FUNNY FESTIVAL FACTS: The marimba band arrived at the Illinois Central Station Tuesday afternoon. It is another group of musicians than the ones who have been coming here for the past several years. They differ only in their identities. Their dedication to their music is the same.

Shortly after they got off the train thunderstorm clouds were gathering. I was working with Don Walker and Wilson Woolley of the Courier-Journal trying to meet a deadline and to get some Festival pictures too.

The three of us walked that long ramp to where the musicians were unloading. They were guarding their instruments as they were unloaded with the same care that Brink's guards a million-dollar payroll.

Well, in broken English and Spanish, too, I tried to tell them we wanted a picture of them playing their "thing" right there at the station. I got through to them and they quickly "undressed" the huge instruments.

In no time at all they started beating out the "Stars and Stripes Forever." Wilson Woolley, the photographer clicked out a dozen shots or more and that was it.

So the picture incident was all over. I motioned to them that they could stop playing, because by now it had started to rain.

But the band played on.

Soon, the train was pulling out of the station and the whistle started howling in farewell to the marimba.

But the band played on. They never even looked around.

I told Florence Ballesteros, who was there to greet them, to tell them to stop playing because they had to load the instruments on a van.

But the band played on.

She told them in fluent Spanish to stop playing.

But the band played on.

By this time we were drenched, and I do mean drenched.

But the band played on. The "Stars and Stripes Forever," never had more emphasis on the "forever."

I wanted to leave, but felt that I couldn't walk away on such a touching performance when I had asked them to play.

The harder it rained, the harder they beat on the instruments, and that guy with the guitar, kept plunking away with such fervor that as the rain hit the mahogany, along come a determined string that beat the raindrops right into our faces.

It was a riot, but the band played on.

In a frenzy I walked over to the gent who is their interpreter and asked him to intercede for us. "Tell them," I said, "that we only wanted them to play a few bars for picture-taking. They can stop playing now." It was a down-pour by now!

The interpreter seemed a little shocked that I should ask them to stop playing such a patriotic song, and then I caught on.

To tell you the truth, with the rain beating down us, the train whistle blowing and Florence, Wilson and I screaming at them to stop playing, I didn't hear what the tune was.

And still the band played on! Finally I left. I had stars in my eyes, rain stripes on my body, and pneumonia forever.

And that's the way it's going to be from now until Saturday night. These men just stand there beating on those huge sound boxes grinning at us, while we breath our last breath trying to skip that last fantastic until they stop playing . . .

But the band plays on.

Hasta La Vista . . . whatever that means.

My sister Mary Gregg is here from Clarksdale to help me with the two lovely young ladies we have in our home from Ecuador. Mary is keeping them well fed and entertained.

Monday night I asked her to take the girls to the show while we worked on the Shopper. The movie was some kind of a gruesome vehicle called "The Oblong Box." It was gory with blood and frightening with suspense.

Well, on the way home from the movie the girls were talking about it excitedly, in Spanish, and kept looking at Mary as they drove home.

Mary speaks nor understands a word of Spanish. You can imagine what she thought, especially since she also saw "In Cold Blood." She's been having nightmares ever since.

Dr. Pirky To Bring Greetings To Twin Cities

Dr. Will Pirky is an internationally famous surgeon.

He is in demand for speaking engagements for his profession and for events involved with the National Association for the Partners of the Alliance.

Dr. Pirky has revised his busy schedule to be in attendance at the Inter-American Music Fiesta and the full day of activities on Friday. He will bring a message from the North and South American continents commending the efforts of the twin cities to create a warm climate of friendship between the two continents.

Dr. Pirky will arrive in Fulton late Thursday afternoon and join other high-ranking officials of other Partners groups in America and Latin-America.

Dr. Will Pirky, Denver Otolaryngologist and Surgeon, was elected President of the Partners' National Association at the March, 1969, meeting of the Executive Committee. He was formerly Chairman of the Colorado Partnership with Minas Gerais, Brazil.

Dr. Pirky is Professor Affiliate of Speech Pathology and Audiology at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, and Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery in Otolaryngology, University of Colorado School of Medicine.

He was a Special Fellow of Head and Neck Surgery, Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City; past President of the Colorado Otolaryngological Society; Vice President of the Denver Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and past Board Member and Vice President, Colorado Hearing Society.

Dr. Pirky holds B. A. and M. D. degrees from the University of Texas, plus a Master of Medical Science degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He and Mrs. Pirky have 3 sons and 1 daughter.

The Bells Toll Again For Trinity Episcopal Church

Members of the Trinity Episcopal Church are once more being called to worship by the ringing of its historic bell. In the former church building on Washington street the bell, cast in 1882, had a belfry but when the church in 1959 was moved to its present location the modern building on Vine Street there was no belfry and the bell was silenced.

Now the bell, in a distinctive supporting structure of iron, has been placed on the church lawn. The supporting structure is in a design of three harmonious interdependent circles symbolizing the Holy Trinity from which the church takes its name. Edmond Khourie, who while still a boy in the old church had assumed the ringing of the bell as one of his regular duties, is again the one who rings it.

The bell in its new frame, when dedicated will bear a dual dedication: Erected in loving memory of Lola Homra, designed by Clay Platt and made by T. J. Easterwood in memory of the Rev. John W. Platt.

Ed Hailey of Turner's Pure Milk Company reflects the mood of the entire community as he relishes the delicious taste of a Cabana banana before he starts the giant task of making a one-ton banana pudding to feed 10,000 persons on Saturday after the parade. The milk company, one of the area's most ardent Festival supporters, has been making the delicious dessert for the past seven years.

B&PW Club Hears Visitors From Ecuador

The Fulton-South Fulton B&PW Club met for its monthly meeting Tuesday night at the Holiday Inn. After a business session conducted by the president, Anna Lou Caldwell, Program Chairman, Zuaneta Phelps introduced Florence Ballesteros, speaker for the evening. Mrs. Ballesteros gave a very interesting talk on the "Role of Women in Ecuador". This is a topic very near to the heart of every woman, to learn about women in other countries other than their own. She also told about the changes in their way of life that have taken place in the last twenty-five years that she has lived there.

Due to the weather, the attendance was below average, but those who came were well rewarded.

Anna Lou gave a report of her trip to the State Board of Directors meeting in Lexington on August 23 and 24. It was also announced that fall roundup will be at Mammoth Cave on Oct. 11-12. National Business Club week is Oct. 19-25.

Hostesses for the evening were Jetta Speight, Chairman Willette Kearney and Mary Moss Hales.

WINS AGAIN!
Elaine Forrester, riding Sun-Up Seven Come Eleven, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Nicky Forrester, won first place ribbon in the Amateur Class at the Obion County Fair Horse Show Monday night.

Donkey Ball Game Planned By Jaycees

Tuesday night, September 9 at 7:30 one of the funniest, most entertaining acts in the country will be in Fulton for a performance. Under the sponsorship of the Fulton Jaycees, Godfrey's Donkeys will come to town for a Donkey Ball Softball game.

Not only are the Jaycees sponsoring the game, but they will also serve as participants in the contest. Their opponents will be one of the local Explorer Posts, Post #42.

This will be an entertaining event for the entire family. Tickets are now on sale by the Jaycees and the explorers. Cost of the tickets is only $1.00 for adults and fifty cents for children under twelve.

The event will take place at 7:30, September 9 at the old Kitty League Park in Fulton. Tickets will be on sale at the gate. Cold drinks and snacks will be on sale at the concession stand which will be operated by the Fulton Jaycees.

ART EXHIBIT
There will be an art exhibit at the Hickman Public Library from September 1st through September 13, 1969 by local artist Margaret Lawson.

Legion Sponsor

The Bake-Off is being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, with Mrs. Paul Hornbeak and Mrs. Joe Holland serving as co-chairmen of the event.

Lionel Hampton, the internationally famous musician will give a "sneak preview," of his performance at the big tent in Kitty League Park on Friday afternoon at two p. m.

There will be cash door prizes for persons attending the program, and the students of Fulton and South Fulton will have an opportunity to get some handsome cash prizes for their class projects or homecoming queen candidates.

And what's more the whole program is FREE!

Mr. Hampton, brought to the Banana Festival under the auspices of the Kentucky Arts Commission, has advised the Banana Festival officials that he wants to do something extra for the people of the twin cities. His FREE concert at Kitty League Park is just one of the several events in which he will participate while here.

In addition to Lionel Hampton the program will feature music by the marimba band and the Navy Band of Millington, Tenn., the Amigos in full costume and an address of welcome from Dr. Will Pirky, president of the National Partners of the Alliance.

Two cash door prizes of $25 each will be awarded to any person attending the program. Free tickets may be secured at the Fulton News, the Banana Festival office, The Fulton Daily Leader and Radio Station WFUL. They may also be secured at the front gate of Kitty League Park beginning at one o'clock p. m. on Friday afternoon.

Working in close cooperation with Kendred Winston of the South Fulton School and Bobby Snider of the Fulton City Schools, the Banana Festival will distribute a quantity of tickets for students from the eighth grade through High School.

Prizes totalling $125 will be given to the classes having the largest percentage of classroom attendance at the Friday afternoon program. The tickets may be given to parents, friends and other school patrons who must sign the ticket designating the class and the school to receive credit for the attendance. Persons holding the tickets must be present to win.

The prizes are as follows:
First prize, $50
Second prize, $40
Third prize, $25
Fourth prize, $10

The awards are being made on a percentage basis of attendance so that a small class may have the same opportunity to win as a larger class.

The program will last one hour only.

Here's how the door prize and school class prize program works:

Get FREE TICKETS to the Friday afternoon program from the Fulton News, the Banana Festival office, the Fulton Daily Leader or Radio Station WFUL. Fill out all three lines on the ticket: One for the class you wish to get credit for the attendance; two for the name of the school and three for the individual presenting the ticket at the door.

No tickets may be placed in the big drum at Kitty League Park unless you are present at the program.

The name of the individual whose name appears on the ticket will be called, first for the $25 door prizes, and then for the class room prizes.

After the drawing the tickets will be carefully counted and credited to each of the classes designated on the ticket.

The names of the winners will be announced at the first assembly period to be held in each of the two local schools, respectively.

CITY MANAGER ARRIVES

Fulton's new city manager, Joseph McCoy, has arrived in Fulton and taken over his duties. He comes to Fulton from Bolivar, Tenn., where he was city recorder and city judge. He, his wife and fifteen-year-old daughter will reside at 305 Pearl Street.

Needle-Nose Missile On Display Here

An X-7 ramjet missile will appear at Seigel Lot--Martin Highway Thursday, Friday and Saturday during the International Banana Festival, according to Technical Sergeant Joe Skinner, local U. S. Air Force Recruiter.

The "air-breathing" X-7 was one of the earliest and most successful of the experimental missiles used by the USAF. It set many records in tests near Alamogordo, N. M.

This graceful "needle-nose" pioneered the way for the Air Force's larger ramjets, and it is still making its contributions as a recoverable rest-bed, Sergeant Skinner points out.

The ramjet delivers a great deal more thrust than conventional jets, even the highly efficient turbofans, and ramjets are certain to come into the limelight when commercial air lines decide to slice deeply through the sound barrier.

The X-7, developed by Lockheed, is a high-flying laboratory which radios performance data back to ground technicians. After a test, the X-7 parachutes back to earth, standing upright by sticking its needle-nose into the ground for easy recovery. It is used over and over, making a great saving as the missile is worth about $350,000.

Its records have included: Fastest ramjet missile, fastest ground-controlled missile and fastest recoverable missile. Its speed is so great that its paint is scorched black. Usually, all it needs to fly again is another coat of paint, its developers point out.

Sergeant Skinner states everyone interested in the Air Force's space age efforts should find this display interesting.

If Everybody Loves A Parade Then Festival Is 'Must'

If everybody loves a parade, then everybody is in for the time of their lives when they view the mile-long parade to wind its way around these twin cities Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m.

Twenty-one bands, will join drill units, professional and non-professional floats, military units and Shrine units from a ten-State area to make the Banana Festival parade the largest in the history of the seven-year event.

Kendred Winston and Virgil Yates, co-chairmen of the parade committee said that all is in readiness for the parade to roll promptly at the hour scheduled.

Festival President Paul Durbin has announced that something new has been added to the Festival competition. Mr. Durbin said that prizes will also be awarded to the Shrine units on the basis of audience appeal. Judges will be strategically placed along the parade route to gauge the audience reaction to the Shrine units entered in the parade.

The line-up, thus far, for the parade is as follows:

101st Airborne Band, Ft. Campbell, Ky., Cars with dignitaries, Fulton High School Band, Lions Club Float, Cars with 1969 Beauty Contestants, Cars with 1969

Beauty Contestants, Union City High School Band, South Fulton P. T. A. Float, South Fulton Booster Princess Convertible, Bill Gray Donkey.

Mulenberg Central High School Band, Fulton Bank Float, Fulton Fire Engine Miss Kentucky Fire Prevention, Lake County High School Band, Pepsi Cola Float, Lake County Junior High School Band, H. I. S. Float, Martin High School Band.

Taylor Chevrolet Buick Float, Stewart County High School Band, City National Bank Float, McKenzie High School Band, Dept.

of Public Information Float.

Another Year, Another Festival! Our Efforts Have Become Internationally Known, Applauded

Welcome, Festival Visitors!

The hearts and hospitality of residents of the twin Cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee are open wide this week to visitors, foreign and domestic, that are expected to converge here by the thousands this weekend.

It is a time for gaiety, for hospitality, for renewing old friendships and making new ones as hundreds of our native sons and daughters choose this weekend to return home for a "look around" once again.

It is the time for extending the hand of friendship to our honored guests from the United States State Department who are coming here to offer encouragement to us for a continuation of this worthwhile event.

It is the time for extending a hearty welcome and hospitality to our 20 visiting students from Ecuador, many of whom are seeing the United States for the first time and whose impression of the Twin Cities and their people will be a long-cherished memory when they return to their native country.

It is a time for also extending a hearty and cordial welcome to the visiting Press, Radio and TV who are here to record the Festival and its events for their own home-town media.

As far as we know, this is the only International Banana Festival on the North American continent. It was conceived in a spirit of friendly salute to our Central and South American neighbors whose millions of tons of bananas pass through the railroad "port" of Fulton enroute to northern markets, and have for the past 50 years or more.

The Festival has grown in stature each of its seven years because it has developed into more than a salute... it has developed into a personal handclasp of friendship with our neighbors from the South who have visited us each year at Festival-time. We take great delight in welcoming all of them, Ambassadors, hat-makers, rug weavers, students, musicians, newspapermen.

This is a People-to-People program that succeeds by its very nature. Our own people here at home and all of our neighbors in surrounding counties learn from our visitors, and enjoy their association, as they do ours. We all wish we could have a half-dozen Latin orchestras playing each night at as many dances and concerts; that we could afford a whole street-full of cabanas containing rug-weavers, hat-makers, wood carvers and other types of native Latin craftsmen instead of just one or two; that we could have the biggest salute to Latin America that the United States has ever seen, each Festival week.

But these Twin Cities of Fulton and South Fulton are only a community of 7,000 people, and, while we have the energy and the ability to stage such an event, and the will to do it, we must have (and hope we will have) continuing endorsement and assistance from our governmental agencies interested in fostering this kind of grass-roots people-to-people friendship.

It seems a shame that this great country of ours can appropriate millions each year to export our people to all over Central and South America, yet hesitates to spend a comparable amount to more "plain folks" to visit us in our homes, on our farms, in our stores and churches and factories and schools. They are great people; friendly, polite, eager to see and learn and know all about us, and nothing beats a personal visit.

Viva La Festival! May it grow for a hundred years and become a cornerstone of international friendship, understanding and gaiety.

Senator Cooper's Views On Laos And Thailand Are Sound And Courageous; He Has Our Support

Senator John Sherman Cooper said he will introduce again this week the amendment he offered on August 12 to "prevent the United States from backing into war in Laos and Thailand as we did in Vietnam."

The amendment to be offered by the Kentucky Republican to the military procurement authorization bill would forbid the expenditure of money to send United States troops into combat in support of the armed forces of Laos and Thailand without the approval of Congress.

During debate on this issue before Congress started a three-week recess, several Senators expressed fear that if a restriction is not written into the authorization bill, Title 4 of it could be used to justify military action in Thailand just as former President Johnson used the Tonkin Gulf resolution to justify escalation of the Vietnam fighting.

Senator Cooper said he is confident President Nixon would not use the bill to claim authority to enter the war in Thailand or Laos.

"But that does not relieve Congress of its responsibility," he said. "For years, we have been talking about Vietnam. Cries of anguish have gone up because we did not look ahead and consider that the steps being taken could lead to our involvement. As this bill stands, it could be a step in involving the United States, much as the course of events led to our involvement in Vietnam."

"I am sure," Senator Cooper said, "that neither President Eisenhower, President Kennedy nor President Johnson intended that we should be at war in Vietnam. But we conveyed to the South Vietnamese the impression we would stand with them and defend them. I believe we conveyed that impression throughout Southeast Asia."

"I hope we will not be at war in Laos or Thailand, but it is possible that we may. If we do go to war there with the concurrent authority of the President and Congress, we will at least understand where we are. With some 49,000 troops in Thailand, we may, at some point, find ourselves at war by the same process as that by which we backed into war in Vietnam."

"Both the Senate and the House have a responsibility to determine whether we should go to war and whether we should become involved in situations which will send us into war whether or not our national interests, security and proper commitments are actually involved. No President has a right to take our country into war without asking Congress for authority. I do not want war to occur because of carelessness or failure to look ahead."

We concur wholeheartedly in Senator Cooper's views. We trust that the distinguished and able Senator from Kentucky can influence his colleagues in the sound principles of his philosophy that can surely prevent another conflict so disastrous and so costly to our country in lives and material.

BY LUCY DANIEL

LOVE WITH HONOR, by Emilie Loring. With her sister Melody only slowly recovering from a serious illness, and with her friend Willis Jameson strangely reluctant to set their wedding date, it was small wonder that beautiful Randi Scott should begin to view her future with foreboding.

WHAT SHALL I CRY, by Anne Binkley. Out of the circumstances surrounding an act of violence--the sort of happening reported daily in the newspapers--Anne Binkley has made a story of mounting suspense that achieves in the end a moving and tragic intensity. Delia Johnstone, although she must stand trial for murder is innocent. Vulnerable, lovely, and appealing, she is an alien in the fragmented Southern California scene.

THE DEVIL FINDS WORK, by Michael Delving. A church robbery, a bizarre murder--and a satanic gentleman with a terrifying aura of evil--these are the ingredients that Michael Delving has blended into this absorbing mystery novel.

AIRLINE STEWARDESS, by Alexander C. Morton. To help you choose the airline most suited to your qualifications and interests, this book contains the latest information on all American, Canadian, and Caribbean airlines. Here are just a few items that will show you the scope of the material in the book: Salaries, uniforms, bases, qualifications, and passes.

THE GREAT COMEDIANS TALK ABOUT COMEDY, by Larry Wilde. This is a book for all readers: for those who merely wish for vastly entertaining reading; for those who wish to learn what makes these performers function and what the secrets of their never-ending appeal are; for those who wish to study their techniques as a possible aid in their everyday business and social lives; for those professional careers in comedy themselves.

GREATNESS TO SPARE, by T. R. Fehrenbach on July 4, 1776 John Hancock was the first to sign his name below the Declaration of Independence. Over the following four years fifty-five other men signed it and, by doing so, they too made the pledge. At a time when this revolution against the Crown of England was not history but a dangerous gamble for freedom, when the prospects for victory were small, these men branded themselves "leaders of the revolution," and so put their futures on the line for this new concept in which they believed--liberty.

THE TACHI TREE, by Lilian O'Donnell. The Caribbean island of San Pedro would attract any vacationer seeking the proverbial sun-care and rest--but for Lydia Lyall, exhausted by the strain of her mother's death, it held many unmet needs. The first was the invitation to the Long John Plantation from her cousin Caroline Baheman, whom she had never met; the second, Caroline's open hostility toward Lydia and her husband's open friendliness. Then the accidents began...

ALL ABOUT PARTIES, by Edith Gilbert. A complete book of home entertaining for every occasion, it gives party themes month by month; suggested invitations and patterns for hand-made cards; table decorations; games and other stimulating ideas for entertainment; and etiquette for hosts, hostesses and guests (including answers to such questions as how long to hold dinner for late arrivals).

THE GREAT DEPRESSION, by Robert Goldston. This author has synthesized with remarkable clarity the complex elements--economic, political and social--which went into the making of the economic collapse that plagued the nation in the thirties. The facts are brutal, the times chilling.

A HISTORY OF ART AND MUSIC, by H. W. Janson. This book has been written to fill a need--the need for history-in-brief of art and music designed as an introduction to these fields in the framework of a general humanities course. The reader will find a wonderful variety in these accounts as he follows the intermingling of man's artistic and musical production.

A HARDY COMPANION, by Francis Pinton. It may confidently be claimed that in every sense of the word this book is a companion to Hardy's work. It will be invaluable to those seeking a deeper understanding, not only of Hardy the man, but also of the influences, artistic and otherwise, that contributed to the work of one of England's most celebrated writers.

Musings From

The Philosopher

LOCAL GREAT MEN

In my years of wandering around over Kentucky, I have formed a pretty good idea of what most neighborhoods regard as great men. And, I am glad to say, the average community where I have been entertained as a guest has nearly always had high opinions of worthy people, whether they were rich or poor, prominent or average, old or young. Maybe I as a college professor was expected to want to see the people whom I would regard as worthy; maybe my hosts knew the sort of people I most appreciated and also the very few kinds that I am not very enthusiastic about.

Anyway, I was often asked whether I knew certain ones of their great local citizens. In most instances I had heard of their great ones; once in a great while, when I had strayed pretty far away from my home in south-central Kentucky, I actually did not know the name of anyone in the town or city where I was to speak, except one or more of the teachers. Even in such places I would be told, within minutes of my arrival, of some local citizens who had done a lot for his community: he had grown up from near-poverty, let us say, had prospered, and had given some worth-while building or endowment or recognition of solid worth.

As we were walking in procession down the aisle of a high school auditorium, the principal asked whether I knew the history of that very building. I could hardly wait until the program was over to be told the story of a great local man: he had been left an orphan at an early age, the son of an emigrant with a foreign name and language. An elderly couple who had some money and standing in the community took the boy into their own home and saw him through high school and college.

That boy soon became a great business man in a big city, but he never forgot his benefactors and the town that took him to its bosom; in memory of the man and his wife the hall was donated to the city, and, in Biblical words, it stands, "to this day," a magnificent monument to a worthy man who in turn was the beneficiary of worthy people.

Often I have spoken in a small county-seat town that has honored the memory of one of its long-time teachers by naming a school building for her and erecting an appropriate marker in front of it. This dedicated teacher did not become wealthy, in worldly goods; she remained for a half century a primary teacher, ultimately teaching three generations in that small town. When one of her most devoted admirers also became a lifelong teacher, she told me that the greatest compliment she ever got was when her neighbors said, in the early days of her teaching, that she was a regular Miss Mary, let us call the great local teacher. Naturally I, as an educator, would see more of this kind of recognition of great local citizens, but I have also found.

SOCIETY - WOMAN'S INTEREST

Mrs. Rita Wilson Tigrett, of London, England and Fulton is here during Banana Festival Week. A former Banana Festival Princess, Mrs. Tigrett will be mistress of ceremonies at the Inter-American Fashion Show to be held today (Thursday) at Holiday Inn at twelve noon.

Few Tickets Available For Fashion Show

Good food and beautiful fashions; this is the theme of the Inter-American Fashion Show to be held in Fulton during the Seventh Annual International Banana Festival. Holiday Inn in Fulton will be the scene of the unusual event when area residents and visiting dignitaries will eat Latin-American food, while viewing the striking fashions of America and South America.

More than twenty lovely ladies from the West Kentucky and West Tennessee area will join a bevy of beautiful lassies from Central and South America modelling the dresses typical of their native lands.

The fashion show will begin at noon. A setting of a Latin-American village will enhance the striking contrast of the fashions of two continents.

Tickets to the Fashion Show, and all other events, may be secured at the Banana Festival office in Fulton. Reservations may be made by calling 472-1600 or 472-2961 in Fulton.

In addition to the Fashion Show, the Banana Festival will feature such outstanding attractions as Lionel Hampton on Friday night, Bill Anderson, Jan Howard and Jimmy Gately and the Po-Boy band on Saturday night, a gala Inter-American Music Fiesta on Thursday with the famous Berea dancers, and on Saturday afternoon the Battle of the Bands.

Miss Fly, Mr. Woolley Pledge Vows In Lovely Church Wedding

On Saturday, the sixteenth of August, nineteen hundred and sixty nine, at five o'clock in the afternoon, the marriage of Miss Carolyn Fly to Wilson William Woolley was solemnized in St. Edwards Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fly of Fulton and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Woolley of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Hagman. A program of music was presented by Miss Sarah Catherine Hyland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of white organza, fashioned with peau d'ange lace on an empire bodice and embroidered with seed pearls, and with lace appliques scattered over the A-line skirt. The chapel-length mantilla of gossamer English net was bordered by a wide band of matching lace. She carried a Colonial nosegay of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. The bride's only jewelry was a heart engraved bracelet, given to her by the groom.

Miss Margaret Omar served as maid of honor and Miss Billie Dianne Lynn, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid. They wore identical floor-length gowns of pale blue, fashioned with empire waists, bordered in white lace. Their headpieces were made of blue net, centered with a blue bow. They carried Colonial nosegays of white roses, blue mums and lilies of the valley.

Serving as best man was Dwain McIntosh of Reidland, Ky., and Richard Tavior of Connelton, Ind., served as groomsmen. Ushers were Stephan Fly, brother of the bride, and George Thomas Lynn, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Fly chose for her daughter's wedding a pale olive green crepe dress, topped with a lace coat. With this she wore matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Woolley, mother of the groom, wore a blue knit costume with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Derby's Kentucky Room. Serving at the bride's table were Miss Sandra Cash, Miss Carol Luther and Mrs. Ray McLarty. Mrs. William Hennings, sister of the groom, served at the register.

Among out-of-town guests were: Mr. Emil Missaghi of Bowie, Md.; Mrs. V. M. Hennings and Miss Patricia George of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. F. Ray McLarty and Mr. and Mrs. Darrell W. George of Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Heider, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Garrot, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bryan, Miss Martha Guiler, Miss Lolita Crouch, Miss Vivian Hale and Mrs. Sandra K. James, all of Murray; Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Bennett of Paducah; Mr. Steve Lambert of Evansville, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hubbard, Jr., of Mayfield; Mrs. Lou Delle Hennings and daughter, Sheri of Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynn and son, Billy of Benton; Mr. and Mrs. John L. Marlowe and Miss Margot Ellis of Jackson, and Mrs. Noel Blalock of Whitehaven, Tenn.

Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida. For traveling the bride wore a basket weave coat dress in white background with brown and tan plaid, with which she wore tan accessories. She carried a rose corsage from her bouquet. Now the couple is at home at 1017 Story Avenue in Murray.

A rehearsal dinner was given at Park Terrace Restaurant on Friday, August 15, at 8:30 p. m. by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Woolley, parents of the groom, of Colorado Springs, Colorado.

It was attended by twenty-five members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests. At this time the bride and groom presented gifts to their attendants.

FESTIVAL VISITOR!

Mrs. Mary Gregg of Clarksdale, Miss., is a visitor in Fulton to attend the Banana Festival. She is Mrs. Paul Westpheling's sister.

COFFEE CUP CHATTER

According to the Nutrition Foundation, Inc., malnutrition especially protein deficiency early in life permanently affects learning, memory and suitable behavior. The brain in a child reaches about 80 per cent of its adult weight by the age of three when the body is little more than 20 per cent of its adult weight. Therefore, be sure your child receives a well-balanced diet. —Miss Patricia Everett, Benton, Ky. 42025, Telephone—527-6601.

During the hot weather of July and most of August it is best to keep most of the bloom buds pinched off the hybrid tea roses. This means more beautiful flowers in the fall which will have much better color than during the hot weather. —Mrs. Maxine Griffin, Clinton, Ky. 42031, Telephone—553-2231.

BE A GOOD TRAVELER... Plastic bags are the tools of good packing. Leave your dresses and suits in plastic laundry bags. Whether you follow the roll-up or fold-flat method, these help you pack tightly without crushing clothes. Put shoes, bags and less used items in the bottom of the case. Tuck small items such as hosiery, gloves, etc. in them. Cosmetics are best carried in a separate case. This can serve as a dressing table with no need to unpack each time you stop off. A good method for arranging cosmetics is to pack go-togethers in individual plastic bags, for instance — face care tools in one bag, teeth care in another, etc. Plastic jars and bottles are lightweight, so use them whenever possible. —Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Hickman, Ky. 42050, Tel. 236-2351.

TEENAGERS—The average young person hates to be a "wet blanket" or to "kill a party." Many young people take a chance on their parents understanding rather than the gang. When parents and youth have mutual confidence in each other, such questions as to where they are going, who is going, kind of activity, etc. can be discussed and decisions made. This will give parents and youth the assurance and trust of each other. Youth sometimes refuses to take responsibility simply because they are afraid of it. They have never been given any responsibility at home. Youth needs reasonably predictable behavior on the part of parents so that he knows what to expect. This is a decisive factor in a teen-ager's growth. When parents are unable to decide what they are trying to teach their children, what they expect of them, the youngsters become the decision makers. This age group is not qualified to make big decisions. —Miss Irma Hamilton, Mayfield, Ky. 42066, Telephone—247-2334.

Design directions in furniture for the fall of 1969 include the following:

Modern will be cleaner and more refined and softer. It is molded and more curvaceous, with strong Italian influences. Modern has a more formal look. It will include such materials as steel and plexiglas. Upholstered furniture is becoming simpler and better designed. Italy has a big influence on modern furniture and has the best innovators. The designs fit the times of today. They are comfortable and appealing. —Mrs. Mildred Potts, LaCerte, Ky. 42056, Tel.—665-5671.

Detergents, dyes, bleaches, water softeners and other cleaning and whitening agents should be stored out of the reach of children in the laundry room. Sometimes the intriguingly-shaped containers and powder-like consistency of the items make them fun-plays, BUT DANGEROUS! —Mrs. Barletta Wrather, Murray, Ky. 42071, Telephone—753-1452.

Dear Ann Landers...

Dear Readers: Remember the letter from the physician's wife who said doctors make the world's worst husbands? She confessed she believed (when she was young and foolish) that if she married a doctor she'd have someone to look after her when she became ill. "The closest thing I get to medical attention from my husband," she moaned, "is instructions to go look in the top drawer of his desk where he throws his samples. There is always plenty of stuff in there and I'm supposed to take what I need."

Additional complaints: If the children get sick at night, doctor-husband refuses to call another doctor because he hates to bother a friend. His friends don't mind bothering HIM, however, his wife asserted. Frequently he is awakened at all hours of the night and he never refuses to get dressed and go.

The disenchanted wife closed by saying, "When I was a dew-eyed romantic co-ed I thought it would be wonderful to be married to a professional man. And I still do, but I wish I had married a lawyer." She signed her letter "G. P.'s Mate."

I told G. P.'s Mate her letter should be answered by a doctor's wife and I did not qualify. I invited the wives of physicians to respond and promised to print the best letter. The results were staggering. Since it was virtually impossible to make a decision, I opted in favor of printing the best lines from the top five letters. Here they are: From Cincinnati: That doctor's wife who thinks she should have married a lawyer can have mine. He hasn't had dinner home two nights in a row since he passed the bar—nine years ago.

From Battle Creek, Michigan: Tell G. P.'s Mate to quit griping. I have the same problem with my husband and he's no doctor. He's a carpenter. Our house is falling down and I can't get him to pick up a hammer. For six months I've been begging him to fix the roof but he is "too busy". All husbands are the same, Ann Landers—heroes to the outside world and bums to their own families.

From Washington, D. C.: I'm married to a Certified Public Accountant. So who do you think does the income tax in our family, ---little ol' me---a high school dropout.

From Omaha, Nebraska: If that G. P.'s Mate thinks she'd be better off married to a psychiatrist tell her to forget it. Every time I look sideways my husband tells me I am compensating, transferring, projecting or hallucinating. His Royal Highness was so busy last month I had to make an appointment (under an assumed name) to discuss our six-year-old son who still wets his pants.

From St. Louis: If that lonely G. P.'s wife lives in our town please tell her to call my husband. He's a minister. I can promise her that he'll give her as much time as she wants—especially if she is attractive. Meanwhile, back at the parsonage I'd give anything to hear an adult voice. I have no car, no money, no decent clothes, no social life and no family life. When I get to feeling so depressed and lonely that I can't stand it anymore, guess who I call? My doctor. He is just wonderful.

Dear Ann Landers: My brother died two months ago. His widow has asked me for advice and I don't know what to tell her. The question is in regard to her 19-year-old son. He wants to get married.

The boy is 4-F so he is not worried about the Army. He has been kicked out of two colleges so he is not worried about his education. (He can't get in anywhere). He works in his grandfather's business (when he works) so he is not worried about a job. Here is the question: The boy wants his mother to advance him $3,000 against his inheritance so he can get married and take his bride to Honolulu on a honeymoon. His father left him $20,000 but the will states that the first payment of $5,000 is to be made on the boy's 21st birthday. The second payment comes due in 1974. Subsequent payments of $2,000 are to be made at two year intervals.

The boy keeps badgering his mother and repeating, "I don't want a gift, all I want is an advance on what is legally mine."

I will pay you the $3,000 in 1971 when I get the $5,000.

What should she tell him? She's leaving it up to me. ---Keeper of the Keys

Dear Keeper: She should tell him no. Her husband knew what he was doing when he wrote his will in such a way that his son would not come into any money until he was 21. All she need say is, "Sorry, we're going to leave things as dad wanted them."

Give in or lose him...when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Neckling and Petting—What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Chamber of Commerce Schedules Seminars For Industrial Leaders

A series of three seminars will be conducted in September by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce to better acquaint area industrial leaders with area vocational schools and to strengthen communications between business and educators.

The seminars, announced by LeRoy Miles, President of the Chamber, will be conducted at Somerset September 9, Bowling Green September 10 and Covington September 11 in cooperation with the local chambers of commerce in each area.

The program will revolve around discussions of ways in which business and industry, vocational education personnel and general academic administrators can work closer to make a better business climate in the area. Additionally, the program is intended to inform high school guidance counselors about opportunities in vocational education. The Education Committee and the Economic Development Committee of the Kentucky Chamber are pooling talents in a cooperative effort to meet the objectives of the seminars.

William H. Neal, Regional Vice President of the Kentucky Chamber and Chairman of the Industrial Development Committee will serve as moderator for the seminar programs. Neal is president of Western Kentucky Gas Company.

Other prominent businessmen and educators scheduled as program participants are:

Dr. Carl F. Lamar, Assistant Superintendent, Kentucky Bureau of Vocational Education, Frankfort.

James H. Noland, Jr., Assistant Commissioner, Kentucky Department of Commerce, Frankfort.

Merritt S. Deitz, Jr., Commissioner, Kentucky Department of Economic Security, Frankfort. John B. Scanlon, Manager of Employees Development Programs, International Business Machines, Lexington.

H. D. Noe, Superintendent, Somerset Area Vocational School.

Phillip Hampton, Superintendent, Bowling Green Area Vocational School.

Phillip R. Dillon, Superintendent, Covington Area Vocational School.

The seminars will include a tour of vocational school facilities in each area, panel discussions and question and answer session. Each seminar will begin at 9:30 p. m. and adjourn at noon (local times).

The seminars are open to all businessmen, officials and persons interested in the field of vocational training.

ROUTE THREE

Mrs. Aline Williams

Mrs. Effie Croft has been in the Fulton Hospital this week with Bronchitis trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbe Foster of Ill. visited with Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Brown last week.

Several of the farmers are trying to house their tobacco. It seems help is hard to find from the way they talk.

Several families from this part of the country attended church services at Little Zion Sunday.

It seems the mosquitoes are worse around here than they ever were. They are those big black ones. I sometimes wonder if the wind a few days back didn't blow them here from other states.

I had a happy surprise this week, Mrs. Jubie Henderson called to talk with me. She says she reads my write-up. It's so nice to hear from old acquaintances I have not seen for years.

Mrs. Johnny Dalton isn't to well these days and is not able to get out. I'm sure she would enjoy cards from all her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Winstead had Elder Paul Jones and Elder Arlie Larimer with several neighbors and friends for dinner Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Perry's new house is shaping up nicely. It won't be long until they can move in from the way things look.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mack Coffman have had a lot of work done in front of their house. It looks like a different place. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams visited Mrs. Effie Croft also Hillman Collier in the hospital Monday. We were glad to find them feeling better.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Jones and Dana of Paducah visited relatives in South Fulton over the weekend.

Those visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams Thursday were Elder Paul Jones, Elder Arlie Larimer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Terrell, Revel Moody, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cannon, Mrs. Nell Winstead and Judy. We enjoyed those folks visit very much.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

By Mrs. Carey Frieleds

Rev. Bobby Copeland filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at morning and evening services. Sunday School was held at 10:00 a. m. and the attendance was good after being on the decline for a few Sundays.

Bobby Rickman returned home last week from UT at Knoxville, after his graduation there Monday. He, accompanied by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickman, were in Huntsville, Ala., Saturday, where this young engineer has secured employment, and will enter upon his duties on September 8.

Dave Mathis underwent major surgery the past week and had amputation of his limb above the knee. The aged man has been quite ill, and everyone hopes to have a better report very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell Farmer left Wednesday for their home in St. Louis, Mo., after several days visit here with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Grover True.

Leon Nix, Louisville, Ky., spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Martha Croft, while his wife, Mrs. Nix, stopped off in Madisonville, Ky., to visit with her mother, Mrs. Jim Clayton who has been sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones and children of Akron, Ohio arrived Saturday to visit the bedside of their father, Dave Mathis, who is a patient in Volunteer General Hospital in Martin, Tenn.

Bro. Dennis Crutchfield filled his appointment at Knob Creek Church of Christ the past Sunday at 11 a. m. Prayer meeting is held each Wednesday night at 7:30 now, and this fine young pastor and family plan to move nearer to his church sometime soon.

Mrs. Virginia Haygood left a few days ago for her home in Elgin, Ill., after visiting relations here and the bedside of her father, Dave Mathis, in Volunteer Hospital in Martin.

Mrs. Inez Vincent returned to her home near Pilot Oak, Ky., after a weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Grover True and Mr. True.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Reed of Nashville, Tenn., spent Labor Day holidays with their mother, Mrs. M. A. Reed in Dist. No. 17 and made a business trip to his farm near Henry, Tenn.

ESTIMATES EXCEEDED
A report by Finance Commissioner Albert Christen and Revenue Commissioner James E. Luckett shows that Kentucky's 5 per cent sales tax for its first full fiscal year totaled $247,515,438, about $3.5 million more than expected.

NEEDLES BLUNTED
Salt marsh mosquitoes, sometimes called "flying hypodermic needles" because of their bite, are said to have been reduced by about one-third in four Western Kentucky counties this year as the result of a program conducted by the State Department of Agriculture.

more times than I can recall, examples of others who did great things in their way, large or small, for the places they loved and lived in: efforts to beautify a street, to clean up some unsightly place, to aid youngsters in having a place to play, in giving uncounted hours of free service as hospital workers, in "little unremembered acts of kindness and of love." Such people expect no reward for their work; often they hardly seem to have been surprised that anybody even knew about it.

DEATHS

Mrs. Evie B. Mansfield

Mrs. Evie Belle Mansfield, widow of Noah Mansfield, and long-time Hickman resident, died Monday, September 1, about noon at the Obion County Hospital in Union City, following a long illness. She was 75.

Born May 5, 1894 in Fulton County, Kentucky, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield Calhoun. She was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ.

Survivors include five sons, Paul Mansfield, Murray, Cleatus Mansfield, Hickman, Elmer Mansfield, South Fulton City Commissioner, Ancil Mansfield, Chicago, Alvie Mansfield, Dickson, Mo., and a daughter, Mrs. Geneta Keith of Hickman.

A brother, Elmer Calhoun of Hickman and a sister, Mrs. Allie Cochran of Hickman, 24 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren also survive.

Services were held on Wednesday, September 3, at 2:30 p. m. at the Chaney Funeral Home in Hickman, with Rev. Barney Holland of Union City officiating.

Interment was in the Brownsville Cemetery.

McKinley Sadler

McKinley Sadler, 68, retired farmer of Obion, Tenn., died at 9:30 a. m. Sunday, August 31 at Obion County General Hospital in Union City. He was the brother of Mrs. Calvin Stover of Fulton.

Services were held at 2 p. m. Tuesday, September 2, at Obion Church of Christ, with interment in New Haven Cemetery at Ridgely, Tenn. King Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Vera Greer Sadler; two sons, Harold Sadler of Obion and Jerry Sadler of Northville, Mich.; five daughters, Mrs. Charles Cole of Wynnburg, Mrs. James Holland of Union City, Mrs. Robert Curvin of Westland, Mich., Mrs. Eugene Lawson of Ridgely and Mrs. Lexie Everett of Plymouth, Mich. Two brothers and two sister also survive.

Mrs. Sally E. Meadows

Services for Mrs. Sally Edna Meadows, wife of Hershel Meadows, Centerline, Mich., were held at 2:00 p. m., Wednesday August 27 at Hornbeak Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Fred Jones officiating. Interment was in Rock Springs cemetery.

Active pallbearers were: Floyd Dedmond, Johnny Cox, Clarence Douglas, Lee Snow, Hubert Mullins and Allen Kyle.

Mrs. Meadows is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Bonnie Dugan of St. Clair Shores, Mich.; two brothers, Richard and Childers of Water Valley and Porter Childers of Paris; a sister, Mrs. Lee Snow of Clinton.

Bard Says ASC Ballots To Be Mailed Sept. 8

Ballots will be mailed September 8, 1969, to agricultural producers known to be eligible to vote in Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Elections, according to Fulton County ASC Committee Chairman Roy Bard.

He said any resident of the county who is eligible to take part in a farm program administered by ASC is eligible to vote in the community committee elections to be held the third week in September. This applies without regard to sex, race, color, religion, or national origin.

"Our list of known eligible voters totals 800 and I am hopeful that each will cast a ballot," the ASC Chairman said.

He pointed out there may be agricultural producers--owners, operators, tenants, or sharecroppers--who are eligible to vote but are not on the eligible voters' list. "We invite those who may be eligible voters to check at the Fulton County ASCS Office, 701 Moscow, Hickman, Ky. We will add their names to the list and they will receive ballots. The list of known eligible voters is maintained at the ASCS Office and is available there for public inspection," Chairman Bard said.

Almost every agricultural producer in the county is an eligible voter, according to the ASC Committee Chairman. "For instance, if he produced a crop eligible for price support, he is an eligible voter. He doesn't necessarily have to actually apply for price support, so long as he has a crop which was eligible for price support," Mr. Bard said.

Soybean Field Day Planned For Sept. 4

A Soybean Field Day will be held at the University of Kentucky Soybean Variety and Herbicide Experimental Plots on the Bourke Mantle Farm near Bardwell, Thursday, September 4th, at 1:30 p. m. These plots are located about four miles off Highway 51. Turn west off Highway 51 about three and one-half miles south of Wickliffe or three and one-half miles north of Bardwell; follow gravel road, (also signs), west one mile beyond Adams Tressel.

Twelve popular varieties and twelve experimental varieties are growing in the plots. Eight herbicides are being tested for weed control.

Shirley Phillips and James Shane, University of Kentucky Crop Specialists, and Emerson Jones, Area Weed Control Specialist, will be present to discuss the plots. Everyone is invited to attend.

Candidates Named For Election To ASC Board; Balloting Sept. 19

Candidates have been named for elections of agricultural Stabilization and Conservation community committee members.

Elections are scheduled by mail to be returned by Sept. 19. Nominees are:

A--
E. A. Carver, Edwin Harrison, M. L. Herring, E. R. Kilbrew, Harold Hewitt, Robert Thompson.

Harvey Atwill, M. O. Champion, W. K. Cruce, Neal Little, Hubert Wilkins, T. R. Williamson.

C--
G. T. Hepler, Harold McClellan, Forrest McMurray, Pat O'Connor, W. B. Sowell, Harry Sublett, Jr., Ralph Adams.

Leo Cissell, Raymond Everett, Charlie Ferrell, Charles E. Latius, Paul Logan, Prather Mangold.

To be elected in each community are a chairman, vice-chairman, regular member, and first and second alternates. The person receiving the most votes will be ASC community committee chairman, second highest will be vice-chairman, third highest will be the regular member, and fourth and fifth highest in votes will be first and second alternates.

First duty of the newly-elected chairman, vice-chairman, and member will be to serve as delegates to the county convention at which vacancies on the Fulton County ASC Committee will be filled, according to County ASC Committee Chairman, Roy Bard. The county convention will be held September 30, 1969, 10:00 A. M. at the Fulton County ASCS Office.

In general, ASC Community Committees assist in carrying out farm program responsibilities assigned by the ASC county committee and in informing farmers of purposes and provisions of programs administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"The ASC community committeeman is a vital link between the farmer and the men in Washington who administer the farm programs passed by Congress," said Chairman Bard.

These are our Amigos, Make Them Welcome

The arrival of 20 Amigos (11 girls and 9 boys) in Fulton-South Fulton Monday morning, August 25, was the first big event of the International Banana Festival, and a large crowd was present at the City of Miami at 11:30 a. m. Their train was over an hour late, but nobody went home and the students received an enthusiastic welcome from the crowd.

On hand for a musical greeting was the Fulton High School

Sublette. The Band played "America the Beautiful" as a welcome for the Latin American visitors.

Accompanying the Amigos for the sixth straight year, was Mrs. Florence Ballesteros of Quito, Ecuador. The group, was in the twin cities overnight, then left for Louisville on the Baptist Church bus, where they were guests of the Springdale Church for several days.

Amigos and the homes in which they are staying are as follows: Marcelo Proano, 15, with Mr. and Mrs. John Joe Campbell. Jeannette Minez, 15, with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanders.

Rose Marie Teran, 16, and Yolanda Vivanco, 17, with Mr. and Mrs. Flynn Powell.
