VOLUME VII. NO. 152.

MAYFIELD, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 4, 1907.

THOROUGHLY DEMOCRATIC

FISCAL COURT

After Being in Session Three Days Adjourns Sine Die.

ITS WORK TRANSACTED.

Fiscal court met Wednesday morning at 10 a. m. for the transaction of further business. A telegram was received from Louisville asking an appropriation to the Jamestown exposition, but on this no action was taken.

Justice Monroe, asked that the road contracts be brought up and an inquiry made as to why certain bids on road work were rejected and given to another at a higher price.

City Attorney Holifield asked the fiscal court to brick the county's part on Broadway in the city in front of the court house. He insisted that it was the county's duty to do this as the city was going to brick the same street this year.

A motion was made by Justice Garnett, but it was lost 3 to 3.

He asked that the county build a sewer on North 7th street from the city limits to the cemetery, and the committee consisting of Owsley, Monroe and Hendon were appointed to examine into the necessity of the request.

Monroe, made a motion that the county stop paying for coal and lights for the county officials at the court house. County Attorney Weeks said the county should pay for the coal. The motion to discontinue paying these expenses was lost by a vote of 4 to 3.

A motion was made by Justice Monroe that each officer at the court house pay for his own lights, but no second was made to this motion. Justice Caldwell made a motion that the court house be lighted and that the county pay the expenses of it. This motion was carried by 5 to 3.

Justice Monroe made an able talk against the extravagant manner in which the finances of the county are being conducted, saying that expenses are increasing and that at this rate the county will never get out of debt.

A bill for new furniture, fixtures, etc., in the circuit clerk's office amounting to $595.62 was allowed.

Another bill for like fixtures for the county clerk's office was allowed, amounting to $934.96.

A bill for the same character of fixtures for the county judge's office was allowed amounting to $326.43.

J. P. Long, for work, $1.25.

John Davis was allowed to tap the county sewer at a mainhole in the eastern part of town with the sewer from his residence.

Mr. Monroe claimed that an understanding ought to be made between the county and individuals before other connections were made to the county sewer. After discussing the matter a few minutes Mr. Davis' request was granted.

A claim of $181.70 was allowed and recommended O. B. Crossland for official services at the present term of the circuit court as the official stenographer.

It was decided by the court that the county would not assist in building the sewer from the city limits to the cemetery.

Upon reconsideration, the court voted that the county would pay its part for bricking the street in front of the court house and to this end, the county judge appointed Garnett, Owsley and Weeks as a committee to confer with the city in bricking the street.

L. H. Homes was allowed $77.53 for lumber and for building a bridge in district No. 4 on the Kirksey and Farmington road.

Sheriff W. L. Brand presented an account for $608.54 for fees and others work done for the various courts. Monroe objected and asked that $128 be stricken from the account. But after the usual discussion, it was finally decided that only $30 be stricken which was for work done in waiting on the Board of Supervisors. The claim then was allowed amounting to $578.54.

S. T. Hubbard was allowed $9 for a pauper coffin.

County Superintendent was allowed $550 for six months salary and $25 for postage for six months.

County Attorney Weeks was allowed $400 for six months and County Judge $450 for six months.

There was some discussion as to why the minutes of the October meeting of the fiscal court had not been published, when county clerk Coulter reported that they had been in the hands of the printer since March 23, but so far had not been published.

A committee was appointed to confer with the committee from Hickman county as to the keeping up the roads and bridges between the two counties.

Court met Thursday morning with Road Supervisor Pinson before it to explain why he gave a contract to Jeffrey and Houseman to work on the roads instead of J. M. Gossett, at $2.21 less.

Mr. Pinson said he did what he thought was best under the circumstances and according to his information, and that he had no apology to offer for giving the contract to Mr. Jeffrey; that so far as favoritism was concerned, there was none of that in it.

Justice Monroe raised the point of order that all things being equal, such contracts should be let to the lowest bidder. County Judge Crossland said the business had been attended to according to law and the rules governing contracts, and that there was nothing further to it, and the matter was dropped.

The court visited the Poor House Wednesday evening and found everything in good condition and was well pleased at its management and attention.

Carter Hardware company was allowed a balance on an account of $112.23.

E. L. Garnett was allowed $15 for acting as Poor House commissioner.

Fifteen dollars was allowed Gus Thomas for three months rent of the supervisor's office.

The county continued its contract with the Home Telephone company for the public offices at the rate of $1 per month.

$25 was allowed the trustees of the Farmington court house for the use of the court house in holding magistrates courts.

$10 was allowed R. H. Evans, of Farmington, for pauper coffin.

Phone 127 or 12, the People's Grocery for all kinds of meats.

RECEPTION TO FRIENDS

Given in Commemoration of Their Marriage Ten Years Ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hatcher celebrated their tin-wedding anniversary last night at the hospitable home of Esq. Frank Metcalfe and wife. Several friends of the couple were invited to be present at their tenth anniversary, and many and useful were the articles bestowed upon Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher. There was good cheer prevalent among the guests and merriment prevailed among them. At 9:30 o'clock, they were invited into the dining room, where an elegant feast was spread. It consisted of everything possible in the way of genuine solid edibles, and was the cause of much happiness, such as can only delight lovers of good things to eat.

Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McGory, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bolinger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hatcher, Mrs. Edna Mahan, Miss Lou Hughes, Mrs. Fannie George and daughter Nannie, Mrs. T. O. Kirksey and daughter Georgia and Master Err Hughes.

Temporary Halt at The Woolen Mills

The machinery of the Old Woolen Mills was compelled to cease running Wednesday on account of some derangement of the engine which furnishes the power to operate the mammoth amount of machinery. It has not been in operation today, but it is thought that the defect will be remedied so that the hum of the wheels may be heard tomorrow. Quite a number of people are thrown out of employment when this huge manufacturing plant is shut down.

Tobacco Trust Back on Market.

Louisville, Ky., April 4.—The American Tobacco Company has again got back on the local tobacco market.

co market, after an absence of over a month, and is now buying freely of Burley leaf of all grades. No explanation of the withdrawal of the Trust for so long a time has been given, but I. P. Barnard this morning said that all the warehouses were well pleased with the sales which were being made to the big company. It is believed that the depression in wall street caused the trust to delay buying until later.

McElya retired early. He had no sooner gotten securely tucked under the linen than a body wriggled out from under the bed. It stood erect and a man of, perhaps, 175 pounds, with black moustache and widely separated teeth, stood over him.

Without ceremony the burglar began to beat the frightened farmer with a heavy stick. McElya was made to divulge the hiding place of his money, and after securing $140 the burglar beat a hasty retreat.

Judge Anderson Kills a Snake

Judge L. B. Anderson was not in search of reptiles today but he run across one just the same while enroute to his home on College street. The snake was coiled up in a "striking" attitude and as the judge is somewhat of a striking man himself, he immediately prepared for battle, and of course came out victorious but not before his nerves had been shattered and his rosy colored face turned to a very pale green.

Judge failed in the first strike to land a knockout blow but, after securing another heavier blow, he connected with the poisonous reptile and the fire was soon out and the victor strutted off like he had won a great political victory.

TO THE VOTERS

Of the First Ward of Mayfield Kentucky.

I am very sorry my circumstances have been such that I have been able to see so few of you, yet I have seen a great many of you. You are aware I am in the grocery business and could not leave my business to mix about as much as I wanted to, and should have done, as I would love to have met you and enjoyed a hearty handshake with every voter in the ward. I hope all of those whom I did not see will go to the polls and vote for old man Grundy McGee, and that we may yet shake hands in victory.

I desire to say to those who vote for me, that I will certainly appreciate your assistance in making me councilman from the first ward. If I am elected, I assure you I will do all I can for the best interest of the city in every way possible. Vote for me in the primary and you will never regret it.

Yours,
H. H. MCGEE.

TOBACCO MARKET

Strong and Active on the Mayfield Market.

The tobacco market in Mayfield has been strong and active, during the present week, over 250 hogsheads were sold on the breaks at good prices. The lugs bringing from $4.50 to $7, and the leaf from $7 1/2 to $9 1/2.

The prices of tobacco on the streets are higher now than they are in the ware houses. This is something very remarkable, as they are higher in that way, than they have been for many years.

Millions of pounds of the association tobacco is being brought in and being prized and will be put on the market earlier this year than last. The prices are good and strong and those who are in the association may expect soon to have their pockets full of money.

The Time to Shake Hands

By W. A. Lampton

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"You are very persistent, Mr. Ingram," said Miss Prentice, petulantly. "Haven't I a right to be?" retorted the man by her side. "Haven't you promised to marry me?"

She looked at him out of the corner of her eye as a coquettish canary might look through the bars of its golden cage.

"Possibly," she said, rising. "I'll look over my list and see."

She took from a desk a small memorandum book bound in soft gray leather. Ingram saw on its cover in silver script the word "engagements."

He gasped. He believed that Miss Prentice was a coquette, but he scarcely thought she would carry it this far. It was simply malice aforethought—cold blooded, premeditated method. His mind was so fixed upon one engagement that he forgot there were others.

The book was one of those small indexed affairs most women keep, and Ingram's eyes followed Miss Prentice's pretty finger as it ran down the letters to "I." She turned to the page indicated and scanned it for a moment.

"I don't find it here," she said, looking at him as if she had pinned him to a mistake.

"Do you find any others?" he asked sarcastically.

"Oh, yes, quite a number," she said, "I see them," he commanded.

There was no future note in his voice and the lines in his face were hard. She smiled and quite ignored the hand extended to receive the book.

"I shall do nothing of the kind," she responded with spirit. "These are my private papers and you have not yet the right to inspect them."

There was an accent on the "yet" which might or might not be significant, but Ingram missed the force of it.

"Oh, Katherine," he groaned, as his hand fell.

"I said 'not yet,'" she added, softening, seeing that she might provoke too far.

"Please let me see them now," he begged.

"Will you promise not to scold if I do?"

"Is there any reason why I should scold, dear?" he asked, with the tenderness that lies half way between hope and despair, ready to burn or to freeze.

"Of course there isn't. But you men are so queer about some things."

"What, for example?"

"Well, our engagements, for one," she hesitated.

"But how many engagements are you entitled to?" he said, with indecision trembling on every word.

Miss Prentice was very pretty, very winsome, very exasperating.

"As many as we care to make, of course," she answered, boldly.

Ingram shut his jaws down tight. She was hurting him sorely. He was, perhaps, over sensitive for a man who had known as many women as he had.

"Let me see the book," he said, dulled to unreasoning obstinacy.

"Oh, very well, if you insist."

She gave the book to him. He held it in his hand a moment, looking at the silver lettered word on its cover. What secrets might be locked within its leather lids he did not know. He did not want to know, yet he must.

She smiled, watching him hesitant with it in his hands. He could have struck her in the face with it. He knew she was measuring his weakness. A strong man would have given it back to her unopened, but Ingram was incapable. Jealousy overmastered justice to himself and to her. He did not dare to look fairly at the woman before him, and slowly opened the book.

"I forget sometimes that hearts are tender and words are swords to pierce them. I was only playing, dear. Forgive me."

A half hour later he left the house, and at his club he met Will Forrest.

He was feeling wondrous kind to all the world and asked Forrest to join him in a high-ball. In his ordinary mood he hated Forrest as one rival hates another, and would not have taken a drink with him except in a crowd.

Forrest appeared to be in an amiable mood also, and the two men sought a table in a quiet corner.

"Congratulations, old chap," said Forrest, when the mellow yellow current that flowed between them had swept their feelings close together.

"Only too glad," responded Ingram, unflinchingly. "What's the object?"

"On my engagement, of course."

"Sure, old man. Here's the best I've got, and many happy returns. I'm always glad to see you. I'm going to try to myself. Congratulations!"

Forrest emptied his glass and called for a replenishing. It was in the nature of a hurry call. Hearts were strenuous now.

"Good enough. Hurrah for both of us," laughed Forrest. "When do you depart from the error. My time isn't set yet."

"Nor mine. I haven't had much experience in that line and I suppose it is up to the lady to say when, isn't it?"

"Of course, of course," was Forrest's corroborative comment. "Have another high-ball?"

"It's my turn," insisted Ingram. "Have one on me?"

"All right, all right, old chap. What's the price of a drink between friends?"

They were at the point when men say things which they don't remember, or wish they could forget, if they do.

"Say," ventured Ingram, when the question of precedence had been satisfactorily settled, "who's the lady?"

In the excitement I quite forgot a lady was a necessary adjunct of an engagement. I've had so little real experience, don't you know. Before this time all mine's been superficial."

"Here, too. But your remark reminds me that the lady in my case is Miss Katherine Prentice, the loveliest woman that ever—"

Ingram sprang unsteadily to his feet and held up his hand in warning.

"Stop there," he said, almost in a whisper, which was all menace. "You are a d—d liar—pardon me." He caught himself hastily and became calmer.

"Miss Prentice is engaged to me," he finished stultically.

What might have happened at this unexpected juncture did not, because at the critical moment which would have been physical rather than psychological, a third man, Henry Vance, came up to the table.

Forrest restrained the rising tumults within them. They had sobered. They greeted the new comer, but did not ask him to remain. Vance took the initiative.

"Don't be going yet, Ingram," he said, taking a chair. "Sit down again, for a few minutes, at least. I have something to say to both of you, and I'm fortunate in finding you together in this quiet corner."

"Thank you, no, I must be going," said Ingram, with an effort to be polite.

Forrest rose as if to go with him.

"Here, now, I insist upon your staying," urged Vance, in the positive manner of a friend who could disregard ceremony. "It is important that both of you should hear what I have to say. So sit down and listen. Then you may pack yourselves off if you are dissatisfied."

The two men sat down, but with extremely bad grace, as Vance could see, but his own business was of more importance to him.

"Thanks," he said, looking from one to the other. "And now to the object of the meeting. I am to be married to-morrow morning at ten o'clock and I want you two old friends to stand by me to the finish. You know, of course, that Miss Prentice and I have been engaged for some time, and yesterday she received a letter from her mother in London to come over by the next steamer. We had a little talk this afternoon and concluded that the best thing we could do was to marry and go over together as a slight surprise to Mamma Prentice who wasn't expecting it for three months. That's the story. Now are you with me?"

Forrest looked earnestly across the table at Ingram. Ingram returned the look. Each man gave a pull at his collar as though it were choking him. Then they arose and shook hands with each other fervently. After which they shook hands with the man who had asked them to stand by him to the finish. Vance wondered why they had not shaken hands with him first, but he asked no questions. He was too selfishly happy to want to know what other people's troubles were. Or their pleasures, for that matter.

Why He Recalled It.

HARKER ACTED IN HASTE.

Man Who Came to "Start Something" Was All Right.

Harker was in a fierce humor the other morning when the front door opened and in walked a stranger unannounced.

"I came," began the stranger, taking off his coat and rolling up his sleeves.

"What!" thundered Harker. "You didn't come in here to start anything, did you?"

"I did," replied the stranger, coolly, "I—"

But he got no further. With a savage whoop Harker grabbed the intruder around the waist and deposited him on the sidewalk. Two hours later his wife returned.

"William," said she, "was there anyone here during my absence?"

"Yes," snorted Harker, "there was some lunatic here who said he came to start something, but I just bundled him out on the sidewalk before he had time to make a move."

"William, you are the biggest goose in town!"

"What was that?"

"Why, the man came to start the clock that hasn't been running for a week. He is a clocksmith."

MADE HIS MEANING PLAIN.

Indian's Answer a Real Triumph of Quiet Sarcasm.

George Vaux, Jr., of Philadelphia, has been appointed a member of the board of Indian commissioners. Mr. Vaux told a reporter the other day an Indian story.

"There was a certain commissioner," he said, "who treated the Indians with rude scorn. One day a chief entertained this man in his tepee, telling him over the tobacco many quaint legends."

"One legend concerned a plague of grasshoppers. The chief told eloquently how grasshoppers overran the land, eating the grain, and how the medicine men averted a famine by offering a silver grasshopper to the Great Spirit, whereupon all that deluge of grasshoppers disappeared."

"But the commissioner scoffed at the tale."

"Are you Indians such fools," he said, "as to believe such rubbish?"

"O, no," said the chief, gravely, "we'd long ago have offered the Great Spirit a silver pale face!"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Korean Women Advance.

The Korean Ladies' club held a meeting a short time ago at which it was suggested that changes should be attempted in the dress of the Korean women, that the matter of education should be held in abeyance for a time, but that special efforts should be made along the line of life insurance, so as to protect the interests of women in case of the death of the husband.—Korean Daily News.

Mother Finds a Food for Grown-Ups and Children as Well.

Food that can be eaten with relish and benefit by the children as well as the older members of the family, makes a pleasant household commodity.

Such a food is Grape-Nuts. It not only agrees with and builds up children, but older persons who, from bad habits of eating, have become dyspeptic.

A Philadelphia lady, after being benefited herself persuaded her husband to try Grape-Nuts for stomach trouble. She writes:

"About eight years ago I had a severe attack of congestion of stomach and bowels. From that time on, I had to be careful about eating, as nearly every kind of food then known to me, seemed to cause pain."

"Four years ago I commenced to use Grape-Nuts. I grew stronger and better, and from that time I seldom have been without it; have gained in health and strength and am now heavier than I ever was."

"My husband was also in a bad condition—his stomach became so weak that he could eat hardly anything with comfort. I got him to try Grape-Nuts, and he soon found his stomach trouble had disappeared."

"My girl and boy, 8 and 9 years old, do not want anything else for breakfast but Grape-Nuts, and more healthy children cannot be found." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little booklet, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Worth Knowing About.

If you need a first-class laxative, there is nothing better nor safer than that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills. Each pill contains one grain of solid extract of sarsaparilla, which, with other valuable vegetable products, make it a blood purifier of excellent character. If you are troubled with constipation, one pill at night will afford great relief.

Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century, and are for sale everywhere, either plain or sugar-coated.

The average man dislikes to give up his seat in a crowded car to a woman because he is afraid she will think he is trying to flirt with her.

GENERAL BREAKDOWN

A Condition Which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the Great Blood Tonic, Have Been Curing for Years.

There is no more perplexing trouble for a physician to treat than debility cases, especially in women, in which there is no acute disease but in which the patient every day sinks lower and lower despite changes of medicine and similar experiments.

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with restore health under these conditions is no speculation but the fact has been proved in hundreds of cases similar to that of Mrs. Sarah Ramsey, of 1008 St. John St., Litchfield, Ill. She says:

"I never felt well after my first child was born. I had a gnawing pain in my stomach and could not hold any food down. My head ached a great deal and sometimes the pain went all through my body. I had dizzy spells so that I could not stand and seemed to be half blinded with pain. These spells would often last for over an hour. My blood seemed to be in a very poor condition and my hands and feet were like ice. I seemed to be growing weaker and weaker and could not get around to do my work in the house. I was extremely nervous and the least excitement would bring on a dizzy spell."

"For a number of years I was under a doctor's care but seemed to get no better. I had heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I began to take them. I soon felt better and gained in weight and strength. My nerves are strong now and I am a well woman in every way."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet of valuable information, entitled "Plain Talks to Women," sent free on request.

HAD PLAYED GAME BEFORE.

Little Clarence and Gwendoline Astonished Whist Club.

The Friday afternoon whist club had assembled at the home of one of its leading spirits when it was discovered that two members were absent, and therefore there were two hands short. The ladies were in a quandary till the hostess announced that her two children—Clarence, aged 11, and Gwendoline, aged 13—had picked up a little knowledge of the game from watching their elders.

She suggested that as it wouldn't do to call the game off after so many had taken the trouble to come, and as she could think of no other way to get two substitute hands, the two children would at least help to fill out the tables—that is, if everyone was perfectly agreeable.

"Just the thing!" declared all the ladies in chorus. The hostess was urged to bring them in at once, everyone would be just delighted.

Clarence and Gwendoline were duly summoned and introduced. They took their seats modestly, the ladies promised to assist them on knotty points, and the game commenced. There were two prizes offered and both were of considerable value. Every woman present made up her mind to have one of those prizes at any cost. The game was entered into with abandon and no quarter was shown to anyone.

So far from needing any assistance Clarence and Gwendoline seemed to hold their own pretty well. In fact, they seemed so perfectly at home that when in the stress of excitement a member failed to adhere strictly to the rules Clarence would call attention to the error gravely and Gwendoline with ladylike dignity. The upshot of the game was that when the afternoon was over and the final count was made Gwendoline and Clarence were in the possession of both prizes.

The ladies took leave of their hosts in a body with profuse thanks for the pleasant afternoon, all declaring they had had just the loveliest time, and she had been so sweet to them all, they really must thank her again.

But as the door closed after the last smile and goodbye, there was an ominous silence in the ranks of the Friday afternoon whist club.

"How nice to have children who can play whist so well," said one lady sweetly, with a small gleam in her eye.

"Isn't it?" agreed another. "It must be so nice to be able to buy lovely prizes and then keep them in the family!"

And there was scarcely any sarcasm in her voice at all.

Something Like Jumping.
The best story of a horse's jumps which comes to mind is that of a California cowboy. He was taking steers to Leadville, and had camped for the night on Bear River, near its confluence with the Little Snake. In the middle of the night something occurred to stampede the cattle. The man mounted his bronco and rode hither and thither on the flank of the herd until their fright had died away. Four, or five times the rider felt his horse give tremendous leaps, and with daylight he discovered the cause.

The cattle had climbed to a level plateau which is intersected by a canyon four miles long and from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep. Its walls incline toward each other at the top, where the distance is 15 or 20 feet. In riding the man had kept the steers circling about this plateau. A dozen of them he found had fallen down the canon and been killed.

Hoof marks showed him that the great jumps made by his horse were occasioned by the animal's clearing the canyon each time it came to the taking off spot.

Vaseline as a Hair Grower.
Plain vaseline, the yellow product, rubbed into the scalp nightly or several times a week will prevent your hair from coming out and also induce a new growth. It is not a new remedy, but the petroleum has a wonderful effect on the growth of the hair. Many of the Irish girls who come to this country with such fine heads of hair owe the growth to kerosene, which is a favorite remedy for strengthening the hair follicles but Ireland. But as that is unpleasant to use, the vaseline comes next in order, possessing much the same properties.

Her Position.
"Do you think your latest matrimonial venture will be for the better or the worse?"
"I can't say," answered the sensational actress with a look of resignation. "Everything is now in the hands of my press agent."

"Not for me, thank you. It simply shows how poor her father must be," Pittsburgh Ledger.

Wiseman—Noah, very probably.

HOW MUCH FERTILIZER TO APPLY.

The question, "How much fertilizer should be used per acre?" cannot be answered definitely, but only in a general way. It is sometimes put in this form: "What is the most profitable amount that may be applied per acre?" Neither can the question in the amended form be exactly and accurately answered. The soil, its character, condition, preparation, etc., may be well known, or controllable factors, but we know not what the seasons may be, says Hon. R. J. Redding, Director Georgia Experiment Station, Department of Agriculture, in the Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer Almanac.

We know that some crops will bear larger amounts of fertilizers with reasonable assurance of profitable returns than may be expected of other crops. A crop that occupies the soil from the fall season until spring, or early summer, will bear heavier fertilizing than will a crop that is planted in the spring and ripens for harvest in midsummer. Trop of case is illustrated by oats, wheat, or other small grain, or grass, especially when sown in the fall of the year. Such crops occupy the soil during the late fall and winter, and early spring—during which periods the rains are usually abundant, ripening for harvest in late spring, or very early summer, before the burning sun, heat and possible drought of June and July. Oats and wheat therefore are ideal crops for heavy fertilizing.

Corn is rather an unexcelled crop of the ordinary dry uplands of the South. It has a short season, and ripens in the middle of June and July. Corn is a crop that is approaching, and for some time after it is passed, the crops may prove a greater or less failure. There can be no second effort, no second period of blooming.

It is different in the case of cotton, which commences to bloom and make fruit in June (or even earlier) and continues throughout the summer until checked by a severe frost in November. It has a number of "chances." Cotton is there another ideal crop for liberal fertilizing. A small amount of fertilizers applied per acre will no doubt yield a larger percentage profit on its cost than will a larger amount. To illustrate: An application of $2 worth of fertilizer per acre may cause an increased yield of cotton (at 10 cents per pound) of the value of $5 to $8, or a profit of 250 to 300 per cent. on its cost. I have frequently had such results. But it does not follow that the heavier the application will produce twice as large results, or that three times as much would cause three times as large an increase in the yield. In other words, the rate of increase in the yield of cotton will not be in proportion to the increase in the amount of fertilizers applied. Two dollars' worth of fertilizer per acre may yield an increase in the crop of 65; but $3 worth would not therefore bring an increase of $18.

But careful observation has shown that an application of $5 to $8 worth of fertilizer (properly chosen) is a safe amount to apply per acre on cotton. Farmers in Georgia have secured satisfactory returns from an application of so much as 800 pounds per acre.

I think 600 pounds a perfectly safe limit on upland the soil of the South, well prepared and properly cultivated in cotton. For corn, I would limit the amount to 200 to 300 pounds per acre on old uplands.

Cultivating Belladonna.

A manufacturing firm has a 15-acre belladonna garden in operation near New Brunswick. The firm is successful as far as the production of a pure drug is concerned, but it is not yet profitable enough financially to make many farmers abandon their garden truck and take to cultivating the deadly nightshade.—Country Life in America.

It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health, and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

The fight is now on between President Roosevelt and Mr. Harriman, the head of the railroad syndicates of the United States. Every day almost reveals more and more of the corruption of the republican leaders. The exposure of the business affairs of almost every trust shows that they have contributed money to the corruption fund of the republican party. These great sums of money are revealing new things to the people and show very plainly why the democratic party has been kept out of national power. These great trusts, of course, contribute to the party that is friendly to their way of robbing the people.

The fiscal court did a wise thing in ordering its part of the street in front of the court house bricked during this year, in connection with that of the city. No better money could be spent than this, as the people of the entire county, as well as the city, will enjoy its benefits and at the same time it will cost the county less than at any other time.

THERE seems to be some friction between some of the magistrates in the financial policy of the county. Some believe one way and some another. As to whether this friction will become strong enough to test the law in some matters of expenditures, we are at present unable to tell.

A Helping Hand

Is Gladly Extended a Mayfield Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Mayfield prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence, and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

Charles Bengal, well-known baker of North 5th St., Mayfield says: "I was subject to attacks of backache and kidney complaint for five or six years. At night my back troubled me the most and often I could not lie on it because of the dull aching and in the morning it was so lame and sore that it was a hard matter for me to dress myself. There was also a kidney weakness which was very annoying at times I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in our paper any got a box at Evans & Covington's drug store. I noticed beneficial effects after taking the first four doses and continued taking them until I had finished the box, when all symptoms of kidney trouble had disappeared. The least I can do in return is to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated remedies. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the closest scrutiny. Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, bear upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled containing numerous standard medical works, of all the different kinds of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Stoney Ferguson Indicted.

An indictment was returned this week against Stoney Ferguson by the grand jury which is now in session in Paducah. The indictment charges him with the wilful murder of Gus Morris in Paducah several weeks ago.

Ferguson has never been captured and it is claimed that the Paducah officials are informed as to his whereabouts and it is understood that a requisition has been asked for in order to secure him when arrested.

It might be well to suggest that the fact that no reward was ever offered caused the delay in his arrest. These big rewards make "business" pick up wonderfully.

Salesmen Wanted.

Three salesmen for our new county, township and railroad surveys of Kentucky. These surveys are a splendid compilation of facts, figures, and drawings and of wonderful value Counties and towns are fully indexed and populations of each are given; railroads plainly shown and distances between all stations also shown; congressional districts outlined and numbered. A splendid opportunity for energetic men.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, it has pleased our all-wise Divine Father, to call from our camp a neighbor in the prime of his life to the reward that awaits a well spent life. Now be it

Resolved, That in the death of our neighbor, Ernest Thompson, Water Valley Camp No. 11659, M. W. A., has lost one of her faithful and true members; the community an honest, Christian boy; his wife a kind and loving husband; his father and mother a true, obedient son. Now be it Resolved, That we, as Modern Woodmen of America, extend to the family and friends our deepest sympathy; that we commend them in their bereavement to the communion and care of Him who hath given and taken away, and who promised that he would not leave them comfortless.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of this camp, a copy sent to the bereaved family and a copy sent the Messenger.
