Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Fellow said that some of these new evening gowns are confusing. He cannot decide if the girl on the inside is trying to get out, or if the girl on the outside is trying to get in.

The drunk staggered into the bar and shouted: "Happy New Year everybody."

The guy closest to him said: "Ah, shut up. It's the middle of August."

"August," the drunk mumbled, "oh my god, my wife will kill me. I've never been this late before."

Thought I had discovered a new breed of bird for awhile yesterday evening. Looked out in the back yard and there was a bird with two big white feathers for a tail.

As he flexed his wings a band of white showed across the back of each wing which marked him pretty well as a Mocking Bird, but that white tail we couldn't figure out.

We finally decided it was a Mocking Bird and that it had lost some feathers from his tail, just the black ones.

By golly he did look odd though.

Big fat Robin chomping away at an apple in the tree.

We don't care what they say, it just gets plain cold at night, August or no August.

This is that delightful time of the year when you can shut off the air (Continued On Page Four)

Will Fly From Carrier Today To Point Where Journey Began

By CHARLES JUSTICE

United Press International

ABOARD USS LAKE CHAMPLAIN AT SEA 878 — Cosmic champions Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad slept late as their first reward today and got ready for 10 days of grueling tests expected to show man can survive voyages to the moon without harm.

Back "home" on earth barely 24 hours after their 33 million-mile orbital flight, the Gemini 5 astronauts' light timetable was changed to let them get a few hours extra sleep before flying to Cape Kennedy.

They will fly from this recovery carrier to a landing strip two miles from launch pad 19 where they soared into space atop a Titan-2 rocket Aug. 31 to splash down Sunday.

Cooper and Conrad got to bed at 11:30 p.m. EDT and were told to ignore reville and sleep as late as 11 a.m. EDT.

Not even their families would be allowed to see them during the 11-day "debriefing" period that began this morning.

Cooper, America's marathon man in space, and right-hand man Conrad spent nearly eight days in orbit on an occasionally chilling, often cheerful and always fantastic voyage 130 times around the world. In the process they rewrote the 78-year-old book for manned spaceflight.

For the next 11 days, they were to do little more than talk to medical doctors anxious about their health; to engineers worried about the difficulty that plagued their spacecraft; to program managers who already were looking toward the Gemini 6 flight in October.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Question: I am over age 65 and receiving social security benefits. How do I qualify for protection under the hospital and medical insurance program?

Answer: You qualify automatically for hospital insurance. An application will be mailed to you in September or October to use in applying for medical insurance. Do not, because of the new law, cancel any hospital or medical insurance you may now have. The health insurance provisions of the new law give no protection retroactively until July 1, 1965.

Question: My daughter, age 20, received social security benefits before she reached age 18. She will start her third year in college in September. Is it possible under the new law for her to start receiving benefits again?

Answer: If she was receiving social security payments which were stopped at age 18, and is a full-time, unmarried student under 22 years of age, you should get in touch with your local security office to see about having her payments started again. Payments may be made for months back to January 1965.

Question: Are there leaflets available which will provide information about all the changes made by the recent amendments?

Answer: Yes, the new pamphlet titled "Social Security Amendments 1965" may be obtained, free of charge, by writing to Social Security Office, 112 South Ninth Street, Paducah, Kentucky.

Alex Johnson Leads Phils In Hitting

By GEORGE C. LANGFORD

UPI Sports Writer

Alex Johnson under his own eight-day ride in space Sunday with a big splash in Philadelphia.

The ball-splattered, 30-year-old Philadelphia outfielder wasn't getting anywhere on his ride, however, which was confined to space on the Phillies bench.

In 1960, Johnson, despite leading the Phils in hitting with a .301 mark and batting average speed on the home plate than any of his teammates, had not reached the Philadelphia starting lineup since Aug. 31 and had only one at-bat during the season.

Finally, after a long wait, Johnson was promoted to the starting lineup Sunday, hitting a two-run homer, a double, two singles and driving in four runs in a 4-3 victory over the Montreal Expos at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Johnson, who has been in the lineup for 14 games since he was promoted to the starting lineup Sunday, hit a home run in his first at-bat, a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

conditioner and yet not have to turn on the heat, thus cutting that old first of the month bill way down.

We have become very adept at opening the refrigerator without attracting the attention of Lady the dog.

Normally she does not pay any attention to the refrigerator, but on Sunday or a holiday she comes running when we open it, knowing full well that we will probably get out some cheese.

First we locate her position, usually in a chair in the living room. The fact that she is asleep makes no difference. She can hear it open anyway.

We then approach the refrigerator on tip toe and very slowly open the door making not a sound.

We slip the cheese out quietly and shut the door, then muffle the unwrapping process by shuffling around, coughing and singing.

You cannot afford to be quiet too long or she will come to investigate the reason. And the cracking of paper is fatal.

We don't particularly mind her eating cheese if she would eat hers then go on away, but she will stand transfixed in front of us making us feel as though we are seeing what rightfully belongs to her. This ruins the whole thing.

Polishing some shoes yesterday and we slipped and picked up a huge glob of black shoe polish under one finger nail.

We thought it would be difficult to remove, but wife has a little brush which curves up on each side and this did the trick.

Got excited during the football game yesterday and knocked over an ash tray which stands up on legs. Scattered ashes over a wide area. Being a husband with a great degree of responsibility we immediately got up and cleaned it up.

The fact that wife was sitting there at the time had absolutely nothing to do with our prompt work.

A holiday is coming up next Monday, Labor Day.

ville, it was announced today by President Robert B. Hensley.

Wilson will supervise the company's sales operations in Western Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

The 42-year-old sales executive joined Life of Kentucky in November 1967. He owned an operated Hugo Wilson Motor Sales on East Main Street in Murray from 1960 to 1967 and prior to that was a 30 per cent owner of the Ford dealership there.

Mr. Wilson has held nearly every major sales management post at Life of Kentucky since he began as a sales associate. He was named a District Manager in January 1969; a Division Manager for Western Kentucky in April 1969; State Manager for Illinois in February 1961, and before his present appointment was a Regional Training Director. He is a member of Ripshin Bible Temple, Madisonville, and St. Matthews Baptist Church. He is a member of the Murray Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, having served on the USS Kenton in the South Pacific during World War II.

Wilson lives at 1811 E. Crompage Lane, Louisville, with his wife, the former Billie Belle Lawrence of Murray. They have five children: Donna, 22, is a senior Business Education major at Murray State College and Mrs. Tommy Judy Lattimer lives in Murray. Three other children at home are Rhonda, 14; Charles Daniel, 8; and Tina Marie, 18 months.

FLUID DRIVE

FRANKFORT, Ky. 28 — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt addressed a crowd of about 1,000 Sunday from a boat in the Kentucky River; his message was "Save Water." "Make no mistake about it," Breathitt told the third annual Kentucky Admirals' picnic, "even though we are second only to Alaska in miles of running streams, we are not new to water shortages."

TWO ASTRONAUTS

their faces betrayed weariness that not even fresh shaves — their first since leaving Cape Kennedy in a fiery takeoff Aug. 21 — or sunglasses could conceal.

They are a little on the tired side," reported federal space agency physician Howard K. Minners.

He examined the astronauts on their return to the carrier on a helicopter which plucked them from the Atlantic Ocean after they landed 102.3 miles short of their target area Sunday at 8:55 a.m. EDT.

"It is difficult to do some tests because the ship is running so fast," said Minners. So the space agency elected to take them back to the mainland rather than keep them at sea as has been the custom.

First was a stop at Cape Kennedy for about three days. Later this week, Cooper and Conrad will be sent back to their hometown of Houston — but not to their homes.

To Remain Secluded
Instead, they must remain in seclusion at the Manned Spacecraft Center for seven to eight days of additional tests and conferences.

A flood of congratulations poured in for a magnificent space performance that sent the United States surging ahead of the Soviet Union for the first time in manned exploration of space.

One of the very first to give his "well done" was President Johnson, who put in a call to the astronauts from his Texas ranch barely minutes after the helicopter snatched them from the shark-infested waters of the Atlantic and whisked them to the Lake Champlain.

"You have conducted yourselves nobly," Johnson told them. He said he was considering sending them to other countries to tell the story of America's conquest of space and what it means to the world.

Next to congratulate them were their anxious wives, Rudy Cooper and Jane Conrad.

Watched Gemini

They had watched Gemini 6 earlier in the morning as Gemini 5 — a brilliant, fast-moving star in the dawn sky — swept over Houston.

SHORT CUT — Lynda Bird Johnson, the President's daughter, displays a new short haircut at the White House as she receives a pen from her father at a bill signing ceremony.

on the next-to-last circuit of the globe.

Aboard the carrier, there was more of the same . . . a red carpet out in the shape of the figure "3," the traditional "Washington Post March" and cheers from the crew.

They splashed down at the end of 130 orbits into a calm, warm sea. Neither suffered any seasickness.

"We're on the water and we're in good shape," Conrad radioed when the capsule came down under its orange and white atmosphere.

Braking rockets fired 25 minutes before had slowed their 17,500-mile-an-hour speed to 17,250 m.p.h. and brought them into the fiery reentry into earth's atmosphere. They splashed down at 44 miles per hour.

They smiled broadly and laughed and shook hands and danced around and seemed happier than any man on earth, simply to be on earth.

78 DAYS LATER—Cleveland newspaperman Robert Marry kept his wife in Palm Beach, England, after his 78-day non-stop sail in a 13 1/2-foot boat from Falmouth, Mass.

Dear Abby . . . Good And Bad Of It

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Like a lot of other people, I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but here's my problem: I am 19 and the guy I'm in love with is also 19. We went together during our senior year in high school. Then we broke up.

About six months later we started dating again. He gave me his class ring and we talked about marriage. I guess he thought because I had his ring he could get anything he wanted. I told him I wasn't that kind of girl, sting or no ring. He said I was "too good" and then he started about it and gave him back his ring. Now, he's dating other girls and I am sitting home. Other guys have called me but I don't want to go with anyone but him because I still love him. How can I get him back?

"TOO GOOD"

DEAR "TOO GOOD": If a fellow gives you the air because you're "too good," you ARE too good — for him! Sell out now to "get him back" and you'll be buying a relationship at the cost of your self-respect. I advise you to go with others and maintain your high standards. And eventually, you'll wind up with a good man who wants a good girl.

DEAR ABBY: You have always said in your column that the wedding day is the bride's day and she should have her wishes. Our son will marry a divorced woman in November. He is very much in love with her and she seems like a nice person. Our son is 32 and she is 26. The bride-to-be has a seven-year-old son. Her father is a pastor and he will perform the marital rite. My question is: Is it proper for this little seven-year-old boy to escort his mother to the altar? She has a 24-year-old brother who could do it. The bride has planned everything else in such good taste. But this seems out of place to me. Or am I wrong?

VIRGINIAN

DEAR VIRGINIAN: If you are wrong, we both are because I agree with you. The bride's brother could

Lighting Effects

In the opinion of most interior designers, lighting should be considered an integral part of any decorating scheme—in the same way that furniture, fabrics, and colors are. Some designers have been known to start with the lighting. They do this by first evaluating how each room is going to be used. Which are to be leisure areas and which the service areas? Where will lighting be an absolute necessity and where it be used to simply create an "effect."

To be satisfactory your home must create the effect you want. That's where we can be of valuable help.
