Floods Lap At Highways In 7 States; In Area

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 (UPI)—Representative Frank A. Stubblefield (D-Ky.) said Tuesday the boundaries of the proposed two-lane-lake recreation area should be fixed within a few weeks.

Stubblefield made the prediction after a meeting of Tennessee and Kentucky officials with representatives of the National Park Service at the Interior Department.

He said the meeting dealt principally with the areas under consideration for inclusion in the recreation area formed by Kentucky Lake and Barkley Lake, on the Tennessee-Kentucky border.

Blasted From B-58 At 20,000 Feet, OK

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Edward J. Murray, 47-year-old Air Force parachute tester, was rocketed safely today from a B-58 bomber flying 20,000 feet in a test of a new ejection capsule.

Murray, a chief warrant officer from Dayton, Ohio, was flung through the top of the speed of sound in the sealed steel cocoon and landed eight minutes later still enclosed in the 700-pound capsule.

The capsule floated safely to earth as his orange and white parachute blossomed. A helicopter landed near his capsule and the pilot reported by radio, "Warrant Officer Murray is safe and he says 'no sweat'." The helicopter then took him to the base hospital for debriefing and physical examination.

The capsule with Murray inside was thrust through a hatch to a point about 250 feet above the bomber, then fell free for 5,000 feet with a two-foot-wide para-chute stabilizing it. Two small rockets supplied the power for the ejection.

At 15,000 feet, a barometric pressure device released a 32-foot-wide parachute and the descent was slowed.

Rev. Mischke Speaker At Lions Club

Rev. W. E. Mischke, minister of the First Methodist Church, was the guest speaker at the Murray Lions Club meeting in the Woman's Club House last night.

Rev. Mischke spoke on his recent trip to the near East and the Holy Land and showed several slides he made on his trip. The minister made the trip in connection with the Friendship for Jordan project in which he served as chairman for Calloway County.

County residents contributed a new pickup truck to the Jordan Friendship. Dr. Walter Parr headed the project which was a huge boost to Boys Town.

Boys Town was originated by a once wealthy Arab who was displaced from his home by the Zionist movement. With the aid of contributions from several countries including the United States he found water in a desert region where experts said none could be found, and built modern facilities to care for 200 Arab boys. Seventeen wells provide water for irrigation of crops and even swimming pools.

Rev. Mischke made a special effort to bring back a number of slides of Boys Town to show county residents how contributions like theirs are being used.

The guest speaker was introduced by Jot Pat James, a member of the club's program committee.

The club welcomed back R. A. Johnston and at the same time lost a member, Dan Johnston, Southern Bell Manager who is being transferred to Louisville at the end of this week.

Recreation Area Boundary To Be Agreed On Soon

By United Press International
Floods lapped at highways and homes in seven states today, leaving nearly 4,000 persons homeless. A record cold wave chilled the plains from the Canadian border to Texas.

Heat records were established in the Deep South. Light snow, sleet and freezing rain brought hazardous driving warnings to 10 states, from Oklahoma to New York.

Heavy rains fell from the Ohio Valley to the cotton belt. Lexington, Ky., had 1.25 inches of rain early today. Paducah, Ky., measured 1.89 inches. Little Rock, Ark., had 2.95 inches of rain. Charleston, W. Va., reported 2.01 inches and Louisville, Ky., 2.14 inches.

Frank Ellis Takes New Federal Job

Frank Ellis, Administrative Assistant to Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield, has resigned to accept a top level position in the Department of Agriculture. Ellis has been with Congressman Stubblefield since his election three years ago.

Ellis is a brother of Mayor Holmes Ellis of Murray and Herman Kelley Ellis, local businessman.

He attended Murray State College and moved to Washington in 1935 where he accepted employment. Just before joining Congressman Stubblefield, Ellis was in the tobacco branch of the Department of Agriculture.

In his new position Ellis will deal with foods and will be part of a liaison link between the state department and the agriculture department.

Employed in Congressman Stubblefield's office also are Tom McElrath of Murray, Mrs. Jean McElrath and Mrs. Regina Swanner. No replacement for Mr. Ellis has been announced as yet.

Chief Robertson At Fire School

MEMPHIS, Feb. 27.—Chief Flavel M. Robertson of the Murray Fire Department is here attending the 24th annual Fire Department Instructors Conference in municipal auditorium, participating in a four day discussion of latest methods of fire prevention and fire fighting.

On this year's Conference program are such subjects as fighting gasoline bulk tank fires, super-market fire, excavation and control, and problems relating to fire department organization and management. Among other subjects, the Conference will discuss planning for safety in industrial plants and how fires can occur in coin operated laundry and dry cleaning establishments.

Also, a number of outdoor demonstrations of fire fighting methods and equipment are planned, including an actual demonstration of an underwater rescue of a victim in a submerged automobile.

Cincinnati had 1.53 inches.

The rains fed flood waters in Lowlands in Calloway County were flooded today with the Clark's River running far out of its banks. Most roads are open in the county with flooded limited primarily to low fields and other areas along the river.

With rain falling intermittently over the past five days with some periods of steady rain, the soil in the county is completely filled with water bringing about a high degree of runoff water.

West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and Arkansas. An ice jam on the Big Horn River caused flooding in Wyoming, and New Jersey reported a flood threat.

Flood waters were receding in West Virginia, but the Red Cross reported some 2,000 persons still homeless.

One Thousand Homeless

Some 1,000 persons were homeless in eastern Kentucky. Rivers were receding at Paintsville, Salsville and Hazard today, but other streams were rising, threatening 15 Kentucky families.

Doctors and nurses were rushing typhoid vaccine to Inez, Martin and Garrett, Ky., where wells were flooded. National Guardsmen were sent to Corbin, Jackson and Painesville, Ky. At Cadiz, Ky., the Little River flooded a pumping station and drinking water was rationed.

A hundred families were forced from their homes in Tennessee following 5 inches of rain in two days.

The Ohio River was reported at or above flood stage for 700 miles downstream from Gallipolis, Ohio. It was rising at the rate of half a foot an hour at Cincinnati, undulating some streets.

At Corydon, Ind., the swift-rising Little Indian Creek was receding after forcing five families from homes Tuesday.

The Kentucky River was scheduled to crest at Frankfort at 3:00 feet—seven feet above flood stage—today but only flooding of slum clearance areas was expected. Police at Bowling Green evacuated families this morning in an area near the rising Barren River, which had reached a point 28 feet above flood stage, the highest mark since 1912.

Water rationing was necessary at Cadiz where the Little River flooded the pumping station. Residents at Scottsville were asked to conserve water when the pumping station was submerged by Long Creek.

A crest of 65 feet on the lower gauge—10 feet above flood stage—was forecast at Louisville Saturday where the Ohio River has flooded some low areas.

The Ohio was expected to crest at Cincinnati at 58 to 59 feet Friday. Flood stage of 52 feet was reached early today. Floodwall pumps were turned on at Covington and Newport in northern Kentucky Tuesday.

Murray Toastmistress Club Holds Luncheon Meeting At the Collegiate Restaurant

The Murray Toastmistress Club held a luncheon meeting in the private dining room of the Collegiate Restaurant on Saturday, February 24, with Mrs. J. A. Outland giving the invocation and Mrs. Allen Russell leading in the pledge to the flag.

Mrs. Kenneth Palmer, president, welcomed the group and introduced a visitor, Mrs. Billy Tidwell. The topic mistress was Mrs. Outland who asked Mrs. Charles Ryan and Mrs. Russell for one minute talks on "Building Up Interest in Toastmistress Work."

The program was the second lesson in parliamentary procedure on main motions, resolutions, and subsidiaries which was presented by Mrs. Charles Ryan. Another lesson will be taught on this subject at the March meeting, Mrs. Russell noted.

One of the main items of business was the local speech contest. Mrs. C. C. Lowry was selected to represent the local club in Memphis in April. The winner of that contest will go to the Southeast Regional in Nashville May 19-20.

The Toastmistress membership drive is on. Mrs. Charles Ryan, club vice-president and membership chairman, cordially invites all interested persons to visit club meetings. Those interested in Toastmistress Club must visit three regular meetings to observe the educational program that the club offers before being eligible for membership.

The club will meet on the third Tuesday evening of each month for a dinner meeting at the Collegiate Restaurant at 6:30 p.m. Each member is asked to bring one or more visitors to the March 20th meeting. Any interested person is asked to phone Mrs. Palmer at 489-2481.

The closing thought was "There is so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us that it behooves any of us to find fault with the rest of us."

Mrs. Edgar Pride Opens Her Home For Lydian Meet

Mrs. Edgar Pride opened her lovely home on Fairlane Drive for the meeting of the Lydian Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church held on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The inspiring devotion was presented by Mrs. Hugh Farris. Preceding the talk by Mrs. Farris each member read a verse of scripture which had been printed on red paper hearts by Mrs. Amos McCarty.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, president, presided at the meeting. It was announced that the next class meeting will be on Monday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Hillard Rogers on Cardinal Drive.

Refreshments were served to the nineteen persons present by members of Group II, Mrs. McCarty, captain, and Group III, Mrs. Mac Thomas, Tarry, captain.

Weaving Workshop Held By Creative Arts Department

The Creative Arts Department of the Murray Woman's Club held its regular workshop meeting at the club house on Monday morning at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Alfred Wolfson, Mrs. Clet Peterson, and Mrs. M. F. Crass, Sr., directed the group in the lesson on weaving which was a continuation of the January workshop.

The chairman of the department, Mrs. Bill Warren, presided at the business session. Mrs. Wolfson announced that the special Art Train will come to Murray in April and the department will serve as hostesses.

Mrs. Henry Holton discussed the materials needed for the March lesson on oil painting.

The hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Robert Hahn, Mrs. A. W. Russell, and Mrs. Joe Baker Littleton.

Mrs. W. C. Easter Honored At Party At Adams' Home

Mrs. W. C. Easter was complimented with a going away party held at the beautiful home of Mrs. Nolan Adams, on Olive Street on Monday evening.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Robert Lowe, and Mrs. Tom Wells.

The honoree opened her many lovely gifts presented to her at the party. The hostesses served a delicious party plate of ham, sandwiches, brownies, nuts, and spiced tea to those present.

Attending the party were Mesdames Elster, Verlyn Roberts, Verne Kyle, Joe Pat Anderson, C. W. Cook, Colby Crawford, W. D. Shoemaker, Norman Klapp, Bell Ott, Anna Parker, Adams, Rowe, and Wills. Ricky and Rise Lowe, Suzanne and Theresa Adams, unable to attend but sending gifts were Mrs. James R. Lassiter, Mrs. Cleburne Adams, and Mrs. Ralph McCutcheon.

 "THIS is a bright and happy day in my life," Martin Whitfield told Lee Folsom as they drove along the highway. "Then Hilda likes Oakland?" asked Lee. "Oh, Hilda's delighted. And she's glad she's here to supervise the rest of the job," Martin chuckled. "And of course you're not!" Lee mocked him lightly. "I've missed her," said Martin gravely, and Lee's heart skipped a beat. They turned off the highway some little distance from the main entrance to Oakland. The drive before them was new and new, newly graveled and winding, determinedly among giant trees. "The men who cut the road thought I was mildly demoralized because I made them go around the trees instead of bulldozing them," he confessed. "But there's something in me that loves the sight of a tree being cut down or dug up by the roots unless it's absolutely necessary - and I always try to find out that it isn't." "I suppose the men with the bulldozers reminded you that you had more trees than anyone could need," she teased him. "Also, that cutting the ground around the trees made the operation much more expensive. And when even that didn't make me change my mind, they just accepted the fact that any city-dweller is a nut, especially if he's one of them Yankee-critters, and obeyed orders." Martin grinned. They were now in sight of the caretaker's cottage, and Lee cried out in delight. The neatly painted house stood behind a freshly painted white fence. The lawn had been weeded, seeded with grass, and the flower beds put in neat order. "I had no idea you'd accomplished this much!" Lee said as she got out of the car and walked beside him up to the house. "Why, it's lovely!" "Hilda likes it," Martin beamed happily, as though there were no more to be said on that subject. "Come on in. Sit on the porch. Several electricians were busy in the room, like a general commanding his troops, stood a tall, heavily built woman in an immaculate white uniform beneath a dark linen apron. Her hair was thick and golden, but streaked here and there with silver, and her plump face was marked with at least sixty years. Martin gave Lee a fleeting, amused glance and spoke aloud.

Lee looked up at him, her mirth-filled eyes daring him to deny it, as she said demurely, "Did you, Martin? Wouldn't it have been a little more considerate of you to have told me, too?" "I meant to," Martin began awkwardly. "Well, good! I'm glad you were going to let me in on your plans eventually, anyway," Lee told him with a trace of asperity, and turned back to Hilda. "When he said that you were fond enough of him to be willing to come here to live, I took it for granted you were his fiancée." Hilda smiled adoringly at Martin. "Since he was a small baby, so big," she held her hands a few inches apart, "I have taken care of him. I have been him and bring him up. He knows I will go anywhere, any time he asks me, if it will make him happy. But marry him? No, that I can not do. Lars would not like it." There was a merry twinkle in her eyes as she said it, and Martin explained to Lee, "Lars is Hilda's husband." And to Hilda, "Where is he, by the way?" Hilda made a gesture that took in the world outside. "You ask that, Mr. Martin, when you see all this beautiful land around us? And you know that since Lars was a young man in Sweden, he has wanted one thing: to grow fine vegetables and beautiful flowers and get his feet in the soil! So now he is out like a happy child, planning, looking, dreaming! Always in New York he dreamed of the country. And now, here at Oakland, all his dreams are coming true!" "Mine, too, Hilda, I hope," said Martin, and looked with delight at the soft flush that spread over Lee's face. One of the workmen attracted Hilda's attention, and Martin drew Lee out with him into the brilliant noonday warmth. For a moment they stood side by side on the steps of the cottage, looking out over the rolling sweep of meadow and pasture and orchard. After a long moment Martin said tentatively, "I believe we planned a picnic lunch?" "That's right; we did, didn't we?" Lee answered cheerily. "And I know just the spot for it. Down across the terrace where the creek runs beneath the willows, there's a perfect picnic spot."

There was now the faintest possible tension between them, and Martin, aware of it, merely smiled faintly as he went to the car and got the picnic hamper and followed her along the narrow, winding path that led across the terrace. What other decision can Lee make now? The story concludes here tomorrow.

CARD OF THANKS

Words can not express our appreciation of the kindness and sympathy shown to us in the passing of our dear husband and father, Toy Garland. We especially thank the many friends, neighbors, and relatives for the flowers and wonderful food, the expressions of love you showed in our time of sorrow can never be forgotten. We also thank the nurses, doctors, Rev. D. W. Billington, Rev. Charles Smith, and the Max H. Churchhill Funeral Home. May God bless you all in our prayer. The family of Toy Garland. Don't fear you'll never see me again. For this I know is not true. We'll meet again on that judgment day. The Lord and you and me. We'll be happier in our heavenly home. Far happier there you see, When we all get together. The Lord and you and me. Don't cry because I left you, It's only for awhile. Someday the Lord will come and take you home with him. And we'll all be together again. You and me and Him. The Lord will drive our troubles away. Only happiness will be left. Behind those pearly gates will be. The Lord and you and me.

Henry Clay, Lexington Dunbar Favored In District Play Tonite

by United Press International
 Henry Clay, the only team to whip top-ranked St. Xavier during the regular season, and Dunbar, runner-up to Ashland in the finals of the state tournament last year, will be favored in district tournament action tonight. Henry Clay meets Lexington Catholic, Dunbar tilts with Lafayette and Lexington Douglas faces Bryan Station in a triple header of the 43rd District at Lexington. Henry Clay and Dunbar are expected to advance to the district semi-finals Friday night. Ashland rolled over Wurtland, 90-43, Tuesday night in the 64th District tournament. The Tomcats slipped to 11th in this week's UPI high school ratings while St. Xavier, favored to win the state tournament, retained its top spot. Seneca, tied with Allen County for second spot in the UPI ratings, disposed of Eastern, 63-41, in the 28th District. Upsets came in the 21st District where St. Augustine surprised Greensburg, 53-51, and in the 23rd District where Elizabethtown fell before little Lymdvale, 37-34. Newport Catholic became the first team to clinch a regional tournament berth by beating Bellevue, 73-56, in the semi-finals of the 35th District. Newport meets Dayton in the other semi-final tonight. Lowes, ranked 7th in the UPI ratings this week, stopped Wingo, 83-47, in the 3rd District. Corbin fell a 37-51, victim to
