FULTON BASEBALL TEAM BLOWS UP, IS NO MORE

Fulton's baseball team ceased to be after the game yesterday. Last night it was decided that owing to lack of interest on the part of baseball fans, it would be best to disband the club. As we understand it, the car that is being given away will be raffled off as soon as the chances are sold, and this will bring in enough money to pay off all indebtedness.

The dusky autumn twilight was falling over the local diamond yesterday afternoon when the season came to a close. At the tenth inning an Fulton game was behind. Cooper was pinch hitting and he swung vainly at three fast ones, and the game was over.—Fulton Leader.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF OBTAINING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES

BORROWED HUSBANDS

CHXXXVII—EVES DROPPING

Nancy's first impulse was to join Peggy and Dr. Langwell at the adjoining table.

Her second thought, however, showed her how embarrassing it would be for all three.

She moved her chair a trifle, so that it would be impossible for her to be discovered and resolved to finish her tea with utmost speed.

"How nice that I should run across you on the way out of the hospital this afternoon!" cooed Peggy.

"Great good fortune for me!" responded the doctor. "Had you been up to see Mrs. Stanley?"

"I was going up but the nurse said she was sleeping. I intended to wait until she woke up, but then you came along and beguiled me into leaving tea."

Nancy knew from old association that Peggy's pretty head was tilted at a saucy angle when she made such a speech and that her dark eyes were languishing.

"Um, yes."

Nancy suppressed a giggle at the doctor's reply. She knew Peggy's methods well enough to realize that the doctor had been neatly captured for that very tea into which Peggy claimed to be beguiled.

"It's good of you to be nice to poor little Peggy," went on that irrepressible young person. "You haven't had eyes for anyone but Nancy Burrard since you came to New York and Nancy has so many men and so much attention, it isn't fair that she should annex the most attractive man of them all."

The doctor laughed, but his compliance was unmistakable. Nancy giggled wickedly. She was enjoying Peggy's work. The child was clever and Langwell would have to be a good deal keener than she gave him credit for if he could resist the flattery of such a pretty woman.

"But, you forget, Mrs. Lewis, that Mrs. Burrard represents only the type of charming girl."

"Please don't call me 'Mrs. Lewis,' pleaded Peggy. "I'm getting rid of that name as quickly as I can."

"Then how should I address you?"

"We—!" Peggy considered. "I was Mrs. Harding and I am Mrs. Lewis and later I'll be Mrs. I guess I'd better not tell you yet, she said, archly. "So, the best thing for you to do is just to call me 'Peggy!'"

"It's a pretty name and it suits you admirably," was the doctor's careful comment.

"By the way, I know something about you and Nancy," remarked Peggy, after a moment's silence.

"Indeed?"

"Wouldn't you like to know what it is?" inquired Peggy, apparently a bit disconcerted by his reply.

"Not in the slightest. I know everything about Mrs. Burrard and myself without having to be told by an outsider."

Nancy, endeavoring to hasten through her tea, despite her fatigue put down her cup and prepared to listen shamelessly. She felt no compunction in eavesdropping on this pair as long as she herself was the subject of conversation.

There was a little click as though Peggy might have opened her purse.

"See this?" Peggy said, softly. "What is it?" asked the doctor.

"The card you enclosed when you sent Nancy flowers at the hospital."

Steam Heat In August—Quick, Doc, Champhor

The court house is heated from a furnace in the basement. The furnace runs only in cold weather, of course.

But yesterday morning the county judge's office and the occupants thereof, all of a sudden began to get warm. Some of them moved out. Others remarked that it was the hottest day they had. And then a little sizzling sound was heard radiating from the radiators, and the horrible discovery was made to the effect that the furnace was running in full blast. Someone suggested that the janitor be arrested, others that he be shot and his chewing tobacco taken away from him. He was hunted down, and said the reason it got so hot in the county judge's office was that he had been burning some trash in the furnace and the judge's radiator had been left open.

GREAT WORK OF U. S. REMOUNT STATION

Accomplishing Much to Build Unexcelled Line of Cavalry Horses Invaluable to Army.

The World War was the great caldron in which birth was given to many organizations looking to the leadership of America in every path of common interest, and no such activity bearing on the future of one of our most vital essentials compares with that of the American Remount Association, an organization composed of some of the country's leading men. It came into being as a result of the dire necessity of more and better blooded horses for the United States Army. Thus, with kindred organizations, it is promoting one of the most important undertakings looking toward our future security.

The object of the Remount Association is the improvement of general purpose horse conditions in every State in the Union; and because of the importance of the work entailed, the importance of the United States Army, has been placed in charge, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., where his department is in close touch with every other governmental agency. The Remount Association, with the cooperation of others similarly engaged, has, during the eight or nine months of its existence, succeeded in getting one hundred and sixty-four stallions—eighty-five of which were donated by patriotic organizations and individuals—for distribution throughout the country, to be utilized by farmers desirous of raising the standard of their horses.

In laying out the work, it was decided to profit by the experience of foreign governments and locate thoroughbred sires in every grazing community of the country. The whole was divided into zones, and a plan of breeding to the farmers of the farmers of America, inaugurated. Recent reports from the Association's headquarters in Washington show that there has been an average of fifty-five mares for each station, although the breeding season is not yet concluded. Also, at a meeting of the Association, it was shown that there was a demand for some seven hundred horses. Last Spring, and that, for the coming Spring, this demand will be doubled or even tripled.

Both the race courses and the thoroughbred nurseries constantly are being drawn upon for horses of proven courage in the acid test of racing. It remains for them to produce the only type that measures up to the standard destined to supply the United States cavalry remounts worthy of the men in the service.

It may be added that, owing to the broad plan of fostering the industry of horse breeding as practiced for generations by the British, French and Italian Governments, these countries were in the enviable position of ability to supply their armies with good mounts, whereas, America, which had never introduced such a system was obliged to draw upon the resources of the allied nations to horse her men.

Stop paying the fuel bills for heating "all out of doors"—lock out the cold drafts that filter through joints and cracks. Put a fine, big, warm overcoat on that cold home. Overcoat it with

KELLASTONE

The scientific, original, magnesite stucco. Hermetically seals the house from cellar to roof against frost, wind, dampness and fire. Savings on fuel and paint bills soon repay the cost.

KELLASTONE severs cracks like ordinary stucco—contains no Portland cement. Hires or sets—Made in brilliant natural white or attractive colors.

If you are building in the near future, or have an old home which you would like to see made new, call on us at once. We will be glad to show you samples of this wonderful material and explain its use in your particular need.

UNABLE TO WALK WITHOUT A STICK
Covington Woman Gets Rid of Rheumatism; Daughter Also Restored to Health

"Tanlac has helped me and my little girl, too, and there's nothing I can say I feel is good enough for it," said Mrs. Margaret Hutchins, 511 Bakewell St., Covington, Ky.

"I suffered from rheumatism for six years and my back limbs and joints hurt me so that I was miserable all the time. I couldn't walk without a stick and it was so hard for me to get about that I rarely left the house. My back hurt me so I couldn't bend over and straighten up again without suffering agony. My stomach was all disordered. I had no appetite and what little I ate seemed to do me more harm than good. I couldn't get any sound sleep at night and was going down hill fast.

"This was the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac. I can say for this medicine it has benefited me in every way. In fact, it has restored me to perfect health. I was so amazed at the good results I received from it that I gave some to my little girl, who was weak and puny, and it acted just as marvelously in her case as it did in mine and today she is the very picture of health."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere--Adv.
