to his mind "wrong side up." This condition is entirely remedied by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the stomach and digestive and nutritive system into a condition of perfect health, and gives a clear brain, a steady hand and a light step for the day's duties. Dr. Pierce's medicines do not contain alcohol or other injurious ingredients; they are not "patent medicines" because their ingredients are printed on the label of each bottle.

THE OF QUEST QUESTNAY

By Booth

Tarkington

"The Guest of Quesnay" tells the story of a pure woman's love and sacrifice for a debased, misled, pleasure loving man; it tells in captivating vein of picturesque Paris, too—of the cosmopolitan life of the famous capital. Its character sketches of continental society as well as peasant life are unmistakable in their picturing, and its romance, its mystery and its refreshing comedy give the same qualities to the novel that placed the author's "Monsieur Beaucaire" among the masterpieces of contemporary fiction.

CHAPTER I.

THERE are old Parisians who will tell you pompously that the boulevards, like the political affairs, have ceased to exist, but this means only that the boulevard is no longer a boulevard. The return of the Bourbons or of General Boulanger, for these highways are always too busy stirring with present movements not to be forgetful of their yesterday. In the shade of the buildings and awnings the loungers, the lookers-on in Paris, the audience of the boulevard, sit at little tables, sipping coffee from long glasses, drinking absinth or bright colored sirups and gazing over the heads of throngs about at others borne along through the sunshine of the street in carriages, in cabs, in glittering automobiles or high on the tops of omnibuses.

From all the continents the multitudes come to join in that procession—Americans tagged with race cards and intending hilarious disturbances, puzzled Americans worn with guidebook plodding, Chinese princes in silk, queer Antillean dandies of swarthy origin and fortune, ruddy English thinking of nothing, pallid English with upper teeth bared and eyes hungrily searching for signboards of tea rooms, over-Europeanized Japanese—unpleasantly immaculate, burrussed sheiks from the desert and red fezzed Semitic peddlers, Italian nobles in English tweeds, Sudanese negroes swagging in frock coats, slim Spaniards, squat Turks, travelers, idlers, exiles, fugitives, sportsmen. All the tribes and kinds of men are tributary here to the Parisian stream, which on a fair day in spring alderly overflows the banks with its own much mingled waters—society, the desert and red fezzed Semitic peddlers, Italian nobles in English tweeds, Sudanese negroes swagging in frock coats, slim Spaniards, squat Turks, travelers, idlers, exiles, fugitives, sportsmen.

All the tribes and kinds of men are tributary here to the Parisian stream, which on a fair day in spring alderly overflows the banks with its own much mingled waters—society, the desert and red fezzed Semitic peddlers, Italian nobles in English tweeds, Sudanese negroes swagging in frock coats, slim Spaniards, squat Turks, travelers, idlers, exiles, fugitives, sportsmen.

So if you sit at the little tables often enough—that is, if you become an amateur boulevardier—you begin to recognize the transient stars of the present, those to whom the boulevard allows a dubious and fugitive role of celebrity and whom it greets with a slight flutter, the turning of heads, a murmur of comment and the incredulous boulevard smile, which seems to say: "You see—madame and monsieur passing there. Evidently they think we still believe in them."

This flutter heralded and followed the passing of a white touring car with the procession one afternoon just before the Grand Prix, though it needed no boulevard celebrity to make the man who lolled in the transeu conspicuous. Simply for that, notoriety was superfluous; so were the remarkable size and power of his car; so was the elaborate touring costume of flannels and poncee he wore; so was even the enameled presence of the dancer who sat beside him. His face would have done it without accessories.

My old friend George Ward and I had met for our aperitif at the Terrace Lure, by the Madeleine, when the white automobile came snaking its way craftily through the traffic. Turning in to pass a victoria on the wrong side, it was forced down to a snail's pace near the curb and not far from our table, where it paused, checked by a blockade at the next corner. I heard Ward utter a half suppressed guttural of what I took to be amazement, and I did not wonder.

The face of the man in the tonneau detached him to the spectator's gaze and singled him out of the concourse with an effect almost ludicrous in its incongruity. The hair was dark, lustrous and thick, the forehead broad and finely modeled and certain other envious vestiges of youth and good looks remained, but whatever the features might once have shown of honor, or worth or kindly semblance had disappeared beyond all tracing in a blurred distortion. The lids of one eye were discolored and swollen almost together. Other traces of a recent battering were not lacking, nor was cosmetic evidence of a heroic struggle on the part of some valet of infinite pains to efface them. The nose lost outline in the discolorations of the puffed cheeks. The chin, tufted with a small imperial, trembled beneath a sagging gray lip.

The figure was fat, but loose and sprawling; seemingly without the will to hold itself together. In truth, the man appeared to be almost in a semistupor, and, contrasted with this powdered Silenus, even the woman beside him gained something of human dignity. At least, she was thoroughly alive, bold, predatory and, in spite of the gross euphonism that threatened her, still savagely graceful. A purple veil dotted with gold doated about her hat, from which green dyed ostrich plumes cascaded down across a cheek enameled dead white. Her hair was plastered in blue-black waves, parted low on the forehead. Her lips were splashed a startling carmine, the eyelids painted blue, and from between lashes gummy little spikes of blacking she favored her companion with a glance of carelessly simulated tenderness—a look all too vividly suggesting the ghastly calculations of a cook wheeling a chicken nearer the kitchen door.

"Who is it?" I asked, staring at the man in the automobile and not turning toward Ward.

"That is Mariana—la bella Mariana la Mursiana," George answered—"one of those women who come to Paris from the tropics to form themselves on the legend of the one great famous and infamous Spanish dancer who died a long while ago. Mariana did very well for a time. I've heard that the revolutionary societies intend striking her."

"That is Mariana—la bella Mariana la Mursiana."

ing medals in her honor. She's done worse things to royalty than all the anarchists in Europe! She danced at the Folie Rouge last week."

"Thank you, George," I said gratefully. "I hope you'll point out the Louvre and the Eiffel tower to me some day. I didn't mean Mariana."

"What did you mean?"

"What I had meant was so obvious that I turned to my friend in surprise. 'I meant the man with her,' I said. 'Oh!' He laughed sourly. 'That carriage?'"

"You seem to be an acquaintance."

"Everybody on the boulevard knows who he is," said Ward curtly, paused and laughed again with very little mirth. "So do you," he continued, "and as for my acquaintance with him—yes, I had once the distinction of being his rival in a small way, a way so small, in fact, that it ended in his becoming a connection of mine by marriage. He's Larrabee Harman."

That was a name somewhat familiar to readers of American news— even before its bearer was of college. P—

drawl and debauch. What had been scrapes for the boy became scandals for the man, and he gathered a more and more unsavory reputation until its like was not to be found outside a penitentiary. The crux of his career in his own country was reached during a midnight quarrel in Chicago, when he shot a negro gambler. Harman's wife left him, and the papers recorded her application for a divorce. She was George Ward's second cousin, the daughter of a Baltimore clergyman; belle in a season and town of 1 and a delightful headstrong creature from all accounts. She had made runaway match of it with Harman three years before, their affair having been earnestly opposed by all her relatives, especially by poor George, who came over to Paris just after the wedding in a miserable frame of mind.

Harman next began a trip round the world with an orgy which continued from San Francisco to Bangkok, where, in the company of some congenial fellow travelers, he interfered in a native ceremonial with the result that one of his companions was drowned. In Rome he was rescued with difficulty from a street mob that unreasonably refused to accept intoxication as an excuse for his riding down a child on his way to the hunt. Later we had been hearing from Monte Carlo of his disastrous plunges at roulette.

I still take three home newspapers, trying to follow the people I knew and the things that happen, and the ubiquity of so worthless a creature as Larrabee Harman in the columns I dredged for real news had long been a point of irritation to this present exile. Not only that, he had usurped space in the continental papers, and of late my favorite Parisian journal had served him to me with my morning coffee, only hinting his name, but offering him with that gracious satire characteristic of the Gallic journalist writing of anything American. And so this grotesque wreck of a man was well known to the boulevard—one of its sights. That was to be perceived by the flutter he caused, by the turning of heads in his direction and the low laughter of the people at the little tables. Three or four in the rear ranks had risen to their feet.

Some one behind us chuckled aloud. "They say Mariana beats him."

"Evidently!"

The dancer was aware of the flut and called Harman's attention to it with a touch upon his arm and a laugh and a nod of her violent plumage.

At that he seemed to rouse himself somewhat. His head rolled heavily over upon his shoulder, the lids lifted a little from the red shot eyes, showing a strange pride when his gaze fell upon the many staring faces.

Ward pulled my sleeve.

"Come," he said, "let us go over to the Luxembourg gardens where the al is cleaner."

Ward is a portrait painter, and the matter of vogue there seem to be no pinacles left for him to surmount.

He has painted most of the very rich women of fashion who have come to Paris of late years, and he has become so prosperous, has such a polite celebrity and his opinions upon art are so conclusively quoted that the friendship of some of us who with him has been dangerous!

His sister, Miss Elizabeth, I him now. She came with her returned to Paris after pointment in the unforgotten affair, and she took ch business as well as his so ments (she has been ac theory that the two things, happily combined), making him a house in an expensive quarter near the Avenue du E Boulogne. Miss Elizabeth is strictly fashionable woman, tical withal, and to her mind success should be not only respectable, but "smart."

It was George's habit to come often to see me. He always really liked the sort of society his sister had brought about him, but now and then there were intervals when it wore on him a little, I think. Sometimes he came for me in his automobile, and we would make a mild excursion to breakfast in the country, and that is what happened one morning about three weeks after the day when we had sought pure air in the Luxembourg gardens.

We drove out through the Bois and by Suresnes, striking into a roundabout road to Versailles beyond St. Cloud. It was June, a dustless and balmy noon, the air thinly glided by a faint haze, and I know few things pleasanter than that road on a fair day of the early summer and the sweeter way to course it than in an open car.

"After all," said George, with a placid wave of the hand, "I sometimes wish that the landscape had called me. You outdoor men have all the health and pleasure of living in the open, and as for the work—oh, you fellows think you work, but you don't know what it means."

He indicated the white road running before us between open fields to a curve, where it descended to pass beneath an old stone culvert. Beyond stood a thick grove with a clear sky flickering among the branches. An old peasant woman was pushing a heavy cart round the curve, a scarlet handkerchief knotted about her head.

"You think it's easy?" I asked.

"Easy! Two hours ought to do it as well as it could be done—at least the way you fellows do it!"

He was interrupted by an outrageous uproar, the grisly scream of a sire and the cannonade of a powerful

haunt, as a great white

swung round us from

that sick

FIRST BILL PASSED

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 25.—The house was unable to proceed to business today owing to the failure of the printer to return the bills introduced. The senate referred a number of bills and the committees reported for the first time. Lieut. Gov. Cox referred the Combs bills, relating to the shipment of liquor into local territory, to the committee on Kentucky statutes, instead of the religion and morals committee, as sought by Combs.

The indeterminate imprisonment bill, placing penalties in the hands of the judge instead of the jury, was passed today. This is the first bill to be passed by the senate.

A. O. Stanley Says the Trouble is That The Country Roads Are Bad

SAYS THIS IS THE REASON HE DON'T ANSWER JUDGE GIVENS' QUESTIONS ABOUT THE TOBACCO TAX AMENDMENT.

Congressman Stanley Thursday had an open letter published in the Madisonville Journal and is sending this letter through the mails to farmers telling them that he regrets that "Judge Givens waited until after it was too late to do any more campaigning on account of the inclemency of the weather, the condition of the country roads and the nearness of the election to publish his supplement containing these charges." Mr. Stanley's letter takes a half column of space.

Is the condition of the country roads the trouble with Brother Stanley?

He is using the newspapers which go into the home of nearly every Democrat in the district, and is flooding the mails with letters to tell them that the condition of the country roads prevent him from doing any more campaigning, and for that reason he is unable to explain these things.

Mr. Clements on November 8, at Morganfield and other places told the people Stanley had voted against the tobacco amendment in the tariff bill. Judge Givens on December 2 at Crofton, that night at Hopkinsville; on December 3 at Pembroke, and on December 4 at Slaughterville, read those inconsistent statements of Stanley in his presence and published them in the Gleaner of December 5, all before Stanley went to Washington. For over six weeks Stanley has had a standing offer, from the Gleaner, of free space to answer these things over his signature and tell the people all about it.

To make a long story short, don't the common sense of the farmers teach them that Stanley is merely further trying to dodge the issue by sending them letters and publishing cards in the newspapers saying the roads are bad and for that reason he can't answer, when the same newspapers and the same letters would carry his answer?

Don't the common sense of the people tell them that the reason Stanley has not answered is that he can't answer? And don't their common sense tell them that if he could answer he would have done so long ago? That any makeshift of an answer which may be "sprung" between now and the primary will be a dodge?

The voters should beware of anything that is trumped up between now and the election. The mere fact that a thing should be sprung during the closing days of the campaign is prima facie evidence that it will not stand the searchlight of truth.

The record of Judge Givens has been subjected to the fierce glare of the campaign. He has nothing to spring on his opponents. So far as any issues are concerned the time has passed to "start anything." The people may know that anything started between now and the primary is a LIE whether on Givens, Stanley or Clements. dltwt

BODY OF MR. GOEBEL BIPARTISAN BOARD

WILL BE TAKEN TO COVINGTON WEDNESDAY.

Funeral the Following Day and Address Will Be Delivered by Robert B. Franklin.

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan. 25.—The body of Arthur Goebel, brother of William Goebel, who died Thursday at Phoenix, Ariz., will arrive here Wednesday. It will be taken to the residence of Judge M. L. Harbeson of the Kenton circuit court. It will lie in state for one day, when funeral services will be held.

Robert B. Franklin of Frankfort has been selected to deliver the funeral address. Mr. Franklin was the commonwealth's attorney who prosecuted the alleged murderers of Gov. Goebel and in this way was associated with Arthur Goebel in the work that occupied that last ten years of the latter's life—that of avenging his brother's death.

The death of Arthur Goebel has caused sorrow to all who knew him. His bitter grief over his brother's death, his determination to run down those responsible for it and his sorrow when all of those he blamed for it, except Youtsey, were set free, touched even those who were not entirely of his mind. He gave a rare example of brotherly devotion.

Poor Dr. Briggs.

Rev. George W. Briggs, formerly a well known Kentucky preacher, is in trouble again. He is in jail at Cincinnati on the charge of theft. He is a victim of the drug habit. He is accused of stealing a lot of pens. When arrested he gave his name as John Brown, but a letter on his person revealed his identity.

IS STOUTLY DEFENDED BY JUDGE A. J. G. WELLS.

Statement As To Financial Benefit Is Published.—Political Division as to Employees.

That the taking of the state charitable institutions out of politics has been of financial benefit to the state, if in no other way, is shown by a statement of the receipts from the various sources within the institutions themselves, in the products of the farm and dairy, sewing room, tinner, carpenter shop, painter, plasterer and blacksmith for the last year under the bipartisan board plan, the state saved a total of about $45,132.99. That is, the sources mentioned took in that much more money than was taken in under the old administration. The figures, as taken from the books, shows the following revenue from farm and dairy and the various workshops at the asylum, the figures for 1907 being for the greater part on one year and there being no record kept prior to that time:

	1907	1908
Central Asylum	$14,885.45	$30,572.50
Western Asylum	13,412.57	21,077.33
Eastern Asylum	18,182.63	36,361.85
Institute for Feeble Minded	1,517.65	5,119.65

Total .....$47,998.34 $93,131.33
Judge A. J. G. Wells, a member of the board, said that the reason for the great difference was that the men on the farms and at the asylums were attending to their duties under the no-politics system instead of being away from the asylum playing politics. Judge Wells said that he was opposed to the repeal of the bipartisan board of control bill even though he should be retained by the new act. He said he did not believe it would be right to the inmates of the various institutions to have them placed back under the control of politics and he

Regarding the distribution of offices under the present board and the charge that the offices have been given over to the Republicans, a statement shows that there are employed in the various institutions 190 Democrats and 73 Republicans, the majority of the latter being negro attendants in the wards. At Lakeland the records show that there are hardly anything but Democrats and that the large majority of employees of all grades have been retained from an old administration, holding over under the new. The records show that the Republicans have not hogged the offices.—Frankfort despatch in the Courier-Journal.

THE COST OF CHURCH FEDERATION TO BAP- TISTS, ADVENTISTS AND DISCIPLES.

"Say Ye Not, A Confederacy, to All Them
to Whom This People Shall Say, A Confederacy: Neither Fear Ye Their Fear, Nor Be Afraid" (Leviticus viii, 12).

Sunday, Jan. 23.—Numerically Baptists, Adventists and Disciples represent more than one-third of the Protestants of the United States. What they must yield for Church Federation is therefore an important question. All three of these systems are built upon the Congregational platform, which recognizes as Scriptural the independence of each congregation as to its own creed in all matters of faith and Church order. These bodies of Christians, therefore, could not join the Federation as denominations. The only method by which they could give adherence would be either by abandoning their principles of independence for which they have so long contended, or else by remaining quiescent while their ministers through Councils and Conferences essay to act for them. And here it should be noted that the membership of these large Christian bodies have more and more during the past thirty-five years shown their willingness to have their ministers regulate their affairs, even though contrary to their avowed principles of Church Government.

But it is from the standpoint of doctrines rather than Church government that we shall examine our subject. As we progress we shall find that some of the doctrines once considered all-important can in the light of our day be laid aside as obsolete—as hindrances in every sense of the word. Caution, however, would suggest that for everything discarded as unscriptural the truthful substitute should be found—otherwise our progress would be toward the destruction, not only of the bad of our creeds of the past, but also of their good features.

Doctrinal Surrender of Baptists.
Baptists will find little to dispute with their co-religionists of the Federation along general doctrinal lines; their chief difficulty will be in the matter of what constitutes Christian baptism—the necessity of water immersion to admission to Church membership. For years this doctrine has been even more tenaciously held than is generally realized. Our Baptist brethren hold to justification by faith as a first or preliminary step which the sinner must take. But they equally hold that this is not the final step—that the step of sacrifice, the step of regeneration much follow in order to salvation. And a baptism in water they recognize as an indispensable outward indication of this regeneration. Hence it is standard Baptist doctrine, both North and South in all Baptist Churches with rare exceptions, that no unimmersed person should be esteemed a member of Christ's Church.

In a word, faith and reformation are steps of justification, but water immersion is the door into Christ. Only those who pass through this door are members of the Church of Christ from this viewpoint; hence, consistently, none others are invited to partake of the Eucharist—the Lord's Supper. The argument is that this Supper, symbolizing death with Christ, was offered only to the converted and accepted members of Christ's Church. Hence to invite others than those immersed in water would be a violation of the letter and the spirit of the Divine Word and a countenancing of false doctrine. The argument is that all of "the elect" will be guided of the Lord, so that their hearts and heads will become amenable to these teachings. Objections thereto will be shown by submission to water immersion—the door into the Church of Christ.

Like the rest of us, our Baptist friends have been in the past rather illogical in all matters religious and doctrinal; so much so that many of them have never realized the full meaning of their doctrine. The meaning was grasped in the long ago, but has generally been lost sight of within the last fifty years. It is this: Since water immersion is the evidence of obedience to Divine instruction and since all of "the elect" are not only instructed of God but obedient to him, therefore those not baptized in water are not of God's elect—are not members in his Church. And this in turn, according to Baptist doctrine, implies that all not immersed in water, are outside of the Church—outside of the number of "the elect"—outside of God's favor—outside of the salvation provided in Christ—and therefore inside the damnation and eternal torment which Baptist doctrines imply have been foreordained for the eternal torture of all the non-elect.

Do our Baptist friends who meet unimmersed Christians of other denominations in the walks of life from day to day really believe that the latter are on their way to an eternity of torture? Most assuredly they do not! But this is merely because they are illogical, like the rest of us. They are as illogical as their brethren of other denominations. They have outgrown at least this feature of the teachings of the "dark ages" handed down to them by well-meaning but less enlightened forefathers.

One glance at the matter will suffice to show our Baptist brethren that the very strongest features of their teaching needs some revision. However fundamental may be the doctrine of baptism, some of their conceptions respecting it will be greatly advantaged by a liberal pruning. But caution should be used. The Bible should be consulted. We offer the suggestion that too hasty a rejection of water immersion would be a mistake—that the proper course for our Baptist friends is to study the Scriptures afresh on this subject. What wonderful advantages are now at the command of all Bible students! They have marginal references by which one passage throws light upon another. They have also concordances, glossaries, indexes, and all manner of helps for Bible study. Our forefathers before the Reformation were generally illiterate. And even had they possessed education the pen-written Bibles were expensive and obtainable only in the Latin language. Indeed it is within only the last few years that Bibles have become cheap and plentiful and the masses able to read them.

What Must Adventists Concede?
The doctrine of the Second Advent of Christ is common to all denominations. And the Adventist belief that at that time the earth will be burned up is also a feature of all the various creeds. Many Adventists have abandoned the thought that the Savior's second appearing is at hand. And many more are abandoning the thought that when he appears Adventists alone will be saved and all the remainder of mankind will participate in the destruction and burning which shall then engulf the earth. It should not be difficult for them to realize that there is no great necessity for controversy along the lines of the time of Christ's coming, since they acknowledge themselves completely in the dark on that subject. Neither can we suppose that after thoughtful consideration they should feel justified in assuming that they alone are "the elect." Let us hope that with broadening sentiment they are more and more realizing that there are saints and sinners in their own number, as well as in all denominations and as well as in the world; and that "the Lord knoweth them that are his" and will care for them, regardless of denominational lines. But for that portion of Adventists which considers the keeping of the Seventh Day of the week the all-important part of Christianity we see no ground for Federation, unless, indeed, they may choose to get about the difficulty by counting the calendar the other way around the world. Thus they might bring their Seventh Day into harmony with what others term the First Day. Or, by counting the calendar in the opposite direction they may still keep their Seventh Day and realize that others are keeping the same day, though calling it the First Day.

Disciple Doctrines to Be Voided.
Undoubtedly Alexander Campbell was a good man with a great head. And undoubtedly many of a similar class following his lead are today known as Disciples or Christians. Undoubtedly these are following closely to apostolic customs in the matter of Church organization, which in many respects is beautiful in its simplicity. Doctrinally they claim most faithfully to stand by the Word of God alone. And one of their familiar declarations is, "When the Word of God speaketh we speak; when the Word of God is silent we are silent." But this beautiful simplicity of theory our Disciple friends have found difficult to work out in practice. Hence we find them as strongly entrenched behind unwritten creeds as are others behind elaborated creeds. These are inculcated through the writings of their standard authorities—including the editors of their leading journals. "Disciples" hold most tenaciously as the Bible teaching that baptism in water is indispensable to the remission of sins. This doctrine is supported by several Bible texts which declare, "Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins;" "Baptism unto repentance and remission of sins," etc.

Before pointing out their misapplications of these texts let us note the facts that according to their theory all others of mankind, Christians, Jews and heathen, who have not been immersed have not had their sins washed away. Consequently such are yet in their sins. Consequently such are lost. And lost according to the general understanding of Disciples and other Christians signifies shut out of heaven—shut out of Paradise—shut into hell and its eternal torment.

Do our Disciple friends act as though they believed this teaching? Do they spend all of their time and energy and money in seeking to bring fellow-Christians into water baptism for the remission of sins and escape from eternal torture? Assuredly they do not. Hence we are justified in supposing that like our Baptist friends they have not taken seriously and logically their own doctrines. Rather they have assented to them thoughtlessly. It would appear to us, therefore, that doctrinally our Disciple friends might easily be prevailed upon to abandon their peculiar tenet to the extent that it would not hinder them from losing their identity as advocates of "baptism for the remission of sins" and merging themselves or federating with others.

To assist them out of their difficulty we remind them that all the Scriptures they cite in support of immersion for the remission of sins belonged to the Jews, and none of it to Gentiles. The Jews were exhorted by John the Baptist and others to renounce sin, to return to harmony with Moses' Law, and to show this change of character by water immersion. But those Ephesians who believed in Christ and whom Apollos baptized for the remission of sins did not receive the holy Spirit. St. Paul explained to them that their baptism was an improper one—that they as Gentiles required an immersion into Christ (Acts xix, 1-7; Romans vi, 3).

Baptist Union Not Federation.

As a week ago we suggested to Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Methodists a union of heart and head as better than federation, so now we suggest to the denominations whose doctrines we are considering today. What we shall suggest respecting baptism will apply to all Christians.

All Christians agree that Jesus and his apostles taught baptism—and that there are but "one Lord, one faith and one baptism" (Ephesians iv, 5). We cannot here elaborate, but merely suggest that nowhere in the Scriptures is infant baptism commanded or urged. The expression, "Believe and be baptized," implies a mental development capable of belief beyond that which infants possess. The original pretext for introducing infant baptism was set forth by St. Augustine, who urged that as all mankind were going to eternal torture except the Church, it was necessary to get infants into the Church; and baptism was set forth as the doorway. All parents, of course, were anxious that their children should be immersed into the Church and saved from eternal torture. And those good wishes were certainly commendable, even if unnecessary.

Subsequently immersion was declared to be unnecessary and sprinkling became its substitute with all. The thought of preservation from eternal torment thereafter attached to the sprinkling. Although our minds have broadened, so that comparatively few believe St. Augustine's presentation, nevertheless the custom of infant sprinkling continues with more or less of fear to abandon it for the child's sake.

Who will dispute that St. Paul's words of Romans vi, 3-5, are the clearest presentation of the import of baptism furnished us in the Bible? The passage is cited in proof of every theory of baptism, yet it supports only one—the true one. Notice that it does not say, as many suppose, So many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into water. It does say, "So many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death." Is there not a difference? That difference is the explanation of all of our difficulty on this subject. The clearing of it away furnishes the foundation for harmony between all; and not merely for harmony, but for union amongst all classes of consecrated Christians.

Consider the passage critically. First, immersion into Christ signifies to the justified believer his immersion into his burial into the Body of Christ as a member of "the Church which is his Body" (Ephesians i, 22, 23). The Apostle sets forth clearly a distinction between the Church and the world and between the salvation of the Church and the salvation of the world. The Church are "the elect" of the Lord, called and chosen; and if faithful, they will be members of the glorious Church beyond the veil. It, as the Bride of Christ, will be his companion and Queen during the Millennial reign of glory for the blessing of the world—for the blessing of the non-elect, considered last Sunday.

St. Paul not only tells us of our need to be thus immersed into membership in the Body of Christ, but he proceeds to tell us how that membership can be brought about. The words, "Baptism into his death" explain the matter. How strange that we ever thought these words signified water immersion! Our eyes are now opened! Plainly, now, we see that "into his death" signifies our participation with our Lord Jesus in suffering for righteousness, in self-denial, self-sacrificings of the same character as those endured by the Master. It is true indeed that the whole world suffers pain, sorrow, disappointment, etc.; yet our Lord suffered differently from all others, and our dying must correspond to his. He suffered, the Just for the unjust. The holy, harmless, undefiled One laid down his life sacrificially, voluntarily, joyfully. And we, to share in his death, to be "baptized into his death," must do the same.

True, Jesus was spotless, while we are members of the fallen race. But we are justified through faith in his blood. And hence we have in the Divine sight through him a standing of human perfection or justification. This standing is granted to us or imputed to us for the very purpose of permitting us to sacrifice our human rights and earthly interests as he sacrificed his. The "elect" are to be dead with him, that in the resurrection they may live with him and be like him and share his glory, honor and immortality. By consecration we present our bodies living sacrifices holy and acceptable to God, as the Apostle declares (Romans xii, 1). Thus we are "immersed into his death" and thus we become members of his Body.

Whoever fails to be thus immersed into Christ's death will fail of the membership in his Body—will fail to be of his elect Church, his Bride. The difference between being dead with Adam and being dead with Christ is very great. By nature we are all dead with Adam. He was a sinner, condemned. We as his offspring are the same. It was necessary therefore that we should by faith be lifted out of this condition of death with Adam, in order that by consecration of all earthly interests we might become dead with Christ. Thus we share with him his sacrificial death and, by participation in "his resurrection," also become sharers of his Kingdom glory. Ridding ourselves, then, of the unscriptural theory of an eternal torment awaiting the non-elect, may not all Christians perceive the reasonableness of the Divine proposition to bless them through the elect? As Jesus by his sacrifice made Head of the Church, so all who will be his members must share his spirit of self-sacrifice—death to the world and earthly interest. Only such may share with him in his Millennial Kingdom work of blessing, uplifting, instructing, assisting all of the non-elect. Many of the non-elect under the fuller light and better opportunities of the Millennium will turn from sin to righteousness, from death to life eternal. This "baptism into death" with its blessed reward excludes no denominational lines. It includes in the Church of the elect those of every denomination and of no denomination who comply with its conditions of faith and obedience and consecration unto death.

Was not this our Lord's baptism as he described it? Just before his crucifixion he said, "I have a baptism to be baptized with, and how I am straitened (troubled) until it be accomplished!" His baptism dated from his consecration at Jordan, but it was not fully "accomplished" until on the cross he cried, "It is finished"—his baptism into death was finished. Was not this baptism into death what he referred to when speaking to his disciples? James and John requested that they might sit on his right hand and left hand in the Kingdom. In reply Jesus said, "Are ye able to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?" Surely he did not refer to a water immersion! Surely he did refer to his baptism into death, and meant his apostles to understand that only by sharing in his baptism into death could they hope to sit with him in his Throne (Mark x, 37).

With this reasonable, logical, Scriptural view of baptism before our minds which of us would be inclined to dispute over the form of the symbol or in respect to the class of persons who should properly use the symbol? Surely none would claim that infants could thus believe and thus consecrate to death! Surely all would agree that a symbolical immersion into water such as was practised by the early Church, according to all the records, would be the most reasonable, most beautiful, most appropriate method of symbolizing the real baptism into Christ—into his death. Let us then, dear friends, not be content merely to federate! Let us unite our hearts and heads and hands as members of the Body of Christ; let us be baptized with his baptism, into his death!

CAMPAIGN LIE IS NAILED IN EFFECTIVE MANNER.

Writes a Letter to Providence Man Who Sought Information.—Clerk Gatlin's Statement.

(Madisonville Hustler.) People may expect campaign lies to come thick and fast from now until the primary for congress next week. The mere fact that charges of any kind are held back to be sprung on the eve of an election should be sufficient to warn all people against believing them.

Rev. J. A. Kirtley, pastor of the Baptist church at Madisonville, received a letter from Hon. J. M. Payne, of Providence, stating that it was circulated by Judge Givens' enemies that he is a "sot drunkard" and asking information as to Judge Givens' standing as a sober man and a citizen. Rev. Kirtley replied as follows:

Rev. Kirtley's Reply.

Madisonville, Ky., Jan. 24, 1910.
Mr. Jas. M. Payne,
Providence, Ky.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of the 22nd inst., in which you seek to learn whether or not the report now in circulation in Providence to the effect that Judge C. C. Givens, who seeks the Democratic nomination for congress is a "sot drunkard" I will say: I have been pastor of the Baptist church, of this city, of which Judge Givens is a member, for more than two years and have known Judge Givens only during that time. It gives me good pleasure to say that the report is absolutely untrue, and that I am reliably informed that Judge Givens does not, and has not drunk any intoxicating liquor during that time and for a long time prior thereto.

Judge Givens has always been recognized here as the champion of the moral side of all public questions, and his reputation for sobriety and good citizenship is unquestioned here. Very respectfully yours, JAMES A. KIRTLEY,

Pastor Baptist Church.

Statement by Clerk Gatlin.

In behalf of Judge Givens I desire to say that any report to the effect that Judge Givens is a drunkard is absolutely false and without foundation or excuse, except so far as it will subserve the purposes of those who are trying to defeat him by any and all means, whether true or otherwise.

Very respectfully,
D. W. GATLIN,
Clerk Madisonville Baptist Church.

Jefferson Davis Memorial.

The strong sentiment existing throughout the state that a suitable memorial be erected at the birthplace of Jefferson Davis, the only president of the Southern Confederacy, near Fairview, on the Christian-Todd county line, took tangible shape when Senator R. M. Salmon offered a bill in the senate appropriating $5,000 for the purpose, the amount appropriated to be turned over to the Jefferson Davis Home Association, which has acquired the property where the head of the Confederacy first saw the light of day, to convert it into a memorial park, intended as a shrine for the South.

THEY GROW HAIR.

Certain Ingredients, If Properly Combined, Stimulate Human Hair Growth.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered. Beta-naphthol is a most powerful, yet absolutely safe germicide and antiseptic, which prevents development of germ matter, and creates a clean, healthy condition.

Pilocarpine, although not a coloring matter or dye, is an ingredient well established for its power to restore natural color to human hair.

Borax, because of its well-defined softening and cleansing properties, is most useful in the treatment of scalp and hair diseases. Glycerine acts as a stimulant to the hair bulbs, and has a soothing, healing and nourishing influence. Alcohol is indispensable in medicine because of its antiseptic, stimulating and preservative qualities.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of these ingredients, which are compounded in a peculiar form, and we believe it is the most effective remedy known to medical science for scalp and hair troubles generally. We personally guarantee it to eradicate dandruff and scalp irritation and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair, providing of course, there is life and vitality remaining in the hair roots.

We want every one troubled with scalp disease, dandruff or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not remove dandruff and promote a growth of hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. This guarantee is printed on every package. It has effected most satisfactory results in 95 out of 100 cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike and in every particular from anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is recommended. We urge you to try it at our entire risk. Certainly we could offer no better guarantee. Two sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Sold in Hopkinsville only at our store—The Rexall Store. L. L. Elgin.

BREATHITT BOOM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Attorney James Breathitt has been brought forward as a candidate for governor by certain Republicans now in Washington.

They declare that if Judge Breathitt will make the race he can defeat James O'Rear, Secretary of State, Bruner, Lieut. Gov. Cox or any other Republican who may be seeking the Republican nomination.

Western Kentucky, it is understood, is already pledged to Judge Breathitt should he run.

THREE PRISONERS

ESCAPE FROM JAIL

One is Ed Pendleton, Who Made a Similar Get-Away Through Same Hole on Christmas Eve and Was Recaptured.

Another jail delivery occurred at the county jail this afternoon, three negroes making good their escape. The fugitives are Ed Pendleton, Will Jones and Robert Bronaugh, and they made their exit through the same hole in the window on the west side of the building that Pendleton, John Claybrook and Sam Bowles went through on Christmas eve. At that time a bar at an outside window was saved, making an opening through which the negroes squeezed. Pendleton was captured several days later by the police and was again placed in jail.

The bar that was cut in December had never been replaced by a new one, but had been bent down into position, as if it was solid. The negroes had evidently discovered this fact and at the first opportunity they took advantage of it.

Pendleton has served two penitentiary sentences and is under indictment for a third and if convicted his sentence will be for life. Jones and Bronaugh were recently put in jail, they being charged with holding up another negro and taking a pistol away from him.

FLAMES ARE FANDED

BY HIGH WIND AND KELLY BARELY ESCAPES.

Strenuous Work of Citizens Prevents the Town From Being Wiped Off the Map.

Kelly, seven miles north of town on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, came near being wiped off the map by fire Wednesday afternoon.

As it was, the residence owned by Mrs. Ida Bobbitt and occupied by a family named Knight, was entirely consumed and both the old and new depots of the L. & N. and the Christian church, suffered a like fate, while the sparks flew all over town and hardly a house escaped some damage. Several buildings caught fire and blazed dangerously before the volunteer firemen could quench the blaze.

The first started in The Knight home from some unknown cause. It was soon beyond control, and breaking through the roof the sparks and blazing brands were carried by the terrific wind in every direction. Houses in all parts of the town began to show smoke wreaths and these would be the signal for an onslaught from the fire fighters. But even their desperate efforts were unavailing to save the depot, buildings and the Christian church.

When the depots burned the pole supporting the semaphore fell directly across the main track, and this blocked all trains for an hour and a half. Today Kelly has been cut out as a station by the dispatcher's office of the railroad, owing to the fact that their wires there were all burned out and there are no other buildings available at this time for depot service. In addition to the telegraph wires telephone connection with Kelly was also destroyed.

The loss will reach not less than $5,000 on which there is only partial insurance.

Mrs. C. H. Dietrich and Miss Bettie Stevenson are visiting relatives in Gracey.

Miss Nina Wooten has gone to Tampa, Fla., to spend the remainder of the winter.

IN DOUBLE WEDDING

SISTERS BECOME BRIDES OF YOUNG EARLINGTON MEN.

With a single ceremony pronounced by Rev. J. L. Killgore, of the Methodist church, the lives of Miss Della R. Petsch and Mr. J. D. Sharp and Miss Lucy E. Petsch and Mr. T. L. Thomas, were merged in matrimony Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Ferdinand Petsch on East Twelfth street. The attendants were Miss Mattie Littlefield and Mr. Charles Petsch.

The brides are sisters and daughters of Mr. Ferdinand Petsch. The bridegrooms are from Earlington. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp returned to Earlington last night, but Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will remain here, and have taken board with the bride's father. A wedding supper was served to the bridal party last night.

AUTO GARAGE

Forbes Mfg. Co. (Incorporated) announce that they will begin work at once on an up-to-date Automobile Garage for the storage and repair of motor cars. Large, roomy, fireproof. The inquiry for pleasure cars, as well as farm motor trucks, justifies the construction of a suitable building for their care and repair. It will be located on the corner of 11th and Virginia streets, diagonally across from their lumber office. It will be ready for service within thirty days if the weather is at all propitious.

Suit on Policy.

M. V. Harris, by next friend, has filed suit against the Hartford Fire Insurance company for $2,000, alleging that the company has refused to pay a policy of that amount that was in force when the property covered by it was burned. The property was a store at St. Elmo.
