Food Costs--Farm Prices Appear Not Tuned To Modern Concepts Of Conducting Business

The Committee on Agriculture inaugurated 10 years ago a continuing study into food cost trends, publishing, from time to time, reports on farm to retail price spreads and portraying the relative positions of the farmer, the processing and marketing systems, and the urban consumer, in the total food picture.

This study has drawn wide attention and the report, "Food Costs--Farm Prices," issued each year, has been expanded to embrace a broad variety of information on agriculture.

This 1967 study, assembled from official source material which brings forward the statistical information on the farm year 1966, shows that--

1. Notwithstanding some improvement in farm income last year, prices received by farmers in 1966 still were 2 percent lower than such prices 10 years ago, in the 1947-49 base period; while prices paid by consumers at retail, for food, increased 40 percent in these 19 years. The net income of farmers in 1966 was 5 percent below the 1947-49 base period.

2. Due to the efficiency of farmers and irrespective of the increased costs of processing and marketing, food was cheaper during 1966, in relation to wages received by Americans, than in any period or in any other country. The average family spent only 18.1 percent of its income after taxes for food.

Study Made

While the study published here is based upon statistics and facts of 1966 and prior years, this foreword must take note of and give emphasis to distressing developments in agriculture occurring in the first months of 1967.

Some of these developments are:

From August 1966 to April, agricultural prices suffered their sharpest decline since the late 1920's and early 1930's.

Prices received by farmers in the marketplaces dropped to the lowest level in 33 years, in relation to the rest of the economy. These prices decline 10 percent between August of 1966 and April of 1967. Although there was some recovery in May and June, the parity ratio dipped in April to 72 percent, the lowest for any month since 1934.

In other words, the prices received by farmers, in relation to the prices of things they must buy to produce their crops and livestock and to live on the farm, were in April of this year at the lowest point in 33 years.

Meanwhile, during the past 20 years the hourly earning of industrial workers have increased by 123 percent and corporate average of farm prices dropped by 11 per cent, comparing 1947 prices with prices in April of 1967.

Wheat, including the value of certificates under the wheat program, returned the farmer in the early months of 1967 $2.14 a bushel, against $2.29 a bushel the farmer received in 1947; corn, $1.25 compared with $2.16 20 years ago; and cotton, including the Government subsidy, has been bringing the farmer about 28 cents a pound while in 1947 the price was around 32 cents.

The projected net income of agriculture for 1967 is $15.5 billion, compared to $17.1 billion in 1947. National income is expected to reach $642 billion in 1967, compared to $199 in 1947. Thus while the national income shows an increase of 233 percent, farm income is down 9 percent.

Conditions Cannot Continue

This condition cannot continue. Farmers cannot produce the abundance of food and fiber we need without using modern techniques. These techniques are expensive. Our country and our world may soon need increased production. We can't have it unless farmers can at least hope to get enough for what they produce to pay for what they put into its production.

Broke farmers cannot continue to produce our present abundance, much less increase production.

Prices now paid to farmers are not sufficient to bring to and hold in agriculture the resources--people, fertile and protected land, plant food and chemicals, machinery, and other productive aids of science -- to support the efficiencies essential to maintain abundant production. Each day we see farmers quitting the farm and moving to the city. Each year we see farm boys and girls graduate from college only to take jobs in the city.

Our whole food supply will be endangered if we do not restore to agriculture prices which will enable farmers to stay in business and produce abundantly.

Ours is a democracy and the masses of our people now live in the cities, and as we seek remedies to insure continued abundance at reasonable prices we must recognize that the political power of our farm and ranch people has diminished. Henceforward, farmers must depend upon Members of Congress and upon administrators representing urban constituencies and population for approval of farm policies which are fair and equitable.

The ultimate decisions will be made in the cities.

Therefore, it is important for city people to understand that all of us will suffer if we fail to appreciate the work, the problems and the needs of agriculture.

Possibly four great farming corporations might well be able to produce all the food and fiber we need, but they would certainly never do it for anything like the small percent of the consumer's disposable income which between 3 and 4 million farmers are now getting.

We need to pay our farmers enough to make it possible for them to feed and clothe our cities.

This is a land of plenty and we want to keep it that way.

W. R. Poage, Chairman
COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

GRASSROOTS OPINION

OCALA, FLA., STAR-BANNER: "An opinion survey reveals that most Americans favor a cut in federal spending rather than increased taxes as a means of controlling inflation. What this shows is that more people are becoming aware of the real cause of the rising inflation which is troubling our country today... Do the politicians want us to believe that giving them more money to spend will result in a lower cost of living -- that is, a dollar with more purchasing power?"

ANTIGO, WISC., JOURNAL:

"The prices charged for food are very prominent in public attention today, reflected most conspicuously in the boycotts of supermarkets in some of the larger cities. Few of the boycotters, we suspect, are aware of the complexities of food pricing and so they tend, either to blame the farmer as ultimate producer, or to vent their indignation on the last factor in the chain of suppliers, the retailer... Given least thought of all is the part that inflation and the reduced buying power of the dollar are playing in the situation."

POET'S CORNER

LIFTING AND LEANING

There are two kinds of people on earth today,

Just two kinds of people, nor more, I say.

Not the good and the bad, for 'tis well understood

The good are half bad and the bad are half good.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift-flying years

Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.

Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth

You must first know the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for in life's busy span

Who puts on vain airs is not counted a man.

No! The two kinds of people on earth I mean

Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses

Are ever divided in just these two classes.

And, strangely enough, you will find, too, I ween,

There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load

Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner who lets others bear

Your portion of worry and labor and care?

of Kentucky Folklore

"CALLING ANIMALS"

Though animals are called in many ways across the country, our culture area has a number of traditional ways that seem universal among us. In recording folklore on tape I have quite often called for ways to call the various farm animals and have very rarely found any variations. Ninety-nine out of a hundred per cent of the ways are identical with ours at Fidelity, a hundred and fifty miles farther west and in an area settled two generations later than was Mammoth Cave and its region.

The identical whistle to call horses appears in both areas. And "quope" or "quup" is standard, too. All the language used to make a horse go right or left, to increase his speed, or to stop are equally standard. Horses seem to demand "gee," "haw," "whoa," "Get up" (and its variants); and cows come up from the pasture when they hear "sook." "Saw" may not be understood by the cow herself, but every fellow who has milked a cow knows what it means. And, so far as I know, there is only one way to tell a cow to go on down the lane to the pasture: "Huhy" (and its variant spellings or forms). Pigs will come when "oo" is combined with "pig" or "pige" and will scamper when you say "soo-ey." Dogs come a-running when a certain whistle is given or when you say "here," except that just about everybody says "he-uh." I suppose dogs like a Southern pronunciation better. Chickens know that food is available when you say "chick-chick" or some such rigmorale; and well-bred chickens know that "shoo" means "git."

Now isn't it funny that the identical sounds are used over such wide areas. So far as I can find out, the sounds I have mentioned are used over most of the South, the southern Middle West, and, many of them, elsewhere.

A few people whom I have known have devised their own ways of calling animals, but they have not interfered much with the traditional folk ways that everybody knows. A friend of mine honks his car horn to call his numerous beef cattle, and the cattle have learned to associate that sound with food or salt. One man I knew would merely call the name of his dog, pretty loudly, and the dog came instantly. A little boy would call his cat "Here, kitty," and the cat came a-running. I have always loved the story of the deaf man who accustomed his hogs to coming to be fed when he would rap on a tree with a stick. But these hogs got a great workout when a company of woodpeckers moved in and started work.

A common characteristic in nearly all words or expressions used to call animals is the falsetto tone. Imagine calling a cat in a perfectly normal voice. Some of the callers whom I have known improved on this by making the whole call musical and sonorous. Long ago in this column I praised the hog-calling of a man who lived a mile and more from my boarding-house in Hickman County, but his hog-calling sounded out across the big bottoms where the hogs roamed and brought them safely back home.

With a hundred cows in a pasture now, how could you call them except collectively. I know one farm-worker who keeps up the old custom, however, and his far-reaching call seems to remind the cows that it is milking-time.

You should hear him driving a few dozen big Holsteins to pasture. Somehow it seems like a nostalgic reminder of driving Old Jerse down the lane rather than a herd of cattle with pedigrees like a royal family.

But what would an old-fashioned country home have been like if late afternoon came and no sonorous animal-calling could be heard?

TEXT:
"Whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope." Romans 15:4.

THE ADVENT GOSPEL

The key word of The Advent Gospel is fulfillment. The coming of Christ was not an isolated event, but was closely related to what went before. It was the crystallization of an undying hope into a historical fact.

IT WAS THE FULFILLMENT OF PROPHECY

The bringing to realization of all the foreboding and anticipations awakened by prophetic souls to whom was given the vision of the better day. These prophetic souls had declared, "The dayspring from on high shall visit us;" but those who saw it declared, "The day-spring from on high hath visited us." What to the pre-Christian generation was prophecy became, when He appeared in flesh, history and experience. This transition we find illustrated in the single person of the aged Simeon, who, seeing in the babe in Mary's arms the future deliverer of the race, had the swan song of his ebbing life into one of realized hope; so that he exultingly exclaimed, "Now lettest thou thy servant depart, Lord: according to thy word, in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."

The outshining fact: to wit, the fact of the abiding Presence of God in the world. Of that fact the Incarnation is the standing witness; it signifies not the coming from

The Woman's Club held a Thanksgiving benefit bridge party at the club home Tuesday night, with about 200 present. Lovely prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. H. McDaniel who had high score for the ladies in bridge and to Mrs. Lawrence Holland for second high. Dr. Paul Williams had high score for the men and Roy Hamby second high. Mrs. Frances Ashby received high score prize for rook and Miss Elizabeth Witty received the high for bingo.

Miss Louise Reece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reece of Union City, and Wendell Butts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butts, were quietly married Sunday, November 30, in the study of the First Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Graham, of Union City, were the only attendants. After a southern wedding trip, the couple will return to Fulton where they will make their home.

Each member answered the roll call by giving the number of visitors they had brought to the club meetings this year.

Plans were made by ten members to attend the achievement luncheon at the Martin Elementary Cafeteria on December 2.

The craft leader, Mrs. Jim Burke, showed several clever Christmas gift ideas and showed several arrangements of feather flowers. The home furnishing leader presented Mrs. Helen Wylie, who showed a film of many different elegant and beautiful periods of furniture, with explanations of each.

Mrs. Myrtle Temple, home management leader, gave a useful lesson on the care of porcelain and enameled furnishing, with an interesting discussion by several members volunteering to tell experiences that were of interest.

Mrs. Fred Vaughan directed the recreation, a Bible quiz, with Mrs. Harvey Vaughan having the most answers. The door prize was won by Mrs. Mattie Atkinson.

Carrol Schrader, James Batson Are Wed In Methodist Church On Friday

Arrangements of red poinsettias and greenery softly illuminated from tiers of gleaming tapers formed the beautiful background for the wedding of Miss Carrol Elaine Schrader and James Allen Batson, both of Memphis, on Friday, November 24, at 7:30 in the evening in the First Methodist Church at Fulton. The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schrader of 2200 Evergreen Drive, Union City and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joseph Batson of 3525 Van Winkle Circle, Chattanooga.

White tapers in brass spiral holders flanked by other seven-branched candelabra were set before the choir railing banked with jade, while the pews along the aisles were marked with hurricane lamps tied with red velvet grapes and pine greenery.

The Rev. George Comes Jr., church pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony and nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Robert Seifert, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Roberts, vocalists.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely young bride was wearing an elegant gown of imported de-lustered satin and Alencon lace. The empire design was fashioned with a moulded bodice secured down the back with tiny buttons and with a sweetheart neckline outlined with natural scallops of lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. Her long fitted sleeves ended in calla points over the wrists and were fastened with miniature buttons. Motifs of the embroidered lace were applied down the front of the bodice and down either side of the A-line skirt. Her chapel train, trimmed with scallops of the lace, was secured at the high waistline with a large flat bow. Her bouffant shoulder length veil of misty illusion fell from a cluster of organza loops with crystal and sequined lace coming to a point in front. She wore a diamond pendant and carried three white orchids surrounded with gladiolus, seed pearls and tulle and showered with satin ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Donald Glover of Martin, a Chi Omega Sorority sister and a roommate of the bride when they attended the University of Tennessee at Martin, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Johnson of Memphis, a sorority sister, and Miss Jayne Ann Cox of Memphis and Union City, a roommate of the bride at Memphis State.

Mr. Batson served his son as best man and ushers were Robert J. Batson of Knoxville, a brother of the bridegroom, and Dennis Schrader of Union City, a brother of the bride.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Schrader, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John Simrell, were hosts at a reception at the Biltmore for the wedding party and out of town guests.

Mrs. Bill Karnuth of Nashville and Mrs. James Seim of Ames, Iowa presided at the punch bowl, while Mrs. Donald Schwank of Palatine, Ill., and Miss Becky Seim of Ames, Iowa, cut and served the cake.

When the couple left on a honeymoon to Kentucky Lake the bride was wearing a chic blue coat dress sparked with camel accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

They now live at 2980 Barron Street, Memphis, where the bridegroom is employed at St. Joseph's Hospital and the bride will continue her studies at Memphis State University where she is doing graduate work in physical education.

Among out of town guests at the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. James Seim, Becky and Janet of Ames, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schwank and Holly of Palatine, Ill., Mrs. Lester Rasmussen and Linda and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Inglett and Tami of Decorah, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Batson and Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Boswell of Chattanooga.

Robert Batson Jr. and Miss Becky Nanny of Knoxville, Mrs. Steve Batson of Erin, Tenn., and Mrs. Mary Dickinson of Nashville, grandmothers of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Karnuth, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Frey, Debbie and Peggy, Lee Frey, and Miss Sherrie Goodpasture, of Nashville.

Miss Dianna Carol and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ward of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. ## Red Cross Volunteers Meet At Derby

Mrs. Glynn Bushart was in charge of a meeting at the Derby on Tuesday, November 21, with Red Cross volunteers who perform services in the Fulton hospitals and nursing homes. The meeting was for discussion and instructions in connection with change of assignments.

Following this meeting, Mrs. Jewell McClain, Mrs. Ima Phelps, Mrs. Mildred Sellers and Mrs. Betty Rhodes, all volunteers from Fulton, reported on the Western Kentucky Chapters of the National American Red Cross commemoration of Fifty Golden Years, the program being held at Fort Campbell recently.

The theme of this meeting was "Help Us Help" and the keynote address was given by John C. Wilson, Executive Vice President, American National Red Cross.

Following the presentation of

Evaluation Of Courses Is Questioned

From The FHS "KENNEL"

Question: Should the grades of all courses count the same toward a final grade?

TERRY DALLAS:

The United States was founded on the premise that a man's rewards should equal his labors—the harder he worked the more he got, supposedly. Shouldn't schools adopt the same system? Should the "harder" courses carry more credits than the others? In my opinion, yes! It seems unfortunate and unfair that students taking chemistry, trigonometry, physics, mechanical drawing, and biology should have their overall standing in school compared to those students whose hardest courses were Home Ec. II or advanced P. E.

When I first stated that harder courses should carry more credits, I advocate raising the credit value of the harder subjects, not lowering the value of the others. Those subjects I consider hard enough to rank a gain in credits are chemistry, trigonometry and calculus, physics, mechanical drawing, and possibly biology.

ROMA FOSTER:

No. I personally think that any student who has the initiative to take the more advanced courses which are offered at his high school should be given some type of extra credit.

It is hard for a student who has to study for hours every night because he is taking harder subjects to console himself with the fact that he is preparing himself better for college when one of his classmates never has to study, yet makes just as good grades because his is taking the simpler subjects offered. But the problem is who decides and how do they decide which subjects are the more advanced and which are the so-called "snap" courses. There will never be a fair solution to the problem as long as students have the choice to pick subjects they want to take because there will always be some one who will rely on the easier way out.

RAY MARTIN:

Some people feel that our system of grading and credits is unfair. I have to disagree. True, it is possible to coast through high school. Some people try to take all the easy, or "snap" courses after they are through with their required courses. The only person they cheat is themselves. However, the good student takes the courses that will best prepare him for college and life after. A person should find the subject that interests him most and work hard on them. The person that majors in social studies should go ahead and try to further himself in this field. It would be quite unfair to give him less credit for his time and study than a person majoring in math.

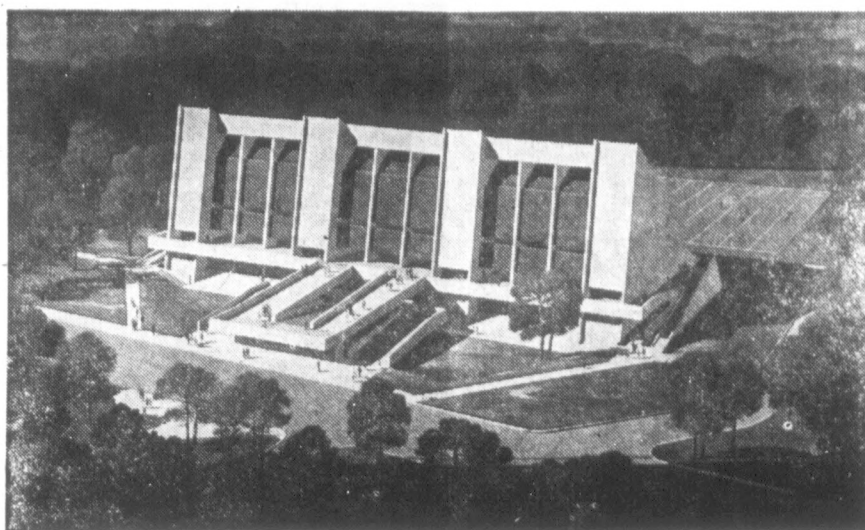

NAN MYERS:

Yes! Because it would be impossible to separate the easier courses from the harder ones. The degree of difficulty varies with each student. Therefore we would have no way of giving different values to courses considered easy and those considered hard.

Even if different values were given for grades depending on the courses, it could be damaging. Some students, knowing the grade wouldn't count as much toward the final average, might be less inclined to work.

DUE IN 1969—This architect's drawing shows the new physical education facility which Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, hopes to have ready for use at the start of the fall term in 1969. The building will contain physical education teaching rooms, academic classrooms and a large public assembly arena. The slanted roof on the opposite side will serve as a football stadium with 15,600 spectator seats. The playing field can be seen at the right rear. Cost of the facility is estimated at $3.8 million.

A MARKET FOR PULPWOOD

Interest in forestry in general, and pulpwood in particular has increased since the announcement of our new Paper Mill at Quigly, Kentucky. The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company has certainly been of great interest to our forestry community. Since Kentucky forests cover approximately 48 per cent of the total land area much emphasis will be placed on proper harvest of wood products in the future.

I have been asked many, many times - will I be able to sell the trees when they mature? I have always been optimistic as to marketing the thousands of pine and hardwood trees planted each season.

In the early 1950's, Kentucky planted less than one million seedlings. Within five years this figure had increased to 70 million seedlings. Kentucky has made great progress in forestry and particularly in pine plantings since 1950.

Now that we have a new market for pulpwood more plantings of pine will be required in order to supply the need for this giant Paper Mill.

Tree planting is hard work, and I think we need to take a look at some of the methods of planting.

Hand planting is very effective but survival is often low where experienced planters have not demonstrated exactly how the job should be done. This article is not the place for a tree planting demonstration by hand, but I will give you a few pointers that might help. The major cause of tree mortality in the spring is the planter not having a deep enough trench for the tree root, another reason is the dry weather during the first year. We cannot do anything about the weather, but we should correct the depth of planting as well as the care of seedlings before and during planting operations.

When you first receive trees for your farm and cannot plant them within 3 to 5 days, trench them out and wet the ground around the roots and keep them wet. There are directions in the package as to method of trenching out and they should be followed to the letter. For temporary storage use a cool, dark place and wet roots if they are dry.

When planting time does come around, be sure and NEVER LET THE ROOTS DRY! Once the tree root dries the root hairs will no longer take in food and moisture and the tree is dead. If possible, always plant the trees from water. Do not carry a handful of trees across the field. Pack the soil firmly around the new tree. If the tree roots are not long enough for the trench just cut the bottom two inches off the seedling. It is much, much better to root prune than have the root to be turned up. If the root is turned back in the trench, we call this "J" root and the tree will soon die. Special care should always be taken in windy weather, as drying time in the wind and sun is cut 75 per cent.

To help in correcting some of the planting ills and assist farmers in planting trees the Illinois Central Railroad built a light weight tree planter and it is available to farmers in this area who desire to plant pine trees.

This machine will plant an average of one thousand trees per hour under normal conditions. The two man crew can plant in one hour what would take him all day to plant by hand and at the same time do a better job of planting. In the care of seedlings the same rule applies to machine work also, the only difference being, at the end of the day the planting machine is working at the same depth as it did in the morning, which is not always true with hand planting.

In planting with machines, the tractor driver is very important as he controls the depth of planting and should be alert for stumps and other trouble spots, since the man riding the planter must be watching to keep the roots straight and see that the planting is done properly.

It is time now to be thinking about pine tree orders for next spring - contact your District Forester, your Soil Conservation Service or your Extension Office for information concerning ordering pine trees.

If you have a field of one acre to twenty acres by all means consider planting pine trees for future forests.

Physics Students Probe Into Theories Relating Ideas Of Matter And Energy

From The FHS "KENNEL"

Physics is the fundamental science of the natural world. What causes the colors of the rainbow? Why do you see a lightning flash before you hear the thunder? What holds up an airplane? The answers to these and many other questions concerning nature, so far as science knows them, are a part of physics. It is the science which tells us the "how" and "why" of the world of non-living objects that we see all about us.

Physics plays a very large part in our everyday lives. Without friction, walking would be impossible; buttons would not stay buttoned; shoestrings would not stay tied; in fact, threads would not hold buttons and clothing together.

Physics has been aided by such well-known scientists as Newton, Einstein, Edison, Galileo, and Gilbert. These are just a few of the many people who have helped physics to develop into the modern study it is today.

Physics is taught in high school for many reasons. First, it HELPS to train future physicists for their work in the lab or for work with mathematics in physics. It also HELPS a student to understand the world around him. Physics also HELPS to develop an inquiring mind.

The physics class at FHS has worked on experiments concerning subjects such as the coefficient of friction, gravitational force, and the metric system. The class is now studying velocity, having completed units on friction, matter and energy, measurement, and mathematics in physics and force.

Don't be alarmed if you are run over by one of the physics students in the halls. He is probably trying to find out if he is the only one who didn't do his homework. And you might as well accustom yourself to the loud, familiar walls of students screaming, "We weren't supposed to write up that experiment, were we?" Don't worry, they're normal. THEY'RE just like the many other physics STUDENTS - trying to learn the "how" and "why" of the world around them.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

FRANKFORT — No governor enjoys being forced to reduce appropriations for state agencies by a total of $24.1 million as I did this month when in-coming revenue failed to reach what had been estimated when the budget was drawn up in early 1966.

This disappointment was tempered somewhat by the fact, however, that actual state expenditures in all areas of state services will still be far more this year than they were four years ago — or even two years ago. And, a balanced budget will be handed the next governor.

State departments or agencies will not be so badly off as some persons by their statements might have given you reason to fear.

Take, for example, the comparable expenditures for higher education, including the various state universities, Kentucky State College, the University of Louisville and the Council of Higher Education.

The general fund expenditure in this category for the fiscal year 1963-64 was $32,803,357. The appropriation for 1967-68 was $74,092,078. The cutback this month was $5,927,300, which still leaves $35,362,321 more than in 1963 — or more than double what it was that year.

Another example lies in comparison of the Minimum School Foundation Program, including teachers' salaries which are not affected by the November budget cut.

The 1963-64 fiscal year appropriation for this program amounted to $111,622,788. The total for this year was $163,142,691. The $4,575,506 cutback ordered still leaves the program $46,944,397 better off than in 1963.

Among the strong protestations against the budget cuts have been those emanating from persons concerned especially with mental health.

Regrettable as it was to be forced to make this cut, as well as other cuts in appropriations that would quicken progress in all areas of state government, Mental Health is still way ahead of the appropriation it received four years ago.

For the 1963-64 fiscal year, the Mental Health appropriation was $12,569,286. This was raised to $18,400,000 for the present fiscal year. Subtraction of the $1,990,000 cutback still leaves $3,840,714 more than for 1963-64.

Child welfare services, of course, are among the most important rendered by the state. The 1963-64 appropriation for this department was $2,843,093. For 1967-68 it was $5,700,000. The cutback of $580,000 still leaves Child Welfare with $2,276,907 more than allotted in 1963.

Another striking example of comparable state appropriations is provided by the Department of Economic Security which received $20,549,775 for 1963-64 and $32,700,000 for 1967-68. The net appropriation for this year, with $3,470,000 cut off, is still $8,680,225 more than for 1963-64.

Since road building does not come out of the General Fund, this state program is not affected by the reduction. We will continue to build roads until the last day I am in office at the same pace which has made Kentucky the nation's leader this year.

The 1967-68 budget was based on the best available estimates of income in late 1965 and early 1966. We consulted with the National Council of Economic Advisors and other national economists. Our own economists made a thorough study of Kentucky's own economic prognosis.

All projected and predicted an economic growth in 1967 and 1968 markedly in excess of what actual growth and spending has been. The national economy has not mushroomed as expected, and numerous strikes have further cut income and tax payments.

Kentucky is unlike many states which have annual legislative sessions and annual budgets. Needless to say, it is much more difficult to plan spending and revenue-collecting over a two-year period than it is annually.

Our law holds the governor responsible to prevent an over-draft or deficit in any fiscal year for which appropriations are made. Thus, it is the duty of the governor to reduce spending whenever revenue lags just as it is the duty of the family head to cut spending when family income drops.

The law also implies that a governor has a duty to restore appropriations in proportion to reductions made should the General Fund revenues appear to exceed the estimate.

These then were the considerations that I was faced with in meeting my fiscal responsibilities. Despite the cutback, which is small in comparison to the increases during the past four years, we will continue to make great progress in solving our problems and building Kentucky during the remainder of this administration.

The personal application of the Gospel of the Advent of Christ raises the questions: What does the Advent of Christ mean to me? Has Christ come into my life? Have I found in him the fulfillment of all my highest hopes? Am I increasingly becoming an incarnation of his spirit and life?

"You only live once!"

One answer to that one is, "But that's exactly the point."

Nobody could deny that young people have very special problems. Pressures. Drives. Impulses. Loneliness. Uncertainty. It's not hard to make a mistake. Even a disastrous one.

Yet very little maturity brings the realization that you're the You you have to live with all your life — mistakes and all.

If you're young, now's the best time to think about the moral values you'll want to live by five years from now. And ten. And twenty. The values, perhaps, you'd like your own children to share.

Look to your Faith now to help you find the way of life you really want for yourself. Then live your Faith.

You may find there is much more to you than you ever dreamed.

FULTON COUNTY—

appalling lack of leadership and bias in the matter these facts must be considered as relevant to the unnecessary controversy raging that indeed, is creating long-lasting animosities of bitter intensities:—

—Judge John Elmer Cruce, while the library tax petition was being circulated bought advertising in all three county newspapers, paid for with taxpayers' money to "warn" county residents that the new tax would create an undue burden on the already heavily "burdened taxpayer." He was specific in his itemization of the tax levies in that ad.

—Judge Cruce DID NOT perform quite so nobly by advising his constituents with advertising that the counter-petition to close the libraries and abolish the library district was being circulated.

Judge Cruce DID NOT advise members of the library board or any other interested citizens that the court would meet on Monday night, before the general election, to accept the counter-petition. This was learned only by happenstance, too late to have proponents of the library tax levy on hand to witness the proceedings.

—The County Court DID NOT advise the library board or any other interested citizens that the Purgation Board went into session two days earlier than the day previously announced. This meeting too, was learned accidentally.

—While a flood of letters from counter-petition signers has been sent to the Court to have their names removed, Judge Cruce has advised reliable parties "that it won't do any good; the names will stay on." This Judge Cruce has summarily denied the statement.

—County Court Clerk Dee Langford has REFUSED to make these letters public advising that they "are not a matter for public record." Dee Langford has not yet produced the statute validating his statement.

—Believing that they would have "their day in court" on Tuesday, the library board and other interested citizens found only two magistrates (Black and Cox) present at the meeting. Magistrates Charles Darnell and Roy Nethery were absent for personal reasons. A reporter was barred from proceedings of the court that followed the hearing.

—County Attorney James Amberg, bombarded with incidents of forgery, misrepresentations, even collusion, has yet to advise either the proponents or the opponents of the legal apparatus necessary to validate either the levy, the validity of the counter-petition or the disposition of the taxes already collected on the 1967 tax bills.

—All four Fulton County magistrates signed the counter-petition to abolish the libraries. When confronted with the evident departure from their obligation to serve "all the people" they represent, taking into consideration the pros and the cons on the issue, some of the officials replied by saying: "We signed as taxpayers, not public officials." It has been viewed as a debatable matter of public policy if these officials can disengage themselves from the public duty of unbiased interests while in office.

—Perhaps the most significant hopelessness encountered by progressive-minded citizens is the statement made by Magistrate A. L. Cox on Tuesday when he said: "We are just country boys. We don't know what to do about this thing. This is for the lawyers to work out."

Several farmers are having their porkers butchered around this section and having their work done at slaughtering houses. Almost everyone plans their year's supply of pork, hams, sausage, ribs and backbone. It will be frozen at home and those who wish will cure their hams, country style, at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell Farmer left for home in St. Louis Sunday morning, after a nice visit here with the Grover True family and other relatives, during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Bro. Charles Wall filled his regular appointment at Knob Creek Church of Christ the past Sunday. A new baby arrived at the popular pastor's home several weeks ago and congratulations are still in order for this.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mathis and daughters, Sammie Jane, Liz and Becky visited Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter the past Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark and Stevie, of Martin, were Sunday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter, their parents.

Grant Bynum was in Jackson, Tenn., the past Friday for his check-up at the Madison County General Hospital. He remains about the same as last reported and his medication continues. We hope he will be resting much better soon.

Bobby Rickman, student at U. T. Knoxville, spent Thanksgiving at home here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickman, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover True and Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Rickman. He left Sunday for Knoxville, where he will resume his classes.

Oil, Gas Report Published At UK

A report on oil and gas developments in Kentucky and three neighboring states during 1966 is now available through the Kentucky Geological Survey, according to Dr. Wallace W. Hagan, state geologist at the University of Kentucky.

Called "Oil and Gas Developments in East-Central States in 1966," the report describes petroleum and natural gas drilling and production activities in Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and Tennessee. It was originally issued in the Bulletin of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists but has been reprinted and issued as Reprint 23. Copies may be purchased from the Kentucky Geological Survey, Mineral Industries Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington at 36 cents a copy.

UT-M 'Volunteers' Getting In Shape For Tangerine Bowl Game Dec. 16

After a week's lay-off, the Volunteers of The University of Tennessee at Martin will resume practice sessions Monday, December 4, in preparation for the game in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Florida, December 16, Coach Robert Carroll has announced.

Acceptance of the bowl bid was finalized November 21 by James C. Henson, director of athletics, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association in Kansas City, Missouri. "This is the UTM Vols first bowl invitation, and the members of the team are thrilled and honored to get an opportunity to play in Orlando," head coach Robert Carroll said.

With U-T at Martin playing in the Tangerine Bowl and U-T Knoxville in the Orange Bowl, this probably will be the first time in the history of football that a University has sent two teams to bowl games in a single season.

West Chester State College of West Chester, Pa., will be the Vols' opponent. West Chester's record for the season is 10-0.

U-T Martin has a record for the season of nine wins against one loss.

DHIA

At the Annual Meeting of the Obion-Weakley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association last week we were very interested in the progress the members of the association have made in the last three years in the production of milk. 914 cows are now being milked by members of the association and during the last year the cows averaged 10,650 lbs. milk per cow with 431 lbs. butterfat. That compares to 1966 averages of 9,930 lbs. milk and 410 butterfat, while in 1965 the average was 9,180 lbs. milk and 386 lbs. butterfat.

During the annual meeting awards were presented to several producers for herd averages during the year. Awards included: Lee Grader - 11,750 lbs. milk and 429 lbs. butterfat; Mack Burrow - 10,480 lbs. milk and 448 lbs. butterfat; W. N. Hammond - 13,070 lbs. milk and 498 lbs. butterfat. The three herds in the association that produced over 500 lbs. butterfat per cow averaged using per cow: 10,500 lbs. silage, 2,200 lbs. hay, and 4,900 lbs. grain.

The Directors of the Obion-Weakley County DHIA reelected Mr. Mack Burrow of South Fulton as President, Mr. W. N. Hammond of Lindenwood as Vice President and Mr. Aaron Walker of Dresden as Secretary-Treasurer.

The first piano, or harpsichord, was really a harp in a horizontal position with hammers and a keyboard action. ## Split Leadership Not Unusual In Other States

Kentucky's first Republican governor in 24 years will take office Dec. 12 but the Democrats will still control the number two spot — the lieutenant governorship.

Louie B. Nunn was elected to Kentucky's top post while voters elected a Democrat, Wendell Ford, for lieutenant governor.

Leaders from different sides of the political fence have sometimes sparked controversy, when they shared the reigns of state government.

In 1965, Nevada's Lt. Gov. Paul Laxalt, a Republican, called for a grand jury investigation of the state's Highway Department when Gov. Grant Sawyer, a Democrat, went out of town for the weekend. Sawyer withdrew the call when he returned.

turned.

Most of the controversy, however, has been limited to disagreements over where one's power ends and another's begins when the governor is absent.

Kentucky's situation is not unique, Kansas, Oklahoma, Washington and Colorado operate with governors and lieutenant governors belonging to opposite parties. Down through the years, a majority of the other states have been split at one time or another.

Alabama historians say that it has never happened in the southern state and California's last split was in the 1880s.

In other states, the split in voter preference occurs more regularly.

North Dakota voters, for instance, teamed present Democratic governor William L. Guy, now in his third term, with two Republicans before naming a Democrat to the runnerup spot in 1965.

Michigan, Connecticut and Pennsylvania currently have laws which require both executive officers to run on the same ticket.

In recent years, Indiana, Vermont, Idaho, Iowa and Nebraska also have been run by governors and lieutenant governors from opposite parties.

78 In Cast Of Follies

Doctors, lawyers, clerks and teachers — husbands, wives, mothers, daughters, grandmothers and teenagers.

Seventy-eight people of varying sizes and ages are dancing, singing and clowning every day and night to learn the routines making up the two-hour musical, "The Fabulous Follies of 1967," to be presented at 8 p. m., Dec. 1st and 2nd at Obion County Central High School.

Mrs. Marjorie Moore, talent chairman and member of the sponsoring Union City Business and Professional Women's Club, today announced the completed list of cast members.

Tickets for the event may be purchased in advance from members of the sponsoring club, at Lancers in downtown Union City or Tara's Young Fashions in the Reelfoot Shopping Center. Adult tickets are $2 each and student tickets are $1 each.

WITH THE BIBLE

BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60635

THE CHRISTIAN HOME

"As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord" (Josh. 24:15).

There is no place in all this world so wholesome and refreshing as a Christian home, a home where Christ is truly loved and honored.

This writer was brought up in such a home. There were ten of us: dad, mother and eight children. There was lots doing all the time, but a truly happy home it was, for dad and mother never let us get so busy with temporal things that we brushed eternal values aside.

On the basis that "man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God" (Luke 4:4), we read some small portion of the Bible before every meal, and had family devotions before retiring at night.

Result: all eight children bless the dear dad and mother who led them aright, morally and spiritually, and best of all, taught them the importance of trusting in the Savior who died for all our sins. More: five of the children and many of the grandchildren have given themselves for full time Christian service, and have become pastors, college deans, Christian writers and missionaries in various parts of the world.

Counting the grand children there are now exactly 100 of us and the divorces and broken homes that have brought sorrow to so many are not even known among us.

This is not because we are one whit better than others, but because we experience the help and grace of God in our lives. But it all began as, one day, a young American, like Joshua of old, came to a decision and declared: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Watch Your Coat!

Ducking out of the rain, George entered a luncheonette, hung his raincoat on a hook, and ordered a cup of coffee. But by the time the coffee was gone, so was the raincoat. Could George make the management pay for his loss?

A court said no, on the ground that he could not prove any "bailment" of the coat. That is, he had not entrusted possession of the coat to the management.

On the other hand, if the customer delivers his garment to a checkroom and it gets lost there, he is usually in a position to demand payment.

Unfortunately, it is not always easy to tell whether possession has really been transferred.

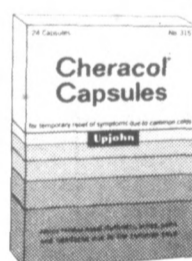

Consider the case of a woman whose fur coat was stolen from her dentist's waiting room while he was working on her teeth. Had the dentist accepted possession of the coat?

A court said yes, he had — by im-

WELCOME

TO WAYNE FEED

SWINE FIELD DAY

Dec. 1, 1967

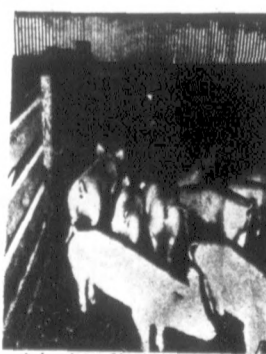

Sponsored By: Donald Hastings Feed Mill, Latham, Tenn.

WE ARE PLEASED...

to have you with us to share in some of the experiences we have encountered in Swine Feeding. As all of you know, many factors, both known and unknown, are faced by today's hog feeder — availability and price of feed ingredients, availability and price of breeding stock, markets, weather, consumer demand, and freight rates, to mention a few. All these factors, plus many left unmentioned, place a real test on any hogman's management and feeding program today. We are hopeful that our field day may help you in planning for more profitable hog feeding in the future, and that we, in turn, will benefit from your visit with new ideas and suggestions for improving ours.
