Circuit Court Tries Breakin Case Today

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Glen Hill and Tommy Manes Jr. was tried this morning in Calloway Circuit Court with Judge Earl Osborn on the bench.

Hill and Manes are charged with breaking into Stokes Tractor and Implement Company on November 6 of last year. Some money and an extension cord and light was taken in the robbery of the firm located on Industrial Road.

The two boys, about 18 years of age, received one year each at the Kentucky Village at Lexington. Hill also received a one year sentence on the Alamo School break-in at Kentucky Village, with the sentence to run concurrently.

Harold Dean Kelley, 18, received two years at LaGrange Reformatory on a cold check charge. He was charged with purchasing a car with a $350.00 check which was cold.

Raymond Heck pleaded guilty to "failure to comply with court order to support minor children". He will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Tomorrow the court will try the cases of Frank Street and James Robert Cole.

Yesterday Judge Osborn sentenced Eddy T. McDermott, James W. Githon II and Joe Wright to two years each on a charge of cattle stealing. The three had pleaded guilty to the charge, but were not sentenced until yesterday.

A motion was entered for probation, however this will not be acted on until March 4. The three must remain in jail until that time. All three are students at Murray State College.

The three had pleaded guilty to taking a truck, removing cattle from the Murray Livestock Company and disposing of them at another livestock sale. They were apprehended when they arrived to pick up the check for the cattle.

Mayfield Is Prepared To Accept Bethel

MAYFIELD, Ky. (UP) - Mayfield City Council was on record today as being prepared to "grant any aid possible," in moving Bethel College to the city from Hopkinsville, Ky.

This specifically included an offer to help finance the proposed relocation of Bethel College through issuance of up to $1 million in revenue bonds.

The council adopted a resolution urging Georgetown College, which is considering a proposal that it operate Bethel as a two-year extension center, to select Mayfield as its new location.

Bethel officials have decided to leave their Hopkinsville campus, because they fear they cannot compete there with a new two-year community college to be put in operation next year by the University of Kentucky.

Georgetown has agreed to take over operation of Bethel, provided certain conditions can be met, particularly the raising of $2.25 million to build a new campus and finance any operating deficit.

The Mayfield council action will be reported to a meeting of West Kentucky Baptist leaders at Hopkinsville Saturday, called by trustees of Bethel.

The Mayfield council specified that the revenue bonds must in no way encumber the city's general funds. The money would be used to build dormitories, with rental fees used to retire the bonds.

Kentucky Dam Tops All Dams As Attraction

TVA said today an estimated 11 million people visited its dams and steam plants in 1963, bringing the total number of visitors to these installations through the years of 154 million.

The annual visitor total grew from about 2 million after World War II to 11 million in 1963, and has continued at that high level.

TVA encourages the public to see its installations. It has provided visitor lobbies, galleries or overlooks at 19 major dams and nine steam plants. Project reservations offer parking space for 30,000 people, picnic tables to seat 3,000, and other visitor conveniences.

TVA said registration books at the projects again showed substantial numbers of visitors coming from each of the fifty states in 1963, with about a third of the total from outside the seven Tennessee Valley states. Florida led the list of "outside" states with more than 40,000 Floridians signing TVA project registers, followed by Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, South Carolina, Michigan, Missouri and New York.

About one visitor in twelve signs the registers, TVA said, and some 900,000 signed in 1963. The total number of visitors to each installation is estimated conservatively from registrations and traffic counts.

These totals do not cover the over-a-half million TVA project on tourist and other recreation activities, since they include only visitors to the agency's installations. Over-all recreation use of TVA lakes and shorelines is estimated at more than 45 million person-days a year.

Kentucky, Chickamauga, Fontana and Pickwick dams continued to be the leading attractions among TVA projects, each having more than a million visitors in 1963. Visitor totals for the year at west Kentucky projects included:

Kentucky Dam - Although the total of 1,512,000 visitors in 1963 was somewhat smaller than in other recent years, it brought the total here since 1930 to 22.7 million. This put Kentucky ahead of other Norris Dam as the TVA project which has welcomed the most visitors.

Shawnee Steam Plant - About 18,000 visitors, making a total of 120,000 since 1956.

Paradise Steam Plant - About 18,000 visitors, making 145,000 since 1960.

Income Tax Cut To Take Effect Saturday Week

By HALE MONTGOMERY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UP) - A $115 billion tax cut, designed to put an average of $4 to $5 more a week into pockets of most U. S. wage earners this year, begins taking effect next week and President Johnson wants Americans to make the most of it.

Even before the ink was dry on the landmark legislation Wednesday it had performed its first feat, spurring the stock market to its best gain in two weeks.

One year, one month and two days after the late John F. Kennedy's urgent appeal, the Senate put the final stamp of approval on the biggest tax cut in the nation's history by a 74-19 vote with generous Republican support.

Booster Economy

Johnson promptly signed it into law at a White House ceremony, then told a nationwide radio-television audience that it would strengthen the economy when U. S. taxpayers and corporations start spending the extra cash.

"No one can bury us - or bluff us - or beat us - so long as our economy remains strong," said the President in an obvious reference to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's oft-quoted promise to "bury" capitalism.

For his part, the Chief Executive promised to make new inroads against federal spending, including a new goal to eliminate an additional 7,500 government jobs "in the very next few months."

IRS Announces Date

While Johnson forecast good days ahead, the Internal Revenue Service IRS announced that some workers should notice the first effects of the tax cut next Thursday, March 5, that is when a lower payroll withholding rate goes into effect, meaning higher paychecks.

The IRS said it would follow a "rule of reason" in enforcing the March 5 changeover. "We will not find fault with employers who are delayed 10 days or two in putting the lower rate into effect by problems encountered in converting their payroll systems," a spokesman said.

Johnson called the tax cut "an expression of faith in our system of free enterprise."

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Easter Seal time will be here again soon.

This is a drive which plows practically all the funds received, right back into Kentucky, right where it helps the most, crippled children.

Several hospitals are located over the state which are operated on funds which are taken in from Easter Seals. Kids from all over the state including Calloway County go there for corrective surgery or treatment.

It makes no difference how the child got crippled, either from disease, accident or whether he or she was born that way, they can get help from one of the hospitals.

The West Kentucky Center for Handicapped Children at Paducah is one of the seven institutions owned and operated by the society.

Incidentally the society is a strictly volunteer organization, not connected with the state. It does cooperate however with all other agencies, if just does not duplicate services.

Over 8,000 volunteers work each year for the program in the state.

Out in the county Mr. and Mrs. Hurt do a bang-up job with the schools, here in Calloway.

One Hurt In Accident At Noon Today

One person was injured in a car accident today at 12:31 just west of the intersection of Seventh and Olive streets.

City Police said that Harry Patton, Negro, driving a Pontiac owned by Hayden Rickman, was proceeding west on Olive street when he struck the rear of a 1960 Pontiac owned by Doris Markovics of Michigan, which was parked just across from the Health Center on Olive street. When the Ford was struck by the Pontiac, it in turn struck a 1964 Comet owned by Mason Ross.

The Comet was propelled sixty feet and ended up on the sidewalk, just missing a utility pole. The Ford ended up out in Olive Street and the Pontiac near it.

Patton received cuts, bruises and two broken ribs. No one was in either of the two parked cars.

Both cars were parked about thirty feet west of Seventh street at the time of the accident. The street curves to the left at the intersection, and apparently Patton, driving the Pontiac, failed to curve with the street and struck the two cars.

Sergeant Gene Parker and City Patrolman James Wells investigated the accident.

the society is made up of contributions to the annual Easter Seal Campaign.

Sometimes there is a duplication of names and folks will get two letters containing Easter Seals. This is just an error. When you make your contribution just scribble a note to that effect and one of the names will be dropped.

Any contribution will be appreciated by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, so when you get your seals, remember that the money you send in will help restore a crippled child to a more normal life.

One of the nicest programs started by the society is Camp Kysoc, near Carrollton, Kentucky. This is actually a camp for crippled kids. The walks through the woods are paved so that even blind kids can go hiking. As long as they stay on the walks, they can make it. Of course counselors go along, but for all practical purposes, they go on a hike like other boys do.

All the regular events at a camp are carried out under expert supervision, and guidance. The local Rotary Club contributed money for the construction of the administration building (along with other Rotary clubs in the state).

Swimming, boating, fishing, camping are all on the program.

Two or three dollars or even one goes a long way with the Crippled Children's Society.

'64 Corvair Monza by Chevrolet

It's got a frisky new engine

(that puts superior traction under you)

Some cars do best on the highway. Others seem tailor-made for city driving.

Then there's Corvair—that gets along just great most anywhere. Swishing along a highway. Scouring around in traffic. Or wading through a soggy trail.

Take highway driving. Corvair's got a bigger new engine with horsepower up nearly 19% in the standard version. But in case figures don't impress you, just wait until you head a Corvair for some far-away places. You'll get the message.

Take city driving. Corvair's trim size, light steering (because the engine weight's in the rear) and flat cornering make anything from rush-hour driving to parking a cinch.

Take back-road driving. The weight of Corvair's engine bearing down on the rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power on most any surface, whether it's loose, solid, dry, wet—or even snow covered.

Something else you can take note of, too: There's no radiator to overheat or run dry. No hoses to check or replace. No need for antifreeze. The engine's air cooled.

Beginning to sound like a car you can really warm up to? Then there's only one thing left to take a ride in one at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Volcano Is Wrecking Small Nation

By CARL E. WARNER

United Press International
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI)—This tiny central American republic is reeling from an erupting volcano. But the people refuse to panic.

Everywhere there are signs of decay and destruction. Dead cattle by the hundreds in ash-covered pastures, thousands of vital acres of coffee destroyed and crops of berries contaminated.

Rising unemployment has resulted. Coffee plantations are laying off workers by the hundreds. And allied industries such as fertilizer concerns and farm machinery companies also have begun reducing their staffs by considerable numbers.

Three eminent Japanese volcanic experts on the scene here since December predict the erupting volcano Irazu will continue vomiting tons of volcanic ash over the fertile Costa Rican soil for five years.

Daily Routines
But through it all, the people continue to dress up in their Sunday best and stroll through the monument-studded parque central Sunday evenings and attend to their daily routines as if nothing has happened.

In this bustling capital city 35 miles from Irazu people wear special goggles to prevent the gritty ash from injuring their eyes. They sweep and haul 20 tons of the volcanic menace daily and sometimes even find it mixed with their meals.

At times the air is so full of the black substance that it resembles an extremely heavy fog and settles over the city like a huge blanket.

Brown peddlers are doing a land office business. Sweeping out hotel lobbies, offices, restaurants, stores and other business establishments in the down town area has become an hourly ritual.

Volcano Will Stop
The Costa Rican people dogmatically insist that in a month or so the stuttering volcano will stop. They've been saying this since the sleeping menace suddenly erupted last March.

Many Costa Ricans still remember that 43 years ago the erupting Irazu all but destroyed the original capital of Cartago at the base of the volcano. Just a few months ago a sudden flood tide caused by the recent eruptions almost wiped out the entire village of Taras 19 miles south of the capital.

Even the sight of beggars sleeping in open doorways of stores and in the streets, their numbers increasing daily, fails to dim their faith that Costa Rica is in any real danger.

But if the Japanese experts are anywhere correct in their prediction, Costa Rica's vital coffee exports may wither to a trickle and this tiny Republic of one million people with more teachers than soldiers may face economic chaos.

"TUG-OF-DEFENSE"—Here are principals in a "Tug-of-Defense" in Washington over the House-passed $16.9 billion authorization for defense. The bill includes $92 million to get a new bomber and long-range interceptor underway, to be in the air in the 1970s. It appears likely to be passed over Secretary Robert McNamara's objections. He favors missiles.

young and old, should be exterminated. Bums, chronically ill and alcoholics likewise. What good is derived from keeping them alive when money is so badly needed for normal people? I have made a study of social misfits and have seen many "rest homes" filled with county and state aid patients who have been ditched by their families. Nobody cares a hoot about them. Some of these people are completely gone mentally. Why keep them at the taxpayers' expense? All people, physically and mentally incapable of contributing to our society, should be done away with. Mercifully, of course. This may sound hard-hearted, but one day this will have to be.

State Fund Aids Conservation Work

THIS BULLDOZER, operated by O. D. Dalton of Pulaski County, is one of more than 600 pieces of heavy specialized equipment purchased through loans from the equipment revolving fund of the State Conservation Department's Division of Soil and Water Resources. More than $5 million has been loaned from the fund in its 15 years of existence to help farmers and soil conservationists dig ponds, build farm roads and clear land for better conservation of Kentucky's natural resources.

Evansville Is Still On Top Of The Small College Heap

SIGNS AT EASTERN

RICHMOND, Ky. (UPI) — Roger Kendall Butler, a 215-pound Madisonville all-state guard, is the seventh athlete to sign for a grant-in-aid football scholarship with Eastern Kentucky State College.

A three-year letterman at Madisonville, Butler was named the lineman-of-the-year and made several all-state selections. He also lettered in track.

Eastern coach Roy Kidd described Butler as "a real prize recruiting catch," and "one of the outstanding football prospects in the state."

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Evansville Purple Aces will have to earn their second national small college basketball championship Saturday night when they close out the season against fifth-ranked Kentucky Wesleyan.

Evansville, which has dominated the United Press International ratings for 11 consecutive weeks, today again was acclaimed the nation's No. 1 small college power.

"A repeat victory Saturday for the Purple Aces at Kentucky Wesleyan would virtually assure them another national title when the 36 coaches on the UPI rating board issue their final ratings next week," Evansville coach Fred Schertz said.

Wesleyan, which has won the first encounter this season at home between the two teams.

An Evansville loss, however, could open the way for second-ranked Grambling, runner-up to Evansville all season, Pan American No. 3, Youngstown, No. 4, or Kentucky Wesleyan to capture the title.

Evansville received 30 first-place votes today, compared with three for Grambling and one each for Pan American and eighth-ranked Fresno State.

Assumption (Mass.) and Iowa State College, two quizzets with only a single loss apiece, forged into the top 10 for the first time, in ninth and 10th place, respectively.

The two teams are the only members of the 10 best which have suffered less than two defeats this season.

There were no changes in the first eight positions in the ratings from last week. The ratings were based on games played through Saturday, Feb. 22.

Hofstra and Western Carolina, in the first seven teams, stood sixth and seventh, respectively.

Washington of St. Louis, ninth a week ago, slipped to 11th and Wilkesburg, defending champion and member of the top 10 for the past six years, dropped from 10th to 12th.

SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY

UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The most nauseating part of Cassius Clay being the heavyweight champion of the world today is the fact that he believes he really is the ruler of the ring.

Cassius admits that he huckstered his way into a title bout. And he says flatly that he believes Sonny Liston could have continued instead of throwing in the towel at the end of the sixth round of their title bout.

Which comes out that he either beat a one-armed man or a feller who took a swim dive into a damp cage.

So you have to think that Cassius is a man checking on a window with a spouse after months of sounding off like a conglomeration of oolipies. That's because he insists that now, as the somewhat disputed heavyweight champion of the world, he is going to become a quiet champion.

Can Go To Sleep

"If you're a politician," says Cassius, "you can just take it easy and sorta go to sleep."

There are some who were on hand in Miami Beach, Convention Hall, who thought that he should have been put to sleep in the fifth round.

Sonny the deposed hit him three stiff right hand shots over the heart and Cassius settled down on his O'Sullivan like King Lear with two armloads of neckties. Why even a one-armed Liston didn't slug him to sleep must remain permanent among such questions as to why Lee's support never came up at Gettysburg.

Had Liston pulled off what was expected, then Clay's future would have been very certain. Gaseous could have had a much more secure future as one of the Madison Avenue boys. He's one of the greatest merchants since that gent from Venice who was halted only by a gallon of unwelcome corpses.

Clay Knows Nothing

Gaseous says with bland innocence that he knows from nothing about who will be his next opponent, or where or when.

But Garland (Bill) Cherry, attorney for Sonny Liston's International Promotions — strictly a business firm devoted to making dollars out of dimes — wasn't whisking Dixie when he said that Clay had been paid $50,000 so that Liston's entourage could name all those propositions.

There was a slight suspicion in this corner that Liston had the firepower to be one of the greatest of champions. If you have some faith, a little smidgen of hope and, at this moment, a great deal of charity, you still might feel that this man from nowhere was cheated once again by the fates who dealt him a brutal blow in damaging his left arm at a great moment of crisis.

Personally I think he should have gone down battling with one gallant arm, if this could be so. In all honesty, I just don't know, and I have been closer to the situation than most.

But I still do not regard Cassius Marcellus Clay as a worthy heavyweight champion of the world — even if he finally shuts his mouth before somebody closes it for him.

DIAGNOSES RUBY — Dr. Fred-eric Gibbs (above), Chicago, authority on epilepsy, says Jack Ruby suffers from rare and dangerous form of the nervous disorder. He said the Lee Harvey Oswald slayer may be the victim of a form of epilepsy that produces rage attacks. He said he diagnosed Ruby's affliction from records of his brain waves sent to him by Dr. Martin Towler of Calveston, Tex., the neurologist appointed by the Dallas court to examine Ruby.

MAKE THEIR OWN AIR—The mice are sealed off from outside air, and breathe oxygen produced by algae. In turn, they supply carbon dioxide to keep the algae alive. It's an apparatus made by 15-year-old John Shirts (right) of Malvern, Pa., for Honeywell's "Science All Stars" TV show. March 8. He and U.S. Navy Capt. William R. Anderson, shown inspecting the glass chamber, will discuss this mode of keeping alive in space or undersea, on the show.

Book Review

At Home In India
by Cynthia Bowles

When her father, Chester Bowles, was appointed ambassador to India, Cynthia, who was reluctant to leave her Connecticut home and the high school where she had just started her Sophomore year. But on a bright October day in 1961 she took off with her family on the long flight to New Delhi.

The choice of a school in India was not easy to make; eventually, however, Cynthia entered the Delhi Public School and there began to make friends with Indians of her own age. Occasional trips to other parts of that vast and varied country, visits in the homes of Indian families of all creeds and classes, volunteer hospital work, some months of study at Santiniketan, the University founded by the great poet Tagore — all these and many other experiences filled Cynthia's 21 months in India. When the time to leave drew near, she knew that she had found a second home, in a country and among people she had learned to love and respect.

No reader can leave this book without greater knowledge of India. More important, through Cynthia Bowles' candid and balanced account of her own growth, every reader will gain an unusual insight into the values of American youth. At Home In India, rewarding reading as adventure in a seemingly strong and complex land, is, as well, a timely, forthright book for everyone interested in International Rectory, visits in the homes of Indian families.
