David Manning Dies In Automobile Accident As Car Smashes Into Tree

Succumbs At Murray Hospital As Attempts Made To Save Life

Eighteen-year-old David Manning succumbed yesterday afternoon to fatal injuries incurred in an automobile accident which occurred at 3:00 p.m. Young Manning died at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital shortly after he was admitted. He was the son of City Patrolman Brent and Mrs. Manning, of 103 South Fourteenth Street.

Deputy Sheriff Dale Spann said yesterday evening that apparently Sparks, age 16, lost control of the car as he was proceeding west on the Martin's Chapel Road. He lost control of the car in front of the home of Harold Brown and skidded 512 feet down the paved road, striking a stump and a tree, then bouncing over into the woods along side the road.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Mrs. Charles Ryan gets her Masters Degree this week. A top flight business course instructor at Calloway County High, Mrs. Ryan is one of a number of Murray women who are improving themselves in their chosen field.

A nice person is Mrs. Don Shelton.

Take a drive around town and see the newly paved streets. There is nothing like a paved street to upgrade an area.

How are all you gourd growers doing? We have had only a few reports. This seems to be a good year for vines, but thus far we have had no reports on the gourds themselves.

One lady tells us she planted some gourds in a flower box and they are about to take over the house.

Dr. Farr, who heads the language department out at the college comes up with this one which is attributed to George Bernard Shaw.

Ghost spells fish.

Here's how. Use the "gh" sound from enough for the "f". Use the "f" sound in women for the "r". Use the "r" sound in nation for the "sh". There you have it ghost or fish.

That is just another example of what makes English so difficult to learn.

DEATH CAR — Eighteen-year-old David Manning lost his life in this 1965 Ford Galaxy yesterday afternoon about three o'clock when the driver lost control on the Martin's Chapel Road and struck a stump and a tree. He succumbed at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital shortly after he was admitted.

Sidewalk Sale Planned For Next Weekend

The Retail Division of the Murray Chamber of Commerce said today that the Murray Sidewalk Sale, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, August 13 and 14th, will be the biggest in history. Last years crowd almost doubled the year before.

James L. Johnson, Murray Chamber, said that almost all merchants have indicated that they will participate in this years biggest promotional event. He said that hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise will be offered at sacrifice prices. In many cases the items go far below the merchants cost.

Several stores have said that their salespeople will be dressed in costumes of their choice. Last year, a great part of the shopping crowd also dressed in various costumes, from gay nineties to the wild west.

Stores participating in the event will use the sidewalk and parking area in front of their stores for display. Counters will be piled high with merchandise being offered for sale at discount prices. All merchants will feed their own parking meters to keep tickets from being placed on their booths for overtime parking.

The 1964 Sidewalk Sale drew thousands of tourists to Murray to take advantage of the holiday spirit and money saving values a chamber spokesman said. Most stores will add new values to their tables on an hourly basis, throughout both Friday and Saturday.

The Sidewalk Sale will start at 8:00 a.m. each day and close at 5:00, or when the salespeople "completely exhaust themselves".

Homecoming Planned By Church On Sunday

There will be a homecoming service at the Chestnut Street Presbyterian Church on Sunday, August 8.

Several groups of singers will be present for the service and a dinner will be served at the noon hour. The public is invited to attend this service.

The pastor, Rev. James T. Todd invites the public to attend other services of the church. Sunday School begins at 10:00 a.m.

Murray ROTC Is Second From Top

Murray State College ROTC Advance Corps Cadets attending the 1965 ROTC Summer Camp at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pennsylvania, the site of the largest Army ROTC six week training program, completed the most successful program in Murray State College history.

Major General Van H. Bond, camp commander announced that Murray State College finished in second place in the institution performance ratings in which fifty-two major colleges and universities competed. Murray State missed first place by eight-tenths of a point, Virginia Military Institute finished first with a score of 55.2 followed by Murray State with 55.0.

Thousands See Mysterious Winks And Blinks In The Sky

OKLAHOMA CITY 8PM — Thousands of persons across the nation's Midlands and Southwest, again Tuesday night reported seeing mysterious flashing, winking and sparkling phenomena that sped and sometimes zig-zagged across the skies.

The Air Force contends most of the sightings were probably just stars or planets.

Kiwanis Members To Tour Watershed

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Murray will make a tour of the Clarke River Watershed on their regular weekly meeting night. Members are to meet at the South Side Restaurant at 5:00 instead of the usual 6:30 time and start the tour from there.

Stops will be made at a number of farms where they will be a demonstration of minimum tillage, open ditch drainage and other conservation practices. Other stops will be made to see road bank stabilization, gully control and a farm pond. A flood retaining structure on the Brown Tucker farm on Damon Creek, which is a tributary of the west fork of Clarke River water shed will be seen and members will be served a picnic lunch at this flood control structure.

RETURN FROM VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wells have just returned from a trip to Austin, Texas for a visit with their son Eddie, who is doing graduate work at the University of Texas. While in Texas they visited Johnson City and the LBJ ranch. They also drove over to Houston for a baseball game in the new stadium stadium and a visit to the NASA space center there. They visited many other points of interest while there.

The Heater family lived in Murray for a number of years. The four Heater girls all graduated from Murray State College.

High Teacher Qualification Is Reported By Board of Education

The teaching staff for the coming year has been selected by the Murray Board of Education.

A board spokesman said that it is felt that "our community can be proud of the excellent staff of teachers employed to teach our young people."

The spokesman said that all teachers in the elementary grades hold degrees and also hold majors in elementary education.

The Murray High staff also hold degrees and in addition are teaching in their major or minor field of study. There are ten teachers who hold a Masters Degree plus thirty hours over the Masters degree. Twenty six other teachers hold the Masters Degree and the remainder have the Bachelors Degree.

Fred Schultz, Superintendent of City Schools said that Murray ranks near the top in the qualification of teachers. The state average for teachers holding the Masters Degree plus thirty hours is 23 per cent. Murray Schools have a per centage of 12.4 per cent. The state average for teachers with the Masters Degree is 18.4 while in the Murray City Schools this average is 35.3 per cent.

The state average for teachers with the Bachelors Degree is 67.5 and the Murray Schools percentage is 81.4.

Frederick Schultz, Superintendent of City Schools and Preston Holland, Assistant Superintendent, Mrs. Ruth Mae Doherty is General Supervisor and Fredrick Laister, Director of Pupil Personnel. Mrs. Mary Louise Baker is Lunchroom Supervisor and Miss Ruth Lassiter, Finance Officer.

Following are the faculties of the city schools.

Hearing On Substation Is Held Tuesday

A public hearing was held yesterday at the Murray City Hall on the proposed construction of a fire substation at the corner of Locust and South Sixteenth streets.

The hearing was conducted by the Murray Board of Zoning Adjustment with Wells Overbey as chairman. He explained that the city of Murray had filed a request for a permit to construct the substation on a lot 128 feet north and south and 165 feet east and west on the southeast corner of the intersection of Locust and South Sixteenth.

Fire Chief Pavil Robertson explained that the building will conform to the residences in the area and will not detract from the general neighborhood.

A number of residents in the area appeared at the hearing. Some expressed the fear that the construction of the substation was a prelude to rezoning the area for business purposes. Chairman Overbey and City Councilman Charles Mason Baker both expressed the opinion that this was not being considered. Baker said that the area, now zoned R-1 will be changed to R-2 in the future. This is the only R-1 area in the city, he explained, and by changing it to R-2, the construction of houses in the area will be subject to less restriction.

Some of those present expressed the opinion that with Robertson School so near by some danger to school children might be presented by the substation. Chief Robertson said that in his experience children observe safety regulations concerning fire trucks better than many adults, by moving to the sides of the streets. He did indicate that some education along these lines might be needed.

He also explained that it is necessary for the substation to be located on a main street and that the Kentucky Inspection Bureau which sets fire insurance rates for the city of Murray, favored a location for the new substation somewhere on Sixteenth between Main and Sycamore. The lot under consideration is the only lot available, Robertson told the group.

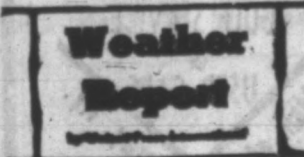

Apparently most of those attending the hearing had no vociferous objection to the location of the substation as long as property values were not injured and as long as proper safety regulations were followed.

Chairman Overbey told the group that the board would not pass on the permit until an artist's conception of the building was presented by the city so that the board would know what the station will look like.

The hearing adjourned at 4:35.

Destructive Fire Hits St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. 8PM — St. Louis' most destructive fire in nearly a century demolished four buildings and damaged two others in a downtown warehouse district today. Flames raged out of control for more than four hours in a two-block area.

Major damage was inflicted on the city's half-finished new downtown sports arena. The sprawling six-story Straphigh annex building was leveled. Its 10-story smokestack toppled into the flaming rubble and two cars were leading from the structure collapsed in flames onto the tracks of the Terminal Railroad.

The glow in the night sky could be seen 15 miles from the city. Break southerly winds for a time tossed firebrands into the air, threatening neighboring buildings.

One fireman was overcome by smoke, but not seriously injured, and no major injuries were reported. Most of the buildings in the area were vacant. Officials said it was the worst fire since 1877, when 300 persons perished in a blaze at the old Southern Hotel. The worst fire in the city was believed to have happened in 1849 when 400 buildings and 27 steamboats went up in flames.

Almanac

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Today is Wednesday, August 4, the 210th day of 1965 with 149 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

Those born today are under the sign of Leo. English poet Percy Shelley was born on this day in 1792.

On this day in history: In 1788, freedom of the press was established when John Zenger, publisher of a New York newspaper, was acquitted of libel.

In 1914, England declared war on Germany and the U.S. announced its neutrality.

In 1916, the U.S. bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $5 million.

In 1953, China released 11 U.S. Air Force fliers after they had been held for more than 2½ years after being taken during the Korean conflict.

A thought for the day — French Gen. Ferdinand Foch said: "My center is giving way, my right is pushed back, situation excellent, I am attacking."

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Baghdad radio announced Monday a ban by Iraq on all travel to neighboring Iran because of a cholera epidemic there. Iranian officials reported Sunday that 400 persons have been infected and 80 have died of the disease.

TOY HANDCUFFS

URAWA, Japan (AP) — Police were flabbergasted Saturday when they discovered that toy handcuffs sold at a festival were identical to the handcuffs they used — and with the same key.

They quickly stopped the sale of the toys.

Maremont First Half Income Sets New Record; Sales Up

Reflecting sharply rising sales of its textile machinery and after-market automotive lines, Maremont Corporation reported today (July 29), its operating income after taxes of $2,366,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1965, a gain of 34 percent and a new high for this period, compared with $1,785,000 for the first half of 1964, excluding a capital gain of $287,000 for the 1964 period. Net income as reported for the half of 1964 included the capital gain of $287,000, amounting to $2,098,000 and on this basis 1965 net income of $2,366,000 was up 16 percent. There were no capital gains during the first half of 1965.

Net operating income amounted to $1,238 per share, compared with 81 cents per share for the first half of 1964, an increase of 40 percent. Per share earnings as reported for the first half of 1964 included the capital gain of $287,000, amounting to $1,238 per share, compared with 81 cents per share for the first half of 1964, an increase of 40 percent.

"Automotive aftermarket sales rose substantially during the second quarter," said Arnold H. Maremont, president of the Chicago-based diversified company. "Sales gains to both wholesale distributors and to national chain store and mail order accounts continued at high levels."

"Canadian and foreign replacement and original equipment sales in Europe, Mexico and Venezuela showed sharp gains, with original equipment orders for shock absorbers from Ford, General Motors, Chrysler, Fiat and Toyota. Our shock absorber plant in Magnat, France is expected to be on stream this fall," he noted.

"Our Textile Group's fiber preparatory machinery sales are up substantially, due to the bright outlook for textile mill production, the trend toward mill modernization and the competitive advantages enjoyed by our fully machinery," said Maremont.

"For example," he noted, "this country's first completely automated mill, fully Saco-Lowell/Maremont equipped, will be in production this fall. The mill, Beaulieu Textile Division of the Beaulieu Corporation, at Clinton, North Carolina is expected to set new records for speed and efficiency of operation."

"First delivery of our automatic doffer has been made to Swift Spinning Mills, Columbus, Georgia. The automatic doffer takes the place of a human doffer, removes yarn-filled bobbins and replaces them with empty ones, thus eliminating both the critical shortage of skilled doffers and a potential mill bottleneck."

"Overseas sales of our Saco-Lowell textile machinery are up substantially over the first half of 1964 with, for example, a $1,500,000 single order placed from a Santiago, Chile, mill. We have also received orders from Mexico, South Africa, Columbia, Japan and Europe. Our joint subsidiary, Serra, S. A., in Barcelona, Spain has made its first delivery of orders to the European market, and will soon produce our Saco-Lowell Rovomatic high speed roving frames," stated Maremont.

"While our contract with the military for the production of M-60 machine guns in our Saco, Maine plant will end during the third quarter of this year, the Viet Nam situation indicates the possibility of a renewal. Meanwhile, M-60 machine gun spare parts orders are being received in increasing amounts," he said.

"Both orders for new and remanufactured automotive aftermarket replacement parts, and for textile machinery, continue to increase in line with production rates of the automotive and textile industries during the past three years. With consumer demand for these products at an all time high, we see a continuation of the trend toward rising sales and profits," concluded Maremont.

Cupid Is On The Prowl Mr. Bachelor

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Bachelor, beware. Cupid's on the prowl, according to statisticians.

About 1,731,000 marriages were performed in the United States in 1964, a 4.5 percent rise over 1963. It was the sixth year in succession marriage totals have increased.

In Canada, the number of marriages rose sharply to an all-time high of 141,000 in 1964. The previous record was 137,398 in 1946. In 1963 it was 131,111.

Wedding bells in the United States started to ring overtime during the spring of 1963. In September, Cupid got an assist from Uncle Sam; married men were allowed draft deferments and the marriage market boomed.

However, the upsurge may be ending. From October through early 1965 only small increases have been reported, compared with the year before.

Them's little Atlantic States recorded a gain of 7.4 percent between 1963 and 1964, outranking every other geographic division in the United States. Pennsylvania's 12.7 percent was tops in the nation. In New York the number was up 5.2 per cent, and in New Jersey, 5.3 percent.

The New England area recorded the smallest relative increases in marriages last year. Not one of the states in that geographic division, equaled the country's average. In Massachusetts marriages actually were below the number of a year ago.

Elsewhere, only two other states—Arkansas and Montana—and the District of Columbia experienced a reduction in the number of marriages, with Montana's 6.1 decrease the nation's low. All five of the largest cities in the United States reported a rise in marriages last year. The increases ranged from less than 1 percent in Philadelphia to about 10 percent in the Detroit area.

In New York City, marriages increased 5.2 percent, from 67,886 in 1963 to 70,953 in 1964. The gains amounted to 4 percent in the Chicago area and 8 percent in and about Los Angeles.

For the major cities, as a group, the number rose 3.2 percent. In 1964, four fifths reported an increase in marriages last year. Rockford, Ill., headed the list with a rise of 18 percent; next in order were Kansas City, Kan.; Greensboro, N.C.; Paterson and Elizabeth, N.J.; and Yonkers, N.Y.—all with increases of at least 10 percent.

In contrast, about one fifth of the major cities experienced fewer marriages last year than in 1963, but Dunth was the only one with a decrease of as much as 10 percent.

THE NEW TRIMLINE PHONE—The Bell System is introducing this new telephone, called the Trimeline, over the nation. The dial tone button, receiver and transmitter are all in the caller's hand. A touch of the dial tone button next to the dial recalls the dial tone between calls so the user doesn't have to reach for the base to hang up to get a dial tone. The dial is three-fourths of an inch smaller than current dials.

Bridal Shower Held At Adams' Home For Miss Rhonda Vance

Mrs. Nolan Adams' home at 714 Olive Street was the scene of the bridal shower given in compliment to Miss Rhonda Kaye Vance, August 4th bride-elect of James Edward Windsor, on Friday, July 30, at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

Assisting Mrs. Adams in the hostess' duties were Mrs. Joe Marton, Mrs. T. R. Tripp, and Mrs. John Compton.

The honoree chose to wear for the occasion a two piece ensemble consisting of a navy skirt with white over blouse with navy tie with a large bow at the end. Her mother, Mrs. Clifford Vance, was assisted in a black lace dress. Both wore hat-trimmed gift coronas of white carnations.

Games were played with Mrs. Starkie Olson, Mrs. T. A. Thacker, and Mrs. Rupert Maynard being the recipients of the prizes.

Two large wedding bells were hung above the gift table with yellow streamers extending from the bells to the ends of the table. Arrangements of pink flowers were used as "center pieces" throughout the house.

Refreshments were served from the dining room table overlaid with lace cloth and centered with a lovely floral arrangement. Punch, cake, nuts and minis were served. Present or pending gifts were sixty-five persons.

Rhonda Kaye Vance Honored At Shower At Fellowship Hall

Miss Vance, wearing a yellow and white lace dress with a hostess' gift coronas of yellow roses, opened her many gifts which were placed on a table from which two large wedding bells hung suspended from the ceiling with red and white streamers.

The honoree's mother, Mrs. Clifford Vance, chose to wear a white dress and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Buford Windsor, wore a black dress. Their hostess' gift coronas were of white carnations.

Recipients of the game prizes were Misses B. Thacker and Miss Rosemary.

Refreshments of punch, cake, minis, and nuts were served from the beautifully appointed table overlaid with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses.

Fifty-five persons were present or sent gifts.

Dear Abby . . . Think Twice, Honey! Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and never finished high school. I want to work to help out as there were tiny kids in our family, all younger than myself, and Dad wasn't much of a provider.

I met a man about six months ago who is 30 years older than I am. I went out with him at first with a lot of other people, never thinking he could be serious about me. Now he calls me every day inviting me to dinner, movies, dancing, or anywhere I want to go. He is just wonderful to me, but he is terribly jealous. I know he will ask me to marry him I.E., since living conditions aren't very pleasant at home, what should I do? I know he would take very good care of me, but is that enough? My mother says it's better to be an old maid than to have a young man's slave. Can you help . . .

DEAR ABBY: The series of letters in your column dealing with patients who refused to surrender their desire to the nurse just prior to surgery prompts this letter. I also dreaded removing my dentures under similar circumstances. I solved the problem with the help of an "aide." I asked her for a surgical mask to wear to aid from the operating room. After I'm "under" I don't care who sees me. But I am terrified to the point of tears to be seen without my dentures. That surgical mask saved my pride.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to a very fine woman for over a year and we are expecting a child soon. He says if it is a girl he would like to name it after his first wife, Abby, he has talked constantly about his first wife since we've been married. He also carries pictures of her around with him and shows them to people. He even compares me with her. I have never said anything to him about how I feel because I shouldn't be jealous of a poor woman who is a year and a half dead. He says he loves me, and I'm sure he does, but he is slowly breaking my heart. What do you suggest?

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: How insensitive can a man be! Of course, if you suffer in silence is foolish. Tell him how you feel about his constant references to his first wife. And if you're wise, under no circumstances will you name your baby "Abby" after her.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married almost 40 years and I have had all sorts of problems, but they have never one I've never had before. Lately my husband has been talking in such a loud voice he embarrasses me to death. When we go shopping, everyone in the store turns around to look at him because he talks so loud. I just dread going out with him. Don't tell me to tell him to keep his voice down because I have, and he says, "I'M NOT TALKING ANY LOUDER THAN USUAL."

NOW YOU KNOW

By United Press International
Guns were used in 54 per cent of all murders in 1964, but in only 15 per cent of assaults with intent to kill, while knives and similar weapons were used in 24 per cent of the homicides and 40 per cent of the aggravated assaults, according to the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR ABBY: I suggest that your husband have his hearing checked. But don't whisper or gossip about his hearing. I think he's become hard-of-hearing.

DEAR ABBY: The series of letters in your column dealing with patients who refused to surrender their desire to the nurse just prior to surgery prompts this letter. I also dreaded removing my dentures under similar circumstances. I solved the problem with the help of an "aide." I asked her for a surgical mask to wear to aid from the operating room. After I'm "under" I don't care who sees me. But I am terrified to the point of tears to be seen without my dentures. That surgical mask saved my pride.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to a very fine woman for over a year and we are expecting a child soon. He says if it is a girl he would like to name it after his first wife, Abby, he has talked constantly about his first wife since we've been married. He also carries pictures of her around with him and shows them to people. He even compares me with her. I have never said anything to him about how I feel because I shouldn't be jealous of a poor woman who is a year and a half dead. He says he loves me, and I'm sure he does, but he is slowly breaking my heart. What do you suggest?

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: How insensitive can a man be! Of course, if you suffer in silence is foolish. Tell him how you feel about his constant references to his first wife. And if you're wise, under no circumstances will you name your baby "Abby" after her.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married almost 40 years and I have had all sorts of problems, but they have never one I've never had before. Lately my husband has been talking in such a loud voice he embarrasses me to death. When we go shopping, everyone in the store turns around to look at him because he talks so loud. I just dread going out with him. Don't tell me to tell him to keep his voice down because I have, and he says, "I'M NOT TALKING ANY LOUDER THAN USUAL."

New Bestseller by Eric Ambler A KIND OF ANGER

From the author of "The Day After Tomorrow" and "The Day After Tomorrow" by Eric Ambler. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 28
LUCIA Bernard went to her coat, produced a large envelope, folded in from the pocket, and gave it to me. "That will make Skurietti reasonable," she said.

I opened the envelope. Inside were two legal-size, manila filing folders, each with some sheets of paper inside. There were three lines of Arabic script on the outside of each folder. They appeared to be identical.

The sheets inside were covered with Arabic script, all very small and neatly done in green ink. Pencil in all corners were combinations of numerals. They were the only things I could read. I asked her what they meant.

"They are the report and section numbers to which the pages belong," she said. "Do you know what any of the rest of it means?"

"No. But Skurietti will, and he will like what he reads. The pages were chosen very carefully for their interest. Those are the two sets I spoke of."

"I see." I put the folder away in the drawer and returned the other to the envelope.

I put the gun in one of the side pockets of my plastic raincoat. The envelope I put into the other pocket. Then I went and washed my hands.

When I came down again Lucia was in the kitchen stirring a pot of soup.

She said, "My father told me that in the war some people became very hungry when they were nervous or afraid, and that others were not very hungry. I am the not-very-hungry type. If I shall eat will be a cup of soup. What about you?"

"The same please."

She looked at me significantly. "He also said that you could always tell the ones who would run away first when things became dangerous. They could eat nothing at all."

I left at nine o'clock. It was only a few minutes after the Relais Fleuries, but I wanted to be there well before the appointed time in case Skurietti was early.

Lucia had explained to me where I should leave the car: there was a space behind the street filling station which could not be seen from the Relais parking area. It had been there that she had left her car on the night of the interview.

There was a quarter moon; it cast deep shadows; I did not feel too exposed there, I did not feel very much alone. I could hear voices and an occasional snatch of laughter from inside the Relais.

Some of the guests arrived and I gave up my seat.

Its headlights went out. I waited a moment or two and then I made sure that there were no other cars approaching on the road; then I got out of the Citroën, quietly closed the door and walked across the yard of the filling station towards the Tannus. It seemed a long way, and I had to keep one hand clamped to my side to keep the revolver still, but I forced myself not to hurry.

I approached the Tannus from the rear in order to make sure that the driver was Skurietti and that there was no one with him. He heard my footsteps and turned at once. I opened the rear door and got in behind him.

He threw me his toothy smile and said, "Good evening."

"Good evening, Mr. Skurietti."

"It is a great pleasure to see you again."

"The pleasure is mutual. Shall we get down to business?"

"Here?"

"No. Here we merely discuss how the business is to be conducted. Under the circumstances I feel that you won't mind if I determine the procedure."

"I am sure that it will not be unreasonable."

"Not in the least. First, I must tell you that I am armed."

"For a friendly business discussion?" He had twisted around on the front seat so that he could see my face. The light from the Relais sign gave him a spotted look.

"You're not armed yourself, Mr. Skurietti?"

"Certainly not." He seemed irritated at the suggestion. "I have to do a great deal of traveling, and weapons can be a great inconvenience with customs authorities. In any case, we of the Transnomic Agency act only for serious business interests. It is our policy to avoid violence."

"I'm delighted to hear it. What I propose now is that you drive for about half a kilometer in the direction of Nice. There is a place there where you can stop. You may then examine the credentials we spoke about. After that we can talk."

"Agreed."

He was a painstaking but unskilful driver; I was glad that I didn't have to go far with him. The place I had chosen for the meeting was a small re-entrant in the hillside which was used by the road maintenance gangs as a dump for broken concrete and ballast. I had noticed it two nights earlier. Skurietti surveyed it approvingly, then switched off the lights.

"The next stage in the procedure is that I give you several documents to read," I said.

"That, of course, I expected. I came prepared." He produced a massive flashlight from the glove compartment and a small magnifying glass from his pocket.

"There are certain conditions attached to your reading these documents," I said.

"Conditions?" The tips closed sharply over the teeth.

"They must be read thoroughly only once and no notes must be taken, and they must be returned."

BOY HURT
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — L. J. Wilson, 12, Taller Station, was reported in "good" condition today with a head injury suffered Tuesday at the Valley High School swimming pool. He was knocked unconscious when he was jostled off a diving board.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Jefferson County coroner's office spokesman said today that Mrs. Loyd L. Life, 66, widow of a man beaten to death seven years ago, died of natural causes. Mrs. Life was found dead in her home here Monday night.

WINKS AND BLINKS...

of the Federal Aviation Agency FAA said the rash of reports may signal a new "American mythology."

"Reports of such objects seem to reach their peak in August and September. It may be that the long, hot summer expedites the imagination," he said in Los Angeles.

Most of the objects people saw were described as red or yellowish, and speeding across the sky from southwest to northeast at very high altitudes.

Fourth Day
—It was the fourth consecutive day of UFO sightings, which have harried some police departments so much they have referred all inquiries to Air Force bases.

A lot of people took issue with the Air Force's claim they were stars or planets.

A 29-year-old Sioux City, Iowa high school English teacher said he saw a flashing object and that "anyone who would say this is a star would be out of their minds."

The teacher, who would not give his name, said he spotted the phenomenon when he and his wife drove out in their car to look for flying saucers.

He said he got out of the car and turned off the ignition to try to hear an airplane engine.

"There weren't any," he said. Several other persons saw the same thing, he said.

An Air Force weather observer in Oklahoma City has repeatedly seen unusual objects in the skies, and said they are "no mirage."

One of the objects "looked like it had a flat top and flat bottom, and it was not a true sphere," the observer said. "There were two rings around it and the rings were part of the main body."

Two newsmen got pictures of UFO's.

A photographer for the Junction City Kan. Union said he took a picture which showed eight black dots in the sky. He said he saw no dots when he photographed a skydiver parachuting but when he developed it, the dots showed up on the negative.
