Last Week In Kentucky

This Saturday saw Kentucky's annual racing extravaganza of the year run for the 74th consecutive year. The entry of Calumet Farms—Citation and Countdown—finished one-two in the Kentucky Derby. It was a great day for Kentuckians. Some 100-thousand people from all over the country saw a race that was strictly a Kentucky affair. Calumet Farm, in Lexington, and the winner, Citation, and the second-finishing Countdown are both Kentucky horses. Citation was ridden to victory by Eddie Arcaro, a jockey, from Newport Kentucky. The only thing lacking to make the Derby a clean sweep for the commonwealth was the fact that trainer Ben Jones is from Missouri.

A number of records fell by the wayside. Citation was the first horse ever to go to win the Derby after winning the Derby trial and the Belmont Futurity. Arcaro's winning ride was his fourth in the run for the roses, and set another record. And it was the fourth Derby winner Jones has trained.

It was a gloomy day in Louisville as the Derby trial and the Belmont Futurity. Arcaro's winning ride was his fourth in the run for the roses, and set another record. And it was the fourth Derby winner Jones has trained.

PEACETIME DRAFT IS STEP NEARER REALITY TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 3. (UP)—A peacetime draft of the nation's youth moved a step nearer reality today.

The House Armed Services committee approved a measure to put thousands of men 19 through 25 into uniform for two years of military service. The committee's vote was 28 to 5.

The next step is up to the house. Then senate also must approve the proposal and the President must sign the bill before an actual draft begins.

House leaders indicated they will clear the way for quick action on the draft. The Administration supports it.

Meanwhile, the senate and house met at noon—Daylight saving time. And Sen. John H. Overton, D., La., protested the session was illegal.

Overton, who won't concede that Daylight Saving Time is here, protested that there will be a fight, met an hour later. At noon, Eastern Standard Time. The senate president ruled against him. Overton, unconvinced, said he will continue his residence and office clocks on Eastern Standard Time.

There were these other developments:

Oleomargarine—Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg may rule today whether the house-approved bill to repeal federal taxes on oleomargarine should go to the senate finance or agriculture committee. Either way there will be a fight. Pro-repeal senators want it to go to the finance committee. Which they believe will approve it promptly. Dairy state senators want it to go to the Agriculture committee, which appeared cooler to the repeal proposal. The full senate probably will have to settle the jurisdictional squabble with a vote.

Housing Administrator Raymond M. Foley said the government should chip in to help low-income groups get adequate housing. He favored federally-financed home building to get rid of slums. He testified before the house banking committee which began consideration of long-range housing programs. Among them is the Tall-Building-Wagner bill designed to produce 15,000,000 homes in the next ten years. The senate has approved it.

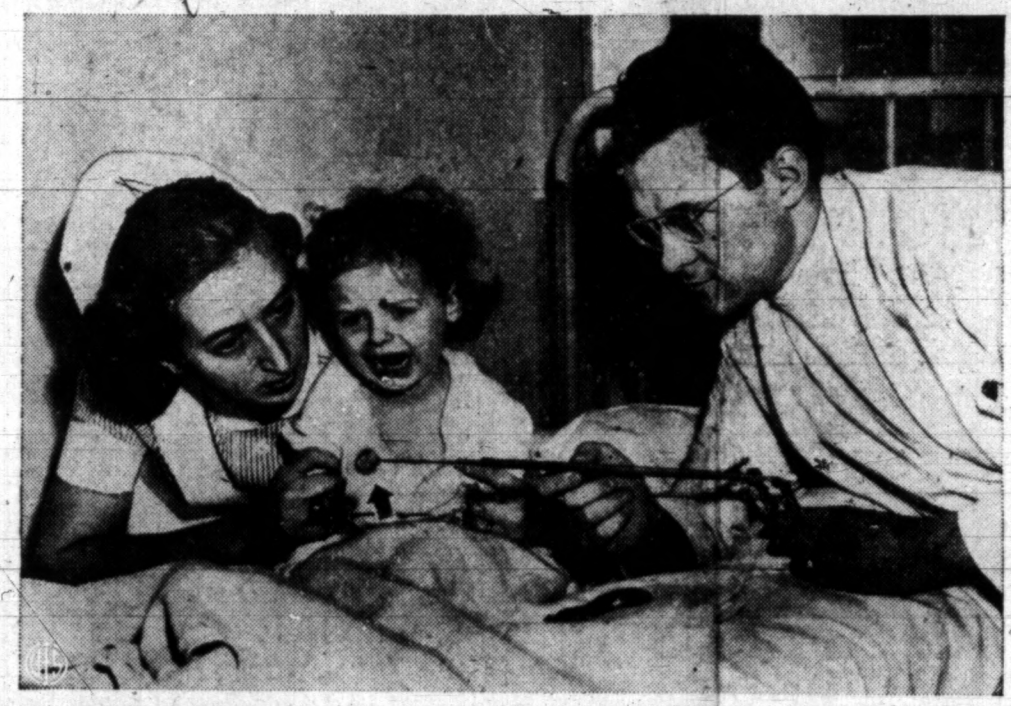

Aid Aid—The senate got resident Truman's surprise nomination of Howard Bruce to be Deputy Administrator of the European recovery program. Bruce, a Baltimore banker, will assist Paul G. Hoffman, the Administrator.

Wages—The National Association of Manufacturers said some provisions of the wage-hour law interfere with putting into effect guaranteed annual wage plans.

Electoral Change—The senate judiciary committee approved a resolution to change the method of casting electoral college votes in presidential elections. At present the candidate receiving the majority of votes in a state gets all of the state's electoral votes.

Security—President Truman was asked to make public immediately the defense recommendations of the National Security Council. The council was created under the armed forces unification act. It is charged with determining the nation's security policy.

The draft bill which the house armed services committee approved was sponsored by committee chairman Walter G. Andrews, R., N. Y.

HE'S GOT MY MONEY!—Little Paulline Villanueva, 2, is very unhappy about the fact that Dr. Alvin Gaary holds on to the end of an esophagoscope. Bauline swallowed the coin and was rushed to St. Luke's Children's Hospital, Philadelphia, where it was removed. Nurse Lillian Welsh explains to her that little girls should put their money in the bank and not in their mouths.

Armed Services Committee Votes To Draft Men 19-25 For Two Years Duty

WASHINGTON, May 3 (UP)—The House armed services committee today voted 28 to 5 to draft men 19 through 25 for two years of military duty.

Veterans generally would be exempt. Enough men would be called to boost the Army, Navy and Air Force from their present strength of 1,284,500 men to a total of 2,005,822 by 1950.

The Air Force would be built up to 502,000 men—enough to support a 70-group air force. The draft would get under way automatically 90 days after it is approved by Congress and signed by the President.

The committee acted after defense secretary James Forrestal said the draft bill an "excellent measure." He urged fast approval.

The committee's okay gives the measure a good boost toward passage. But it does not assure that it will become law.

It must pass the House and Senate, and be signed by the President before it can become effective.

However, the House Republican leadership hinted today it will give the bill a green light.

Rep. Leslie Arends, R., Ill., House majority whip and a member of the armed services committee, announced today he will support the draft in the House.

He warned, however, he will change his mind if any effort is made to couple the bill with universal military training.

The Senate armed services committee has been studying a "blend" proposal for coupling the draft and UMT.

The bill approved today by the House committee provides for registration of all men 18 through 30. Those 19 through 25 could be called for two years' service.

Committee Chairman Walter G. Andrews, R., N. Y., said he hopes the draft bill will be brought to the House floor for debate sometime next week.

These committee members voted against the bill:

Reps. Dewey Short, R., Mo., C. W. Bishop, R., Ill. James J. Heffernan, D., N. Y., Phillip J. Phillips, D., Mass., and Franck R. Havender, D., Calif.

International Situation in Brief

Meat Strikers May Lose Jobs
CHICAGO, May 3 (UP)—President Ralph Helstein of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers said today the union would "consider" settling the nationwide meat strike for a nine-cent hourly raise, if the packers would agree to cut meat prices.

The packers offered nine cents before the strike began eight weeks ago, and have refused to raise the offer. The union had demanded a 29-cent hourly raise.

Union officials at Chicago, Omaha, Milwaukee and other packing centers said that a new back-to-work attempt instigated by the big four packers and independents had "failed completely."

All of the big four have notified strikers that if they fail to return, they face loss of their jobs. Wilson set the deadline for today. The other three set it for May 10.

Red Cross Offers To Take Over Jerusalem
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 3 (UP)—The International Red Cross has offered to take over the entire city of Jerusalem in an effort to avert chaos in the Holy City, it was learned today.

The Red Cross has stipulated that warring Arabs and Jews must agree to the emergency measure. Arab and Jewish agreement still is being awaited, a reliable source disclosed.

A spokesman for Great Britain told the United Nations Trusteeship Council of the Red Cross proposal.

British Reinforcements Enter Jerusalem
JERUSALEM, May 3 (UP)—British reinforcements poured into Jerusalem today and silenced Arab and Jewish guns in the Holy City under a tough "cease fire" order.

"Plenty" of fresh British fighting men already have entered Jerusalem to "control the situation," a high British official said, indicating that the government had determined to enforce peace here at least until the May 15 expiration of the British mandate.

The city itself was quiet, only an occasional single shot sounding during the day, and the British were talking with Jewish and Arab officials in an effort to achieve a solid truce.

Murray Bus Company Adds New Route To Include Most Of City

New Run To Start Saturday With Slight Fare Increase

A new bus route will be started in Murray Saturday, May 3, John Ghibaudy, manager of the Murray Transit Co., announced this morning.

The new run will begin at the corner of Fourth and Main Streets across from the Bank of Murray. The complete route includes North Fourth Street to Vine, Vine to Ninth, to Sycamore to Twelfth across Main to Olive, down Olive to Seventh, Seventh to Main and down Main to Fourth Street.

The bus will leave the square every hour and half hour. The half-way mark will be Sycamore and Twelfth where the bus will be at a quarter of and a quarter past the hour.

Ghibaudy also announced a change in the present bus route. On the return trip from the college the bus will turn south at Twelfth Street to Popular and proceed down Popular Street to Seventh where it will then turn back to Main Street and complete the run on Main as heretofore.

Both buses will begin at Main Street at 6:30 in the morning and continue until 10:00 o'clock at night.

Ghibaudy announced that beginning Saturday the fare will be increased to three tokens for a quarter instead of the current rate of four for 25 cents. He said that the increased operating costs have necessitated this increase. He stated that the establishment of the bus company operated at a loss.

Ghibaudy said this morning that the new bus route is being started to give Murray bus patrons a maximum of service at the lowest possible cost. The new run is being tried for a 90-day trial period, he stated.

MURRAY HIGH LOSES TO BENTON IN OPENER HERE

The Murray High baseball club stumbled in a 9-7 defeat on the local diamond Friday afternoon as the Benton Indians added another win to their list.

Walks, balks and failing to tap the bases as the runners circled the baselines spelled defeat for the Murrayans. Otherwise, the Tigers showed nice potential strength on the diamond.

England, on the mound allowed 11 hits but issued only 2 walks. Downs on the mound for the Tigers, had trouble in consistently finding the plate and gave up 9 charity trips to first, allowed 5 hits and made two balks.

Harold Miller hit for the circuit but was called out as he failed to crush the second bag. Bobby Hargis smacked out a triple but also was swatted out as he failed to touch a bag.

The game, set for a seven-inning affair, was tied up at the end of said final inning. The game went nine frames before Benton struck the trick. It was in the extra innings that poor base running cost the Tigers the ball game, it was reported.

Jeffrey and Rowlett were Murray's best stickers with three hits each. Sheppard led the Indians with two safe blows.

Large Audience Hears Farewell Sermon Here

plans to leave Murray Wednesday. One World, was the topic chosen by Rev. Sawyer for his sermon last night. He pointed out that "one world waits on one neighborhood, one neighborhood waits on one brotherhood, one brotherhood waits on one fatherhood, and fatherhood waits on being born in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Rev. Sawyer told the congregation that he appreciated last night's service more than any other service he had ever attended any time in his life. He said that he felt deeply honored by the large attendance.

All the ministers of Murray, together with their wives sat in a body at the front of the church. At noon they honored Rev. and Mrs. Sawyer with a luncheon at the College Hut.

Rev. Sawyer preached a farewell sermon to his congregation at the regular morning worship hour Sunday forenoon. At 2:30 in the afternoon he was the principal speaker at the initial opening service of the Baptist Student Center on Murray Street campus.

He told the students that the Baptist center had been erected to provide a place for students to worship, something which they could not do in any of the other buildings on the campus.

Flower Bordered Terrace Beautifies Modern Home

Few flowers thrive in the shade, and sunshine is also good for you. Modern houses are designed for sunny surroundings, with terraces open to the sky replacing roofed porches, and flower borders growing where formerly shrubs would shade the house and make it impossible for flowers to live. In the home grounds, as on the beach, shade can be provided by the garden umbrella, or by awnings, when it is needed. And when sunshine is desired, one need not go to the country to enjoy it, if the landscape planting is designed to allow the sun full access to the house and garden. Modern houses do not require shrubbery planting close to them. With few exceptions they are set low, with the main floor close to the ground. Planting in front should be kept low. Tall shrubs and evergreens near the house have the effect of making low houses seem lower. A sun-drenched terrace surrounded by flowers makes an ideal frame for a one-story house, as shown in the illustration. A low wall topped by flower boxes rising a foot or more, but never higher than the window level, can easily be constructed. At the base of this wall a border of flowers can be grown from seed sown directly in the ground. Flower boxes at the windows complete a decoration, which will make any house a show place. Such a planting adds to the appearance of the house, and presents a picture which will be enjoyed as much by the house occupants as by passers-by. For best effect care should be taken in the choice of colors. These should harmonize with the color of the house and its trim. The suggested planting uses all petunias, red and white, at the base of the wall, balcony blue on top of the wall, and rose in the window boxes. Other flowers which would serve well in such a planting are marigolds, nasturtiums, lobelias, annual pinks, white and violet alyssum, salvia, and lilliput zinnias.

Pirates Hope To Keep First Place And Not Repeat Last Year's Bad Ending

NEW YORK, May 3 (UP)—Before there is any dancing in the streets in Pittsburgh the patient Pirates want to be sure that there is no repetition of the sad story of the 1947 season. They're hoping as the Pirates strut at least temporarily in first place today that they'll stay there. But they can't help but remember that in the early stages of the last campaign the Bucs also moved up front, then toppled to a tie for dead last with the Phillies when the final reckoning was made in September. They have reason to think though, that this year it will be different. And it may well be. For under Billy Meyer, their energetic new manager, they have won eight out of their 12 first games and they have done it in the main with elderly and castoff pitchers. Yesterday's rousing 6 to 4 triumph over Ewell Blackwell, the major league's top hurler of 1947, belonged almost wholly to their slugger, ramin' Ralph Kiner, who crashed out two homers against the Cincinnati ace right handed, then wound up proceedings with a miraculous catch in left field that started a game-ending double play. Mel Queen, a pitcher the Yankees wanted no longer, chalked up his first victory, joining others in the cast of castoffs and ancients, Rip Sewell, Elmer Riddle, Fritz Ostermuller and Kirby Higbe, all solid performers in the club's early season surge. The second game was rained out. Duke Snider of the Dodgers also had a profitable day at the plate, hitting two homers, a triple and a single, and driving in four runs in a 9 to 6 victory at Philadelphia. Later Brooklyn bats were silenced by Ken Heintzelman in four-hit, 2 to 0 second game triumph. The Brooks made 13 hits in the opener, Jackie Robinson also getting a three-run homer, a triple, and a single. The Giants cashed in on one big inning in which Johnny Mize hit a two run homer, Willard Marshall smashed a triple and Walker Cooper got a double, putting over four runs on five hits to beat the Braves at New York, 5 to 1. Larry Jansen pitched a five-hitter to score his second triumph and missed a shut-out only when Jeff Heath tagged him for a second inning homer. The Cubs rebounded against the Cardinals at St. Louis, ending a four-game losing streak with a 19-hit, 13 to 4 triumph in which they three run rally on two doubles and two singles in the fourth clinched the triumph. The second game was called because of rain in the second inning with Philadelphia leading, 3 to 1. The St. Louis at Chicago doubleheader in the American was rained out. YESTERDAY'S STAR — Ralph Kiner of the Pirates who hit two homers, drew two walks and made a great catch to start a game-ending double play in a 6 to 4 triumph over the Reds.

gave up eight hits, one a homer by Hoot Evers. The Athletics took over second place in the American League with a 4 to 3 triumph over the Senators at Washington as Joe Coleman pitched himself out of numerous jams, giving up 10 hits and walking three, but bearing down when the Nats got in a scoring mood! A

Discipline Required

The Los Angeles Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church will soon consider disciplinary action for one of its ministers who performed a wedding ceremony for screen actress Lana Turner and millionaire Bop Topping within three days after the latter obtained a divorce from his third wife. It seems a Presbyterian minister is required to refuse to perform a wedding ceremony for a couple when either have been divorced for a period of less than a year. The Los Angeles minister ignored this requirement and had quite a lot to say in the papers about the Topping-Turner nuptials, referring to Miss Turner as "such a beautiful and earthy girl," although this is the fourth marriage for the 27-year-old veteran, as well as the fourth for Topping. We are glad to see that the church intends to take some sort of action on the matter, especially since Miss Turner's studio frowned on the announcement some weeks ago of her engagement to a man who was already married, and went so far as to suspend her at least until legal processes could function to break up one marriage so another could take place. According to newspaper reports the waiting period did not prove too trying on the couple who "sweated it out" in a hotel apartment in Palm Springs while the actress was buying her trousseau said to have cost more than $30,000. In a financial way this wedding will probably be Miss Turner's best box office bid yet. She received publicity her studio couldn't have purchased at any price and there's something about the American people that will cause them to flock to any theatre showing a Lana Turner picture just to see what attracts a play-boy who inherited a tin-plate fortune thousands of his fellow-citizens slaved their lives away to create. It has always seemed like bad taste to us for newspapers, magazines and press associations to publicize such marriages but they know what the public wants and it is their job to report what happens. The church exists for a different purpose, however, and it is encouraging to note it does something about the Topping-Turner episode. It is legal so far as our laws are concerned but according to the church code it isn't a Christian marriage, and we hope the man who performed the ceremony will receive the discipline his act deserves.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH
 BY EWING GALLOWAY

"Let the kids leave their bookstraps home and their textbooks at school. . . The children are too tired to accomplish any real results with home work." In Chicago the other day I clipped the foregoing out of the Herald-Examiner. If it had come from a grade school principal I would have thought little of it, but a Northwestern University professor said it. It was Prof. W. C. Reavis addressing 73 newly assigned principals in the Chicago elementary schools. And the newspaper says "The principals beamed approval as he said it." Did you ever hear of grade pupils being too tired to go over their lessons at night? I'll cut the plural--make it on pupil. If you ever heard of one, write me a letter about it. Since personal experiences usually are more convincing than generalizations I'm going to tell you something first-hand. Several decades ago there was a grade teacher in our Dixie Village school in enderson county, he had all the children review their lessons at home after a school day that lasted from 8 till 4 with an hour for lunch and two recesses lasting 15 minutes each. One class went through four grades in six months. Because they worked both in the classroom and at home. All pupils in my class got high marks and were proud of them. And not one of them was stunted physically or mentally by the experience. Some of them walked three miles to school or

School Teachers Hold That Kids These Days Often Know More Than Parents About News

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON, May 3 (UP)—Attorney General Tom Clark cracked the other day that most folks don't savvy the world problems because they aren't hep to their history. The blast touched off another one out in Chicago. School teachers there "ticked their dander" for a minute and then said Tom might be right as far as the old folks go, but that the Attorney General libeled our kids. Most High School students, the teachers said, know more than their parents, ever learned. It's because of the newspapers, radio and modern teaching methods. The teachers "hinted" rather broadly that mom and pop might get jarred up a bit by looking over Junior's shoulder while he's hard at his home work. "That's not every day," said one. "People in the newspaper business are trained to write simply, so that even the very young can get at a glance what is meant in the printed word. A good sentence runs from 15 to 20 words. That puts it in what the trade calls the "readability" category. So what do the big people who write books for little kids do? They pen their stuff in such a complicated manner even the big folks can't understand it. For instance, one sentence in "The Gingerbread Man" runs to nearly a 100 words, and is fouled up by five commas. Not only that, but the modern kid book writers have gotten cute with some of the stories we liked as youngsters. There are at least two versions of the above-mentioned, the G. B. M. gets himself gobbled up in the end by a mean old fox, thus sending the kids to bed to dream of awful things. The other version has the G. B. M. coming back home "into the arms of the little old woman." That's more like it, but if the youngster has both books he doesn't know gospel from fiction. There also are two versions of the "Three Little Pigs." In one, the two silly porkers who made their homes of sticks and straw are huffed and puffed and eaten by the wolf. In the other, they somehow escape to hole up finally

Racing Fans Wonder If Citation Will Pass Styrim as Greatest Money Winner

By LEO H. PETERSEN
 United Press Sports Editor
 LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (UP)—The Derby dolls and the Derby Demons heartily agreed today that Citation will win the triple crown as he pleases, and then they posed this enticing question: Is Calumet's comet destined to overhaul Styrim as the greatest money winner of all time? There were many who told you in the wake of Saturday's Kentucky Derby which Citation took by three and a half lengths. They pointed to the overwhelming superiority of the bay colt over the current crop of three-year-olds, to the $332,930 he has earned to date, to the 15 victories he had scored in 17 races. Of course, many a horse is a sensation his first two years and then tapers out like a julep when

SPORTS PARADE

By OSCAR FRELEY United Press Staff Writer NEW YORK, May 3 (UP)—As expected, the New York Giants are right up at the top of baseball's hit parade today with 16 home runs, but over in the American League the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees seem to be muddling into the act. The Giants needed 13 games to pile up their total but, after a hectic weekend, the Indians are just one behind with 15 in five less games. And the Yankees, who once counted the homer their personal apple, are only two back in two less games than the 13 played by the Giants. Cincinnati holds the place, position in the National League with 12 and much of that can be attributed to ransy Hank Sauer, the rookie flycatcher, who heads the majors at the moment with a total of six. Walker Cooper is runner-up for the Giants with four. Following those clubs in order with round trip clouts are Brooklyn, 11; Chicago and Philadelphia, each nine; Pittsburgh, 8; Boston, seven, and St. Louis, five. Ken Keltner, with five, leads the Indians, followed by Ted Williams of the Sox and George Vico of the Tigers, each with four. Williams' four swells Boston's total to a third place total of 12, followed by Detroit's 10; Philadelphia, 9; Chicago, 8; with the hapless Browns three, and the impotent Senators, one. The Giants had to call on their pet punch, the four-bagger, yesterday to break a three-game losing streak. Jawa John Mize delivered his third to administer the coup de grace to Boston's Braves. Brooklyn meanwhile started collecting on the strike zone lessons given to Ed (Duke) Snider, who used to whack at anything this side of third base. The Duke hit two homers, a triple and a single to knock in four runs and give the Brooks a split with the Phils. Ralph Kiner of the Pirates, who last year tied Mize at 51 H.R.'s per person, finally adjusted his slugging sights. He had only one home in 11 previous games. So he belted two which inundated Cincinnati and put the Bucs at the top of the Na-

SPORTS PARADE

Cleveland has another reason than those league-leading 15 homers to account for the fact that it leads the American League. Two more, as a matter of fact. They are Bobby Feller and Bob Lemon. With only eight games played of the year—three of them off the Yankees, yet. Williams and Vern Stephens both homered in the Red Sox Rally, and threw off left Joe Page, the Yankee's famed fireman. Page was so disturbed he tossed a duster at Bobby Doerr and almost got dusted off himself. The moral, no doubt, being "stay away from those swinging Doerrs."

Lewis Raymond is seeking a musical career in New York, but finds the going difficult, as does Carey Carson, young would-be architect. They become buddies and hear of Roland Potter, wealthy old bachelor, who wants to help some worthy young married couple by paying them to live on his Long Island estate while he is cruising. They agree to marry temporarily, on a strictly business basis, to get the job. Mr. Potter leaves on a cruise, after introducing Lewis and Carey to a nearby roadhouse. Lewis worries over leaving the estate unguarded, believing that she saw a man prowling about the grounds. Iris joins Lewis and Carey at a beach picnic and starts them by suggesting a party at the very roadhouse where they are appearing. Worried by the suggestion, Lewis and Carey return late to Potter's place to find Roland Potter bound and gagged, and his home looted. Furious at the couple when he learns they have been away from the estate every night since, Mr. Potter fires them, after reporting the robbery to the police.

CHAPTER XXX

"THESE are my caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Carson," Mr. Potter announced brusquely, when Lewis and Carey had joined him and the policeman in the living room.

One of the policemen immediately asked, "Were you in the house when the robbery took place?"

"No," said Carey, "we came in late."

"And found Mr. Potter all tied up," added Lewis.

"They were at a roadhouse," explained the policeman. "They didn't return until I had been tied up for an hour."

"I see," said the policeman. "So you were here alone."

"I returned home unexpectedly. I unlocked the front door and walked right into the arms of the thugs."

"And they tied you up before helping themselves?"

"No, they already had helped themselves. The stuff was all bundled up, ready to be carried off. I headed them off and hid behind the picture from over the mantel."

The policeman started to ask another question, but Carey interrupted.

"Why waste time asking all these questions? You are giving the burglars more time for their get-aways. Seems to me you ought to be out looking for them."

"Yes, sir," the officer turned to one of his men. "You stay on duty here, Mike, and get a complete description of the missing articles. I'll take them and I'll go out the back door."

When the other policeman had left, Mr. Potter took Mike on a tour of inspection. Lewis and Carey trailed silently behind them.

The check-up revealed a long list of missing valuables. When Mike had finished the list, Mr. Potter turned to Lewis.

"Be about making some coffee. Mrs. Carson? And some sandwiches. Mr. Potter turned to the policeman. "You and I could do with some coffee, officer?"

"Yes, sir," said Mike. "I certainly could."

Lewis hesitated. "I understood Mr. Carson and I were to leave at once."

"When it's daylight will be time enough," Mr. Potter said. "Just see that we have something to eat, will you?"

IN THE kitchen Lewis took a deep breath. "At least we aren't going to be turned out in the middle of the night."

"Maybe the old boy is softening," said Carey hopefully.

"Softening or not, I don't want to stay here any longer. Besides, why should we?"

"Because we have nowhere else to go," Carey replied, measuring coffee and water. "It's the only roof we've got."

"There are other roofs," said Lewis, slicing bread. "And we can afford to pay for them, too, at seventy-five dollars a week."

"No," Carey said, pouring coffee. "I'd rather have lost the roadhouse job than the big one at Potter's place."

As soon as the coffee was ready, Carey and Lewis took trays into the living room. They served plates of sandwiches and piping hot coffee to Mr. Potter and Mike.

An hour later the other policeman returned.

"Any luck?" Mr. Potter asked eagerly.

"We're on their trail," said one of the officers. "We picked up several clues and did a lot of telephoning. Seems the pair stopped to get directions on the way to the roadhouse."

"Everything was insured, but I'm not interested in the insurance money. It's the stuff I want back."

"You'll keep in touch with me, won't you?" asked Mr. Potter, going to the door with the policeman. "I'll be anxious to know what progress you are making."

"VERY nice repast," said Mr. Potter, returning to the living room where Lewis and Carey were cleaning up the table.

"I am glad you enjoyed it," replied Lewis, carrying away a loaded tray.

Carey joined her in the kitchen a few minutes later.

"The old boy is as hard as nails," he reported. "I thought I could make him change his mind, but nothing doing."

"Well, I certainly am not going to lose any sleep over it," said Lewis. "I am going to bed now so I can get a little rest."

But Lewis packed her things first before retiring. So did Carey. And at seven o'clock in the morning, she and Lewis were still sleeping. They took a taxi to the village. There they located two housekeeping rooms and paid a week's rent.

"Will you be here long?" the landlady wanted to know.

"We're not sure," Carey replied. "We're engaged in our work for an indefinite period."

"We're at the Boulevard Roadhouse," Lewis explained. Smiling, she added, "Might as well advertise ourselves, don't you think?"

"That's right," said the landlady. "Maybe the Mister and I will come to see you perform."

When the landlady had gone, Carey turned on Lewis. "For Pete's sake, why boast about that job of ours?"

"It's nothing to be ashamed of," said Lewis.

"That is where we disagree," "Sorry," said Lewis, going into her room and closing the door. She unpacked, hung up her clothes carefully and went to bed.

AT seven-thirty that evening she refreshed and eager to get at the Boulevard piano, Lewis joined Carey. Again they called a taxi.

"This taxi business is going to make an awful hole in our salary," grumbled Carey.

"Stop complaining," said Lewis. Leaving forward, she spoke to the driver. "Drive faster, please. We'll be late."

"Sorry, Miss, but I can't go any faster. There's a fire somewhere down the road. Traffic's tied up in knots."

"First a robbery, now a fire," said Lewis. "Next it'll be an earthquake."

"Where's the fire?" "Oh, it's in some restaurant down the road. The Boulevard Roadhouse, I guess they call it."

"The — the — Boulevard!" Lewis and Carey gasped.

"That's the one. Burned to the ground."
