Three Vehicles Are Purchased By City Council Last Night

The Murray City Council last night approved the purchase of three vehicles for three different departments and approved the purchase of a new Sanitation System compactor type truck. Parker Motors was the low bidder on the three vehicles with a bid of $5,886.50. The three trucks are as follows: two ton dump truck for the Street Department, a one-half ton truck for the gas system and a three-quarter ton truck for the water system. Taylor Motors bid on the vehicles as follows: dump truck $3500 with trade, one-half ton truck $2,100 with trade and three-quarter ton truck, $1599.95 with trade. The city is trading a 1962 Dodge dump truck, a 1964 Ford one-half ton truck and a 1963 Ford pickup truck. Holcomb Chevrolet bid as follows: dump truck $3423.44 with trade, one-half ton truck $1633.29 with trade, and half-ton truck $1547.82 with trade. The council approved the Sanitation System's purchase of a new compactor type garbage truck. In other action the council will hire an attorney to collect delinquent taxes. He will receive one third of the amount collected. Total delinquent taxes amount to $4500. An ordinance will be drawn changing an area north of Chestnut Street from residential to business 2. This area is north of the row of businesses between North 10th and North 12th. Councilman Leonard Vaughn told the council that the Murray Hospital is continuing its plans for an expansion program. Present plans are to spend over one million dollars on the program with the hospital furnishing $600,000 and the other $500,000 being obtained under the Hill-Burton Act. Plans are being drawn now for the expansion program and will be announced at a later date. Vaughn urged that a second floor be "roughed in" so that when the time comes it can be finished in short order. The foundation for the new extension will be strong enough for a four story building. The summer "extra pickup" of trash will begin on April 22 and will end on May 31. The service will not be carried out during June, July and August and will then start again September 1 and will be continued through October 15. A street light, was requested near 306 Broach. Cletus Blanton was hired as a permanent employee. He has been on temporary status. The second reading was given to the Privilege License ordinance and the council approved it. Work has begun at 12th and Main streets to widen the intersection. The council approved the formation of an organization composed of Calloway, Graves and Marshall counties to handle the poverty program. McCracken County is presently a member of this group, but Mayor Ellis indicated some problems have arisen which indicates that an organization of just the three counties named, will be more advantageous.

Letter To Editor

The Editor
The Ledger and Times
103 North 4th Street
Murray, Kentucky 42071
Dear Sir:
I have been a reader of your newspaper for several years. Since leaving Calloway County I have valued the paper for its coverage of events and persons on the local scene. But I have been increasingly disappointed by your failure to provide leadership and vision in facing the crucial issues which confront our society. I suspect that many of your fellow citizens in Murray and Calloway County share your views. But I also suspect that others share my judgment that you have consistently refused to rise above the moral mediocrity and spiritual blindness of our time. I think I speak for them now as I write this letter to plead with you to stop living in the past and start marching forward to accept the challenges of this new day with courage and wisdom. I have been on the verge of writing you several times but have restrained myself in the hope that some one at home would call your hand. But in the last few days your comments about Martin Luther King have gone so far beyond what is decent and acceptable that I simply cannot ignore the issues which are raised. I grew up in Hazel, went to college in Murray, and served my country in World War II as a soldier from Calloway County, and served my first pastorate on the Kirtsey Circuit of The Methodist Church, West Kentucky. My father, Mr. Max H. Churchill, was a member of the Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ and of Murray Lodge No. 105 Free and Accepted Masons. Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Minnie Jackson Clark, one daughter, Miss Lucille Clark, and one son, J. W. Clark, all of 1102 Olive Street; one sister, Mrs. Ethel Mizell of Clarksville, Tenn.; one brother, Walter Clark of Palm Springs, California. The funeral has been scheduled for Saturday at two p.m. at the chapel of the Max H. Churchill Funeral Home. Burial will be in the Murray Cemetery with the arrangements by the Max H. Churchill Funeral Home where friends may call.

Alcoholic To Be Studied On NBC-TV

N.B.C. News will present a study of the middle-class American alcoholic, who represents 60% of the nation's six million alcoholics, in a one-hour special, "The American Alcoholic," tonight, Friday, April 12th, from 9:00 to 10:00 on Channel 6. The special will focus on the middle-class personality and probe the social implications of his alcoholism. The majority of the alcoholics are found in respectable neighborhoods—not on skid row. They live with their families, attend church, pay taxes, educate their children, and continue to function on the edge of social acceptability as professionals, housewives, farmers, factory workers, teachers, clergymen, and physicians. The program will also puncture the myth of the alcoholic personality. Experts agree that it is impossible to draw a common character portrait of the alcoholic because it often fits the non-alcoholic as well. The

Alcoholic To Be Studied On NBC-TV

N.B.C. News will present a study of the middle-class American alcoholic, who represents 60% of the nation's six million alcoholics, in a one-hour special, "The American Alcoholic," tonight, Friday, April 12th, from 9:00 to 10:00 on Channel 6. The special will focus on the middle-class personality and probe the social implications of his alcoholism. The majority of the alcoholics are found in respectable neighborhoods—not on skid row. They live with their families, attend church, pay taxes, educate their children, and continue to function on the edge of social acceptability as professionals, housewives, farmers, factory workers, teachers, clergymen, and physicians. The program will also puncture the myth of the alcoholic personality. Experts agree that it is impossible to draw a common character portrait of the alcoholic because it often fits the non-alcoholic as well. The

Damsel in Distress

Gallantry may impel a bystander to go to the aid of a damsel in distress. But if gallantry doesn't, does law? Do you have any legal obligation to help someone — man, woman, or child — whom you see under attack by a third person?

Generally speaking, the answer is no. If you are a total stranger, having played no role in bringing on the difficulty, you have no duty — legally — to go to the rescue.

Thus, bystanders who looked on and did nothing, while a drunken victim slashed a hotel clerk with a knife, were held not liable to the victim.

This doctrine is based partly on our traditions of individualism, partly on the difficulties of devising and enforcing a legal standard of selflessness.

Nevertheless, courts have shown an increasing readiness to find a duty-to-help when there is some special relationship between the bystander and the victim. For then, in a sense, they are no longer total strangers.

What kind of relationship may create a duty of assistance? One example is the relationship between a merchant and his customer. For instance, the owner of a restaurant was held liable for failing to help a young woman being assaulted by a pair of trouble-makers. The court said:

"A restaurant keeper may not sit idly by and leave it to the customer to extricate himself from danger. . . . Similarly, a protective obligation may arise from other relationships: employer and employee, carrier and passenger, hotel and guest, hospital and patient."

Still, the duty of rescue is not unlimited. The law will weigh the particular circumstances, not only to decide if there is such a duty but also to decide how far it extends.

Was there enough time to interfere before the harm was done? Did the person under attack seem able to take care of himself? Might a rescue attempt have made matters worse?

Thus, a court held that the proprietor of a bowling alley was justified in staying out of a scuffle between a patron and an armed robber. The judge decided that, in the face of a gun, the proprietor's discretion was the better part of valor.

Angels Win Game After Getting Hit

By JOE GERGEN UPI Sports Writer

Even the Angels no longer turn the other cheek.

That form of passive resistance was eschewed by the Angels, California branch, Thursday after first baseman Don Mincher was struck on the right side of the face by a Sam McDowell fast ball.

Instead of rolling over, the Angels came back swinging — at the ball, not at McDowell — and pounded out a 7-5 victory over Cleveland as Chuck Hinton, a former Indian, homered and Roger Repoz, Mincher's replacement, scored the final two runs of the game.

McDowell, one of the hardest throwers in the majors, felled the rugged Mincher in the third inning and the first baseman was carried off the field on a stretcher. Fortunately, however, no bones were broken and the damages were repaired with five stitches.

Return Fire — Cleveland fireballer didn't last much longer himself. The Angels drove the southpaw from the mound in the fourth inning with a three-run outburst, climaxed by Rick Reichardt's two-run single. Reichardt also was hit by a McDowell pitch in his previous at bat.

After the Indians had rallied to take a 5-4 lead, Hinton homered off Luis Tiant with one out in the seventh to tie the score and Repoz followed with a single. An infield out and a single by Bob Rodgers sent California into the lead and the Angels added an insurance tally in the ninth on a walk to Repoz, a single by Bubba Morton and Bobby Knoop's sacrifice fly.

In the only other games, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox 4-3 on a ninth-inning homer by Gates Brown and the Minnesota Twins rallied to beat the Washington Senators 5-4.

In the National League the Chicago Cubs topped Cincinnati 10-3; Pittsburgh took 15 innings to beat San Francisco 3-1; the New York Mets blanked Los Angeles 4-0; St. Louis swamped Atlanta 10-3; and the Houston Astros beat Philadelphia 7-3.

Pinch-Hit Homer — Brown, pinch-hitting for rookie pitcher Jon Warden, slammed John Wyatt's first pitch of the ninth inning into the stands to terminate a slugfest. Dick McAuliffe and Bill Freshau had homered earlier for the Tigers and rookie Joe LaHoud and Rico Petrocelli homered for the Red Sox.

Harmon Killebrew, who tied Boston's Carl Yastrzemski for the American League home run title last year with 44, slammed his second in two games this season to break a 4-4 tie in the fifth inning and provide the Twins with their second victory.

The Twins spotted the winless Senators four first-inning runs, three on Ron Hansen's bases-loaded double before rallying for three unearned runs in the third and another unearned tally in the fifth. Killebrew then settled the game with a poke off relief pitcher Dennis Higgins. Jim Merritt went the distance for Minnesota, yielding five hits.

Murray State Loses Here To St. Louis

St. Louis University capitalized on two unearned runs in the third inning and held off the Murray State Racers with strong pitching to notch a 4-3 victory in the first battle of a two-game series Thursday.

The two teams meet in the second contest today at 3 p. m. Murray bunched all of its runs in the bottom of the third, but couldn't master the pitching of Jim Davko the rest of the way.

The loss was Murray's third against first blood and Tim Obermeier doubled in two runs with one out. It was the bat of Obermeier that spelled coup de grace for the Racers.

Don Harris was the only Racer with more than one hit. He collected to hits in four trips.

Murray's rally in the third began with back-to-back singles by Rodney Pryor and Mike Jones. Then, with two outs, Tim Mapin banged a double, bringing home Pryor. Cole moved to third and came racing home ahead of Mapin on Bill Cole's single. The challenge ended when Cole was thrown out trying to steal second.

From that point on it was goose eggs for both teams.

Obermeier collected three of St. Louis' eight hits off three Racer hurlers and drove in three runs. John Fishery had three hits in four appearances at the plate for the Billikens.

Cepeda Says Cardinals Are Now Better Than Ever Was

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer
Orlando Cepeda had some sad news for the rest of the National League Thursday night — the St. Louis Cardinals are better than ever.

Cepeda drove in four runs with a homer, single and his first triple in four years as the defending world champions pounded Atlanta for 18 hits en route to a 10-3 victory over the Braves.

"Last year's team was good," said Cepeda after the rout, "but this team is better. We have better pitching."

Cepeda's hitting helped Nelson Briles record his 10th consecutive victory over a two year span.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago blasted Cincinnati 10-3, New York blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Houston stopped Philadelphia 7-3 and Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 3-1 in 15 innings.

In American League action, Detroit nipped Boston 4-3, California edged Cleveland 7-5, and Minnesota edged Washington 4-1, in the only scheduled games.

Heavy Hitter
Cepeda's triple scored Julian Javier from first and highlighted a three run third inning. He homered into the lower deck in left in the sixth after Curt Flood's single and drove in a fourth run with a single.

Tim McCarver had four hits for the Cards while Mike Shannon and Flood chipped in with three apiece.

Deron Johnson accounted for all the Atlanta scoring with a three run homer in the eighth. Ferguson Jenkins struck out 12 and blasted one of five Chicago homers as the Cubs singled Cincinnati. Jenkins' homer, the second of his career, ignited a six-run third inning that drove out Reds starter Mel Queen. Billy Williams' first of two home runs accounted for three more runs in the inning.

Ron Santo and Adolfo Phillips also had home runs for the Cubs, who raked five Cincinnati pitchers for 14 hits.

Mrs. Leon Adams Speaks At Banquet Held By Calloway High Chapter Of FTA

Mrs. Leon (Sue) Adams was the special speaker at the annual banquet held by the Calloway County High School Chapter of the Future Teachers of America at the Triangle Inn.

The speaker used the FTA theme, "The FTA Highway", as the subject of her address. She likened a successful teacher's qualities to the materials used in a highway.

Mrs. Adams said the whole foundation of a teacher's success is strong character. Good character, she said, is the second surface of the highway, in strength which a teacher uses by being aware of the needs of others, by giving the extra mile, or by having the needed power, determination, training and devotion.

The speaker used oil which makes a highway flexible as the faith of a teacher in her fellowman, her students, herself, her country, and above all her faith in God. The hard surface, she said, was developed as the happiness which comes when a teacher has a clear conscience, a planned action, and a love for her students.

Mrs. Adams also emphasized the upkeep of the teacher's highway through constant learning, by reading professional literature, and through experience. She reminded her audience the highway to success as a teacher may be long and difficult, but two people can accomplish anything through the help of God. She concluded her talking by reading "The Teacher's Creed" by Edwin Osgood Grover.

The program committee under the leadership of Ellen Watson presented original verses about certain highways and their signs.

Marjory Merrell warned of "Curves" in the selection of a teaching career; Ruth Ann Barrow revealed "Crossroads" which confront the future teacher; Sharon Underwood spoke of "Speeds and Caution" needed in a career of teaching; Gail Smith used "Repairs and Detours" to correct mistakes; Cynthia Cooper revealed the convenience of educational "Expressways"; and Kathy Stubblefield expressed the pleasure of reaching the "FTA Destination".

Mrs. Adams was honored as the "Teacher of 1968" and Miss Celia Bea Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Taylor, was presented the plaque as "Miss 1968 FTA".

The invocation was given by Bonnie Hargrove. Miss Rita Farris, president, welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Adams, the guest speaker, with original verses.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burton Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crittenden, and Edward R. Collier.

Miss Vicki Ellis Complimented At Special Event

A lovely event complimenting Miss Vicki Stark Ellis, bride-elect of Jack Howard Shell, was given on Saturday, April 6, from two to four o'clock in the afternoon at the Murray Woman's Club House.

The yellow and white color scheme was effectively carried out in the decorations and refreshments. The tea table was overlaid with yellow net and a matching yellow cloth which draped to the floor and at each corner was a bow of flowing yellow ribbons. Centering the table was an arrangement of Japanese iris, shasta daisies, and snapdragons. Tall white tapers were interspersed with the lovely flowers. Matching floral arrangements were placed at vantage points around the room.

Miss Ellis was attractively attired in a tulle dress of pale pink silk shantung and matching shoes. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Others in the receiving line were Mrs. Harvey Ellis, mother of the bride-elect, who wore a black knit suit and a corsage of blue shasta daisies; Mrs. A. D. Stark, maternal grandmother of the honoree, who wore a navy tuckered cotton with a corsage of white carnations; Mrs. Howard Shell, of Latetville, Mo., the groom elect's mother, who was attired in a beige knit suit with a shoulder corsage of carnations.

Mrs. Steve Story kept the register and Mrs. Shannon Ellis greeted the guests at the door.

Presiding at the crystal punch bowl were Miss Barbara Foust, Mrs. Sharilyn Erwin, Mrs. Lester Manning, Shannon Ellis, James L. Erwin, Donnie Foust, Mavis McCarish, Udell Erwin, Walter Waterfield, J. T. Stark, and H. Glenn Doran. The honoree's many lovely gifts were attractively displayed and approximately one hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames James Warren Erwin, J. D. Murphy, Edgar Fride, Lester Manning, Shannon Ellis, James L. Erwin, Donnie Foust, Mavis McCarish, Udell Erwin, Walter Waterfield, J. T. Stark, and H. Glenn Doran. The honoree's many lovely gifts were attractively displayed and approximately one hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Gap Widens When Parent Reveals Talk

By PATRICIA McCORMACK NEW YORK (UPI) — Expect the communications gap between parent and teen-ager to worsen when you have a confidential talk with son or daughter — then blab contents of same.

The same will happen if every conversation takes on the tone of a courtroom interrogation.

Many of the teen-agers who stand charged with being sparse in the word department on the homefront really long for conversation with parents.

A report in the "Christian Herald" makes that point, adding that the youngsters keep the exchanges of words on a superficial level for many reasons.

In "How to Talk to a Teen-Ager—Maybe," youngsters gave the following reasons for a voiding conversations in depth with adults:

—The youngsters have learned their confidences are not respected. Their parents tell each other, or other relatives, what has been revealed in private, or make jokes, or discuss their opinions with outside friends. Child reacts by clamming up.

—Parents do not accept their children's feelings as real, but attempt to change their moods without sitting down and trying to find out exactly what bothers them.

—Parents substitute advice and orders for real conversation, dodging the issue when it comes to telling their children what they really think about such subjects as petting, cheating on examinations, politics, or religion.

—Parents talk pompously, or too knowingly, stressing only what they think without listening to the youngsters' ideas. Youngsters find such talks boring.

—Parents pretend to be authorities on subjects about which they really are ignorant. They make fools of themselves especially when parading their ignorance in front of child's friends.

TV CAMEOS: Edie Adams Edie Revives "Percy" for New Generation

By MEL HEIMER ERNIE KOVACS, the great man, has been dead these six years now—he died in a car crash returning from a baby shower for Milton Berle's wife—and absent from TV for 10 years, but to Edie Adams, who was his widow, his comedy and far-out humor are as timely and beautifully crazy as ever they were.

"I think that's the thing that surprised me most when the ABC people and I decided to investigate the possibilities of an hour-long special made up of his old shows (April 9 at 10 p.m. EST)," the lovely blonde Edie said the other day. "I started running some of his old programs—and they were funnier even than I had remembered them."

"Percy Dovetonis, the languid poet; the Nairobi Trio; the background music of 'Mack the Knife' in German and 'Mona Lisa' in Polish—it all broke me up even more than usual. After that, Jack Mogulescu of ABC and Mills Hofman, the executive producer, decided that yes, the time was right to expose what I guess is a new generation to Ernie's humor."

Edie was as candid about the reasons for re-running the Kovacs stuff as Ernie himself would have been. "Well, I guess everybody knows he left a lot of obligations when he was killed," she said, "and I thought this would help pay off the ones he owed to ABC. And a special seemed the best way to do it. I just didn't want to see those wonderful shows turning up at 9 a.m. reruns."

There were some various thoughts on how to run the kinescopes, including a setting of a hall full of Ernie's friends and perhaps a eulogy about what a great guy he was. Edie shuddered. "That would have driven him up a wall," she said. "People being maudlin and over-sentimental. Can't you just see him saying 'Ah, come ON now, knock it off!'"

For those who don't remember Kovacs—and anyone who ever saw him WOULD remember—he was TV's funniest and far and away most original performer. He made nonsense quite successful, if not overwhelmingly so, and this was a fantastic deed, since nonsense invariably isn't popular. And, of course, he was using trick angles and eddibal camera shots even before Dave Garroway, who generally is credited with inventing them (Garroway once replaced Ernie on a Philadelphia show).

Miss Adams, who now is wed to photographer Marty Mills (a baby's due in August), is a highly successful singer-actress whose reputation is wide in films and cafes. Despite this, and her frequent TV appearances, she's best known to television audiences as the why-don't-you-pick-me-up-and-smoke-it-some-time commercial spokeswoman for the Consolidated Cigar Corp. "These commercials," she said flatly, "have given me the best exposure I've ever had."

Born in Kingston, Pa., and raised in Tenafly, N.J., Edie studied at Juillard and almost became an opera singer (at the Copas not long ago she even sang an aria from "La Boheme"), but turned to pop singing after a "Talent Scouts" appearance, and then, of course, hit it big on Broadway in "Wonderful Town." Some may not remember that along the way of her budding career, she won assorted beauty contests and once was "Miss U.S. Television." She made personal appearances all over America, one even with Miltie Berle, then "Mr. Television." "I was permitted to sing so long as I wore a bathing suit," Edie said.

In 1961, she got TV's award as "Commercial spokeswoman of the year," and she's made a handful of good movies. The best thing that ever happened to her, probably, however, was nine years of marriage to Ernie Kovacs, once described by a TV bigwig as "the last spontaneous man."

Penny Pinching Dad Making Mom Mad

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I get along pretty well except when it comes to money. He drives a truck and averages about $250 a week, but if you ever saw our furniture you would think we were on welfare.

He gives me $20 a week for groceries. We have three growing children, and if it weren't for my garden and the freezer I don't know what I'd do.

My husband banks every penny he gets his hands on. Our oldest is ten and wants to take piano lessons, but my husband says we can't afford it. Our home is paid for, we don't owe a dime and we have over $10,000 in the bank. Please put something in your column to help me. He reads it and thinks you're smart.

TURNING GRAY
DEAR TURNING: It may take more than a few words from me to part your husband from his money. The poor man seems to be obsessed with the fear of being broke. [Probably due to a hungry childhood and a good memory.] I don't recommend extravagance, but a man owes it to his family to provide them with as fine an education [musical, too] and as pleasant surroundings as he can afford.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is always looking for dirt in somebody else's house. The minute she walks in she looks in the corners for a speck of dust that might have been overlooked.

I have even seen her open closets, cupboards and drawers. It's a habit. She looks behind the davenport, under rugs and once I saw her look behind somebody's washing machine.

The minute she leaves someone's house, she says, "My, she's a terrible housekeeper." Or, "Not a trace of dirt—she must have just cleaned." Or, "Not a trace of dirt—she must have just cleaned."

What is the matter with a person like that?
DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: People who are constantly searching for flaws, imperfections and signs of "dirt" around others, do so in order to avoid seeing their own. Pray for them.

DEAR ABBY: We have a foreign exchange student from an Asian country living with us. We were laughing hysterically while reading the letter in your column about the man who gave a "birthday" party every year for his wife who had been dead for twelve years. [He said he'd invite his friends for a regular "birthday party," after which they'd all go out to the cemetery to "talk" to Ruby and leave her a piece of birthday cake.]

Our Asian friend couldn't see anything funny about that. He said it's an old Oriental custom to visit the cemetery once a year, and take along some food for their ancestors to "eat."

Announcing Chevrolet's new Torque-Drive.

Nobody else offers anything like it at the price. Torque-Drive does away with the clutch pedal. Most of the shifting, too. And for the most economy, it's available exclusively on all Camaro sixes and Chevy II Nova 4- and 6-cylinder models.

Look how simple it is. You accelerate in 1st, then shift to Hi for cruising. That's all. If you like, you can even start in Hi. And accelerate from standstill to cruising speed. It's just a little slower that way.

The shift lever is conveniently located on the steering column, and there's a selector quadrant with easy-to-read indications: Park-R-N-D-Hi-1st. Only your Chevrolet dealer has it—clutchless driving at only $68.65.

The first no clutch one shift $68.65* transmission

FINS 'N FEATHERS

Recommended to Anglers—An Emergency Kit

Although Bill Cullerton, one of the world's foremost fishing authorities, agrees fishing is one of the safest sports, he adds, "Every angler should be prepared for any type of emergency when on the water."

Cullerton, fishing advisor for Johnson Reels, recommends that every fisherman should know first aid techniques, to be able to treat minor injuries.

He also feels that every fisherman should have an emergency kit with him at all times.

A basic kit should include, says Cullerton, a flashlight, a small set of signal flares or whistle (to signal for aid), side-cutter pliers, insect repellent, sun tan lotion, light rubber pacs (to keep feet dry in case boat ships water), sunglasses, first aid kit, a couple of candy bars, and a couple of cans of your favorite soft drink.

And very important, since nothing can be more frustrating than a motor that starts missing because of faulty fr-

Here's a peek into Bill Cullerton's fishing kit. He wouldn't think of going out without a flashlight, pliers, flares, whistle, extra spark plugs, first aid kit, sunglasses.

ing, is having a couple of dry packed spark plugs in the kit. The flashlight, a most important item, can be used as a return from your fishing hole in the dark.

Signal flares are good for day or night use to direct attention to your area in case of trouble. In case of a boat upset, your whistle would be better and louder than trying to call for help.

Pliers will come in handy many times. They can be used from trimming a barb point off a hook which has pierced an ear lobe, or thumb, to removing a hook from the jaws of a northern pike—which has teeth like spikes.

Insect repellent can help to make your day on the waters more pleasant and enjoyable. Take along plenty.

Last of all, be sure to protect your eyes from harmful ultra violet rays of the sun by wearing dark glasses. Water reflections can produce some painful eye burns too. And be sure to get the best you can afford.

Veteran anglers never head out onto the waters unless their gear contains an emergency kit. Why should you?

Not going, son! Bring in another largemouth bass like this one—the old-timers around here will say you're going to be a great fisherman!

All roads lead to the water, said roads being crowded with boats! Fishermen are out in numbers, and all reporting large catches of croppie and bass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Murphy of Murray Home and Auto Store, displayed a stringer bearing 40 nice croppie. This feat was accomplished in a few hours one afternoon this week. They were fishing out from Lynhurst Resort.

Red Thompson and Bud Kilgore tried their luck at Barkley Lake last week. They landed 20 croppie.

Reports from Morgan's Boat Dock and Cypress Resort say this: "Fish are biting like there is no tomorrow Bass and croppie being the most eager".

If the Fins 'N Feathers look better this week, there is a good reason. Edward R. Collier assumed the responsibility of remaking the page. I always knew it needed the touch of an expert. Thank you, sir!

Training season for the cooners is in full swing. Hunters and hounds are preparing for the special events coming up.

BASIC SPIN-CASTING

Spin-casting is the simplest type of casting to learn. The principles of spin-casting are similar to casting with a conventional level wind reel. The main advantage of spin-casting is the elimination of backlash—line peels off a stationary spool. You ought to reach 50-60 feet after a few tries.

THE BASIC OVERHAND CAST

AIM 1

Face target with left foot rear of right foot, and foot tip of eye level. Elbow doesn't touch body. Press and hold button on reel to engage line and you are ready to cast. Keep palm of hand down and reel handle up for right handed casting.

BACK 2

Start backward stroke by lifting elbow and shoulder slightly. Pivot on your elbow until your hand comes smoothly to eye level.

STOP 3

Reel should stop at vertical where the line weight will develop a casting bend without hesitation. Begin the downstroke using slight wrist bend for power.

CAST 4

Halfway between vertical and your original starting position, the underhand cast is for the experienced angler and of limited value. Feather cast you can exert delicate control over lure by light pressure on thumb button to slow it down.

CHECK REGULATIONS

Planning to fish on your camping trip? Don't forget to check local fishing regulations before you count on catching your breakfast.

CLEAN AIR NEEDED

When getting your car ready for a vacation trip, remember to check the air cleaner. According to Champion Spark Plug Company, 9,000 gallons of air is used for every gallon of gasoline.

If the air cleaner is dirty, air supply will be cut leading to an improper gas/air mixture and poor performance. Air cleaners should be cleaned every four months.

Here's How to Fillet Fish the Angler Brings Home

The easy way to prepare bass, pike, walleye and other fish with large scales and big bone structure is set forth in a Johnson Reels booklet from which we reproduce these instructions. It says "You can, of course, scale, cut off fins, head and tail or skin the whole fish, but this takes time."

1. Take the fish as it comes from the water, lay it on a board and with a sharp knife make a straight cut through the skin from the back of the head right down to the top of the tail. Make a similar cut on the opposite side of the dorsal fin.

2. Now cut around the back of the head down to the rib bones, then make a straight cut from the first incision behind the head down to the back bone, running all the way to the tail.

3. With your knife and fingers, carefully free the fish all the way along the ribs leaving the rib bones attached to the back bone.

4. Cut the fillet free at the end of the rib. This leaves a strip of flesh with skin still attached. Repeat this on the other side of the fish.

5. Once the fillets are removed lay them, skin side down on the board. With the blade of the knife held flat, start a cut between skin and flesh at the tail end. Grasp skin and pull, still holding knife flat. The fillet will peel right off, ready for cooking.

Boating Gear Needs A Check

It's a wise skipper who uses some of those final weekends before summer breaks upon him in full bloom to get his boating gear in shape for the coming season.

The tool kit should be checked to see that all items needed are included—recommended Evinrude Motors. See that flashlight batteries are operating. Restock the first aid kit. Store all of these items in a jockey where they are easily accessible.

The fire extinguisher, fully charged, should be secured in a bracket near the steering position. A life preserver for each person you expect aboard the boat should be inspected to be sure they are not torn or damaged. The paddle, anchor and a bailing device should be ready. You had them last season. Be sure you have plenty of line aboard. Lines have a way of disappearing. Your boat whistle, or horn, should be operating. If you use one of the freon type, be sure it is charged.

CHAPTER 23

DAN BRISCOE noticed a blue object lying beneath a rocking chair. He picked it up. It was a blue bandanna neckerchief that had been knotted around a stone in order to give it weight so that it could be hurled through the window.

Inside the sling was a ragged scrap of paper which bore a pencilled message. The note written with exaggerated crudeness, said:

If you shanons dew any talkin we will send you the kids whole skelp neckst time.

The paper bore a dark blotch. Stiffened blood. Marked to it was a tuft of fine, tawny hair. It had been torn with brutal strength from a scalp. A child's scalp.

He fought nausea. The bandanna was of the common type that came in a variety of colors, and which nearly all riders carried as neckerchiefs for use against dust or heat. This one, apparently, had never been worn. It bore the creases of storage. It retained the smell of newness.

He inspected the paper. It was of heavy, smooth brown stock. He decided it was the kind in which meat was wrapped at a store counter.

He hurried out before Kathleen Royal could question him.

Avoiding the trails, Dan Briscoe and Alex Emmons approached Flat Butte from the west. From a timbered rise they studied the town. The hour was approaching noon. The sun blazed down on Flat Butte's dusty streets. Only a few citizens moved on the sidewalks. The trails were occupied by three saddle horses, and a rickety top buggy.

"From the looks," Dan said, "the sheriff and his hunters are still out in the range. We'll go in on foot. We'll stroll past that shoe shack where the greas are grating, and to the mercantile from the side street. We'll be less likely to attract attention, coming in from that direction."

"What if Obie ain't in his store?" Alex asked.

"He'll be there."

"How come you're so all-fired sure?"

"From what I've seen of him, he's a man of habit. Today, above all days, he'll be very sure to follow his regular schedule, so that nothing will seem out of the ordinary."

They tied up their horses. Moving casually, they reached the deserted lane that flanked the mercantile without being challenged. Dan peered into the street. They waited a minute or two until the coast was clear, then walked without haste into the drygoods store.

The open street, mounted the plank steps and moved through the door into the store.

Obie Willis was alone in his mercantile at this hour of slack trading. He was operating the crank of a slicing machine which stood on a counter, and to which he had clamped a length of sandwich meat. He did not make a sound when he saw the men enter. He was looting off neat circles of the meat. He had placed a handful of crackers and a wedge of cheese nearby. Apparently, he was about to partake of a noontime snack.

He recognized them, and instantly knew their purpose. Slices of meat and crackers scattered as he tried to seize something beneath the counter. He did not make a sound when he saw the men enter. Studio Cards Now Move To Easter

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The studio cards now move into Easter greetings. But the emphasis is on puns with a few wisecracks thrown in, rather than some of the slams, down-right insults and double entendres featured in birthday, get well and anniversary cards.

You could hardly call this new category of Easter cards sacrilegious. And certainly in the world of cards for this Christian holy day, the reverent motif dominates. This year, too, there are numerous cards designed for servicemen—a result, of course, of the Vietnam War.

But about those studio greetings. Here are some samples gleaned from the Fifth Avenue Card Shops, one of the nation's largest outlets for greeting cards from major companies.

One offset number starts on the cover, "Happy Easter from the tip of my toes..." Inside, the message finishes, "to the top of my hare" showing a rabbit standing on the head of a young lady.

The boy likes girl motif shows in some cards, such as, "Happy Easter, to my favorite bunny." Bunny in this case looks more like the playboy club type.

Then there is the card with the cover reading, "Ever wonder how the Easter rabbit gets all those eggs? Well, once a year he invites several thousand hens to a theater where he performs a comedy routine, and, before you know it..."

Inside, the card finishes, "They're laying 'em in the aisles."

And in case you're wondering how bunnies and chicks got into the Easter observance in the first place, here's the word from the Greeting Card Publishers' Association. Legend has it that long ago, to delight children, the pagan goddess of

Fearless Doctor's Anti-motherhood

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Dr. Paul R. Ehrlich, a fearless man, has come out four-square against motherhood.

As a starter, he would impose heavy luxury taxes on diapers, baby bottles and baby foods.

Then, to get his program off the ground, he would end income tax deductions for children and impose new levies on large families.

For persons slow to get the message, Ehrlich favors federal laws to require birth control instruction in public schools. And he thinks the federal government should void state laws that restrict or prohibit abortions.

Ehrlich also proposed breaking off diplomatic relations with the Vatican "until that organization brings its policies into line with the desires of the majority of American Catholics."

There are a few of the proposals advanced by Ehrlich, a distinguished Stanford University zoologist, to provoke debate on a matter of deep concern to him—the population explosion.

He offered the proposals at a scientific symposium "in the full knowledge that they are socially unrealistic and politically unrealistic."

But he believes that only through debate of future measures can a consensus be reached in time to make the measures work.

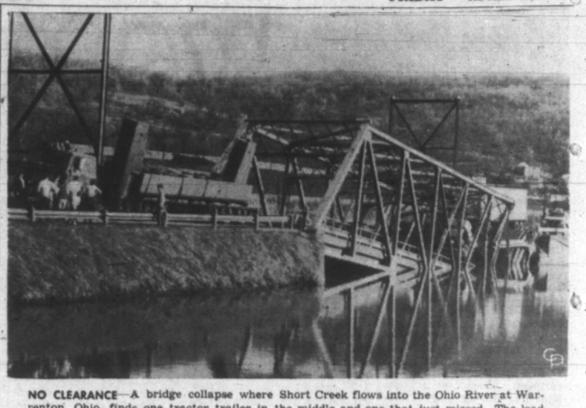

Ehrlich, a specialist in problems of population biology, said he is convinced that this overpopulated planet is entering a period of inevitable and increasing worldwide famine. Unless the most drastic ruthlessness measures for population control are taken, he said, the human race will have no hope for survival.

"A great many people are going to starve to death, and soon," he said. "There is nothing that can be done to prevent it."

Ehrlich based his program on a premise that the ideal population for the United States would be 150 million. It now tops 200 million.

In announcing the 200 million milestone, the Census Bureau said the United States can produce plenty of food for its growing population—expected to reach 300 million by 1999. "Our productive capacity is more than keeping up, despite the fears of overcroding," the bureau said.

"Nonsense," replied Ehrlich. He said the quality of U.S. life is becoming ugly because of the crush of people.

Tall, Tall—The world's tallest known living thing is a redwood tree in Northern California, according to researchers at the University of California. The tree, in Humboldt State Park, is 369.2 feet tall—18 inches higher than another redwood near Orick, Calif., which previously was considered the world's tallest.

QUINT TO WED—Maria Cristina Diligenti, 24, one of the quintuplets born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, on July 15, 1943, relaxes at the home of her fiancé, Bruce Robert Zimmerman, in Dallas, Tex. They plan to wed May 25 in St. Paul, Minn. She is a member of one of the few quintuplets to survive in the world. He hopes to specialize in internal medicine. Only one of the quints, Carlos, and an older brother will be at the wedding.

Use a Litter Care At Christmas Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—No body wants to think of Santa Claus as a litterbug. But here comes "Keep America Beautiful," Inc. with a whole bag full of statistics about Christmas litter.

Says KAB, the national litter prevention organization, 1967 Christmas wrappings, ribbon, tinsel and other decorations will have the potential of littering 400 million pounds of trash receptacles.

That, KAB continues, would be enough litter to fill 3 million average size Santa Claus bags.

Then, adds KAB, U.S. families, business firms and municipalities will put up some 50 million Christmas trees. If these trees are not disposed of properly when the decorations come off, they will haunt streets and back yards for many months to come.

Fortunately, KAB sums up most of the Christmas litter won't be turned into litter, but enough will end up on streets, highways and other public places to cost taxpayers an estimated $8 million to clean up the mess.

"Altogether, Christmas could be a statistically littered, litterless, nightmarish if holiday litterbugs run rampant," said Allen H. Seed Jr., KAB's executive vice president.

Letter To Editor

For instance on March 29, 1968 in your editorial, "War Gets Closer to Calloway County," you wrote one of the most reckless paragraphs I have ever seen in print. In the context of underlining the threat of worldwide communism, you wrote, "Here at home we have the two-faced Martin Luther Kings who carry out 'non-violent' marches and when they explode into violence as planned, they run for the bushes to get out of the way of righteous indignation of law abiding citizens." What happened on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel in Memphis on the evening of April 4 leaves no doubt about the courage and conviction of Dr. King. And it leaves no doubt about who is responsible for the outbreak of violence. The purpose of your sentence was to associate Dr. King with the communist conspiracy and to discredit him as a coward and a traitor and a planner of violence. But it is clear now that throughout this nation Dr. King is honored as a man of courage and mourned as one of the greatest patriots this nation has known. It is also clear now that you have identified yourself with the men of violence who are responsible for Dr. King's death. It would be far better to die with Dr. King than to live the kind of reckless, irrelevant life your newspaper reveals. You did not pull the trigger which ended Dr. King's life but you wrote the kind of degrading mind to believe he was doing this country a service by killing Dr. King. You stand guilty, convicted by the consensus of thoughtful men throughout this nation and the world. The blood of this kind and gentle man cries out for you to apologize to your readers and begin now to get out of your azeala bed and into the struggle for justice and truth.

As a journalist you should know that the fact that you publish a newspaper does not entitle you to make unfounded charges and appeal to raw emotion and blind prejudice. But rather it places you under the obligation of exercising the freedom of the press with responsibility to the public and devotion to the truth. If you have honest differences with Dr. King's philosophy of life, state them clearly and reasonably so that intelligent readers may weigh the issues and come to an informed decision. But let us have no more of your careless attacks on individuals no more of your irrelevant trifles.

Sincerely,
Van Bogard Dunn
Dean

In addition, the program will include interviews with men and women undergoing treatment at these clinics, who will graphically reveal how their alcoholism has affected them and their families, and their hopes in the future.

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Historians destroy one gentle myth about the "XIT Ranch," a ranch that once covered parts of 10 counties of Texas. The "XIT" name and brand did not come from the phrase "Ten in Texas," but was really a meaningless symbol.

The man who designed the brand, Ab Blocker, said he was asked to design one that could be run with a straight branding iron and which rustlers could not burn over into a new design. Blocker said he scratched "X . . . I . . . T" in the sand with his bootheel and the design seemed to fill the bill. So it stayed.
