Public Service Chief Is Named By Combs

FRANKFORT (UP) — Gov. Bert T. Combs named J. David Francis, 40-year-old Bowling Green attorney, chairman of the state Public Service Commission last Saturday. Francis will succeed former OSC chairman James Gordon of Madisonville, who has resigned. Combs said Gordon would remain with the state agency as a consultant for an unspecified period to smooth the changeover. Francis' appointment, which must be submitted to the Senate for confirmation next month, is for a four-year term. Francis was chairman of the state campaign of Lt. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt before Wyatt withdrew from the three-cornered race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He was co-chairman of the Combs-Wyatt campaign after the two merged. "Mr. Gordon is a high-type man and I appreciate his willingness to stay on as consultant during the transitional period," Francis said, adding, "I consider it an honor to be a part of the Combs-Wyatt administration. I want to assure all the utilities, both public and private, of fair treatment." A native of Hopkins County, Francis was graduated from Western Kentucky State College at Bowling Green and the University of Kentucky Law School. He served as county judge of Warren County from 1950 to 1954 and has been commonwealth attorney of the Warren - Allen Judicial District since 1955. He served as a member of the state board of Bar Commissioners in 1952. Francis will be the second Bowling Green resident to serve as PSC chairman in recent years. Judge Robert Coleman of Bowling Green held the office during the administration of former Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby.

Lock Autos During Shopping, Chief Marr

Lock your automobile if it has some Christmas packages in it, is the warning of Police Chief Charlie Marr. Chief Marr said that normally he has few complaints of packages being stolen from cars, but with the Christmas present buying in full swing, the temptation is apparently too much for some people. Chief Marr said that many people use their cars as a place to deposit packages as they do their shopping, thus making them an easy target for anyone who plans to steal. All cars containing packages should be locked, he said.

Car Is Identified As Death Car In Accident On Saturday

Phil Collier and G. C. Cain of Murray were held in the Calloway County Jail while authorities complete an investigation in the hit-run death of Robert Earl Nance which occurred Friday night about midnight, just south of Mayfield. Nance, who lived in Fulton, is the father of four children, all five years of age and under. State and County police have highway when he was hit by the car and dragged 181 feet. The driver of the car, travelling north, did not stop to render aid, Collier said, and intimated it was either a case involving drunken driving or drag racing. The car was on the wrong side of the road when Mr. Nance was struck. The incident occurred at 12:15 a. m. and Mr. Nance died three hours later at the Fuller-Morgan Hospital in Mayfield. Police found a Mercury emblem and paint chips at the scene from which they deduced that the driver of the car drove a two-toned Mercury with a heavily damaged left front fender. Fragments of a shattered headlight were also found at the scene. Survivors of Nance include his wife and four children ranging in age from one to five years old. He and his family lived at 303 West State Lane, in Fulton.

Warrants were served at about noon today against Phil Collier and G. C. Cain, Collier was charged with "manslaughter" and "failing to stop, aid or assist a person injured or killed in an accident." Cain was charged with being an accessory to "manslaughter" and failing to stop, aid or assist a person injured or killed in an accident. Both boys were removed at 2:30 p. m. today to the Graves County Jail in Mayfield by the Mayfield Chief of Police and Graves County Sheriff.

Bulletin

State police broadcast details of the hit-run Saturday, and asked that all county authorities be on the lookout for a car with damaged front left fender. County and State police found the Collier car at the clean up shop owned by Leon Collier, young Collier's father, on South Ninth Street extended.

T.V.A. Reports Another Successful Year In 1959

Nearly Fifteen Million In Taxes Is Paid By System economic growth "cannot be overestimated." "It will permit us to increase the region's self-generating capacity to meet the region's demands for power in an orderly, economical manner. And while it gives us greater opportunities to be of service in helping to further the region's social and economic development, it carries with it an added obligation to continue to pursue with even greater resolve the objective of supplying an abundance of electricity at low cost." Sales of the local electric systems in the 1959 fiscal year totaled 164 billion kilowatt-hours, an increase of 6.5 percent for the year. The report notes that residential sales of 8.4 billion kw produced nearly 60 percent of total revenue. The long term trend in residential sales has been a growth of about 12 percent a year, and this rate of growth is expected to continue. However, because of the large number of electricity heated homes, the increases from year to year will vary from the long term trend with variations in winter temperatures. The winter of fiscal year 1959 was a little colder than normal but the fiscal year 1958 was unusually cold. The result was a growth of 6 percent in 1959 as compared with 23 percent the year before. Commercial and industrial sales totaled 6.9 billion kw, an increase for the year of about 7 percent. This year's growth was a bit less than usual because of the recession which began in the fall of 1957. However, by the end of the fiscal year 1959 the recession had largely passed and most industrial loads were back to normal. State and local taxes or tax equivalents paid by TVA and by the distributors totaled $14,760,000 of which $8,860,000 was paid by the local systems and $5,900,000 by TVA, the report said. The payment by the local systems was 20 percent greater than the year before. The customers served by the distributors paid state and local taxes equal to 7.8 cents out of every dollar of their electric bills. By way of comparison, the customers of the 12 privately owned utilities that serve the area around TVA paid from 5.1 cents to 12.1 cents; the average among them was 8.4 cents. Mr. Wessensauer also asserted that the outlook for future power supply in the region now is "most favorable." He noted that TVA has added 1,300,000 kilowatts of generating capacity to the system in the past two years and that 1,290,000 kilowatts were under construction as the fiscal year ended, all financed by revenues of the power alone. An additional 1,100,000 kilowatts are scheduled or initial stages of construction, to be financed with revenue bonds. TVA also have a reasonable margin of capacity over expected loads through the winter of 1960-61. Mr. Wessensauer said, "Because revenues were not sufficient to start all the capacity we would like to have to meet load growth in the following year, we face a tight power supply situation in the winter of 1961-62. However, demands will be met although perhaps at some added cost, and there is no reason for any of us to relax our efforts to encourage our customers to use more electricity." Mr. Wessensauer said that the importance of the bond financing legislation to the area's future cost. By this measure, fiscal year 1959 was another year of successful operation for your systems. Use of electricity by our customers was greater than ever while the rates they paid for it were further reduced. It is also important that your revenues are sufficient to cover your costs, and on this basis your 1959 operations also were successful. "You are to be congratulated for reducing your unit costs despite the inflationary trend of our economy. This has been accomplished through greater sales and increased efficiency. To hold the unit costs of operation at low levels and maintain a prudent margin of revenue above costs, sales must continue to increase substantially. And only through aggressive sales promotion can the required growth be maintained."

And Now Comes Frozen Flowers

INVERNESS, Scotland (UP) — What won't they think of next department? A Scottish frozen food expert says his firm has perfected a method of freezing flowers. Firm manager Alan Thornton said Americans started it all by asking for some frozen heather. "There were difficulties," Thornton said. "The heather became brittle when frozen and broke when handled. But now we have found a way of freezing it which is completely successful. Unfortunately we discovered how to do it too late for this year's St. Andrew's Night — the heather crop was over. By next year we hope to be in this business in a big way." Meanwhile, Thornton said, his company has tried the same process with roses. "And it works wonderfully," Thornton said. "I wore a rose bud in my buttonhole for five days last week after I had been frozen for three weeks."

Ohio Valley Conference Teams Find There Is No Place Like Home After Poor Road Trips

United Press International
Take it from seven Ohio Valley Conference basketball teams - there's no place like home.

In 14 games involving OVC teams last week, the home teams won 12 and lost one although Western Kentucky downed Seton Hall 78-69 on Madison Square Garden's neutral court. Lone home court was Morehead's 76-55 loss to Ohio University, first time the Bobcats have ever won at Morehead.

For the first two weeks of play OVC teams have netted 842 at home, winning 16 and losing three, but they're hitting only 333 (three wins in nine starts) on the road.

Lone remaining unbeaten team in the OVC is Tennessee Tech, which is 3-0 for the young season. John Oklan's highly regarded Golden Eagles, featuring the play of center Jimmy Hanan of Glendle, Ky., also took over the top spot in the league by downing Morehead 94-67 in the only other league contest played to date.

Western Kentucky, which figures to battle Tech for the conference title with Eastern Kentucky bidding to make it a three-way fight, runs for the OVC leadership this week. Beaten 93-80 at Illinois Saturday, the Hilltoppers of Ed Diddle will be involved in the only two games this week, entertaining Morehead Tuesday and visiting East Tennessee Saturday.

Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee Tech will be idle this week, both preparing for upcoming holiday tournaments. Tennessee Tech will participate in the Watauga Invitational at Johnson City, Tenn., Dec. 21-22, and the Evansville Invitational Dec. 23-28. Eastern Kentucky will compete in the Gulf South Classic at Shepovport, La., Dec. 28-29-30.

Last week, Eastern Kentucky shot 50 per cent from the field to down Marshall 90-82 but the Maroons bowed at Louisville 73-67 after leading for most of the contest.

Middle Tennessee suffered its first loss, bowing to powerful Louisiana Tech on the road, 81-63. The Blue Raiders kept within five points until the last three minutes and trailed by two (33-31) at halftime.

Free throws stopped Murray at Stetson, Fla. The Thoroughbreds dropping a whistle - filled 80-57 decision after losing star rebounder Gene Herndon and Mike O'Riordan on personal fouls. The fourth Racers drew 2 fouls to the home team's 10 and that provided the victory margin.

Earlier in the week, Murray won twice at home, downing Texas Wesleyan 67-61 and North Texas 82-69. Tonight, the Racers invade Col. Gables, Fla., to tackle the University of Miami. Middle Tennessee also winds up its southern swing tonight, taking on potent Centenary, La., which owns wins over Rice, Tulane and Miami.

Murray returns home to participate in its first invitational tournament Friday and Saturday. The Racers meet Memphis State Friday night while Baylor takes on Mississippi State, with the winners meeting Saturday for the title.

Staggered by a rash of ailments and early season injuries, Morehead dropped both of its starts last week, to Ohio University and Tennessee Tech. The Eagles face another uphill battle Tuesday at Bowling Green against Western.

West German Drivers
Back Up From Safety

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — West German motorists are killing themselves at an appalling rate and often grow violent when anyone tries to stop them.

In the last 18 months, for instance, at least 26 railroad-crossing watchmen have been beaten severely by drivers who resented their efforts to keep them from colliding with approaching trains.

number of traffic deaths is just as high in West Germany as it is in the U.S. — about 23 per 100,000. But the actual rate is a lot denser of traffic. In the U. S. there is one motor vehicle for every 2.5 persons. Here, it's only one for every 14.

And with 500,000 new passenger cars going onto West German roads every year, police and civic organizations are starting to worry.

Lately, psychiatric associations have begun studying the problem, too.

Matters almost came to a head in June, when an overloaded bus was hit by a train near Heilbronn, and 44 persons were killed. Investigation showed that the watchman had lowered the barrier when the train approached, but had raised it again at the insistence of one or more impatient drivers.

One passenger car got across before the train arrived. The bus did not. Transport Minister Hans-Cristoph Seebohm, with an air of resignation, told parliament that his ministry had considered any number of means of replacing crossing watchmen and gates.

But, he said, the experts felt that if German drivers refuse to obey a watchman, they will pay even less attention to train whistles, flashing red lights or warning bells.

Police complain there is no courtesy among German drivers, which happens also to be the first and loudest complaint most foreign drivers — particularly American and British — make when they visit this country.

Driving along the four-lane autobahn is an adventure, complete with sound and color effects.

Most German cars have, in addition to a horn, a device which causes the headlights to flicker rapidly.

These two signals are in use all along the autobahn. A careful driver will be rolling along the left-hand, high-speed lane at, say, 65 miles an hour, overhauling a mile-long row of trucks, when he is assaulted from the rear by another car, blinding its light, blowing its horn — and riding about four feet from his rear bumper.

A Mannheim traffic judge recently gave hope that this particular menace may be driven from the roads. The judge declared that such tactics amount to assault and battery, and are liable to the same punishment.

A Bonn traffic official said recently he reckons that every driver in the city of 120,000 ignores the 35-mile speed limit in built-up areas more than half the time. At a meeting of an industrialist's club in Dusseldorf a few weeks ago, it was resolved that an attempt should be made to have such speed limits raised.

Members said if they had to obey such regulations, it would mean they must drop their four-speed racing-type cars from top into third gear every time they entered a village, and that that was simply out of the question.

Christmas Recital Given by Pupils of Mrs. D. F. McConnell

The annual Christmas recital given by pupils from the class of Mrs. D. F. McConnell on Saturday evening at 7:00 was held at the Club House. The twinkling lights from the Christmas tree and the lovely decorations gave quite the festive air to the occasion. Mrs. Jim Ed Duiguid and Mrs. James Kuykendall greeted the guests at the door. Nancy Duiguid and Allen Palmer gave programs to those present. Cindy Koenen was the announcer for those taking part on the program. Mrs. Cy Miller decorated the tea table for the party given by the teacher in appreciation for those taking music from her.

The table was overlaid with a green cover centered with a lovely arrangement of poinsettias further carrying out the Christmas motif. Mrs. Howard Koenen and Mrs. Cy Miller presided at each punch bowl assisted by Mrs. Windsor Tripp and members of her committee.

Mrs. Hollis Walker was in charge of the Kitchener committee. Hunter Love took pictures of the group. Individual decorated cakes and punch were served those present. Mrs. Jim Ed Duiguid led the group in singing Christmas carols.

The Exciting New Novel By W. R. BURNETT, The Man Who Was Little Caesar

Country, Spanish, Anglo, and Mexican. "Oh, shucks," said Natty. "I never have no fun with nobody. Speaking of fun, you starting around Big Sheep Range tonight?" "Yes," said the Sergeant. "You heard about the drought up there?" "It was pretty dry when I came across three weeks ago." "It's worse now. Not a drop of rain. I was talking to a fellow in a saloon who'd just crossed. The deer have all gone, vamoosed. Place is full of hungry cougars, so watch your horse. Wouldn't a daytime start be better?" "No. You got to spend a night with the horse, and then pretty soon it's all over and none of them could wait to get out of uniform and be free men again. Even the soldier got out. They had come West together, worked as freighters, cowhands, buffalo hunters, and even loggers. They'd got the money bug, wanted to get rich. Found a grubstake, set out with a horse and a burro for hills that he'd heard were full of silver. When he got back to Mesa Encantada, the first man he saw was the Soldier—and in a yellow-striped cavalry uniform. He'd re-enlisted. That was eleven years ago. Now he was top kick at the Camp. The Soldier seemed to be doing exactly what he wanted to do, yet at times he struck Natty as a very lonely man, without any people, without a wife, with hardly even a friend. ". . . oh, it was real funny!" Natty was explaining. "Nothing but a camp, a camp, a camp in them rocks. Looked like silver country to me but nothing had been hit thereabouts. So finally I got tired of solitude and rolled into San Geronimo. And one of them dudes, hardly off the transcontinental train yet, give me a thousand dollars cash money for that old nug of rock out there in the flats. "They hit silver at Tarbush," said the Sergeant, wanting to laugh. "Didn't you know?" "Yes, you dead certain." "Yes," said the Sergeant. "It's all over Agua Prieta." "Why, I'll break his neck if I ever see him again! You reckon I ought to hit back for Tarbush?" "I don't know. There's a rush on now." Natty swore quietly to himself for a long time, then he began to laugh. "Okay. All right," he said, at last. "Got a thousand dollars in cash and I'm a-going to have a million dollars worth of fun before I start out again. I got a hunch there's silver Lava Rock way that's next." "Badiandia," said the Sergeant. "Renegades move in that country. Spanish, Anglo, and Mexican. "Oh, shucks," said Natty. "I never have no fun with nobody. Speaking of fun, you starting around Big Sheep Range tonight?" "Yes," said the Sergeant. "You heard about the drought up there?" "It was pretty dry when I came across three weeks ago." "It's worse now. Not a drop of rain. I was talking to a fellow in a saloon who'd just crossed. The deer have all gone, vamoosed. Place is full of hungry cougars, so watch your horse. Wouldn't a daytime start be better?" A YOUNG CHEMIST contemplates an experiment. His home laboratory contains a wide assortment of chemicals, an alcohol lamp, test tube rack and two illustrated manuals.

He'll Like THESE!

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
WHAT does Junior find fascinating? Science? Space? Cowboys? Crafts?

Whatever his big interest in life, it's far sure there's a toy in Santa's pack that will please that boy, no matter what his age.

Lab Set
In the science line, for example, there's a home lab for the junior chemist that comes complete with instructions for performing hundreds of magical experiments.

JUNIOR MANS a pair of puppets. One sips a glass of milk, while the other puppet blows real soap bubbles.

If space is his specialty, Or consider the joy of a little boy who finds Santa's left him a jet-styled three-wheel plastic cycle so realistic it looks like it might fly.

For the cowboy crowd, there are Western costumes, six-shooters, realistic hip holsters and even a number of fascinating board games.

IT'S A TENSE MOMENT in an exciting board game! Players are deputies on the trail of desperate outlaws.

Playing Sheriff
One involves playing sheriff. Each player's a deputy on the trail of outlaws. First player to fill the jail is the winner!

Crafty pursuits for boys include some novel hand puppets—one blows bubbles, the other pours a glass of milk, then drinks it.

New Modeling Dough
Also intriguing is a kit containing a new kind of modeling dough that dries to a finish resembling wood.

These are just a few of the many toys in Santa's pack—and a big pack it is, too, for the Toy Guidance Council estimates it holds more playthings than have ever before been stuffed in Santa's pack.
