Uncle Sam Starts Looking For New Site After Panama's Rejection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (UP)—Chairman Albert J. Engel, announced today he would ask his House subcommittee on Military Appropriations to provide the Army with funds to survey new canal sites in Central America as a result of Panama's rejection of a defense base agreement with the U.S.

Furthermore, the Michigan Republican said, until his subcommittee is assured that the U.S. had the bases necessary to defend the Panama Canal, he would oppose the expenditure of any funds for new work in the Panama Canal Zone.

"And," he said, "I shall proceed with the idea in view of taking steps for a survey to find another canal site, where we can get bases for defense."

"In the event of a second canal, I feel certain that the Panama Canal only on a standby basis. It is absolutely inconceivable that the United States should have a canal it could not defend."

He said that, in the original agreement providing for the canal site, Panama granted the United States the right to maintain defense bases. But, Engel said, the late President Roosevelt gave up that privilege "as a grand gesture."

"Panama, therefore, is within its legal rights to say no to us," Engel said. "But we're in our legal rights to go some place else to find another canal."

He said there were at least three or four prospective sites outside Panama. He said he could not say just where they were, but that he thought some of them were in Nicaragua and in that part of Colombia that extends to the isthmus.

"This is solely a matter of defense and not a question of territorial expansion," Engel said. "Since Panama has seen fit to bar us from defense sites, I am against spending another cent for improvements or new work in the Canal Zone. I expect to advocate to my committee that it include in the next civil funds appropriation a bill for the Army money to make surveys for new sites."

Engel said the canal was not only important to the United States, but to every Latin American country because it provided the simplest link between the East and West coast of South and Central America.

Here's What Atom Pile Is Like; Hope Of World Rests On Use Of Discoveries

Each pile can be operated by one man, although a standby always is present. The operator sits at a control panel much simpler than the visitor might expect. It is equipped with buttons, dials and red and green lights.

Just Pushes Buttons

To start the pile, the operator pushes six buttons. That starts electric motors which pull from the pile long strips of cadmium, a metal that captures neutrons. When the strips or control rods are inserted in the pile, no chain reaction is possible because neutrons emitted by uranium-235 are captured in the strips.

When the rods are removed, green lights opposite the controlling buttons flash to red, and the pile begins to build up power or neutron intensity. With the aid of other controls the operator can set the pile at whatever power level he needs for the experiment at hand.

Once the power level has been established, the operator can switch the pile to automatic control. It will operate itself, maintaining a consistent kilowatt power rating, indefinitely.

We watched as the cadmium control rods were slid from the graphite pile. The only sound is the hum of the electric motors that move the rods. The pile itself is silent when operating.

Make Shift Rod Works

The cadmium rods really are thin strips of cadmium mounted on steel. One of them was nailed onto the pile by a device the scientists explained that "we built the pile in a hurry, and the chunk of wood was right at hand." It works as well as the other rods, and never has been replaced.

The heavy water pile generates heat equivalent to the amount put out by 10 automobile engines—no more. The uranium within the pile does not "burn up" and will last indefinitely.

The piles originally were used to make the calculations necessary for the construction of the big plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash. They are too small to be used directly in the manufacture of atomic bombs.

Now, they are being used to produce radioactive research materials, for further studies in nuclear physics, and for basic calculations on the problems of building atomic power houses.

Radioactive materials are produced simply by placing the materials within the pile, or by opening a hole in the concrete wall and allowing the material to be bombarded by a beam of neutrons from within the pile.

Materials which can be made radioactive very quickly are introduced into the pile by a device the scientists call a "rabbit," because it works so fast. The "rabbit" is similar to the pneumatic tubes used in big department stores to send bills and small change to the cashier's desk.

Materials which must be left within the pile for longer periods are lowered through an opening in the top of the pile. They are brought out again by a grappling device. During the entire process the operator is protected from the deadly rays by a heavy lead container placed over the opening in the pile.

Sent to Oak Ridge

Radioactive materials for which the scientists have no further use are placed in lead containers and shipped to the Clinton Laboratories at Oak Ridge, Tenn., where there are concrete facilities for storing them until they become harmless.

Few people understand what happens within the pile, but there no longer is any secret about it. The fundamentals of the process are as simple to understand as putting blocks together, or more aptly, splitting them apart.

When an atom of uranium 235 emits or throws off a neutron, the stray neutron or "bullet" may hit the nucleus of another uranium 235 atom. When that happens, the bombarded nucleus splits. That is known as fission.

The bombarded nucleus in turn throws off three of its own neutrons, which in turn may split other nuclei, thus creating a chain reaction.

Neutrons Harmless

Neutrons themselves are not dangerous unless exposure is constant. I held my hand in front of a neutron beam coming from a hole in the concrete wall. It didn't even tickle.

The neutrons, however, can make many materials radioactive. Such materials capture the neutrons and throw off in turn gamma and beta rays, which are dangerous.

In demonstration of this phenomenon, Dr. William H. Zinn, noted nuclear physicist and director of the Argonne Laboratories, held a thin strip of silver in the beam of a neutron beam within three seconds the silver became radioactive and turned to cadmium.

Zinn said gold could be made in the pile, but it would be more expensive than digging it out of the ground.

That's Philosophy

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—A snow-haired man didn't mind when the judge gave him 20 days in the stockade for crawling under a house to sleep. "Make it 100 days if you want to," he said. "I got no place to go."

Xmas Shoppers Spending More Money This Year

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (UP)—Americans heading into the final flurry of Christmas shopping were estimated today to be spending six to 15 per cent more money than they did last year and getting for it fewer packages in piles under the nation's Christmas trees.

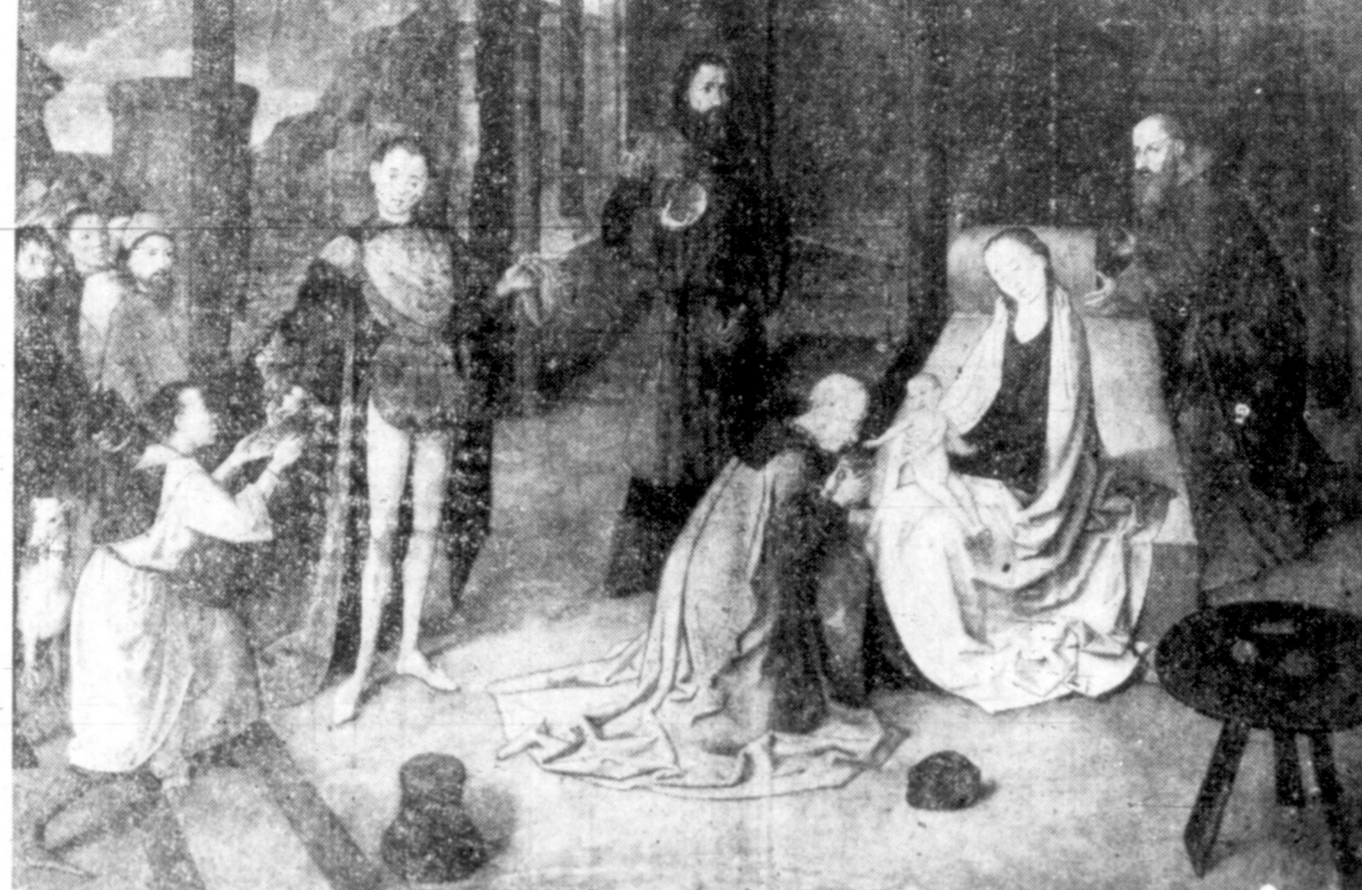

But the contents of those packages will be more practical than in recent years, New York department stores and national business organizations estimated.

Although the season is by no means over and figures are incomplete, all retail observers believe that dollar receipts for the season will be above last year. They attribute that solely to increased prices, however, and many of them figure that considerably fewer individual sales than last year will have been rung up when the Christmas buying season ends next Wednesday.

The high cost of living is putting something the receiver "needed anyway" into more stockings than usual, the stores believe.

Famous are reported in heavy demand by several stores. Radios and television sets are doing their share of business. Some stores report silverware a large Christmas gift item.

"Peace on Earth . . ."

THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI—Although this work by Joes van Ghent, who was active in 1460-1480, was executed at a time when the artist had been a free master for several years, the awkwardly placed figures and their odd poses are signs of immaturity that disappear in works of his Italian period. Van Ghent was a Netherlandish painter who settled and worked in Italy, widely influencing contemporary artists and Italian painters of the following decade. Jesse Thomas Leaves Coaching Post at Western BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (UP)—Dec. 23 (UP)—Western State Teachers College today was looking for a football coach, following the resignation of head coach Jesse Thomas.

School president Paul L. Garrett announced that Thomas resigned, but that he would continue as a member of the physical education staff.

Thomas' successor has not been named, but Garrett said an announcement would be made "in due time, but only after a complete study is made of the situation." He added a coach would be appointed in time to set up spring practice.

Thomas became coach two years ago, when Western resumed football after the war. In the two years, the team won five games, lost 10 and tied two.

Judges Select Winners of Christmas Decorations Contest Last Night

The home in Murray having the most beautiful Christmas decorations was picked last night from the 31 entries in the contest.

The judges, three new faculty members from the college, said that the decorations were unusually nice and that it was extremely difficult to pick the winners. The judges were completely impartial, being from out of town, and based their decision solely on merit.

The winners of the contest will be announced at 9:00 o'clock Christmas Eve at the court house square.

A list of the entries follows so that people driving around the city to see the decorations will not miss any of the homes:

Sharpe Street—E. S. Ferguson, Poplar Street—T. Slieck, Main Street—Mrs. Goldie Orr, Karl Frazer, G. B. Scott, Olive Street—J. H. Shackelford, Mayelle Johnson, Gene Tarry, Jr., Roy S. Farmer, C. O. Buppardant, Zelma Carter, Rev. Robert Jarman, Mrs. Hattie Laura McConnell, Chestnut Street—Sam Jones, Elm Street—H. G. Dunn, Haron West, E. C. Parker, R. L. Mott, Pegue Outland, Bradburn Hall.

Reagan Sets Third All-Time Record

John Reagan

Last night Johnny Reagan broke his third all-time record at Murray State when he walked to the free throw line for the first time. Reagan topped the 189 free throws record set in 1938 by Red Burdette.

Earlier this year Reagan broke two free throw records that were also held by Burdette. Burdette still holds the games played record and Reagan stands at 75 games played now and could break that record early in the year.

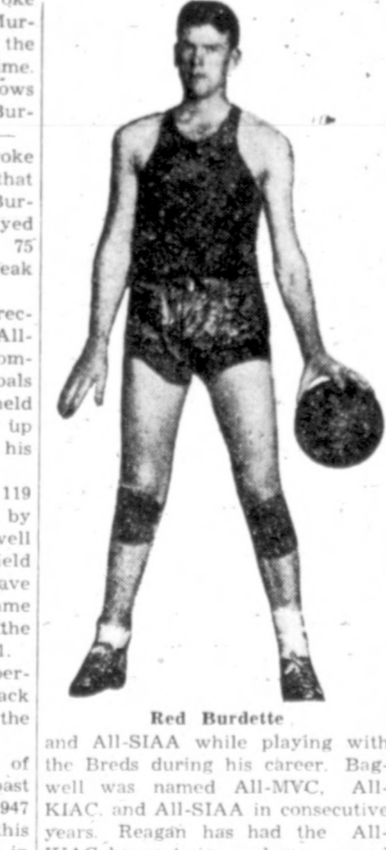

Besides the games played record Reagan still has two more All-Time marks to hit before he completes his list. Both the field goals and total points records are held by Willard Bagwell who hung up his duds in 1933 and has left his marks standing for 15 years.

The six foot Redhead needs 119 points to top the 936 points left by Bagwell after graduation. Bagwell can sit back and hold onto his field goal records for Reagan would have to average about 20 points a game for the rest of the season to get the 101 needed to top Bagwell's 411.

Last year Reagan topped the personal fouls record set by Jack Haines in 1945 when he passed the 144 mark.

Reagan has been a member of the Thoroughbred; during the past three years of 1945, 1946, and 1947 and is playing his fourth year this season. Burdette set his records in three years but Bagwell's were set in four also.

Burdette was named All-KIAC

and All-SIAA while playing with the Breds during his career. Bagwell was named All-MVC, All-KIAC and All-SIAA in consecutive years. Reagan has had the All-KIAC honor twice and was named the most valuable player in the 1945 Mid-West tournament at Terre Haute, Ind.

MEET ME at the Varsity Theatre

Wednesday morning at 9:30 for a rip-roarin' good time at the free cartoon show for kiddies.

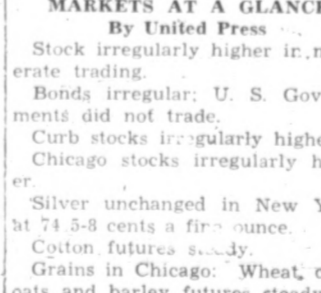

Murray Woodmen Elect Officers

At the regular December meeting Monday night, December 22, the Murray Woodmen of the World Camp elected the following officers:

Bud Stalls, consul commander; Ray Sinclair, advisor lieutenant; Burman Parker, banker; W. B. Moser, escort; Otto Swann, watchman; Porter Holland, sentry.

After the regular election a business session was held. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

GIMME A QUICK HAIR CUT AND SHAVE, I'VE ONLY GOT SHOPPING DAY LEFT UNTIL CHRISTMAS!

Maroons Outpoint Breds With Last Minute Scoring

Gary Cooper And Jennifer Jones Get Dubious Honor

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Lanky Gary Cooper and sultry Jennifer Jones were named as the "Least Cooperative Film Stars of 1947" by the Hollywood Women's Press Club.

On the other hand, the ladies scribes picked Gregory Peck and Joan Fontaine as the most cooperative actor and actress; and will award them gold apples Tuesday at a club luncheon.

The "uncooperative" players will be dared to show up.

Runners-up for "Least Cooperative" honors were Bing Crosby, Ronald Colman, Kathryn Hepburn and Ingrid Bergman, who moped up a couple of notches from last year when she was voted most uncooperative.

"Most Cooperative" runners-up were Glenn Ford and Ronald Reagan among men and Loretta Young, June Haver and Dorothy Lamour among actresses.

Murray Leads At Half, Weakens To Lose By 46-43

By DON BRUMBAUGH

Eastern Kentucky's Maroons put on a last period point-pung show and outlasted the Murray State Thoroughbreds to come out on top of the KIAC bout 46-43 last night at Carr Health Building on the Murray campus.

Joe Fryz with 12 points and Groebel Ritter with 11 were the high point men for the powerful Maroon five. Rex Alexander with 11, Charlie Snow with 8, Johnny Reagan with 6 led the Racheuse parade.

"Lang John" Padgett made his debut on the Murray floor for the 1948 season and got the Breds off to a good start getting a jump shot and a pair of free tosses to give Murray a 4-0 lead. Chuck Mrazovich hit a free throw and Joe Fryz a crisp to start the Eastern scoring. Rex Alexander dumped a set shot for Murray and Paul Hicks a set for Eastern as the score read 6-6 for Murray with 15 minutes left to go in the half.

Alexander dumped another set shot for Murray followed by a pair of free throws by Goebel Ritter and Joe Fryz. Charlie Snow hit a free pitch as Goebel Ritter and Fryz got another pair of charity tosses. Cliff Cavender made a pivot shot from the sidelines as Hicks hit a pair of set shots for Eastern to put the Maroons out in front 13-12 with seven minutes left to play.

Ritter hit a jump shot for Eastern and Herold a set shot followed by a pivot shot by McGraith from the slot to give Murray back the lead 16-15.

Ritter hit a crisp shot as the lead changed hands again and Loughery dunked a crisp to bring it back to Murray at 18-17 with five minutes left to play.

The second half started as the fast first half had ended with the lead changing hands eight times. Fryz tied up the ball game with a set shot at 23 all. Snow and Alexander hit charity tosses for Murray to bring the lead back to the Breds.

Mrazovich hit a crisp to tie the game and Shemelya a free toss to take the lead—again to the Eastern bench once again. Alexander hit a free pitch for Murray to again tie the ball game at 26-26. Ritter dumped a set shot and Reagan a pivot shot to give the lead back to Murray followed by a set shot by Hicks. Reagan hit a pivot shot and Alexander a crisp as Murray took over 32-31 with 13 minutes left to play in the ball game. Eastern put on a rally with Shemelya getting a free toss, Fryz a crisp, and Eagle a crisp and a free pitch to give Eastern a 37-32 lead.

Alexander hit a free shot for Murray followed by a free pitch by Hicks. Padgett sank a charity toss for Murray. Fryz and Eagle hit criss for Eastern as Snow and Reagan dumped free tosses for Murray and Eastern led 42-36 with five minutes remaining.

Snow hit a set shot for Murray as Fryz hit a crisp for Eastern to keep Eastern's six point lead. Snow hit another set shot and Reagan a free pitch as the gap-closed to three points with one minute and 45 seconds remaining. Shemelya hit a crisp to set up the game for Eastern but Reagan returned a crisp to close the gap to three points as the game ended.

Douglas High To Play In Stove Bowl Here Thurs.

Murray's first Stove Bowl game will be played in the Douglas High stadium on Christmas Day when the high school team meets the Alumni All Stars.

Last year Douglas High won the state's championship in football. The only defeat, was by Peral High of Nashville, Tenn.

The Alumni All Stars will out-weight Coach Miller's Bulldogs about 10 pounds per man in the Christmas Day battle, although Douglas is considered by some to have the fastest team in the West Kentucky Conference.

The high school will have three all-state players in the starting line-up: Obie McCuiston, 142 pound center; Charles Foster, 145 pound guard; and Buster Skinner, Jr., 176 pound end.

Fans will see some of the boys in action for the last time with the blue and white. Those playing their last game are: Buster Skinner and Wilda Cunningham, seniors; and Wartus Grogan, C. Rowlette, and Leary Wilder, who will not be eligible for the squad next year.

The Women's Society of Christian Service met at the Coldwater Methodist Church Saturday afternoon, December 20, with Mrs. Veva Turner, president of the society, presiding. The opening song was Silent Night followed by a scriptural reading from the second chapter of Luke by the president and prayer by Mrs. Effie Kingman.

After the business session, the following program was given: Melodrama, "Must Keep Its Head Warm"—Mrs. Mildred Adams; Rules For a Holy Life—Mrs. Lottie Potts; Divine Comfort—Mrs. Azzie Ezell; Give Yourself—Mrs. Veva Turner; Bible study from 10th chapter of Acts was conducted by Rev. H. P. Blankenship.

The members present were Mrs. Veva Turner, Mrs. Norma Stubbie, Mrs. Effie Kingman, Mrs. Azzie Ezell, Mrs. Louise Wilson, Mrs. Mildred Adams, Mrs. Lottie Potts, Mrs. Neoma Cooper, Mrs. Carl Ritchie, Mrs. Ethel Stone, Mrs. Anna Nell Young, and Mrs. H. P. Blankenship. Visitors were Mrs. Odie Edwards, Mrs. Margaret Riley, Mrs. Elizabeth King, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Patsy Wilson, and Rev. H. P. Blankenship.

Women's Missionary Union Meets Tuesday Evening

The Women's Missionary Union of Cherry Corner Baptist Church met on Tuesday afternoon of the past week in the home of Mrs. Charles Bucy for their regular monthly business meeting, and program. Bible study was given by Mrs. R. C. Shelton taken from Col. 1:24-29.

Topic for the month is "Challenge for Service." Christmas carols were sung at appropriate times throughout the program.

Little Shirley Lou, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cuipepper, sang "Away In A Manger."

Others on program were Mesdames Lon Outland, Norman Cuipepper, Toy Garrison, Charles Bucy and Mrs. Estel Ezell.

A Christmas tree was enjoyed and gifts exchanged. The hostess served a party plate to the members and one visitor.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Wright and Mrs. Michael Wells, Metropolis, Ill., were week-end guests of Mrs. Wright's parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Wells, Sr.

A RICH GIRL

BY MARGARETTA BRUCKER

When Michele (Mickey) Ryan, rich Detroit society girl, meets Peter Standish, poor young lawyer, he thinks she's a working girl and, when he says he hates the rich, she hides her identity, saying her name is Mickey Brooks. Later, he proposes and she accepts him. Deciding really to become a working girl, she leaves the home of a wealthy aunt, giving her aunt the impression that she has gone to Virginia. She and a friend, Rosamond Wilson, start training for war jobs. Meanwhile, Peter has enlisted in the Army. Before he goes away, he asks Mickey to help a shabby girl named Lottie McDonald to get in touch with Michele Ryan, saying that Lottie needs money and that girls like Michele owe something to those who are in the Army. Mickey is disturbed by his interest in Lottie but, accompanied by Rosamond, she goes to see her. She learns that she is expecting a baby, and gives her some money. Later, Rosamond insists that there was a man named Mickey in the crowd. When Lottie becomes ill, Mickey visits her again and gives her a valuable wrist watch. This night Lottie is murdered. The watch is seized as a clue. The next evening, Mickey and Rosamond read in the paper that the police are believed to have traced the watch to a society girl.

CHAPTER XXII
THE two girls finally reached home. As they were mounting the stairs to the apartment, they heard the telephone ringing. Rosamond ran ahead to answer it. She was just putting it down as Mickey entered the apartment. "That was your Aunt Henrietta," she said. "She sent a wire to your Virginia friend's home ordering you to come home at once. She wouldn't tell me why, but had received had sent it to the right address. I told her I'd see if I had the address and call her back."

"What shall I do?" asked Mickey. She sank down on the bed and rubbed her hat back from her aching head. "Go home," Rosamond said briskly. "Tell your aunt that you came straight back without waiting to answer her wire. Tell her you flew—tell her anything. I have a hunch the police have been to her to make inquiries about that watch. That's probably why she sent for you."

"But what shall I say if the police question me?" "Stick to the story that you've been out of town and have just returned."

"Suppose they find out that I'm lying?" Rosamond frowned. "What else can you do? Suppose you told them the truth? Suppose you told them you've been living here under an assumed name? Wouldn't that raise their suspicions? Do you think they would believe your story that you carried on this masquerade just to prove that you could earn your own living?"

"Why shouldn't they believe it?" asked Mickey. "Because they wouldn't be able to understand why a rich girl would deliberately give up her luxuries and life of ease."

MICKEY sat forward and buried her face in her hands. If only she could think this through clearly! It was all so confused! Was Rosamond right? If she told the police the truth, would they be skeptical and suspicious? You couldn't carry a noble purpose like a banner for every one to see. You couldn't be sure that others would understand your motives if stealing furtively away from your home at night. Although you might hope to be a good girl—to prove yourself worthy of the man you loved—who would believe that you were sincere?

And suppose she confessed to the police that she had called upon Lottie McDonald and given her the watch simply to help her out?

Mrs. Hargis Hostess At Christmas Party For Homemakers

The Christmas meeting of the Eastside Homemakers Club was held in the home of Mrs. Joe Hargis last Thursday.

The morning session opened with group singing and the devotion was given by Mrs. Rupert Lassiter. Roll call was answered by telling the Christmas tradition observed in your own home.

Mrs. J. D. Wall, chairman, presided over the business session. Committee reports were given. The club voted to send Christmas cards to shut-ins. Each member brought fruit for a cheer basket, and it was voted to send some to Mrs. Mart Shipley, a former Homemaker, who is a shut-in at this time.

Mrs. Hunter Love invited the club to her home for an all-day work meeting Jan. 15. At this meeting patterns will be altered, garments cut and basted.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon. The afternoon session was opened with singing Christmas carols and the recreational leader, Mrs. Rupert Lassiter directed several games and contests. Gifts from a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree were exchanged by members.

Mrs. Curtis Hayes, major project leader, gave the lesson on neckties and collars.

Mrs. Hayes stressed that the neckline to a dress should be selected with care and with the purpose of enhancing the face. Various types of collars and jobs were cut and exhibited.

The next regular meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Curtis Hayes, January 21.

The following members were present: Mesdames Wildy Cope, Rupert Lassiter, Hunter Love, Eugene Shipley, Clifford Smith, J. D. Wall, Prentice Overbey, Curtis Hayes, Samuel Adams, Pat Hackett and the hostess.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (UP)—We get right into the thick of the peace and good will business today—just about the time everything seems to be going to pieces willingly.

Harmony and good fellowship this Yuletide seems devoted exclusively to Christmas cards. Because the boys in the sports racket aren't pulling any punches. Take, for instance, this Olympic business: They're supposed to have something going there which is idealistically devoted to the promotion of international good will and friendship. At the moment it has all the makings of a Kentucky head.

The A.A.U. is in a slow burn because the Swiss Olympic Committee recognized the team of this country's Amateur Hockey Association. Either the A.H.A. gets the boot or we withdraw all of our winter sports teams, the A.A.U. insists. They'd do it, too, just to uphold their monopolistic prestige.

Indicating that these Olympic games aren't going to be much difference than those of the past—where everybody is ready, willing and sometimes able to take a punch at the next guy—the Irish are tossing confetti of the red brick variety in the direction of the English.

Those old sparrows teed off when the English A.A.A. filed the boys from Erin must compete under the Union Jack. The Irish race went so far as to present to Congress a protesting petition signed by 1,000,000 people.

The games are designed, of course, to promote international fellowship.

Then there's the pro football set-up. The national league stubbornly refuses to recognize the existence of the All America conference. The AAC made many gestures of friendship but was rebuffed continually. Now, after a good season, it has turned its back on the NFL, and full scale warfare looms ahead.

Meanwhile, both are forced to pay much higher salaries in competition for grid stars. Which may make the feud worthwhile at that.

On the baseball front there are any number of little brawls still unsettled. One of them is that between the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers. "Machine-gun Larry" MacPhail has departed but the breach hasn't healed.

Even in gold, where the sunshine should kill off the germs of homicide, the professional group is festering. President Ed Dudley was re-elected, after a poison-pen postcard attack. But the trouble still is far from being ironed out. There is much talk of burying the hatchet—but everyone seems to think it should be buried in somebody else's back.

Boxing, too, is in a mess with a continual barrage from the sharpshooters who can't stand to see somebody else make a buck. Here more than anywhere else, the angle guys are against the theory of live and let live.

Apparently it is time to clean house among personal emotions and really mean it when saying: "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!"

The only two guys I want to have trouble are Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott. And the only time I want them to have it is some warm night next summer when they meet in the middle of the ring.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 22

UP—If the underworld awarded "Oscars" for the best performance of 1947, the man who stole a 20-ton bridge at Gaspung, Ia., probably would win it.

He just purloined the bridge one night, and that was the end of it. Runaway would be the thief who stole a brick wall from in front of a Del Mar, Calif., residence, while honorable mention undoubtedly would go to a less ambitious operator who was satisfied with hauling away a telephone pole at Palm City, Calif.

These were among the many odd crimes which called for a payoff by the Travelers' insurance companies during the past 12 months.

Other nominations of the year: Opportunist: The thief who snatched a $3,000 diamond ring from the finger of a Los Angeles woman driver as she put out her hand to indicate a left turn.

Most Patient: The guy who tunneled under the fence of an Atlantic City coal yard and removed 10 tons—lump by lump.

Most Considerate: The man who walked into a Chicago cafe and handed the cashier a note which read: "Madam, this is a holdup. On you rests responsibility for the aversion of a tragedy."

Most Professional: An Oakland, Calif., man fell asleep in a movie. When he awoke $45 was missing from one of his shoes. "Never even got it," he admitted, "and I'm ticklish."

Most Persistent: Chased out of an Iona, Mich., garage, the robber returned two hours later with a revolver, relieved the owner of $200 and administered him. "This will teach you to treat people better."

Most Embarrassed: A Philadelphia holdup man stopped an automobile and took the driver's wallet. But his own wallet, containing his identification card, dropped into the car. Police were grateful.

Admiration: After belaboring a side in a Philadelphia florist shop for hours without results, the yegas departed after leaving a note: "A very good safe."

Most Surprised: The San Gabriel, Calif., snook-thief who took a box from a parked car and discovered it contained rattlesnakes.

Irony: A burglar broke into the home of L. C. McWhinney, Cedar Rapids, Ia., who was taking a correspondence course in burglary insurance. After packing McWhinney's suits, shirts, neckties, underwear and blankets, he tore up the burglary note and scattered it around the house like confetti.
