Ray Sadecki Raises Average Since August

By VITO STELLINO UPI Sports Writer

Ray Sadecki, the unwitting fall guy in the story of the 1967 National League pennant race that wasn't, didn't give up easily.

In fact, if it wasn't for some circumstances beyond his control, he would be winning plaudits for a fine comeback in the second half of the season in finally finding his form of 1964.

Sadecki, who has a 4-4 record back on Aug. 13, boosted his mark to 10-6 Friday night with a four-hit shutout as the San Francisco Giants blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0 on Tom Haller's ninth inning homer.

Fourth Straight Win It was the fourth straight victory for Sadecki, who hasn't lost since Aug. 22, but the left-hander isn't known these days for his comeback.

He's still known as the man the Cardinals gave up for Orlando Cepeda. But that wasn't Sadecki's management. And if the fact that Cepeda has led the Cardinal pennant romp this season is overlooked, Sadecki's achievements can be appreciated.

Showers in the National League, Los Angeles best Philadelphia 7-1, St. Louis beat Atlanta 5-4 in 12 innings, Chicago edged Cincinnati 3-2 and New York beat Houston 9-6 in 10 innings after losing the opener 6-0.

In the American League, Minnesota took over sole possession of first place in the tight race with an 8-2 victory over New York while Boston was splitting with Baltimore, losing the opener 10-9 and winning the second game 10-6.

Detroit moved to within one game with an 8-3 and 4-0 sweep of Washington, while Chicago suffered a Cleveland, Kansas City beat California 3-1.

Sadecki struck out seven and walked three while blanking the Pirates.

The champion Cardinals blew a 4-1 lead in the ninth inning but came back to win in the 12th as rookie Steve Hentz and Bob Tolson singled with two out and Mike Shannon then singled in Hentz to beat the Braves.

Don Sutton pitched a five-hitter and Len Gooden hit a two-run homer and two doubles as the Dodgers whipped the Phils.

Billy Williams reached second on an error and scored the winning run on the second wild pitch of the inning as the Cubs beat Cincinnati.

Jerry Bushell hit two three-run homers—the second with two out in the 10th—to give the Mets a split with Houston in Sully Parker's managerial debut. Mike Callier won the opener for Houston.

Louis nipped Atlanta 5-4 in 12 innings, San Francisco shaded Pittsburgh 1-0, Chicago edged out Cincinnati 3-2, Los Angeles topped Philadelphia 7-3 and New York beat Houston 8-5 after an 8-0 loss.

Extra Inning Win Tony Horton led off the 13th inning with a homer off reliever Roger Nelson to give the Sox a four-run lead. The Indians scored all of their first run in the second inning on Vern Fuller's double and Larry Brown's single.

Jim Hunter's five-hitter and a two-run single by Mike Hershberger paced the Kansas City Athletics past the California Angels 3-1 in the other AL game.

In the National League, St. Louis 10-6 Pittsburgh 1-0 Philadelphia 7-1 San Francisco 5-4 Cincinnati 3-2 New York 9-6 Houston 6-0

Philadelphia 5-2 Los Angeles 7-1 Atlanta 5-4 Chicago 3-2 Cincinnati 3-2

Three Pilots Act Different, Not Ermer

By FRED DOWN Managers Dick Williams, Mayo Smith and Eddie Stanky reacted differently but the only pilot involved in the frantic American League pennant race who sounded like a winner was Cal Ermer.

Williams gave his Boston Red Sox the "sisters treatment" after a 10-0 loss Friday night and they rebounded to beat the Baltimore Orioles 10-3. Smith told his Detroit Tigers to "just keep on winning" after 8-3 and 4-0 victories over the Washington Senators.

Stanky scolded, "who says we're dead?" after the Chicago White Sox lost to the Cleveland Indians 2-1 in 13 innings.

Ermer had merely told his first place Minnesota Twins to get good night's sleep. The Twins did just the opposite today because they lost to the Cleveland Indians 2-1 in 13 innings.

MSU Racers Open Home Season, OVC Schedule Tonight At 8:00

Murray State will open its home and Ohio Valley Conference schedule tonight with Tennessee Tech, who Ike Murray dropped its season opener last week.

Murray lost to University of Tennessee at Martin, 18-9, while Tech was beaten 31-26 by Youngstown. The Racers and the Eagles followed similar scripts in their losses. Both fell behind early in the first quarter; both took the lead in the third quarter, and after falling behind again, both nearly pulled their games out in the final minutes.

Another similarity was that both did most of their yard gaining in the air.

Murray Coach Bill Ferguson called the Eagles a typical Tech team. "They're big, strong, and run right at you," Tech has an All-OVC player, Steve DeLand, anchoring the offensive line at guard; one of the league's best fullbacks in Larry Schreiner; the rushed for 381 yards last season; and a veteran quarterback in Dale Swain (he passed for 654 yards and rushed for 308).

After studying films of the OVC game, Ferguson said the Racers performed about as the coaches expected. "They gave a big effort, but they made a lot of mistakes, as inexperienced players usually do."

Defensive starters will be Vic Ehrhardt and Mike Rhodes; ends; David Raskopf and Don Williams; backs; Larry White, middle guard; Carl Chapman and Doc Sanders, linebackers; and Leonard Jenk, Dennis Hawkins, Jack Stacey, and Don Vestch, defensive backs.

Murray leads Tech 16-15-1 in the series between the two schools, and most of the games since the first one in 1950 have been close. Last season, though, the Eagles crushed the Racers 31-28.

Game time will be 7:30 p. m.

The fight will be televised nationally and backed out within a 100-mile radius of the Los Angeles area. It will be shown on closed circuit television at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Bob Gibson Gets Call To Open First Game Of Series

ST. LOUIS - Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals has indicated that right-hander Bob Gibson probably will be the starting pitcher for the National League champions in the first game of the World Series.

After the Cardinals returned Thursday to St. Louis from a road trip on which they sewed up the title, Schoendienst told newsmen: "Gibson has been growing well and he has the experience."

As for other series starters, Schoendienst said: "After Gibson, I don't know."

Gibson, who has won three starts since returning to the squad following a broken leg, is scheduled to pitch again Saturday in St. Louis against Atlanta. Schoendienst said he planned to use Gibson often in the final days of the season "because we want to get him strong as possible."

A 20-game winner in the two previous seasons, Gibson won two of the four games the Cardinals took from the New York Yankees in the 1964 series.

Miss Susan Carolyn Teas Becomes Bride Of Leon Stephens Joyner In Ceremony At The Chapel Of Memories At Mississippi State

The Chapel of Memories at Mississippi State University was the setting Saturday, September 9, at four o'clock in the afternoon for the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Susan Carolyn Teas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry David Williams, Starkville, Mississippi, and Leon Stephens Joyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Felix Joyner, Jr., of Frankfort, Kentucky.

Miss Teas is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Williams, 1110 Sycamore Street and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Glen N. Carr, Colchester Road.

The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Brownson Nettlesville of the University Christian Church.

Vows were pledged before a background of foliage arrangements of woodruff, fern and gold arched anemone holding white orchid tapers. Centering the chapel was a white church urn holding a massive symmetrical arrangement of lime green full chrysanthemums, green gladiolus and peacock feathers. Flanking the altar stood large gold candle trees holding white lighted tapers and accented at the base with ferns.

Miss Frances Southland, Nashville, Tennessee, presented a program of organ music which included the theme from Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet" played during the playing of the vows. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Williams sang the duet from "Wedder Auld" and "The Lord Bless You" both by Shae and "The Wedding Song" by Henrich Schuba. As the couple knelt at the prie dieu, Mr. and Mrs. Williams sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Melstae.

Proceeding the bride to the altar, as matron of honor, was Mrs. Deann F. Melstosh of Frankfort, Kentucky, sister of the bride. Attendants were Miss Ginger Reynolds, Miss Kell Jones, and Miss Judith White, all of Starkville.

The attendants wore identical sleeve-length gowns of lime green crepe design on an Empire line with sexy necklines, elbow length sleeves and A-line skirt. The gown was accented by a floral motif of heavy Schmitt embroidered lace appliques. The back of the gown was highlighted by the flowing panel train which carried matching details of the appliques and was topped by a double self fabric bow. Their headpieces were dyed to match double Dior bows interspersed with floral sprays and pearl ornaments and topped with tiered layers of circular machine veiling.

They carried cascade bouquets of green fusi chrysanthemums and peacock feathers accented with lime green ribbons.

Leon Felix Joyner, Jr., Frankfort, Kentucky, attended his son as best man. Groomsmen were the brother of the groom, Barrett R. Joyner, and Jerry H. Sheridan, both of Frankfort, Kentucky, and Wil-

Tables in the private dining room of the Inn were arranged in T-shape, banquet style, with guests being served from a buffet. Making the places of the bride and groom at the center table was a formal arrangement of white gladiolus, green full mums, lavender pom-pom chrysanthemums, and white full pom-poms. Smaller arrangements of the flowers centered the longer extension of the table. The tables were overlaid with white linen and placards were in white and silver. ## Out of Sight - Out of Mind

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I discovered that my husband of 19 years was having an affair with a young married woman in his office. We have made a serious effort for the sake of our children to rebuild our marriage, which was a good one.

The girl agreed when they broke up that she should get another job, but so far she is still working in my husband's office. My husband says he cannot fire her, but I can know no real peace as long as they are in daily contact. It would be so easy for them to re-establish the old relationship by use of a telephone call.

What do you advise, Abby? I want to keep her out, but I am sure I am in there fighting.

DEAR ABY: No matter what your husband says, as long as that girl remains in your husband's office, he hasn't fully given her up. Tell him that you do not expect super-human restraint from mere mortals, and if he is sincere in his efforts to rebuild your marriage, he will send her on her way immediately, with excellent references.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this is a stupid question for a 10-year-old girl to ask, but you are the only person I can ask who won't laugh at me.

Is it all right to kiss a fellow good-night on the first date?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: That depends. The kiss itself is not as important as the motivation behind it. If a good-night kiss is a mutual sign of affection, I see nothing wrong with it. Even on the first date. But if there is no feeling for the other person — only a desire for self-gratification, it keeps up.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and for three years I've been dating a gentleman who is 64. Yesterday I received a check from one of my co-workers who said, "People just naturally assume that if a lady dates a man more than three times, there is something going on."

Tell me, Abby, is that true?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: There is something going on. A three-year-old friendship. And what that entails is your business, and nobody else's.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LEFT OUT": As a rule, people do not get "left out." They leave themselves out because they are too lazy to do what is necessary to

What's Going On

Kentucky 4-H Club and PFA members with beef projects will soon begin competition for $12,000 in prizes in the annual district beef shows. Opening the five shows sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture will be the Purchase District Beef Show and Sale at Murray September 25-28. The Murray show will be conducted with a carcass contest to be held at a packing firm in Union City, Tennessee. Dates and locations of the remaining four shows are September 27-28, Bluegrass at Lexington; October 25, Pennycroft at Hopkinsville; October 7-11, Green River at Owensboro; and October 12, Northern Kentucky at Mayeville. A show and sale only will be held at Lexington and Mayeville. The other shows will feature a carcass contest in addition to the sale.

Commenting on the 1967 program, Commissioner Butler said "The Department of Agriculture and the State Show Committee try to make these shows an educational as possible for the participants. Beef cattle is a growing industry in Kentucky and the youth exhibiting today will be the customers of tomorrow. If these shows can provide them with meaningful information involving feeding, handling and production qualities, then I feel Kentucky's beef industry will be well-staffed in the years ahead."

Wendell Bruce, director of the Department's Division of Shows and Fairs, said there were 634 entries in the district shows last year. This year's total should be as good if not better, Bruce said, as beef enterprises are increasing in Kentucky.

Dr. Frank Burk, Department of Animal Sciences, University of Kentucky, will judge the on-foot shows, except at Lexington, with that show to be judged by packers. Dr. York Varney, also of the University of Kentucky, will judge the carcass contests.

One of US Works for THEM

ESPIONAGE THRILLER OF THE YEAR
by JACK D. HUNTER

From the novel published by E. P. Dutton & Co. Copyright © 1967, by Jack D. Hunter. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

WHAT WAS HAPPENING? Stark warped a waist-level beam of light, and the flash, turned on a flash, and standing up, signaled us to enter crawling. Once we were all in the interior vault with the door safely closed, Stark held the flash on a self-erasing film slate like the ones kids play with, and scrawled: DON'T TURN ON CEILING LIGHT - LIKELY IT STARTS TV CAMERA. Then, holding up the locator, he went softly around the vault; but the light didn't glow and finally he nodded at Harper and pointed to the safe. On the slate he wrote: ALL CLEAR. BUGS STANDARD. SO IF NO TALKING, NO BIG NOISE. IT'S NO SWEAR.

Harper moved directly to the huge safe in the far wall. Stark stepped aside and held the flash on a spin-dial combination lock. Harper, oddly precise and unhurried, nudged down, freed the hurried clasp of his watch, and removed a compact AEG electronic stethoscope. He set the switches on the actuator, triggered the battery in his carrying case, put on the earphones, and placed the stetho to the steel just to the right of the lock dial. He turned the dial. Forty-three seconds later he heard a sound. Then, after a careful oiling of the great hinges and a delicate, soundless tug, the safe yawned wide.

Stark moved for the safe, but I caught his arm and shook my head. Taking his slate, I wrote: NO - TIL EVALUATE. YOU PHOTO WHAT I HEARD YOU. He gave me one of the meanest glares I've ever seen, his brassy eyes shiny and flat in the glow of the flash. He grabbed the slate and scribbled: SAYS YOU UNBIASED WITNESS REMEMBER?

I wrote back: UNBIASED WHEN YOU BUG MY APARTMENT! He said: "Ha!"

For the first time since I'd known him I saw Stark show surprise. His eyes widened perceptibly and his gash-like mouth opened a millimeter or two. But that was all, and a tacit sign of surrender he made no move for the slate but equated and removed a camera from his case.

Face impassive again, he erected the camera-holding light with its built-in flashlight and positioned the assembly to the right of the safe door. This latter pleased me very much, because the safe door would now be between him and me as I raised arm and had cleared the we worked and I didn't want him to see everything I did. I motioned to Harper and directed him to stand by the door so that he could hold the flash and pass documents to Stark.

I picked up the slate, erased my last message, and wrote: POLAROID. I handed this to Harper and he showed it to Stark. The camera came around the corner in nothing flat.

The safe was very tidy inside, with a stack of loose papers to the right, two unsealed pasteboard boxes topped by four loose-leaf notebooks to the left. It was the second pasteboard box that held the chimeric; a fat little loose-leaf ledger that listed the code name and real identity of every agent on Pop-topov's string, as well as the amounts paid each month by month for the past year. I found the page Von Zander and I had been prying for, snapped it with the Minot, then removed it from its rings before passing the balance of the book to Stark.

I was feeling so relieved by this time I wasn't the least dismayed by the fact that the doctor photos of Trina and Cosgan were nowhere to be found. I took a last look at everything, then stood erect and nodded at Harper. He stepped up, closed the safe door, nudged the dial and spun it, wiped the oil from the hinges, and said up his hand to signal O.K. I look down the reference photos, shoved them into a pocket, and looked at Stark.

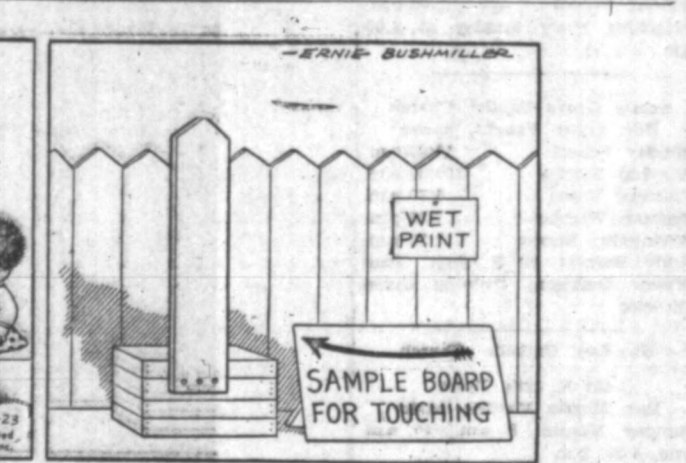

We returned to the little steam room beside the pool in the apple-pie order, as the saying goes, and, after waiting for our night vision to revive, we nudged for the door. We'd just reached it when up to the right, on what I remembered as being the staircase, there was the soft sound of footsteps coming our way. Stark held us back in the blackest shadow, arm outstretched against us, and I was certain that he'd feel my heart pounding. For that matter, they probably could feel it in Frankfurt.

We stood like mannequins in a closet as the footsteps, wary and measured, came closer. Outside the door they stopped, and I could hear someone breathing. My eyes finally picked out his silhouette against the far window.

It was General Caesari Pop topov.

Pop-topov's arrival can ruin Kraft's work. (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

An investment in Your Future ...ATTEND CHURCH

THE HIGHEST POINT

A steeple was first built on the town church so that anyone anywhere in the village could look out and locate the house of worship. The steeple on the church was the highest point in town. This was a physical fact and the people of the Lord knew it was a spiritual fact also.

Although a church's steeple is no longer the highest physical point in the city because of all the many-storied buildings and towers, the church itself is still filled with people who have reached the highest point of Godly maturity and who are filled with the highest degree of Christian love for God and man.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
