According To Minister Ghotbzadeh

Americans To Be Seen Soon

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today international observers will see the American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, the spiritual leader of the Azerbaijani Turks who are rebelling against government authority in the northwest, said in an interview today that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini would face civil war if he did not liberalize his policies toward Azerbaijan.

Today the dispute between Iran's two highest-ranking holy men intensified when ShariatMadari, second most senior religious leader, said in an interview with Associated Press Correspondent Maureen Johnson at his home in the holy city of Qom. "If the executive makes mistakes again, the disturbances will continue in Azerbaijan, tension will increase, people will start to kill each other, civil war will take place."

"We are going to have independent international observers to go and visit the prisoners in, I hope, a very short time and afterwards I hope that visits will be (made) regularly," Ghotbzadeh told a news conference.

The news conference was for newspaper and magazine reporters, not wire services, but The Associated Press obtained a tape recording of the questions and answers.

"One visit certainly is agreed upon, and it will be done I hope in the very near future," Ghotbzadeh said. "I hope that visits will be regularly (allowed). I can't guarantee that now."

Among the international intermediaries in Tehran is Harold Schmidt Degrunck of the International Red Cross, who saw 15 of the hostages earlier in the five-week-old siege.

U.N. emissary Zuhair Yamin arrived in Tehran Monday and Sri Lankan Foreign Minister Shahu Harneed, who already has acted as an intermediary, is reportedly back in Tehran.

Ghotbzadeh said attempts were being made by Iranian officials to assemble an international grand jury as soon as possible to investigate Iran's grievances, including crimes charged against the deposed shah.

Meanwhile, the official Pars news agency reported today that a revolutionary guard was shot dead behind the embassy last Sunday morning and said the "martyred" guard was buried in his home town in the Sennan central province. Pars said only that the man was killed by "an unknown person" during a change of guard.

ABC News reported the Carter administration had "signaled" that if the hostages were not released within seven to 10 days, the United States would launch an economic campaign to bring down Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But a spokesman for the State Department's task force on Iran denied the report.

Khomeini on Monday defied the United States to blockade Iran and made a personal attack on President Carter as the outcome of the rebellion in northwest Iran against his authority remained uncertain.

"We are not frightened of economic blockades. These brainless super-powers...think that now they have such power all the world, all the universe should follow them," Khomeini said Monday in response to Carter's threat of more severe economic measures against Iran if the 50 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4 are not freed.

"America should remove Carter from its political scene," the religious leader of the Iranian revolution asserted in a speech to Moslem students at his headquarters in Qom.

SUSPENDED IN AIR — Joe Miller, Murray Electric System employee, suspends strings of multicolored lights from the top of a utility pole to form a 30-foot Christmas tree in the Murray-Calloway County Park. The 200 lights for the tree, which was to have been lighted during Friday night's opening ceremonies for the "Christmas in the Park" program, did not arrive until the weekend. Monday was the first night the tree, which is near the west entrance to the park, was lit.

Annual Budget Amended By County Fiscal Court

The Calloway County Fiscal Court voted to amend its annual budget by $264,082.08 Monday in a special meeting. County Judge-Executive Robert O. Miller said the amendment was necessary due to unanticipated revenues from surpluses from the previous year, Title V funds for the community center renovation, Area Development Fund Grant for the purpose of purchasing dump trucks and unanticipated miscellaneous revenues in the road fund.

The court also approved a bid from Dwan Taylor Chevrolet for two 12-foot bed dump trucks. The bid was $16,974 each.

In other action, the court gave Miller the power to enter into a lease a Galion road grader at the cost of $56,680 following the completion of all the legal requirements.

Miller also reported that Calloway County received $1,012,000 in state funds for two new bridges. The bridges are to be located on the Almo-Shloh Road over Jonathan Creek and on the Kentucky 94 Denter Road east fork at Clark River. The money is a portion of a $7 million grant for bridges in the first district.

A motion was passed to give road employees Christmas Eve day, Christmas day and New Year's Eve day off with pay.

The court will hold its regularly scheduled meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, Dec. 17.

Non-Politician To Head State

About 50 Watch As Brown Sworn In As Governor

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Bright sunshine and unseasonably warm temperatures today ushered in the first day of John Y. Brown Jr.'s administration as Kentucky's 55th governor.

"It is a bright sunny day," said John Y. Brown Sr., who saw his son win the statewide political victory that he never attained.

The younger Brown took the oath of office from Supreme Court Chief Justice John Palmore shortly after midnight in private ceremonies at a Louisville residence.

About 50 persons were on hand for the event, including Brown's wife, former Miss America Phyllis George, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert George of Denton Texas.

Three generations of Browns later took part in the traditional inaugural morning worship service at the Walnut Street Baptist Church in Louisville.

John Y. Brown III, Brown's son by a previous marriage, read the scriptures, John Y. Brown Sr. delivered the invocation and the new governor received a Bible at the pulpit from the Rev. Wayne Dehoney.

"You have the greatest opportunity to achieve greatness," Dehoney said in his remarks. "Because you come to the governorship owing no man and in debt only to God."

"But you have to learn the right measure of greatness," Dehoney said. "And greatness must be earned."

Brown, a multi-millionaire businessman who campaigned on a theme of being a non-politician, said after the service that he was "excited and looking forward to beginning my administration."

The Browns then flew by helicopter to Frankfort for the rest of the day's ceremonies, including a public swearing-in from Palmore at 2 p.m. on the Capitol steps.

Martha Layne Collins, who was sworn in as the state's new lieutenant governor shortly after midnight in Shelbyville, was also slated to be part of the public swearing-in.

An inaugural parade of colorfully decorated floats, high school and college marching bands was scheduled to being winding its way at noon through Frankfort streets, which were decorated with red, white and blue bunting. Brooks, a Louisville native who became famous as a likeable drunk, was to change roles today by singing the national anthem before the swearing-in ceremonies.

Brown and out-going Gov. Julian Carroll and their wives were to review the parade from a modernistic reviewing stand constructed where Capital Avenue meets the Capitol.

That site has been the traditional swearing-in spot for Kentucky governors, but Brown's inaugural committee rejected the $10,000 inaugural stand for a natural balcony further up the Capitol steps in front of the state Christmas tree.

Brown, 45, a late entry in a crowded Democratic gubernatorial primary last March, swept to easy primary and general election victories on the wave of election techniques and strategies that were new and confounding to veteran Kentucky politicians.

In his first try for elective office, Brown achieved the statewide victory that eluded his father in numerous races for governor and U.S. senator over the past 40 years.

An indication of the new style that Brown is expected to bring to the governor's office were the celebrity friends involved in inaugural activities.

In addition to Williams, Brooks and Ali, luminaries included Robert Strauss, special representative for trade negotiations in the Carter administration; West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller; John Coleman, owner of the Fairfax Hotel in Washington, D.C.; news correspondent and lecturer Nancy Dickerson; Mrs. Sammy Davis Jr. and designer Albert Capraro.

HEALTH

Allergy to sun

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR LAMB — I am 61 years old and I am allergic to the sun. My daughter wants me to come to Hawaii to live with her and I'm wondering if you know of something I can take or do to help me with this problem. I can tolerate the sun for a few minutes and that is all. I sure would appreciate it if you would help me with this. Thank you.

DEAR READER — Yes, there is such a thing as being allergic to the sun. It can cause hives. Technically, we call this solar urticaria. Even the specific lengths of the sun's rays that cause such reactions have been identified. It's understood to be an allergy. Individuals who have a severe form of this really should avoid the sun because it can even cause the person to collapse.

It can be treated. Antihistamines sometimes help as they do with other allergens. And then you can use barrier creams on the surface of your skin. These will filter out the sun rays. I would like you to see either a dermatologist or allergist to discuss this problem with him. Some specialists in allergy think that hydroxychloroquine (Plaquenil) will protect some sensitive people who anticipate exposure to the sun.

There are a number of skin disorders that are caused or made worse by the sun. I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin Sun, Aging, Spots And Cancer. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Many people can profit from sun protection in the winter as well as summer to prevent skin aging.

DEAR DR LAMB — My brother passed away from acute myelomonocytic leukemia. He died 10 days after the onset of his symptoms. I've made numerous inquiries to determine the approximate length of time that he had this condition prior to his symptoms. The opinions have varied from one year, eight months, three months or to the day the symptoms were detected. I'd like your opinion on a more definite length of time. My brother was 72.

DEAR READER — Unfortunately, no one can give you a definite time. Untreated acute leukemia usually has a stormy course and ends in death in less than one year. Treatment in recent years has altered this picture in many instances.

You must remember that we do not know the exact cause of leukemia although there is a body of evidence that suggests certain forms of leukemia may be related to viral infections that alter basic cell reproductive mechanisms.

To make matters more complex, a chronic form of leukemia can change suddenly to an acute form. A person may live for years in relative comfort with no symptoms at all with chronic leukemia, then suddenly it changes to the acute form and the life expectancy may be very short indeed.

It's not unusual for a person to have leukemia, particularly the chronic form, and have no symptoms. The acute forms usually cause symptoms by affecting a certain organ or by causing a severe anemia, bleeding or what appears as a respiratory infection. When the doctor examines the patient for the symptoms, he finds out there's an underlying leukemia.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

She's Staying Home for Xmas

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, and around holiday time someone always asks, "Should we go to HIS mother's or to MY mother's for Christmas dinner? And your answer is always, 'Why not alternate?'"

Abby, my husband and I struggled with that problem for years, and we resolved it according to your suggestion. Both sets of parents lived nearby and it seemed the only fair thing to do. So for 22 years, we spent Thanksgiving and Christmas in parents' homes instead of our own.

It never dawned on us until this year — as our children are ready to strike out on their own — that we never developed our own holiday traditions. We always went to Grandma's for the holidays. She insisted on doing all the cooking herself — and then complained for months about how much work it was and how tired she got. When we, her daughters and daughters in law, asked if we could bring something for dinner, she wouldn't hear of it. When we brought food without asking her, she refused to serve it, so we finally gave up.

I realize now what a high price I've paid over the years for peace in the family. I wish I hadn't. Abby, please urge young marrieds to have their own holiday celebrations in their own homes. Suggest that they invite their parents and grand- parents, who might even be relieved to be finally free of the burden of entertaining three generations.

Sign me... "DOING MY OWN THING"

DEAR DOING: You make an excellent point. Your answer was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas Eve, during my busy preparations for 18 dinner guests (and also during our meal), I was called to the phone three times and kept there from 20 to 30 minutes while the callers wished me a "Merry Christmas." Each said, "I decided to phone rather than send cards this year," then proceeded to bring me up to date on their health, families and activities!

I appreciate their thoughts, and realize that by placing such calls they probably filled an otherwise lonely Christmas Eve, but if they must save the expense of sending Christmas cards, why can't they wait until the holiday is over, and then phone with their annual accounts of joys and sorrows?

Am I the only one who feels such phone calls are impositions?

UNAPPRECIATIVE IN OREGON

DEAR UNAPPRECIATIVE: Probably not. But if it's inconvenient for you to take the call, say so. And ask if you may return the call when you're able to visit longer.

DEAR ABBY: Our employer used to give Christmas bonuses to all employees, based on their length of service.

In the last couple of years, he eliminated the holiday bonuses in favor of a Christmas party. Well, the only ones who attended these parties are the young, or those who want to act young. Most people drink too much, the music is deafening, and there is more food wasted than eaten.

Many of us here are not party minded because of finances and inability to get settlers, and we would much rather have the money instead — whatever the amount.

So how about running this letter to ask the boss people — foremen, administrators, managers, etc. — to let the employees have a choice.

JOPLIN, MO.

DEAR JOPLIN: It seems fair to me. Bosses?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

USING BUTTER

Take butter directly from the refrigerator and cream it after cutting the stick into about eight pieces. Keep mixer speed low when you start creaming. This method is better for most types of cookies than allowing it to soften. If butter softens too much, it means you have to add extra flour and that cuts down on the shortness or tenderness of the cookies.

THE ACES

"Men are born with two eyes, but only one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they say."
— Charles Colton

England's Rixi Markus, probably the world's most successful woman player, relates today's humorous story. She picked up a hand during a rubber bridge session and her only tongue got the better of both her eyes.

If the bidding looks strange and it surely is, there is an explanation. Here's what Rixi had to say: "With 40 on score I was contemplating the following powerful hand when I heard partner open with a strong one no trump.

"Anxious to cash in my 100 honors and worried that my partner might be tempted to pass a gentle approach bid in view of the score, I bid a direct six hearts. At just about the same time, I took another rather shortsighted look at my hand and found to my horror that it had now become the South hand shown in the hand diagram. The king of hearts had suddenly become the king of diamonds."

I could hear my kibitzers whispering to each other, no doubt commenting on what they thought was another of those Rixi bids, and you can imagine my immense relief when I saw the strong heart support in dummy.

Fortunately for me, West led his singleton club, butchering his partner's queen and I had no trouble taking 13 tricks, thanks to West's lead and the most helpful dummy.

I was unlucky in one respect I could no longer claim my 100 honors.

It's nice to have partners who hold the right cards when our tongues get the better of our eyes.

At Fern Terrace its looking like everyone is getting ready for Santa's visit on the 21st. Our tree and decorations are up and the residents are all getting in the Christmas spirit. Our outside tree was donated to us by Mr. Morgan Cunningham and cut and put up for us by Mr. Carman Butler. Our sincere thanks to both of these gentlemen. Pearl Skinner, Thelma Wicker and Carl Ray helped us decorate inside and outside.

We want to thank Mrs. Howard's 6th grade class from Murray Middle School for the entertainment and cards brought to our residents. Their program was wonderful and all the residents certainly enjoyed them being here.

We are planning our Resident Christmas Party for the 21st of Dec. at 7 p.m. We hope all the families and friends of our residents will plan to be here. Santa will be here and we are really looking for that jolly old fellow. Also our activity calendar is beginning to fill up with lots of parties and singing.

We want to wish a speedy recovery to Les Mattingly and Tray Green who are patients at the Murray Calloway County Hospital. We wish both of them a speedy recovery and are looking forward to them returning home soon.

That's about all the news for this time but Mrs. West and I extend an invitation to all of you to come by and visit with the residents at any time.

If you are interested in moving into Fern Terrace call Mrs. Tapp, adm. or Mrs. West, any day from 9-5 at 753-7109 or stop in.

Learning To Decorate the Home

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Practice makes perfect when it comes to dressing well. It's a learning process which takes time. But how do you learn how to decorate your home? For most people, the exercise is indulged in only a few times in a lifetime.

The answer to this perplexing question appears to lie in informing the eye by studying good rooms. This can mean reading decorating magazines. But, increasingly, consumers have been informing their eyes by visiting decorator show-houses and similar shows where interiors have been designed by professional decorators.

A good example of such a decorating show recently concluded in New York. Besides room settings and product displays at the show held in a local armory and sponsored by the Resources Council, there was a chance to ask questions of decorators and to listen to discussions on decorating trends.

The Resources Council, which is a national organization of interior furnishings manufacturers and distributors whose products are sold through decorators and architects, tries to make the show a kind of quick, one-day course in current decorating trends for visitors.

A walk through the huge armory where 75 exhibitors displayed products or model rooms made it clear that there is no single, right way for a room to look.

"I tried to show new ideas, to educate people, with my display," said Carol Levy who designed a one-room apartment for the affluent in which everything but the bathroom was combined in a single large room.

"This is the most sensible way to live. The kitchen doesn't have to be hidden behind walls. Today, communication is so important; people want to talk while they are cooking," she said in explanation of her room executed for Alluminio Kitchen Cabinets.

On the other hand, most rooms ran the gamut of more traditional decorating themes.

An interesting part of the Resources Council's Ideas Show was an exhibition of products nominated for the Council's design awards, known as Roscoes.

What Oscars are to movie stars, Roscoes are to interior furnishings producers, said Bobby Fosse, executive director of the organization.

The awards program was begun nine years ago by the group to recognize excellence in design. It was also organized to impress on the public the importance of good design, she added.

Winning a Roscoe can establish or improve a designer's reputation. And it can mean increased sales for a manufacturer who wins. Although the 250 products entered in the competition represented all styles from traditional to modern, this year's judges (an independent panel of distinguished home-furnishings professionals) apparently were influenced by the industrial look.

Many of the award winners — announced the day after the show closed — represented the free-from-ornamentation school of interior design.

Winners were selected in 22 categories, including furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, lamps, accessories and linens.

THIS TWO STORY, FOUR BEDROOM HOUSE REFLECTS the Spanish influence in home design. The interior, central portion contains the foyer and family room and is a full two stories high. The foyer has a curved staircase that sweeps up to the second floor. Plan HA1127M has 1,249-square-feet on the first floor and 1,134 on the second floor. What Continues to Grow On Reaching Its Prime?

In the 1980's, the number of people in the 25-to-44 homebuying age group is expected to grow faster than in the previous 20 years. The significance is not lost on the housing industry.

More unattached single persons and unwed couples are expected to make the switch from rental to homeownership. The scarcity of rental units in many areas also is expected to force many young families who might normally rent into the purchase of small, conventional homes in the coming decade. And smaller homes are growing in popularity among elderly couples and couples whose children no longer live at home.

There are, however, two areas where homeowner preferences aren't expected to change; that is, in building products that offer two distinct advantages—durability and low maintenance. Whether prospective homebuyers are young, elderly or somewhere in between, all of them seek building products that are easy to care for and are designed to last.

Modern asphalt shingles are a good example of such a building product. Available in a variety of eye-appealing colors including handsome earthtone shades, three-dimensional asphalt shingles are designed to last up to 25 years or more with little maintenance.

Not only are they durable and easy to care for, but they can be used to improve a home's appearance. Earthtone colors of brown, beige and slate that serve to relate a home to its environment are increasingly popular on new homes and in reroofing as well. At the same time, multi-layered asphalt shingles produce eye-appealing shadowlines that give a roof rugged character.

Additional information on asphalt shingles and how they can be used to advantage is contained in a 20-page color booklet, "A Homeowner's Guide to the Selection of Quality Roofing." To obtain a copy, send 35 cents to Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association, Box 3248, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A flexible connector for track lighting.

Manufacturer's claim — That this connector makes it possible, for the first time, to quickly and simply join a wall-mounted track to a ceiling installation or to a wall or to an adjoining wall installation, thus creating a variety of ceiling or wall layouts...that installation of the connector is just a matter of attaching it to two different tracks...that the connector bends up to 90 degrees, carrying the electrical current along its line...and that, along with it, a floating canopy is being introduced to be connected to any existing outlet box along the track, making for more versatile track location in a room.

THE PRODUCT — An aerosol spray synthetic lubricant.

Manufacturer's claim — That this lubricant is non-flammable, non-staining and non-toxic...that it is harmless to metal, glass, rubber, wood and most plastic materials...that it is safe to use in confined areas...that it is an inert material with excellent water-resistant qualities...that it will easily wash off electrical connections and clips...and that, among its other uses, it is excellent for locks, latches, pulleys and drawers.

THE PRODUCT — An adhesive which bonds fabric to fabric.

Manufacturer's claim — That it bonds washable fabrics such as cottons, denims, corduroys, linens and polyester blends...that it can be machine washed and dried...that this adhesive enables anyone, including a non-sewer, to hem, make pleats, etc., and so make draperies and curtains...that it will mend torn pockets in the pants and shirts of craftsmen who carry tools in their pockets...that it is applied sparingly from a tube...that light fabrics are finger-pressed, while weights or clothespins are used to hold heavier fabrics in place until the adhesive dries.

THE PRODUCT — A wall-covering from France that covers problem areas.

Manufacturer's claim — That the wallcovering is made of flexible vinyl...that it covers problem walls like cinder block, old ceramic tile, cracked and uneven areas without showing telltale imperfections...that it is non-porous, resists impact damage and cleans easily with the swish of a damp sponge...and that it has three-level embossing on a dense cushion core.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

(The track connector is made by Halo Division, McGraw-Edison Co., 400 Busse Road, Elk Grove Village, Ill. 60007; the lubricant by Facet Enterprises, 231 Elm St., Warwick, R.I. 02886; the fabric adhesive by Advance Color Corp., P.O. Box 54870, Los Angeles, Calif. 90054; and the wall covering by Forbo, N.A., 218 W. Orange St., Lancaster, Pa. 17603.)

Q — We moved into our house a few months ago and never had any trouble with sweating windows, but the past few weeks we have had this problem with one of the bedroom windows. Every window in the house has combination screens and storm windows, the kind that slide up and down in metal channels and are outside the regular double-hung windows. The sweating occurs only on that one inside window. Water forms on the glass and actually runs down the pane onto the sill. It is getting to be a nuisance. What causes this and why does it happen on only a single window?

A — Every year at this time, more mail is received on the subject of sweating windows than any other. The explanation is always the same. Condensation takes place on windows that have cold surfaces. When warm, moist air settles on such a window, it condenses or sweats. Since this is taking place only on a single window pane, it means that the pane is colder than those in the other windows in the house. Why is it colder? Because cold air from the outside must be getting past the storm window part of the combination unit.

Are you sure the storm window has been closed or did somebody forget to do so? If it is closed, then it isn't airtight. Be certain it has been pulled down all the way and that the top part also is tight. Then check around the outside edges of the window and see if there is any air space. Even if there does not appear to be any, apply weatherstripping around the edges. Once cold air fails to get past the storm window, a certain amount will go through the pane, but this should not be sufficient to cause the condition you mention. The pane of the inside window will not get cold. And if it isn't cold, the warm, moist air will not condense on it. In trying to solve any problem connected with condensation, remember the principle that the surface must be cold before the sweating can occur. That's why similar sweating occurs on such things as cold water pipes and toilet tanks with cold water in them.

ABANDONED BEDROOM — Tailored to serve as guestroom (when the occasion arises) or quiet reading room for adults, an abandoned bedroom can become a personal and private adult retreat when grown children leave home. Created by Armstrong's Interior Design Center for Beacon Homes, Inc., Fla., a shell-hobby theme was used by Linda Newman, A.S.I.D., with minimal furnishings and shelving for storage and accessories display carpet, installed wall to wall, provides the soft and luxurious backdrop to visually expand the room size.

HOBBY CENTER — An unused closet is converted to a nifty hobby center for the shell collector in this former bedroom. The velvety flow of a plush carpet from incorporates the recessed area as an integral part of the room. Created for Beacon Homes, Inc., Fla. by Armstrong's Interior Design Center.

Vacated Bedroom Easily Can Be Turned Into Adult Retreat For Any Activities

There is a German word that aptly describes space or territory necessary for life, growth, or activity. Although "lebensraum" doesn't exactly apply here, the concept does.

When you are lucky enough to have a bedroom vacated by a grown son or daughter, you can easily turn that area into an adult retreat that is suitable for almost any personal activity.

When furnishings are kept simple and tailored, it helps determine how well the room can accommodate a variety of activities. And, if the furniture is flexible, it can be used as extra sleeping space when the occasion arises. It is certainly foolish to keep a bed "dressed" for the infrequent houseguest.

The room illustrated was designed by Linda Newman, A.S.I.D., an interior designer from Armstrong Cork Company. It is photographed from two angles to include the closet converted to a hobby center. Decorated for Beacon Homes, Inc., Newport Richey, Fla., the room is average size — approximately 11 by 13.

The room takes on a more spacious look with a bed's absence. "Banquettes" were made of 3/4-inch plywood and the platforms were covered in fabric from David & Dash, Inc. Foam pillows and back bolsters, covered in shell-motif fabric, make up to sofas by day, beds by night. There is storage space for clothes and bedlinens in the end-table "cubes."

The obvious interest in conchology "gives the newfound "haven" unusual interest, and the use of basketry, textured grass-like wallcovering, and soft "sand" colored carpeting emphasizes the natural theme.

Levelor blinds keep things simpler for light in-out and visually expand the room size without the clutter of drapes and curtains.

Accessorizing this room provides a real opportunity for the new-tenant adults to display treasured family photographs, trophies, and other mementos that might seem out of place in more formal living areas.

Inexpensive shelving placed strategically at ordinarily lost space above the windows, and at elbow height not only utilizes space for storage but offers the best location to showcase personal memorabilia.

A decorative ceiling from

Armstrong helps keep the room acoustically balanced, music preferences can be honored without disturbing others.

Reroofing With Asphalt Shingles Provides Durable, Year-Round Protection

The best insurance plan is the one that offers you maximum protection and overall coverage at a reasonable cost. It should cover about every eventuality and be geared to protecting your family, even if you're not around.

A good roof does the same. It offers excellent year-round protection against the elements and works even when you're not there. If your present roof isn't providing that kind of coverage, re-roof.

The key to successful re-roofing is in the selection of the roofing material. It should be durable, attractive and easy to care for. An attractive looking roof will mean little if it fails to provide lasting protection.

Since weather is the roof's greatest enemy, your new roof should be able to withstand rain, high winds, the harsh sun of summer and the ice and snow of winter.

A new roof should also look attractive. Since the roof is the largest exterior expanse of a home, it is the key to exterior decoration. Today's three-dimensional asphalt shingles, designed to provide long service with only minimal maintenance, create dramatically rugged and deep shadowlines that give a roof depth. Available in popular earthtone colors of browns and beiges, these shingles can be used to relate a home with its surroundings or to blend or contrast with siding and trim colors.

Though cost will be a consideration, remember that the initial cost of materials and labor will be spread over the entire life of the roof. Keep that in mind when selecting materials or when comparing the cost of a re-roofing project with other types of purchases — such as a new car — which depreciate quickly or are expensive to maintain.

Home Furnishings Fashion

By BARBARA MAYER

If you've got a sofa that's big and squasy with rounded, oversized arms and a curvaceous, arched back, prepare to enjoy being at the height of home furnishings fashion.

Judging by the new, upholstered furniture displayed at North Carolina's national furniture market in October, a large number of such sofas and chairs should soon be appearing in retail stores.

At the home furnishings market, oversized sofas and chairs, much softer than in the past, shared top billing with new modular-seating groups. Manufacturers plainly had functionality and multiple purpose uses on their minds as they introduced to retailers a variety of innovative seating systems. Sofas that also feature table surfaces as part of the design were shown by several manufacturers.

At Selig Mfg. Co., for example, designer Cindi Mufson created a modular group that includes pie-shaped, upholstered tables as part of the seating. The slender wedge-shaped tables blend in with the seats, but offer a convenient surface exactly where it is needed.

At Pearson Co., a division of Lane, a traditional sofa was shown with a fold-down shelf at each end. When upright, the shelves provide surfaces that function as end tables. Another version of the sofa has three collapsible shelves at the rear of the sofa. The shelves are folded out of the way when not needed.

A trade newspaper noted that more manufacturers are offering sleep sofa options than in the past. In some cases, manufacturers have made it possible to obtain any sofa in their line as a sleep sofa.

One such is Stratford Furniture which showed for the first time a sectional seating group with a twin bed in one section and a double bed in another.

Each year, fabrics on new sofas seem to become more attractive. This market was no exception. Manufacturers are increasingly concerned about possible government legislation that could require flame-resistant fabrics on all upholstery. This concern may partially explain why manmade fibers which offer some degree of flame retardancy are being used more often.

Olefin fiber, for example, now probably accounts for 25 to 30 percent of all the upholstery at the market, and nylon, acrylics and polyester have become more visible, also.

This is the first year that cotton prints have gotten any competition from polyester. And industry observers say consumers can expect to see more polyester prints in upholstery swatch books in the near future.

Although sofas are bulkier, in many cases they are also shorter than in the past. According to one manufacturer, the most popular sofa size is travelling downward. It used to be 85 to 90 inches, but now is more likely to be between 78 and 82 inches long.

As for upholstery colors, it is a case of paying your money and taking your choice. Pastel, ice-cream shades, especially seafoam green and a lovely, soft pink, showed up to advantage in some showrooms. But it would not be fair to say that earthtones were less in evidence.

Dave Byers, a consultant to Hercules Inc., maker of olefin fiber fabrics, predicted that "green-tone fabrics are in for a strong revival."

"We've gone about as far as it's possible to go with red, and green is the chromatic opposite of red," he said. As a rule, chromatic opposites follow each other in popularity.

However, Byers and other color specialists noted that there never is a single color preference. Differing markets have different favorite colors. The colors chosen by decorators are rarely preferred by the general public.

"Unusual colors look best in specially planned color schemes where everything matches and is done at once. Most people decorate piecemeal and must stick to the basic colors which go well with what they already have," Byers said.

New "Siding System" Adds Greater Protection

With a splash of six popular siding colors and choice of either a smooth or textured Band Sawn surface, a new, highly durable hardboard lap siding system makes its debut.

Manufactured by Abitibi Corporation, Building Products Division, the siding system — comprised of an array of color matched accessories and built-in features — makes hardboard siding planks easy to install. In fact, without special skills even one person can do it, although two will make the job go faster.

The system ensures a neat siding installation and offers better protection against the elements while eliminating some of the complicated and time consuming steps of normal lap siding applications.

Siding can be applied without the need for wood corner stops (that have to be painted and maintained.) Corner mitering is eliminated; and, many homeowners will be happy to learn, so is virtually all of the initial job caulking and the resulting caulk maintenance that usually goes on year after year.

Siding Planks

Align Automatically

To ease application a locking spline is built into a groove on the back of the siding, and the top edge of the plank is factory machined to form a rabbet. The spline and rabbeted edge allows each siding course to interlock with the preceding one. This automatically aligns each course of siding and easily holds the long siding plank in position while it is being nailed to the exterior wall. With this method, all nail heads are also concealed adding to the attractiveness of the finished side wall. It also ends touch up of unsightly nail heads and any rust staining from nails that may develop over the years.

Vent holes in the locking spline allow the escape of any damaging moisture build up behind the siding.

GM Chairman

Prognosis Awaited

NEW YORK (AP) — In the year's final days the economic assessment of the General Motors chairman is awaited by those who seek reassurance about the months ahead.

They are seldom disappointed; he rarely fails them. Once again Thomas A. Murphy sees the sunshine behind the shadowing clouds, the vision of big sales and economic success in spite of oil, Iran, and inflation.

Despite the "continuing problems of inflation and some current signs of sluggishness," says Murphy the optimist, "the United States' economy remains fundamentally strong."

Barring more "adverse developments in the Middle East, and assuming continued responsible price action by the OPEC countries," he states, car sales should "stabilize and strengthen as the year progresses."

Murphy, and his predecessors, accentuate the positive. Over and over again.

—While the automotive year might not begin strongly "deliveries for the year as a whole could approximate the 1979 total, with the selling rate in the latter part of the year at substantially higher levels."

—An advance in electric battery technology, announced last September, "is only one of the developments that hold promise for the future in our efforts to improve the utilization of petroleum resources."

—A drop in housing starts will to some extent "be cushioned by recent innovations that have made it easier for savings institutions to compete for funds in periods of high interest rates."

Why does GM so consistently stress the positive?

Interpreted cynically, some claim GM can take no other approach to an economy in which its view plays so big a role. It must be upbeat, they say, or see sales suffer.

Why, then, is so much attention focused on GM's forecasts? For several reasons, among them:

1. Some of those optimistic assessments have been rather accurate in recent years.

2. GM puts its money on the line, a practice that impresses hardnosed investors. This year its worldwide capital expenditures will total $5.3 billion, "and well over $6 billion annually in the early 1980s."

Murphy concludes GM's forecast for 1980 with the acknowledgement that "more than the usual amount of risk is associated with the outlook, given the uncertainties surrounding energy availability and price."

Conditions in the Middle East, particularly in Iran, "must moderate before the full potential of the U.S. economy can be realized," Murphy concedes.

"However," he says in the fashion of GM year-end statements, "based on the currently discernible economic factors in the outlook for 1980, there is reason for cautious optimism."

It's Hard To Get Young Execus To Come To Or Leave Small Towns

A couple weeks ago, William L. Weary, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Ingersoll-Rand Corp., was in Murray as a guest lecturer on the Murray State campus.

Now, when business executives of Mr. Weary's stature come to the campus, the folks in the College of Business and Public Affairs keep them on the move — milking them for every tidbit of information they can pull from them. Rex Galloway and his management colleagues were no exception when Mr. Weary came to town.

They had lined up a full day of lectures before students, a lunch with university administrators, a press conference and a big banquet in the evening.

It was my privilege to meet Mr. Weary at the press conference and found him to be very personable, friendly, most cooperative and as easy to talk with as anyone for whom you would hope.

When the opportunity presented itself at the press conference, I went to the microphone and asked him if it was a problem for Ingersoll-Rand to persuade young and promising executives in administrative positions in his company's plants and living in the smaller towns to move into the cities in order to take on new and greater responsibilities.

"Is it difficult," I asked, "to persuade them to pull up and leave places like Mayfield or Murray where they are five minutes from work can belong to the country club for $400 a year and where water skiing, fishing and boating are only minutes away. Is it hard to get them to give up all that for a new life in cities like New York, Chicago, Dallas, Atlanta and the like?"

"That's an interesting question," he replied, with a smile, the significance of which I was to later learn. "Actually, it works both ways. We first have a difficult time persuading them to leave the metropolitan areas for the smaller towns like Mayfield. They seem to think sometimes that they are being sent to the end of the earth."

"Then, after they have been in the smaller towns for a while," he went on, "we have a difficult time persuading them to leave and come back to positions of greater responsibility in the cities. Yes, it's a problem."

I had read in the Wall Street Journal that this was an increasing problem in the industrial world.

What I didn't know when I asked the question and what brought the smile to Mr. Weary's face was the fact — totally unbeknowning to me — that Nugent Sharp, the popular and affable Ingersoll-Rand plant manager at Mayfield, was being transferred to a greater managerial responsibility in a major metropolitan area about Jan. 1.

Mr. Sharp was in the audience at the press conference, which not only explained Mr. Weary's humorous reaction to my question, but also the ripple of chuckles that ran through the Murray State business people and the Ingersoll-Rand folks when I asked it. I was right on target with my question, although I didn't know it at the time. You live and learn in the news business.

Letters To The Editor

A Tribute

At our traditional Lehigh University after-game "huddle," on Saturday, Bill Leckonby, Director of Athletics, Keith Rust, President of Lehigh Alumni Association, and others remarked on the clean, hard-playing MSU team.

Perhaps some of the spectators did not wait after the game to see the Lehigh fans gather near the team to sing the meaningful Victory Song of:

"Lehigh will shine tonight,
Lehigh will shine,
When the sun goes down
and the moon comes up,
Lehigh will shine."

However, we of Lehigh have also experienced stinging defeats, particularly with our oldest rival Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. Football's most-played rivalry is between Lehigh and Lafayette who have played 115 games and, in the early days, they sometimes played two games in a season. We know the agony which accompanies defeat, particularly after a good season, and the lost game is the all-important one. In the series with Lafayette, dating

Proud Of Team

Speaking for the citizens of our fortunate community, we are proud of our Racers football team and a great coaching staff. Going into the divisional playoff weekend, the fans knew that win or lose, we have a championship team who have brought honor to Murray and the University.

Our Racers have exhibited character in both determination and discipline. We admire the open spirit of reverence which has been an integral part of their identity, and which has undoubtedly contributed to the character of the team. We are grateful for Mike Gottfried and his staff who by nature give this quality of leadership.

It has been a great season, start to finish. Has anything brought as much pleasure, interest, and excitement to life in this community in a long time? It has been fun, and a satisfied community saying "thanks, Racers!" Looking forward to next year, Walter E. Mischke, Jr.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 11, the 345th day of 1979. There are 20 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
In 1941, the United States declared war on Germany and Italy, after they had declared war on the United States.

On this date:
In 1816, Indiana became the 19th state.
In 1936, George VI became King of England upon the formal abdication of Edward VII.

In 1946, John D. Rockefeller Jr. offered to donate a six-block piece of Manhattan real estate for construction of United Nations headquarters.

In 1961, two American helicopter companies arrived in Saigon in the first direct U.S. military support for South Vietnam's battle against communist guerrillas.

In 1972, Apollo 17 astronauts landed on the moon to begin extensive exploration of the lunar surface.

Ten years ago, 75 black students were suspended from Harvard after they occupied the dean's office, faculty club and a major construction site. They had been seeking more black construction workers on campus projects.

Five years ago, New York City trimmed its payroll by 6,400 people, including 3,700 who were laid off, in a budget-cutting move.

One year ago, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance held meetings in Cairo, as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat called for active American participation in the Mideast peace process.

Today's birthdays: Activist Tom Hayden is 39. Shipping heiress Christina Onassis is 29.

Thought for today: We owe to the Middle Ages the two worst inventions of humanity — gunpowder and romantic love. — Andre Maurois (1885-1967)

The Story Of Calloway County 1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

Another large fire occurred during 1935 when the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Association storage barn burned with 714 hoghead of tobacco. Fortunately the tobacco was insured at the appraised value of the weed. The loss was not particularly devastating for the upcoming crop in the field was due to bring a measly $6.57 per hundredweight.

With old landmarks going down in the year, a new one of note was being constructed for formal opening, the Memorial Baptist Church in December, 1935. The congregation organized three years previously to the first service held in the magnificent building on Main Street at North 10th Street.

Murray Hosiery Mill was expanded and upgraded with the closing of the Paducah and Benton branches by a Paducah organization. The consolidation necessitated extensive community improvements financed by local institutions. In addition to subscriptions to underwrite the work facility, labor was asked to donate their efforts. The underwriting, subscriptions and labor were subscribed with the provision the payroll would exceed a fixed amount over a term of years before building ownership would be conveyed to the mill proprietors. The custom of wooing industry to small towns in the South by the method of underwriting the venture in part was rapidly gaining headway. The climate was more desirable in the south, cheap labor was abundant, unions less effective, and business interest more receptive by offering the conventional carrot. Murray was no exception to the rule and the success of the hosiery mill is self-evident as a headstart industrial operation in Calloway County in the depression recovery days.

Another momentous turn in the history of Calloway County occurred the first of the year when the Tennessee Valley Authority publicly announced sanctioning the site of Gilbertsville for the proposed dam across Tennessee River. For the previous two years, the only sites that had been publicly proposed were that at Aurora and at Shannon in Calloway County. For weeks the people of Calloway County were bewildered by the sudden change in sites. Many expressed disappointment by the switch. During the previous years 30,000 signatures had been obtained to a petition requesting the location at Aurora. Furthermore, a large map had been printed in the Ledger & Times indicating 1,500,000 persons within 100 miles would be greatly benefitted. The political switcheroo was obviously the result of the powerful clout of Sen. Alben Barkley and his close association with President Roosevelt in getting the dam moved down the river, closer to Sen. Barkley's hometown of Paducah.

Houston Takes 20-17 Win

Oilers Decline To Rub Steelers Noses In Turf

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, following sage advice, declined to spit into the wind or step on Superman's cape Monday night.

Having come within one second of defeating the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers, Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini politely fell on the ball for the final play of the game at the Steelers 1-yard line and the Oilers trotted into the dressing room with a 20-17 National Football League victory.

The Oilers had better sense and sportsmanship than to rub the Steeler noses in the Astroturf. "Pittsburgh is too good a team to rub their noses in a loss," Oilers Coach Bum Phillips said.

"If the touchdown would have made a difference in the division championship, we could have scored," Pastorini said. "We weren't trying to rub their faces in it."

The Oilers, who lost to the Steelers 34-5 in last season's AFC championship game and 38-7 in their first meeting this season, clearly were ready for the challenge this time.

Houston held the Steelers to four first downs in the opening half and took a 7-0 halftime lead on a 25-yard pass from Pastorini to Ken Burrough.

Houston held the Steelers to four first downs in the opening half and took a 7-0 halftime lead on a 25-yard pass from Pastorini to Ken Burrough.

Bradshaw took the blame for the loss. "I haven't been playing as well in the big games as I should," he said.

Indiana Maintains Top Spot In AP's Major College Poll

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Indiana, which drubbed Xavier of Ohio and Texas El Paso in winning the Hoosier Classic last weekend, maintained the top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll although its lead over runnerup Duke dwindled some. The Hoosiers, 3-0, received 29 first-place votes and 1,146 points out of a possible 1,200 in the balloting by the poll's 60 sports writers and broadcasters. The Blue Devils, 5-0 following easy triumphs over Princeton and East Carolina, collected 20 first-place votes and 1,132 points.

and North Carolina, 7-23. Purdue, No. 12 last week, garnered 663 points after posting three lopsided victories last week. The Boiler-makers took over the No. 9 spot from St. John's, which fell to No. 15 in this week's poll after being upset by Tennessee 97-80 last week.

Syracuse, coming off a thrilling 72-70 overtime victory over Illinois State in the Carrier Classic final last weekend, slipped into the No. 10 position. The Orangemen collected 613 points, 11 more than DePaul, which was 10th last week and now tops the Second 10.

Louisville remained in 12th position, followed by Virginia, Oregon State, St. John's, Georgetown, Iowa, Brigham Young, Missouri and Arkansas.

Missouri and Arkansas are the only newcomers to the Top 20, replacing Marquette and Kansas, No. 16 and 19 respectively last week. Marquette dropped a 63-60 decision to Michigan last weekend, while Oral Roberts and Southern Methodist each stunned Kansas.

Calloway Middles Take Wins

The Calloway County Middle School basketball teams took two wins from South Marshall Monday. The boys claimed a 37-25 win while the girls took a 37-26 triumph.

In running their record to 3-0, the boys were led by Darnell Tharpe, who netted 16 points and pulled down 5 rebounds. Mark Duncan scored 10 points and hauled in 8 caroms.

Todd Albritton added 7 points and 4 boards for the Lakers. Chris Sheridan chipped in 2 points and handed out 2 assists. Billy Collins also scored 2.

Miller was South Marshall's high scorer with 7.

In the girls action, Tammy Treas hit for 15 to pace Calloway. Teammate Cindy Anderson added 9 points and 8 rebounds.

Ginny Winchester totalled 5 and 2, respectively. Beth Hooks had 3 and 3.

The Lady Lakers held quarter leads of 6-5, 15-11 and 23-15.

Both middle school teams will be in action Jan. 11 at Trigg County.

Just a week ago, Indiana held a 28-18 advantage over Duke in first-place votes and a 20-point edge in total points.

The remainder of the Top 10 is a carbon copy of last week's poll with the exception of the No. 9 and 10 positions, which are now occupied by Purdue and Syracuse respectively.

Ohio State, with seven first-place votes and 1,051 points, remained in the No. 3 position, followed by Notre Dame, which picked up two No. 1 votes and 942 points. Kentucky grabbed the final two first-place votes and 902 points while staying in the No. 5 position.

Louisiana State, which edged intrastate rival Tulane 80-79, was sixth with 848 points followed by UCLA, 777 points,

Lady Racers Fall To SIU 83-80 On Monday

The Murray State Lady Racers fell to Southern Illinois University 83-80 Monday dropping their season record to 4-3.

Murray led at the half 36-33 and held a nine-point lead with 2:50 to go in the game.

Southern Illinois took the lead with 43 seconds left at 80-78 on a 20-foot jumper by Connie Erickson. The game was described as a "rough one" with a total of 52 fouls called on both teams and three Murray players fouling out.

MSU hit 46 percent from the field but had difficulty at the line hitting only 16 of 26 and missing seven of eight free throw attempts during a two-minute span midway through the second half.

Bridgett Wyche led the Lady Racers with 19 points and 10 rebounds. Others scoring in double figures were Laura Lynn 18, McCracken 12 and Oakley 10. Marla Kelsch added 9 points and 8 rebounds.

Lynn scored 12 of her 18 points during the second half. The Lady Racers' next encounter will be in the Holiday tournament at UT-Martin which begins Friday, Dec. 14.

SIU season record now stands at 4-4.

Murray Draws Mayfield In Paducah Tourney

Murray High will meet defending champion Mayfield in first round action of the Paducah Tilghman Christmas basketball tournament which opens at noon Thursday, Dec. 27.

Marshall County and Lone Oak will open the tournament in the first game while Heath and third-ranked Carlisle County will square off in game two at about 2:30 p.m. The Murray-Mayfield clash is set for 7 p.m. and defending tournament champion Tilghman will face Livingston Central at about 9:30 p.m.

Semi-finals will be held Friday, Dec. 28, and the championship will be played Saturday, Dec. 29.

Laker Girls Use Best Effort Of Season In 75-47 Win Over Reidland

According to Coach David Elliot, the Calloway County High School girls used their best effort of the season to thump Reidland 75-47 Monday night in Reidland.

Elliot cited his players' enthusiasm as the key to the game. Each player was "excited about playing," Elliot said.

In the effort that had Calloway total a season high 54 rebounds, Melissa Miller led the cause with 24 points and 20 rebounds. Teammate Mina Todd contributed 22 points and 13 caroms.

The Lady Lakers jumped out to a 22-7 first-quarter lead and Elliot played the entire varsity squad by intermission. Jena Hoke came off the bench to net 12 points, mostly on fast breaks. Kim Willie chipped in 9 points and pulled down 10 boards.

Penny Overbey added 4 and Angie Futrell and Lamb each scored 2.

"Miller was just outstanding and Todd, Willie and Hoke all played very well," Elliot said.

Jarvis hit for 22 for the hosts. Miller added 9, Bishop and Burnett each had 7 and Skaggs scored 2.

The Lady Lakers, 6-1, will have home games Dec. 17 and 18 against Hickman County and St. Mary's, respectively.

In the girls action, Tammy Treas hit for 15 to pace Calloway. Teammate Cindy Anderson added 9 points and 8 rebounds while Regina Thornton scored 8 and collected 13 rebounds.

McGuire Stunned After Shellacking By Kentucky

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Frank McGuire spent 16 years building up the South Carolina basketball program, and Joe Hall's Kentucky team tried to shoot it down in one night.

"That's the highest score ever made against one of my teams and the worst defeat I've ever experienced," said McGuire, a bit stunned after Monday night's 126-81 rout by fifth-ranked Kentucky.

"We tried everything, but you can't use a zone against Kentucky," McGuire added. "Kyle Macy (who scored 24 points for Kentucky) is just too good a shooter. He couldn't miss. Joe used everybody, and those guys coming off the bench are good."

The 126 points is the most ever scored by Kentucky in a home game and is exceeded only by the 143 rung up by the Wildcats in a 1956 romp over Georgia. Included among Kentucky's fancy figures Monday night was a brilliant 28-of-34 shooting from the free-throw line.

Third-ranked Ohio State and No. 11 DePaul were the only other ranked teams in action Monday night, and both were successful, as the Buckeyes beat West Virginia 72-55 and the Blue Demons defeated Texas 66-60.

Forward Jim Smith scored 17 points as Ohio State whipped West Virginia in a rough game marked by 49 fouls. The Buckeyes jumped out to an early lead and were never threatened. The Buckeyes led 33-23 at halftime, but it would have been closer had the Mountaineers shot better than their pathetic 17.6 percent.

"We just couldn't get a good shot," said Mountaineer Coach Gale Catlett. "Our shot selection was bad. We also missed too many foul shots and easy layups. We lost the game in the first half."

Mark Aguirre scored 15 of his 20 points in the second half and Teddy Grubbs added two clutch baskets down the stretch as DePaul held off Texas for Ray Meyer's 59th career coaching victory. The Blue Demons twice froze the ball in the final five minutes to protect slim leads.

Meyer said: "Texas knew that if they tried to run with us, we would bury them. So consequently, they slowed the game down to a walk and even when they trailed in the final minutes, refused to take a bad shot or lose their poise."

"What bothers me is that we are such a terrible free-throw shooting team, the worst in the last six years here. I was scared to death that if we got into the one-and-one at the end of the game, we would wind up blowing it all."

Elsewhere, Kansas trounced California State-Bakersfield 93-53 as Darnell Valentine scored 24 points and Chester Giles collected 13 rebounds. Tom Sienkiewicz scored 14 points, including two free throws with two seconds left, to lead Villanova to a 57-55 triumph over Princeton.

Nissalke Says Jazz Has More Overall Balance That Before

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Jazz Coach Tom Nissalke says his team has "more overall balance" now than it did at the start of the season.

To prove it, he points with pride to his 5-2 record since some recent key personnel adjustments, including Monday night's 100-93 triumph over Golden State.

The game was the only National Basketball Association regular-season contest of the night. In the Hall of Fame Game in Springfield, Mass., the Kansas City Kings edged the Atlanta Hawks 100-98.

Winning five of seven games may not sound impressive, but it's a considerable improvement for the Jazz, which lost 19 of its first 21 and is now 7-21.

The Jazz is still in last place in the NBA's Midwest Division, but Monday's victory, the third straight for Utah, indicates there may be brighter days ahead for Nissalke and his crew.

Three recently acquired players, Terry Furlow, Mack Calvin and Tom Boswell, were key factors in Monday's victory, coming off the bench to score 16, 11 and 10 points respectively.

But the spotlight belonged once again to Utah's Adrian Dantley, who drove, twisted and jumped his way to 39 points to lead all scorers.

Wayne Cooper was the top point producer for Golden State, with 22 points. He had help from John Lucas, who finished with 19, and 7-foot Robert Parish, who had 17.

After being down 49-47 at the half, despite a 25-point first-half show by Dantley, the Jazz came back to move ahead 70-68 after three quarters.

Furlow scored 10 of his total in the fourth period as Utah pulled away by 14 at one point before the Warriors managed to trim the margin in the final minute.

Kings 100, Hawks 98

Otis Birdsong scored on a layup and then hit a free throw with 58 seconds to go, clinching Kansas City's victory over Atlanta in the Hall of Fame exhibition game.

Birdsong's points provided the Kings with a 100-96 lead and their eventual winning points.

After Kansas City took a 52-41 halftime lead, Phil Ford key factors in Monday's victory, coming off the bench keep the Kings ahead. Steve Hawes' two free throws with 1:13 remaining brought the Hawks to within one point, at 97-96, before Birdsong sewed it up for Kansas City.

Birdsong scored 16 points overall, the same as Atlanta high-scorer, Eddie Johnson.

Gov. Brown Starts Inauguration Day With Traditional Service

By JOHN WINN MILLER
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Gov. John Y. Brown started his inauguration day with a traditional church service, at the Walnut Street Baptist Church. True to the tradition of his campaign, he was 20 minutes late.

Brown, sworn in as governor at 12:01 a.m. today in a private ceremony, listened with his wife, Phyllis George Brown, as three generations of his family participated in the pre-inaugural worship service.

John Y. Brown III read the scriptures and John Y. Brown Sr. delivered the invocation. "It is a bright sunny day," said the elder Brown, who seven times ran unsuccessfully for public office, including the governorship.

The Rev. Dr. Wayne Dehoney said in the inaugural message, "He that would be greatest among you, let him be a servant."

Dehoney quoted from the book of Matthew and told the story of how the mother of John and James asked Jesus to allow her sons to sit at his side during his kingdom.

Paraphrasing for the occasion Dehoney said, "Won't you let my sons be Secretary of State and Secretary of Commerce. It's a common story."

But Dehoney said, Jesus didn't condemn the mother's ambition for her sons. Rather he said Jesus recognized that ambition is a human trait implanted by God.

"You have the greatest opportunity to achieve greatness," Dehoney said. "Because you come to the governorship owing no man, and in debt only to God."

"But you have to learn the right measure of greatness," he said. "And greatness must be earned."

Dehoney reminded the Browns that the campaign for governor began on their wedding day. It was at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York when Dr. Norman Vincent Peale said to them, "You are two talented people,

INTERNATIONAL
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini defied the United States to blockade Iran and made a vituperative personal attack on President Carter as the outcome of the rebellion in northwest Iran against his authority remained uncertain. "We are not frightened of economic blockades. These brainless superpowers... think that now they have such power all the world, all the universe should follow them," Khomeini said Monday in response to Carter's threat of more severe economic measures against Iran if the 50 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4 are not freed.

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today that Japan might consider restricting oil imports from Iran if the U.S.-Iranian crisis worsens, "but at the present time we are not considering this possibility." Ohira was responding to criticism from a spokesman for Secretary of State Cyrus Vance who said Monday that Japanese oil companies and banks were undercutting the economic pressure the U.S. government is putting on Iran to try to force Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to free the 50 Americans held hostage in Tehran since Oct. 4.

NATIONAL
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Satcom III, a one-ton, $20 million RCA Corp. communications satellite, is lost in space after technicians fired an engine meant to send the craft into permanent orbit. "We lost the satellite and haven't found it yet," said John Williamson, a spokesman for Americom, an RCA subsidiary, in New Jersey.

The television relay satellite disappeared from Americom's New Jersey tracking screens shortly after a kick motor switched on Monday afternoon, Williamson said.

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today that Japan might consider restricting oil imports from Iran if the U.S.-Iranian crisis worsens, "but at the present time we are not considering this possibility." "For the present time, Japan must make every effort to secure the oil imports that it needs," the prime minister told reporters.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are telling the White House that chances of enacting a 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax range from slim to nonexistent.

Sources say top administration economic officials met behind closed doors Monday with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and listed the tax as one option the president is considering for his 1980 agenda.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy demonstrated further resilience in November, again confounding predictions of a downturn.

Total sales at the nation's retail stores rose 1.8 percent to $77 billion in November, wiping out October's 1.7 percent drop, the Commerce Department said Monday.

That word came on the heels of a Labor Department report showing the nation's unemployment rate fell from October's 6 percent to 5.8 percent last month.

Communitywide Prayer Service Set For Wednesday

A Communitywide Prayer Service in response to the Iranian crisis will be held Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 12 noon at the First Christian Church sanctuary, sponsored by the Murray-Calloway County Ministerial Association.

This brief service is open to the public, according to a spokesman for the group. The many facets of this situation will be under consideration and the names of the hostages and their families will be available.

Churches will rotate for additional mid-week prayer services as long as this crisis continues.

Persons are also being encouraged to send holiday greeting cards to the hostages in Iran. The address is as follows:

Hostages
United States Embassy
260 Takhte Janshid
Tehran, Iran.

The local postmaster, Virgil Gillam, said the postage cost for the card will be 31 cents for an airmail stamp for 1/2 ounce. He said an ordinary card would not weigh more than this amount.
