NOW YOU KNOW

There are an estimated 57 million hogs in the United States, according to the Hollywood chapter of the American Humane Association.

Major refurbishing estimated at a cost of $35,000 is being planned for the Kenlake Hotel on Kentucky Lake. Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell reported this afternoon.

Bell said that bids will be requested immediately on the project.

"We want to modernize the Kenlake Hotel and bring it up to the standards of the new lodges and dining rooms in our system. It is necessary to keep our facilities up to standard because there is a direct relationship between the quality of our accommodations and the demand for them" Bell said.

Kenlake Hotel is one of the first hotels in the system and was dedicated in 1952. Since then ten lodges or additions to older ones have been built.

Bell said that improvements in the lobby-lounge area would include new flooring, new lighting, front desk and furniture throughout. The ladies rest-room will be remodeled also. The dining room will receive new lighting, decorations and paneling of walls and will have wall-to-wall carpeting and new furniture.

Painting will be done in all public rooms and several walls done in vinyl.

This project will be started immediately on acceptance of bids with the work to be done before April 1, Bell concluded.

Three Escape Bad Injuries In Accident

Three persons narrowly escaped serious injuries in an automobile accident last night about 9 p.m. when the 1962 Corvair in which they were riding went off the road and hit a light pole on U.S. Highway 641 just north of the Green Plain Church road, four miles south of Murray, according to State Policeman Charles Stephenson who covered the accident.

Stephenson said the driver of the car was William B. Klitsch of New Monmouth, New Jersey, student at Murray State College, who was treated at the Murray Hospital, charged with driving while intoxicated, and placed in the county jail. The other two passengers in the car, Freeman B. Taylor of Neptune, N.J., and Edward G. Smith of Union, N.J., were charged with public drunkenness last night and taken to the college infirmary for observation, Stephenson said.

This morning the charge against Klitsch was amended to public drunkenness when it was found that Taylor was the driver. The charge against Taylor was then amended to DWI instead of public drunkenness, according to the County Judge's office. The case for all three was continued until Saturday, February 29, at 10 a.m.

Sales for the Tappan Company during the month of January have shown a spectacular 37% increase over January, 1963 reports A. B. Ritzenthaler, Vice President of Marketing. Included in this figure are Tappan's subsidiaries, O'Keefe & Merritt, Crystal Manufacturing and Tappan-Gurney, Montreal, Canada.

He further stated that products marketed under the Tappan name have enjoyed an increase of 48%. Ritzenthaler was also very optimistic for continued high sales by pointing out the company's present backlog of orders is up 34% for the same period last year.

In order to meet this great increase of sales, Tappan's Mansfield, Ohio plant has stepped up production to full capacity. Some departments are presently working 20 hours a day and six days a week. Employment has also been increased to an all time high for production of consumer goods.

Sales for January, 1964 exceeds the previous record set in 1960. Ritzenthaler attributes part of this increase to several successful hard hitting promotions recently and also dramatic acceptance of Tappan's new merchandise by dealers, distributors and consumers. He pointed out that no one category of products is alone responsible as sales are up on all products.

Other Funds Will Offset Tax Loss, Board of Directors Says

The TVA Board of Directors today gave assurance to the three counties in which land will be purchased for Land Between the Lakes that they will not suffer financial loss because of the project. "It is our intention that any loss of revenue because of the elimination of this land from the counties' tax base will be offset by other funds which will be paid to the counties," the TVA Board said.

Kentucky officials have advised that increased state payments from TVA funds to Trig and Lyon counties, resulting from the project itself, will more than offset losses in local property taxes, TVA said. Tax replacement arrangements are being sought for the third county affected, Stewart County, in talks with Tennessee state officials.

County representatives had expressed concern that their governmental units might face serious financial losses because of the amount of land that will be removed from tax rolls when it is bought by TVA for the project.

The TVA Board said this problem already had been foreseen in planning the recreation area, however. The agency's tax specialists began gathering information a month ago on how the project will affect county revenue sources, and conferring with Kentucky and Tennessee officials about the project's effect on state sharing of TVA payments in lieu of taxes with the counties.

A detailed check of county tax rolls shows that assessed valuations of the property to be bought by TVA represent about 8 per cent of (Continued on Page 6)

Big Dividends Are Expected In Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is expecting big dividends from the tax cut.

Among them: —$20 billion more a year spending by Americans on television sets, automobiles, shoes and other consumer goods.

—$12 billion more invested each year in new industrial plant and equipment, new homes and new schools, roads and other public works.

—Between 2 and 3 million new jobs.

—$3 billion more taxes for state and local governments.

And, last but not least, $12 billion more tax revenues for the federal government, canceling out the $12 billion loss from the tax cut when it becomes fully effective.

Here is how administration economists figure it: The cut in personal income taxes will put $9.5 billion more in the hands of consumers. In addition, corporations are expected to pass along about $1 billion of their $2.4 billion tax reduction to stockholders in the form of increased dividends.

All-tail, consumers will have about $10.5 billion more to spend. If they continue in their old ways, they will save about 7 per cent of that and spend the rest or a little less than $10 billion. But it won't end there.

The higher production of goods to meet this extra spending will mean more jobs, higher payrolls, bigger profits and higher incomes for farmers and professional and service people. This added purchasing power will generate still further increases in spending and incomes in an endless, although diminishing, chain. Economists call this the "multiplier effect."

When it's all done, the initial $10 billion increase is expected to produce about $20 billion more consumer spending.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

With the Mississippi channels, banks and levees cleared most of the way of resistant forces, flagboat and sidehuller traffic moved freely [1], if under Union flag or control.

No. 379 At the beginning of 1864, the Savannah Republican listed the market price of flour at $120 a barrel, of hominy grits at $16 a bushel, when you could find either in supply at established dealers who had to pay some attention to Confederate government attempts to curtail speculation and profiteering in commodities. The going prices in black markets were higher. The prices anywhere reflected the decline in the purchasing power of Confederate currency, as well as the diminishing supplies of foodstuffs reaching the Rebel armies and the city dwellers as a result of the U. S. naval blockade of the Atlantic coast, the capture of most of the Mississippi River by Union forces, and the systematic closing of key railways within the Confederacy.

The process of beating down the Rebel means of resistance by attrition was made more stringent steadily by detached striking forces such as referred to here previously.

The Confederate Congress had sought to insure bacon and ham for the soldiers by requiring that a tax on smoked pork be paid in kind. At the end of 1863, the Congress had to modify this requirement realistically by allowing the tax to be paid in salt pork. Farmers with hogs hidden away could no longer take the time to smoke-cure slaughtered meat, to risk having smokehouses filled with bacon and hams for Yankee raiders.

Same day the Confederate Congress took this action, it ended exemption from military draft given those who supplied a substitute (usually by purchase).

Gold Coins Of The World Book Gift Of Mrs. Tracy

"Gold Coins of the World" has long been needed by numismatists, bankers, economists, historians, libraries, institutions, and by students of gold in general. For in this one volume every gold coin struck in the world since 500 A. D. is concisely described by type, denomination, date, and valuation.

Gold coins have excited mankind since about 700 B. C. when the first coins containing gold were struck. They have been passionately collected by men in all walks of life, and the present generation possesses the same universal desire. Unfortunately, however, before publication of this book, information about the many thousands of gold coins in existence could not be had without consulting multitudes of obsolete, rare, and out-of-print reference works, printed in many languages.

It has taken five years of painstaking research for the author, Robert Friedberg, to gather this information now at last published, thus becoming the numismatic triumph of the generation.

The Murray Calloway County Public Library is indebted to Mrs. Alma Lee Tracy, Librarian, for her donation of this book, and welcomes its use by the public. Mrs. Tracy has recently returned to Murray to be with her family. She has lived in Warren, Ohio for the past several months where she served as head of the Cataloging Department of the Warren Public Library.

Three New Major Lakes In State Are Nearly Completed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Special) — Before the main run of fishing begins in the spring of 1965, Kentuckians will have three new lakes in which to double the minnows or cast their fishing lines. The first of these three new lakes to become fishable approximately 70,000 surface acres of new waters will be added to the abundant supply of water in the state.

The three new lakes to be completed, or so nearly completed by the 1965 date that it will have little effect on the fishing, are gigantic Barlow Reservoir, Lake Meigs and Nolichucky. The first two are in the South Central part of the state and Nolich in which fishing long since has started. Already fishermen are taking minnows and casting their fishing lines. Meigs started in the fall of 1963 and this spring some excellent fishing is predicted for this good-sized, deep, clear-water lake. It is expected to afford excellent small mouth bass fishing.

These three lakes are in addition to the old standbys Kentucky, Herrington, Dale Hollow, Cumberland and Buffalo. The last two high River and as these new lakes are being completed work will have been started on several other impoundments to be constructed in the coming years. Kentucky in the next few years.

These seven old standbys contain almost a quarter million surface acres of water and the vast majority of that water lies in Kentucky. This figure, of course, does not include the acreage of the many state-owned lakes some of which could be classed in the "major" category.

Work, for practical purposes, will have been completed in 1965 on Barkley Lake which is the largest of the three new impoundments. It will contain around 30,000 surface acres of water, the majority of which lies within Kentucky. Its location is alongside famous Kentucky Lake and the Kentucky River. The State is the only one in the United States between the Rivers Area which is being developed into a national recreational area by the federal government. This latter project is well advanced and is well underway in the near future, although development will continue over a ten-year period. These two huge lakes, together with the recreational area, are expected to become the playground for the central United States and the fishing potential is expected to be unsurpassed.

The dam is located near Kentucky Dam and impounds the Kentucky River. The water is pumped into Tennessee almost to the Cheatdam Dam although the majority of the water will be in Kentucky. The lake will be the largest in the world. Kentucky Lake—shallow and spreading over a great amount of lowlands. Also, the same species of fish are expected to be in the Kentucky Lake, the Kentucky River, and the Kentucky Lake.

Barren No. 2 dam is located in Allen County within about ten miles of Scottsville and will create a lake of around 10,000 acres by the impoundment of Barren River. Water will be backed into Barren County. The height of the dam will be 146 feet and the length almost 4,000 feet. Excellent fishing is anticipated in this lake, which may provide musky territory since this species is found in Barren River.

The Nolin dam has been constructed on Nolin River about eight miles from the spot where the stream empties into the Green River. The dam is located in Edmonson County and will impound about 10,000 acres of water at seasonal pool level. The dam is 166 feet high with a length of almost 1,000 feet and for all practical purposes the work has been completed. Impoundment of the lake was started last fall. The second work item is the trap dam on Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy is expected to start as soon as roadways to be affected are moved or altered and as soon as residents of the area to be inundated are moved. The project will contain about 1,200 acres of water.

Meanwhile, other lake projects approved but on which work has not yet started are: Red River, in Menifee and Wolfe counties; Cave Run, in the Licking River at Falmouth; and Laurel River Dam in the London-Corbin area and on Laurel river. In addition, other lake sites are under study and serious consideration and work on these projects will start within the next five years. The hottest prospects right now are: Carr Fork Dam in Perry County; Eagle Creek Dam in Grant and Owen counties; Paint Creek Dam on Paint Creek near Paintsville; and a project on the Knott, on Blaine Creek in Lawrence County.

SHAME ON HIM!—Warner E. Laddus, 30, reported to be a paid employe of the Rockefeller-for-President Committee in California, is brought to police station in Los Angeles, charged with robbing a Western Union office.

Dear Abby

It Depends!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Would you get mad if someone asked you if you were wearing something false?

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: Only if I were.

DEAR ABBY: I am on the verge of losing my sanity. A neighbor of ours has become a pigeon fancier and he is literally driving me insane. Those birds are so dirty I can't even hang my laundry outside.

And I am forever hosing down my sidewalk. Parking my car in my own driveway is out of the question. There must be 50 or 60 pigeons, and this man and his wife feed them popcorn and bread all day long. I just can't take it any more. I have heard that pigeons carry disease. Is this true? Is there anything I can do? I hate to be a poor neighbor, but this is too much.

PIGEON HATER

DEAR HATER: It has been established that a harmful fungus (Cryptococcus neoformans) is found in pigeon droppings. Health officials everywhere are waging a war to rid cities of pigeons for this reason. There should be a special breeding ground where pigeons are kept under control. Call your local health department.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and his wife are the world's biggest tightwads. They have no children and are both holding down good paying jobs. They pulled a few strings and got a heating system for their home.

THOROUGHBREDS IN FIRST PLACE IN OVC

Edges Austin Peay Last Night In Squeaker 69-68

Al Varnas

The Murray State Thoroughbreds shot on a one plus toss. The game held some possession of first place today by the slimmest of margins — a free throw by Al Varnas with 11 seconds left to play in a 69-68 squeaker over Austin Peay on Wednesday night.

The hair-raising victory boosted Murray's conference record to seven victories and three defeats, providing the Racers with a half-game margin over East Tennessee (6-3).

In other Kentucky college action Wednesday night, NCAA — bound Louisville aroused itself in time to another second-half drive by St. Francis of Pennsylvania and won an 84-70 decision, Kentucky Wesleyan, headed by the NCAA College Division tourney, outrebounced Belarmine for an 86-70 victory, and Union regained a tie with Georgetown for the KIAAC leadership by downing Transylvania, 75-63.

Dwight Morris came off the Austin Peay bench to score 17 of his 19 points in the final nine minutes of the first half. That gave the ambitious Governors a 44-38 half-time lead, and made Murray fight an uphill battle through the second half to set up Varnas' winning free throw.

Big Jim Jennings scored 21 points and Steve Johnson did a heroic job on the boards with 18 rebounds to keep the Racers in the running, in a game that saw the score tied 12 times.

Austin Peay hit 60 per cent from the field in the first half while the cold Racers tallied only 31.7 per cent. In the second half Murray showed their ability more and fell back on a strong defense to hold Austin Peay down.

Murray went ahead 57-56 on a lay-up by Varnas with 8:19 left in the ball game and the score was knotted seven times during the remainder of the game. With 11 seconds to go Varnas was fouled. He made the first shot good to put Murray ahead one point and missed the second.

Senior Bill Fultz led Union's victory with 22 points. The Bulldogs beat Georgetown at Barboursville Saturday night with the KIAAC title at stake.

Tonight's schedule has Cumberland at Gannon, Pikeville at Kentucky Christian, and Centre opening play in the Collegiate Athletic Conference tourney at Memphis, where the Colonels are rated a darkhorse, with Washington of St. Louis the favorite.

Louisville's reserve strength carried the day against a stubborn, long-shooting St. Francis team that chopped a seemingly safe Cardinal lead down to three points at 66-65. Then substitute Andy White drove in for a three-point trip that stemmed the tide, and started a Louisville rally to produce the Cardinals' 15th victory against six defeats.

The Frankies nevertheless outrebounced Louisville and painfully demonstrated the Cardinals' primary weakness at the pivot position. John Reuther recovered from a sluggish first half to lead Louisville scoring with 17 points, while Sandy Williams of the Red Flash topped everybody with 22.

Wesleyan beat Belarmine to death on the boards. With 57 rebounds to 40 for the Knights, and Doug Walsh netted 25 points as the Panthers ran their record to 15-3 at Owensboro. Mike Reid scored 17 while Chuck Taylor posted 15 and hauled down 19 of the rebounds. Tom Hugenberg scored 21 for Belarmine.

Memorial Library To Be Built In Memory President Kennedy

John B. Breckinridge has accepted the Chairmanship of a drive by the Friends of Kentucky Libraries in each county of Kentucky for a John F. Kennedy Appalachian Memorial Fund for a modest but functional library in each county. The drive is run by a trained librarian, who is willing to plan and sponsor many educational and cultural programs during the evening hours - if a new building is provided. Young people already congregate in the library at night, but they can do very little in the small space available.

The state wide goal is at least $20,000. Morgan County will provide $10,000 in local matching funds from large numbers of individual donors and from income from a favorable local vote for a tax for library and bookmobile service. A total of $10,000 will be provided from the County Board of Education.

With its limited funds from the local tax matching funds are possible, but the county cannot finance an entire building. The library will, however, be full of a growing collection of excellent books, since it participates in the Eastern Kentucky Library Region, whose headquarters is in Floyd County.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy will be invited to dedicate the building in 1965. Funds for the building will be presented to Morgan County April 18, 1964 - the last day of National Library Week.

At present the library is located in one half of a small metal quonset hut. The other half is occupied by a classroom from a school. There is no room for anyone to sit down. The building is not convenient.

In spite of these handicaps, the library and bookmobile program have been extremely popular, circulating over 70,000 books a year. The library is run by a trained librarian, who is willing to plan and sponsor many educational and cultural programs during the evening hours - if a new building is provided. Young people already congregate in the library at night, but they can do very little in the small space available.

A Memorial Book will include the signatures or names of donors of any amount under each county in Kentucky. This book will be sent to Mrs. Kennedy, who will be asked to return it to West Liberty, where it will remain permanently. Not only individuals, but clubs and organizations will want to be represented in this important book.

Most libraries will accept donations, or will be glad to give information as to where donations may be sent, or where the local chairman for the drive may be reached. Pages from the Memorial Book are being sent to each Public Library, where they may be signed. Children and adults are encouraged to donate anything, no matter how small.

This Appalachian Memorial will be a living tribute not only to a President who was a great reader, but also to the generosity of all Kentucky's counties.

This memorial will help one county to help itself in solving problems for self improvement and a continuing education. It will point the way towards state wide improvement as well.

All donations to the Friends of Kentucky Libraries are tax deductible. They may be given locally or sent to the following:

Mrs. Garnett Bale, President
Friends of Kentucky Libraries
Franklin, Kentucky

The local committee who will work with the library on this small fund raising drive consists of Gene Landolt, Chairman, Charlie Lassiter, and Mrs. Joe Baker Littleton.

Book Review

By Mrs. Richard Chastain

This great tragedy of humble people still reaches out to even the most calloused reader. For what greater tragedy can there be than the defeat in the effort to fulfill one's life? Rudyard Kipling's new-making first novel, now a well-loved modern classic, is the story of Dink Helder, a young artist who knows that within a year he will be blind from a word cut in his head received in the Sudan, and of his valiant efforts to finish his greatest work, the Melancholia. Assembled on Kipling's own canvas of color and sound is Torpenhow, whose friendship and loyalty continue to bolster Helder through the turmoil and into the darkness. Massey, his childhood sweetheart whose selfishness causes her to fail the painter time after time in his moments of greatest need, and Bessie, the model for his Melancholia who creates the greatest tragedy of all.

Typical of Helder's whole life, his accidental death as he rides into a battle he can not even see is just one more memorial to his futile heroism. Truly the tragic hero, he asks for his pity, either from those he loves most or from his readers. He is a very real person, one whom we can genuinely admire and with whom we cannot possibly avoid identifying ourselves, because we see in him the desire to create, each of us to achieve something of value.

FORD IN HER FUTURE?—Mrs. Christina Austin, 34, the Italian divorcee who has been linked romantically with newly divorced Henry Ford II, brushes aside a reporter's question as to whether she will ride down the fairlane of matrimony with him. She is shown leaving a Metropolitan Opera performance in New York.

the county bond in Taylor County to per cent in 1964 and 10 per cent in 1965. However, the tax on that property will be reduced to two to three per cent of the county revenues in each of those years, since much of that income comes from other sources.

Kentucky County mayor of Ross, James E. Spence, has advised us that on the basis of TVA projections, 1964 and 1965 county tax losses will be more than repaired by their larger share of the Commonwealth's revenues. If its annual payment to TVA, the Board said, "David M. Morgan, Kentucky State Local Finance Officer, concurs in this view."

TVA pays five per cent of its revenues from all non-federal sources to states and counties in lieu of taxes, and in return the states and counties pay five per cent of their revenues to TVA. The Board said the funds these three counties now receive directly from TVA payments in lieu of taxes will continue as in the past.
