FILL 'ER UP—The gasoline war in Miami, Fla., finds a Sinclair tank truck filling up at a Gulf station because Gulf was retailing lower than Sinclair dealers could buy wholesale. Some stations went as low as 19 cents for regular.

WATER, WATER, WATER

IN ROCHESTER, MINN., receding waters of the Zumbro River left these big chunks of ice in the residential district. Worst flood since 1951. That hose is pumping water from basement.

IN MARSHALLTOWN, IA., real estate sales are slow where the Iowa River has spewed over its banks. Mrs. Pauline Flanders and family planned to stay in house, flood or not.

IN DAVIS, S.D., the overflowing Vermillion River swept right through town, and the flood crest had not yet been reached when this aerial photo was made. Traffic still could move.

FRONTIZI Supporters of Argentina's deposed President Arturo Frondizi light a bonfire in Buenos Aires' Avenida de Mayo in protest against the military's actions in toppling Frondizi.

Seasons Set For Hunting Small Game

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Hunting seasons for small game and deer were set at a meeting of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission held today at Frankfort.

As in the past, the season on quail, rabbit and furbearers will open on the third Thursday in November, the 15th, through January 14. The deer and possession limits will be set at a future meeting of the Commission.

The season for bow and arrow hunting, which opens in designated areas of the state on Oct. 1 and continues through Oct. 31, while the gun season, a four day affair, will open on Nov. 7 and continue through Nov. 10. The areas to be open will be announced at a future date.

The grouse season opens on Dec. 1 and continues through Jan. 29. Season on the squares again was split with eastern and western dates differing. The eastern area of the season opens on Aug. 26 and continues through Oct. 31 and reopens on Nov. 15 and continues through Dec. 7. For the western section the season opens on Aug. 19 and continues through Oct. 31 and reopens on Nov. 15 and continues through Nov. 26.

In addition to the regular furbearers season two other dates were announced for coon and opossum hunters. A training season, during which coons and opossums may not be taken, opens on Sept. 1 and continues through Oct. 15 and reopens on Jan. 14 and continues through Feb. 28, while a shakedown season, where coons and opossums may be taken by dog only, opens on Oct. 19 and continues through Nov. 14.

The Commission also opened a 30 mile section of the Cumberland River from Dycusburg to the Ohio River, to commercial fishing with gill and trammel nets with a minimum mesh of three and one-half inches. Also opened to commercial fishing was Rough River up to Dundee, Ky. All waters in the state open to commercial fishing also were opened on a year round basis to bow and arrow hunting. By regulation the commission reduced the size of shotguns to be used on outboard boats from 10 to not more than 6 HP for Green Lake. Another regulation was enacted that all persons who propagate fish must have a livebait dealers license if they sell the fish or use them in pay lakes and all transporters who sell fish must have a live bait dealers license.

IN MASS. RACE — Newest famous name in U.S. senate race in Massachusetts is that of H. Stuart Hughes (above), 46-year-old Harvard law professor and grandson of the late Charles Evans Hughes. Hughes was Chief Justice of the U.S. from 1930 to 1938.

'BEST FLYING I'VE EVER DONE', said Richard Ostow after making this wing-crumpling landing on Sepulveda Boulevard in the San Fernando Valley outside Los Angeles. Neither he nor his three passengers were anything but shook up. The plane's carburetor iced up (over Los Angeles?) and the engine conked out.

order they make soups superb. To leave things as they are, they like to add a dash of milk, a bit of that, and give a dash their own special touch of flavor. It's true, of everything they whip up—even convenience foods.

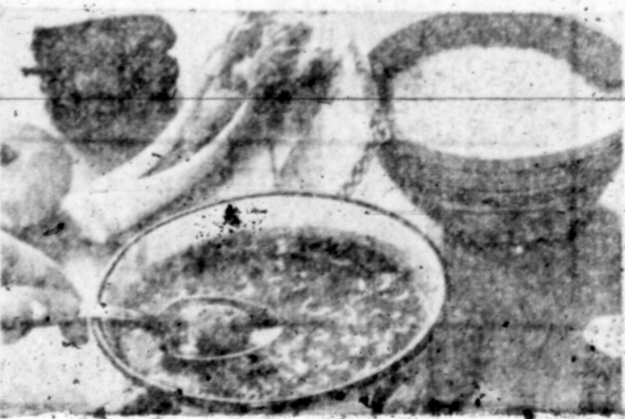

Ad Creative Cooks
But, praise be, wondrous working mixes and packaged soups can save a creative cook time and effort, especially when soup's on! Today's recipes, for example, feature such basics as soup mixes and instant mashed potatoes. They've been doctored up to give a gourmet touch and presto!—in short, cooking

CHICKEN CHOWDER
1/2 c. chopped onions
1/2 c. chopped celery
1/2 c. diced carrots
1 tsp. butter
1 (12 1/2-oz.) can chicken broth
1/2 tsp. salt
dash of pepper
1 envelope instant mashed potatoes
1 (6-oz.) can diced cooked chicken
2 1/2 c. milk
Sauté onions, celery and carrots in butter until onions and celery are transparent but not browned. Add chicken broth, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until vegetables are thoroughly cooked—about 10 min.

Stir in mashed potatoes. Add chicken. Add milk to desired consistency, stirring to blend. Heat thoroughly and serve. Makes 3 servings.

TOMATO MEATBALL SOUP
1 pkg. tomato soup mix
4 c. cold water
1/2 c. finely chopped celery
1/2 c. finely chopped onion
2 tsp. finely-chopped green pepper
3 tsp. rice
1 lb. ground chuck meat
1/2 tsp. salt
dash of pepper
Empty soup mix into saucepan. Gradually stir in water. Heat and continue stirring until soup comes to boil.
Add vegetables and rice. Simmer, uncovered, 20 min., stirring occasionally.
Combine meat and seasonings. Mix thoroughly. Shape into tiny meatballs. Add to soup. Poach gently about 5 min. Serves 4.

CHEESE SOUP
2 tsp. (1/2 pkg.) onion soup mix
1 c. boiling water
1/2 tsp. butter or margarine
2 tsp. finely-grated cheese
1 c. milk
1/2 c. grated cheese
1/2 tsp. salt
dash of pepper
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
Stir soup mix into boiling water. Simmer 10 min.
In saucepan, melt butter or margarine. Sauté carrot until tender, about 3 to 5 min. Blend in flour, then soup mixture. Stir until thickened. Add milk, cheese, seasonings.
Heat, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Serves 4.

TINY, WELL-SEASONED meatballs are poached in soup made with vegetables, rice and mix with tomato flavoring.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 148 The pocket-sized paperback editions of classic or popular works had their origins before the Civil War, and not, as some careless commentators have stated, in the 1920s. The steam-powered printing press and the mechanization of the binding trade after 1840 resulted in hundreds of different reprints and original books being issued at 25 cents or less via railway "news-butcher" and other outlets across the country.

The term "yellow journalism," applied first to Joseph Pulitzer's New York World, was taken from the phrase "yellowback literature," given much earlier by Edgar Allan Poe to loosely written, often sensational books. Commonly, these had a strawboard binding covered by yellow glazed paper.

"Dime novel" denominated such literature in popular phraseology after Beadle & Co. (later Beadle and Adams) started a series under that name in 1860 and made itself a predominant publisher of paperbacks.

Erastus Beadle stimulated mass popularity for his products in 1861 by donating thousands of copies for soldiers' recreational reading. In 1862, Beadle novels were booming in favor both on war and home fronts. Beadle issued some non-fiction works in the same format; significantly his 1862 publications included "Union Song Book," "A Soldier's Guide to Fensons," and "Baseball Book."

Authors of bestseller dime novels in 1862 included Ann S. Stephens, Edward S. Ellis, Rose Kennedy, Metta V. Victor. The latter penned the first Beadle novel with a Civil War theme, "The Unionist's Daughter, A Tale of the Rebellion in Tennessee."

Mrs. Stephens, a native of Connecticut who edited a national magazine at 22, was a bestseller in hardcover books before Beadle secured her as one of his stars. One of her works, "The Old Homestead," was made the basis of a play almost as enduring as "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

—CLARK KINNAIRD

This (right) was one of five books by Mrs. Stephens (above) issued by Beadle in 1862. Its heroine was in the Mormon trek from Nauvoo, Ill., to the new Zion at Great Salt Lake.

ESTHER: A STORY OF THE OREGON TRAIL

Milk Program Pays Off For Breathitt

John Moser, president of American Dairy Association of Kentucky, today asked this paper's cooperation in the promotion of interest in the Special Milk Program.

"Unfortunately," said Moser, "all schools, nursery schools, child-care centers, settlement houses, summer camps, and similar non-profit institutions eligible to take in the program have not availed themselves of this excellent opportunity."

He asked the parent-teacher associations, service and civic clubs and other similar organizations work toward the full use of the Special Milk Program in their communities.

Moser cited a current article by Earl Ruby, Courier-Journal Sports Editor, which he feels is one of the finest recommendations for the milk program which can be given. It refers to interviews with school personnel during the recent school basketball tournaments.

(quoting Fairce Woods, basketball coach at Breathitt County High) — "Basketball is the breath of life in many ways for Breathitt County High. Basketball, and the Milk Program.

"Basketball shows a profit of about $3,000 a year. We put this in the general school fund and use it for books for the library instruments for the Science Department.

equipment for all physical education classes, and we even repair a leak in the roof or broken windows occasionally.

"The Milk Program - have you ever heard about the Milk Program?"

"I've worked as hard as any man could to develop the children in our school," said Fairce. "But what I have been able to do is nothing compared with the Milk Program."

"Breathitt County at one time had the highest tuberculosis rate in the whole state. Our kids were 'rawny and weak. We had a hard time finding boys with stamina enough to stand the gauntlet of time basketball."

"Then the Government set up this program about seven years ago. The milk costs 5-1 cents a half-pint. The Government underwrites four cents of it and our school (partly through basketball receipts) underwrites another half-cent. This allows us to sell the milk to all students at one cent a half-pint."

"Each child drinks a half-pint a lunch. Then we have a milk break at 2:10 when all are encouraged to drink another half-pint."

"We encourage the basketball players to drink milk at lunch and at the milk break. Then, after practice, we open up the ice chest and let'em drink all they want. All told, we serve more than 1,700 half-pints of milk a day. It's the greatest thing that ever hit Breathitt County."

"In his column on the Breathitt County High School, Ruby goes on to tell about the school and to further quote Fairce Woods on the milk program as follows:

"Every year for four years they (Breathitt county high) have won more than 36 games. We pack Lee's Junior College Gym, which seats 2,300 for every contest. And with each win I give thanks for that milk program."

Since 1954, the Department of Agriculture has operated this Special Milk Program to increase milk consumption among children attending schools of high school grades and under. During the past two years, non-profit child-care institutions such as settlement houses, summer camps, child-care centers and similar institutions have also been eligible for participation.

The program has proved to be an effective means of encouraging more children to drink more milk.

The program has been improved and simplified for those schools and child-care institutions in which the children do not purchase milk as a separately-priced item, but receive milk along with other food and services provided by the school or institution for a set tuition charge or similar fee.

John Moser asks that anyone interested in further information on the milk program write to American Dairy Association of Kentucky, 3412 Rowena Road.

BILLS SIGN BROWN
BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League Wednesday signed John Henry Brown to a 1962 contract. Brown, a 1958 UCLA graduate, was a defensive halfback with Grand Rapids of the United Football League the last two years.

SIGNS WITH STAMPEDEERS
CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — The Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference today announced the signing of tackle Pat Holmes of Texas Tech.

The 6-foot, 5-inch, 245-pounder was the third round draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

TO EXAMINE SHOULDER
BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Fisher, the Baltimore Orioles' ailing pitcher, will have his sore right shoulder examined today by a Baltimore orthopedic surgeon.

The 24-year-old right-hander decided on the stadium Wednesday when he complained of severe pains after attempting to pitch batting practice before the Orioles' game with the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, Fla.

FINED $500 — The Rev. John Felt, 28, Roman Catholic priest in Edinburg, Tex., was fined $500 on a plea of no defense to charge of aggravated assault on Maria America Guerra in Edinburg's Sacred Heart Church. His trial in Austin, Tex., last September on a charge of assault with intent to rape resulted in a hung jury.

THE DOCTOR KNOWS BEST

In a speech delivered in Denver, Colo., Sen. M. Bailey (Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, unleashed a furious and irresponsible attack against the medical profession in the United States. His bitter charges...

Doctors who oppose the administration's medical bill are simply doing their professional duty. The Kennedy-supported King-Anderson bill is bad medicine for the country. And if doctors speak out...

Socialized medicine is not some antique bogaroo. It is a backward step in the history of medical care for mankind. Federal control of medicine means poorer medicine. One has only to look at Britain's tragic experience with socialized medicine to realize that it is a terrible folly.

Dr. J. R. Seeg, a Harvard-trained medical economist in Britain, recently warned of a breakdown of the National Health Service. Dr. D. S. Lees, another British economist, echoed this warning, saying that the "most acute danger of the National Health Service is that it will prevent the emergency of more effective methods of medical care."

But if bureaucracy is to spread like a plague, replacing private initiative and individual decision with federal uniformity and red tape, then standards of medical care and research are certain to decline.

Milwaukee Braves Can Stop Worrying, Eddie Mathews Is Hitting The Ball In Old Style

By JOE SARGIS United Press International

Milwaukee Braves fans can stop worrying — Eddie Mathews is hitting the ball assup in his accustomed style. Mathews, who can join Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Ted Williams, Mel Ott, Lou Gehrig and Stan Musial in baseball's 400-home run club by hitting 30 more this season, had been in a severe batting slump all spring.

The 31-year-old All-Star third baseman, in fact, had been batting at a meager .216 clip with no home runs while the Braves were playing their spring exhibition games in Florida. Then the team took off for a series of games in Arizona before opening the 1962 season, and Mathews immediately found his batting eye in the desert air of the Southwest. On Tuesday, he came out of the slump by banging two homers and a double in three at-bats — his first extra base blows of the spring.

Hits 450-Foot Homer Just to prove that he finally had recovered that home run groove, Eddie thundered a 450-foot smash over the right center field barrier at Scottsdale, Ariz., Wednesday to pace the Braves to a 9-2 win over the Boston Red Sox.

that has been wearing out the ball this spring, rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to nip the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-5. Four singles and three walks sparked the rally. Rookie Ken Hubbs and George Altman hit early home runs, while Tommy Davis, Andy Carey and Lee Walls hit Los Angeles homers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates closed out their spring stay at Fort Myers, Fla., with a 2-0 win over the Washington Senators. Jack Kralick and newcomer Dick Stigman collaborated on a six-hit shutout as the Minnesota Twins beat the Baltimore Orioles, 5-0.

FARM FACTS

BURLEY TOBACCO STATISTICS. Everybody in Kentucky is jubilant about the income derived from the 1961 burley tobacco crop. It brought nearly a quarter billion new dollars into the economy of the state which, according to them, generated over a billion dollars worth of business and favorably affected almost every person in Kentucky. The 375 million pounds of tobacco was a raw product created from the fertility of the soil and by the labor of Kentucky people. No other single industry brings that much new money into the state. Farmer's income from tobacco, like other cash he receives, is quickly spent for machinery, fertilizer, home furnishings, autos, debts, taxes and the like. It soon trickles down through every cash register and bank in the state. Burley tobacco has not always been so good to the state's economy. Just thirty years ago Kentucky had a bumper crop of tobacco, but prices were so low that many farmers, as well as other related businesses, faced financial ruin. The 305 million pounds of burley produced in 1931 brought only slightly over $25 million, a mere ten per cent of last year's crop value. Two years later, in 1933, production control measures were put into effect and prices started on their upward trend. Since then the government's tobacco program has been so successful that at each producer referendum, farmers have voted almost unanimously for its continuance. Looking back thirty years and comparing the 1931 Kentucky burley crop with that of 1961 we find these interesting figures: (Thirty years ago 365,000 acres were used for the crop — last year only 209,000 acres were needed; in 1931 the yield was 835 pounds per acre — last year it was about 1,800 pounds; the 1931 crop sold for an average of 8.6 cents per pound and brought a gross of $25,211,000 — the 1961 crop averages 66.5 cents per pound and brought $249,370,000.) The control program has induced efficiency in production methods because the farmers have endeavored to get maximum yields on their allotted acres. The acres used to produce tobacco in Kentucky has dropped 46 per cent since 1931. But, yield has gone up 215 per cent; total production is up about 23 per cent and gross income has increased almost ten fold. Production costs have also increased enormously so net profits are not as great as many non-producers assume. Farmers have learned from the tobacco program that they do not sell "acres" — they sell "pounds". They have also learned that the production of unneeded surplus only results in progressively lower prices and profits. Almost every grower would like to plant more acres but he knows that if he and other growers return to uncontrolled production, prices and profits would drop to ruinous levels.

One hundred and twenty counties are now participating in the area brucellosis program. It was reported at a meeting of the state brucellosis committee Monday. By December 31, the state goal is 116 modified certified brucellosis counties.

Fifteen counties have been certified as brucellosis-free counties. Six of the counties were recommended for recertification during the first two months of this year. Dr. R. W. Hammermeister, state veterinarian, also pointed out that the tentative schedules of fairs and livestock shows indicate that more exhibitors will be fitting and showing livestock this year. He urges them to make plans to obtain records of tests well in advance so that health certificates can be obtained.

Meetings of the Farm Bureau tobacco committee and the state mastitis committee were also held this week. Two $1,000 scholarships will again be administered this year by the Kentucky Farm Bureau. For the past nine years, Winn-Dixie Stores have given $1,000 scholarships to 16 sons and daughters of Farm Bureau members. Each applicant must be nominated by the county Farm Bureau president, and there is no limit to the number of applicants from each county. Young people receiving the scholarships must enter college as a freshman not later than the fall semester of 1962. All entries must be submitted before June 30. Application blanks and a copy of the rules can be obtained by writing to Jess Wilkins, Young People's Department, Kentucky Farm Bureau, 120 South Hubbard Lane, Louisville 7, Kentucky.

Kennedy searching his pockets. "How are you senator?" Garden asked. Kennedy responded with a request to borrow a dime to call his summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Soil Conservation East Fork of Clark's River watershed directors from Henry County, Tennessee met with the Kentucky directors recently to work out plans for building an additional floodwater retarding structure. The proposed structure will be located near Puryear, Tenn. It will cover approximately 32 acres. The Kentucky directors approved the request as it added no cost to the Ky part of the watershed and the lake will help reduce flooding in the upper reaches of the river. Ernie Sheridan has requested assistance from the Calloway Soil Conservation District in planning treatment of some gullied areas on his farm near Coldwater. The SCS recommended leveling with a bulldozer and seeding to fescue and mulching. There are many gullied areas such as this that may be treated this way while the more severely gullied areas should be planted to trees. We will be glad to work with any farmer on this type of problem. The ACP will cost share on this type of work if it is properly planned and executed. will be used for pasture. The tobacco will be grown on level land that does not erode. Corn and hay will be produced on eroded land. Ernest Madrey stopped by the SCS office recently to ask for advice on repairing grass waterways damaged this winter. Washes or gullies that appear should be repaired by sodding. Cedar brush, sacks of manure, leaves, or other material that will check water and cause it to deposit silt can be used. By all means some additional seed and fertilizer should be used. 300 lbs. of a high analysis fertilizer per acre should be used as top dressing. The SCS survey crew from our Mayfield office is now surveying structure No. 7 in the West Fork Watershed. The dam for this lake is located on the farm of watershed director C. O. Jones.

Waterways, drainage and pasture improvement have been planned on the Floyd McKenzie farm near Martin's Chapel. According to latest count the tree planting is nearing 300,000 this year in Calloway County. This doubled the number set last year.

THESE BONES RISE AGAIN—The lower left palate of a sub-human creature which lived 14,000,000 years ago, discovered by British anthropologist Dr. L. S. B. Leakey on an orange farm in Kenya, Africa, is shown with present-day human teeth for comparison. The find is a kind of "missing link" between the Proconsul, a primitive ape of 25,000,000 years ago, and the Zinjanthropus, the earliest known tool-making man of 1,700,000 years ago. The ages are determined atomically. This "missing link" was not a man, but he was heading toward man, said Dr. Leakey. Photo copyright National Geographic Society.

A Western Historical Novel THE BURNWOOD MEN

By Kenneth MacCarr

"And that's a fact," Tam said, frowning. They had been riding for more than an hour when Colly said up his hand for a halt. Robert Laurier came riding back at the best pace his weary mount could muster. "M'sieu's, far ahead, a wagon," the Métais said. "Moving northeast at a good pace, a dozen or more riders with it. Everyone in great haste." "Think we could catch them?" Colly asked. Laurier shook his head. "The party move like the norca's are fresh. With these tired beasts — he shrugged fatalistically — we cannot even narrow the gap. M'sieu's, I think those men, he riding toward our camp of the Métais." Colly swore, his profanity harsh and sincere. "What mischief are they trying now?" he asked. "I do not know," Gabriel Valler answered him. "But we must ride hard to the camp. We must out straight across." "That will take us right by the Hay Lake camp," Tam warned. "Tam, we can't help that. Got to do what we must," Colly said, and touched spurs to his horse. They rode with rifle and pistol ready. The puzzle deepened, for even as they neared the hostile camp the ridges and the swales were empty. It gave Tam an uneasy feeling, as if Gabriel Valler dimly sensed the danger of the land. When they crossed the tracks of the wagon and its outriders, Gabriel Valler dismounted. He fingered the marks in the sod. When he was in the saddle again, he said, "It is ver' much like the track of the first of Striker's wagons, the one that escaped us last night." "Then he still has guns," Tam said. "And will use them," Valler said. Tam was surprised to know that he was on familiar ground. He had ridden this way once with Stephanie, and now he recognized features of the terrain, small marks, a wash here, an old bush there. The Métais would laugh at such a simple matter, but Tam, secretly pleased with himself, he was not the roadrunner he had been called. He came up out of the grass. He went on, waving his hand. He was still moving toward them when their rifles came up. He called out, "unsmiling with his rifle. Smoke jettied from the muzzles of the soldiers' guns, and lead snapped past him, to hit the Métais. He stopped, only then realizing that he was their target. Dove Demarest has new reason to fear she's not going to live another day. Continue the story tomorrow.

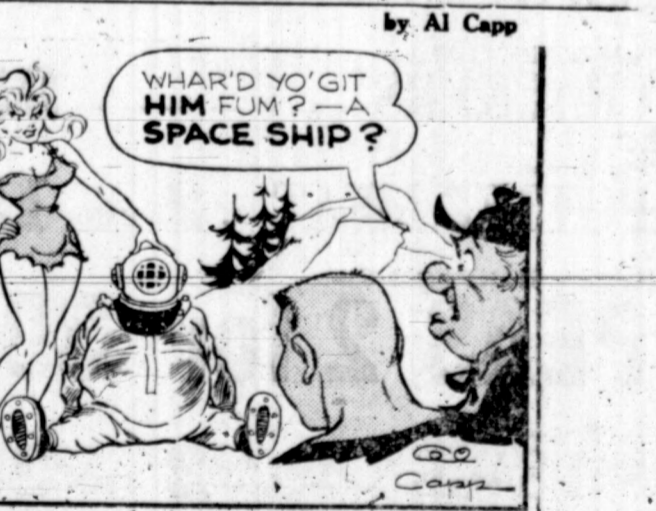

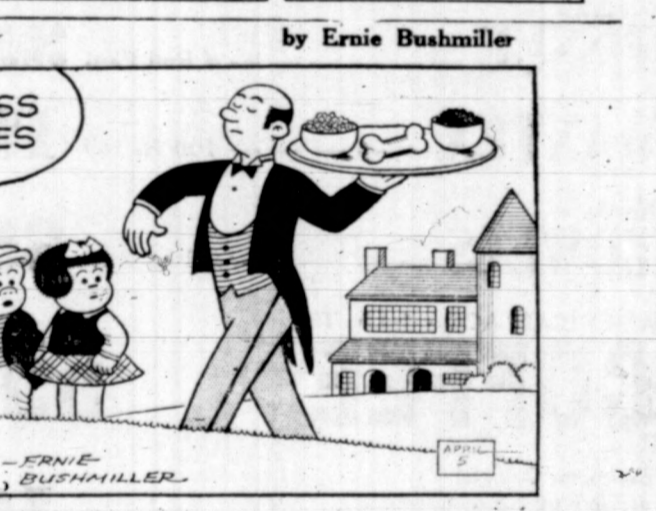

EAST COAST 'LOST'—The U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey reports it has "lost" the Atlantic coast from Cape Cod to Miami, Fla. The Atlantic storm, March 7-9 changed every bay and inlet for a thousand miles—shoals have disappeared, islands have shifted, inlets have filled. Makes the biggest map revision in 34 years.

PEANUTS WHEN I LOOK FORWARD TO A BALL GAME, I DON'T WANT TO BE DISAPPOINTED. I DON'T SEE WHY A LITTLE RAIN SHOULD KEEP EVERYBODY AWAY! IF I CAN SHOW UP TO PLAY, I DON'T SEE WHY THE OTHERS CAN'T! MAYBE I'M JUST MORE DETERMINED THAN THEY ARE. MAYBE I'M JUST MORE STUBBORN! MAYBE I'M JUST MORE STUPID!

"PROGRESS REPORT"—The National People's Congress scheduled for late this month in Peiping has a review of Communist progress in Southeast Asia on its agenda, and from the looks of this map, the subject can provide plenty to talk about. Communism must win by force of arms, Peiping has been telling Moscow. (Central Press)
