DEMOCRATIC

EDITORIAL

THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

It will not be many days until we will know when our next state convention will meet, at which time and place the democratic party will speak out in bold and no uncertain terms endorsing the national and state democratic administration, which will go far toward a good democratic majority at the next November election.

For a while there was some opposition, more especially to endorsing the state administration, but this opposition seems to be fading away and by the time our state and county conventions meet there will probably be no visible signs of opposition to endorsing all of the democratic administrations, from one end of the country to the other.

The Messenger was an uncompromising supporter of Woodrow Wilson four years ago, even when he was comparatively unknown in Kentucky. He was elected and he has shown himself to be one of the greatest Presidents this country has ever had from the days of Thomas Jefferson on down to the present, notwithstanding the disturbed conditions of this country and the many diplomatic questions of great and serious import, with which he has had to contend from the time he took his seat as President on down to the present hour.

We are sure he will vindicate this country from war and finally win up his first administration with the universal plaudits of this and all other nations for his ability and patriotism as President.

The democrats of Kentucky are too great and too true to think of allowing any personal or political differences in a state convention at a time like this, when the electoral vote of the state will be so badly needed and of such great importance in our national electoral college.

Let no democrat so far forget himself as not to be perfectly willing to endorse the national and state administrations and say so in all of our conventions.

Gov. Stanley is not only the democratic governor of Kentucky, but he desires to be made chairman of the coming state convention and as the days go by the indications are that he may have no decided opposition to act as chairman of the state democratic convention.

It has been customary for many years for a democratic governor to preside over a state convention, and we do not think that there will be much decided opposition to Gov. Stanley as the chairman of our state convention.

This convention should be a harmonious one and should pass resolutions in favor of the democratic party and its work in order that the electoral vote of Kentucky may be given to Mr. Wilson, who will be the next nominee of the democratic party for President.

Democrats from all over the state, from the various counties, should have harmonious county conventions, appoint their ablest and best democrats to the state convention and not allow any of our personal prejudices to interfere with our work for the success of the great democratic party.

Individually speaking, there may have been some certain acts of the president that did not suit everybody, and also that of Gov. Stanley, because President, he be democrat or republican, no governor, be he democrat or republican, can please everybody in anything. But, take it as a whole, the party administrations have been good and should be endorsed without trouble on the part of the democrats in our county and state conventions.

Those who put their money into tobacco and pay as much as they can to the farmers should make a reasonable profit upon their investments and their labor.

The sudden increase in the prices of tobacco is something that has knocked into a cocked hat all of the predictions and speculations of not only local tobacco dealers, but those higher up the line. It was thought that tobacco would go down instead of up, but all of a sudden one firm in New York was given an order for twenty millions of pounds of tobacco, besides many other big orders scattered about over the country.

This increase in the prices of tobacco has helped quite a good percent of the farmers who had not already sold their crop, so after all the tobacco raisers of the country are blessed with pockets full of money and are getting ready to raise another large and valuable crop.

TREAT THEM ALL ALIKE.

Of course it will go hard with some of the users of electricity in Mayfield to have meters put in their residences, yet they must get down to it like those who have been paying meter rates for many years. No person should be allowed to use electric lights without paying for what they get and use, and that this policy of treating all alike should enter into every home in the city of Mayfield. Then, so far as that is concerned, it will eliminate all complaints of the discrimination in the use of electric lights that has been charged to the company.

Let the rich and poor all pay alike for lights, and nothing but meters can bring about this result.

A BEAUTIFUL SONG.

Miss Lillian Peoples, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Peoples of the Second Methodist church, sang a very beautiful song in the choir of the Christian church Sunday night.

She has a sweet voice and entertained those present at the service in such a manner that she received the absolute attention in the rendition of the beautiful song which she sang. She made many friends at the Christian church on that occasion.

VILLA CROSSES DEAD LINE FIXED FOR U. S. TROOPS

Has Formed a Junction With Forces of Zapata. IS SAFE OR INTERVENTION BANDIT TRYING TO STIR UP SENTIMENT AGAINST AMERICANS. WOULD KILL ALL OF THEM

El Paso, Tex., April 9.—Gen. Ynez Salazar, one of the best-known of the former Herta generals, who has been living here, was reported tonight to have crossed the border with the announced intention of taking up arms against the United States. The information was given to the police by a man who was closely associated with Salazar and was accepted by them as true, after investigation.

El Paso, Texas, April 9.—Francisco Villa has escaped any chance of being captured by the American punitive expedition. He has crossed a dead line that was established by agreements between President Wilson and President Carranza of Mexico.

This information came out for the first time tonight. It was told by Consul Andres Garcia and other high Carranza officials exclusively to the representative of the Chicago Tribune.

The media that the American troops will be withdrawn. Rumors have been current on the border for several days that Washington would recall the troops from Mexico. This is the first authoritative information that backs up these rumors.

When the American soldiers went into Mexico there was a secret agreement between Washington and Carranza that they should go no further south than the border line between the states of Chihuahua and Durango. The dead line which the American troops were not to cross lies between the towns of Babogrin and Ceballos, extending east and west across a very large part of Mexico.

Villa has crossed this line. According to information received here tonight, he met Gen. Juan Banderas at Rosario, Durango, today. Banderas is Gen. Emiliano Zapata's right-hand man and was sent from Cuernavaca by his chief to achieve the escape of the "Lion of the North."

It was not known until today that a dead line had been established which the American troops were not to cross. Gen. Pershing's command is now 350 miles from the border, and has but 30 miles to go before it reaches the dead line.

Bandit Avoided Parral.

Parral was the point for which Villa was supposed to be heading. After his escape from his two battles at Mexican Durango, today, he crossed the main range of the Sierra Madre and steered south 40 miles west of Chihuahua City.

It is supposed to have crossed the border from his two battles at Mexican Durango, today, he crossed the main range of the Sierra Madre and steered south 40 miles west of Chihuahua City.

It is now thought that Villa was convinced that the American government would seize the Mexican Central Railway. If this had taken place the American government could have without trouble. The Mexican Central has a branch line from Jimenez to Parral. Jimenez is 310 miles from the border.

Villa dodged Parral, going to the west and made his way to Rosario, where he met Gen. Juan Banderas. This Zapata leader made his way north from Cuernavaca through a network of Carranza troops to meet Villa. He came unattended.

It is not generally known that Villa and Zapata are friends. Among those cognizant of intimate Mexican affairs this is known to be true.

Will United With Zapata.

When both leaders were in Mexico City in December, 1914, Gen. Banderas was the go-between for Villa and Zapata and became one of the closest friends of the northern leader. Emiliano Zapata undoubtedly sent him north to help Villa escape from the gringos.

Villa and Banderas met in Rosario. They are said to have had a four-hour conference in a fonda in that village. The result of this conference is said to have been that Villa and Zapata agreed to unite forces. Zapata has 40,000 men under his command and has absolute control of the principal southwestern states of Mexico.

There seems to be no question that Villa will go south of Mexico City within the next 15 days.

These facts point to the futility of the American army's hunt for Villa in Mexico. It now generally known that the clashes between Gen. Pershing's forces with Zapata have been with Villistas who remained in the rear of Villa's retreat to cloak the escape of their leader.

American army officials at Fort Bliss when informed of this startling information regarding the leading Villistas who remained in the rear of Villa's retreat to cloak the escape of their leader.

end of the American expedition and the withdrawal of American troops from Mexican soil or intervention.

"If the deadline is a fact," said a high army official at Fort Bliss, "it means that Gen. Pershing's command will have to be withdrawn. There are two alternatives—either the American expedition will become the advance guard of an army of invasion—one which will mean armed intervention by the United States in Mexico—or President Wilson will have to forego his announced purpose of taking Villa dead or alive."

HEADED FOR DURANGO. Villa is a Full Day Ahead of American Pursuers.

El Paso, Texas, April 9.—Francisco Villa and 200 men, all equipped with fresh mounts, crossed the branch line of the Mexican National Railway 18 miles east of Parral Friday, camped that night at Las Cuevas, on the Rio Florida, and the following morning went west toward Magistral, a mining camp in Durango, six miles from El Oro. Villa was a full day ahead of the American cavalry, which arrived at Parral Saturday afternoon. His ultimate destination is believed to be Durango City, where the notorious Arrieta brothers, have 3,000 well-armed men, and who bear neither Carranza nor the United States any good will.

This news written in code and concealed on the person of a Mexican dispatch bearer, reached here late last night, and a curious incident of its arrival was that after receiving the message nearly 500 miles through Mexico in safety, the messenger got into El Paso only to be arrested and detained several hours by the immigration authorities. There is little reason to doubt the accuracy of the report, as it comes from officials of an American mining company at Parral, who undoubtedly believed it when they took such elaborate precautions to insure its safe delivery.

By this time, it is believed, the American cavalry at Parral has been informed of the route taken by Villa, but there is no news as to whether or not they have continued the chase. If Villa is in Durango, a theory on which Gen. Pershing had been working ever since the battle at Guerrero is completely upset. This was the Villa, instead of hitting the Parral district, had gone to Batopilas, 140 miles southwest of Guerrero. This is a mountainous country which can only be penetrated following narrow trails, and there are several thousand Mexicans in it who are adherents of the bandita.

THE CHICKEN ORDINANCE

This Will Be the Chief Interest at Session of Council Tonight.

THE TOWN IS DIVIDED

Women Still Airing Views on the Subject to Editor of The Messenger.

The chicken ordinance is still the topic of conversation in almost every part of the city, some for it and some against it, of course, but a lady in the eastern part of the city called the office this morning and said that she was very much interested in the ordinance, as for the passage of the ordinance, she said that she had been the disturbing element among many families in her part of town for many years and the passage of this ordinance is the first solution of the question and it is the first thing that will bring peace and harmony among neighbors.

She said so far as she was concerned she had no chickens, that she was annoyed as much by other people's chickens as she would be if she had a lot of her own. She said, would be sure the city councilman who would vote against this ordinance, because the time is coming when one neighbor must not be permitted by the city authorities to destroy the peace and happiness of another. She said the same trouble came up when an ordinance was passed to keep the cattle and hogs off the streets; that people kicked all over the city, but the ordinance had not been passed very long until the fences were torn down and the yards kept in good condition and every family was in favor of the stock law because it protected them and they were enabled to beautify and adorn their yards, and she said, so will it be concerning the chicken ordinance, that it will not be long after it is passed until everybody will put up their chickens and peace and happiness will reign supreme in every part of the city.

She said she was a poor woman herself and that all this talk about the ordinance being in favor of the rich was foolish, that as a rule the rich have about as many chickens as the poor and both were annoyed alike, but she said all this talk about it being a rich man's ordinance was too silly to discuss.

Another lady informed a Messenger man that she believed the councilmen that are now sitting, have backbone enough to pass the chicken ordinance and also she believed that this council had backbone enough to make the people build pavements and concrete walks down in the center of town as well as on the outskirts and she also believed that there were a lot of violations of law going on in the city, that they would order stopped, and that she had all faith and confidence in the members of the city council, and that they should pay no attention to anybody about an ordinance, but do what they thought best for the good of the people of the entire city. She said several years ago her husband was fined for a small infraction of the law, and that time he has been a dutiful husband and he now says that as long as crime is "winked" at, it will be on the increase. She said let them pass the chicken ordinance and let them pass the chicken ordinance for peace and harmony all over the city.

Another lady said she did not believe that the chicken ordinance in a city was an economical and profitable business that if the time and money was spent in fooling with chickens in them up and preventing them from disturbing their neighbors, were devoted to other business, at the end of the year they would have more money and be able to buy more chickens and be more happy than if they took raising chickens on a lot 60 x 150. She did not believe that one family has a right to keep a horse, a dog, cow, hog, chickens or anything else that would create a disturbing element against their neighbors.

Also Mrs. S. W. Peoples was at The Messenger office and expressed herself very freely against the chicken ordinance. She said that the passage of that ordinance would damage the people in her part of town more than almost any ordinance that could be passed. She says that she almost makes a living for herself and family off her chickens, garden and cow and more especially from her chickens. She says they have been so much benefited and vale to them that she can hardly see how it would be possible to get along without them.

Mrs. Peoples says the lot is small, and to undertake to fence them up there she is would be an impossibility, besides the same conditions exist among her neighbors and friends in that part of the city. She says there are hundreds of families in Mayfield, they were not allowed to raise chickens, it would be a rare thing for them to ever enjoy a good fat and good young chicken. She says she can't believe that the councilmen care enough about these small affairs to vote for the ordinance.

One husband had this to say: "I love my wife, but oh you chickens!"

Discussed in the Messenger. The pay for the name. Whinolani said the under's word.

THREE YOUNG MEN FIGHT

Morris Laws in Encounter With Campbell Brothers of Bell City.

ONE IS BADLY INJURED

All Scatter and Takes Some Time for Officers to Round Them Up.

Morris Laws, a young man who recently moved here from Fulton, is so seriously injured that he was unable to attend police court this morning to answer to the charge of engaging in a fight with two brothers, Wrather and Steve Campbell, the latter a cripple, of Bell City, in the southeastern part of the county. Laws was badly cut on the hand and his face disfigured besides several bruises about the body as if he had been either kicked or hit in the stomach. He is at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alonzo Albritton in the Robbins building on the south side of the square. Drs. Hunt, Dismukes and Puryear worked with the young man last night for some time before relief came. For a while his condition was extremely critical.

These three young men, either drinking or drunk, began a quarrel in the Reynolds Brothers' restaurant on the east side Sunday afternoon about 1 o'clock, but were ordered out of the rear door by one of the proprietors. A fight followed. Cleve Campbell, who is a cripple and walks with two crutches, was hit over the eye, while his brother, Wrather Campbell, does not seem to have been injured, although an eye witness says that Laws knocked him down several times. Laws, it is said, was hit in the face with a crutch by Cleve Campbell. The fighters made such a sudden disappearance that it was some time before all of them were arrested. Laws was caught in the rear part of the city by Officer E. B. Sheridan. Wrather Campbell was arrested in the left of Coun-

FALLING IN LINE.

From the general tone of the press throughout the state, the coming state and county conventions will in all probability be the most harmonious that have been in Kentucky for many years.

The rank and file of the democrats know this to be true, hence their great desire for party harmony throughout the state.

PAINTING AND CLEANING UP PREMISES.

A visit to almost any part of the city will find that numbers and numbers of people are repairing and repainting their residences, trimming their trees, cleaning up their premises and putting everything in a new and sanitary condition.

We suggest that the directors of the Commercial Club get in an automobile, take a trip out over the city together with the councilmen and mayor and by all working together many things can be done; clean up the streets, clean out the gutters and otherwise put the city in a good sanitary condition, and in this way assist the good women in so beautifying it that when strangers come into our midst they will exclaim, "How beautiful are the homes, yards and streets!"

CHICKEN QUESTION SETTLED.

The city council has settled the chicken question and now all there is for the people to do is to keep up the chickens, raise as many of them as possible, so that they may enjoy good homes and chickens and eggs.

It will not be long until most everybody will accommodate themselves to the conditions of this law and that the discussion of the question will soon be a thing of the past and in all probability the ordinance will redound to the good of the city, the happiness of its friends and the friendship between its citizens.

More visiting among town chickens; they must all go home to roost; they expect to visit they will have to go to the country.

Five days are allowed for visiting among the chickens; after then all will be at home.

THE MAYFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

Editor Pleased at Success of Teachers and Students.

MODERNLY EQUIPPED

Corps of Teachers Qualified and Efficient for Each Department.

THE MAYFIELD HIGH SCHOOL AND ITS TEACHERS.

M. M. Faughender, city superintendent, has been here four years. C. T. Canon, principal, teaches science, five years. Miss Lora Frisby, English department, six years. Miss Ophelia Selph, Latin, three years. Rhey B. Parsons, mathematics, three years. Miss Olivia Hulce, history, three years. Miss Tossie Thorpe, English and Latin, one year.

(By J. R. Lemon.)

I had the pleasure Tuesday morning of visiting the Mayfield High school, where I was very much pleased with the attendance and the great work that is being done there by the teachers and the students.

The building has six class rooms, one physics laboratory and a study hall, and the value of the physics laboratory is $1,000, and that of the maps, charts and globes, $150.00. One stereopticon for projecting both opaque pictures and transparent slides and the value of this is $50.

The library has more than 500 volumes and it is valued at $500.00.

The entire enrollment for the year 1916 so far has been 189, with an average attendance now of 162, and there will be 12 in the graduating class at the close of the present session of the school.

This school has numerous exhibits illustrating the manufacture of cocoa, baking powders, flour, salt, postum, concrete, etc. It is well prepared with drawings and charts, illustrating the life history of the mosquito, the house fly and various other harmful insects.

It also has a chart for testing the eye, and several pupils have been saved to the school by having their eyes tested by the principal. They afterwards secured glasses from a specialist and their eyes have greatly improved.

The general management of this school, under the watchful care of Professor Canon, is very excellent and the good order is unsurpassed in almost any school in the country.

Those who attend the Mayfield High school have many advantages that cannot be had at other schools in this section. This is the only "A" class school in the county and there are only four "A" class schools in Jackson Purchase, being located at Paducah, Murray, Fulton and Mayfield.

This school is more progressive than the people of Mayfield as well as of the county are aware except those who are in close touch with it and its work.

The class of young men and women who are attending this school is far above the average and the teachers are very proud of them and the manner in which most of them deport themselves.

This school will put on an oratorical contest May 5th, between Fulton, Paducah and Mayfield, and Mr. John Wyman will represent the Mayfield High school. This is a move in the right direction because it tends to develop oratory, an art that has been depreciated in Kentucky very much during the last twenty-five or thirty years.

Kentucky was once noted for her great speakers and those who possessed the training and faculty of stirring great audiences and great crowds of people by their oratory and eloquence. It was the Romans who paid great attention to the art of public speaking, but Greece and Rome have furnished to history many names of her illustrious orators and speakers.

And those at the head of our public schools, more especially the high schools and colleges, are doing much to educate the young men as writers as well as speakers, and this particular and useful accomplishment will in a few years bring forth many great orators and men who will be of great use and value to the country.

The people of Mayfield and Graves county should lend a helping hand to make this first oratorical contest a great success.

A short address was made to the school along the lines of its work and the great and good results that were sure to come from the work of the teachers and the application of the pupils.

Attention was called to the slow process of creating the system of education, not only in this, but in any other country, that it has taken over 300 years to bring our public schools up to their present value, during which time the people have spent millions of dollars in the United States, to give both to the rich and poor an opportunity, without money and without price, to educate themselves for the important duties of life. That it took hundreds of years to separate the school from the church and to virtually destroy the private schools, which were created and made for the benefit of the rich. That caste in private as well as public schools has almost disappeared and now the young boy and the young girl from the hovel stands the same show to become learned in this country as those from the mansion.

The attention of the young men and women was called to the fact that there is a place and position for them to fill as soon as they are educated and prepared for the important duties of life, that the medical profession is calling for many students, the ministry for more preachers, the law for more students, and the commercial world is calling for hundreds of thousands of young men and women on good wages to start out on life's road to success, and that without education and training of our common schools but few would be fitted for the many positions that are now open to them.

There is a great future for those who were present Tuesday morning if they will only prepare themselves, mentally, physically and morally. So it is the duty of everyone to encourage them to accomplish the kind of an education that will fit and qualify them for any of the professions or in the industrial walks of commercialism.

PRIMARY TEACHERS MEET

Thursday evening, the primary teachers of the First Christian church met with Mrs. A. B. Neale. As each teacher arrived, she was welcomed by little Oscar Neale, assisted by his parents.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. W. T. Vaughan, our superintendent. Then she read the report of the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Neale, which was a very unique way in getting her co-workers to respond, as follows: Each one was given a special topic under the following subject, "The Spiritual Good" and requested to report on that one part. In this way it proved very beneficial as well as interesting to all.

This being our aim in life and our duty as teachers to prepare the children for this part of their own lives. We found it to be the most effective lesson thus far.

After finishing our lesson we were led in prayer by our pastor, Bro. J. J. Castleberry, who was our guest on this occasion.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Neale at the conclusion of the session, after which we adjourned to meet with Miss Ruby Wheatley April 18th.

On some future date we shall have an open session, giving a full program of our work.

CONTEST CLOSES.

The Democratic contest Monday night was the winners of the three largest prizes were: Mrs. W. M. McKinney, Buick Six automobile, 6,267,990 votes; Mrs. R. B. Ashbrook, Maxwell automobile, 4,588,999 votes; Miss Anna Courcier, Chevrolet automobile, 2,008,443. Mrs. A. A. Nelson of Denton received one prize, a Columbia gramophone, receiving 837,675 votes.

A DAY WITH THE VISITING NURSE—BY ONE WHO WANTED TO BE CONVINCED

Not all Mayfield people know that for the past three weeks we have had in our midst Miss Louise Poindexter, a Virginia woman of years of nursing experience and who recently completed a course in social service work.

Miss Poindexter is not a charity nurse—she is a town nurse. Her salary is paid by three agencies—the city, The Metropolitan Insurance Company (who pay so much a visit to their policyholders) and a collection of individuals and organizations (including three churches, the Civic League and probably all the lodges). Briefly stated, her work mainly consists in helping sick people get well and keeping well people from getting sick. Along with this she does her social service work. Probably her most telling work is along the lines of prevention. If she goes into a family with tuberculosis or any other infectious disease, she ministers to the patient and instructs all others in the family how to avoid contracting the disease.

So much for a prelude. Here is what the writer saw in a half day's work with our nurse. This is typical of the work she does. On this particular day she made ten visits in the morning. The first patient was a young girl with tuberculosis, whom she made comfortable by sponging, taking care to warn the mother how to keep other members of the family free from infection. On the way to the next patient the nurse met two children of school age and soon found following this, a visit to a widow suffering from an incurable disease, may have somewhat similar results as a social service visit. Our nurse lady next visited a home where a little child was suffering with acute sore eyes of the most contagious type. This malady was due solely to carelessness and filth. Both the father and mother work, leaving the housekelp to five rather young children. A sixth child, the eldest is trying to help by working also. On account of the unclean and unsanitary conditions of this place the nurse considered it a menace not only to that family but the community as well, and immediately informed our city health officer, who went with her to inspect the home and premises. He announced to the family that something must be done! Miss Poindexter is trying to help solve the problem the best she can.

Not only ministering to the sick, but in her social service work, she tries to meet the needs of every situation. At times she gives real constructive relief and helps solve economic problems for families—and the city as well. For the past year a number of families, disabled through sickness, many of them, have had to call on the city for help.

The community should realize the great possibilities of the visiting nurse field and give the work the heartiest support. Through this work possible illness is prevented, present relief given the sick and often a lift for future and better things.

THE PLAY AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Great interest is being manifested in the high school this week over the show which is to be given in the high school Auditorium Friday evening. The play is entitled "A Rustle Romance" and is a comedy in two acts. It is one of the latest productions of one of America's foremost playwrights and is making a hit all over the country. The show is being given under the auspices of the Madison Caywin Literary Society of the high school. The characters were very carefully selected and have been practicing for five weeks under the supervision of Rhey B. Parsons and Miss Tossie Thorpe, two of the high school teachers. Miss Ruth Phillips is assisting in putting on the finishing touches this week. The management of the show is congratulating itself over being able to secure Mr. Hardin Rule's Orchestra for the evening. This, of course insures them good music. The price of admission will be twenty five and thirty five cents. The proceeds will be used towards helping pay the expenses of the coming oratorical contest and in buying books for the high school library. The front rows of seats will be reserved for the older people who have difficulty in hearing.

MARION BUCKMAN IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY

Young Man of North Section of County to Be Tried Wednesday.

Marion Buckman, aged 22, of the Lowes section, was arrested Monday afternoon at the I. C. depot, charged with forgery.

Sheriff Sullivan received a telephone message from the Bank of Lowes and the Bank of Fancy Farm Monday afternoon, stating that Buckman had forged a check on the Bank of Lowes for $212 and one on the Bank of Fancy Farm for $90. Sullivan, not knowing the man, went to the depot, and, after talking to several parties, met Mr. Buckman and asked him his name, and while talking to him Policeman Emmett McNelly came into the waiting room. Buckman, seeing McNelly, became nervous, after which he was placed under arrest by the sheriff and taken to the courthouse, where he was identified by several people living in the Lowes section.

When caught he had $187.45 on him, but had not purchased a ticket. He made many purchases in the city yesterday, having a new suit case and plenty of new clothes. After being placed in jail he told the authorities that he had two packages in the I. C. baggage room which contained all of the goods bought by him yesterday. The four checks which were forged by him were written on many prominent farmers living in the Lowes and Fancy Farm section.

Buckman's examining trial was set for Wednesday before County Judge W. V. Gregory.

NEWS FROM CIRCUIT COURT

Two sessions of circuit court have been in session today. Judge Bunk Gardner is conducting the regular term upstairs and Attorney W. J. Webb is sitting as special judge in the county courtroom in the case of Flora and Ella Willett against the City of Mayfield for damages.

In the trial of two negroes, Rogers Blair and Robert Crump, held Monday before Special Judge H. J. Moore, Blair got a life sentence, and Crump, on being his lawyer's case, she previous time in the county court.

There are two more cases on the docket. The regular court stenographer, Hub Hawkins, is on duty in one case and Miss Cora Morehead in another.

In the sensational suit for $10,000 damages of Dan Childers against R. W. Cash, charged with alienating R. W. Cash's affections, there was a hung jury. The verdict was made last night, closing at 10 o'clock. W. S. Foy and W. H. Hester spoke for the plaintiff and J. C. Speight for the defendant. It was reported that the jury stood seven to five in favor of the plaintiff.

In the suit of S. A. Cross vs. Cross Bros., the action was dismissed, settled.

Tom White was tried Tuesday morning on the charge of grand larceny, and a verdict of guilty returned. His punishment was fixed at from one year to one year and one day in the penitentiary.

The suit of Mrs. J. E. Lucas against C. W. Wells has been on trial most all day. J. E. Robbins represents the plaintiff and Seay & Via the defendant.

SEARCH FOR VILLA STILL ON

Important Developments Expected at Columbus, N. M.

GAVIRA WOULD TAKE CHARGE

Commander Announces De Facto Troops Could Relieve Americans at Once.

Columbus, N. M., April 11.—More soldiers are on guard duty at Columbus than at any time since Villa raided here a month ago. Heavily armed soldiers patrol the streets and military reservation, while one military company has been ordered to sleep in their clothing, with arms at their sides, and instructions have been issued to keep all gun racks unlocked.

Yesterday there seemed to be an air of suppressed excitement about military headquarters, contributing to the belief there are about to be important developments in the punitive campaign in Mexico.

San Antonio, Texas, April 11.—Dispatches from the front indicating contact with Villa troops is awaited with some anxiety by Gen. Funston, who realizes fully the dangerous position in which the commanding officers of the cavalry detachments beyond Satevo have placed themselves.

Just where the American advanced columns are pursuing Villa in the vicinity of Parral is unknown here, for the difficulties Pershing has had in communicating his movements has made it a matter of guess work as to whether another engagement has been fought.

Gen. Pershing continues to carry on the campaign without a sign of limiting his men's activities. There is no indication here that any check is to be given. Funston said that as far as he knew no dead line in the pursuit of Villa has been fixed.

GAVIRA WANTS JOB. El Paso, Texas, April 11.—Gen. Gabriel Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, last night announced the de facto forces are in a position to take immediate control of the Villa situation if the American troops should withdraw.

Gavira's statement was made in connection with the announcement of Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of the United States expeditionary forces, purpose to be considered accomplished when Villa hands are disposed of or "taken as the de facto government troops able to relieve them."

"We have more than enough of Villa when he had 70,000 men, direct cannon and plenty of men ought to be able to handle him now, when his men are dwindled to a few hundred."

Interest in the pursuit of the diplomatic situation was largely diverted yesterday, as far as the border was concerned, to the reported raising of a new revolutionary standard by Gen. Ynez Salazar.

Goodbye, Mr. Councillor: You May Miss Me When I'm Gone!

Crowing his last time before he will have to stay and crow here after in his own backyard.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Gov. Elliott W. Major of Missouri is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the office of Vice President.

Gov. Major is a native Missourian, and was born and reared in the country. As a common laborer upon the farm he saved sufficient means to educate himself. He read law in the office of Hon. Clarence Clark, speaker of the national house, and admitted to the practice of law in 1885.

He and Mr. Clark live in the same city—Bowling Green, Mo. He was elected to the state senate from the Eleventh district in 1896 without opposition. While senator, he was selected as a member of the revision commission of 1899, and was by the commission chosen editor and compiler of the revised statutes of the state for that year.

In 1903 he was elected attorney-general of Missouri, and by reason of his record in that office was nominated on the democratic ticket for governor, and elected in 1912 by 120,000 plurality—the largest plurality ever given a candidate in the history of the state. His term as governor expires in January, 1917.

During the Presidential elections of 1904, 1908 and 1912, he was on the state ticket, and each time led the democratic Presidential electors by many thousands. In 1904 he received 12,000 more votes than were cast for the Bryan electors, and in 1912 he received 7,000 more votes than were cast for the Wilson electors.

WAR NEWS IN A GLANCE.

The Bethencourt salient which for weeks had projected like a wedge into the German lines northwest of Verdun has been evacuated by the French. The evacuation was carried out under cover of darkness and without interference, and the French, through the move, have been able to straighten out their line, which now runs from the corner of the Avocourt wood to the south crossing of the Bethencourt-Bancs and Bethencourt-Chattancourt roads.

Violent attacks delivered by the Germans against the new positions found the French line unwavering and all of them were repulsed except between the Avocourt wood and the Forges brook, where the Germans succeeded in entering the French trenches, but were almost immediately driven out.

Northeast of Verdun, around Pepper Hill and on the Douaumont-Vaux sector, the Germans heavily bombarded French positions, but were unable to launch an infantry attack in the face of the French guns.

The capture of 150 meters of German trenches southwest of Douaumont is reported by Paris. On the rest of the lines in France and Belgium artillery duels alone have been in progress. The offensive of the Russians against the Germans in Northwest Russia has simmered down to mutual bombardments and bombing attacks by German and Russian aviators.

Artillery actions in the Lake Narocz region continue and an infantry attack by Germans here was repulsed by the Russian fire. Considerable fighting between the Turks the aggressors. Three attacks against the Russian entrenchments on the right bank of the Karadere were without result. The Russians are pushing their advance against the Ottomans in the upper Tchouk River region.

Along the entire Austro-Italian front the artillery of both sides has been active. An official dispatch from Saloniki reports an exchange of shots between German and French cavalry on the Macedonian front and the shelling (but without effect) of French trenches by the Germans in the region of Givoguel and Dolan.

The British steamers Adamton and Avon have been sunk, presumably by submarines, while the Danish steamer Assger Ryg, supposedly torpedoed, has been sighted badly damaged, south of the Isle of Wight.
