Changes Made, Farm Storage Loan Program

Several changes have been made in the farm storage loan program recently announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The changes were made to improve the program and make it more effective. The new changes include:

1. The interest rate has been lowered to 5%.
2. The loan terms have been extended to 10 years.
3. The maximum loan amount has been increased to $50,000.
4. The loan application process has been simplified.

These changes are expected to make the program more accessible to farmers and to improve the overall efficiency of the program.

of herbs as remedies for ailments since the days of his genesis in the days that followed, he found that botanical medicine had a desired effect when employed in the treatment of certain hurts and diseases. The knowledge gained was passed down from generation to generation and combined with the prevalent nostrums and from land to hand until it formed formal systems of medicine and medicine became established. The systematic search of materia medica of today is a result of modern medicine, the use of which is another result of man's search for medicinal remedies of botany.

Medicinal Herbs of Appalachia Listed In Forest Service Book

By Neville Shackelford, Staff Writer

The U.S. Forest Service has published a book called "A Guide To Medicinal Plants of the U. S. Forest Service" by Dr. R. E. Bovenkerk of the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station in Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. This 291-page book contains descriptions and illustrations of 126 medicinal plants that have been utilized in this area. The book was compiled from the records of The Tappan Company at the Forest Service's Research Station in Upper Darby.

The book is divided into sections of the U.S. region and climate of the habitats in which the plants grow. Each plant is described with its blooming time, what it is used for, and whether it is poisonous or not. The book is a valuable resource for researchers, herbalists, and all others interested in a delightful and fascinating subject. The book is available at a cost of $1.00 per copy. The proceeds will be sent without charge to those sending a request.

Prior to his service with Merck, Mr. Bovenkerk was President of Tappan Corporation during which time he helped to grow the company into a major corporation in business history. Mr. R. E. Brooker, Chairman of The Tappan Company at the time of his death, had this to say: "We are delighted that Mr. Brooker, who served as our President for a period when it grew from a small company to the largest private corporation in the world, had a great interest in this book. It is a major contribution to the study of the medicinal value of plants."

The balance of the Directors have use in two years to serve as a result of prior elections. The selection of our new President and the election of new Directors is being done in a covered and secret ballot. The new President will serve a one-year term.

People are people, wherever they live.

By ALLY MORTY
(CHARLESTON, S.C.)

Communist nations present the world a stiff, gray facade of a society that is planned, not made up of busy, living, breathing people. But that facade is not always true. On family outings, when they're really small cars can take on a certain charm and sparkle.

For instance, look at the family outing. Big cars often pose as bg cars, but underneath it all the number says it all. In the East, people are people, the world a stiff, gray facade. People are busy living lives not what they seem.

That's because the world, communism, is not what it seems. It's a place where people are not free to live their lives as they choose. But burrow beneath and you can find people busy living lives not what they seem.

People are people, the world a stiff, gray facade. Communist nations present to the world a society that is planned, not made up of busy, breathing people. But that facade is not always true. On family outings, when they're really small cars can take on a certain charm and sparkle.

Population Of U.S. Will Hit 205 Million

New York, N.Y. — The 1970 census will show that America has grown to a land of more than 205 million people, according to estimates by statisticians.

The total number of births last year was estimated at 4,720,000, or over 1,000,000 more than the 1965 figure. The death rate has stayed nearly the same as in 1965, at about 7 per 1,000 population.

In addition to the births, the total population of the country has increased by about 24 million since 1960. The increase is expected to continue as the country grows more urban and more white.

Population growth is expected to be concentrated in the South and West, with the population in the Northeast expected to grow at a slower rate.

The population of California is expected to reach 20 million by 1980, making it the most populous state in the country.
