Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

The largest Western Red Cedar in the United States is just off U.S. 101 in Washington State's Olympic National Park. This tree is 66 feet and one inch in circumference and is 130 feet tall.

It contains about 60,000 board feet of lumber.

Two farmers were constantly arguing over who grew the largest crops. One morning the first to go to his son, Jimmy, got on a case cut saw. Tell him I want to cut up a watermelon. Jimmy returned and said, "Can't have it today. Mr. Brown says his wife isn't through slicing cucumbers."

We are glad to report that Buckle, the small black dog of the Flavel Robertsons, is some better. (Continued On Page Four)

Accidents In City Keep Police Busy

A two car accident occurred this morning at 9:45 on South 4th Street, according to Patrolmen H. E. Wilson and Jimmy Garland of the Murray Police Department.

James E. Nolin of Puryear, Tenn., Route Three, driving a 1966 Chevrolet 1 1/2 ton truck, was traveling north on South 4th Street. Willard M. Bechel, 28 Camilla Drive, Cape Girardeau, Mo., driving a 1963 Buick four door sedan, was traveling south on South 4th Street in front of the Nolin truck.

Nolin told Police that he thought the Bechel car was going to stop, attempted to pass the car, and struck it in the left rear. Bechel told Police that he did not intend to stop.

Two accidents were also covered by the City Police on Saturday. At 2:30 p.m., Eugene Kiker, Route Two, Hettin, Ala., driving a 1965 Chevrolet pickup, was pulling out of the parking lot at Hickman Chevrolet, making a left turn onto 641, and pulled into the right side of the 1967 Oldsmobile going south on 641, according to Sgt. Barney Weeks and Patrolman Max Morris. The Oldsmobile was driven by Betty Mischon. Bechel of Murray Route Four, Police said both vehicles were damaged.

Patrolmen Wilson and Garland were called to 712 Olive Street at 10:10 a.m. Saturday to investigate an accident.

Frances Lucille Campbell, 210 N. Hampshire, Mason City, Iowa, driving a 1964 Ford four door sedan was pulling out from curb headed east on Olive. Kathy Simmons, 1403 Hughes, driving a 1966 Oldsmobile four door sedan, was pulling out of the parking lot at Artie Simmons was traveling east on Olive, saw the Campbell car start to leave the curb, and applied her brakes. ## $720,000 Goes For Soda Pop In Calloway County

(Special to the Ledger & Times)
NEW YORK, Aug. 15 — Residents of Calloway County have developed a big thirst — for soda pop, that is. As a result, the fizzy has become big business locally.

More pop is being consumed and more money is being spent in this direction than ever before.

In the past year, according to the latest estimate, local residents put away soft drinks at the record rate of 328 bottles (8-ounce) per capita.

They went for the works — sodas, ginger ale, root beer, sparkling mixes and the wide variety of fruit pops and other beverages.

On an overall basis, some 7,347,000 bottles were consumed in the year by the local population. This was in addition to the uncollected drinks served in lunchrooms, at vending machines and the like.

By way of comparison, the figures show that total consumption locally in 1960 amounted to 5,096,000 bottles. The five-year increase was 44 percent.

It was a bigger rise than was recorded elsewhere in the State of Kentucky. The average was 41 percent.

The details of the soft drink business and its operations come from the Department of Commerce and from industry reports. Data is given covering every state.

The tabulations reveal that it now takes more than 56 billion (yes, billion) bottles of soda pop per year to quench America's thirst for soft drinks.

This summer, the scorching temperatures have increased the calls for soda pop and other refreshments, such as iced tea and lemonade, to the extent that manufacturers (Continued On Page Four)

Firemen Are Called To Maple Leaf On Saturday Afternoon

The Murray Fire Department answered a call Saturday at 5:30 p.m. to the Maple Leaf Restaurant.

Alfred Young at the restaurant across the street saw smoke coming out of the attic and called the firemen. When the firemen arrived they found a mop on fire that was hanging on a door at the bottom of the steps.

A fan was pulling the smoke from the downstairs through the attic. Clarence Boren, fireman, said two trucks answered the call and the booster was used to extinguish the flames.

The restaurant had been closed for the day for about twenty minutes and no one was there at the time of the fire.

Firemen were called Sunday at 6:30 p.m. to the home at 1308 Wells Boulevard where grease on the stove was on fire. The fire was out on arrival of the firemen.

Veterans News

Q — May a veteran receive educational assistance allowance for a program of education pursued exclusively by correspondence?

A — Yes. The educational assistance allowance will be computed on the basis of the established charge paid by non-veterans for the same course or courses. The allowance will be paid quarterly on a pro rata basis for the lessons completed by the veteran as certified by the school. Veterans should be cautioned not to enroll in a correspondence course before ascertaining whether or not the school and course are approved by the VA.

Q — What is the maximum amount a veteran may borrow on a VA guaranteed loan for the purchase of a home?

A — There is no maximum on the amount of a guaranteed loan. Direct loans made by the VA, however, may not exceed $17,500.

Q — Does the new GI Bill provide any form of veterans' life insurance?

A — No. The Bill includes education, GI loan and hospital benefits, but there is no provision for Government life insurance.

Q — Is service in Vietnam or the Dominican Republic a requirement for educational benefits under the new GI Bill?

A — No. It is not even required that you have served overseas. If you served anywhere for a period of more than 180 days, any part of which was after January 31, 1965, you are eligible.

CHAPTER 29

THE line the two police cars, with Lorna Mannering in the front and John Mannering at the back of the first, reached the site, three powerful lights were shining on the building.

A small crowd had gathered, but people were not pressing too close. Piper of the press held up a copy of the latest edition of Manning to see, and Manning smiled and waved.

As he neared the spot where he believed the digging would have to start, a car drew up and Bob Corry called: "John, it's good to see you."

Manning turned to greet him. "Not in a cell, you mean?" "Piper called me," Bob said. "Row's Rebecca?"

"At my apartment," Bob answered. "A doctor gave her a sedative, and she should sleep through the night. He looked at the man and the woman, which police were taking down from a small truck. 'What is this, John?'"

"Excuse me," Manning answered, and told him what he suspected.

As he talked, Piper also listened. He looked at Manning and then at John. "There was no attempt to send the reporter out of earshot," Lorna was standing near Corry.

Before anyone attempted to question him, John beckoned to Manning, and as soon as the car had cleared away, they lowered themselves into the vault.

"This should be about it," he said.

As he watched, Manning saw the drills bite through almost as if they were drilling putty.

A man soon called: "I'm through already."

"Better use picks now," said Simon Koller, and he came striding across the yard. "We don't want to do more damage than we have to, and we could do plenty if we use the drills too much. Hi, John! Bob."

Policemen were picking up. "Lieutenant," Manning said, "if the man Anderson-Sett is still hiding there, and I think he is, don't forget that he'll be armed."

"I won't forget anything," John promised, and pointed to what looked like a saved-off shotgun propped up against a pile of bricks by his side; this was a fair gas gun. He watched as picks and shovels were piled and the hole was cleared; and for everyone to see there was a concrete layer no more than ten or eleven inches thick—below that, the concrete powdered quite easily; either too much sand mixed with the cement, or lime or some other non-setting powder had been used in one mix.

John called: "That's enough. Keep everyone quiet." He went

Late Inning Thrillers May Prove Fruitful For Pirates

By CURT BLOCK
UPI Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates may go on to win the National League pennant by accident.

Of course, the way the first place Pirates continue to pull out late-inning victories, like Sunday's 4-0 thriller over the Reds, is no accident.

The mishap the Buccos converted into an asset occurred Saturday when centerfielder Manny Mota, the league's leading hitter at .345, was struck in the right eye by a fly ball that careened off the outfield wall.

As a result, Manny Mota who is leading a sensational 20th century baseball only against outfielders and hence does not come to bat enough to qualify for the top 10 hitters, got a rare starting call Sunday even though Cincinnati was using right-handed Max Pappas.

Gets Three Hits
Mota made the most of his chance with three hits, including a seventh-inning double that drove in the first run and a game-winning two-run homer in the ninth against righty-relever Suggs Ellis that snuffed 1-2 lead.

Ellis' injury doesn't appear to be very serious and he should be back for Tuesday's game in New York—shiner and all—but Manager Harry Walker feels secure knowing he has a fourth outfielder of Mota's caliber.

Elsewhere, the Giants managed to pick up a half game with a 5-3, 8-2 sweep of Houston that left them 1 1/2 games off the pace. Los Angeles split with Chicago taking the 14-inning game 4-3 and dropping the nightcap 13-10 in 10 innings. New York divided two with St. Louis, winning 5-4 before losing 4-3, and Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 7-1.

Baltimore blanked Washington

6-0 in the American League's only single game. In other play, Boston took two from Detroit 8-5 and 5-3. New York swept Cleveland 7-3 and 6-4. Kansas City defeated Minnesota twice 5-0 and 4-3, and Chicago split 4-0 decisions with California.

Shamsky Ties Record
Cincinnati's Art Shamsky equalled a major league record when he pitched a home run in the seventh inning, giving him round-tripper in his last four times at bat, the first three coming Friday night. The homer was served up by starter Vern Law, who otherwise pitched seven strong innings. Pete Miskolan 5-4 worked the last two, and benefited from Mota's fifth homer.

Willie Mays powered his 25th home run of the season, which moved him one behind Jimmy Ponder, 334 and a share of second place on the all-time list. Willie's was a two-run shot that broke a scoreless tie in the sixth inning of the first game. Winning pitcher Bob Borker 7-7 limited the Astros to five hits and also had a two-run homer. Battery mate Tom Haller slugged his 24th home run to round out the Giants' scoring.

In the second game, Len Gabrielson knocked in three runs with a seventh-inning double that wiped out a 3-2 Houston lead. Earlier San Francisco tied the score 1-1 on third-inning singles by Willie Brown, Al Londer and Tito Fuentes. They added another run in the fourth on Brown's fifth homer.

Winning Hit
Wes Covington faced a two-run pinch single in the 14th inning as the Dodgers erased a 3-2 Chicago advantage. Los Angeles loaded the bases on an error and two walks to end the hour and 27 minute opener. The Dodgers trailed 6-1 at 5-2 in the second game before tying it in the ninth with three

Frank Robinson No. 1 Booster for MVP Award

By JEFF MEYERS
UPI Sports Writer

Frank Robinson, the No. 1 American League in homers, runs scored and total bases, is also the No. 1 booster for Frank Robinson for MVP.

About the only interesting battle left in the junior circuit—the MVP award—was Baltimore leading the league by 13 1/2 games, either Frank or Brooks Robinson is going to wind up with his second such honor.

Although only sports writers may vote, the Robinsons and Baltimore manager Hank Bauer were asked for their selection.

"I'm just glad I don't have to vote," Bauer said.

"I'd have to vote for Frank right now," Brooks admitted.

"I'd vote for me," Frank answered with confidence.

Ready For Plaque
"If I win," added Frank, who was honored by the National League in 1961 and would be the first player to be MVP in both circuits. "I've got a spot on a wall in my den all picked out right next to the other one."

Frank justified his opinion of himself Sunday by slugging two runs, Chicago won it in the 10th on Ron Santo's sacrifice that scored Glenn Beckert, who reached third on an infield hit, an error and a sacrifice. Phil Regan wild pitched the last run home but Don Sutton suffered the loss.

Charles Smith's two-run single climaxed a three-run ninth-inning rally that gave St. Louis a split with the Mets. Mike Shannon doubled home two runs to tie the score 2-2 and Smith got his hit off reliever Ralph Terry. Ron Swoboda grounded a two-run single in the seventh inning of the first game as Dennis Ribant went the distance, giving up eight hits to win his eighth game.

Lefty Dennis Lemaster fanned 14 and pitched a five-hitter as Atlanta downed Philadelphia. Hank Aaron, the NL's top home run hitter, slugged his 32nd with two on to clinch a five-run Braves rally in the second. It also gave Aaron the majors' RBI leadership with 91.

SEIZE RED SPIES
SEOUL, S. Korea — The South Korean army reported Thursday that military agents rounded up 21 Communist North Korean spies and agitators on Aug. 5. It said the Communists were engaged in underground activities to gather military information and fan demonstrations against normalized relations between South Korea and Japan.

Prepare For School Now

By David Nydick

879 Education Specialist

As the summer vacation draws to a close parents and students at all levels will be preparing for the new school year. Although it is not a good idea to begin preparations too early, it is important to start early enough for a well-organized plan.

Avoid the last minute rush to purchase school clothing, books and other needed supplies. Waiting too long often means a limited choice and in some cases you might find that the particular item needed is not available. On the other hand, starting too early could also limit the choice and availability of desired items since the stores may not yet have a full supply on display.

What about students attending schools for the first time? It is important that they be registered as early as possible. This will allow the principal to obtain records and needed information from you and the former school. This is necessary to properly place your child in a class where he will have the best chance for success.

It is most difficult for a principal to make the best decisions and take care of all your questions on the first day of school. On that day, he is very busy with the details of an organized school opening. It is so important to get the needed records. Obviously, it is to your child's advantage to enroll him in the new school as early as arrangements can be made.

Students, regardless of age and grade level, normally have some fears of a new school situation. This is only natural if they are not familiar with the routines, staff, building and other students. Every attempt should be made to provide some type of orientation to the new situation. Sometimes the school has a program for students and parents. If so, make sure you participate. If the school does not have an organized program, several actions may be taken on your part.

It is always helpful to visit the building. Seek out any staff member who might be available to welcome you and your child. Obtain as much information as possible concerning required routines and materials. Find out the name of the new teacher and locate the new room. Check on bus schedules and stops. Attempt to find other students who will be in the class and may live in your particular neighborhood. There is security in knowing other classmates.

Another area of concern is the change from the relaxed and unstructured vacation period to the scheduled routine of the school year. Parents should try to work into the school year schedule. Meals should be scheduled the same as during the school year. Bedtime should be adjusted. A gradual development of the school year schedule will make for an easier adjustment.

Again, don't start too early but also don't wait for the last minute. Some planning is needed for a smooth start.

Addict Gets Kicked Around But Good Word

By Gay Pauley

879 Women's Editor

NEW YORK 8P—The word "addict" gets kicked around these days in talk of those persons on dope, hallucinatory drugs or alcohol.

Yet, it's a perfectly good word applicable to perfectly unhabituated people, except for their one uncontrollable devotion to "little black and white squares." This particular addiction does no harm, helps to relax, and doesn't have a single private or government group set on wiping it out. Rather, a lot of their members are addicts too.

I prefer to the addiction to crossword puzzles.

Scratch the surface of any economic or social strata and you find enthusiastic devotees.

In our office alone we have a top news executive who's an addict. At least three of our teletype operators are. And one of our able switchboard girls not only takes on the crosswords, but double-crosses and the diagrams.

I admit to the addiction too. My husband says he never expects more than juice and coffee to start Sundays until I've "whipped" the toughest crossword in the Sunday papers. Whipped is hardly the word. Sometimes I'm still fighting a few unfilled squares the following Tuesday night.

What leads to this addiction? Some crossword devotees say they look it up to increase their vocabulary. It does. You learn what idiosyncrasies are, covenants; that wing has an "ala" sequence in it; that an herbaceous plant is, but not always, an iris; that a fortification is a median or redoubt; that a barrier in a Roman circus is a spina.

Now just how often you're going to use these in everyday talk or writing is debatable. But you know them.

My mother would leave the dishes in the sink, the beds unmade, the house "uncluttered" while she fought over those missing socks and monkey Indian acrobats mats and ankle bones tarsals.

She eventually compiled her own crossword dictionary. And once in a national contest she won a residential lot somewhere in New Jersey. The family decided, though, it wasn't enough to make the move from West Virginia.

There are several schools of thought on working crosswords. The purists say go it alone, relying strictly on your word knowledge. The less pure call fellow addicts to ask, "what did you get for 81 across." Or there's the public library although its information desks frown on such calls.

Sells Fish To Aid His Church

ROPERLEY, England 8P—The Rev. Karl Landberg is selling fish here to raise money to restore his 12th century village church.

The National Federation of Fishmongers at Grantham, five miles away, doesn't like it. A spokesman said the reverend's fish sales are ruining their business.

"It is disgraceful when the church has to go into the fish trade to raise money," he said.

Rev. Landberg makes a 100-mile round trip to Grimsby every Friday to buy fish wholesale and sell it here, where there is no local fishmonger.

He has thus far realized $22.40 in profits.

NOTICE

COLLEGE STUDENTS

Each September the Ledger and Times runs a feature story on students from Murray and Calloway County entering or resuming their work at the various colleges, universities, and special schools. This includes all those who also plan to attend Murray State University.

We would like to run the name of every college student in Murray and Calloway County if possible. All students are asked to mail or call in the following information: Name, parents name, college, what year, course of study, clubs, societies, fraternities, etc. Mail this directly to the Ledger & Times office or call Mrs. J. R. (Jo) Burken at the newspaper office, 753-1917, each weekday morning or at her home, 753-4947.

her. He seems to have control of his front legs and they are sticking straight out in front of him any more. He must have had some brain damage or concussion when he was struck by a car, but appears to be mending some.

Visiting in Murray last week was Mrs. Elaine Harvey. She's an RN and got her Bachelor's degree at Murray State before the Harvey's left Murray for Arkansas. She graduated with honors.

The driveway at Calloway County High is to be paved we hear. It may be paved by this time. We have not been out that way for some time.

The taller Hibiscus is blooming now. The lower ones have been blooming for some weeks now. It is also about time for the deeper colored Magic Lilies to be blooming.

Black Gum trees have two or three red leaves of them, and the Pecanum in the front yard is losing a few leaves. The Hickory tree leaves are beginning to get that pinched look that foretells fall.

store at Stella. When he told his mother she thought he was kidding so he to her large the bird was when it attacked him.

Mrs. Morton said all of the shirts that Michael were wearing at the time of the bird attack were torn on the right side. He has been able to knock the bird off of him each time.

Friday afternoon he and some more boys had been fishing in a place west of the Perry Harrison farm. Michael left early as he had to get ready to go to Little League that afternoon and was walking to the home of the Ken Adams to get his bicycle when the bird caught him. Michael said he knocked the bird off and kicked it hoping to perhaps kill or catch the bird, but it attacked him again and he just ran as fast as he could in order to get away from the bird.

Most of the attacks have occurred near the Morton home with the exception of the one on Friday afternoon. He was attacked again then on Saturday afternoon. Jerry Maspin, conservation officer, went to the Morton home on Saturday and took the young boy to the place he was attacked to see if any sign of the bird could be found, but they did not have any luck at that time.

Maspin told the Ledger & Times this morning that he planned to go to the area on Tuesday and use Michael as a decoy to try to capture the bird.

The conservation officer said he thought the bird might be a large red-tailed hawk and said that sometimes a bird of this type will pick a person out to agitate or attack him. He said there was

Tell Him Facts on Making Will

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a wonderful widower. He is considerate, kind, and generous, and we are very happy together. One thing has me worried. He has no intention of drawing up a will. He feels that inasmuch as wife number one helped him earn everything he now possesses, should he precede me in death, everything should go to his children. They are all married, and doing extremely well.

When I married this man he told me I wouldn't need a thing as he had everything, which was true, so I disposed of all my worldly goods and divided up everything among my married children.

I am too old to make my own way in the world now, and although I don't expect a great deal, don't you think he owes me some security?

DEAR WONDERING: Yes, and if he is as "kind, considerate, and generous" as you say he is, it is highly unlikely that he would leave you penniless should he die first. Does he know that it is possible for a wife to inherit more than her spouse had intended should he die and leave nothing in writing? Tell him this, and he will probably break his neck getting to his lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has changed the boy losing an eye or being out of badly if the attacks continue.

Mr. and Mrs. Blakely on the other side have two small children, and Mr. and Mrs. Morton also have a daughter, Denise. All three of the homes are in front of a wooded area on the Kirksey highway.

always taught me not to lie, but something when one of her friends calls her on the telephone she asks me to say she isn't home when she isn't that lying? I am 11, years old and all mixed up.

DEAR MIXED: Yes, it is lying. Ask your mother if you may say, "Mother is busy now, may she call you back?"

DEAR ABBY: Everytime I mention planning my wedding, my mother changes the subject. She says it is a lot of fuss and expense for nothing. I have the money saved and would pay for it myself, and my fiancée's mother offered to help me with the plans. My mother says if I do have a church wedding she won't come because she never went to any of my brothers' or sisters' weddings. (They were all married by justices of the peace.)

I dearly would love a church wedding, Abby, but what's a wedding without a mother? I asked mom if she'd care if we went out of state and got married, and she said, "I wish you would." What do you think?

WANT: A WEDDING

DEAR WANTS: Since you are able to pay for it yourself and your fiancée's mother can help with the plans, go ahead and have your church wedding. Your mother (assuming she's well) is only being peevish and contrary. But I'll bet she wakes up in time to smell the orange blossoms.

WEAPON LOST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy is searching for a non-nuclear prototype weapon, lost in shallow water off Puerto Rico. A spokesman said the device posed no threat to people or property.

The weapon presumably used to simulate nuclear attacks, contained a small explosive charge and "sophisticated electronic equipment," the Navy said Friday.

Fall Headliners

Are Smartly Flattering

SOPHISTICATED, elegance and charm predominate in Mr. John's Autumn and Winter hat collections which were inspired by the paintings of the eminent artist Henri Matisse. Flatter And Enhance

Mr. John believes that women should, and do, buy hats to co-ordinate a costume; that hats, when properly selected, flatter and enhance and that they should be worn for all occasions.

To support his contentions, he has created exciting hats for round-the-clock wear and has divided them into five groups: the Moderne Travelers, Sophisticated Spectators, Dynamic Sultans, Grand Luxe Elegantes and Matisse Forraits.

Exciting Hats

The hat colors are delectable and cover the gamut of intensity. Mr. John's lovely trend-setting and face-framing ing silhouettes and use of fabrics reveal his deft talents. Numerous Variety

For daytime and travel wear, paisley wool challis, soft suede, felt, velours, tweed, antelope and cashmere are just a few of the many types.

After-five fabrics run from velvets to frothy veillings. The smart clothes, jewelry and other accessories shown here are also by Mr. John.

CAPRICE: Beige jersey and crystalline white leather are combined in chic beret.

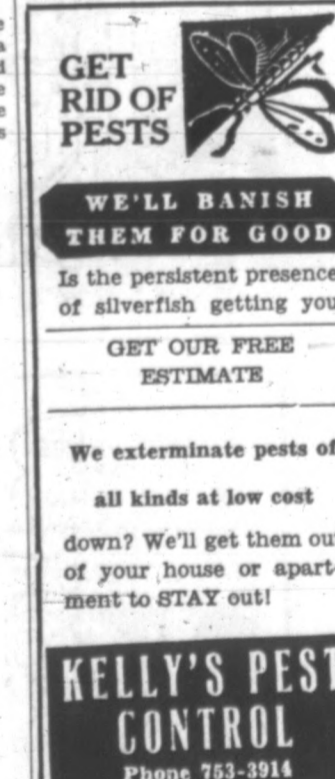

MAINTENON: Mauve tones blend to form this paisley challis wood turban and ascot.
