RANGER SPACECRAFT SCORES DIRECT HIT

Pictures Of Landing Area On Moon Are Sent Back To Earth

By JOSEPH A. ST. AMANT, United Press International.

PASADENA, Calif. (UP) — The Ranger 8 spacecraft scored a direct hit on the moon today and sent back to earth thousands of photographs with "excellent" quality, according to preliminary analysis.

Scientists and engineers at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory which built the spacecraft and supervised the project, were unanimous in declaring the television lunar probe a complete success.

"It was a really astounding feat," said E. M. Cortright, deputy assistant coordinator of space science for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Detailed analysis of the lunar exploration would consume about 12 hours, but preliminary information indicated new and valuable data had been collected on the moon's terrain in and around the Sea of Tranquility.

The apparently smooth area of the moon is considered a likely target for America's manned Apollo moon mission tentatively scheduled for 1970.

Ranger 8 hit the moon at precisely 1:57:57 a.m. PST 4:57:36 a.m. EST after transmitting about 7,500 pictures of the moon's surface during a 23-minute period when its six television cameras functioned. Operation of the cameras was "perfect," according to project scientists.

Ranger 8 completed its 248,768-mile flight in about 68 hours as planned and landed in the "Sea of Tranquility," traveling at a speed of 5,942 miles an hour.

Impact occurred some 22 minutes after a radioed command from earth turned on Ranger 8's six television cameras at 1:33 a.m. PST, 4:33 a.m. EST.

"Preliminary indications were that the signal being received from Ranger 8 is above the anticipated level," it was announced on the public address system where women and scientists were gathered.

Photographic data being received on the lunar surface was described as "excellent."

Earth-bound scientists were jubilant at the successful completion of Ranger 8's mission. They cheered wildly when it was announced that the picture taking occurred.

Two wide-angle cameras and four narrow-angle cameras swept across the moon from the center of the lunar disc near the large crater Pitaeum to the impact point.

The two wide-angle cameras recorded a triangular area about 400 miles long and some 200 miles wide at the base, where photography began, narrowing to the impact point.

The four narrow-angle cameras focused on the moon's surface for more detailed close-up photos.

A spokesman for the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory JPL said Ranger 8's photo assignment included snapping pictures of "a considerable stretch of the highlands, the 'shoreline' of the Sea of Tranquility a just before impact, itself, part of the Sea of Tranquility."

RANGER-8'S EYES — The improved RCA television camera tube displayed by Uta Stone (left) and the six RCA TV camera peering from the aluminum-clad Ranger 8 spacecraft (right) are expected to provide slightly better lunar photos at the end of Ranger-8's 68-hour picture taking mission to the Moon. Ranger-7 produced 4,316 pictures before hitting the lunar surface. Ranger-8's target is the Sea of Tranquility. Technician Ernest Toth, Ranger technician, is adjusting the camera assembly (right).

Two cases were settled out of court this week in Calloway Circuit Court.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Grover Sigmon who lives out on the New Concord Highway has a flower of breath taking beauty, as well as one which will not be found just anywhere.

The name of this exotic plant is Sacred Lily of India, and a look at it gives you the feeling that it is well named.

Here is a picture of Mr. Sigmon with this strange plant with its huge bloom which is twenty inches high and fourteen inches across, and is a deep wine in color.

That spike sticking out of the top of the bloom is not even counted in the twenty inches either.

Now get this. The plant grows out in the yard and has three huge equally size leaves. They resemble palm leaves.

Just before frost Mr. Sigmon goes out and digs up the plant, washes ALL the dirt off the foot wide bulb, and places it in a dish inside the house.

The big palm-like leaves wither away. In fact everything withers away from the bulb. In January things start working again and green shoots come out of the top of the bulb. The thing grows five feet tall and in February it blooms.

Yesterday it was halfway open. When it opens all the way it will be a thing of beauty. Lasts about two weeks.

Mr. Sigmon has had the flower for twelve years. New little bulbets come off the big one and this is the way it is propagated.

The little bulbets take five years before they bloom.

Mr. Sigmon is a retired tinmith and he and his wife moved here from Detroit and bought the Gus Yarbrough place on the New Concord road.

He says the bulbs of this plant get as big as a bathtub.

SEC Games Scheduled This Weekend With Tennessee On TV

By United Press International Tennessee laid its Southeastern Conference title aspirations on the line at Alabama Saturday in a regionally televised basketball game.

The Volunteers tied with Vanderbilt for the SEC leadership with a 9-1 record, battled a fine Alabama team as the conference race entered the stretch phase where each loss could be critical.

Vanderbilt takes on Florida at Nashville in the headliner of a five-game schedule Saturday night. The Commodores last held possession of the SEC lead with a 70-66 loss to Tennessee last Saturday night.

In another game, Auburn 9-3 defends its third-place standing against Kentucky, which is tied for fourth with Florida at 6-4. The Wildcats lost a 91-90 squeaker to Vanderbilt Tuesday night.

The remainder of the schedule has Mississippi State at Louisiana State, Mississippi at Tulane, and Georgia entertaining Georgia Tech in the rubber match of a three-game series between the arch rivals.

Joe Liedtke suffered a bone chip in his ankle in the Cards loss to St. Louis at Louisville Wednesday.

Couch Peck Hickman, who has indicated he may start Liedtke, said that will depend on how he looks in the pre-game warmup. If Liedtke starts, center John Reuther will be moved to forward.

"He didn't limp to any noticeable degree in practice," Hickman said, "although his heel is tender."

In games Friday night, Union College knocked its first 20-game winning season by defeating Kentucky State 78-50. Union also won the KMAC championship earlier.

Union, which hit 43 per cent from the floor as compared with 30 per cent for the Thunderbreds, led from the outset and was never in trouble.

Cumberland had to go into overtime before defeating Howard University 66-57 while Piedmont appended Southeastern Christian 84-54.

A heavy schedule is on tap tonight with Kentucky meeting SEC rival Auburn at Auburn; Kentucky Wesleyan at Evansville, Ind.; Western Michigan at Austin Peay; Western Kentucky at La Salle; Belknap at Berea; Ft. Knox at Kentucky State; Presbyterian at Pikeville; Tennessee Tech at Morehead; East Tennessee at Eastern Kentucky; and Transylvania at Villa Madonna.

Dear Abby . . .

Cash And Carry!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower, 54, well-groomed, gray-haired, tall, slender, and some people say I'm handsome. I earn $15,000 a year and have no dependents or ties. I've had to run fast from many women, rich and prominent, and I don't say that to boast.

I recently met an attractive widow about my age. She is cultured, refined and well-traveled. She has no dependents and we enjoy each other's company. I have reason to believe we could care for each other. She has an income of about $20,000 a year, but she has stated emphatically that she would never contribute to the support of any man. I cannot support her in her present style, but I would be willing to sign a pre-nuptial waiver to all rights of her estate. Would I be wrong to insist that if we married, our incomes should be joined for our mutual benefit? Don't you think this widow had better grab me quick or lose me fast?

A GENTLEMAN DEAR GENTLEMAN: That's up to the lady. It is obvious that you are not out to take advantage of this woman, but she wasn't born yesterday, either. If she will marry you and continue to support herself (but not you), all that stands between you is her $3,000 edge. Waive that and you'll have made yourself a good deal.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who, when he gets mad at his wife, refuses to talk to her, refuses to sleep with her, refuses to come to the table and eat with his family and refuses to get up at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning to go to church with his family even though his wife turned Catholic for him? If he has no respect for his own religion, how can a wife and children have respect for it? Last Sunday our eldest said he wasn't going to church because "Daddy wasn't going." I certainly didn't have any argument to give her, so I let her stay home. In fact, I stayed home, too. If I don't have a nervous breakdown over that man, it will be a miracle. What should I do?

Lindsey Home Scene Of Association Meet Of Women

College Presbyterian Women's Association met Monday evening in the home of the president of the Association, Mrs. Alfred Lindsey. Devotions were led by Mrs. J. O. Williams, who spoke on "Convictions that Bring Us To Action."

Announcement was made of the coming Lenten series of Family Night Mission Study Classes which will be preceded by potluck suppers. It was decided to hold a shower of dish towels for the church kitchen.

After the brief business meeting, Bill Collier spoke on Thailand, showing the beautiful pictures which he made there last summer. The hostess served refreshments of cake and coffee.

Miss Anna Louise Vinson and Joe Howard West Are Married At Cadiz Baptist Church

The marriage of Miss Anna Louise Vinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Vinson, Jr. of Ormsby, to Joe Howard West, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard West of Benton, Illinois, was solemnized in an impressive double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, February 7, at 2:30 at the Cadiz Baptist Church. Rev. Shirley Spahr officiated.

The altar was banked with large baskets of white gladioli and mums. The scene was illuminated by burning white tapers in seven-branched candelabra. White satin boys marked family pews and pink satin boys marked pews of the bride's sorority sisters of Sigma, Sigma, Sigma.

A program of nuptial music, including the traditional wedding marches, was presented by Miss Rudee Ann Rudd, organist, and Miss Jean Morris and Mary Louise Jones, all of Cadiz.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tulle with long sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. The bell-shaped skirt featured a bow at the waist and extended into a chapel train. The tiered veil of tulle fell from a crown of seed pearls. The bride carried a white mink muff centered by a large gladiolus with white satin streamers tied in love knots. Her only jewelry was a pearl pendant necklace given her by the bridegroom.

Mrs. James Clinton West of Murray was matron of honor. She wore a dress of candy pink velveteen designed with scoop neckline, long sleeves, and a bell-shaped skirt. Her matching headpiece was a pillbox with contrasting pink tulle, studded in pearls and circular tulle veil. She carried a candy pink velveteen muff centered with a bouquet of contrasting pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Alice Mackey of Calhoun and Miss Carolyn Sue Vinson, sister of the bride. They wore dresses and headpieces identical to that of the matron of honor and also carried candy pink velveteen muffs centered by a bouquet of contrasting pink carnations.

James Clinton West of Murray, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Larry Burgess, Jerry Stringer, Mike Moss, all of Benton, Ill., and John Robert Vinson III of Cadiz.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vinson chose a double knit dress of midnight blue and black with matching accessories. She wore a white corsage of phloxes and orchids.

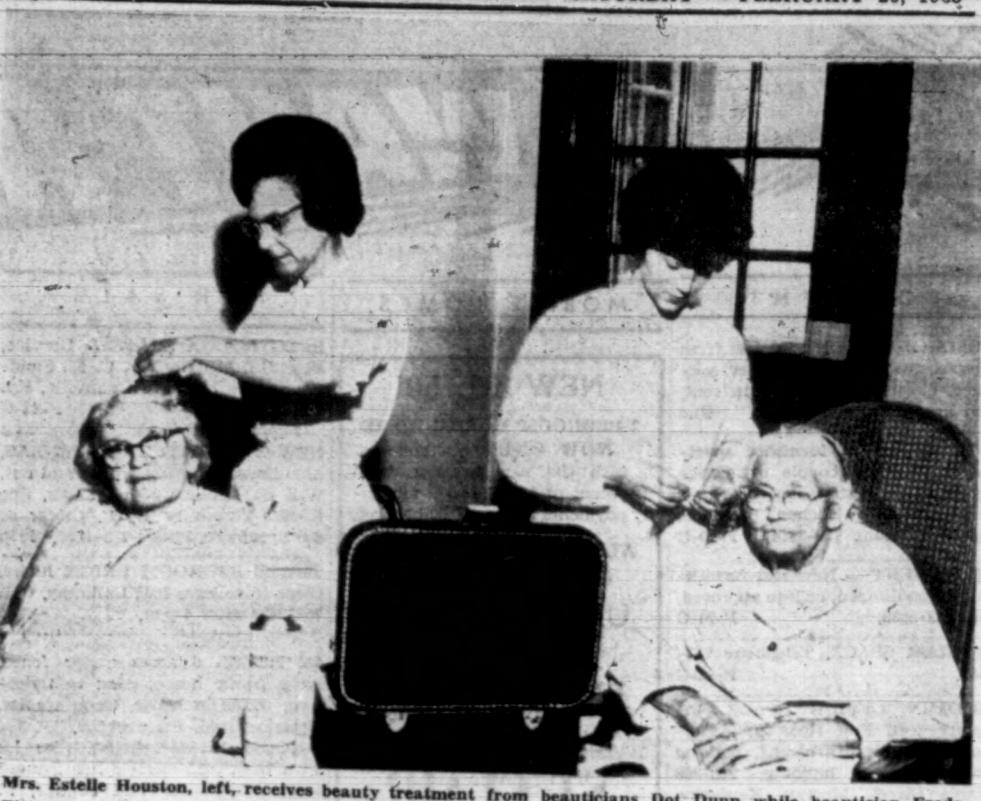

Reception
A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the recreation hall of the church, which was decorated with wedding bells, hearts, and ivy. The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with layers of white net edged in white satin. The centerpiece of pink carnations and frosted wedding bells was flanked by white papers in silver holders. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped by an arrangement of frosted bells.

Pink punch was served from a cut glass punch bowl. Assisting with the serving were Miss Wanda Vinson, Miss Penny Lester and Mrs. Rodney Toole, all of Cadiz and Mrs. Betty Magnus of Henderson. Also helping with the reception were Mrs. Henry E. Vinson, Mrs. John Robert Vinson III, Mrs. Jess E. Vinson of Cadiz, Mrs. Maurice Ryan of Murray, Miss Frances Cameron of Henderson, and Miss Pat Buchanan of Henderson. Mrs. Don Barr kept the punch register.

Before leaving on a southern wedding trip, the bride changed to a two-piece blue and white suit featuring a loose fitting jacket with long sleeves and large buttons. Her carriage was a gladiolus from her bridal bouquet.

After the wedding trip the couple will reside on Beatrice Street in Benton, Ill., where Mr. West, a graduate of Murray State College, is employed by the Benton City School System.

The bride is a junior at Murray State College where she is a member of the Sigma, Sigma, Sigma

The Safe Way

Man should not strive to see how close he can drive to the cliff without falling. He should take heed and give diligence to be safe. Can I get by with this or that is not a good question in spiritual matters, for eternity is involved. One has the right attitude when he can say in all sincerity and love: Lord, this will be done, not mine.

In the words of the apostle, "It is the flesh that is the enemy of the spirit." It is the flesh that is the enemy of the spirit. It is the flesh that is the enemy of the spirit. It is the flesh that is the enemy of the spirit.
