WAR NEWS AT A GLANCE CONTESTANTS MORE EVEN THAN EVER

British efforts to drive a salient into the German lines between Marcoling and St. Quentin continue. Seven villages on a front of 10 miles between and including Vermand and Heudicourt were occupied Saturday, according to the latest official statement from British headquarters in France. Marteville, Vermand and Soyecourt, six to eight miles northwest of St. Quentin, were occupied with little opposition from the Germans, but British artillery drove the defenders from the village of St. Emelle, east of Villiers-Faucou, and on the railroad running south from Marcoling. Along the Cologne river, a small stream, the British advanced and captured Jeaucourt, Herville and Heudicourt. Berlin officially admits that the British advance reached Heudicourt and St. Emelle, but declares that a British attack north of Metz-en-Courture, north of Heudicourt, was repulsed.

Further north in the region south-east of Arras there has been bitter fighting. The British report the capture of Heudicourt and the destruction of several posts near Ecourt-St. Mein and Heikland Henin-Sar-Cojeul. Near the latter place, Berlin says, an engagement resulted favorably for the Germans.

Northeast of Soissons the French have made progress and, Paris says, have repulsed two German counter attacks in the region of Vregny. Berlin reports that the French were defeated in attacks against German positions on the Vregny plateau.

In the Bystritz valley, near the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier, on the eastern front, German troops have taken 200 prisoners. North of the Pripek marshes, near Novo Gradek, Berlin says, German enterprises resulted in the capture of 75 prisoners. The forward movement of the British forces in Mesopotamia has brought them to within 30 miles of the Persian frontier.

So far as reported the new German raider in the South Atlantic, the See Adler, has sunk 11 ships, mostly British and French sailing vessels. One of the reports coming from South America is that the See Adler was formerly the American bark Pass of Balahama, captured by the Germans in 1915.

New Leaders Took the Positions of Favorites — This Week May Decide, as Votes Are Larger Than During the Last Week.

Saturday closed another great week. But instead of the old contestants gaining a lead, several new contestants placed their names at the front. This makes the contest more than ever even, and the last two weeks will be the decisive ones. The new leaders. The bull's-eye for today shows the leader for last week. Several other contestants just missed the target by less than two yearly subscriptions. Among those contestants were Miss Birdie Heath, Water Valley; Miss Nola Pirtle, Fancy Farm; Miss Fannie Sue Wood, Farmington; Miss Altha Dodson, Sedalia; Miss Ruby Stroup, the city; Miss Gerline Gillum, city; Miss Vivian Carter, Bardwell; Mr. Fred Orr, Rev. Hagler, city; Dalton Eldson, Hickory; and Mrs. Daisy Melvin Coles of the city.

The Largest Schedule. The schedule is as large this week as it ever has or ever will be. During the last week the vote value will drop, as has already been announced. The prizes are going to be won by a small margin of votes. Your efforts this week will count a third more than at any other time. Whatever you are going to do, do it this week. Now is the time to collect those promises which you were going to get at the end of the contest. If you desire to win and if you do win, you must make this week your best week. Remember next week the votes drop in value.

Time For Real Work. There are many who can win one of the automobiles if they but do their duty during these last two weeks. The leaders will have to else go down in defeat. It is the contest. They must stick to the race during the final period. There may be a few at the top of the list who would stop working the last few days of the contest. If you desire to win and if you do win, you must make this week your best week. Remember next week the votes drop in value.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two bottles of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

OLIVER BILL PASSES SENATE IN ORIGINAL AND EFFECTIVE FORM

VOTE FOR MEASURE IS MORE THAN TWO TO ONE—24 TO 11. R. H. SCOTT IS ONE OF THE MEASURE'S OPPONENTS. Frankfort, Ky., March 31.—By more than a two to one vote—24 to 11—the senate Friday passed the Oliver tax commission bill after incorporating in it several more amendments, chief of which was a provision that all real estate deeds state the true consideration involved in the transfer. With machine gun rapidity the senators Friday disposed of section after section of the measure. After spending four days in consideration of 14 sections of the bill they inaugurated a drive Friday morning that shot them through 23 sections to a vote on final passage of the bill. During the week the bill has been before the senate it has gained four converts. The first test vote on the measure—last Monday afternoon—showed a lineup of 20 to 15. Four opponents of the bill swung to his support when the final vote came, giving the final score of 24 to 11. Senators who voted for passage of the bill were Robert Antle, Charles Arnette, W. W. Booles, H. M. Brock, Thomas Combs, Theodor Dietl, H. Evans, John Ford, Seldon Glenn, Webster Helm, Hite Huffaker, B. S. Huntsman, Charles Knight, B. C. Lewis, L. C. Littrell, L. W. Morris, D. H. H. Moore, L. W. Rayburn, W. E. Rogers, H. R. Sanders, Basil Taylor, J. Mack Thompson, Ballard Thompson, Ballard Trigg and J. H. Williams. Those who voted against the bill were Senators S. M. Bradley, J. W. Clay, W. A. Pressa, J. B. Elles, C. F. Montgomery, H. G. Owsen, Robert Porter, R. M. Salmon, R. H. Scott, A. E. Stricklet and J. R. Zimmerman. Senators D. H. Hildreth, J. A. Leach and T. J. Moore were absent or not voting. Jefferson county's three senators—Huffaker, Knight and Dietl—voted for the bill. Immediately after passing the bill the senate followed the example of the house by adjourning until 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. At that time the senate will begin consideration of the Gardner classification bill, the second of the revenue measures recommended for enactment by the special tax commission, of which Senator Hite H. Huffaker is chairman.

WHO WAS AT BALL OR "RAIL MAULING" 41 YEARS AGO?

Mayfield Messenger: If you will kindly permit me I will write you a few lines. I saw in the Messenger some time back where someone (I have forgotten the name) visited a field that he cleared forty-four years ago. I am visiting, and am now sitting while I write, in the middle of a field that I helped to clear forty-one years ago. George Camp, Dick Pryor and myself chopped the timber off this land in the winter and spring of 1876. George and I were hired to Mr. Pryor at $14 each per month. We were young men then, 21 years old, and full of life and vigor and equally as full of antics, which was very amusing to Mr. Pryor and his wife ("Cousin Bob," as we all called her). Mr. Pryor's family at that time consisted of himself, wife and two children. Quite a little boy, six years old, and Fanny, a little girl three years old, and George and I thrown in for good measure. I stop writing and look toward the house. I ask myself, "Where, oh where, is that happy family of the long ago, forty-one years?" Where is the little curly-haired girl who so often met me down at the lot that my strong arms might carry her back to the house? All but myself are resting beneath the sod! A feeling of sadness comes over me that I cannot resist and unbidden tears flow while I ponder and ask myself, "Why were they all taken and I alone left that happy group left to yet a while walk in the pathway of men. Quita died in 1877. Mrs. Pryor died in 1893. Little Fanny grew into womanhood and became the wife of Dr. D. H. McMasters of Pryorsburg, who was a cousin of mine. She died six or seven years ago. Mr. Pryor died a few weeks past. George Camp was married in 1880 to Miss Lue Folks of near Folks Schoolhouse. They moved to Green county, Arkansas, where George died several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Pryor had two children born to them in the years that come. Willie Pryor of Ft. Smith, Ark., and Mrs. Lillian Wilks, wife of Roy Wilks, who reside on a part of the old homestead near Macedonia church. As I view this piece of land I am made to realize what a contrast there is in the condition now and forty-one years ago (March 28, 1876). Then it was covered with logs and brush and stumps; now there is not a log or a stump to be seen. Forty-one years ago today we had a "rail mauling" on this piece of ground. Friends and neighbors wielded the maul and axe while the snowflakes came slowly drifting down. Yes, that was an ideal snow. There was hardly a ripple on the breeze to disturb the beautiful scene. Sometimes the sun would break through the cloud drifts and then the sight was glorious. As my mind wanders back through the long intervening forty-one years I can remember that surrounding the place where I now sit and write George Camp and I would frequently lay our axes aside and turn somersaults, alighting on our feet, while Mr. Pryor would sit on a nearby stump and watch at our sport. Should I try such a feat today I would break my neck and doubtless both legs, and perhaps many of other two hundred-odd bones that go to help make up my anatomy. We did not stop at having a "rail mauling" that day, but we had a dance at Mr. Pryor's that night. Yes, a "grand ball" and "bright-eyed beauty" was there. The young men and young girls came from all the surrounding country and we had a grand time. Well do I remember the sensations of pleasure that I felt while tripping the "light fantastic" with those "bright-eyed beauties" of the long ago, forty-one years ago tonight. But where are those "bright-eyed beauties" today? Some are the wrinkled, gray-haired grandmothers of today, while most of them, their bodies have returned to the earth as they were and their spirits have returned to God who gave them. Yes, in my mind's eye I can see those beautiful girls as they looked that night. "But what of the young gallants that paid court to those bright-eyed beauties that night?" There was my good friend Tom Blane, who danced his first and last "set" that night. When the music started, Tom made a dive and the way he skidded over that room was a sight! Yes, Tom danced some of the "set" and retreated into the corners of the room, while others took the flight to another room to save their shins from being broken. The "figure" was not finished. Tom told me privately afterward that he never intended to dance any more and he kept his word. Soon after he entered into the kingdom of Christ and has since lived one of the most faithful Christians that I have ever met. My friend John S. Shreve was there and engaged in the dance. He was as polite and graceful as a Frenchman. The bows and salutes that he made to his partners would have done credit to the courtiers of old. The violinist that night was John S. McMasters of Pryorsburg and John and Harry Ballew of near Fancy Farm. They were my intimate friends. To mention those last three names brings sadness; each one died a tragic death. John Ballew was killed at Wright Chapel church house in 1881. Harry Ballew was killed in Texas a few years afterward by a locomotive engine. Wm. McMasters was killed in Fulton, Ky., in 1901. Now, if there is anyone who reads this and was at the ball or rail mauling at Mr. Dick Pryor's, March 28, 1876, please drop me a note saying so. Well, au revoir. G. W. SCHOLESS, Route 7, Mayfield, Ky.
