GOOD SIZED CROWD IN TOWN TODAY; STORES DO A GOOD BUSINESS

The Saturday crowd in town was larger today than usual. The candidates were all busy talking with the voters. The merchants report the business as being somewhat better than the usual Saturday run. Quite a lot of tobacco also has been delivered to the various barns. Most of it has already been contracted for.

What About It, Mayfield?

The Mayfield Messenger states that Mayfield will open the season with Dyersburg on May 19. We are not disputing the fact that they may play Dyersburg on that date, but we are told that Fulton has three games with Mayfield before that date. Thus it may be seen that Mayfield will open the season on May 15, with Fulton. Of course it may be that Mayfield is counting on Fulton only as a practice game. If so, we guarantee that the Graves county lads will secure plenty of practice—Fulton leader.

High Freight Rates Cause River Business

ST. LOUIS, April 22—Freight traffic on the Mississippi River at St. Louis is increasing at a rate that presages a return to conditions prevailing before the Civil War, when the city did practically all of its shipping by the water route, according to the annual report of the Merchant's Exchange here. The report shows that 344,965 tons of freight were handled on the river here in 1920, 177,925 tons being received and 167,040 shipped. In 1917, the receipts amounted to 83,070 tons, and the shipments, 67,310, a total of 150,380. In 1922, when river traffic was at its height, the harbor master's report shows the total freight tonnage for St. Louis was 844,951, handled by 3,149 vessels.

STRAW HATS ARE BEING GINNING TO BE SEEN

Now and then one sees a straw hat on the street. Some of them got caught out in the recent cold spells, and are beginning to show frost-bite. Now, however, it is expected that we are going to have a little bit of spring, and a brave man now and then will venture out a few blocks away from home with his straw hat on.

TOWN POLITICS

I'd like to get off of the subject of town politics, just long enough to say that the pictures at the Princess last night were good. The patrons cannot always say this about the pictures, furnished the Dixie and Princess, but the program last night gave more general satisfaction than any they have seen in quite a while.

The opinion of the audience seemed to be about fifty-fifty as to the Nashville picture day before yesterday. Some enjoyed it while I heard quite a number in my neighborhood say that it was tiresome. I wish we could get more bright snappy pictures like the one shown last night.

And now getting back to politics, the city council is going to have to appoint a city attorney right away now to fill out the unexpired term of city Attorney Carter. I have heard that the council up to this time, has no idea as to who it will appoint. It isn't exactly any of my business, except as a taxpayer, but they ought to pick a good one.

WOMAN HEADS KENTUCKY TEACHERS

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 22—Mrs. M. L. Hall, superintendent of Shelby county schools was elected president of the Kentucky Educational Association at the election of officers here today.

The election was made by acclamation following the refusal of Prof. J. W. Ireland, Frankfort, and H. L. Donovan, Catlettsburg, to permit their names to be placed in nomination for the presidency. Prof. Ireland nominated Mrs. Hall.

There was so much confusion following the election of Mrs. Hall, that the election of other officers were considerably delayed.

Mrs. Hall succeeds Prof. J. H. Riley, of Owensboro.

DO YOU REMEMBER WHEN?

Will McGehee ran a restaurant in connection with his bakery and served merchant lunches, consisting of a variety of food, for 15c. He declared that he lost money on the lunch, but that by serving a large number of them he made a profit.

The old Methodist church stood on the corner of Eighth and Broadway, where the old sheet iron shack now stands. There were no street lights on those days. One dark, rainy night, everybody brought his or her lantern to church, and "parked" them in the vestibule, and a bad boy of the town slipped in and stole every last one of them. As a consequence the entire congregation went out into the dark and like to have never reached home.

There used to be a saloon at the Covington drug store corner at Seventh and Broadway. The entrance faced north, and it was the busiest place in town.

Broadway from Eighth to Sixth during the winter months, was from six to ten inches in black mud. In other parts of town there was no gravel and wagons and burles had been known to mire down half deep in mud within two blocks of the church house.

During the civil war a "guerilla bandit" was shot from his horse while galloping along Broadway near the corner of Seventh and Broadway.

CORRECTION

In mentioning the check received by the Clark heirs yesterday it was stated that it came from the Knight Templars, when it should have been said that it came from the Knights of Pythias. It was merely a slip of the typewriter.

SUES FOR LOSS OF BARN AND TOBACCO

J. H. Batts vs. Sam Scholes is the title of a suit filed in the Graves circuit court. According to the petition the plaintiff rented to the defendant some ground for the raising of tobacco, of which he was to receive a share, and that in the curing of the tobacco by Scholes the barn was destroyed together with the tobacco. The plaintiff asks for $500 for the loss of the property and tobacco.

Dr. Holmes Talks Sense To Teachers At Association Meeting

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 22—The American people have valued their livestock higher than their children and know more about the personal hygiene of domestic animals than they do about personal hygiene of themselves, Dr. P. K. Holmes, head of the department of Hygiene and Public Health at the University of Kentucky told the Kentucky Education Association at its annual meeting here today. He spoke on "Some Underlying Principles of Health Education" during a symposium of the new physical education law of Kentucky. Interest in health education, he said, was greatly increased by the great war.

He also declared that through teaching hygiene, the average length of life has been doubled during the past century and that the big city is healthier to live in than the country. Only two per cent of rural homes have anything like adequate sanitary facilities, he said.

"A general health wave is sweeping the whole civilized world due to lessons learned in the war, better general education in health matters, emancipation from the superstitions of the past and the explosion of the idea that the death rate in the world is a fixed number."

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
God give us men. A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands. Men whom the last of office does not kill. Men whom the rigors of office cannot buy. Men who possess opinions and a will. Men who have honor; men who will not lie. Men who can stand before a demagogue. And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking. Fall men, submerged, who live above the fog. In public duty and in private thinking. J. G. HOLLAND.

AMLOSI SON IS THIS?
The Supreme Court of the United States in excluding the illegitimate son of the chorus girl Peggy Marsh and Henry Field, late son of the late Marshall Field, of Chicago, from any inheritance of the Field millions, is abolishing the law of the land, and by so doing is destroying the foundations of our civilization, the foundations of our Christian civilization, which must ever rest its claim for perpetuation on the ethics of woman and her home.

GERMANY IS LOOKING TO US
We wonder why? The late German war lords are now whining and begging the United States to mediate between Germany and the allies, in the matter of reparation, and to say what she shall pay. There you are. Uncle Sam "mediated" once with about two million boys, and it's a pity he stopped "mediating" so soon. A little more Bunker Hill hot-shot would have put Germany in the class of the conquered, where she belonged - instead of leaving her in the attitude of the conqueror.

Well, Uncle Sam, tell her what she's got to pay, and be done with it. We have let her off from "the pound of flesh," but make her pay to the last jot and tittle of her "three thousand ducats." W. D. Haywood, one of the I. W. W. leaders, wanted at Leavenworth prison is reported to have left for parts unknown, but presumably Russia where anarchists thrive. But he can be brought back and he will be, and made to serve his sentence. The law has a long arm. These slackers, alien sympathizers, conscientious objectors, and political traitors, will be dictating terms to the government like Germany dictates to the allies, if we do not hold them to strict accountability. Make them pay.

TO ERR IS HUMAN
Premier Lloyd George defends England's position with regard to Ireland as precisely the same as that of the Federal Government to the Southern states during the Civil war. Mr. George is a statesman with a three-decker brain, and is world-renowned for his knowledge of statecraft - but for all that his logic is faulty, and no better than that of George III, and his satellites, in their dealings with the American Colonies in 1774.

Mr. George forgets both the history of his own country, and the physiology of the Anglo-Saxon mind when he makes that assertion. He would have been nearer the truth, if he had said their relations were almost identical with those of the Thirteenth Colonies and the Mother Country before the Revolutionary war. It is difficult for us to believe that he sees it, in the light of the attempted secession of the old South.

The Southern States of the civil war period had nothing in common with the Ireland of today, in culture; learning, ideas, traditions or governmental obligations - and the Federal Government in its relation to the States had no sense of the right of kings, divine, inherited, dynastic or by the power of the strongest. England holds Ireland under one or the other of these claims. The Civil war was a family quarrel in a family whose members held obligation, purely voluntary and self-imposed. There is no similarity in the position of the seceded states of the South and the Federal Government, and that of present-day Ireland and England.

MONEY OR POLITICS
The Kentucky Education which we in Louisville this week, and which was attended by five thousand or more teachers and many prominent heads of educational institutions both in this state and others, was a convention of vital importance to Kentucky and to the nation at large. Civilization depends upon the education of the masses, and if we expect to maintain the standard of civilization and its institutions, political, religious, and social we shall do well to look to our public schools, and see and know that the conditions surrounding them are such as will promote the cultivation of learning and the building of right character.

Culture of mind and soul is a necessary fundamental in the preservation of life and liberty. It is the masses, who most need this culture - the great cut-stripped classes of the poor, the unlearned, the children of the left-behind, the alien, the incompetent, the unfortunate, the day-laborer, the wage-earner. They are the masses, and through the public or common school, they should be, rather must be, heralded into the Kingdom of God and true citizenship. It is better to spend money on the school, than on penitentiaries, on asylums for the insane, the imbecile, the blind, half and maimed. Most of such evils are mitigated, if not cured, by the obliteration of ignorance, and the substitution of wholesome knowledge might and understanding.

Attention Small Towns Of The County

Hogs will not be permitted to run about the streets of any incorporated town or city in Kentucky this summer and they may be kept in towns only where the space and cleanliness constantly maintained are sufficient to prevent offensive odors or other conditions dangerous to health. Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer has announced. There is a law on the Kentucky statute books which authorizes local health authorities to prosecute persons who permit their hogs to become a nuisance, he explained, and it is the intention of the State board of health to recommend such prosecutions wherever conditions are encountered that seem to demand it. Hogs running at large, he pointed out in explanation of this decision, constitute a real menace to the health of a community. There is an everpresent danger of their polluting the water supplies and unclean pens are a favorite breeding place for flies and a very common source of the disease which flies disseminate.

Come Back and Strike Off Their Shackles, Abe!

Did you know that once upon a time Abraham Lincoln sold liquor? Here's a clipping, passed on by Fred Petre, which purports to be a copy of the license granted to Lincoln and his partner in New Salem, Ill., in 1833: Ordered that William F. Berry, in the name of Berry & Lincoln, have a license to keep a tavern in New Salem, to continue twelve months from this date, and they pay $1 in addition to the $6 heretofore paid as treasurer's receipt, and that they be permitted to charge the following rate viz: French brandy, per half pint, 25 cents. Peach brandy, per half pint, 18 cents. Apple brandy, per half pint, 12 cents. Holland gin, per half pint, 12 cents. Domestic gin, per half pint, 12 cents. Wine, per half pint, 25 cents. Rum, per half pint, 18 cents. Whiskey, per half pint, 12 cents. -Hopkinstown New Era.

Colored People Delighted With New Discovery to Bleach the Skin

Atlanta, Ga. - Says that recent tests have proven without doubt that swarthy or sallow complexions can be made light by a new treatment recently discovered by a man in Atlanta. Just ask your druggist for Cocotte's Skin Whitener. People who have used it are amazed at its wonderful effect. Rid your face of that awful dark color or creasy appearance in a few minutes. It costs so little that you can't afford to be without it. Just think how much prettier you would look with that old dark skin gone and new soft, light skin in its place. Men and women today must care for their complexions to enter society.

BORROWED HUSBANDS

LVI - "The Matter of a Cheque" Nancy went down to the doctor, waiting in the hall below, pondering Edith's words. What a queer thing love was to make a splendid woman like Edith know such depths of wretchedness! It seemed to be the penalty of a great devotion, wait some less lighter, fancy was rendered by happiness.

She tried to look dispassionately at the man who stood at the foot of the stairs; tried to separate him from the queer magnetism which his physical presence exercised, tried to see him as he was just an ordinarily pleasant looking man; with slightly greying hair and slightly increasing weight, whose face showed traces of self-indulgence and a faint suggestion of cruelty. "She tried to build up an armor against the overpowering attraction of him when he spoke, when his brilliant eyes were turned full upon her and she had come within the radius of the strange physics something which made him not only a fascinating man, but a great surgeon.

She succeeded only in returning his smile as he took her arm and plotted her down the veranda steps to the waiting car. "Why don't we take Edith with us?" she suggested. "I found her moaning in the twilight upstairs. I think the air would do her good. She seems dreadfully upset by the accident of Fleurette." "She was rather interested in the girl, I believe," replied the doctor, ignoring the suggestion, and sending the car leaping down the drive. "Edith goes in for all sorts of charity."

"Fleurette didn't look like an object of charity in that gown she wore when she was lunching with you," said Nancy deliberately. The doctor looked at her keenly. "Do you think Edith suspects?" "Do you think Edith is a fool?" countered Nancy. "She is about me," was the complacent reply. "Oh," gasped Nancy. "How I could hate you!" "But how you will love me - some day!" he said softly. For a moment Nancy believed that she could not have heard aright. Her second instinct was one of blind rage. But she realized quite well that nothing would be so stupid as resentment or denial of such an outrageous statement. "Perhaps I shall," she agreed sweetly, "when I've done being in love with Gerry and Major Desmond and a few others. You can have the remnant of my affection, if you like." Watching him closely in the faint glow of the dashlight, she noted that he looked a bit disconcerted; then he set his chin stubbornly, but made no reply. "Here we are." He brought the car to a stop beside the mudhole where the overturned touring car loomed darkly. There was no sound but the murmur of the water against the shore. The little man who had wrought the damage had vanished from the scene, leaving no trace. The license plate was gone, and the number of the car crudely obliterated. "He didn't care what he did to the remains," muttered the doctor after an examination. "The car's wrecked beyond repair. Pretty good salvage since it's been completely abandoned. Hello, what's this?" "In stepping gingerly across the muddy space, his heel had caught on what looked in the rays of the motor lamp, like a bit of cord. As he pulled back his foot, something came to view out of the muddy water.

FARMINGTON

Tobacco plants are scarce in this section. What the freeze didn't kill the bugs are eating up. If nothing happens tobacco will chew good another year, if it doesn't sell for much. Fruit has all been killed in this part of the country, but maybe we will have a few blackberries. Little chickens are plentiful, as most everyone has a yard full. Uncle Wash Hughes is still very poorly. The rain Saturday night made the ground too wet to plow for a few days. Walter Hudspeth returned from the lake Saturday evening with a load of fish. J. H. Turner is progressing nicely on his new house and will soon have it completed. Miss Zula Brown has returned home after spending most of the winter with her brother in Birmingham, Ala. Some few in this neighborhood have planted corn, but are likely to have to plant it over.

Card of Thanks

I take this method of thanking my neighbors and friends and also Dr. Fuller who so kindly assisted me during the illness and death of my husband. The many acts of kindness will always be remembered and may God's richest blessings be upon each one of you in my prayer. MRS. O. R. HENRY.

I tell my friends when they ask me what helped me, and they think it must be a grand medicine. And it is. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish." - Mrs. HARRY A. WILSON, R. F. ### Teachers Convention Hears Good Talk From J. Virgil Chapman

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 21—The one-teacher rural school can be made a potent factor in the development of rural life, but the advantage of consolidated schools are superior in every way, J. Virgil Chapman, State Supervisor of Rural Schools, said here today in an address before the annual meeting of the Kentucky Education Association. "Mistakes may be made, as in other affairs, but no community has ever been so reactionary as to abandon a well-organized school of the type (consolidated) and return to the old one-room single-teacher plan of rural school," he said.

Mr. Chapman spoke on "Some Phases of Rural Progress." "Every country child in the land must first of all have a real teacher—healthy, happy, refined, well-trained, well-housed, well-paid," said Mr. Chapman. "Democracy demands that the country boy and girl be given equal educational advantages with those of the city. It likewise demands that such requisites as agricultural, vocational and high school instruction be furnished without severing home ties. Common decency, sanitation and health as well as the influence of environment of social and moral development—all suggest to intelligent public spirited citizens the necessity for a commodious, attractive, properly lighted, heated and ventilated school building. It should be provided with assembly hall, gymnasium, library, modern equipment and ample ground for play and agriculture; demonstration work when desired. For comfort, economy and convenience of teachers, practically all of us agree that such a school plant is not complete without a teachers' cottage. It is, of course, understood that we should have longer terms; regular attendance, a richer and more satisfactory course of study, a true spirit of community service—with the school a vital and effective center of the intellectual, agricultural, social and civic life of the entire community."

"It is not our purpose," Mr. Chapman, continued, "to discredit the work of the one teacher school. Some communities, because of roads, topography and economical conditions will have them for many years to come through the influence of zealous, capable teachers of personality and power they can be made potent factors in the development of rural life. On the other hand, history, statistics, observation and experience of teachers, pupils and patrons in every state in the country testify to the superior ad-antages of typical consolidated schools." The natural conservatism of Kentuckians has made the progress of the consolidation movement slow, the supervisor said, continuing: "The grouping of rural schools is shown tendency toward consolidation of by statistics: Under the head of 'White schools with two or more teachers,' we find in 1911, 631 schools; in 1915, 888 schools; in 1919, 1022 schools. Under 'White Consolidated Sub-district schools,' meaning the union of two or more schools, usually without tax or transportation, we find in 1911, 197; in 1915, 299 and in 1919, 362. The county school tax in 1915 was $928,000 and in 1919, $1,675,000. Teachers' cottages: in 1911, two in two counties; in 1915, five in five counties; in 1919, seven in seven counties and in 1919, 25 in 16 counties. There are now at least thirty or forty Real consolidated schools with free transportation: in 1911, one; in 1915, six; in 1919, nineteen and in 1921 at least 25 or 30. For transportation in Kentucky there are now twenty times as many motor buses as there were three years ago.

"Several large projects have been affected in the last few months a number of counties are to be studied with a view to a county-wide consolidation program. It is now believed that Shelby and perhaps a few others can boast of 100 per cent consolidation within another year. The sentiment is growing away where."

Mr. Chapman said that there were 73,000 consolidated rural schools in the United States, made up of 65,000 former districts and attended by 2,000,000 pupils, who are given free transportation.

A Peculiar Man Is The Moonshiner

LOUISVILLE, KY., April 22—"Moonshining mountaineer" is a very peculiar and oftentimes picturesque character, in the opinion of R. Sautley, veteran raider. The very deliberate efforts to conceal an illicit still frequently is the only clue revenue officers have as to its location. Often, when making a dash to the scene of operations, instead of its being a general one, it will be very narrow, the operator having been careful to put one foot directly in front of another in an effort to make the path as inconspicuous as possible. It is a well-known fact, he said, that when one of the men is being taken from his family to jail, he will not show any affection for his folks, no matter how much he may care for them. "The women," Sautley said, unlike many of their sisters, seldom whimper when the men are being taken away. "The children up to the age of seven, will talk, but after they reach that age, a stranger seldom can get anything out of them. Among the first and often the only questions the mountain men ask the officers is whether they will be put in jail. To their free, roving spirits, confinement is a thing the dread most. If they go any farther with their questions they ask 'when turned me up,' and, according to the officer, it is death for the information, if he is found out. Many of them do not manifest any real for revenue officers whom they recognize as doing their duty. But an outsider is never forgiven if he tells where a still is located, he said, because it is held by the moonshiner to be "none of their business."

Sees End of Buyers' Strife
 Few more weeks of standstill business, then a general revival about July 1. That the opinion of Judge Robert S. Lovett, after a long tour through the middle west. He is chairman of the board of the United Pacific railroad.
 Lovett found stocks of necessary merchandise very low all through the west. But many things have to be bought, good times or bad. Merchandise stocks can get just so low then buying is compulsory. Here Lovett's prediction that "the end is in sight."
 More optimistic is the Harve committee on economic research which believes that "the period of general decline of business and commodity prices may be near its end."
 Federal reserve bank of Boston reduces its discount rate from 7 to 6 per cent. Period of easy money has started. This is further indicated by revival of speculation. Credit is being kept extremely tight by cautious bankers in the southwest, and cattlemen are hardest hit.

WEAK; RUN-DOWN

Carolina Lady Got So She Couldn't Just Drag—"Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.
 Kernersville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mabe, near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago. I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't sleep to do any good; couldn't do a thing without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, but I continued to drag.
 "I decided to give Cardui a trial and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous weak feeling began to leave. Soon was sleeping good.
 "Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did.
 "I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired all the time. It brought her right and soon she was as well as a child could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui."
 Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from women's troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. More than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and for just as Mrs. Mabe describes. At your druggist's. NO.
