Power Failure In New York Paralyzes Area For Hours

By JOHN CAVANAUGH
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—The worst power failure in New York City history paralyzed a vast area of upper Manhattan for up to 12 hours Monday and early today, leaving half a million residents sputtering during the most intense heat wave of the season.

The heaviest one-day use of power in the city's history—attributed to 90-degree heat—was blamed for the massive power failure which knocked out all electricity in a 500-block section of the upper East and West Sides, leaving tenants without cooling devices, elevator service, lights, radio and television.

Power to the East Side area affected—a stretch bounded by 73rd and 110th Streets and the East River and Fifth Avenue—was restored by midnight. Service to the West Side section hit from 59th to 110th Streets and from Central Park west to the Hudson River was back to normal at 3:42 a. m. EDT.

The power failure, resulting from peak use of air conditioners at 2:49 p. m. EDT, Monday when seven cables of the Consolidated Edison Co. burned out on the West Side, knocking out electrical service in the area. The company in turn decided to shut off the remaining 13 cables of the network, situated in the East Side, because officials said, they would not have been able to handle the load alone.

Officials have left them on, Con Ed officials explained, because they touched off a power shortage that might have lasted months instead of only hours.

The power failure, coming on one of the hottest days of the year, disrupted some subway service for hours, knocked out elevator service in towering apartment buildings that abound in the affected area, forced some restaurants to close and snarled the police department's traffic light networks, resulting in a chaotic situation for cars, taxis, buses and trucks.

Twelve hospitals in the area, forced to use auxiliary power, cancelled all but emergency operations. One hospital was forced to transfer 200 units of blood plasma to an unaffected hospital. Another, a 7-year-old boy was about to undergo an appendectomy when the power went off. He was transferred to another hospital.

At another hospital a baby was delivered by flashlight. There was a heavy run on candles and flashlights. One dealer reported he sold 3,500 candles in two hours. Other dealers were charging five cents for candles that usually sell for a penny.

Thousands of extra policemen were rushed into the affected area, which includes several high-crime neighborhoods in the West Side, to prevent looting Monday night. The police saturation proved effective.

Terror Told By Witness Of Earthquake

EDITORS NOTE: The following is an eyewitness report of earthquake damage at West Yellowstone reported over ham radio by Warren Russell at the park city.

By WARREN RUSSELL

AS TOLD TO UPI

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (UPI)—We're having minor tremors about every 10 minutes. At 5:45 (Tuesday morning) there was a heavier shock but much milder than the two big ones.

Damage in West Yellowstone included gasoline pumps tipped over, grocery items toppled to the floor, buildings moved off the foundation. Chimneys were tumbled and there was a considerable amount of glass breakage.

"About three miles north of here on U. S. Highway 191 there was a wide crack in the road. There were no specific reports of damage to the park itself. But there was one unconfirmed story that the area around the Old Faithful geyser, the park's main attraction, had been blocked off as a safety factor.

As soon as daylight came to the area, a survey plane left the small local landing strip to check the damage in and around the park. It was reportedly joined by another plane from out of Belgrade.

When the quake first hit this town people rushed into the street, some crying, some were lying on the ground as if they were afraid the earth would open and swallow them.

The New Hope MYF has a meeting and picnic. The ladies of the church served lunch and in the afternoon the program was held. It was entitled "Praise Him in His mighty Firmament." Those who had part were Judie Culpepper, Jetta and Jimmy Culpepper, Joyce Yarbrough, Martha Farris and Rob Poole.

After the program the business meeting was held with president Martha Farris presiding.

RECKLESS DRIVING
City police reported two arrests last night for reckless driving. No other action was reported.

Two Killed, Five Hurt In Bus Crash
MT. PLEASANT, Pa. (UPI)—A Greyhound bus crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer on the Pennsylvania Turnpike early today, killing two persons and injuring five others.

Police said a man and a woman were killed but their identities were not available immediately. The injured were taken to Frick Memorial Hospital here.

The accident occurred about 3 1/2 miles west of the Donegal interchange at 5:30 a. m. The bus driver, John M. Bee of Pittsburgh, one of the injured, told police the truck "appeared suddenly" before him as the bus was negotiating a gradual right hand curve.

Bee said he tried to avoid the rig by passing on the left but that he was unable to prevent the collision.

The bus was en route to Harrisburg, Pa., from Cleveland, Ohio. The accident occurred only a mile or two from the spot where 15 persons were killed and 29 injured in a similar accident involving a Greyhound bus and a truck Sept. 18, 1952. Today's accident was the sixth serious mishap involving Greyhound buses and trucks on the Turnpike in the past seven years. Twelve persons were killed in the previous accidents.

Treated at the hospital and released were William Smith, 71, of 306 W. 5th St., New York City; Shevon Bartlett, 46, of 691 Garville Ave., Akron, Ohio, and Dennis Lamuvardi, 20, and Sadik Gakterik, 26, both of Flushing, N. Y.

The bus driver, John M. Bee of Pittsburgh, was admitted in good condition with cuts and bruises and brush burns of the legs.

Big Dam In Danger Of Being Wrecked; Residents Moved Out

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (UPI)—The Montana highway patrol said today at least six persons were killed in slides triggered by a massive earthquake early today. Four of the dead were members of the Purley-Bennett family of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

The quakes tumbled a mountain into a valley and threatened the lives of at least 150 fishermen and tourists.

Sheriff Lloyd W. Brook of Virginia City, Mont., said several campers may have been killed when the landslide smashed the camp.

State Civil Defense Director Hugh Potter, at Helena, Mont., urged the Air Force in Montana and Idaho Civil Defense officials to save the stranded persons with helicopters.

"Move fast!" Potter urged. Potter said giant fissures in the earth, the broken mountain and the quake-weakened dam prevented the stranded travelers from escaping.

UPI newsmen Paul Quinn, who flew over the area, said he saw many SOS signs and signal fires there.

Foothills Crack Open
The earthquake, felt through out the Pacific Northwest, began shortly before midnight Monday. Foothills near this western entrance to Yellowstone National Park were cracked open like slabs by the trembling earth.

Fissures appeared in highways and many park roads in the western section were blocked or broken.

Telephone and electrical power were knocked out in West Yellowstone. Chimneys fell, gasoline pumps tipped over and buildings were shifted from foundations.

Fifteen miles north of here, the shocks threatened to crack open the Hobgen hydro-electric dam on the Madison River, a tributary of the Missouri. Four to five miles in front of the dam a mountain slid across the upper reaches of the fertile Madison Valley and backed up the river over a 300-foot-wide area.

The giant slide looked, from the air, as if it had been shoved off a mountain top by a huge hand, Quinn said. It blocked the highway and trapped the tourists between it and the dam.

Free Lowlands
Downstream from the slides, residents of Madison Valley—under order of Sheriff Lloyd Brook of Virginia City, Mont.—fled from their lowland homes to higher ground.

Robert E. Crennen of UPI arrived in Ennis shortly before daylight. The first newsmen to reach the town about 50 miles below the dam. He said "99 per cent" of the town's 600 residents already were gone.

Although it trapped travelers between it and the dam, the fifteen mountain was expected to give residents of the valley an extra 1 1/2 hours to escape from the flood danger should the dam give way because the slide formed a temporary natural dam across the river.

As a precautionary measure, authorities ordered the lowering of all dams downstream from Hobgen. These included dams as far east as Great Falls, Mont., on the Missouri River. The Madison is a tributary of the Missouri.

Brook said a highway patrolman at the town of Lyon, about 10 miles below the dam and about 30 miles northwest of here, radioed him that the water in the Madison below Hobgen was rising "very fast. I'm getting the hell out of here."

Fear Break In Dam
Brook said if the dam went out all at once it would create a 40-foot wall of water that would not spread out appreciably until it reached Meadow Creek Dam below Ennis.

From there, he said, it would "go pretty fast all the way to Three Forks."

At Bozeman, Mont., Gallatin County Sheriff Don Skerritt warned residents of the towns of Three Forks and Townsend, 32 miles north of here, to be ready to flee.

The Madison, Jefferson and Gallatin rivers flow together near Three Forks to form the headwaters of the Missouri.

In New York, the Rev. Joseph Lynch, seismologist at Fordham University, reported the first tremor was recorded as early as 5 p. m. e.d.t. Monday. Other shocks, all centered in a 20-mile-long section of the Yellowstone Park area, were recorded at 2:42 a. m., 2:46 a. m., 4:02 a. m., 4:47 a. m. and 7:15 a. m. and were continuing, he said.

In historic Virginia City, Mont., about 40 miles northwest of the Park, many old buildings were damaged. A 12-foot section of wall fell into the second floor courtroom.

Branch Rickey To Head New Major League

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Branch Rickey, 77-year-old "father" of baseball's farm system, today was named president of the Continental League, baseball's proposed third major league, at a salary of $50,000 per year.

William Shea, chairman of the founders group of the Continental League, announced Rickey's appointment today and then introduced the baseball pioneer who has spent 57 years in the game.

Rickey, puffing on a cigar and appearing hale and hearty, said "I am confident our league will start operating in 1961. It is possible even to operate in 1960 but it is not probable."

Purchase Contract
Shea said that Rickey's contract had been purchased from the Pittsburgh Pirates and that the entire negotiation had the approval of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Rickey had been chairman of the board with the Pirates and also held 958 shares of Pittsburgh stock, worth $200,000.

Owner John Galbreath of the Pirates was given an option to purchase Rickey's stock by Sept. 15.

Rickey's contract with the Pirates still had 16 months to run at a salary of $50,000 a year. He said the Continental League merely picked up the unused portion of that contract so, in essence, Rickey has been signed to a 16-month contract with the new third major league.

Suffered Attack
Rickey's position with the Pirates has been largely inactive during the past two years due to a mild heart attack he suffered after coming back from a congressional hearing in Washington.

Questioned as to whether his health would permit him to take an active part in his new job, Rickey snorted, "my doctor says he thinks I'll live just as long active as inactive. Judas, priest! I'd rather die 10 minutes sooner than be doing nothing all the time."

Wet Growing Season Means Tobacco Has More Of A Tendency To Houseburn; Is Major Threat

Because of the wet growing season this summer growers will find tobacco has more tendency to houseburn, so once again houseburn becomes a major threat to growers and to the trade.

Three members of the Dark Tobacco Quality Improvement Committee recently discussed this problem. Phil T. Roberts, Vice President of the United States Tobacco Company and head of all their leaf buying, including all Dark types, explained that houseburned tobacco is unsuitable for snuff manufacture because it lacks the oil and gum which gives the product the taste and aroma which consumers demand.

George Everett, tobacco specialist at the West Kentucky State Experiment Station at Princeton, explained that houseburn is the result of the growth of fungi and bacteria on and in tobacco leaves when they become too moist while hanging in the barn. It occurs most extensively at temperatures between 60 and 100 degrees where relative humidity in the barn is above 85 per cent, Everett continued. Poor curing of the tobacco crop is the cause of immense losses to tobacco growers year after year. The injury to tobacco known as house-burn is probably the greatest single factor in this loss.

Tobacco should be wilted as much as is practicable before being put in the barn. It should then be kept at a temperature between 60 and 90 degrees F. and at a relative humidity averaging about 65 to 70 per cent. The relative humidity of 55 to 60 per cent at normal temperature, tobacco is dry and brittle, at 65 to 70 per cent it is dry to low case or order, at 75 to 80 per cent it is in low to medium case and at 85 to 90 per cent it is in high case. The conditions in various parts of the barn can quickly be determined if the barn is equipped with a series of screweyes or pulleys from the top of the barn and extending to the floor. A series of 3 to 5 across the barn should be sufficient. A sample of tobacco can be tied to each rope or pulley and at each tier level. A knot in the rope at the floor indicates that the samples are in proper position. The barn can be quickly surveyed by pulling each sample down and feeling it.

This information applies to air cured and fire cured tobacco alike. The sample principles apply but the activity of the microbes deposited on the leaves of fire cured tobacco, consequently a higher relative humidity, probably about 80 to 85 per cent may be used.

"Slow fires should be used under dark fired tobacco, even after it is cured, if houseburn is to be prevented during periods of high humidity."

Another member of the Dark Quality Improvement Committee is William T. Peck, United States Department of Agriculture District Supervisor in charge of grading all Dark tobacco types in Kentucky and Tennessee. His position has required him to closely inspect every Dark crop for many years—his judgment is considered by the trade to be excellent, and because he grows fine tobacco on his own farm near Springfield, growers will be interested in his views.

"Each tobacco curing season there is danger of houseburn in every tobacco barn," Peck said, and continued, "The 1958 crop of dark tobacco contained a much smaller percentage of tobacco injured by houseburn than did the 1957 crop which had more houseburn than any crop for the last 30 years. A large part of the

Sad Sam Piling Up Time For San Francisco In Their Bid For The National League Flag

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International
Sad Sam Jones is piling up plenty of overtime work in the San Francisco Giants' bid for the National League pennant.

Manager Bill Rigney called on the toothpick - chewing right-hander again Monday night at Cincinnati and Sad Sam came through with two innings of hitless ball to preserve a 6-3 victory over the Reds.

It was Jones' third pitching appearance in San Francisco's last four games and enabled the Giants to open a three-game lead over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who split a twilight-night doubleheader at Milwaukee. Jones pitched seven innings at Chicago last Friday, took Saturday off and then renewed against the Cubs Sunday. He was back in the bullpen Monday night and got a hurry-up call from Rigney after the Giants broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run burst in the top of the eighth.

Saves Miller's Win

The rubber - armed veteran breezed through the last two innings to save Stu Miller's seventh victory of the season against six losses.

The Braves, opening an important five-game set against Los Angeles and San Francisco this week, rolled to an 8-1 victory over the Dodgers in the first game of their twinned but lost the second game, 4-3, on a seventh inning homer by Don Zimmer. Bob Buhl, who has not lost to the Dodgers in Milwaukee since 1955, wound up with a seven-hitter.

In the second game, Zimmer led off the seventh with a blast over the left field screen to give reliever Johnny Podres his 10th victory of the season.

Pirates Take Over 4th
The Pittsburgh Pirates took over sole possession of fourth place in the NL by edging the Chicago Cubs, 7-6, and the St. Louis Cardinals outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4. The Detroit Tigers flipped the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, in the only scheduled American League game.

The Pirates spotted the Cubs an early 4-0 lead and then bounced back to win with a gift run in the seventh inning. Dick Groat scored the decisive marker when he walked and came all the way around as converted catcher Earl Averill Jr. feided a bud-bounce single to left by Roberto Clemente and tossed wildly on the throw-in. Stout relief pitching by Lindy McDaniel enabled the Cardinals to fight off the Phillies, who made it close with a four-run rally in the ninth inning.

Paul Foytack of the Tigers, knocked out of the box on Sunday's washed out game against Cleveland, came back to whip the Indians as he scattered eight hits and struck out seven.

TENSE CONFLICT — Killer Dennis Hopper threatens the lovely Yvonne Craig, while Pat Wayne protects her in this scene from C. V. Whitney's Technicolor production, "The Young Land," Dan O'Herlihy is also starred in this tale of early California, which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the air-conditioned Varsity.

"Previously Owned by a Little Old Lady..."

Surprisingly, that gentle little old lady who never drove over 30 miles an hour was really tough on her car's motor. The fact is that start-and-stop driving at low speeds means the motor doesn't warm up enough for its own good. Sludge forms in the motor oil. Damage to the engine will result.

Most of us do a lot of start-and-stop driving these days, and that's why it's wise to protect with Phillips 66 Trop-Artic Motor Oil. It flows quickly in a cold engine... resists sludge formation... then keeps on protecting your motor on long, hot drives.

Trop-Artic is an all-season oil. Get it from your Phillips 66 Dealer. *A trademark

Home Safety Improved With Exit Clearing

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Want to take a safety precaution that will pay dividends from the first stroke of the axe? Then clear out trees, bushes or fall crops that obstruct vision at exits from farms to main roads. These view-hiders not only keep farm drivers from seeing what's coming, but also keep main road traffic from seeing farm vehicles waiting to get on the main road. Here's a good little rule-of-thumb to follow, too, in case you wonder what distance along the roads to cut back the "obstructors". Place 700 feet in each direction (right and left) of where your farm drive enters the main road. Drive a stake at these points. Put your car with its front bumper 10 feet from the near edge of the road onto which you turn. Look from the driver's seat and see if you can spot the white stakes you just put down. If you can't, or they are even partly hidden, clear bushes, crops, etc., back until you can. If you're using a heavy farm truck for these highway entries, put your stake distance up to 850 feet from the center of your farm drive.

MAN WHO MISSED THE MOON by EDMOND HAMILTON

CHAPTER 15
"THAYN MARDEN'S blue eyes were brilliant with excitement as she talked with Kirk Hammond. "Either you are the cleverest impostor ever heard of," she said, "or your story is true. And it all checks — that parachute device we found, like nothing made for ages." She broke off, then said tentatively, "Listen, Kirk Hammond, don't let yourself be involved in this Hooman plot. It will come to nothing, and you could get killed." "This anxiety of yours about me is touching, but hardly convincing," Hammond said sourly. Her eyes flashed with impatience. "Do you suppose with all that happens to you personally? You represent, if your story is true, a vast storehouse of knowledge of the remote past. I don't want that knowledge to perish. "There'll be no danger," he said lightly. "When our ship is completed, we'll go to Altair and find out how you Vramen make yourselves so long-lived." "You haven't a chance in a billion of reaching Altair," she said. "We keep too close a watch on the whole Trid. And even if you passed the vramen—" She stopped suddenly. "Yes?" said Hammond. Thayne snook her head. "Oh, no. They'll get no information from me, either by tricks or by the encephaloprobe. "Not even to save your mind, your sanity?" "No, not for that or anything," she answered, and her tone carried conviction to Hammond. "Their quest is quite hopeless, believe me. I can't help it. It's determined on suicide. But I do want to save you and all the knowledge you have from a useless death." In her earnestness she laid her small hand on his wrist. Hammond flinched slightly and instantly Thayne's expression changed. "So you've already picked up the Hooman bait of us?" she said, her eyes searching his face. "You too think us unmanly?" He tried to shrug his words of denial, but Thayne turned away from him. She looked weary and dejected. And for the first time Hammond felt a spark of real sympathy for her. "Are you really going to be so foolish as to let them wreck your mind?" he asked. "I will tell nothing that will help Hoomen to reach Altair," she said, without turning. "But they're — we're — going there anyway," Hammond said. "You might as well tell."

Ten Years Ago Today
Ledger & Times File
At four o'clock Sunday, July 31, at the Murray Woman's Club House, Miss Jo Ann Shroat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Shroat of Murray, became the bride of Elvis Glen Pace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Pace of Salem, Ky. Miss Jane Earle Johnson, of Wickliffe, Ky., and Miss La Vora Holland, of Hardin, spent part of last week with Miss Anna Lee Crass, 1309 Poplar Street. Mrs. John Harkless of Wickliffe, Ky., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Woods and Dr. Woods, at Oakhurst on the College Campus. Over seventy businesses and professions were represented last night at a joint meeting of farm leaders, Rotary Club, Lions Club, and Young Business Men's Club. Friday, August 19, has been selected as the date for the "housewarming" of the Paris, Tenn., Post-Intelligence's new home on East Wood Street in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Miller and son, Teddie, have been visiting Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cable.

NANCY
HEY---YER UNDER ARREST FOR WEARING SHORTS
NANCY is a cartoon strip by Ernie Bushmiller. The panel shows a policeman arresting a woman for wearing shorts. The woman says, "North Abel says the encephaloprobe will be finished by tomorrow night. We'll use it on her the following morning, and it's her own fault if she resists it." The policeman replies, "But if she does, you learn nothing," Hammond said. "And if I could persuade her not to resist, you'll learn everything." Wilson finally nodded. "You may as well try again to make her see reason. I'll tell the guard to let you in tomorrow afternoon." He looked shrewdly at Hammond as he added, "You regard the encephaloprobe with horror, don't you? The necessity for it repels you?" Hammond nodded. "I don't like to see even a Vramen's mind wrecked." "Neither do I," Wilson said. "But like it or not, with the future of all Hoomen hanging on this, the thing will be done. Try to make her realize that." On the next afternoon when he entered the small prison-room, Hammond had his mind made up. He didn't know for sure whether he liked Thayne or detested her, but like Wilson, he had no desire to see her mind wrecked. He said so to her as earnestly as he could. "She shook her head. "I will yield to the probe." Hammond felt helpless, and angry because he was helpless. "All right," he said roughly. "I hate to see this happen to anyone. But if you're determined to put caste loyalty ahead of your own sanity, there's nothing I can do about it." Thayne did not answer that for a moment. Her clear eyes studied his face, and then she said, "You don't want me made into a mindless idiot?" "I told you, I don't want that to happen to anyone." "You can prevent it if you wish," she said. And then as he started to object she added quickly, "No, I'm not suggesting that you help me escape, but there is another way..." Can Thayne Marden trick Hammond into betraying the Hoomen? "Man Who Missed the Moon" reaches a spine-chilling climax here tomorrow.

tobacco in 1957 was overripe and very "sappy". Due to late season heavy rains it appears that there might be a considerable amount of very large tobacco harvested again. Every effort should be made to properly cure the crop. To help prevent houseburn the better growers scaffold tobacco in order to have it well "fallen or wilted" before housing. Thoroughly "fallen or wilted" tobacco seldom sweats or houseburns. They space it wide on the tiers and allow good ventilation in the barn. If the weather is damp and humidity high when fires are started, little or no sawdust is used for a few days. During periods of wet weather, coke should be burned under air cured tobacco to prevent houseburn.

"Many crops that were of fine quality in the field deteriorate in the barn to become very low quality, due to houseburn. Houseburn kills the oil and reduces the elasticity in the leaf causing it to be tender or "papery". It can also materially reduce the weight of the tobacco. It is hoped that the growers will give strict attention to this very important job of curing tobacco and thereby largely eliminate houseburn in the 1959 crop," Peck concluded.

Miss Ginny Weatherly Becomes Bride Of Mr. Jerry Lee Hopkins In Home Ceremony

MRS. JERRY LEE HOPKINS

The marriage of Miss Ginny Weatherly, daughter of Mrs. L. Weatherly and the late Mr. Roy Weatherly, to Mr. Jerry Lee Hopkins, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fuqua Hopkins, was solemnized Friday evening, August 14th at six o'clock p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Ray.

The double-ring ceremony, read by Rev. Jack Jones, was witnessed by only intimate friends and immediate relatives of the young couple.

Preceding the nuptial vows, Mrs. Weatherly sang "Because". After the closing prayer, Mr. and Mrs. Weatherly sang "Oh Perfect Love".

An uninvited sister was made of twin baskets of white gladioli, with ferns and other greenery, before a large wall-mirror as the background.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Roy Weatherly, wore a street length dress of white Dacron fashioned with a fitted bodice and pleated skirt and a white organdy jacket, featuring long sleeves, tapered to fit the wrist. The low scooped neckline was accented by a rolling collar. Tiny tucks and buttons adorned the front. THE CALENDAR tells me there's a holiday ahead—the Labor Day weekend. And this makes me think of two things—a good time (which I'm sure we're all planning) and safety.

SAFETY ON THE HIGHWAY will be especially important this year. There are more cars on the roads today than ever before in history—and you can count on it that most of them will be out over Labor Day. So, take care and drive carefully. You'll have a happier holiday if you do.

AND ON THE LIGHTER SIDE of safety and warning, if you're going away for Labor Day, "play it safe" and "warn" folks of your arrival. A Long Distance call will reserve accommodations, help you plan your visit with out-of-town friends and family. Remember when calling Long Distance, it's cheaper to call station-to-station—faster when you know the number.

THE REASON I'm so safety conscious is because we at the telephone company are continually aware of safety's importance—especially on the job. Because of this, we regularly conduct classes in safety and first aid. This knowledge helps protect us at work, and many times it's enabled us to help others in emergencies—even save lives. That's why I never underestimate the rules of safety, and I hope you won't either.
