Communists Form Eight Nation Army

MOSCOW, U.S.P.—Eight Communist nations today agreed to create an East German Communist army. They also decided to form an East European military alliance if the West rearms West Germany. The agreement was signed by the Soviet Union and the seven Communist nations of Eastern Europe attending the Russian-sponsored European Security Conference. They are East Germany, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Red China's observer at the conference, in an address to the final session, voiced the approval of the Peiping government of the joint declaration and "its complete support for the measures to be taken." The conference, called by the Kremlin with an invitation to Western nations to attend, had been billed originally as an alternative to the West's project for rearming West Germany and creating a Western European union. The Western powers declined Russia's invitation to attend and boycotted the conference.

15 Die In Train Wreck In England

LOUVAIN, Belgium—An express train carrying German fans home from an England-German soccer match plunged off an embankment early today. Police reported 15 dead and at least 30 persons hospitalized. Firemen used acetylene torches to cut through the wreckage and rescue some of the persons trapped in the crushed cars. The train was one of seven specials crammed with football fans returning home from London. The team itself was on another train. The first three cars plunged over a 12-foot bank when the train derailed. The fleet of fire engines, ambulances and police cars arrived while hundreds of Germans were battering into the coaches to rescue those who had been trapped. Max Bader, one of the survivors, said wreckage and glass streched over hundreds of yards. "I was trapped 20 minutes listening to the screams while blood dripped from a cut on my nose," he said. "I saw the bodies of the driver and the locomotive lying in the wreckage of the locomotive."

No Censure For Churchill

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill appeared safe from censure today on his "Germany versus Russia" speech, but one of London's biggest newspapers demanded to know if he would "stay in power until he drops down dead." Churchill confessed in the House of Commons Wednesday that his memory may have failed him last week when he said in a speech he had ordered captured guns be stacked for use by the defeated Germans against the Russians in 1945 if the Soviets continued their advance into Western Europe. Parliamentary observers said it was most unlikely that a censure motion would be introduced against Churchill in Commons. The Laborites seemed content not to press their advantage after hearing the Prime Minister's remarkable expression of "regrets." But the London Daily Mirror, which has a circulation of 1,000,000, followed up Churchill's apology with one of the fiercest attacks by any British newspaper in years against a prime minister. "Sir Winston Churchill has turned rejoicing over his 70th birthday to alarm and dismay about his failing powers," the Mirror said. "What a tragedy that this man whose noble career was spent in the service of his country should be reduced to such a farcical performance in the House of Commons."

Many Cities Taking Steps To Halt Rush Hour Snarls And General Parking Conditions

The horse era ended when Henry Ford began turning out low-priced automobiles. But grandpa made better time with Old Dobbin than a motorist today who tries to thread his way through a downtown rush-hour traffic snarl. This is the second in a series of the enormous traffic jam in American cities and what they are doing about it.

By ROBERT ZIMMERMAN United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK—The traffic jam in American cities is going to get worse before it gets better. Almost every city of any size has hired traffic engineers and budgeted millions of dollars to break up the congestion of cars and trucks on busy streets. But the postwar rise in motor vehicle ownership has such a head start on the traffic planners it may be years before their efforts begin to pay off.

By this time next year there are expected to be at least 2 million more cars and trucks on the road. A survey of 20 major cities shows that almost all of them have acute traffic problems but engineers speak in terms of five, ten or even 20 years when it comes to getting in the clear.

Mayor Eric Hoyer of Minneapolis admits that driving downtown in his city is "something like a merry-go-round." But his city engineers, Hugo Erickson, figures the proposed network of expressways to alleviate the congestion will take five years to plan and 20 years to construct.

Federal-State Aid In Minneapolis and most cities the problem involves not only time but money. Hoyer estimates the cost of the Minneapolis Expressway program at more than 60 million dollars and believes the federal and state governments should help bear the expense. The cost of revamping traffic arteries in or near a city is far greater than highway construction in rural areas. It cost Boston 58 million dollars to complete one mile of an eight-mile circular "belt" that will carry traffic around the crowded part of the city. At that, engineers say the expense is less than it would be to try to widen the narrow Boston streets, some of which are only eight feet wide in places. The 20-city survey showed the most popular, and also the cheapest, steps to improve the flow of downtown traffic has been the designation of one-way streets and the banning of parking in certain areas. Another technique explored in

U.S. Loses Peep Hole In Russia

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK—The Kremlin has lost a "peep hole" into the way things are going inside the Kremlin. For years, they had watched closely the order of precedence in which top-ranking Russian leaders were listed when they attended official functions—celebrations, congresses, parades, funerals and even opera premieres. The frequent shifting in the ranking of the top men gave the experts—or the experts thought it did—an indication of developments in the never-ceasing, dog-eat-dog struggle for power which is a normal part of life in a Communist hierarchy. But for the last six months, the names of the big men in the Kremlin have been listed according to the Russian Cyrillic alphabet.

Little Betty Ann Smith Passes Away

Little Betty Ann Smith, twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denny P. Smith, of 113 North 7th street, passed away at 6:00 o'clock this morning after an illness of only five days. Her death was attributed to a heart condition and complications. Betty Ann was known by many people in Murray and the county, and although she suffered from a condition carried since her birth, she never let it interfere with her activities. She was exceptionally intelligent and participated in many activities. She was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Congregational Choir at that church. She was a member of the Sunday school class of Mrs. Clayburn Jones, and the Baptist Training Union. She was in the seventh grade at Faxon school.

Five Survive Plane Crash

BERLIN, N. H.—The wreckage of a Northeast Airlines plane which crashed Tuesday with seven persons aboard was found today on a snow-covered mountain-side and a radio report said there were five survivors. The Civil Aeronautics Administration, which intercepted the radio report from one of the search planes, said the most severely injured survivor, pilot Peter Carey, was evacuated by helicopter. Carey, 37, of Swampscott, Mass., was removed to Berlin Airport and then to a hospital. The helicopter then returned to the wreckage on Old Baldy, a 2,600-foot peak, for the others.

U.S. Would Be The First A-Bomb Victim

WASHINGTON—The United States, not its allies, will be the first victim of all-out atomic attack if Russia starts a war, Gen. Benjamin W. Childlaw told a mayors' conference here today. Childlaw, chief of the new Continental Air Defense Command, said such an aerial onslaught could mean "100 pinpointed minutes of atomic hell on earth" to the 100 biggest cities represented at the conference. "Those who know the masters of the Kremlin for the realists they are know they would never make the mistake now of engaging our allies first and leaving us alone to come in when ready," he said. "Instead in my humble opinion we stand the most likely chance of being hit all-out in a mighty aerial blitz as their first act of aggression."

Man Held In Calvert Holdup

HARRISBURG, Ill.—London F. Heffington, 24, Maunie, Ill., was held today charged with complicity in the $6,023 robbery of a Calvert City, Ky., bank Nov. 26, the FBI announced. Heffington, who denied any connection with the robbery, was arrested yesterday in White County. Agents said they found $444 in small bills in his trailer home. The FBI said John R. Courtney was being held at Evansville, Ind., jail and Henry Moore was jailed at Paducah, Ky., in connection with the same robbery. The federal complaint charges the three with complicity in the Calvert City robbery. The FBI office at Louisville, Ky., said $399 was taken from Courtney when he was arrested but no money was taken from Moore. Two revolvers, which the FBI contends were used in the robbery, were taken from Heffington.

Move To Set Trial Date Of Three Killers

SCRANTON, Pa.—The government moved today to set a trial date for three convicts indicted for the slaying of William W. Remington in Lewisburg Penitentiary. U. S. Attorney J. Julius Levy said he hoped the three convicts could be brought to trial "around Jan. 21 or 22." He said the government will demand the death penalty for the prisoners if a "full and complete" study of the records of the case indicates premeditation. Levy said the trial date would be "consistent with the rights of the defendants and the government to meet the ends of justice as speedily as possible." The three convicts were indicted on a general charge of murder Wednesday by a federal grand jury recalled from recess. The convicts indicted were Lewis Cagle of Chattanooga, Tenn., an 17-year-old juvenile delinquent who was scheduled to be released from prison next Monday; Robert Carl Parker, 21, Washington, D. C., and George Junior McCoy, 34, Grundy, Va.

HOLD LEAF ON RAILS UNTIL IT WILL KEEP

Tobacco should not be removed from the leaf rails until it definitely is in keeping order, according to Russell A. Hunt and Ira E. Messie, leaf specialists at the University of Kentucky.

"Many growers," they noted, "will have crops that have been harvested late, and will be in a hurry to get them stripped out. Consequently they will take down the much at a time."

Tobacco is ready to bulk and strip when the leaves are thoroughly cured, the midrib is entirely dried out, and when in light case the leaves at the top of the stalk will break off with a clean break and not produce a sliver.

"Tobacco fades rapidly once the leaves are removed from the stalk; therefore, it is a poor practice to hang tobacco in the barn after it has been stripped. It will deteriorate quite rapidly in the open air and in case for stripping, it is sufficiently cured for bulking, and should be bulked immediately after stripping so as to hold its color and quality

"As soon as the stalk is filled, press the tobacco lightly to smooth it and to make bulking easier. In no case should a hydraulic ram or tight press be made for the tobacco. Buyers are very conscious of the pressing habits and fluff tobacco is much more desired than light or packed hands. The tobacco should be put into bulk at the end of each day. In early fall, the bulk should be hollow, made in the form of a chicken coop with heads out and the tails in. Empty tobacco stalks should be placed across the bulk at frequent intervals to keep the tobacco from packing down and heating.

"Early stripped tobacco should not be weighted but rather covered with some light material to keep the tobacco clean. Late in the season, when leaf is thoroughly cured, wood bulks may be used. When ready for market, the tobacco should be loaded on the truck at the farm in the same order as the leaves are removed from the plant—lying at the bottom and followed by light, bright leaf, and red leaf, with tip top."

TODAY'S SPORTS PARADE

Phillies Are Criticized On Choice

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—There has been rather general criticism of the Philadelphia Phillies for signing a "stranger" named Mayo Smith to manage the club next season when, actually, the boys could be throwing rocks in several other directions.

There will be seven clubs with "new" managers next season. Yet only two of those gentlemen are of the "brand new" variety. Smith and Pinky Higgins of the Red Sox. Most of the others are perennial master-minds who make a career out of being fired in one spot and retired elsewhere.

This would be a peculiar situation in almost any other business. Yet ball clubs continually grab delighted at managers who have been canned by some other club for various failures.

Not Criticism This is not a criticism of such fine fellows and astute baseball men as Lou Boudreau, Paul Richards, Chuck Dressen, Bucky Harris and Marjory Marion, who respectively in 1955 will pilot Kansas City, Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and the White Sox.

But do you wonder how some of them keep making it back to the bench time after time—and why a club such as the Phillies should be racked for bringing in a completely new face?

Let's take Detroit as an example. Freddie Hutchinson was let out because he wanted a two-year contract, supposedly. So they signed Harris. Now Bucky is a great gentleman and a good baseball man. Yet he can show only three pennants in a total of 27 years as a manager.

The Browns fired Marjory Marion, which is really being hit with the bottom rung. Yet with Richards moving voluntarily to Baltimore, Marjory is the White Sox choice.

There was a time when the Red Sox, a club with which money never has been the slightest object, Lou is another good one and yet he has won only one flag in 12 years as a pilot.

Dressen didn't last with the Dodgers, again supposedly because he was one of those peculiar people who wanted a bit of long-term security. But he did do a good job and the fact that Washington wants him is entirely understandable.

On the whole, though, it is completely baffling, as to why the major leagues dip into the mirrors more often. The Phillies once did it with Eddie Sawyer and won their first pennant since inception of the telephone. The Cardinals did it with Eddie Dyer and he put them on top in his very first year.

In this corner it seems as if the Phils and Red Sox are to be congratulated instead of insulted. Higgins, up from Louisville for his first big league managerial shot, knows all their young players.

Smith, after six years as a minor league manager, brings a fresh enthusiasm to his job and it could be infectious. Certainly he won't be harassed with the shopworn "book" on strategy and players which most of the commuters carry from one club to the other.

He says his club will run regardless of how the other guy is supposed to throw—and who could ask more as a starter.

Ray Kennedy To Manage Kansas City

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ray Kennedy, a veteran of 28 years as a baseball manager and executive, was named personnel director of the Kansas City Athletics of the American League.

Kennedy was pulled out of retirement to fill the last remaining front office post in the Athletics' setup headed by Business Manager Parke Carroll.

Kennedy retired in 1951 as farm director of the Detroit Tigers and went into private business in San Francisco. He had been with the Tigers three years.

Kennedy, a combination catcher-infielder, played most of his active career in the minors, but was with the St. Louis Browns for a short time.

He went to Newark N.J. as general manager in 1952 and was there through 1945, when he became general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. When the club changed hands, Kennedy became farm system director of the Pirates in 1947-48 before moving to his last job at Detroit.

Southpaw Sold By Tigers

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1 (AP)—Southpaw Bob Schultz was sold outright to the Detroit Tigers by the Pittsburgh Pirates for an undisclosed price.

Schultz, a Nashville, Tenn., resident turned in an 18-11 record last year with New Orleans of the Class AA Southern Association while under a pirate option.

The pitcher was among six Chicago Cubs players who came to Pittsburgh in June, 1953, in exchange for Ralph Kiner and three other players. The Cubs also paid $100,000 to obtain Kiner, now the property of the Cleveland Indians.

Of the Chicago contingent involved in the deal, only infielder Preston Ward and catcher Toby Atwell remain on the Pirate roster. The Pittsburgh club now has 47 players on its roster including eight players on the National Defense list.

Held in Slaying

LEWIS CAGLE, Jr. (above), 17, of Chattanooga, Tenn., an inmate at the Federal Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pa., was accused by the F.B.I. of the slaying of William W. ## Ray Kennedy To Manage Kansas City

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ray Kennedy, a veteran of 28 years as a baseball manager and executive, was named personnel director of the Kansas City Athletics of the American League.

Kennedy was pulled out of retirement to fill the last remaining front office post in the Athletics' setup headed by Business Manager Parke Carroll.

Kennedy retired in 1951 as farm director of the Detroit Tigers and went into private business in San Francisco. He had been with the Tigers three years.

Kennedy, a combination catcher-infielder, played most of his active career in the minors, but was with the St. Louis Browns for a short time.

He went to Newark N.J. as general manager in 1952 and was there through 1945, when he became general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. When the club changed hands, Kennedy became farm system director of the Pirates in 1947-48 before moving to his last job at Detroit.

KITCHEN WASTE CANS NEED DAILY DOUSING

LINCOLN, Neb. —Stepon waste cans are convenient, but need care to prevent odors or rusting, according to Miss Clara Leopold.

Miss Leopold, University of Nebraska extension home management specialist, said the waste can should be washed daily in soapy water. Wash the outside occasionally too, including the lid. Very often food scraps push up against the inside of the lid, causing unpleasant odors and rusting.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance and was originated by Houbigant. Try their Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.25 plus tax at Scott Walgreen Drug.

White Way Jubilee Is Scheduled

A gigantic White Way Jubilee celebration will be staged in Mayfield on Friday, December 10, the day when the city's new electric lighting system will be turned on.

Dwight Timmons, president of Mayfield's Junior Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the program for the occasion, has arranged for an elaborate celebration.

Six high school bands will compete for cash prizes totaling several hundred dollars, in addition to the Murray State College band and two service bands. Graves County's high schools will enter beautiful floats in the biggest parade the city has ever seen.

Three orchestras have been engaged for a mammoth street dance on the court square, and there will be an old time fiddler's contest with cash prizes to the winners. Kentucky's Gov. Lawrence Wetherby will deliver the principal address for the occasion, and will cut a ribbon to turn the lights on for the first time.

Mayfield merchants are cooperating with the Mayfield-Graves County Chamber of Commerce in staging the huge event, one of the largest in Mayfield's history. The new mercury-vapor lighting system is being installed at a cost of approximately $50,000. It replaces an antiquated system which has been in existence for more than 20 years. The new "white-way" system covers more of the downtown and surrounding areas than the old system.

AREA AGENTS NAMED FOR NEW FARM PLAN
 The Farm and Home Development program, now carried in 68 counties of Kentucky, has been furthered this fall by the appointment of 10 area agents. Former county agents, and experienced in this new program, they are working with county agricultural and home agents, said Dean Frank J. Welch of the UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics.
 The agents are: Fred Brockman, stationed at Berea; Wilmer Browning, Flemingsburg; Steven A. Callahan, Bowling Green; Hubert W. Davis, Pineville; Charlie Dixon, Jackson; R. P. Grimscher, Brandenburg; Douglas Howard, Cynthiana; H. E. Rothwell, Mayfield; E. R. Russell, Lebanon; and A. M. Warren, Princeton.

The Farm and Home Development Program, a long time educational service to farmers is a part of the Agricultural Extension Service, and in no way takes the place of established programs. It was pointed out. Its purpose is to help farm families make necessary adjustments and improvements in order to increase profits and make for a more satisfactory life for the farm family, Dean Welch said.
 Upon enrolling in the program, the farmer and his wife make a careful study and inventory of their resources. Then, with the assistance of the county and home agents, they make a program for the improvement of the farm and home as a whole. It is emphasized that each family does its own planning and decision making.
 Each enrolled farm and home serves as a demonstration in improved farming and homemaking for the entire community, said Dean Welch.

The Inheritors by JANE ABBOTT

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
 GARY had a sudden impulse to tell her about the letter, but he knew her criticism, good or bad, was going to mean to him. But he had, with a short laugh: "Probably stick it up with a lot of others."
 "If you're going to do that, lady, don't like it—may I buy it?"
 He looked at her with some astonishment. "What would you do with it?"
 "Hanging it in my room at home."
 "But I'd rather buy it, but you may have it some day. I'm sending it to a critic in Boston. When it comes back it's yours."
 "But I'd rather buy it," she said. "Paints cost money."
 "We'll settle that later."
 Cindy joined them, dropped down at Gary's other side. "Oh, for an old-fashioned drink," she said.
 "Don't you use the well to keep things cold?" asked Gary. When he saw by her faces that they did not know what he was talking about, he got to his feet. "Come and I'll show you."
 The pump rested on a platform of heavy planks. In one corner of it was a trap door. Gary lifted it up, pointed out the pegs driven into the underside of the platform, the strong cords looped on the pegs, the covered containers of varying sizes attached to the ends of the cords. "They're water-tight—at least they were. You put your food into them, lower them down below water level. Things'll keep for days. No defrosting."
 "Aunt Jennie should know about 'em," cried Cindy. "I'll go get 'em."
 She came back with Jennie.
 Jennie looked down through the trap door. "I should have remembered seeing my mother and Aunt Bernia putting things in the well!"
 At that moment Hester's car came around the house, stopped just outside the barn door. Hester got out of it.
 "What a cozy little gathering we make!" she said, almost gaily.
 "But Gary caught an edge in her voice; that was not amusement."
 Hester Wilmer had enjoyed her stay at the Saranac inn, her pleasant room, the competent service, the habit of bits of news from home. "The little place is simply stuck," Hester thought they were very friendly that they made her resident. The patient committee was simply amused when they got your resignation! Other bits of news to hear. If she had seen more notices with her, she could have stayed longer.
 So she had driven north from Saranac in food spirits. On reaching Kullback she stopped at the post-office for her mail and was delighted to be given a little packet of letters, along with her newspapers. Some bills, a few square white envelopes that looked like invitations, a letter with Robert Drew's firm name on the envelope.
 The postmistress said to her: "Here's a letter for that Gary Norbeck up at your place. Been here several days. Want to take it to him? From a bank. He gets them every so often."
 Hester looked at the letter. "First National Bank, Salem, Mass." Salem, Anne Babbitt would be going soon to Salem. She pushed the letter back under the grating. "No, I am not likely to see him. Anything for Miss Enid Wilmer or Miss Jennie Todd?"
 "Miss Todd come herself for mail yesterday."
 Hester was impatient to open Robert Drew's letter. Also, she'd like a cup of tea and a sandwich. She remembered seeing an eating place somewhere nearby. She found the place. A woman, evidently the proprietor, greeted her cordially. "Good afternoon. You're the other one of old Josh's nieces, aren't you?"
 "Yes, I am Jehosaphat Trevett's niece. Mrs. Hubert Wilmer."
 Something went out of the woman's smile. "I'm Hannah Plebby, and I knew old Josh most before he could walk."
 Hester merely asked stiffly for a cup of tea and a sandwich.
 She opened Robert Drew's letter and read:
 "My dear Mrs. Wilmer:
 "With regret I must write you that it will be impossible for me to go to Salem, as you suggest, to advise you, as your attorney, in matters connected with this estate you mention. I have made inquiries about the Killback lawyer who is the executor, and find that he has a very good standing in that part of the state, so I am confident that you can trust him and depend on his counsel in any legal difficulties that may come up."
 "With best regards,
 "Robert Drew."
 The coolness of it—as if she were just any client! How many times had she had him and his wife for dinner? And it was Olive and Hester between her and his wife.
 By the time she reached the farm she had regained her composure. She drove into the yard. Then she saw them, Enid, and the girl from the back wing, Jennie, and a man who must be Gary Norbeck, chummyly nudged around the pump, laughing.
 She went toward them. She said something—she did not know what. She was gratified as she approached them to see the girl who called herself Cindy go into the back wing.
 "Hello, mother—you're back!"
 A rather stupid greeting, darling, when you can see that I am back!"
 "Mother, I want you to meet Gary Norbeck," said Enid.
 Hester merely lifted her head. "How do you do, Mr. Norbeck."
 "How do you do," said Gary as distantly.
 "He's been showing his how to use the well to keep things cool, said Enid. "The way he and Uncle Jehosaphat always did. It's quite simple." She added: "And your grass is cut!"
 Now Hester looked at Gary Norbeck coolly.
 "It is? But I prefer to make my own arrangements for work done for me. However, this time—how much do I owe you, Mr. Norbeck?"
 "Wait, Hester," began Jennie, but Gary Norbeck spoke before she could go on. "Guess it took me two hours—maybe two and a half. Dollar an hour is what we usually paid in these parts."
 Hester did not like his smile—an impudent fellow, she thought. She did not like Enid's smile, either. She opened her purse, took the money out of it, gave it to Gary. "If I need you again, Mr. Norbeck, I'll send word to you. Will you come with my bag, Enid?" She went on to her kitchen door.
 Enid followed her to the bedroom with the bag, put it down.
 Hester opened her bag, lifted out a dress. "It really was presumptuous in him to come up here when no one had told him to. I don't want him hanging around here!"
 "He isn't hanging around..."
 "Enid, I don't like the way you are speaking!"
 "I'm sorry, mother, but what I said is true."
 She started toward the door.
 "Where are you going?"
 "To bring in two of those pails. Wash them—then I can put butter in one and down the well."
 "Enid, I insist that you wait until that farmhand has gone!"
 But she heard the screen door of the kitchen close behind Enid.
 It was defiance. And never in her life had she had to meet defiance in Enid.
 Hester remembered the thick envelope from the bank in Salem. "I'll write to Anne—she may know something about him. It's a slim chance, but even so..."
 She heard Enid come back into the kitchen, heard the swish of water in the pails. There came the snap of kinking, lighted in the stove.
 When Enid came to the bedroom door she was taking the last of her things from the bag.
 "We lived high last evening—best steak Aunt Jennie brought it from town, and we all ate together."
 Hester kept her smile steady. "That was nice of Jennie. I'm glad you are getting acquainted with her. Enid, now, please do something with your hair before we sit down to eat! I'll look over my newspapers."
 Enid came out, her hair set in its usual smooth curl. "Why don't we eat in here, mother? It's pleasanter than the kitchen. I'll move this little table over..."
 "Darling, how nice of you to think of it! I don't enjoy sitting in the kitchen..."

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Many housewives enjoy making a specialty of rolls of different kinds. The following sweet roll dough may be the basis for twists, braids, hot cross buns, clover leaf rolls or other varieties. Says Miss Florence Imlay, food specialist at the University of Kentucky. Foundation Sweet Roll Dough: 3 T fat, 2 eggs, 1 cake compressed yeast, 1 1/2 c milk, 7 to 8 c soft wheat flour, 1/2 c sugar, 1/2 t salt. Sift milk and sugar with flour and fat and cool to lukewarm. Add yeast dissolved in lukewarm water and about 1/2 c milk. Beat the egg well and add to mixture. Add more flour to make a soft dough as can be rolled. Place in well-greased bowl, cover with cloth, and set in warm place to double in bulk. Shape rolls and place on greased pan. Set in warm place, let rise until light and double in hot oven, 425 degrees, 20 minutes. When dough has doubled in bulk, divide in three or four parts. Roll each piece into an oblong about 14 by 8 inches in size. Spread with soft butter and sprinkle with 1/2 c of this mixture: 2 c sugar, 1 T cinnamon, 3/4 c raisins. Roll up lengthwise as far as jelly roll. Cut with sharp knife in 1/2-inch slices, or use a string with ends crossed and pull carefully. Place cut side up in shallow greased baking pan. Let rise until doubled and bake as above. Luncheon menu: Chicken-riced casserole, broccoli with hollandaise sauce, peas, salad, cinnamon rolls, butter and coffee. On Kentucky Farms: John Burkhard, Casey county 4-H club boy, collected 14 bushels of black walnut seed for the State Forestry Department.

Litterbugging Is A Crime Says Nichols

By HERMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP)—A man in California was found guilty of "litterbugging." That is throwing things out of his car and messing up the countryside. In his case, it was empty beer cans. The unsavory character was sentenced to 11 pick up all beer cans along a quarter mile of highway and (2) sit in the jailhouse for 28 days. That is the sort of thing that prompted a lot of folks, including the American Automobile Association, state legislators, and officials to form Keep America Beautiful, Inc. Boy Scouts have gotten into the act. They have adopted a creed: "I will treat the great outdoors as a heritage to be improved for our greater enjoyment." The Girl Scouts have gone along with this, too, and pledge themselves to keep trash and garbage out of America's waters, fields, woods and roadways. The "litterbug" thus come into being and is being distributed around the country. It is a water-proof little sack, distributed by the AAA and others. The first one I saw came from the Inland Automobile Association, which distrib-

Upsets Were Common Last Grid Season

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP)—College football produced plenty of shockers this season but in the matter of the "upset of the year" somebody forgot to re-write the script.

Upset lightning struck twice in the same place when Mississippi Southern opened the campaign by knocking off Alabama just as it did the previous September. Alabama was favored by 20 points.

That one rates as a top shocker not only on the spread in points but because most of the experts were dead certain Alabama would not be caught napping again. But the final score was Mississippi

Southern 7, Alabama 2.

Not many hopeless underdogs stored victories in this second season without the piston system but two touchdown favorites were blasted in clusters nearly every week.

Harvard, Wake Forest and Tulane were long, long shots that squeezed through to either a victory or a tie. Harvard, underdog by 19, trimmed Cornell 14-13. Maryland was a 20-point favorite over Wake Forest and was tied 13-13, Alabama, unpredictable all the way, was favored by 19 over Tulane and wound up in a scoreless tie.

Others Stump Experts

Among the better upsets that left the forecasters reeling were South Carolina over Army, Purdue over Notre Dame, Texas Christian over Southern California, Pittsburgh over Navy, Indiana over Michigan, Miami, Ohio, over Indiana, Xavier of Ohio over Boston College and Army over Michigan.

Probably the worst guess of the season was William and Mary by 14 points over North Carolina State which won 26-0, but the toughest teams for the oddsmakers to figure were Arkansas and Minnesota.

The point spreaders had Arkansas the underdog against Texas Christian, Baylor, Texas and Mississippi — games the Razorbacks won — and made the Porkers favorites in games lost to Southern Methodist and Louisiana State.

Two Way Off

Minnesota was a one-point underdog against Pittsburgh and won in a breeze, 46-7. Later, Minnesota was rated seven points over Michigan and was licked 34-0.

Other bad calls were Duke by one over Navy and Fordham by seven over Villanova. Navy licked Duke 40-7 and Villanova, winless all season, trampled Fordham 41-9.

And other victorious underdogs: Penn State over Illinois, Colgate over Cornell, Florida over Georgia Tech, Stanford over Oregon, Princeton over Yale, Wichita over Cincinnati, Michigan over Iowa, Clemson over Florida, Oregon over California and Holy Cross over Boston U.

But the year's first upset again was the biggest in our book. And maybe next time they'll make Mississippi Southern a favorite over Alabama.

On Kentucky Farms

Warren county has a 4-H club membership of 883 boys and girls.

Kentucky laws that effect was men in particular were studied by Grayson county homemakers in November.

STUDY SHOWS WOMEN HOPEFUL ON MARRIAGE

NEW YORK (AP)—Women have a rosier outlook than men on marriage.

A report of a New York market research firm, which asked 1,399 men and women to give the first word which came to their mind at the mention of marriage. The researchers said words indicating a happy attitude — such as "wedding," "children," "love" and "happiness" — were mentioned more frequently by women.

Doris Day Gives Recipe For "Stares"

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2—Doris Day, one of the world's top boxoffice stars, told today how she has recovered from a near nervous breakdown that resulted from a dislike of being stared at.

The singer with the short blonde hair and pert nose has been a mystery on the local scene for the past year, with rumors of an "inferiority complex" and "illness" peppering the gossip columns.

Today, sitting relaxed and smiling in her home, she shrugged off the "inferiority" phrase and preferred to put her problem this way: At times being a movie star is frightening. The goldfish-bowl life that goes with a fat paycheck and fame unnerved her, she said.

Almost A Breakdown
"I didn't exactly have a nervous breakdown, but the next thing to it," she said thoughtfully.

Her husband, Marty Melcher, explained, "Doris—just hates, being stared at."

"When I walk into a club, everybody's looking at me," the actress said. "If I could just be Mrs. Smith sometime."

"I didn't even particularly want to become a star," she went on. "When I did my first picture I didn't think about seeing my name in lights. Having the contract gave me a certain amount of security. That's what I thought about."

"As I told the doctor, I used to hate going to movie premieres. I love show business, and I'm grateful that people ask for autographs, but the crowds, and when the lights go on, I feel everybody turns to look at you. Haven't you ever torn up a snapshot of yourself you didn't like? Can you imagine looking at yourself on the screen and feeling that way?"

Feel Better Now
"When I first started work at MGM this month the trouble came back but I'm all right now," she smiled. "I never felt better. I've started to understand myself better. The goldfish life is part of how business and you have to go along with it."

"But the press, when I was sick, took such jobs at me. And I'm so sensitive," she added.

The first starlet in the new day is her MGM picture, "Love Me Or Leave Me," the life of Ruth Etting. It's her first loan-out from her own studio, Warner. MGM paid more for Doris than for any other loan-out star, a tribute to her boxoffice pull.

New Auto Rates Are Announced

FRANKFORT, Ky. — A new rate schedule for automobile insurance was filed with the state Department of Insurance today which state Insurance Commissioner S. H. Goebel estimated would save Kentuckians $565,000 a year.

The revised rate schedule, covering comprehensive, fire, theft and collision automobile insurance, was filed by the National Automobile Underwriters' Association, New York.

The largest rate reduction applied in Louisville, where Goebel said passenger comprehensive rates would be cut 10 per cent. He added that the firm's "favorable experience" in the Louisville area warranted the reduction.

The comprehensive rate and premium levels for other areas of the state will not be changed. However, private passenger $50 deductible collision rates will be reduced by 1-2 per cent for the state as a whole, with revisions in various sections ranging to a 6 per cent increase to a 1-2 per cent decrease.
