Husband Of Local Girl Is Honored

The Hartford City, Indiana News Times carried a story on April 20, concerning Lowell S. Hyde, husband of the former Miss Sarah Louise Palmer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Palmer of Murray.

The story is as follows:

Lowell Stanton Hyde, medical technologist and radiography technologist, now connected with the X-Ray department of Walter Clinic, in Michigan City, Ind., has won signal recognition through articles published in the Journal of the American Radiography Technologists, published at Enid, Okla. Mr. Hyde is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hyde of this city.

He is a native of Hartford City and a graduate of the Hartford City high school and formerly studied at Ball State College, Muncie. He is a graduate of Northwest Institute of Medical Technology in Minneapolis, Minn. His experience in the field of X-rays was taken in the X-ray department of the Charlevoix hospital, Charlevoix, Mich., under the direction of Robert R. Garneau M.D., radiologist. ## Chandler Still Hopes For Nominee LEXINGTON — Gov. A. B. Chandler still has hopes for president of the United States, he indicated in an address here over the weekend.

At the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner here Saturday night the governor said that last year "we made a run for all the roses at Chicago, and didn't get very far—but we saw the city." He added "we may try again sometime, if we keep things in good order."

Chandler chided state Sen. Clarence W. Maloney of Madisonville who last week said he would not go to the dinner because the funds raised there would go into Chandler's personal campaign fund.

Maloney also criticized Chandler for denouncing top state political leaders at last year's affair.

Among the speakers at the $50 a-plate dinner was Alexander Campbell, Fort Wayne, Ind., who cast his half-vote for Chandler in the Democratic National Convention last year. Campbell is a former U.S. assistant attorney general.

Campbell launched the usual broad attack on the Republican Party, in particular criticizing the budget of President Eisenhower.

Among other notables at the dinner were Reps. Carl D. Perkins, Hindman; William H. Natcher, Bowling Green; and John C. Watts, Nicholasville.

Shocked City Pays Final Tribute To Slain Police Chief; Surrounding Towns Give Aid

A shocked citizenry paid its last respects to a slain police officer yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist Church.

The funeral of Novel McReynolds, Chief of Police of Murray, was held at 3:30 yesterday with Rev. Paul T. Lyles and Rev. Eunie Mathis officiating.

Neighboring towns came to pay their respects also with police officers from Paducah, Benton, Mayfield, Paris, Fulton, and the State attending.

Chief of Police Rullie Elliott came to Murray from Paducah with Captain Marshall Jeffords and Lt. McDougald and seven patrolmen. Chief Elliott brought a police escort consisting of two motorcycles and three police cars.

He placed an officer at each intersection between the funeral home and the church between the funeral and the cemetery after the funeral, to aid in traffic direction.

Also in the funeral procession were two state police cars with Cpl. Norworthy and Patrolman Turner driving.

All city and county officials attended the funeral. The church itself was packed with people from the city and county and neighboring towns, and many stood on the outside in silence during the funeral service.

Flowers were banked in profusion inside the church. One arrangement which many said typified the character of the slain police chief, was an ice cream cone. The cone was made of yellow flowers with white flowers forming the ice cream. It was sent by a small boy who remembered Chief McReynolds 47-year old charmer.

Who had frequently bought him ice-cream. The arrangement received a prominent position.

Chief Elliott of Paducah said that he was "only too glad to come to Murray. It is the least that we can do," he said.

City police officers acted as pallbearers. They were Burman Parker, James Brown, Norman Lovins, Charlie Marr, Leo Alexander, Barney Weeks, James Witherspoon and O. D. Warren.

Honorary pallbearers were L. D. Miller, Ed Settle, George Hart, Wells Overbey, Matt Sparkman, Hershel Corn, T. Sled, Burgess Parker, Phil Mitchell, Bob McCusick, Otis Warren, Charlie Grogan, Flavil Robertson, Cecil Outland, Bill Cain, Clarence Bennett, Paul Lee, Logan Bland, Robert McDermott, William Hodges, Roy Lassiter, Nuel McNutt, Earl Littleton, Vernon Hale and Luther Robertson.

Other honorary pallbearers were J. O. Parker, Wade Crawford, Buell Stalls, Wm. H. "Jake" Dunn, Ed Burken, and eight hospital nurses, Mrs. Mary Frances McKenzie, Mrs. Dewey Todd, Mrs. Nell Brandon, Mrs. Eunice Garrison, Mrs. Lottie Brandon, Mrs. Janice Newberry, Mrs. Peggy Futrel, and Mrs. Rudene Sykes.

McReynolds succumbed Thursday night at 9:30 from gun shot wounds suffered Wednesday night when attacked by Preston Moore, former Calioyay resident. Moore was killed in the incident.

Among out of town people attending the funeral were several policemen and ex-policemen in plain clothes.

The procession left the church and proceeded out North Fifth Street. In the lead were two motorcycle escorts from Paducah, the two Paducah police cars, two state police cars and the city police car.

Seven Paducah policemen along the funeral route moved the procession quickly and smoothly to the city cemetery.

The Max H. Churchill Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Tom Wells and Frank Coleman have come through with some good pitching performances but fast coming Ron Miles is the (Continued on Page Four)

Members Of Church Raise $33,718

Members of the First Baptist church have raised over $33,000 in the first effort to raise $50,000 in twelve months, according to the church bulletin used in yesterday's services.

The major part of this money was raised on Easter-Sunday. Members are building an addition to the church which will carry the rear of the auditorium to South Third street. Total amount raised was $33,718.59.

The entire building and remodeling program will cost about $140,000. Included in the program is complete air conditioning of the church, the addition of balconies inside the auditorium, and extension of the auditorium to the East.

With the money in the building fund and the $50,000 expected to be raised within the next twelve months, they anticipate that the entire program can be financed.

Walter Yemm Has Yen For Wives

CHICAGO — The big riddle today involved just how many wives Walter Yemm actually has — six or seven.

At that, no one was paying any attention to still another two wives whom Yemm had remembered to divorce.

Yemm, 47, was tripped up when he tried to take bride No. 8 — or was it 9 — and her brother-in-law, who is the buddy of a detective, asked police to check on the 47-year old charmer.

Police uncovered a virtual harem, including Yemm's current wives, the former Beverly Simms, 31, a typist, and the former Wilma Pyzik, 48, a clerical worker, both of Chicago.

Friday, Yemm admitted he had six un-divorced wives, but protested he only lived with two at time. Later, in the day, while naming the six, he rolled off seven names.

When police pointed out the discrepancy, Yemm conceded there probably were seven. Police booked him on charges of bigamy, which really is an understatement.

Crappie Are Really Biting At The Lake

FRANKFORT — The crappie are practically flipping into fishermen's boats at Kentucky Lake, the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources said today.

The crappie run, which declined last weekend when the water level dropped, was back in full force by midweek, the water level was raised by closing all gates at Kentucky Dam.

Crappie catches also were reported improving at Lake Cumberland.

A few bass are being taken by casting in the early morning at Kentucky Lake and jugging at night on Lake Cumberland.

Herrington Lake is high and muddy and little fishing is reported.

Crappie, white bass and black bass all are reported good prospects at Dale Hollow and crappie rate first at Dewey Lake, although good bass catches also are reported.

Garand Sees Soldiers Always Needing Rifles

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — John C. Garand believes U. S. soldiers will always need rifles, even in the atomic age.

Garand should know. He is the inventor of the Garand M-1 rifle, the standard U. S. weapon.

"There would have to be a radical change in warfare to do away with the rifle," he said at his home here. "Even with atomic bombs, guided missiles, rockets and the rest, foot soldiers with their rifles will be needed to mop up, occupy and hold territory."

Garand added, however, that his famed World War II weapon would soon be "obsolete." It will be replaced by a gun that will work like a machinegun and hold a clip of at least 20 rounds he explained.

WASHINGTON, Me. — This town is the only industry, and this is how it was reported to the Maine Department for Development of Industry and Commerce. "The sawkraut factory has moved to Waldoboro, but we still have the cabbage patch."

WASHINGTON — The oldest commercial airliner in service today is mechanically as new as an automobile with only 6,000 miles on its speedometer.

The fact exemplifies the care that goes into the construction and maintenance of America's 1,600-plane commercial air fleet.

Film Shop

By RON BURTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — An audience watched Bob Hope, and no one laughed. It made Hope happy—a little unglued, to be sure, but happy.

The event occurred during a sneak showing of his latest film, "Beau James," the story of the late playboy mayor of New York, Jimmy Walker. Hope has the lead.

"A comedian knows people are conditioned to laughing at him," Hope said. "The opposite is true for dramatic actors. For example, if I slip on a banana peel, they laugh. If Marlon Brando slips on the same banana peel in the same place and lands on the same place, they wonder if he's hurt and whether his being will have psychological scars."

Hope went to the sneak showing and realized it was crucial. He wondered whether the audience would laugh at him although he was doing a straight part.

They cried. "I was upset but happy upset," he said. "I expect people to laugh at me, and when they don't I wonder where I made a mistake. Then I realize that in a dramatic role they shouldn't laugh at me, and if they are I sure have made a mistake."

Hope read all he could find about the controversial figure before shooting began at Paramount. He made his own evaluation of Walker.

"He was a child of the 1920's who came up for judgment in the 1930's," Hope said. "He was hit with malfeasance, misfeasance and all that sort of thing. Actually the only thing really wrong with him was that he would have preferred to have been an actor or professional songwriter instead of mayor of the world's greatest city."

Hope admitted he himself was entranced by examples of Walker's wit and his easy manner during difficult periods.

And the best part of the movie came in a dramatic scene when Walker resigned.

"Some persons in the audience cried," Hope said. "They cried at me—they didn't laugh."

HOLLYWOOD — Ronald Colman, currently on television because of a film he made eight years ago, has made just two motion pictures since 1949. That's because he isn't exactly happy over the present subject matter in pictures.

"For some reason," he said, "they don't make many pictures based on really established literature any more—pictures such as 'Beau Geste,' 'Tale of Two Cities' and 'Pride and Prejudice.' Oh, they make a lot of epics, spectacles, huge colorful panoramas. However, these are not the types of stories that appeal to me."

Colman wants to do films which combine romance, adventure, charm, drama and even a happy ending.

"Two many pictures these days are flat and colorless," he said. "They don't do too handsomely, and I become depressed when I watch them, and this contradicts my own basic idea about motion pictures. By that I mean that I believe pictures are entertainment and should leave people with a content and happy feeling."

His New Picture
Since making "Champagne for Caesar" in 1949, Colman's picture now making the TV rounds—Colman has been in two films. He did a page of dialogue for "Around the World in 80 Days" and is currently starring in "The Story of Mankind" for Warner Bros. in Technicolor.

"Both, you'll note are based on established literature," he said. "Jules Verne and the famous historian, Hendrick Van Loon, wrote them. I'm delighted with the role I now have, because it satisfies my ideas on what part should have it has serious drama and a little comedy."

"It isn't every day that someone can portray the Spirit of Man, which I do in the picture. I have the duty of defending mankind and preventing his destruction, while Vincent Price, as the devil, is prosecuting mankind for the evil which he has perpetrated upon the world. The center of the story is a trial which is held in outer space, before the eyes of the universe. Isn't that a real part,

New planes are tested for thousands of hours before they are officially certified as safe for carrying passengers. Airliners already in service are subjected to regular and frequent inspection. After every 8,000 hours of flight time, they literally are rebuilt.

All these safety measures, however, have never completely eliminated the "bugs" that seem to plague all types of aircraft. Almost every transport plane used by U. S. airlines since 1946 has suffered some kind of major mechanical malfunction that was undetected in all the pre-certification testing. And some of these "difficulties" have caused fatal crashes.

For example:

DC-4s: The nation's first four-engine airliner was "flown" for hundreds of thousands of hours as a wartime transport. Yet all of this operational experience failed to uncover a small but vital weakness—a piece of bonding tape on the tail which, when worked loose, ballooned into the wind and created what amounted to a giant air brake. This defect sent one Eastern Airlines DC-4 to its death, killing 50 persons.

The Eastern crash, on May 30, 1948, was an unsolved mystery until another DC-4, almost three years later, went into a sudden dive and recovered only a few hundred feet from the ground. Examination of this aircraft revealed the culprit—the ripped bonding tape.

Constellation: This sleek, triple-tailed beauty was grounded temporarily a few years ago when a mid-air fire and subsequent crash revealed inherent weaknesses in the plane's electrical system.

DC-6: In 1947, a United Airlines DC-6 caught fire over Utah and crashed. Cause of the blaze was unknown until an American DC-6 also caught fire but managed to land safely. Investigators found a flaw in the plane's system for transferring fuel from one wing tank to another. Under certain conditions, overflowing fuel would leak into the ducts of the cabin heater and ignite. Every DC-6 was grounded for modification of the fuel tank system.

Martin 202: In 1948, one of these twin-engine transports, operated by Northwest Airlines, fell apart in a thunderstorm near Winona, Minn. One wing was found some distance from the rest of the wreckage and investigators suspected structural failure, which had not occurred on a scheduled airline since 1931. Examination of Northwest's entire 202 fleet revealed fatigue cracks in the wings of five planes. The 202 was grounded until the weakness, an inadequate wing "flange" was corrected.

Stratocruiser: Several crashes involving this Boeing-built giant were blamed on failure of a new type of propeller.

DC-7: In its early months of service, this fastest of piston-engined transports suffered an embarrassing number of in-flight engine failures until technicians solved a fuel mixture problem.

Vickers: A few weeks ago, one of these British-made turbo-prop planes crashed in England. The accident was caused by faulty bolts in the wing flaps. Later models of the airliner, used in this country by Capital Airlines, were immediately inspected to make sure they did not have a similar flaw. They didn't.

"We could test every new type of plane for 200,000 hours or more to see what bugs develop," a Civil Aeronautics Administration official said. "But such lengthy testing would be economic ruin of every airplane manufacturer who has millions tied up in tooling. Every certified plane must pass difficult tests and meet or surpass rigid performance specifications—such as ability to climb safely even when an engine fails on takeoff. The public never hears about the hundreds of so-called bugs that are eliminated by these tests."

Gleason Family To Break Up

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Jackie Gleason's TV family breaks up after June 22, but it's doubtful whether any of its departing members will starve.

With the official announcement earlier this week that the Gleason show would be dumped by CBS-TV next fall in favor of a new Perry Mason mystery series, offers began siphoning in to Gleason under — bananas, Art Carney, Audrey Meadows and June Taylor.

Carney seems to have the rosiest future in store. All three major networks are making eyes at the rubber-faced comic. Carney, however, is pretty firm on one point—he doesn't want to get mixed up with a situation comedy series.

Earlier this year, Carney and Nanette Fabray, former TV wife of Sid Caesar, were talking about teaming up for a TV variety show series. That plan fell through when Nan decided to go out on her own with a TV comedy series, "June."

"Right now, Art is not interested in any kind of a stereotyped format," says William McCaffrey, his agent. "What he'd like to do is some sort of variety show, but not on a weekly basis."

Carney also will begin looking seriously at drama scripts—his last excursion into this area on "Playhouse 90" was greeted pretty warmly by the critics.

Audrey Meadows is probably the most financially secure of all the Gleason cast-offs. She's happily married to Randy Rouse, a wealthy Washington real estate man. For the past several months Audrey has spent much of her spare time decorating her new home in Arlington, Va.

"We've had offers from everybody," reports her agent, Val Irving. "She'd like to do some drama shows and if Gleason does any spectaculars in the fall, she'll probably be on them."

Joyce Randolph, who plays Carney's wife on the "Gleason program," will do some summer stock. Last summer, Joyce worked in "Plain and Fancy" on the strawhat circuit. Joyce currently is taking dancing lessons at June Taylor's Dance Studio here with an eye toward diversifying her talents.

Texas Prays Rains To Stop Soon

DALLAS, Tex. (U.P.)—Nine major rivers and countless streams today poured flood waters over Texas where people now are praying for the rain to stop. Death and destruction in the form of flood-breeding rains, hailstorms and tornadoes has poured from the sky over Texas, only recently a dust bowl, for 10 straight days.

The toll today stood at least 15 persons dead and millions of dollars in damages. Three persons died Sunday and the body of another who drowned Saturday was recovered. Hundreds of families scrambled for high ground as flash floods engulfed their homes. The latest line of disaster ran from Graham, 100 miles west of Dallas, to the Gulf of Mexico 400 miles away.

Chandler Still Hopes For Nominee

LEXINGTON (U.P.)—Gov. A. B. Chandler still has hopes for president of the United States, he indicated in an address here over the weekend.

At the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner here Saturday night the governor said that last year "we made a run for all the roses at Chicago, and didn't get very far—but we saw the city." He added "We may try again sometime, if we keep things in good order."

Chandler chided state Sen. Clarence W. Maloney of Madisonville who last week said he would not go to the dinner because the funds raised there would go into Chandler's personal campaign fund.

Maloney also criticized Chandler for denouncing top state political leaders at last year's affair. Among the speakers at the $50 a-plate dinner was Alexander Campbell, Fort Wayne, Ind., who cast his half-vote for Chandler in the Democratic National Convention last year. Campbell is a former U.S. assistant attorney general.

Campbell launched the usual broad attack on the Republican Party, in particular criticizing the budget of President Eisenhower.

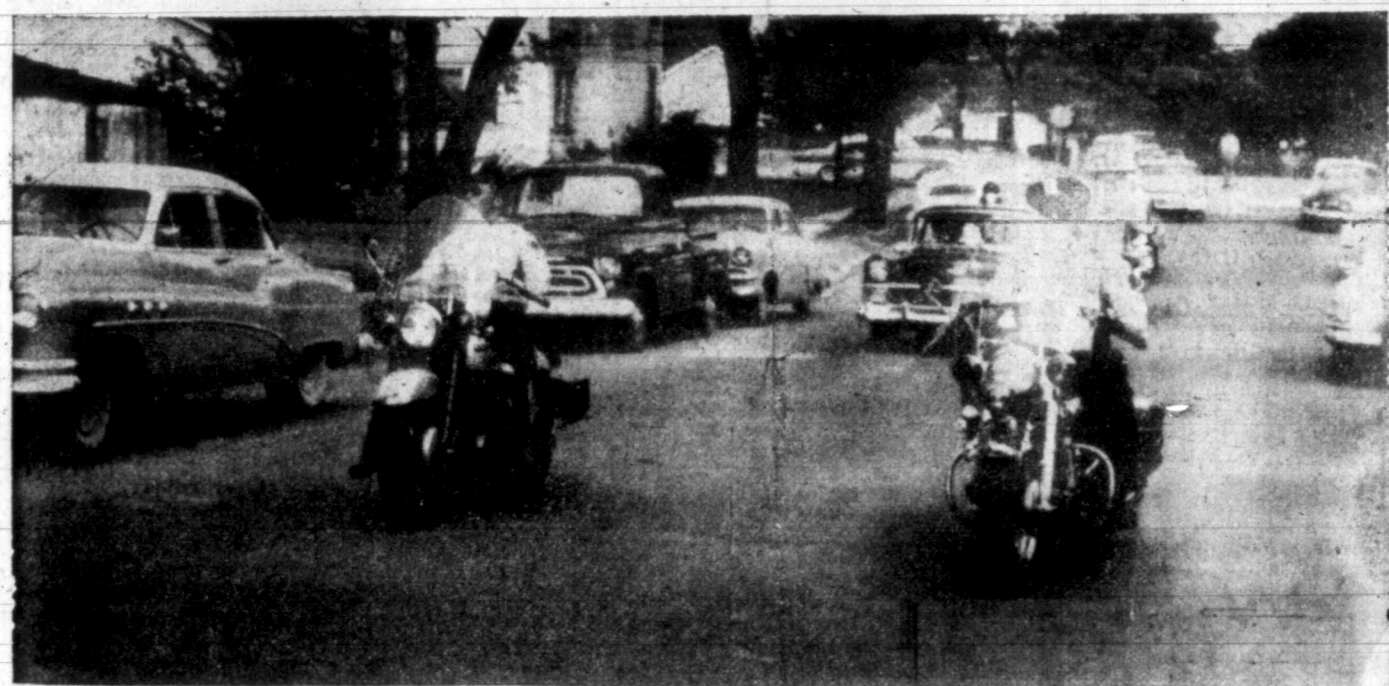

Among other notables at the dinner were Reps. Carl D. Perkins, Hindman; William H. Natcher, Bowling Green; and John C. Watts, Nicholasville.

Shocked City Pays Final Tribute To Slain Police Chief; Surrounding Towns Give Aid

A shocked citizenry paid its last respects to a slain police officer yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist Church.

The funeral of Novel McReynolds, Chief of Police of Murray, was held at 3:30 yesterday with Rev. Paul T. Lyles and Rev. Eunie Mathis officiating.

Neighboring towns came to pay their respects also with police officers from Paducah, Benton, Mayfield, Paris, Fulton, and the State attending.

Chief of Police Rulie Elliott, came to Murray from Paducah with Captain Marshall Jeffords and Lt. McDougald and seven patrolmen. Chief Elliott brought a police escort consisting of two motorcycles and three police cars.

He placed an officer at each intersection between the funeral home and the church before the funeral and between the church and the cemetery after the funeral, to aid in traffic direction.

Also in the funeral procession were two state police cars with Cpl. Norsworthy and Patrolman Turner driving.

All city and county officials attended the funeral. The church itself was packed with people from the city and county and neighboring towns, and many stood on the outside in silence during the funeral service.

Flowers were banked in profusion inside the church. One arrangement which many said typified the character of the slain police chief, was an ice cream cone. The cone was made of yellow flowers with white flowers forming the ice cream. It was sent by a small boy who remembered Chief McReynolds who had frequently bought him ice cream. The arrangement received a prominent position.

Chief Elliott of Paducah said that he was "only too glad to come to Murray. It is the best that we can do," he said.

City police officers acted as pallbearers. They were Burman Parker, James Brown, Norman Lovins, Charlie Marr, Leo Alexander, Barney Weeks, James Witherspoon and O. D. Warren.

Honorary pallbearers were L. D. Miller, Ed Settle, George Hart, Wally Overbey, Matt Sparkman, Hershel Corn, T. Sled, Burgess Parker, Phil Mitchell, Bob McCuiston, Ollis Warren, Charlie Grogan, Flavil Robertson, Cecil Outland, Bill Cain, Clarence Bennett, Paul Lee, Logan Bland, Robert McDermott, William Hodges, Roy Lassiter, Noel McNutt, Earl Littleton, Vernon Hale and Luther Robertson.

Other honorary pallbearers were J. O. Parker, Wade Crawford, Buell Stalls, Wm. H. "Jake" Dunn, Ed Burken, and eight hospital nurses, Mrs. Mary Frances McKenzie, Mrs. Dewey Todd, Mrs. Nell Brandon, Mrs. Eunice Garrison, Mrs. Lottie Brandon, Mrs. Janice Newberry, Mrs. Peggy Futrel, and Mrs. Rudene Sykes.

McReynolds succumbed Thursday night at 9:30 from gun shot wounds suffered Wednesday night when attacked by Preston Moore, former Calloway resident. Moore was killed in the incident.

Among out of town people attending the funeral were several policemen and ex-policemen in plain clothes.

The procession left the church and proceeded out North Fifth Street. In the lead were two motorcycle escorts from Paducah, the two Paducah police cars, two state police cars and the city police car.

Seven Paducah policemen along the funeral route moved the procession quickly and smoothly to the city cemetery.

The Max H. Churchill Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

CHICAGO (U.P.)—An unofficial record indicated today that Walter (Yoo Hoo) Yemm, an energetic businessman, had 12 wives.

"I thought there were only nine, but I just happened to remember three more," he told authorities.

Yemm, 47, seemed to recall that he divorced two of his wives.

"Another one, Corinne I think, called up one day and said she was getting a divorce," Yemm said. "Do you, suppose that counts?"

Assistant State's Attorney Patrick Egan said Yemm's marital adventures poses a problem.

"We can't figure out which of all these women was his legal wife," Egan said. "And we've got to know that if we're going to prosecute him for bigamy."

Yemm was tripped-up when he tried to take bride No. 8—or was it 9—and her brother-in-law, who is the buddy of a detective, asked police to check on the remembered Chief McReynolds

The visiting Governors' from Clarksville, Tenn., are sparked by third baseman Ken Gettrals, a Murray cast off.

FRIENDS IN NEED

We wish to thank the police departments of Paducah, Benton, Mayfield, Paris and Fulton for their presence in Murray yesterday during the funeral of Murray's slain police chief Novel McReynolds.

It has been said many times that a person does not know how many friends he has until he gets into difficulty. This was pointed out strongly yesterday when Chief of Police Rulie Elliott of Paducah and nine other police officers came to Murray from Paducah to aid in traffic direction during the funeral of Chief McReynolds.

Six police officers from Benton and several from Paris, Mayfield, and Fulton were on hand as well as two state police cars, and three state policemen.

The good will and helping hand extended by these police officers will not be forgotten. Their action proved that no matter how large a town is or how small, the giving of human kindness is a Christian trait that should be common to us all.

Chief Elliott said, "It is the least we can do." The thoughtfulness expressed by all these police officers is appreciated by the family of Novel McReynolds and the people of Murray and Calloway County.

We did not ask permission from Chief Elliott, but we think it is fitting here to print a poem written by Chief Elliott in 1946, entitled "Cops Are People Too".

COPS ARE PEOPLE TOO

Would you believe e'er in this world
That Cops are people too?
That they have feeling and a soul;
Are human just like you?

The man you see with club and gun
And dressed in navy-blue
Is working for you day and night
To make life safe for you.

He has a job that must be done
In peace or war or strife
And he will fight against all wrong
And defend you with his life.

He's just a neighbor and a man
Full of kindness thru and thru.
He'll help you every time he can
To make your skies all blue.

Don't use a Cop to scare your kids
For he's their loyal friend,
But tell them that in time of need
On him they can depend.

So please be kind in word and deed
To all the boys in blue,
And don't forget e'er in this world
That Cops are people too.

— Rulie Elliott, 1946.

What Changed Stengel To A Genius

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Ask his players what changed Casey Stengel from a baseball clown to a diamond genius and you come up with the summation that he is a combination mystic, psychologist and slave driver — complete with whip.

Stengel, in his nine years with Brooklyn and Boston, never finished higher than fifth in the managerial derby. His current string of seven pennants and six world championships in eight years is unmatched in baseball annals.

Everybody agrees that he has the talent with which to work.

They Respect Him
"But the biggest thing," says one, "is that he makes everybody feel he's the boss. No clubhouse lawyers with us. He kills 'em. He tells us hard and straight and, when he's done, you don't have any questions."

The Yankees have great respect for Stengel. No great fondness, possibly, because of his stern and dictatorial manner in the privacy of a businesslike clubhouse, but 3 respect tinged with just a bit of timidity. Yet, because of his fairness, they work ever harder for his rare award of praise.

Unquestionably he has had the talent yet it has been his job to mold the players into champions and he has done it with the aid of an able if silent band of coaches such as Jim Turner, Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti. Yet even they listen mutely when the "Boss" speaks, which is often, because nothing misses the ever-watchful Stengel eyes.

Instruction The Answer
"How'd we get this?" Stengel growls. "Well, we don't hold a gun to their head and make them sign. Nor do we promise them any more than they are offered by other clubs."

The answer must be that the Yankee system of painstaking and never-ceasing instruction — the answer, Stengel instituted the so-called rookie school idea in 1951 yet, even when a man "makes" the big club, he still is checked and rechecked constantly.

"Maybe the answer is good material and attention to detail," said another player, "but Stengel manages us to an extra five to 10 games each season." Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals, must agree.

"One thing I try to tell 'em," he says, "is not to try to out-manage him."

"Be not afraid, only believe." Mark 3:26. A check with the gospel-toting goose was the handiwork of an outdoors enthusiast who includes verses of scripture on his bird bands for the benefit of Eskimos and Indians.

Most Quiz Kids Have Done Alright

By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Robert Strom, the 10-year-old who has won $192,000 on "The $64,000 Question," is the latest of a long line of former "Quiz Kids" who have made good.

Rob was on the TV version of "Quiz Kids" from March to September, 1956. Last January, Rob appeared on CBS-TV's "Giant Step" and carried off a college scholarship.

None of the other 200-odd graduates of "Quiz Kids," a show which ran on radio and TV for 13 years, were able to pick up as much. But the records show that the alumni of "Quiz Kids" have done pretty well for themselves since they shucked their knee pants.

Perhaps the most famous grad is Snvyla Brind who was born in Vienna and schooled at Paris and other ways. You know her as Vanessa Brown.

Dabbled in Movies
Miss Brown, just graduated from UCLA in 1950, has dabbled in movies, TV and politics. She has appeared in such flickers as "Tarzan and the Slave Girl," "The Heiress," "The Late George Apley" and "The Foxes of Harrow."

Her TV credits include "Lux Video," "Leave It To The Girls" and a stint on "My Favorite Husband." Last August, she turned up at the Democratic Convention in Chicago, as a worker for Adlai Stevenson.

Joan Bishop, who appeared 31 times on "Quiz Kids" is a singer. She has early claims to distinction — growing a full set of teeth at eight months.

Joan, 30, and single, has sung with the San Carlo Opera Company and in such NBC-TV productions as "War and Peace," "Amezio-Sopano," Joan also has appeared as an entertainer at the hotels Pierre and Henry Hudson in Manhattan.

Harve Stinson, who left the show in 1946 after 181 appearances, went on to take a degree in theatre arts at UCLA. He has worked as an associate producer on the shows of Red Skelton, Robert Q. Lewis and Johnny Carson. He's married, lives in Manhattan and is now a freelance writer.

Jack Lucal, who made 65 appearances on "Quiz Kids," served in the Army in Germany, studied architecture at the University of Pennsylvania and got a B.S. from Purdue in engineering. He was in the Army for two years and his since entered the foreign service.

And, of course, Joel Kupper-man, who was on "Quiz Kids" 400 times, the high mark for the show. Another math expert, he went on to the University of Chicago, and, when last heard from, was a teaching assistant.

"None of us have ever heard from Joel at all," says Joan Bishop. "He turned out to be the Garbo of our group."

SCENE, NOT HEARD
PITTSBURGH — Five-year old Ruth Ann Fuchs slipped out of the house for a stroll Friday without a stitch of clothing. Ruth Ann lives on Plainview Street.

A Phi Beta Kappa
Cynthia Cline got a master's degree at Northwestern where she was a Phi Beta Kappa. She taught college English for a while and is now married to a Ph.D. Henry Garrett Curme, who works in Rochester, N.Y. for Eastman Kodak.

Dick Williams, a math whiz who was on "Quiz Kids" for 212 shows, got his B.A. at the University of Chicago in two years, studied architecture at the University of Pennsylvania and got a B.S. from Purdue in engineering. He was in the Army for two years and his since entered the foreign service.

Haven't Had Easy Game Says Stengel

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Casey Stengel insists his world champion Yankees haven't had an easy game this season, but Bob Grim's stout relief pitching is doing a lot to make the tough ones easy.

"Grim is pitchin' real good right now," said Stengel in the wake of the Yankees' 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday that saw Grim get the victory in relief. "He's about as good right now as he ever was."

That's saying a huge mouthful, even for the glib Stengel, for Grim's best form is mighty good, indeed — it produced a 20-6 record in his rookie season of 1954.

The ex-Marine son of a Brooklyn bartender had a lot of trouble "servin' 'em up" in 1955 because of elbow trouble and still was only fighting back from that ailment last season.

"He was sharp right near the end of last season, looking just about the way he does now," said Stengel. "I wanted to work him into a starting spot in the World Series, but I had four guys who were pitching complete games for me and I had to use them."

Grim's win over the Orioles, which he gained by allowing just one hit during the last two innings, was his second of the season. He's lost one, too, but Stengel is quick to point out a misplayed fly ball was his downfall in that one against the Red Sox last Sunday.

"Only clean hit off him in that game was a ground ball that just got through the infield," growled Casey. "He shoulda won that one, too."

"He's got a real good curve, and a good slider, and he keeps 'em low," Stengel pointed out. "That's tough."

He means it's tough on the rest of the American League. It figures to get a lot tougher if 1954's "Rookie of the Year" turns into 1957's Joe

COEDS SHOW INDIFFERENCE

RICHMOND, Va. — The Yul Brynner "haircut" fad is on the wane — at the University of Richmond, anyway. Nick Pozinko, a member of the university's "Yul Brynner Club," said the club had disbanded because coeds were neither attracted nor repelled by the clubmembers shaved heads.

Other counties, Marshall, Graves and McCracken will each have three directors.

CHAPTER 36

"MAY it please the court," Captain Temple Jocelyn said, rising, "Captain Kincaid's wound was received under the most peculiar circumstances, and Lieutenant Eastwood's action during the engagement leaves much to be desired in the way of military conduct."

General Sherman's gavel banged. "Captain, neither Captain Kincaid nor Lieutenant Eastwood is on trial at this time." Then Sherman turned to Eastwood. "Lieutenant," Sherman said, "are you aware that to properly clear this matter, the conduct of Captain Kincaid would have to be investigated. The matter before us is not Captain Kincaid's unauthorized surgery on Captain Kincaid, but whether an officer's widow is going to receive a government pension. Do you deny that the obvious reason behind these charges is to insure that pension?"

"No, No, sir. I don't deny it. Neither do I blame Mrs. Kincaid."

"Then I think I can dispose of this matter expediently," Sherman said. "Lieutenant, I have no intention of instigating an investigation of Captain Kincaid. The man is dead and beyond punishment. And I am not so heartless as to deprive a widow of her pension, however questionable it may be. Before me is the form, which requires my signature. Next to it is a letter of formal charges against Captain Kincaid. If I affix my signature to the pension document, the charges must be dropped."

Eastwood breathed with difficulty. Finally he said, "I agree to drop the charges, General."

Sherman handed the document to General Harney. "Destroy this. It will be so entered in the record." He then placed his signature on the pension papers and Eastwood came forward for them. "Lieutenant, bear something in mind: I dislike pressure methods, and I dislike any officer who condones that type of action. That is why I've disposed of this case as I have. This is a small army, Mister. Your shirt tail is not without stain. We'll be watching you. Now get the devil out of my courtroom."

Sherman had Brevet General Wessels called to the court next. Wessels entered, performed the usual military protocol, then sat down.

"General Wessels," Sherman said, "you have made no formal charge against Captain Kincaid, and before you do I would like to address a few remarks to the assembly." He cleared his throat. "In a campaign, it is rare that one officer contributed largely to the success of the engagement. When praise is distributed, one finds that many step forward to receive the accolade, and all deserve such recognition. However, it seems here that when success is viewed as a whole, fate has chosen Captain Kincaid as a private instrument.

goned business come up an' I hear the chances got the chance. You're a living legend," Schwabacker said softly. "It's an honor."

"Figured it th' other way," Bridger said. "You done made a few legends of your own."

The four dignified generals died past, each offering Captain Kincaid a brief handshake. The room emptied like a slowly draining bowl. Through the open door Schwabacker could see Sergeant Sean Finnegan waiting with an enlisted man's courtesy. Doctor Gustave Schwabacker came up then, hesitatingly. He said, "All your life I've given you advice, son. But I can see now that you were better off without it. Can you advise me now? Can you show me the way to say...?"

"There's nothing to say," Schwabacker cut in. He didn't want his father to apologize. And he didn't want to explain either. He didn't think he had to. He saw his father in a completely different light—not a big man, not another man, just another man, a little confused, a little uncertain now that he was removed from the accustomed security of his narrow treadmill. And with this shrinking stature came a deep affection. He put his arm around his father's shoulders—a thing he had never done before—and he said that he was taller than his father. Schwabacker said, "It's all right, sir." His smile was an awkward assurance.

"What are you going to do now?" Henrietta said. "I'm coming with you, Emil, we'll never be apart again."

"I don't think I'll return to Kearny," he said. "I'm going to request a year's leave of absence and go back East. I'll take me three months to bone up on my medical studies, then seven more months and I'll graduate. I want to be a doctor, Henrietta. I'll make a good doctor."

A frown crossed her forehead. "You're giving up the army?"

Mrs. Theron Crouch Hostess For Meet Homemakers Club

The Coldwater Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Theron Crouch on Friday, April 26, at one-thirty o'clock in the afternoon with the president, Mrs. Dewey Bazell, presiding. Mrs. Eula Mae Billington read the devotion from Proverbs 20:28. Mrs. Noble Fuqua gave an interesting report of the book, "Item of His Garment." Landscaping notes were given by Mrs. Stanley Darnell.

The roll was answered by twelve members giving helpful hints for the home. Mrs. Martha Broach was in charge of the recreation.

Four visitors were Mrs. Elvis Bazell, Mrs. Flavous Pendergrass, Mrs. Wayne Dowdy, and Mrs. Louise Perry.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Hazel Broach.

choosing the new Tent Unit. For Senior Scouts (high school age) there is a choice of a general camping session, the Counselor-in-Training program, or a trip out from the camp similar to what has been offered the past two summers.

Girl Scouts within the Bear Creek Council may continue to register for Camp Bear Creek anytime within the next two months, and registrations from non-Scouts and for Girl Scouts outside that council will be accepted in the Girl Scout office any time after May 1st.

Camp Bear Creek is operated by the Bear Creek Girl Scout Council, whose office is in Paducah, at 123 South 6th Street, and inquiries may be addressed there.

Changes at Camp Bear Creek this summer include, in addition to the new tent unit, a rebuilt waterfront with provision for entirely separate areas for the swimming program and the boating and canoeing programs, and another canoe is being added to the fleet this summer.

An Open House will be held at Camp Bear Creek the weekend of May 18th and 19th, so that parents of new scouts and prospective campers may visit the camp on Saturday afternoon or Sunday. Members of the Camp Bear Creek Committee will be there to show visitors around camp.

Camp Bear Creek is located on the west side of Kentucky Lake and is reached by following Highway 68 to Fairdeal, then turning east on paved road marked by sign "Girl Scout Camp" and following it five miles to the camp entrance.

Tornadoes took a virtual holiday in Texas. Only one funnel was reported and it apparently did not touch ground.

Floods on the Trinity and Brazos alone have caused 19 million dollars damage. Late last night the Texas Department of Public Safety reported 68 highways and roads blocked by high waters and washed out bridges.

The American Red Cross said that until Sunday afternoon, at least 50 persons had been injured in addition to the toll of 73 dead. It said at least 2,259 families were affected by the floods, 45 homes destroyed, 250 homes suffered major damage, 68 others damaged and 45 other types of buildings either destroyed or damaged.

Aircraft Company Helps Guide

DALLAS — Those who think today's teen-agers have their heads filled only with thoughts of hot-rod, dates, ice-cream sodas and rock-n-roll records need to look more closely at the inner youth.

Anyway, that's the conclusion reached by some aircraft engineers who are offering to help teen-agers along the road to becoming technicians and scientists.

Cognizant of the nationwide shortage of top-flight engineers, Temco Aircraft Corp. officials wondered if they could do anything about it, even in a small way.

They found that many high schools offered no course in physics in this nuclear and jet age. Others, due either to a teacher shortage or apparent lack of interest by students, offered no science training.

Temco officials decided to help steer at least a few students into courses that would help them become tomorrow's "men of science" by offering trophies to the best mathematics and physics students in each of the Dallas schools.

Then they invited interested high school students to visit the plant at night. Temco, one of the nation's largest aircraft sub-contractors, offered a look at the TT-1, the company's new primary jet-trainer for the Navy, plus career talks with leading engineers.

Pertinent Questions
Some officials, frankly, expected only a few "real book-worms" to accept the offer. For many teenagers, it would mean giving up a date, perhaps missing a basketball game or dance.

The doubtful ones were wrong. The first night, 35 students attended. Then things began to snowball as word reached other students that engineers were trying sincerely to answer career questions. The final three nights attracted groups of up to 100.

Questions by teen-agers showed inquisitive minds. They included such queries as:

What is a servo-mechanism? After you get to be a working engineer, how do you get into design engineering—does it take any different type of training? How do you get into the atomic power field?

Engineers said questions asked generally indicated the teen-agers had the minds of men rather than "devil-may-care" youths.

Nevin Pally, vice president for engineering and one of the nation's leading missiles experts, said:

"The engineer shortage begins in high school. Unless students develop an early interest in the basic sciences, they will not be able to keep up with the technology of tomorrow—when they should be shaping the future of this nation."

"If you want to build a space ship, the place to start is in a high school physics class—years ahead of the time you want it to take off from earth."

Big Jump In Population Is Mostly In Backward Nations

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON — The rapid increase in the earth's population in the past decade, particularly in underdeveloped nations which can least afford it, has set off a worldwide search for new methods of birth control.

Prominent among the sponsors of this search is the International Catholic Institute for Social Research at Geneva, Switzerland. It is currently offering an award of $5,000 for the best scholarly paper on a means of population control which would "comply with the requirements of Catholic principles and at the same time be effective from a positive scientific point of view."

As this contest demonstrates, the Roman Catholic church is not opposed to birth control as Pope Pius said in 1951 that regulation of births "... is compatible with the law of God" provided:

1. There are sound economic or medical reasons why a couple should be relieved of the "positive obligation" to bear children; and

2. The prevention of pregnancy is accomplished by "natural" rather than "artificial" means.

Sanctions "Natural" Control
The only birth control system which the Catholic church now sanctions as "natural" is the rhythm method. This requires abstinence from sexual relations except during the so-called "safe period" of a woman's menstrual cycle when pregnancy is least likely to occur.

Catholics are forbidden, on pain of mortal sin, to use contraceptives. The church takes the position that any birth control technique which depends on the interception or destruction of sperm cells is contrary to natural

Protestant churches which have taken an explicit stand on birth control — notably the Methodists and Episcopalians — stress motive rather than method as the test of morality. They approve of "planned parenthood" if the regulation of births is undertaken for "unselfish" motives — to protect the mother's health or the welfare of children already born too the family.

The birth control problems is seen in a different light in many countries of Asia and Africa, where population increase is most explosive.

Safe, Simple, Cheap

Here the search is for a safe, simple, cheap technique of birth control that can be introduced on a wide-scale in millions of families which can neither afford nor understand Western methods. Many scientists believe the answer is the development of some kind of pill that can produce temporary sterility. No such pill has yet been perfected, although much research is being done and some promising leads have been discovered.

The most recent lead, reported in the January-February issue of the American Medical Association Journal, is a new compound called amphenone which appears to cause a "definite suppression of ovulation." Experimental work on this compound is being carried out at the Rock Reproductive Study Center, Brookline, Mass.

Experimental work on this compound is being carried out at the Rock Reproductive Study Center, Brookline, Mass.

law, and therefore immoral.

Protestant churches which have taken an explicit stand on birth control — notably the Methodists and Episcopalians — stress motive rather than method as the test of morality.
