Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Noticed in the paper yesterday that there are 25 million cats in the United States. For some people this is 25 million cats too many. We don't mind them though.

Nore Winter met a lot of folks in high places on his trip to Washington, D. C. He was pictured with Senators Cooper and Murton.

We got one thing straight yesterday. John Irwin is a tobacco buyer. We've been under the impression that he graded tobacco in some way, for the past few years.

John represents several companies at the various markets in Kentucky, Virginia and elsewhere.

We have never seen so many possible candidates come out with damaging statements as they have in recent weeks.

Goldwater came out with his idea to sell the TVA and now Nixon says that Khrushchev is the most able all-around world leader. Both men qualify their statements to some degree, but most folks will forget this and concentrate on the original statement.

Seems as though these candidates would refrain from making any statement which could be used against them.

What with the automobile accidents which claim so many lives on holidays, the archbishop of the future may well describe our national holidays as celebrations where people smash their heads against the windshield of their cars.

Bobby had a hard time pronouncing the letter "r". His teacher gave him a sentence to learn: "Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs for rousing the rabbit so rare." A few days later asked to repeat the sentence he came up with: "Bob gave Dick a poke in the side for not cooking the bunny enough."

The person who called in the bomb scare at Corvette Lanes last night is subject to a jail sentence. Some of the sideliights he may have not anticipated in his big joke include the halting of a man's business, the confusion which results in a bowling league night being disrupted, and the possibility that someone could have been injured while rushing from the lanes. There is also the possibility that the concentration of police in the area would have given thieves a good opportunity in some other part of town.

Dr. Hogancamp Is Teen Club Speaker

Dr. Thomas Hogancamp, head of the business department of Murray State College, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Calloway County Teen 4-H Club at its recent meeting held at the City Hall.

The speaker's talk concerned the careers of youth today and Dr. Hogancamp stressed the importance of a college education in the business world.

Miss Connie Hopkins introduced the speaker. Miss Carolyn Murdock, president, presided and gave a report on the District 4-H Council meeting. She said Calloway County will be in charge of the horse show at the Purchase District Fair and also the district talent show on April 4.

Glen Sims announced that the District Senior Rally would be held at the Purchase District Fairgrounds at Mayfield and that the automotive Project would start about the middle of February.

The pledge to the American flag was led by Miss Connie Evans and the pledge to the 4-H flag was led by Miss Debbie Galloway. The roll call and minutes were read by Miss Marsha Hendon.

Miss Kathleen Maskey, reporter, said that it was announced that Tommy Lassiter attended the Youth Power Conference in Lexington last week.

New Plant Is Set For Elkton, Kentucky

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The Rockwell Manufacturing Co. today announced plans to erect a new plant in Elkton, Ky., to manufacture plastic and other types of parts for Rockwell products.

The President, C. C. Shenk said construction would be completed and production started this year.

The Elkton plant will use many of the facilities of the firm's plant at Paducah, Ky., which is now under construction.

Shenk said the new plant would be started with a limited number of personnel, but that employees and production would expand as need arose.

Rockwell makes gas, water and petroleum metering devices and controls, taxi and parking meters, valves and power tools.

Charlie Lassiter Introduces Bill

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Small loan companies would be prohibited from charging more than $15 per $100 on that part of the cash advance not exceeding $150 for loans payable over a one-year period, under a bill introduced Tuesday by Rep. B. E. Billings, D-Clark.

The bill requires charges of no more than $10 per $100 on that part of the cash advance exceeding $150 but not exceeding $600; $7 per $100 on that part of the cash advance exceeding $600 but not exceeding $800, and would prohibit any amount from being paid, deducted or received in advance.

A bill to change the membership of the Commission of Public and Wildlife Resources from nine to five, not more than three of whom may be of the same political party, and providing for the governor to appoint the commissioner of the department, was introduced by Rep. Howard Hunt, D-Boyle.

Another bill relating to strip mining was introduced by Rep. Fred Wallace, R-Muhlenberg.

Billings offered a second bill that would permit the state auditor of public accounts to audit the accounts of fifth and sixth class cities at the request of the governing bodies of those cities.

Any county fiscal court could build and repair sidewalks along public roads where the need exists for the safety of school children under a bill introduced by Rep. Charles Lassiter, D-Calloway, if the governmental agency having jurisdiction over the road approves.

Rep. John Isler, D-Kenton, offered a measure that would prohibit treating horse associations from hiring, during any racing season, more than 15 per cent of its total employees from persons who are not residents of Kentucky.

Just How Important Is Tobacco Industry To The State Economy?

By Kentucky Bankers Association

"Tobacco Troubles. What affect the recent report on smoking will have on the consumption of Kentucky's number one crop is not known. Some are prone to pass it off lightly, saying it's just another scare report and cigarette usage will continue to increase. Others consider it as a beginning of an intensive drive, based on health and moral issues, against cigarette smoking. Growers are deeply concerned about the situation. First, they are already faced with a surplus and lower incomes in 1964 caused by extraordinary high yields, and now they fear a straining market outlet.

Few can comprehend the importance of the tobacco industry to the state of Kentucky. It accounts for over 40% of cash receipts from farm marketing and brings near three hundred million dollars of new money into the state. This is only the beginning of the impact of tobacco on this state's economy. If, according to economic theory, this basic income turns over 3 times, it accounts for a billion and one-half dollars worth of business. Almost every Kentuckian is benefited because this amount of money touches almost every school, church and business in the state. Values of much of Kentucky's farm land is determined by tobacco bases and prices. State and federal taxes accruing from tobacco amounts to 3 times that received for the crop by producers.

The use of tobacco is not wholly bad. Millions of smokers get pleasure and satisfaction from it. For many people it soothes nerves, lessens tensions and provides comfort. Efforts to control or prohibit cigarette smoking might cause an increase in habits more detrimental and deadly than smoking. Excessive drinking causes alcoholism and automobiles, improperly used, probably caused more untimely deaths than any other machine. The list is endless.

The solution to the tobacco problem is not one of government regulation. It is much simpler than that—it is a development of a safe cigarette. With all the know how of American scientists it is inconceivable that a cigarette cannot be developed which will give all the pleasure, satisfaction, and comfort to the users that they now derive from smoking, but devoid of the elements injurious to health. This is a problem which merits the combined efforts of the state and fed-

Firemen Are Called Three Times Today

The Murray Fire Department was called to a house fire on East Pine Street this morning at 9:25. It is reported that the fire was centered around a chimney and some damage resulted from the blaze.

At 8:30 this morning the firemen were called to 404 South 10th Street to extinguish a grass fire.

The firemen were called out again at 10:30 to extinguish a grass fire on South 10th Street.

Georgetown May Take Over Bethel College

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bethel College's Board of Trustees voted Tuesday night to invite Georgetown College to take over operation of the school as a western Kentucky branch.

Georgetown, according to trustee president H. Curtis Irwin, has made no indication that it feels the action is feasible.

The Rev. Irwin, pastor of a Greenville Baptist church, said Georgetown, President Dr. Robert Mills also recognized that it would take a $2 million investment in a campus for Bethel.

Bomb Scare Empties Local Bowling Lanes

The business of Corvette Lanes was disrupted last night when an unknown person called the lanes and reported that a bomb had been planted somewhere in the establishment.

Next Wilson, counterman at the firm, reported that the person called him and told him of the bomb. He reported immediately to Mike Stranak, the manager, and Mr. Stranak called police.

Mr. Stranak then emptied the bowling lanes, asking the customers and spectators to leave quietly and quickly. The lanes were emptied as police and firemen arrived on the scene.

Fire Chief Flavil Robertson conducted a locker by locker search of the lanes while police checked any other spot where a bomb could conceivably be placed. The lockers are rented by bowlers to store bowling balls and shoes.

Although it was generally conceded that the call was the work of a crank, firemen and police still had to follow the precaution of checking out the entire building. Rooms in the large building which houses the bowling lanes, were also contacted and informed as to what had taken place.

The ladies' Magic Tri Bowling League had bowled two games and bowlers were in the midst of the third game when the scare came. All lanes were full when the announcement was made on the public address system of the business.

Some confusion will result, but the final game will probably be played over.

Wilson said that the person calling refused to identify himself and spoke as if he meant business.

Police Trooper Guy Turner also arrived on the scene and assisted in the search.

Bert Combs Makes Easy Transition

By THOMAS CRAWFORD

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Former Kentucky Gov. Bert Combs made a quick and comfortable transition from the political blue grass of Kentucky to the academic atmosphere of Amherst's snowy village green.

The Democrat who garnered the largest plurality ever received by a gubernatorial candidate in Kentucky concluded his first two days as professor of public affairs at the University of Massachusetts today.

His assessment: "I fit in pretty well."

There were perhaps two reasons: —Most of his students are Kentucky Democrats.

Professor Combs thinks the gulf between politics and the academic world is narrowing.

"Colleges are becoming more practical and government is becoming more academic," he asserted.

Combs will teach two classes each Monday and two each Tuesday under a Ford Foundation grant designed to spur interest in local, state and national politics.

After four classes, the new professor found his students "interested," "reasonably well informed" and "rather political minded."

Combs has chosen as topics for coverage during the one semester course: The question of presidential succession, civil rights on a state level, and the right to work laws.

The former governor, who was precluded by law from succeeding himself last year after one term, plans to commute to Massachusetts from Kentucky the rest of the semester. His intention is to fly north Sunday evenings and return Tuesdays.

This week, however, he will not return to his Lexington law practice so early Thursday night. Combs will receive an award for his contributions while governor to the Joseph B. Kennedy Jr. Foundation for Handicapped Children.

Leaf Average Takes Drop

The Murray Tobacco market sold 400,000 pounds of dark-fired tobacco on Tuesday for a total amount of $149,578.26, according to Ollie Barnett, government reporter for the Murray Market.

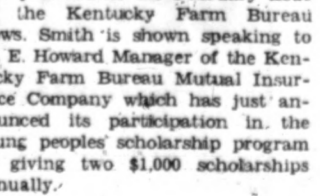

Barnett said the average for the four Murray floors was $37.33 for Tuesday. This was $2.06 lower than the average on Monday and 77 cents lower than the average for the first five days of the Murray sales last week.

Evansville Still On Top In UPI Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Evansville, which faces its seventh test of the season against major college competition tonight, completed its second month atop the United Press International small college ratings today.

Youngstown, despite having its 16-game winning streak snapped by Central State (Ohio), continued to gain in the coaches' ratings, replacing Western Carolina in fifth place. It was the only change in the top 10 from the previous week.

Evansville (14-2) has conquered four of the six major college teams it has played, losing only to Iowa by three points and Arizona, which the Indian quintet defeated in an earlier game. The first-place Purple Aces team with rugged home-state foe Butler tonight at Evansville.

Thirty of the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board ranked Evansville No. 1 this week, the highest number of first-place votes the Purple Aces have received this season. It upped their point total to 397, just 13 points short of a perfect 500 rating. Grambling (16-1) and Pan American (16-3), which have ranked 2-3 respectively almost the entire season, finished their positions. Grambling was awarded four first-place ballots and Pan American was ranked No. 1 by one coach.

Western Carolina (15-4) slipped to seventh-place although it recorded three narrow victories last week. Kentucky Wesleyan (12-3) remained in fourth and Hofstra (14-3) maintained its No. 6 standing.

Puget Sound (11-4), Fresno State (11-3) and Wittenberg (9-4) completed the top 10 in 8-9-10 order.

Murray State Goes Back In Action Against Arkansas

The Murray State College Thorogbreds, idle for the last week because of final examinations, will go back into action Thursday against Arkansas State at Jonesboro, Ark.

The Racers will be trying for their second win of the season over the Indians, having beaten them at Murray 93-63 before Christmas. Despite Murray's handy victory in the first game, Coach Cal Lutter said he expected a tough battle at Jonesboro.

"We beat them by 25 in Murray last year and lost by 15 down there," he said. "Then too, our first game was early in the season, and they have come a long way since then. They've played some tough opponents and have lost only one game at home while winning seven."

OVC And KIAC Races Are Much Tighter

Championship races in both the Ohio Valley Conference and the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference were a lot tighter today as the result of front-runners getting knocked off Tuesday night.

Eastern Kentucky's Maroons dropped into a first-place tie with East Tennessee as a penalty for losing to Morehead, 77-73 at Richmond, while Bellarmine's KIAC lead shrank to a half game margin over Union and Georgetown when the Knights stumbled at Georgetown, 91-78.

The two games comprised the entire Tuesday night schedule for Kentucky college teams.

Guard Roy Ware got hot for Morehead in the second half as he netted 10 of 18 points racked up by the Eagles in a second-half surge that carried them into a 64-63 lead with six minutes to go — and he netted five of Morehead's eight points in the final 90 seconds.

Altogether Ware accounted for 17 points, 15 in the second half, as his usually high-scoring running mate, Harold Sargent, was limited to 18. Although well below his average, Sargent still shared game scoring honors with Eastern's Herman Smith and Bob Nolan.

The victory rescued Morehead from the throes of a three-game losing streak and created a considerable traffic jam in the OVC race.

Eastern and East Tennessee now share the lead with 4-2 records, while Murray, Morehead and Tennessee Tech are all tied for third place with 4-3 records — and all five teams are still very much in title contention.

Even Western Kentucky, with a 2-3 record, has a shot at a share of the title.

The first-place tie will be broken one way or the other tonight, however, when East Tennessee plays at home against Middle Tennessee.

Georgetown's victory over the Knights was produced the same way. Tiger victories usually are manufactured these days — on the shooting of Dick Vories and Cecil Tuttle. The two guards had 51 points between them, 32 by Vories and 19 by Tuttle.

The defeat was the third in a row for Bellarmine, the other two in nonconference play. The Knights still hold the upper hand in the KIAC, however, since they play the rest of their conference games at home.

On tonight's card, Western Kentucky is host to Austin Peay in an OVC match, while Middle Tennessee plays at East Tennessee; Pikeville will play at Georgia Southern, and Villa Madonna will be host to Findlay.

Rebels Down Lakers Here Last Night

The Rebels of South Marshall rolled over the Calloway Lakers last night 97-64. The Rebels jumped to a 12 point first quarter lead and increased it to a halftime margin of 41-24.

South Marshall was 63-40 at the three quarter mark and went on to the game.

The outcome last night was never in doubt as the Rebels stayed in firm command all during the match. Sammy Housden, L. W. Patterson and David Crick all tied for scoring honors for Calloway, with 14 each with Lamb netting 10 points.

Bobby Warren was high scorer of the night for South Marshall with 23 points. Wyatt and Trimble tied with 18 each.

AFTER the FINE WEATHER

One of the all-time best of the world-affairs-suspense-adventure novels. -DOROTHY B. HUGHES

Published by Harper & Row, Inc. Copyright © 1962 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED? Laura Hart was a second high fence thinking a path leading to one of the side doors of the theater.

She was actually climbing the fence when the door opened and someone came out. It was the pretty, blond-haired boy she had seen the night before at the Italian. And, as she was immediately and completely certain it was the murderer of the Bishop.

It was this certainty, which had no basis in logic but was the stronger for being illogical, that made her scream.

The boy looked at her and for a second she saw in his eyes a mixture of alarm and hatred that turned her blood cold. Then he turned on his heel and ran the way to the end of the path, and started to shoulder his way through the crowd.

She found herself running after him, shouting "Stop him! Murderer!" Faces turned and looked blankly at her. Then she was herself in the crowd. A man grabbed her, she shook herself loose, hitting him in the face as she did so. Behind her someone growled something.

The boy was well ahead of her now, working his way through the crowd. As she tried to push after him a foot came out and tripped her. She went down on her knees. Two hands came down, grabbed her arms, and nudged her to her feet.

"Get up here, you're here before they start getting rough," said the voice of Helmut Anger.

He kept hold of her wrists and started to creak out, pulling her after him in a series of jerks. People were shouting. A hand grabbed her dress near the shoulder, and he heard the tearing noise as the stuff went. The next moment they were clear.

"No need to run," said Helmut. "They won't chase you. They just didn't like you - sitting on their toes. They're a bit worked up."

They walked down one of the passages at the rear of the theater and came out into a street of shops. Behind them they could hear the roar of the crowd, dominated by the booming of the loudspeaker.

She said, "Would you mind stopping for a moment? I can't."

She was trembling so violently that she couldn't speak.

Helmut put an arm under hers and steered her through a doorway. She found herself seated at a table.

"What you need is a drink," he sniggered, and the lady waiter, who was out of the street listening to the uproar, came reluctantly back to take the order.

Laura took a mouthful from the glass she was put in front of her, and spluttered. It was neat schnapps. It tasted like unadulterated hair oil.

"Finish it," said Helmut. "You won't like it, but it will do you good."

"I'm all right now."

"What were you crashing about in the crowd for? They were beginning to get angry about it."

"It was the man," said Laura.

"Which man?"

"He was quite young. He had fair hair, and a rather pretty face. You know - sort of weak, but pretty. He was coming out of the theater."

"And you suddenly felt an overwhelming desire to chase after him?"

"That's what would you say?" an actor or perhaps a pop singer.

"It's not a joke."

"It would have been no joke for him if you had caught him. I can see."

Laura said angrily, "Will you stop making fun of me? The man was a murderer."

Helmut stared at her.

"I told you. He was slipping out of the theater by a side door. And I recognized him."

"You recognized him?"

"You remember my telling you, at dinner last night, about that gang of buffies that was venturing up an Italian. Well, he was the leader of them."

Helmut signaled to the waiter and ordered more schnapps.

"To rather have coffee," said Laura.

"And coffee. Now see if I can get this straight. Because you recognized this man as someone you had seen assaulting an Italian the night before, you came to the conclusion that he had a hand in shooting the Bishop."

"I saw him do it."

"You?"

"No, that's not quite right. I saw a gun being pointed at the Bishop through a gap in one of the circular windows in the turret above the porch."

"Then what - a dash - smoke?"

"What had she seen? She shut her eyes. Had the gun barrel jumped just a little as the shots rang out? When she opened her eyes again Helmut was looking at her. His own cockles, the eighth of a smile on his lips.

"The idea in my part of the crowd," said Helmut, "was that the shooting was done by an Italian. I didn't see any myself but lots of people seem to have seen him. A big man, with black hair. He was shouting and waving while the Bishop was speaking; then he pulled out a gun and shot him."

"There was a man."

"You saw him, then?"

"He was with a group of people under a lamp-post opposite where I was sitting. But he didn't do the shooting. That was done from the theater."

"By your blond friend?"

"Well - of course, I don't know it was him. But he wasn't mixed up in it, why was he sneaking out of the theater by the back way?"

"Maybe he works there," said Helmut. "He sounds a bit theatrical. Suppose he was watching the parade from one of the theater windows."

"Why did he run away when he saw me?"

"That," said Helmut, "I agree is quite inexplicable. Hello. What's all this?"

There was a crescendo of noise in the street outside, and three open torries rocketed past. Each of them was full of uniformed, steel-helmeted men. "Reverends," said Helmut. "Colonel Julius is doing his stuff."

"Colonel Julius?"

"Julius Schatmann, otherwise the Gray Bear, our respected Sicherheits director, or chief of security. It was Julius himself who got onto the microphone after the shooting."

"The man who had served them with drinks came up and said something to Helmut."

"He's turning us out."

"Why?"

"He's from Italy himself. He thinks there's going to be trouble."

Dear Abby . . .
It Ain't Necessarily So!
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our only child, who lives 2,000 miles away, is expecting her first child this summer. Today we received a letter from our daughter telling us that she had lined up a nurse for the first three months, and that her mother should not plan on flying out for the birth of the baby, but to wait until three or four months after. We were shocked and hurt as we have always had a perfect relationship with our daughter, and we love her husband as we would a son. My wife is ashamed to tell our friends that she was asked to stay away for three or four months. Can you explain the psychological reason behind our daughter's rejection of her mother at this time?

HURT
DEAR HURT: Why assume that there is a "psychological reason" behind your daughter's decision, and that it is a "rejection" of her mother? Perhaps your daughter does not want to burden her mother with the hard work of caring for a newborn baby, but prefers that she come after the baby has grown a little so that she can fully enjoy her visit.

DEAR ABBY: I went with a man for five months before he admitted that he was married and had a family. I saw him only once after that to say my final goodbye. His wife found out about us and now I am afraid she is going to sue me for alienation of affections. I have some money, but I can't afford a suit of that nature. I even suspect collusion on the part of the man and his wife. They have evidence which could win for them if this is the case. I need help.

DEAR WORRIED: You need a

Mrs. W. J. Pitman Hostess For Annie Armstrong Meeting

The Annie Armstrong Circle of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met Monday evening at seven-thirty o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. J. Pitman on North 14th Street.

Mrs. Gordon Hunter presented the program on the special study of citizenship which is being held this quarter by the various circles. The introduction was given by Mrs. Pitman, program chairman.

The circle chairman, Mrs. Paul Lyons Jr., presided. Others present were Mrs. Edna Shirley, Mrs. Charles Hale, and Mrs. George Lyon. During the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Pitman.

heap of help. The kind only a good lawyer can provide. What are you waiting for?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were both born in France, but are now American citizens. We have a three-year old daughter, and we are teaching her to speak French by speaking it in our home. Thus far she is speaking French as well as she does English. We felt this would be an advantage to her later on, but many of our friends have planted some doubts in our minds. They say that when she starts to learn English in school she will have a difficult time because she will confuse it with French. Could you please advise of the validity of this viewpoint?

MRS. D.
DEAR MRS. D.: Children learn languages very easily. It is an advantage for youngsters to learn a second language while growing up, so don't be concerned about "confusing" your daughter by speaking French at home. But speak English, too, for obvious reasons.
