Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

Our biggest bouquet of congratulations this week, however belatedly in public, go to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Baird of Fulton, who quietly observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary last Friday. Gordon wouldn't let us put anything about it in the paper last week in advance, because being the quiet kind of gentleman that he is, he simply didn't want any fanfare about it at all. Not that there is anything wrong with announcing the event in advance so your friends can join you in observing it . . . but the Bairds just wanted a quiet, no-advance-writeup kind of an observance.

They didn't quite get it, of course. The Holiday Inn, where their reception was given, quietly and good-naturedly broadcast the event in one-foot letters on their sign-board!

We have known Gordon Baird since the day we came to Fulton 23 years ago; he was then and for many years following, the head of our commercial printing department . . . and he can still roll up his sleeves and put a job press through its paces with the best of them. Of course he'd rather go fishing with his partner Fred Gibson, and between the two of them I guess they know the fish population of every pond within 30 miles of Fulton.

On page 2 we have the story and some pictures taken last Friday.

In case you don't know the background on Guy Drake and his "Welfare Cadillac" story, you might get a kick out of reading it on page two, second section. The odd thing about the whole business is that Drake wrote it in Kentucky, about a Kentucky scene, yet all the protesting has been done by the Welfare Commissioner of Tennessee. I don't believe I have heard a chirp out of anyone in eastern Kentucky.

Gaylon and Ellen Varden are just back from two weeks in Europe, and besides all of the "oh's" and "ah's" about picturesque scenery in Spain and the experiences of a week in Rome, Gaylon came up with a couple of interesting experiences that will live with them for the rest of their lives, I am sure.

The couple left their touring group in Rome and went "on their own" up to Vienna in order to see something of the Austrian countryside before rejoining their group in Paris.

As they boarded their jet in Rome, they happened to sit alongside a nicely-dressed young man, whom, they soon learned, was going to his home in Vienna. The conversation led from one thing to another, meanwhile revealing that the Vardens had never been to Austria; didn't know anything about Vienna except that they wanted to see the place. When their companion asked if they had anything on their program for the following day, they said "no", and when he asked them to be his guest for a tour around the city and countryside, they said "yes".

So next afternoon the young man met them at their hotel, took them to see the sights of Vienna and the countryside, treated them to several unusual foods and wines, and as the afternoon progressed, asked them if they had any plans for supper. "Again", says Gaylon, we said "no". "Then let me call ma-meee and see if it will be all right; I would like you to come to supper with my family".

That evening the Vardens were dinner guests of the Director General of the International Highway Commission and his son at their beautiful estate in suburban Vienna.

That's experience-they'll never-forget, number one.

The following afternoon they were in the Winter Palace in Vienna, sight-seeing through this beautiful and historic attraction, when they overheard some conversation in English in a group not far away, and here is the gist of Gaylon's commentary:

"We walked over to the people and asked where they were from?"

"Kentucky".

"Why, we're from Kentucky, too".

"Where?"

"Well, from a little town in Kentucky that you probably never heard of. It's about 50 miles south of Paducah: Fulton".

"I'm from Cadiz, Kentucky".

"Is that so", Gaylon said. "Why, I used to know a Broadbent girl in Cadiz, and the Broadbent twins, too. I've had many a good

Morris Harden, Agent

Question: Mr. Harden, you are the agent for the three bus lines that serve Fulton. Do these companies offer you any financial assistance at all in helping clean up or maintain this place?

"That's true, I am the agent for Continental Trailways, Greyhound and Brooks Bus lines for Fulton. But I have to pay all the bills, the rent and the upkeep for this place out of the small commission I get from selling tickets, and that's the only way this station is supported."

"The three bus companies chipped in together and bought some gravel for the front drive recently, but they had to have that so their heavy buses could get in and out, and even then, some of them had to be pulled out by a wrecker when the drive got soft."

"When we moved from West State Line I tried all over town to get a place to go, but everybody I talked to laughed at me. They didn't want this station. I even went to the Mayor and the Chief of Police about helping get a good location, but that didn't seem to help. I am hoping that they can run a storm drain here to help with the drainage."

"This is Fulton's bus station. I am doing the best I can with it, with what little money I get to run it."

ASCS Payments Over $25,000 Given To Five Area Farmers

Five area farmers have received payments in excess of $25,000 from the U. S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service programs, according to information published in the Congressional Quarterly.

The largest area payment, $37,530, was to S. D. Broadbent Jr., of Trigg County. Others on the list included James Wilson, Ballard County, $25,894; the Larkin Brothers, Hickman County, $25,954, and Robert Sanger and Sanger Farms, Inc., both of Fulton County. Robert Sanger received $27,813, while Sanger Farms, Inc., was paid $25,899.

A spokesman for the McCracken County ASCS office said there were three ASCS programs available which could yield such large payments to farmers. There were listed as the Feed Grain Retirement Program, the Crop Land Adjustment Program and the now-defunct Soil Bank program.

The feed grain retirement program, according to the spokesman, concerns the retirement of feed grain acreage, based on allotments which were figured on the acreage each farmer planted in corn, barley and grain sorghum in 1959 and 1960.

Under this program, a farmer can retire up to one-half of his allotment and be paid by the government for both the acreage retired and the acreage planted, the spokesman said.

The crop land adjustment program is similar to the previous plan, except that it re-

Income Tax Deadline Will Be Here Wednesday, April 15

With the April 15 deadline nearing, James E. Lockett, state commissioner of Revenue, says income-tax returns are still not in from over half a million Kentuckians.

About half the State's estimated one million individual income taxpayers usually wait until the deadline to file, Revenue officials say.

As of March 31, some 192,000 State refunds had been authorized, William R. Reed, director of the Income Tax Division, said. He said that from 250,000 to 300,000 more refunds eventually will be paid, after all returns are in.

Corporation income tax returns are due not later than three months and 15 days after the end of the corporation's fiscal year. Some companies operate on the calendar year, but many have fiscal years ending on June 30 or on some other date—frequently governed by inventory convenience.

Commander Baird Works On Shaky Ground, And He Isn't Kidding!

NAPLES, ITALY: Navy Commander Daniel M. Baird, Dental Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Baird of Highlands, and husband of the former Miss Joan McCollum of 803 Walnut St., all of Fulton, Ky., works on shaky ground on top of a volcano in Naples, Italy.

Stationed at the command of U. S. Naval Support Activity, which is located in an extinct volcano crater in Naples, he has the unusual opportunity of watching the topography being recreated by geological phenomenon known as bradyseism (slow earthquake).

Less than one mile from his office is the ancient city of Pozzuoli, where bradyseism has caused sections of the town to rise and fall.

Unofficial measurements show that the ground has risen two feet, four inches in six months, the fastest rate since 1538, when a 460-foot hill sprang up near Pozzuoli in a few hours. More than 400 years later, the hill is still known to Pozzuolians as Monte Nuovo (New Mountain).

Volcanologists in Naples say there is no imminent danger from the recent movement in the Pozzuoli area.

"Fulton Bargain Days" Offer Special Values

"Fulton Bargain Days", a promotion sponsored by the Retail Merchants Bureau of the Twin Cities and involving some 25 local firms, is in full swing today (Thursday) and will continue on through Saturday evening.

This promotional activity of the Bureau includes department stores, ladies and mens shoes, drug stores, hardware and furniture, groceries, sporting goods, variety stores and others. For additional information, turn to page one, second section.

Especially for these three days, participating firms have gone through their retail stocks and drastically marked down selected items that represent real money-saving values for the shopper. Many of the firms state that they have purchased special "bargain lots" of merchandise for these three days in order to have unusual and attractive offers for their customers.

Stores participating include: Bay's, Ben Franklin, City Super Drug, City National Bank, Clarice Shop, Doty Shop, Fulton Bank, Kasnow's, Budget Shop, National Store, Noffel's, Railroad Salvage, Twin City Furniture, Leader Store, WFUL, K. Homra's, Evans Drug, Wilson's Sport Center, Fulton Daily Leader, Fulton County News, Dimeco, Fulton Hardware, Western Auto, E. W. James and Sears.

The new directors, plus Joe Johnson, President, and Hal Warren, Vice-President, will meet in the near future to name the Club's new officers for installation July 1st.

No Fines During Nat'l Library Week

Next week, April 12-18, is National Library Week.

In observance of the Week, the Fulton Public Library announced today that next week there will be no fines charged for overdue books.

"This is a good time to get those overdue books back to us without any penalty", Librarian Lucy Daniel comments.

Six More School Days Announced

Charles Thomas, Superintendent of the Fulton City School system, announced this week that six "make-up" days had been approved here by the State Board of Education to replace the six days lost during the February Teacher's strike.

"The week of April 13-17 is usually spring vacation" said Thomas. "There will be school on April 13, 14 and 15 of this week, but the last two days of the week (April 16-17) will be no school for KEA."

"The other three days will be June 1, 2, and 3. Instead of school closing on May 29th, as originally planned, it will close on June 3rd."

Waterway On Shaw Farm Is Fine Example Of Erosion Control

Now is the time to think about grassed waterways for your farm. There are many grassed waterways being used in Fulton County, but many more need to be established. Good grass waterways are a must in controlling erosion on many farms.

Last year Harold Shaw of the State Line Community, interested in doing something about the gullies running through his fields, contacted the USDA-Soil Conservation Service. He was advised that he needed a grassed waterway. A grade stabilization structure was also needed to control a four foot overfall problem at the outlet end.

Today, Shaw has helped to control erosion on his farm by safely disposing of runoff from excessive rainfall. He has also eliminated an eyesore from the public as this waterway and rip-rap grade stabilization structure can be seen from Kentucky Highway 125 near the State Line Store. He has helped to make Kentucky's Highways more beautiful.

More gullies need to be turned into beautiful grassed waterways such as these in Fulton County and in our State and Nation.

Farmers and landowners are eligible to receive cost-sharing on conservation practices such as waterways, grade stabilization structures, drainage ditches, stripcropping, ponds and not.

gullied areas from the USDA-Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The USDA-Soil Conservation Service furnished assistance with design and layout work of conservation practices regardless of where cost sharing help is used or not.

The Gordon Bairds Observe Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Baird

In a quiet reception last Friday afternoon at the Holiday Inn in Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Baird of Fulton marked their sixtieth wedding anniversary. The reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Noble and Mr. and Mrs. John Donahay, their daughter and granddaughter. Another daughter, at Fort Worth, Texas, was unable to attend because of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird have two daughters, Mrs. Albert (Mary Gordon) Stanton of Fort Worth, Texas and Mrs. A. H. (Esther) Noble of Coral Gables, Fla., and Nashville, Tenn., three granddaughters, Mrs. John Donahay of Nashville, Miss Louise Stanton and Mrs. Phillip Gudar of Fort Worth, and six great grandchildren.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Noble and Mr. and Mrs. Donahay. Mrs. L. A. Clifton presided at the guest register. Mrs. Ben Evans served cake, nuts and mints, and Mrs. R. C. Pickering and Mrs. Beulah Francis poured the punch. A large number of their friends attended.

Gordon Baird of Obion, Tenn., and Annie Lee Paschall of Fulton were married on April 3, 1910, in the parlor of the Virginia Hotel at Dyersburg, Tenn., with Rev. J. B. Oakley, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Dyersburg performing the ceremony.

At the time of their marriage Mr. Baird and his brother, Norton, were editors and publishers of the Obion County Enterprise. Before going to Obion in November 1909, Mr. Baird was employed in Fulton by the Baptist Flag and The Leader.

Mr. Baird's brother, Norton, died in 1913 and Mr. Baird continued to operate the Enterprise. He was appointed postmaster at Obion in 1914, under the administration of President Woodrow Wilson. He served in this capacity a little more than nine years, operating the newspaper at the same time. In October 1924 he bought and consolidated the two newspapers at Union City, The News Banner and The Union City Commercial. He ran the paper there until 1937, when he went to Nashville and took a State job under Governor Gordon Browning. In 1941 he moved back to Union City and worked for the Union City Messenger. He came back to Fulton in November 1946 and was employed first by Paul Bushart and from May 1947 on, by the Westphelings at the Fulton County News, working for the News until his retirement in 1957.

Mrs. Baird has taught the Sarah Dean Sunday School Class at the First Christian Church since January 1955. Mr. Baird is superintendent of an adult department at the First Baptist Church and was president of the Men's Ever Ready Sunday School Class for fifteen years. He has been a deacon of the church since 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. Baird reside at 118 Second Street in Fulton. Their great granddaughter and great grandson, Carol and Johnny Donahay, are presently appearing on the Citrus Fruits commercial on TV as Anita Bryan's "children."

Attending the conference will be 225 young people and 18 adults, according to Dr. Loren Goyon, UK Extension program specialist in 4-H youth development. The group will travel to and from the conference on chartered buses, returning home on April 18. In Washington, they will stay at the National 4-H Center, where most of the conference sessions will be held. Juli Falkoff, Sherry Pickett, Carol Shaw, Jan White, Lucy Bondurant and Max Wilson will be delegates attending from Fulton County.

Planned especially for Kentucky 4-Hers who are freshmen or sophomores in high school, the conference will give these young people advanced citizenship-leadership training that they can pass on to other 4-Hers and to their high school classes.

Conference speeches and discussions are planned to give the delegates a deeper understanding of their heritage as U. S. citizens. As background for their citizenship studies, the 4-Hers will take field trips to national memorials and government buildings in the Washington area.

Among the places they will visit will be Capitol Hill, Arlington Cemetery, Lincoln Memorial, Mt. Vernon, and the Smithsonian Institute. Most of the delegates also will have an opportunity to visit their Congressmen's offices on Capitol Hill, and Kentucky's Senators and Representatives have been invited to meet the group at a special banquet on Thursday night, April 16.

The Total Home Economics Program Includes F. H. A.

In home economics many useful areas are studied. Each gives good training that will be useful in later life.

There are seven different areas studied in home economics. They are: child care, clothing construction, foods and nutrition, health, housing, management, and relationships. Each area usually lasts about six weeks. The same areas are studied each year, but they are studied more deeply from year to year.

Future Homemakers of America (F. H. A.) is a club for students who are studying home economics. F. H. A. activities focus on individual growth, the family, education, development of occupational competencies, preparation for marriage and careers, and on youth's role in society and the world.

Future Homemakers of America helps members develop leadership qualities, to cooperate with others, and to take responsibility; it provides opportunity for service; it helps members grow as persons, providing new friends, new goals and developing values.

There are degrees of achievement in F. H. A. The Junior degree is earned by many freshmen in home economics. Each girl learns certain facts about F. H. A. such as the Creed, the colors, the flower, and the emblem with an understanding of the eight purposes of F. H. A. and she shows growth as a home member, a member of the community, personal improvement, and relationships with other people.

Besides the Junior degree, there is the Chapter degree and finally the State degree. This is the greatest honor to be earned in the Future Homemakers of America.

The motto of F. H. A. is "Toward New Horizons." This is a challenge that reminds us that our lives today will influence our lives tomorrow.

The flower of the organization is the red rose. It represents the search of Future Homemakers of America for beauty in everyday living.

The colors are red and white. Red, an intense color, suggests strength. White is recognized as the symbol of sincerity. These colors inspire Future Homemakers of America with courage and determination to succeed.

I am a Junior at Fulton County High School working toward my State Homemaker's degree. As partial fulfillment for this degree, I would appreciate your publishing my interpretation of the total Home Economics Program including F. H. A.

Homemakers' 'Surprise Tour' Set For Wednesday, April 22

Plans were completed this week for the Fulton County Homemakers Annual Surprise Tour set for April 22nd. The committee composed of Mrs. James E. Hepler, Miss Alice Sowell, Miss Louise Maddox and Catherine Thompson, Extension Agent, completed the plans at their meeting in the home of Miss Maddox. Homemakers will meet in Fulton in front of the Highland Lumber Company and board the chartered buses to begin their tour and return at 4:00 p. m.

This is the third such tour enjoyed by 100 Homemakers each year. The first one was a visit to Paducah where the group was met at Paducah Community College by Mr. Hall Allen, Paducah Historian, and Mr. Robert Murphy, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who were guides with the bus for the red-line tour of Paducah and visits to city hall, the college, river front, Barkley Home, Irvin Cobb grave and the Paducah Bank, where Mr. M. O. DeJarnatt, President of the Bank, showed the complete art exhibit of Ray Harm prints and served refreshments for the group. Luncheon was enjoyed at Boswells. Guest speaker for this occasion was Mrs. Robert Murphy, who talked on "Why It's Wonderful To Be an American Citizen." After luncheon, the group learned how hosiery was made by a guided tour through the Indian Head Hosiery Mills.

The second tour last Spring included a trip to Murray State University with a guided tour through the Home Economics and Art Departments, the Tappan Range Factory and luncheon at the Ken Lake Hotel, where Dr. Ralph Tessener, Dean of the Graduate School at Murray State University, gave the Homemakers the "Seven Keys to Happiness". The dogwood trail from Murray to Ken Lake was the treat nature provided for the day. Only committee members know what is in store for the Homemakers Tour, come April 22, but 100 Homemakers know that it is something they will not want to miss.

Exhibit From National Art Gallery On Display In Paducah

"TWO CENTURIES OF AMERICAN PORTRAITS", an important exhibit from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C. is now on display in the Paducah Art Guild Gallery at 2nd and Broadway in Paducah. The show was organized by the Ky. Arts Commission in Frankfort, and according to William Hull, Executive Director of the Commission, the paintings will be exhibited in only three galleries in the state. It is the first exhibition ever loaned from the National Gallery collection, and the event has created great interest in the American art-world.

Dating from 1720 to 1920, the paintings are displayed chronologically in the gallery, so viewers can easily follow the development of painting styles in America. Virtually every great portrait artist has been included: Gilbert Stuart, Benjamin West, John Trumbull, Frank Duveneck, John Singer Sargent and many others.

The pictures are of great historic significance as well as high artistic merit. For this reason, many schools are arranging special group visits by students. Teachers may phone the gallery in Paducah (442-2453) to arrange for special morning visits to the gallery.

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

Dear Ann: I am not signing my name to this letter because we are friends. I don't think you can guess my identity. At least I hope not.

The letter from the mother of the teen-age boy signed "Mrs. Had It" got to me. (And to millions of other bewildered parents, I'll bet.) Our hostile, rebellious teen-ager is a girl, not a boy, but the description fits her. She isn't pregnant but I thought she might be, so I called a lawyer to find out what MY rights are. Well—I don't have any. According to Illinois law, if a 16-year-old daughter wants to keep her child, even though she can't support it, her parents are stuck.

"Mrs. Had It" is luckier than I am. At least her husband backs her up. Mine doesn't. He takes our daughter's side and together they try to beat me down. He sees nothing wrong with her staying out till 3 or 4 in the morning. Nor does he see anything wrong with her friends who not only use hard drugs but push them. I am sure our daughter smokes marijuana. He sees nothing "serious" about that either.

My husband feels because she is pleasant to him that they have a wonderful relationship. He points out that he has no trouble with her while she and I fight constantly. Therefore he insists that what he is doing is right and I'm the one who is at fault.

I am becoming bitter and frustrated. The situation seems hopeless. I've just about given up. Any suggestions? Sorry I can't sign this. I hope you can't guess. — Same Circle

Dear S. C.: I suggest you attack this problem at the source. The real trouble is between you and your husband. Your husband's permissive attitude as contrasted to your ineffective attempts to maintain discipline has made your home a battleground. Your daughter is the victim. I urge you both to get counseling.

Your daughter needs outside help at once. She has tuned you out completely. Her father will not give her decent counsel because he has opted in favor of being a pal in an effort to keep on good terms with her.

A therapist might be able to get through to the girl. And, incidentally, I do not have a clue as to your identity. I know at least a dozen people who have a problem similar to yours.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son's wife is a talented art student. She has painted a large portrait of our son in the nude. It now hangs in their living room. I have seen nudes hanging in other homes, but not in the living room—and never of a member of the family. The painting is very life-like and it makes me uncomfortable. Have you ever been asked this question before? — Ill At Ease

Dear Ill: This one — no, I've had something similar, however. The painting was of the wife but it was hanging in the bedroom.

Great art is great art anywhere, but a student's "very life-like" nude painting of her husband does not sound like great art to me.

Conspicuously absent is your question, "Should I say something?" The answer, if you had asked, would be — "No."

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Chilling View Of Future Urban America: Nervous Homeowner With A Handy Gun

"The city will be composed of highrise, high-security apartment houses and prospering commercial areas surrounded by squalor. In the suburbs, behind window grilles and electronic surveillance equipment, the nervous homeowner will always keep his gun handy."

After more than a year of study, the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence saw that grim picture of future life in urban America.

The vision gave added urgency to the work of the commission's 13 members, who delved into every aspect of their subject from violence on television to gun control and assassinations. In their final statement, the commissioners called for a drastic change in the nation's priorities.

"We solemnly declare," they said, "that this nation is entering a period in which our people need to be as concerned by internal dangers to our free society as by any probable combination of external threats."

The report cites a number of grave social ills, from racial discrimination to "the dislocation of human identity" caused by an affluent society.

To combat a rising tide of violence, the commission called on the government to reduce military spending as soon as the Viet Nam War is over and to increase money for general welfare programs.

To the average, middle-class American, the solution to the problem of poverty is absurdly simple in outline: go to work. He expresses himself now and then in the bumper sticker which reads: "I fight poverty. I work."

By constant effort and a great deal of common sense, he has won his own war against poverty.

The Commission also believes in work, but it comes up against the following facts:

— In 1966, there were in the United States 4.5 million heads of poor families under 65 years of age.

— Of these, 3.3 million worked as much as they could and remained in poverty. They are the "working poor" who simply do not make enough to lift themselves out of poverty.

— Of the remaining 1.2 million, more than three-fourths were ill, disabled or women with young children.

— of the remaining 230,000 about 127,000 did not work because they were in school or simply because they could not find jobs.

What is left, then, of the original 4.3 million is about 103,000—or a maximum of three percent. In this scant fraction are all those, presumably, who might go to work and, for a number of reasons, simply won't.

There is a popular myth that the poor waste money, including their welfare payments, on color television and other luxuries. The fact is that the poor have little money for luxuries.

The report of the Commission determined that a family of four with a monthly income of $284 ($3,408 a year) spends all but $9 of it for such basic necessities as food, housing, public transportation and clothing and personal care.

This leaves almost nothing for emergencies, for medical care or insurance, not to mention such items as a car, a bed for each family member, or school supplies.

The food budget for such a family adds up to $1 a day per person, an amount that is too low for a nutritionally adequate diet, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Libraries Are Feeling Strong Social Pressure

Libraries, the storehouse of books of knowledge, are feeling more strongly the pressure of major social change in America.

Increased pressure from the population explosion, prolongation of education, increase in continuing adult educational and vocational training are some of the changes that have made it difficult to provide the much needed library service for the nation.

It is the children who will bear the brunt of the lack of additional monies for libraries in the nation. With 40,000 schools without libraries in 1970, how can we refuse to give every consideration to this national need? We must somehow communicate to the public this problem. A community's mark of quality can be justifiably predicted in its interest in good library programs.

National Library Week for 1970 is April 12-18. Only one week of the year is officially set aside to bring the needs of libraries to the public. We should work for good libraries each day of the year. What are you doing?

Will Kentucky Gain Or Lose By Census?

The federal census taken by mail April 1 may mean a lot to Kentucky.

It will determine by the population count compared with that of other states how many representatives Kentucky will have in Congress in the next 10 years. Kentucky now has seven.

The census also will determine whether Kentucky will gain, lose or stand still in its sharing the millions of federal dollars parceled out on a population basis.

The census figures also are expected to show a need for shifting the present allotment of the Legislature's 100 state representatives and 38 state senators in accordance with population.

Fact and Opinion

U. S. motor vehicle registrations reached approximately 100 million by the end of 1968, the equivalent of one vehicle for every two persons in the nation, states the American Petroleum Institute. According to the Automobile Manufacturers Association, more than half of the world's passenger cars are in the U. S., plus about 38 per cent of all trucks and buses.

POET'S CORNER

THROUGH FAITH WE KNOW

God is good. Though from his hand
Come woes we cannot understand,
We faint not, since through faith we know
That all he sends is best; and so
We trust him, who our way has planned.
He cares for us. The mountains grand,
The sparrows small, at his command
Sprang into being. All things show

That God is good.

Though trails come, and we are fanned
Like wheat, and though the grains of sand
Through life's dim hourglass sadly go;
Whate'er our paths, through faith we know
They lead us to our Father's land.

Our God is good.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

"READING IS FOR EVERYBODY," is the 1970 theme of the week devoted to library services. The date for that week is April 12-18. Circulation for the libraries and bookmobile for the month of February was 5440.

HEAT LIGHTENING, by Hildegard Dolson. Beyond the suburbs lies exurbia, and beyond exurbia, in Connecticut, are independent towns like Bevington, full of independent people. These people celebrate their independence by planning a Fourth of July show, to be climaxed by a musical play involving local talents and temperaments. A leader in the planning is charming Cassie Murdoch, who volunteers the services of her beau, Oliver Yates, a young musician, to write the music for the play. This is a very good book. Its flavor and wit are matched by the charm and grace of the writing.

MOREDN EUROPE: A POPULAR HISTORY, by Thomas P. Neill. On May 5, 1789, a body of delegates elected by French clergy, aristocracy, and, most significantly, commoners, gathered in Paris for the purpose of drafting a national constitution unprecedented in Europe. That day, states Thomas P. Neill, marked the dawn of modern European history.

GREAT CARTOONS OF THE WORLD, by John Swartwout Bailey. The variety is immense, the commentary penetrating, and the drawings superb in this book "Great Cartoons of the World." This collection of over 300 outstanding cartoons selected from many thousands, is richer and funnier than ever, as it presents the visual humor of the world, the cartoonist's approach to events and people, the subtle and sometimes broadside barbs directed against the shibboleths of mankind.

THE SOUND OF SUMMER VOICES, by Helen Tucker. "It was at the beginning of the summer of his twelfth year that Patrick Quincannon Tolson reluctantly came to the conclusion that one of his aunts—either Athena or Beryl—was not his aunt at all but his mother." This is only the first of "many conclusions" that young Patrick comes to in the course of an extraordinary summer. So he begins to try to untangle the whole fabric of his life.

MYSTERIES OF OUR WORLD, by Peter Briggs. Did South America once touch Africa? How could the frozen Antarctic ever have supported tropical life? Why is the Pacific ringed with volcanoes? Can the world expect another Ice Age? Here Peter Briggs reports on the mysteries of natural science that continue to baffle us and tells us what scientists are doing about finding answers.

MARRY IN HASTE, by Jane Aiken Hodge. By mutual agreement, theirs was to be a marriage in name only, but Camilla Forest could not help falling in love with her husband, the handsome and enigmatic Lord Leominster. Their life together is further complicated by the turmoil of high intrigue as England joins forces with Spain in a plot to save Portugal from the onslaught of Napoleon's armies.

TREASURES OF BRITAIN AND TREASURES OF IRELAND, by A.A. As well as telling us what is to be seen where, this book explains how, why and when, each came to be made: there is a concise account of the schools of builders and artists, a lavishly illustrated history of styles in architecture and decoration over the last 1000 years and helpful glossaries of technical terms used by craftsmen—including the parts of a suit of armor and the hallmarks on English silver.

ANSWERS

THE PEOPLE

Your questions relating to the Commonwealth of Kentucky will be answered. Write Governor Ford at Frankfort, Ky.

Letters have been received from Harrodsburg, Leitchfield, Cynthiana and other communities similar to this query from K. R. S., Carrollton, Kentucky: "Is the General Assembly doing anything to help the tobacco farmer? If the cancer scare is not met, we may lose tobacco as Kentucky's Number One cash crop."

Dear Mr. S.: Tobacco farmers did something to help themselves during this session. Farmer-members of the Legislature faced the fact that prompt, reliable research is needed to determine whether there is a property in tobacco which causes cancer, and if so, to breed the harmful property out by developing new strains of tobacco.

These members originated a bill, which passed, to create a Kentucky Tobacco Research Fund and upped the tax on cigarettes from 2 1/4 to 3c to finance intensive tobacco research.

The Legislature defeated other proposed taxes on tobacco. The Assembly went on record in favor of continued federal price supports for burley, and it ordered state agencies to seek ways to preserve and expand the Kentucky tobacco market.

Sincerely,
Wendell Ford
Lieutenant Governor

Mrs. A. H. D., Ashland, writes: "I am much concerned about the deadly effects of DDT and its continued uncontrolled use. Will the lawmakers do anything to stop this damage to wildlife? This poison is also building up in human beings."

Dear Mrs. O.: This week I signed a newly-enacted Kentucky law which restricts the use of DDT in Kentucky. Under this law, DDT can be used only for such purposes as control of household pests, termites, bats, rats and mice. A federal ban has also been announced, but the Kentucky law can take effect earlier (on September 1, 1970).

Sincerely,
Wendell Ford
Lieutenant Governor

Mrs. S. J. M. writes: "There are fewer doctors in the mountains than there were ten years ago. Most of the young doctors settle in cities or go into specialized practice. I know we can't blame them, but there is a terrible need for the good old-fashioned kind of doctors who knew their patients from the time they were born and who knew the parents before them."

Dear Mrs. M.: You have drawn a bead on the rapidly disappearing general practitioner. As medical practice and life styles change, fewer young physicians take up the work of the family doctor who has been so cherished in Kentucky's community life.

I have just signed a law the Legislature passed hoping to increase the number of general practitioners. This law requires each medical school that gets state tax support to include the teaching of the general practice of medicine. Under this law, the medical schools in Lexington and Louisville must have a department of general practice of medicine, directed by a qualified general practitioner.

Only time will show whether this encourages more young doctors to choose practice as family doctors. I hope it does.

Sincerely,
Wendell Ford
Lieutenant Governor

Hope to see you before long and have a "gab fest." I'm proud about the I. C. Railroad plans.

FEEDER CALF SALE NEXT TUESDAY, APRIL 14

The mama cows will be bawling next Tuesday, April 14, because 400 feeder calves will be sold in the Spring Feeder Calf Sale of the Northwest Tennessee Feeder Calf Association at Newbern, Tennessee. The sale will start at 3:00 p. m. and the calves will be graded according to USDA Feeder Calf Grades and sold according to grade, weight groups, breed and sex.

Garrigan, Jr., Paul Grisham, Johnnie Wall, and Rufus Taylor.

ALFALFA WORMS ARE HERE

We have found a number of alfalfa weevil worms in the alfalfa fields of Obion County. The worms are very small at the present time and are buried in the buds of the plants. We find some feeding signs also. Whenever feeding signs are found on 30 to 40 percent of the plants then will be the proper time to start spraying to control the worms.

Even though the alfalfa weevil worms have run most of the alfalfa out of Obion County, you can still observe some good alfalfa fields on the farms of Ned Bigelow, Haywood Green, Paul Grisham & Sons, and John E. Fowler. The alfalfa weevil worms actually haven't started damaging the alfalfa on these farms as early this year as they have in previous years.

Tiny wasps that parasitize the alfalfa weevil or its larvae have been widely "colonized" in the eastern half of the U. S. in the past few years. The alfalfa weevil has not been as bad in Obion County during the last two years as in previous years, and we give the new wasps credit for part of the decline of the severity of damage being done to the alfalfa plants by the alfalfa weevil.

Get Well wishes are extended to Rufus Lowery, who is a patient in the Community Hospital at Mayfield, where he has undergone major surgery. We hope he will respond and recover very quickly.

Some who have made repairs on their farm homes are Robert Rickman and Buton Lassiter - on the interior, new sheet rock, paneling and painting have been applied. More conveniences to be added later.

Billie McConnell, Detroit, was here over the week end, visiting friends of his former home in District No. 17.

Mrs. Grady Poyner is doing nicely at the Murray hospital, after suffering a broken hip in a fall at the convalescent home. All friends wish for her a most speedy recovery.

Hubert Puckett is visiting in Huntsville, Ala., with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Doron. He resides in this District No. 1 and is a relative of the Doron family and is enjoying his visit in the south very much.

We have news from our brother, Eddie D. Lassiter, that he isn't so well and is under doctor's medication, with shots and pills, which we regret to hear. All relatives and friends here wish for better days soon. His address is Veler Road, Route 2, Box 115-A, Curtice, Ohio 43412. Am sure he would enjoy cards from friends, since he is a shut-in and has been in declining health for the past two years.

From a humble beginning, Kentucky's bookmobile service has progressed from a fleet of mules to a fleet of trucks unrivaled by any other state in the Union. The Kentucky Department of Libraries has 105 bookmobiles on highways, dirt roads, and in some cases creek beds, daily serving the people of the Commonwealth. In many cases, bookmobile circulation is greater than the county library from which it operates.

On Sunday, April 19, Bro. Stover will begin a series of seven sermons on "The Church." He has asked the congregation to make every effort to be present for each of these services, since missing one would detract from the others and hinder the full message.

Impala '400' Sale.

You save when you buy it. You save when you drive it.

When you buy any Impala V8 model during our "400" Sale, here's how you can get two popular extras at no extra charge.

You order your Impala equipped with a Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, radio, Comfortilt steering wheel, front and rear bumper guards and white stripe tires. Items you'd probably order anyway.

Then we add our big 400-cubic-inch V8 at 265 hp that runs on regular gas, along with dual exhausts—both at no charge. (The manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal excise tax for the regular fuel 400 V8 and dual exhausts is $93.75.)

But that's only the beginning. Because your Chevrolet dealer is really anxious to deal these days.

And the Impala you're buying, of course, got to be America's No. 1 car, because of all the value features built right in. Features like flush-and-dry rocker panels that fight rust. Inner fenders to protect the outer fenders. Long lasting bias belted ply tires, steel guard beams in every door for added protection, an acrylic lacquer finish over its solid body by Fisher.

All of which contributes to Impala's traditionally high resale value, too.

You're getting America's No. 1 car on sale. The car more people buy—year after year after year.

How can you beat that?

Tobacco Support Price Set

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has set the average price support level for the 1970 burley tobacco crop at 66.6 cents a pound, compared with a 65.8 cents average for the 1969 crop.

The support is the amount farmers are guaranteed for their leaf in return for limiting the amount of tobacco they raise. The agency said Thursday the increase is about 4.3 per cent because price-support law requires that price supports reflect the higher costs of goods and services bought by farmers during the past three years, compared with the average of those prices during the 1969 base period.

The average price support level for dark air-cured type 35 tobacco will be 41.4 cents in 1970. For dark fire-cured types 22 and 23, the support level will be 46.6 cents.

Kentucky Game Hunting Dates Set

By HARRY TOWLES, Special Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky.—This is for the hunters. For the last few weeks most talk has been about fishing and when it will break wide open. But hunters must be given a bit of consideration and that is exactly what the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission did at a recent meeting.

Hunters have complained down through the years that they were handicapped in applying for vacation dates to coincide with certain hunting seasons—simply because the dates of favorite hunting seasons are not usually announced in time. The commission took care of the little grievance quite adequately at the last session.

All season, except those for migratory birds and waterfowl, have been set for Kentucky as of now. The Department of Interior furnished a framework during which waterfowl or migratory birds may be taken and Kentucky fits its seasons into this boundary. This framework has not yet been announced and therefore the hunting seasons for those species in Kentucky have not been set.

According to the ruling of the commission, the squirrel season will open this year on Aug. 15 and continue through Oct. 31. A second phase will open on Nov. 19 and continue through Dec. 31.

The bag limit again this year is six, with 12 in possession after two or more days of hunting.

Hunters are always interested in the gun deer hunt, especially. That five-day season this fall will open in all 120 counties on Nov. 14 and continue through Nov. 18 with deer "with antler or spike visible above the hairline" being legal game. In three counties, Edmonson, Barren and Hart, doe may be taken as well as bucks.

The bow and arrow season, in all 120 counties, will run throughout October and December. Of course, the limit for deer in Kentucky is one per year, all seasons included. Dates for the hunting on a number of military installations have not been set nor have the dates been established for controlled hunting preserves.

The quail and rabbit hunter must have his gun and dogs ready by Nov. 19. That's the day both seasons open. They will continue uninterrupted through Jan. 31. Six rabbits may be taken per day with 12 in possession. The bobwhite limit is 10 per day with 20 in possession.

Grouse hunters will again have a long season. Firing starts on Nov. 19 and concludes Feb. 28, 1971. The limit is unchanged at four per day and eight in possession.

So, hunters, there you are. Now, make your vacation coincide with the open season on your favorite game.

'Cadillac' writer, Guy Drake, laughing loud and riding high

(Song on page four)

BY HOWELL PEARE
NASHVILLE BANNER

The view from a radio tower in Kentucky has caused a rumble that goes from Music Row to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. The eye of the storm securely rests in the native talent of a 46-year-old former schoolteacher and painting contractor who has written and recorded a song that has sold more than 350,000 copies and is slated for a

Smiling all the way to recording glory, Guy Drake takes time to promote the album that has caused a nationwide controversy, proving that songs can have as much impact on the national scale as the latest average from the stock market.

command performance in the White House's East Room April 17.

Guy Drake, who has been in Nashville 14 months, wrote "Welfare Cadillac" when he was painting a radio tower in Pineville, Ky. It now is a juke box favorite and President Nixon requested it as one of three particular songs he wanted Johnny Cash to sing when the nation's number one entertainer will perform before 250 dignitaries.

Comical
"It's comical," Drake said Friday, commenting on the recent letter that Tennessee Welfare Commissioner Herman Yeatman wrote Nixon, protesting the request and saying that the song did not depict welfare recipients in the proper light.

"The man who should have the intelligence for his position, though, takes away the comedy," Drake said. When you turn the thing around, there's not a damned thing funny. He's putting his hand in my pocket.

"He doesn't know anything more about the record business than I know about the welfare department.

"This man has made a silly statement," Drake's manager and agent, Buddy Lee said, and added that Yeatman should apologize to President Nixon and Drake.

The song tells about a man who uses his welfare check to make payments for a Cadillac even though his house is less than great, and alludes to the fact that the President has promised more for welfare. This induces the man to conclude that his wife should also have a Cadillac.

Segment Featured
Friday night's CBS-TV news, with Walter Cronkite, featured a segment that depicted the controversy, and local television stations as well as AP and UPI wire services have devoted time to the incident.

Drake said he wrote the song when he was painting a radio tower in Pineville, Ky., noticing a shanty that was "half wood and half Holiday Inn sign, with a roof made of sawmill slabs, tin cans and pieces of linoleum."

"There was a litter of young'uns, some of 'em old, enough for school, without a stitch of clothes on. I didn't see any grownups, either. What really got me was this Cadillac parked in front of the house. I sat down and wrote the song and carried it in my pocket for four years."

Drake said he came to Nashville 14 months ago because his two daughters married Nashville men and he was "too tired" making the trip here to see them, "so, I just moved here."

Painting Stripes
He worked with the Kroger Co., painting stripes for parking lots, and took his song to local agencies, trying to get it published and recorded. "Several major labels wanted it for other singers," he said, "but I told them if I couldn't sing it, then nobody would."

Drake said, "The height of my career came when I heard that the President had made a tape of my song for his own personal enjoyment, and when the top man asks the top singer to do it for him, it's great."

He said the song was written on the back of a label of paint can at the foot of the tower he was painting.

More Polka
The Cadillac he saw in front of the house, he added, had more polish on it than the kids did clothes.

The song has not changed since then, he said, and he wrote the music that accompanies his recitation of the lyrics.

He said that he is "not mad" at Yeatman but would prefer him to "take care of the welfare department and I'll take care of the record business."

"I don't see why he is so darned up in the air. I'll bet I could find some people getting more from welfare than I'm getting from this record."

Drake said, "I'm driving a brand new Cadillac, and welfare ain't paying for it." The car was paid for, he said, in $7,400 "cash," and features a magnetic sign stating:

Guy Drake's Original Welfare Cadillac.
The car has a plaque on the back seat that Drake received Feb. 21, stating that his song was the number one record in the country.

Yeatman's objection is not the only one, Drake said. He stated that a disc jockey in Kansas City was visited by 50 welfare recipients who "brought their peanut butter and all their other goodies" to protest playing of the record. Drake said that the man told the persons that if they didn't pick up the groceries he would use them.

No Novice
Drake doesn't come to the music profession as a novice. He has a master's degree in music and a bachelor's degree in mathematics. He utilized both for one year, 1946-47, teaching them in a high school in Central City, Ky., for $60 a week.

He said he became dissatisfied with teaching and then began working as a painting contractor.

Drake added that he has no animosity toward the welfare program. "If people are mentally, physically or emotionally handicapped, then they should have help. But I'm not in favor of giving something to a man who is too lazy to work. I've worked all my life, and I'm going to keep on working as long as I can."

Dick Heard, the youthful president of Royal American Records, Inc., the label that carries Drake's songs, said "Welfare Cadillac" was turned down by many companies.

First Record
"We had just set up our own system of distribution when we picked up this country. Our first record released under this new distribution was Guy's song."

His reaction to Yeatman's letter is:

"By his selection of 'A Boy Named Sue,' 'Okie From Muskogee' and 'Welfare Cadillac,' the President showed an acute awareness of grass roots humor, and I felt that Mr. Yeatman had not exhibited this sense of humor. 'Perhaps because of his position, he's too close to the forest to see the trees.'"

Cash is not upset about the situation, and has stated that he will sing Drake's song if the President wants to hear it.

That is Drake's feeling, too, and the ringing of the telephone in Buddy Lee's office Friday afternoon was positive testimony that the song is determined to be heard in the White House.

Drake has sent a telegram to Nixon, saying: "Kindly pay no attention to Tennessee's welfare commissioner. He wants to put me on welfare by banning the year's best tongue-in-cheek record, 'Welfare Cadillac.'"

"Welfare Cadillac"

Well, I've never worked much. In fact, I've been pore all my life.

I guess all I really own is 10 kids and a wife.

This house I live in is all mine, but I guess it is really a shack. But I always manage somehow to drive a brand new Cadillac.

Back door steps, they all fell plumb down.

Front screen all laying somewhere on the ground.

Wind just now whipped another piece of tar roofing off the back--

Shore hope it (doesn't) skin up that new Cadillac.

Makes no sense to fix them 'cause the floor is rotten!

In winter we sometimes have snow blow in at the cracks--

Gets too bad, we just all pile up and sleep in that new Cadillac!

I know the place ain't much but I shore don't pay no rent.

I get a check the first of every month from this here federal government.

Every Wednesday I get commodities. Why, sometimes four or five sacks--

Pick them up at the welfare office driving that new Cadillac.

Some folks say I'm crazy; I've even been called a fool.

But my kids get free books and free lunches at the school.

We get peanut butter and cheese, and man, they give flour by the sack.

Course them welfare checks make the payments on my new Cadillac.

Now the way I see it, those other folks are the fools--

They're working and paying taxes to send my kids to school!

Salvation Army cuts their hair and gives them clothes on their back.

So we can dress up and show off that new Cadillac!

But things are going to get better yet. At least that's what I understand.

They tell me this new President has put in a new poverty plan.

He's going to send us pore folks money. They say we're going to get it in a sack.

In fact, my wife is already shopping for her a new Cadillac!

Plan Display Of Animals

The actual earth, trees and sky, will be moved into the Obion County Museum to build the display of mounted animals native to this area.

"We want to show them off in their own habitat and this is the only way we know how to do it," museum committee member Tom Kilpatrick, a sergeant with the Tennessee Highway Patrol, said today.

According to Sgt. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Joe Eakin, Obion County Central art instructor, and several members of her class have agreed to help build the display, including the painting of an 8-by-16 foot background scene.

Also volunteering his services is John Reid, Obion County taxidermist, who says he has several animals and birds which can be used in the display.

So far, a bobcat, goose, deer, white squirrel and an albino mallard duck have been loaned.

It is the purpose of the museum committee to set up a display using only the animals, birds and reptiles native to this area.

Still needed are a number of other stuffed specimens such as a beaver, groundhog, all sorts of ducks, rabbit, skunk, raccoon, opossum, all types of birds and even snakes.

Anyone having one of these animals he would like to place in the museum may contact Sgt. Kilpatrick or any of the other four members of the committee--David Critchlow, Mrs. Al Strayhorn and Mrs. George Cloys, all of Union City, and Frank Short of Hornbeak.

With much work remaining before the museum will be ready to open, and because the committee is operating on a limited budget, considerable volunteer labor will be needed.

It is hoped that other groups such as 4-H, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, and community clubs will follow the Central art class lead in volunteering to construct and set up displays.

All types of materials will be needed, including logs of various lengths, wooden pallets, and weather-beaten aged lumber such as seen in many of the old out-buildings throughout the county. There is also a great need for showcases.

Persons should be reminded that if they donate items to the Home Drinking Hurts BOSTON—Liquor is the main cause of accidents in the home, a year-long study of 8,000 emergency-ward patients admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, showed.

Cancer Drive Leaders Set At Fulton

FULTON, Ky. — Mrs. Larry Huntley, chairman of the fund drive of the American Cancer Society in the Fulton area, has announced the leaders for this year's drive.

They are: Mrs. Tommy Reams and Mrs. Lynn Newton, the residential chairmen, Mrs. Jimmy Newton, business chairman, and Mrs. Norman Fulcher, publicity chairman.

Mrs. Huntley also announced that this year's fund drive, which is sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club, will consist of two parts.

The business drive will be held April 13 through April 18, while the residential canvass will be held April 21 from 5 to 7 p.m.

Universities Crucial, Reports UK President

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Universities today are crucial to the national well-being because they offer "a forum for public debate of the most important issues," Dr. Otis A. Singletary, president of the University of Kentucky, said Wednesday.

"The campus still is the center of the civilizing process," despite turmoil at many American universities, Singletary told members of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce attending the chamber's annual business congress.

The UK president said, however, that he has become weary of hearing people say what's wrong with students and the nation, then proceeded to compliment students and the "over 30 generation."

The luncheon meeting was to honor winners of the chamber's annual Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) awards.

"These young people are really the hope of the future," Singletary said, pointing to the award winners sitting just in front of him.

Noting that much of the criticism leveled at the "over 30 generation" comes from his observation, he said that from his observation "We must be doing something right." Among the accomplishments of the older generation in America, Singletary listed the attack on poverty, advancement into space and steps toward achieving racial equality.

"We as a people have never been more prosperous," he said, "not more generous with our prosperity."

Singletary said many Americans seem to have lost their perspective in looking at a multitude of problems. "I think we have lost our perspective. We should take a good hard look at society, but with perspective," he concluded.

The state STAR winners were William Marc Strull, 17, a senior at Louisville Atherton High School, and a teacher at the school, Mrs. Stanley Sturman.

The top awards were made on the basis of the College Board Aptitude Test, with the highest scorer winning. The STAR student then selected the teacher who in his opinion made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

The state winners each received a $500 scholarship and a trophy. Regional winners, announced previously, were given savings bonds, presented by local chambers of commerce.

James Ward Hargrove, assistant postmaster general for finance and administration, was the main speaker at the night session of the congress.

President-elect John T. Acree, chairman of the Lincoln Income Life Insurance Co. in Louisville, took over duties as head of the Kentucky chamber at the conclusion of the annual membership banquet Wednesday night.

More Meat Per Hour
In 1951 one hour's labor brought 1.7 pounds of beef. This year one hour's labor buys 3.2 pounds of beef. Income for American wage earners in that period rose from an average $57.80 per week or $1.45 an hour to $113.55 per week or $3.02 per hour.

Diver's Delight
Half the diving boards manufactured world-wide are made of Douglas fir. This wood leads in ability to withstand constant flexing. No wonder Douglas fir lumber is No. 1 with U.S. builders.

Contract For MSU Work Let

FRANKFORT, Ky. — McBar Constructors, Inc., of Bowling Green has been awarded two large construction contracts by the state, including a $1,068,000 contract to build a business service building at Murray State University.

The other contract covers construction of 12 vacation cottages at Barren River State Park near Glasgow.

Completion date for the Murray State building project is March 30, 1971, while the Glasgow work is to be finished by Jan. 29, 1971.

The MSU structure will be a two-story building, including a central warehouse as well as space for printing, photography and offices.

The vacation cottages will be two-bedroom housekeeping units. Work on both projects is scheduled to get underway within one week.

Air Fresh No Longer
WASHINGTON — It's hard to find fresh air in most U.S. cities. Fresh air, as the National Academy of Sciences defines it, contains less than one-tenth of one part of carbon monoxide per million parts of air. Average city air contains more than 100 times that amount.

Economic Future Bright, Nunn Says

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Gov. Louie B. Nunn has told Kentucky businessmen that the economic future for the Commonwealth appears bright despite what he termed "unfavorable economic factors that have prevailed throughout the nation."

Nunn, speaking Thursday at an industry meeting co-sponsored by the state Department of Commerce and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, said his administration is about to undertake its greatest effort to date to bring new industry to the state.

He said 86 new industries, the largest number on record, located in Kentucky during 1969 and sited major breakthroughs in getting industry to build in impoverished Eastern Kentucky.

"During the past two years," Nunn said, "industrial expansion has created over 29,000 new jobs. Industry has invested over $700 million in our economy."

He predicted, "The state administration will embark on the most aggressive, extensive, determined effort in the history of Kentucky to bring new industry to the Commonwealth."

Fulton, Ky. Thursday, April 9, 1970 Page 6 to aid and assist existing industries in their plans for expansion" in the next two years. "We are going to take the Kentucky story to any businessman who will listen," Nunn said, "no matter where he is in the United States."

In the keynote address, Joseph Gauss, vice president of General Electric Co., called for businessmen to take an active interest in education, labor laws and politics.

Land Cost Is 21 Pct. Of New-Home Price

WASHINGTON — The price of land for housing has been rising 10 to 20 per cent a year. Land costs now are about 21 per cent of the price of a single-family house and 13 per cent of an elevator apartment unit. The average site of a new one-family dwelling rose from $1,685 in 1960 to $3,765 in 1967, a gain of 224 per cent.

HARLAN, Ky. — The Kentucky Department of Commerce has advice for someone with $2 million to $3 million to spare: Buy snow.

The department has approached several prospective entrepreneurs about building a ski resort in Harlan County, buried in the heart of Appalachia. But it said nothing definite has come from the talks.

Interest in the project was generated by a recent report from two University of Kentucky specialists, Doyle Cook and John S. Baxter, who studied the possibility of skiing, using manufactured snow, on Harlan County mountain slopes.

Their base of operation was Big Black Mountain, elevation 4,000 feet, where an official weather station was placed in operation in January, 1969.

Data collected the first four months showed that for the 1968-70 season, a ski operation of 116 days would have been possible from Big Black Mountain.

Cook and Baxter also found that the site, in terms of weather, is similar to "eastern Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut where there are many successful ski areas." They also found that the average temperature atop the mountain is approximately 7.5 degrees lower than that at the Gatlinburg, Tenn., Ski Complex.

Baxter, a tourism development specialist with the university, said a ski resort in the county would have a market area including all of the state as well as parts of Ohio, Indiana, Virginia and West Vir-

Horse Show Scheduled For May 2

The first spring horse show of the West Kentucky Horseman's Association will take place May 2 at the Reidland Riding Club.

This date, along with other show dates for 1970, was selected by member clubs of the WKHA at its monthly meeting. The WKHA is sponsoring the Reidland show.

The association also set April 11 as the date for its banquet which will be held at the Jaycee Civic Center here. Time of the banquet is 7 p.m.

WKHA President Gary Wicker presided over the meeting where several rule changes were pointed out concerning competition riding in 1970.
