Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

Congratulations to South Fulton for erecting new and easy-to-read street signs throughout the community! The signs not only include block numbers for easier location of addresses, they also provide names for streets that we didn't even know had names.

Within recent weeks, or maybe even longer than we knew about it, a movement has sprung up to tie South Fulton and Union City together with local telephone service.

Why not? South Fulton has need for constant communication with Union City, the county seat of its county; from time immemorial it has been a long-distance toll charge involved in making the call. Today's changing communications networks are placing whole counties on a "local call" basis, such as we have in practically all of Fulton County. We are all served by the same Company, and Fulton County and parts of adjacent counties are served by the same exchange.

I talked to Ron Laird at the South Central Bell office this week, and he said that even though South Fulton is not served by the Union City exchange, he saw no great obstacle involved in arranging the service between Union City and South Fulton, mechanically.

Apparently the main obstacle to the move is in getting the Tennessee Public Service Commission to okay the move, and I guess that is what all the hoopla is about from the Tennessee candidates in this week's races.

The proposition poses some more interesting telephone aspects for this State-Line-located community. Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton Tennessee are on the same local exchange, located in Fulton, Kentucky. If the new deal goes through, South Fulton telephones will be able to place toll-free calls either to Fulton or Union City. Yet Fulton telephones will be able to make toll-free calls to South Fulton, but NOT to Union City. This despite the fact that all lines come into the same automatic local exchange, and who's to know the difference.

Laird explained that's all done by electronics and special equipment, which can tell where the call is coming from, where it is going to, and whether or not a toll charge is supposed to be added, and if so, is.

You can't fool this equipment, either. It charges you 90c for a 3-minute daytime call to Louisville if you make the call in Fulton, and only 80c for the same call if you make it in South Fulton. It charges you 89c for a 3-minute daytime call to Nashville from South Fulton, but only 60c if you make the same call from Fulton. (All charges are plus tax). The differences are due to the fact that "interstate" and "intra-state" rates are different; "intra-state" rates (for calls within the State) are higher.

So while Fultonians can walk across the street to South Fulton and save 10c on a call to Louisville, likewise South Fultonians can walk across the street and save 12c on a package of cigarettes. A South Fulton supermarket sells a carton of Camel filters for $3.80, while in Fulton you can buy the same for $2.62.

Such are a few of the unusual aspects of life on a State Line, which involve every aspect of living here . . . and which cause such remarkable official addresses as "The City of South Fulton, Fulton, Kentucky." South Fulton is neither in Fulton nor in Kentucky, but it's post office is.

Do You Want To Join The Job Corps? Apply Now In Mayfield

"What did I drop into when I dropped out of school and then found a low paying job for a few weeks? I found that I couldn't make it and where did I turn? Nowhere for the most part, until I found Job Corps."

This is a true story told by a youth ready to graduate from Job Corps, a voluntary work-training program where the enrollees live and work in a campus type environment.

The State Employment Service in Mayfield is conducting a recruitment drive for men and women, 16 through 21 years of age, to join the Job Corps during the week of August 10 - 14.

SOUTH FULTON'S NEW wading pool is located in this shady, attractive setting surrounded by giant trees, behind the city hall. Pool has adult supervision.

ON A SCORCHING HOT DAY like last Tuesday, the wading pool provided welcome relief for all of the youngsters in the neighborhood, and even offered a congregating point for a number of the older ones who just wanted to sit around in the shade.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN 100 in the shade, but this group of youngsters from the neighborhood splashed and played all afternoon and had a big time.

Hours Given For Wading Pool Usage

The South Fulton wading pool located behind City Hall will be open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10:00 a. m. until 6:00 p. m. Children ages six and under may wade from 10:00 a. m. until 2:00 p. m. each day. Children seven through twelve may wade from 2:00 p. m. until 6:00 p. m.

The pool will be open on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 1:00 p. m. until 5:00 p. m. for all children twelve and under. No street clothes will be allowed in the pool and children must present their South Fulton summer recreation card to the supervisor before entering the pool.

Trailer Home At Cayce Destroyed

A trailer home located between Four Points and Cayce, owned by Mrs. Robert Sudermyer, was destroyed by a fire of unknown origin last Monday night. The Fulton fire department answered a call to the trailer, but by the time they arrived the fire was out of control, according to Fire Chief Billy Meacham. Trailer and contents were a total loss.

Elvis Stahr Will Deliver Principal Address On Festival's 'International Day' September 11

A nationally famous Kentuckian, and a native of Fulton County, will deliver the principal address on International Day at the Eighth Annual Banana Festival on September 11.

Dr. Elvis Jacob Stahr, Jr., president of the National Audubon Society and former secretary of the Army, former president of the University of Indiana and a gentleman whose biography runs almost two pages in Hamilton Tapp's edition of "Kentucky Lives," confirmed the invitation with W. P. Burnette, president of the International Banana Festival on Tuesday.

Dr. Stahr, son of the late Judge Elvis Stahr and Mrs. Mary Stahr of Hickman, will arrive in Fulton on Thursday night. He will leave Fulton on Friday night and be flown by charter flight to Nashville where he will depart for Dayton, Ohio and another speaking engagement. His address will be on Friday at 2 p. m. with a reception at the Fulton County

Elvis J. Stahr

Club later, in his honor.

This native Fulton Countian is eminently and illustriously qualified to speak on the Festival's "Project-United Us" a program of friendship through understanding. He has served as special assistant to the Secretary of the Army under the Truman Administration and then became Secretary of the Army when his close friend John F. Kennedy assumed the Presidency. He also served in the Eisenhower Administration as Consultant for Reserve Forces to the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Dr. Stahr has served on almost every prestigious Commission organized in Kentucky and America and has served as Dean of the Law School of the University of Kentucky.

In 1948 he was selected by the United States Chamber of Commerce as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men in America.

"We have long hoped that Dr. Stahr could be available to us as The International Day speaker," Burnette said in making the announcement to the news media on Wednesday. "Our dreams have come true today," he added.

Princess Pageant Is 'Shaping Up'; Set For Saturday September 12

The Eighth Annual Banana Princess Pageant is well under way toward being the biggest and best yet according to Hal Warren, President of the Rotary Club, which stages that gala climax to the Banana Festival activities.

Joyce Summey of Charlotte, North Carolina, who has charge of a number of big name beauty pageants across the country will direct the stage production. Miss Summey directed the Princess Pageant last year and the results were one of the most professionally presented programs ever to appear in this area.

Linda Arrington of Fulton will coordinate the pageant locally. This will consist largely of obtaining and selecting the girls who will participate in the pageant. Linda has gained experience in this field through attendance to many beauty pageants including the recent Miss Universe contest in Miami, Florida.

Dave Overton, a very popular and highly regarded Master of Ceremonies, will perform that function. Mr. Overton has appeared in past princess pageants and always does an outstanding job.

It is planned for one or more past banana princesses to help judge the event.

The pageant will take place on the night of September 12, 1970, and will not conflict with any other major festival activity.

It is anticipated that several big name entertainers in town for the festival will make their appearance at the pageant. The prizes which will be awarded include scholarships, a trip to South America, participation in an exchange program with beauty pageants in other parts of the country, charm courses, jewelry and cash. Also, of course, there is the honor of being princess of the Eighth International Banana Festival and being the official representative of the festival for one year.

Application forms are now available and are being mailed to all girls indicating an interest in participating. The applications can be picked up at Banana Festival headquarters or by writing to Linda Arrington, Chairman of Contestant Selection Committee, Banana Festival Headquarters, Fulton, Kentucky.

Entrants must be between the ages of 17 to 23 years of age inclusive, single, and never divorced or had a marriage annulled.

Post Office Starts Its Own 'Clean Up' Week

Postmaster Joe Treas today announced "CLEAN-UP WEEK" for the Fulton Post Office as part of a nation-wide postal activity announced in Washington by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

The Postmaster General announced the program Sunday "To establish post offices as a symbol of good housekeeping and as a credit to every community in the Nation."

Locally, Postmaster Treas said "CLEAN-UP WEEK" will focus on such matters as disposing of all trash and accumulated, unserviceable equipment beyond repair, eliminate fire and safety hazards, dispose of obsolete forms, files and records and a concerted effort will be put forth with reference to the cleanliness of the interior portions of the Post Office Building and all exterior grounds surrounding it.

"We are all concerned nowadays about the quality of the environment," he said, "and the Post Office — as a representative of the Federal Government — is always pleased to conduct activities that are in the best interests of the communities we serve."

"Our Post Office is one of the busiest and most visible activities in South Fulton and Fulton and what ever we can do to improve it is of special value to our community."

July Demand Is Highest In History

Manager Robert Graham of the Fulton Electric System stated this week that the July, 1970 electric usage was the highest in the system's history recording a 7,500 KW demand.

In a check of the system's voltage during a 48-hour period during July—termed the "most critical period" of the year—Graham noted that voltage varied only one volt from its normal output of 125 volts.

The Fulton Electric system buys its power from TVA, and has recently completed and put into use a new substation in Highlands. Graham credits the new facility with providing "ideal" power supply to FES lines.

Ed Jones Reports From Washington: "Is Cash Going Out Of Style?"

I have heard it said, half jokingly, that within the next twenty years there will be no need for cash in this country. The person who made this comment was, of course, referring to the ever-expanding use of credit cards.

Credit is becoming a more important part of our economy every day. In fact, a large mail order department store chain recently announced that it made more money last year on credit charges than on the actual sale of merchandise. In one respect, this is a startling fact, but when we realize that this particular chain charges the equivalent of 20 percent per annum on its credit accounts, it is not so surprising.

It is obvious that Americans want credit, so much so that they are willing to pay 20 percent for it. More and more people are deciding that it is easier to buy now and pay later, rather than to save now and buy later.

Deferred payment buying is considered by some people to be a major factor in the prosperity to which our country has become accustomed. It is also considered to be one of the factors which makes inflation so difficult to control. If a person is allowed to defer paying for a purchase, he is much more likely to make the purchase than if cash were required. Thus, our money is kept in circulation, a basic requirement for a healthy economy.

There is little doubt that the credit card has provided a service to the national economy as well as to millions of individual citizens.

However, there is one aspect of the credit card business which has come under fire in recent months, and that is the issue of unsolicited cards. Many people are pleased to open their mailboxes and find credit cards made out in their names. As a result of the unsolicited card, these people have immediate access to credit buying privileges without having to bother making application. But there are other people who deeply resent receiving a card which they did not request, a card which could be used by anyone who happened to get hold of it.

The Senate recently passed a bill which would forbid the mailing of all unsolicited credit cards. But the House is considering a less drastic proposal. The House bill would require that all unsolicited credit cards be sent by registered mail, with the delivery restricted to the addressee only and with return requested. It would also require the envelope which carries the card to indicate its contents so that the unsolicited card could be refused.

All the fuss about unsolicited cards was caused by several reports of these cards being stolen from the mails. Most people immediately assumed that the persons whose names appeared on these cards were held responsible for the debts which were charged by the card thieves. However, the credit card companies maintain that no person has ever been charged one penny for purchases made on a stolen unsolicited card.

In view of this fact, the House version of the bill seems to be more reasonable. Let's have some regulation over unsolicited credit cards, but let's not forbid them unless someone is hurt by them.

I admit that our cash is becoming worth less and less and that credit cards are coming into much wider use. But I doubt that we are reaching the point where there is no need for cash. I know that Mrs. Jones and I certainly haven't reached that point.

The Tobacco Problem: Intensive Cultivation Increases Crop Despite Acreage Cuts

Following the imposition of a 10 percent reduction in burley tobacco acreages earlier this year, many Kentucky burley growers registered concern about the direction of the burley program and the stability of its future.

This year's acreage cut is not the sole source of the concern, but is a symptom of the basic problem which has worried burley growers for many years.

The problem is that the burley program is not succeeding in keeping burley supplies in line with demand for the product. And if this trend continues, the total burley program—which gives farmers price supports in exchange for the farmers' acceptance of production controls—will be jeopardized.

Under the present program, the problem of excessive supply can theoretically be solved by cutting burley acreages—that is, by reducing the amount of land on which burley can be grown.

But what looks good in theory is not working in private. Despite 10 different acreage cuts since 1945 (the 1970 acreage allotment is only 38 percent as large as the 1945 allotment) production of burley has increased steadily through the years.

This has come about primarily because farmers have been able to get ever-increasing yields of burley from their acreage. In 1945, for example, an acre of land produced an average of 1,127 pounds of burley, whereas in 1969 an acre produced 2,457 pounds. And tobacco specialists say per-acre yields will continue to climb.

For about 25 years after the present burley program was adopted in 1938, supplies of burley were kept pretty well in line with demand because demand was increasing at a rate comparable to supply.

Did you know? Enough people are born every 39 days to fill a city the size of New York? In 1968 world population increase equalled the combined populations of France and Spain. New Americans are being born at the rate of one every 14 seconds—a slowdown from 1946's one every 12 seconds.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Young people have a hard time of it. Just think of all the "Don'ts" that they have to hear and all the unlucky acts they have to avoid. Humanity has been around a long time. And in that time it, or they, or whatever you want to call the people of the past, built up a lot of prohibitions that the younger ones of us, the late-comers, just have to know. No ones youth is ever long enough to learn all of these sacred rules; before they can all be learned, youth is gone and the young person who found it so hard to keep all the rules is dictating them to still younger protesters. A humorist of a half century ago said that by the time we get used to being descendants, we wake up some fine morning to find ourselves ancestors.

Some of the "Don'ts" undoubtedly were designed to make us more careful in how we acted. The punishments for even these acts do not always seem adapted to the acts themselves. Just why eating the crusts of bread causes your hair to be curly would strain the science that I know, no matter how desirable it would be to keep from wasting bread and how equally desirable it would be to have curly hair. Don't turn over a chair; but how does that show that you have told or will tell a lie? Carelessness, yes, but hardly a moral thing, if a mere mortal were asked to pronounce judgment on sacred traditional sayings. I can see that being able to turn a hoecake is an accomplishment; for one time the rule promises a reward: You are old enough to get married. Probably stirring a cake both ways or quitting your part of the stirring and letting someone else finish your job ought to be punished by having the cake fall; and that is what is prophesied. Considering that unwanted callers have always been a problem, clutch your dishcloth tightly, for if you drop it, you'll have an unwanted caller. To break a mirror, usually thought of as a very careless act, carries its own punishment and for a whole seven years; watch that mirror when you just must take it down or move it.

Just why singing or whistling at the table deserves some sort of punishment is hard to see; maybe a mild scolding would be sufficient. And whistling or singing after you have gone to bed shows that you ought to quiet down and go to sleep. Why not forego the singing or whistling then, and the next morning, "roll out of bed with a song," in the words of a fairly recent popular number on the Hit Parade. Opening an umbrella inside a house or carrying something like a hoe or rake or briar-hook inside certainly might dislodge some of the less stable pieces of furniture or break a lamp chimney, let us say; therefore that act is fraught with bad luck.

Now there are certain things that nice young ladies or bouncy girls whose parents would like to mould into proper young ladies just must not do. One of them is to whistle; you thereby place yourself in the rather doubtful category with crowing hens, and that does not sound nice. Also, if you want to jump out a window, restrain yourself. It is a very unladylike act, and to undo it would require a very dangerous antidote to the bad act: jump back in again, backwards! Away back in the past, and even fairly recently, it was and is very unseemly for a young lady to cross her legs. Within fifteen years of this very day I knew of a lady teacher, a very proper lady teacher, who severely scolded a college girl for thus acting like a hoyden if not like somebody worse of the same sex. Sewing on Sunday, like getting the ox out of the ditch then, may be necessary, though in general it is a very daring thing, for you may have to remove with your nose all such stitches in a rather warm Hereafter. But, if necessity drives you to it, be sure to sew only such things as do not require a thimble. That thimble may be the very thing that will make some of your later times uncomfortable and worse than awkward.

New Summer Course At MSU Is Helping Uncertified Teachers

Experienced secondary teachers who are not yet certified because of failure to meet state certification requirements have had new opportunity opened to them through an innovative summer program at Murray State University.

An eight-week course stressing informal seminar situations was initiated this year during the regular summer term of school to allow teachers with a minimum of two years of experience to complete their requirements for certification.

Dr. John Taylor, assistant professor of education who teaches the course sees it as "a valuable addition to the curriculum where experienced teachers are not just doing the same old things they do day in and day out."

Entitled Education 421, Supervised Student Teaching, the class meets daily during the summer for three hours. There are 12 teachers representing a broad range of subject matter—from chemistry to civics to industrial education—enrolled this summer for the eight semester hours of credit.

Teachers involved have already earned a degree and have been teaching on a professional commitment status, which means they have agreed to go back to school within a certain number of years to finish their teaching certification requirements.

MSU At All-Time High In Enrollment

Summer enrollment at Murray State University is expected to reach a new all-time high for the eight-week session when students register for several workshops to be held on the campus before the term ends Aug. 7.

Wilson Gantt, dean of admissions and registrar, said a total of 3,202 students are now taking work for the summer at the university—seven less than the record high total summer enrollment of 3,209 last year.

However, he added that several workshops scheduled for later in the term will push enrollment past the high mark of 1969.

A breakdown of enrollment to date shows 583 freshmen, 382 sophomores, 601 juniors, 487 seniors, and 1,149 graduate students. Enrollment in the remaining workshops will alter some of the figures, however.

Gantt noted the number of graduate students to be about normal since most are teachers working on master's degrees or above. Last summer there were 1,174 graduate students taking work during the summer session.

Former Fulton Lady Touring Europe, Sweden

An exciting, month-long vacation in Sweden is being enjoyed by a former Fultonian, now living in Louisiana.

The couple flew to New York and thence to Frankfurt, Germany, where they met friends from Bossier City already on a tour of Europe. They toured Germany, Austria, Northern Italy, Switzerland, Norway and Denmark before stopping in Sweden.

In Borås they are visiting Miss Sjöberg's mother at her home. Before returning to Louisiana in latter August, the couple plan some sight-seeing in Paris.

Mr. Harold Frazier is the son of Mrs. Edith Elliott of Fulton, who makes her home in the Highlands.

These services — preparing, packaging, maintaining quality, check-cashing, grocery loading into cars, etc. all add their bit to the food price.

The "added services" cost in marketing has doubled since 1940. Many consumers are willing to pay for these extras. The prediction for the 1970's is that the services demand will tend to increase. Rising consumer income increases such demands three to four times as fast as the demand for basic farm foods. As a consequence, retail food prices move up.

WHEN BABY FEEDS HIMSELF—When a baby begins to teethe he frequently refuses to eat solid foods. Often milk alone doesn't satisfy his hunger for long and being hungry he becomes irritable. One solution might be to offer warm, strained food from a wide-lipped, unbreakable small pitcher. Baby will discover that chewing on the lip of the pitcher is soothing and at the same time enough food is swallowed to satisfy his stomach.

Ann Landers

—Your Problems Bring Answers—

Dear Ann Landers: I've read about the problem time and time again in your column and always agreed with your answer—until now. When the problem is your own it looks a little different.

Mothers have written to ask why is it that when their sons marry they lose them to the wife's side? Our two sons were married within the past three years. One has been completely weaned away from us and the other by is headed in that direction.

My husband and I are heart-sick. We can not dominate or overbearing parents. We always felt we had a good relationship with our boys but it appears it wasn't as good as we thought.

I've heard the old adage, "A son is a son until he takes a wife but a daughter is a daughter all of her life." I didn't believe it, but I do now. Do the girls brainwash their husbands? Whose fault is it? Why does it always happen, and at a time in a mother's life when she is all set to enjoy the fruits of her labors? Please answer in print, Ann. This heart-breaking problem is shared by millions.—No Day Is Mother's Day For Me

Dear No Day: It doesn't always happen. Sometimes a daughter who marries enjoys being with her in-laws more than with her own parents. The decision hinges on two points: first, the quality of the girl's relationship with her mother, because it is the wife who usually arranges the social calendar; second, the mother-in-law's ability to let go of her son after he marries and her ability to keep her nose out of his business. An aggressive, take-over type mom is bad news to a new wife and she cannot help but be resentful. Her natural inclination is to protect her marriage by putting as much distance as possible between her husband and his mother.

Mothers who accuse their daughters-in-law of alienating their sons are invariably barking up the wrong tree. Unless the climate is right the daughter-in-law could not pull it off. The son who spends a great deal more time with his wife's parents than with his own, wants it that way.

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Wilted By Perfectionist Mom" was excellent. I, too, had a "Perfectionist Mom." She insisted that I wash the dishes from left to right, set out all the ingredients before I started to bake. I had to tuck the bedsheets under in a certain way so there wasn't a wrinkle to be found. If I deviated from Mom's method she considered it a threat to her authority. So I did it HER way and I did it right. Of course she drove me nuts, but I was determined not to let her wear me down. I vowed to do everything so well she couldn't find fault with it. By the time I went away to school my mother was very proud of me. And I was proud of myself. I did some things even better than she!

Tell the girls with persnickety moms to hang in there, Ann. Those skills a girl learns at her mother's knee stay with her forever.—Tucson

Dear Tucson: In order to learn at a mother's knee a daughter need not be under her mother's thumb. A wise mom knows how to teach without giving orders.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Introducing Our Churches-God's Agency For Spreading His Love

LIBERTY BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. JIMMY PIERCE
Pastor

The founders of Liberty Baptist Church came from East Kentucky by way of Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, finally by pulling their boats up Bayou-de-Chine Creek and landing at the present site of Moscow, Kentucky. It fell the lot of a surveyor named Tom Brown to survey the land in Liberty community. At that time this land sold for 50c an acre.

The Liberty Church was organized in 1850 by the families of Bondurant, Chambers, Shepherd and Connolly.

The first church building at the present site was built of logs and, on the south side, a log was removed to permit light to come in. All records of the activities in the first church seem to have been lost. It is known that the early church's preaching day was on the fourth Sunday of each month.

No information is available as to when the first building was razed and the second one built. The third and present building was erected in 1898. Since 1939 the building has been greatly improved and is modern in every way. In 1939 a basement was dug giving the Sunday School eight additional rooms; at that time Mrs. Mable Holt gave a furnace, which is still in use; a modern heating system was attached to the furnace in 1948; in 1947 a baptistry was installed; in 1948 a vestibule and two Sunday School rooms were added, and in 1949 a balcony was built with three Sunday School rooms and two rest rooms.

There are presently 236 names on the church roll, 168 of whom are resident members.

Active deacons are Howard Bondurant, H. W. Polsgrove, Loren Bizwell, Harold Williamson, Raymond Harrison, Clifton Campbell, Elwood Doss, C. E. Underwood, Ralph Ferrell and Harold Threlkeld.

Rev. Jimmy Pierce is the pastor.

The International Association of Machinists and Workers has ended its strike against Kinkead Industries, Inc. and both sides have agreed to resume negotiations.

The announcement came Monday morning from Martin, plant manager. R. Long, representative of the union's Grand Lodge, said the strike was over.

Wyatt, president of the Reelfoot Local 83, said the company and union are aware of the tension in this case and both desire to calm it. Mr. Long said the reason for this agreement was that the union had agreed to a statement.

Mr. Long said the union was taken down on Sunday after members of the local lodge agreed,

Kinthead Strike Ends; Negotiations Are Underway

The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers has ended its strike against Kinthead Industries of Union City and both the union and company have agreed to resume negotiations.

The announcement came Monday morning from R. E. Martin, plant manager; Olan R. Long, representative of the union's Grand Lodge; and Billy Wyatt, president of the union's Reelfoot Local 83.

"Both the company and the union are aware of the turmoil and tension in this community and both desire to restore calm," said Mr. Long. "It is for this reason that both parties have agreed to issue this statement."

Mr. Long said picket lines were taken down as of 2 p. m. Sunday after members of the local lodge agreed, by secret ballot, "to offer to return to work."

Mr. Martin said all striking employees should offer to return to work by Friday of this week.

The agreement to terminate the strike and resume negotiations came Friday afternoon in Memphis where union and company representatives met with Commissioner Fred Beck of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who recommended the action.

No work agreement has been reached and no contract signed, both parties emphasized. In essence, the union has simply agreed to end its strike while negotiations resume.

The first meeting tentatively has been set for Aug. 12.

"All issues regarding an agreement are subject to future negotiation. Everything is subject to negotiation and the negotiations will be expedited," said both parties in a statement. Both expressed the hope that the forthcoming talks will result in a quick settlement of all issues and the signing of a contract.

The strike began June 8 and numerous acts of violence, apparently related to the strike, have been reported over a wide area of Northwest Tennessee and Southwest Kentucky.

Unemployment Up In Tennessee

Unemployment in Tennessee appears to be increasing steadily, according to the latest report from the University of Tennessee Center for Business and Economic Research.

The center's study shows state unemployment at 4.6 per cent for the month of April, the latest month for which figures are available. This compares to 3.5 per cent for the same month in 1969.

Chemical industry has been hardest hit by the employment slump the report states. The work force in chemical manufacturing was 6.5 per cent below the April 1969 level. Much of the decline was attributed to labor-management problems.

The center also said its revenue figures confirm previous estimates that state revenues for the 1969-70 fiscal year will be about $12 million below expectations.

U.S. 45 4-Laning Hearing Planned

MAYFIELD, Ky., — A public hearing for a proposed four-lane highway stretching between Paducah and Mayfield has been set for Sept. 9 at the Graves County Courthouse, Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss said Saturday.

Terming the hearing "the initiating step in a long awaited, much needed highway," Goss said he plans to be at the meeting slated for 2:30 p.m. in the circuit courtroom.

The hearing will be to allow residents of the area to express opinions concerning the highway. The proposed route of the road will be revealed at the hearing, Goss said.

A planning study was completed last month with present plans calling for construction of two 24-foot surfaces with a 60 foot median separating each strip, the highway commissioner added.

As soon as the hearing has been certified by the federal bureau of public roads, the next step will be to institute a de-

South Fulton Toll Opposed

The board of directors of the Union City Chamber of Commerce Monday night passed a resolution asking South Central Bell Telephone Company and the Tennessee Public Service Commission "to explore the possibility" of providing toll-free telephone service throughout Fulton County.

"It just doesn't seem reasonable for residents of Fulton County — who happened to live in South Fulton to be charged a toll for calling Union City, the county seat, perhaps to inquire about taxes or some other county business," chamber manager Bill Heasley commented today.

"The toll charge between South Fulton and the rest of the county has the effect of cutting off that community from the rest of us," he added.

Mr. Heasley also said the board plans to continue its "Were You Counted?" campaign which it hopes will prove that Union City in reality has surpassed the 10,000 mark in population, despite preliminary census reports which show the city at less than 10,000. Already, about 725 persons have been located in Union City who believe they were not counted by enumerators for the Bureau of the Census.

Mr. Heasley said a house-to-house canvass of the northeast section of the city is continuing and the chamber now plans to place "Were You Counted?" forms "in every industry in Fulton County."

"In fact, if the Census Bureau says we have time, we'll have a 'Were You Counted' booth set up at the county fair late next month."

Total Of 13 To Face Drug Charges At UTM

MARTIN, Tenn. — Four more University of Tennessee at Martin students were bound over to the Weakley County Jury this week at Dresden on narcotics charges.

Harry R. Bowie of Hatfield, Pa. and Clint M. Matheny of Memphis are charged with selling marijuana, while Thomas R. Lawrence of Memphis is charged with possession of marijuana. Robert E. Scarbrough of Eden, N.C., is charged with illegally selling LSD.

The four youths were the last of 14 persons to appear in general sessions court at Dresden as a result of a coordinated narcotics raid at UTM and surrounding areas during the early hours of May 29.

One of the 14, Kenny D. McGough of Jackson, had the charges against him dismissed when his attorney noted technical mistakes in the search warrant used while law enforcement officers searched McGough's room during the raid.

The four, along with eight other UTM students and one non-student, have been bound over to the August term of the grand jury, which convenes Aug. 3.

Janie Lee Champion, William T. Craddock United In Marriage

FULTON, Ky. The wedding vows of Miss Janie Lee Champion and William Thomas Craddock were exchanged in a double-ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, July 19, at 3 o'clock in the sanctuary of Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church. The Rev. James C. Moreland performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Champion. The groom is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Craddock of Hickman.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Kathy Hyland, organist, and Miss Julie Powell, pianist. Miss Patti Hixson was vocalist.

The church was centered with a large fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli. On either side were seven-branched candelabra with burning white tapers and double wedding bells. Pews were marked with clusters of bridal wreath. The prie-dieu in front of the altar completed the wedding scene.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, and given in marriage by her parents.

She wore a formal gown of white bridal satin, completely overlaid with silk organza. It was fashioned with an Empire bodice of lace ruffles that featured a Victorian neckline. Her leg-of-mutton sleeves were of sheer organza, and were adorned with rows of lace, and closed at the wrist with self-covered buttons. The A-line silhouette skirt was adorned with lace ruffles around the hemline and upper skirt.

Her chapel train was attached at the back of the waistline. She chose a chapel veil edged in Chantilly lace attached to a headpiece of organza, adorned with roses, daisies and seed pearls. ## Sen. Hubbard Hits Delay In Highway MAYFIELD, Ky., State Sen. Carroll Hubbard today voiced his concern with the state department of highways over the continuing delay in construction of a replacement four lane highway for U.S. 45 between Mayfield and Lone Oak.

Hubbard (D-Mayfield) met today with Department of Highway officials at Frankfort to make a plea for the proposed four lane highway.

Hubbard, following the meeting, said he was very disappointed that the state is not taking immediate action toward the four-laning of the highway.

Hubbard described the road as one of the most dangerous and heavily traveled highways in Kentucky. Referring to the existing two lane U.S. 45, Hubbard said Mayfield and Paducah are the largest cities in the Jackson Purchase and the highway linking the two is "actually ridiculous."

The four-laning of U.S. 45 has been in the planning stage for several years. In October of 1967 all work done up to that time became obsolete when the federal Bureau of Public Roads passed new safety standards on roadway design.

The state had originally planned to start construction at each end and meet in the middle. The highway is presently four-laned from the intersection at Blandville Road through the Lone Oak community and on the other end from the Mayfield city limits to the vicinity of the General Tire Co. facilities.

Last month Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss announced his department was again making preliminary engineering studies for U.S. 45, this time to find the best location for the proposed artery and determine the costs of such a project.

Goss said at that time the only definite action taken was the initiation of a study.

The costs of building such a highway would be shared by the state and federal governments, Goss said at that time. He added it would take at least four years to complete the highway.

Goss' comments in June followed a statement he made in March in which he said U.S. 45 would be completely rebuilt as a four lane road from Lone Oak to the outskirts of Mayfield at an estimated cost of $12 million.

Gov. Louie Nunn made the four-laning of the 16 1/2-mile stretch of U.S. 45 one of his campaign promises in the last gubernatorial race.

Varied Events Slated At Obion County Fair

If you like horse shows you will be especially pleased with this year's Obion County Fair and, if you don't there will still be plenty of things to see and do.

There will be two horse shows, a walking horse event on Monday night, Aug. 31, and then there's a real fun-packed western horse show set for Tuesday night, Sept. 1. Both begin at 7 p.m.

For those folks who aren't so strong on horse flesh, there will be a number of young misses trying out for the title of Fairest of the Fair at another section of the grounds on Monday night and there will be a teen dance in the Brier Patch.

At the same time folks are whooping it up at the showing Tuesday night, there will be a Sew and Show contest and a fashion show being staged at other locations, all starting at 7 p.m.

The western show, which will be for Obion Countians and residents of counties touching Obion, is new this year and should provide both the riders and the viewers a lot of fun.

For instance, one of its events will be a balloon bust. In this event, each rider will wear a balloon on his back and riders will be trying to break each other's balloons with their hands. The last rider wearing an inflated balloon will be the winner.

In all, $400 will be given to the top five places in the 10 events.

Other events include: Pleasure Ponies, Country Pleasure (Western Tack), Pleasure Saddle Horse (English Tack), Sack Game, Ladies' Western Pleasure (quarter horses only), Barrel Race (riders 16 and over), Barrel Race (riders 15 and under), Men's Western Pleasure (quarter horses only), and Racking Class (Tack optional). Director Billy Corum is superintendent of the show.

In Monday night's Walking Horse Show, prize money of $15, $10, $8, $5 and $3 will be offered in each of the 10 classes, plus ribbons. The show will be open to anyone and a fee of only $1 will be charged.

The event will be under the sponsorship of the Obion County Saddle Club, with Larry Pruitt the superintendent.

This event will get under way at 7 p.m., and will feature the following classes:

Lead Line (rider 6 years and under), Juvenile Riders on (Walking Horses (18 years and under), Roadster Pony, Junior Walking Horses, Walking Ponies, Amateur Walking, Walking Pleasure English (no set tails), Two-Year-Old Walking (set tail), Fine Harness Ponies, Open Walking Class.

The Tennessee Municipal League and the County Services Association both have endorsed the idea, and nine of the state's 11 candidates for governor have given it strong backing.

However, at least three gubernatorial candidates opposed the idea.

Ralph Waldo Emerson calls it a "dodge," and says the problem is a local one to be solved by state and city officials trying to get out from under the onus of levying taxes.

Robert L. Taylor said the should be collected and distributed locally and Douglas Heinsohn said it was just another step in the ever widening federal bureaucracy.

Ranger Program Called Success

Host Says Vandalism Down, Food Service Up At Parks

Vandalism is down and food service is up at Kentucky's state parks, Parks Commissioner James Host reported Tuesday.

Host reported on a variety of park programs during an inspection tour of Pennyryle Forest State Park.

The new park ranger program has brought an "almost 100 per cent stoppage" in vandalism in the parks where such a program is under way, Host reported.

The vandalism ranged from destruction of park facilities to theft of auto tires and even women state park employees taking steaks home in their purses, Host said.

Host started the ranger program when, at one upstate park, four naked persons were found at a park entrance and nothing could be done about it until a deputy sheriff could be located.

Now, certain park rangers have powers of arrest and can handle any situation immediately. Some rangers, not armed nor having powers of arrest, assist those who do.

Host's comments are filled with such words as "good", "fine", "marvelous" about the features of the park systems he believes are working well. He speaks of "problems" too.

Here is the park situation, as described by the commissioner: BARKLEY LAKE STATE PARK—This facility will be open the year-around because of tremendous acceptance since the lodge was opened a few weeks ago. It was anticipated there would be a 50 per cent lodge occupancy this summer; instead, it is 100 per cent.

The food is good at Barkley Lodge but there have been problems, primarily because nearly all of the dining room help has had to be trained and the number of diners was greatly underestimated.

Barkley Lodge handed out 80,000 guest checks through Monday. Its revenue was $47,000 in June, surpassing the revenue at Kentucky Dam State Park at Gilbertsville.

All but about a dozen of the 180 Barkley employees are Trigg County people.

KENTUCKY DAM STATE PARK—There is a traffic problem in this park area. One day, the swimming area will have to be closed because the beach will not accommodate the large number of swimmers. The state already is building "community" pools at other parks where a small fee is charged but the quality of water can be better controlled. The state spends $15,000 per day for chlorine to improve water in park beach areas.

KENLAKE STATE PARK The lodge, "more of a hotel," probably is the best constructed facility in the park system. A decision will be made later as to whether it will remain open the year around. Kentucky now has a "sales manager" whose job it is to bring in conventions during the winter months at special rates.

Kenlake Amphitheater is drawing "excellent" audiences lately. "Ramses," a Biblical story, is being presented.

PARKS IN GENERAL—The state will have to turn to more recreation facilities rather than sleeping units. Now, there are 3,000 camp sites in Kentucky Parks and the occupancy rate is 137 per cent, meaning camper units are allowed to park near established berths. More boat docks are needed.

Where dining facilities are offered, children now can order hot dogs and hamburgers. At all facilities, wrapped sandwiches and soft drinks or coffee are available at any facility open all night.

Host said he and his family have spent 8 of the past 9 Sundays dropping in unexpectedly at state park dining rooms. His work day, often spent in inspections alone, averages 12 to 14 hours.

It was Host's first trip to Pennyryle. He called the trip a "complete inspection" and thought the best time to do it was in the height of the tourist season. He came here from Kenlake.

"We have the image as being the best in the country, but when people are coming at you, you've got to step ahead," Host said.

For Our Generation...and the Next.

"I am involved . . . and I care."

All across this state, John Jay Hooker, Jr. has demonstrated his concern for and dedication to the people of Tennessee.

John Jay Hooker offers a solid campaign of calm leadership. Programs of unity. Programs of mutual involvement. Programs of concern.

John Hooker believes that "education is the investment of one generation in the next." It is this deep interest in the betterment of Tennessee which serves as his platform guide and program direction.

John Hooker knows that our roads carry the very life blood of Tennessee. And since they are important to all Tennesseans, they are important to John Hooker.

John Jay Hooker is also aware of the growing tax burden and supports "revenue sharing with the federal government to return a significant amount of funds to Tennessee for state control."

His concern for the economic problems of Tennesseans has also led him to advocate "updating the workman's and unemployment compensation laws."

Such realities as mental health problems, retardation, and drug abuse also greatly concern John Hooker. As he has said "we must modernize our approaches to these problems so that they may be overcome."

John Hooker in addition supports "legislation which will protect consumers from unfair practices while also protecting the honest businessman who is trying to obey the law."

John Hooker believes that everyone "deserves the opportunity to become a productive citizen," and, to this end, he supports penal reform and criminal rehabilitation.

With John Jay Hooker, the conservation of resources refers to both natural and human resources. As a fifth generation Tennessean, he is committed to the preservation of our land. As an involved Tennessean, he is concerned with the people.

And it is to the people of Tennessee that John Jay Hooker gives his "pledge of positive action."

'The Bend': Kentucky's Isolated Orphan

KENTUCKY BEND, Ky. —At the far western tip of Kentucky, the Mississippi River meanders into an almost circular bend, isolating this section of flat farmland from the rest of the state.

The section, formed by an 1812 earthquake that swept the Mississippi from its main channel, is known by various names. To outsiders it's "New Madrid (Mad-rid) Bend," or "Bessie's Bend," or simply "The Bend."

But to Alfred Stepp and approximately sixth other residents it's Kentucky Bend. Calling the horseshoe peninsula that is their way of reminding themselves they are Kentuckians.

The only way in or out of Kentucky Bend, short of a swim across the river, is down a gravel road that at times has been submerged under flood waters of the Mississippi. The road leads into Tennessee, to Tiptonville, from where another road winds back into Fulton County, Ky., to which the Bend belongs.

"This part of Kentucky is considered an orphan," Stepp, a hardy farmer in his 70s and widely recognized civic leader in the Bend, says partly in explanation, partly with pride.

Stepp and his wife Adrian moved into the Bend in 1938.

They own about 4,000 acres of the fertile, moist bottomland, work only 450 or so acres, and rent the rest to tenant farmers.

The couple, like other farm families in the Bend, raise wheat and soybeans for market in Tennessee, other grains for livestock feed. They do their banking at New Madrid, Mo., and attend church in Tiptonville.

The only time they come into contact with other Kentuckians is at election time, or while swapping visits, during emergencies, or once every 10 years when the census people show up.

"The people living in the Bend aren't like other people," said

Mrs. Damon Workman of Hickman in Fulton County, who helped with the census-taking this year. "They're different. They don't say much, especially to outsiders."

She was paired with a former resident of the Bend area to ease the not-so-simple task of compiling what some Bend residents feel is privileged information.

"Some of the people are fishermen, some tenant farmers, and others are landowners," Mrs. Workman said.

"There is a sharp contrast between the Bend's very rich and very poor."

"There are 23 homes in the Bend, and some of the tenants' homes have no electrical power," she said.

Stepp doesn't think conditions in the Bend are as bleak as outsiders say, however.

"Conditions have changed in the past few years," he says.

"Things used to be rough, but you know, you get used to those things. If you have to live with the devil, you just learn to adapt and make the best of things."

The things that required adaptation were many. Not too long ago, before levees were piled up, the river annually left its banks to encroach on the expanses of grain and soybean fields.

KENTUCKY'S ORPHAN—At the junction of Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri is an isolated section of Kentucky cut off from the rest of the state by the Mississippi River. It's known to its some 60 resident as Kentucky Bend. The only entrance to Kentucky Bend, part of Fulton County, is through Tennessee and its only road is a gravel stretch of Kentucky 313.

18 Seats In The State Senate Are Up For Grabs This Year

NASHVILLE —Eighteen seats in the Tennessee Senate are up for grabs for four-year terms this year and there will be at least 24 new faces in the 99-member House, the Legislative Council says.

The Council's unofficial compilation of the status of legislators shows that 20 members of the legislature, five in the Senate and 15 in the House are vir-

Howell of Nashville, along with Democrat Ed Blank of Columbia—are among those seeking election to the Senate this year. Albright is unopposed in the primary to fill the seat left vacant when GOP Sen. Lamar Baker decided to seek the U.S. House seat now held by Rep. William Brock, R-Tenn., but three Democrats are seeking the right to face Baker in the general election.

Likewise, Howell is unopposed in the primary for the seat left empty when Lt. Gov. Frank C. Gorrell, D-Nashville, announced he would not run for business reasons. Two Democrats are seeking their party's nomination for Gorrell's seat.

Blank, meanwhile, has an apparent open door to the Senate because of no opposition, according to the Legislative Council's list of candidates compiled after the June 4 qualifying deadline. Blank, an administration floor leader in the House during the last General Assembly, apparently will get the seat given up by Veteran Sen. Joe Kelly of Lynnville.

Kelley, a veteran of 16 years in the Legislature, was an effective Democrat leader in the Senate and held several key committee posts, among them chairmanships of the Calendar and State and Local Government Committees.

Members of both parties are likely to be scrambling for leadership voids in the House. Speaker William Jenkins of Rogersville, a Republican, is running for governor, and Reps. Derward Trent of Morristown, chairman of the Calendar Committee, and GOP floor leader Tom Avery of Memphis are working in his campaign.

share of their present stock, while Plough shareholders would get 1.3 shares of the new stock for each present share they own.

Schering is a large manufacturer of prescription drugs. Plough manufactures drugs and home products under such names as St. Joseph Aspirin, Di-Gel, Maybelline, Coppertone and QT.
