Project Mercury May Put Man In Space, But America's First "True" Manned Space Flight Will Be Made In The Small And Sleek X-15

By BILL WILKS

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Project Mercury capsule may put the first man in space, but America's first "true" manned space flight will be made in a small, sleek airplane now undergoing extensive tests.

The airplane is the X-15, actually half spaceship but still called an airplane by its maker, North American Aviation.

As the X-15's civilian test pilot, Scott Crossfield said, "there's nothing controversial in the statement that the X-15 will provide a 'true' manned-space flight. In the Project Mercury capsule, the man is just going along for the ride.

"But in the X-15, the man is necessary. He's the pilot."

Missions Not Same

"It would be a service if someone explained the difference between the Mercury and X-15 programs," Crossfield continued. "Their missions are completely different."

Scotty cautioned he wasn't "knocking" the Mercury program in saying the man was just going along for the ride.

"The Mercury capsule is made to carry up instruments and a man to learn things needed for development of something like the X-15," he said. "The man is the subject of a medical experiment."

"With luck, the X-15 may make its all-out attempt to climb 50 miles high at 4,000 miles an hour some time this summer. A Mercury capsule, boosted by a Redstone missile, is scheduled to take a man higher and faster some weeks before that. Ultimately, an Atlas missile will hurl a manned capsule into a 100-mile-high orbit.

Engines Set Records

The X-15 already has set new world speed and altitude marks

One Will Go Up — An unmanned space craft roared from Cape Canaveral (left) for a 1,425-mile trip that leads U.S. scientists to believe a man would have survived the journey. Three of the seven original Astronauts have been tabbed for the "final-pool" as candidates for America's first spaceman — possibly by April. The "select three" are (from top, right): Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, Jr., Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr., and Air Force Capt. Virgil L. Grissom.

during tests here — and it made six pilots selected by NASA.

It has flown 2,275 miles an hour and 136,500 feet high — high enough, Crossfield says, to make the earth's curvature "quite noticeable."

For its conquest of space, the X-15 will use its big engine which develops 57,000 pounds of thrust. Crossfield's last flights in the X-15 were tests of its big engine. The job of assaulting space in the

Civitan Club Begins Sales For Big Day

The Murray Civitan Club "kick-off" ticket sales this morning for their annual Pancake Day which will be held on March 25. The thirty Civitan members began the ticket sales early today over the city.

The Civitan Club is the newest civic club in town, but has completed a large number of worthwhile projects. The current project is to work in the interest of the mentally retarded children of the county. The proceeds from the Pancake Day will be used in constructing the school building for the School of New Hope.

The Pancake Day will be held from 4:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. on March 25 at the Day and Nite Cafe and Rudy's Restaurant. Civitans will do the cooking serving, and dish washing.

A member said that if "you want to see a group of men working like beavers, and enjoying it because they have a heartfelt interest in their club and its projects, then purchase a ticket for this event."

Various firms have donated the pancake mix, coffee, sausage, milk, etc. for this annual day.

"Soapy" Already In Trouble As Africa Representative

By JAY AXELBANK

LONDON (UPI) — Pro-government members of parliament demanded that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan protest to President Kennedy about Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams, "interference" in the affairs of British Africa.

Statements made by Williams during his current African tour touched off a dispute in parliament and threatened a rift in Anglo-American relations.

Trade demands that Macmillan take the matter up in Washington were contained in a motion proposed in the House of Commons.

Conservative Party M.P.s John Biggs-Davison and Anthony Flett asked Macmillan to protest to Kennedy about intervention of United States officials in the affairs of territories for which her majesty's government is responsible in view of the recent activities of Mr. Mennen Williams during his visit to British territories in Africa.

"Williams, who has been dubbed Kennedy's 'personal brick-dropper' by a local newspaper columnist, antagonized the British with two remarks he made earlier this week in Nairobi, Kenya, and Kampala, Uganda.

In Nairobi, Williams advocated "Africa for the Africans," which led Britons to conclude he had in mind only non-white Africans. The State Department official insisted he meant "Africans of every race."

In Kampala, Williams told a news conference he wanted to see stable, independent governments in Africa to prevent "another kind of tyranny."

Newsmen bristled at the remark and asked if he meant to imply British rule was tyrannical.

Williams flushed and replied: "I withdrew the reference to 'another kind of tyranny.' I do not mean the British are a tyranny."

When Williams arrived in Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, Friday he was asked immediately to comment on reports he had snubbed while guests at a Nairobi reception. He called the reports "balderdash."

The U.S. State Department brushed off British press criticism of Williams' African tour as "editorial judgement."

Advance Atlas On Successful Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — An advanced model Atlas missile made a successful 7,000-mile warm-up flight Friday for later shots that will travel nearly halfway around the world.

The rocket fired a dummy warhead into a target area in the South Atlantic Ocean, about 400 miles west of Capetown, South Africa.

The shot was the first full success for the Atlas "E", a vehicle equipped with the most powerful engines ever installed in a U. S. military rocket.

The liquid-fueled engines, delivering about 389,000 pounds of thrust, gave the advanced Atlas the ability to carry heavier payloads over longer distances.

Its forerunner, the militarily operational "D" model Atlas, already has flown 9,000 miles on two occasions — currently the world record. Sources said the newer Atlas could travel nearly 12,000 miles with a full payload.

Track Season Opened Today By MSC Squad

The Murray State College track team, champion of the Ohio Valley Conference for three straight years, will open its indoor season in earnest today at the Jaycee Indoor Track Carnival at Memphis.

Last Saturday Coach Bill Ferguson entered his mile relay team in the Mason-Dixon Games at Louisville, and it won first place in the Kentuckiana Mile Relay.

Ferguson took a full team to Memphis and will have entries in the mile relay, 200-yard dash, 400-yard dash, 800-yard dash, 1,600-yard dash, 2,000-yard dash, 400-yard relay, 800-yard relay, 1,600-yard relay, 2,000-yard relay, 400-yard dash, 800-yard dash, 1,600-yard dash, 2,000-yard dash, 400-yard relay, 800-yard relay, 1,600-yard relay, 2,000-yard relay.

Ferguson, whose teams have completely dominated OVC track the last three years, seems to have another powerful aggregation this season. Among the squad are five conference champions, and several others who placed in last year's conference meet.

Some of his outstanding performers include Dawson, who has run the 800 in 1:57.1; Voyles, who has led the 1,600 in 4:26.1; and Sanders, who has run the mile in 4:26.

Calls Hammarskjold The Chief "Assassin", Patrice Lumumba

By ALINE MOSBY

United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev today proposed creation of an all-African commission to oust the United Nations from the Congo and recognize the Moscow-backed regime of Antoine Gizenga.

The proposal appeared in letters Khrushchev sent to chiefs of state or government on four continents in which he called Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold the "chief assassin" of Patrice Lumumba and renewed demands for the withdrawal of U.N. forces from the Congo.

He charged that the Western powers were trying to revive the late President Theodore Roosevelt's policy of "speak softly and carry a big stick."

The letter also asked the nations to whose leaders it was addressed to aid the Stanleyville regime of Gizenga, Lumumba's "political heir," repeating the Soviet claim that it is the "true government of the Congo."

Bitter Towards Hammarskjold — Khrushchev was especially bitter in his denunciation of Hammarskjold, renewing efforts to discredit the U.N. official.

"The secretary general has pursued... a policy of base treachery in regard to the interests of the Congolese people," he said.

"To put it bluntly, it was in essence Hammarskjold who murdered Lumumba. Whoever held the knife or revolver is after all not the sole murderer. The chief assassin is the one who handed him the weapon."

"Such an individual has no right to hold a leading post in the United Nations. We cannot 'reconcile' ourselves to the fact... that the secretary general has sullied himself by a foul murder."

Lumumba was killed with two companions some time ago, according to Congo officials, by African villagers who caught them after they had broken out of an improvised prison in the Congo's "independent" (Katanga Province).

Big Stick Principle — Khrushchev charged that the U.N. operation in the Congo revived "a well-known principle... coined by Theodore Roosevelt, who spoke of talking softly but with a big stick in his hand."

He charged that Cuba and Panama had fallen victim in the past to U.S. "big stick" policies.

"It is not without purpose that some statesmen in the West even now are developing the theme of the big stick in their public pronouncements," he said. "The big stick means... subjugation of weaker nations by force or arms."

"Everybody knows the Soviet Union now also has a big stick, but it resolutely opposes the policy of threats and stick brandishing. It relies on its policy of reason."

By WILLIAM ANDERSON

United Press International

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — About 300 troops loyal to the late Patrice Lumumba captured Luluabourg in Kasai Province without firing a shot, it was reported today.

Reliable sources said troops from the Luluabourg garrison, sent to intercept the Lumumba men who were advancing from their stronghold in Stanleyville, joined them in their march on the city.

A force of about 1,000 Ghanian U.N. troops, sent to prevent fighting between rival forces in the Luluabourg area, reported the Lumumbist advance on the city but made no attempt to stop it.

Col. Njoko, assigned by Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu to command the Luluabourg garrison, was reported to have taken refuge with U.N. forces in the city.

Tomorrow Is Heart Day Over Nation

Tomorrow is Heart Sunday all over the United States.

In Murray, volunteers will visit their neighbors to help for Heart Fund contributions between 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. The Heart Fund volunteer gives each citizen an opportunity to play a personal role in the crusade against the nation's Number 1 health enemy.

"Your gift will strike a blow at the diseases which took more than 900,000 American lives last year — 34 percent of the total number of deaths in this country," the Heart Sunday chairman Mrs. Howard Olla advised. "Give generously for every heart in your family," she urged.

Proceeds from the Heart Sunday drive help make it possible to expand the research, education and community service program against the heart and blood vessel diseases. More than 50 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into research in the past dozen years.

Additionally, through community service programs that grow in number each year, the Heart Association guides cardiacs toward resuming active lives, aids in the prevention of rheumatic fever, fore-runner of rheumatic heart disease, and carries on other essential heart saving activities.

Heart Sunday volunteers will leave pre-addressed envelopes for families who are not at home so that they may readily mail their contributions to Mrs. Howard E. Olla, Heart Sunday Chairman. The Heart Sunday drive is being sponsored by the Kentucky Women's Clubs.

Tobacco Quotas Are Given Big Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Growers have voted overwhelmingly in favor of continuing market quotas on fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco through 1963, returns showed today.

Kentucky, 3,750 for, 32 against; Tennessee, 3,256 for, 56 against; Virginia, 3,667 for, 130 against — totals, 10,673 for, 227 against.

These were the two-state returns on dark air-cured Types 35 and 36.

Kentucky, 6,788 for, 85 against; Tennessee, 1,533 for, 28 against — totals, 8,321 for, 114 against.

Britain Urges Travel Of War Area

BY CLAIRE COX
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — It should come as no surprise to travel-minded Americans that they are being urged to tour the "Lee Country" during the Civil War Centennial.

But it may give them a jolt when they learn that the suggestion is being made by the British Travel Association.

The "Lee Country" the British are talking about is in England — Shropshire to be exact, for the ancestors of Gen. Robert E. Lee were Shropshire lads.

This area of England is included in a proposed three or four-day auto tour from London, through Windsor and north to Shropshire, then south through Stratford-upon-Avon — and Oxford back to London.

The famous line of the Lees of Virginia is traced to Cotton Hall, near the hills of southern Shropshire. The mansion is situated in what some persons regard as the most beautiful part of England, with the rolling nearby mountains filled with legends of ghosts.

For 500 years, the Lees occupied Cotton Hall, and their imprint is to be found throughout the area. The medieval crest of the Lees — a squirrel eating a nut — is mounted on the Squire-rel Inn. A squirrel is the badge of the nearby Alveley School. Trees planted by Lancelot Lee, the last of the Lees at Cotton, still stand on the lawn of the manor house.

Diligent British historians have determined that Richard Lee, a lawyer, was the first of the family to travel to America. He emigrated in 1640, sailing to Virginia as legal clerk to the governor, Sir Thomas Wyatt. It was this Lee who laid the foundation for the fame and fortune of the Lees in America.

Researchers in England say that the "true story" of the American Lees began in about 1200 A.D. in a meadow 35 miles northwest of Cotton Hall. A Norman knight named Reynier settled there and built a house he called Lea, which means meadow. He named himself Reynier de Lea, which in later generations became Lee.

The family established a reputation of marrying well and collecting property. The Lees of Shropshire became wealthy and highly respected as a result. One of these Lees became a British war hero, serving as commander of a ship in the Armada that defeated the Spaniards, and later becoming a wealthy London wool and sheepskin merchant.

A number of mementoes of the Lees have been preserved in Cotton Hall. One is a portrait said to be of Thomas Lee of Virginia, builder of the general's birth-

It is hoped that the more than 40,000 square miles of the state will be apportioned to officers so that each officer will have under his command between 450 and 475 square miles.

Two regions have been so mapped and officers are covering, in some instances, portions of three counties. This plan, in the Second and Fifth regions where it has been established, is working wonderfully well and officers are enthusiastic about the system. With officers in these regions covering a greater area the number of licenses checked and arrests made increased last year over recent years.

Commissioner Clark reminded that a survey was taken of 33 state fish and wildlife agencies a few years ago and it revealed that the average patrol area for officers in those states was slightly over 800 square miles. He pointed out that under the Kentucky system no officer would be responsible for more than 500 square miles.

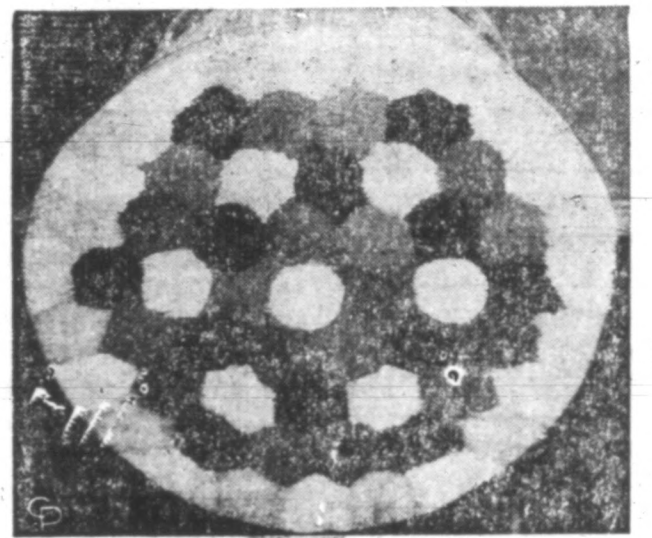

Commissioner Clark stated that Kentucky's conservation officers have many duties besides that of law enforcement and a planned program is necessary for them to accomplish these varied duties. By strict planning for each man a more streamlined program can be carried on even with the same amount of money available.

Other duties of the CO include game and fish surveys of their areas; pond and cover plant applications; inspection of farm ponds; assistance to senior and junior conservation clubs; quail applications and deliveries; assistance to hunters and fishermen; public relations duties with civic clubs and with their radio stations and newspapers.

All these programs are vital to the furtherment of fish and wildlife conservation and in an effort to present a more striking appearance of the field representatives the Department has purchased both summer and winter uniforms for its COs.

These uniforms, of course, are not to be worn while on rigorous field work, the Commissioner pointed out. On these occasions, when the men are running down game and fish violators, they wear regular work clothes and use other equipment such as flash lights; hip boots and firearms. The Department is attempting to get away from the necessity of its officers carrying arms, but it has been found that they must be carried by officers for protection purposes. On several occasions during the past few years officers have been shot at, some have been wounded and one man has been killed while on patrol duty.
